Dimes March Starts Saturday

MINEOLA—Hailed as the most vital March of Dimes ever staged in Nassau, the annual polio drive will get under way this Saturday, Jan. 2, throughout the county. Mary B. Moloney, chairman, has announced. Mrs. Thomas Bergin is chairman of the appeal in Hicksville.

Organized under chairmen in all Nassau communities, 8,000 volunteers will launch a door-to-door canvass with a record objective of $300,000 to provide funds, not only to care for those stricken in the county and provide help in epidemic areas as in former years but also for mass tests of the new anti-polio vaccine which holds out the first promise of immunity against the dread disease, she explained.

"More than 1,800,000 second grade children in counties to be selected by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis will receive vaccine shots starting in February," Miss Moloney stated. "Every ounce of vaccine available will be used and additional supplies of gamma globulin will be provided for areas where the vaccine is not used."

Parc Terrace Experiences Typical For Many In Area

HICKSVILLE—The first year of home making in a new housing development is typified in the Parc Terrace Story. The Long Island building boom, probably the greatest in history, is at its peak in the mid-Island area. Sizes of developments here may vary, but the experiences of the people in the Parc Terrace section on the east side of Jerusalem Ave. are duplicated for the many other fine people who have chosen this area to make their homes.

In the fall of 1952, seventy families were moving into Parc Terrace. They were busy meeting their neighbors, putting up TV antennas and getting settled for a long Island winter. Today, a year later, they are really enjoying their "first" official Christmas. For many the joy of Christmas is multiplied by the pleasure the season brings for the growing youngsters.

The happy routine of "just living" in their "dream houses" was soon jolted by a civic problem. Quickly they banded together as the Parc Community Civic Assoc. to fight off the proposed development of a gasoline service station on property which, as home purchasers, they had thought might become a park for the youngsters.

Unity brought victory for the Parc Civics because the Zoning Board of Appeals at Oyster Bay, perhaps for the first time in Hicksville, denied the proposed gas station's application.

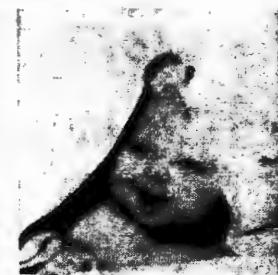

As an organization, the Parc Community Civic Assoc. had other memorable achievements in the past year. There was a wonderful community picnic held at Hecksher State Park. As a group, the neighborhood welcome home a hero from Korea: Sgt. Robert Powers of 116 Dean St. He was one of the first war prisoners released in Korea. The Civic group sponsored a home-coming with decorated streets for Sgt. Powers whose family lives in the development in a home the soldier had not previously seen.

The Civic group, led by President Peter Ferraro of Terry St., has now started to get incorporated and recently held a most successful dance to supplement the association treasury. The group also sponsored Santa's appearance at a neighborhood party.

"Individually," Ferraro recalls, "we've all accomplished something during this first year as residents of Hicksville. Some of us have finished our basements, some have new fences, a few have new cars, and all of us have learned what crab grass and Japanese beetles are."

By far, the most rewarding addition to the community in the first year, were the seven new babies which came into the Parc Terrace homes. In the order of their appearance, they are:

Dec. 14, 1952—Susan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Sidney Berkowitz.
Dec. 23, 1952—John William, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McNeill.
Feb. 3, 1953—Patricia Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grottschel.

May 8, 1953—William Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Corcoran.

Aug. 13, 1953—Marie Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Guastello.

Sept. 29, 1953—Frank, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank DeMayo.

Oct. 12, 1953—Michael Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hogan.

Entertain Friends At Christmas Party

The Hicksville Civic Association and the Hicksville Lions Club, Inc., Hicksville, entertained a Christmas party at her home on Saturday evening.

Guests included, Patricia Kashner, Elizabeth Mahoney, Carol Giannelli, Lynda Noeth and Ann Rottkamp. Also present were Leonard Budd, James Knipfing, Thomas Bergin, Dennis Foe, Dennis O'Connor and Paul Demurs.

Walter H. Sellers of Hicksville is enrolled as a student at Ohio State University.

Dear Jean:

"Did you receive my letter changing my address? . . . The Hicksville Kiwanis Club had their annual appearance at their meeting last week. . . . After the meeting Santa made a few calls to brighten the holiday for some local children. . . . ED MEYER is a new member of Hicksville Rotary Club, representing the Telephone Co. . . . Santa made his traditional house to house calls along Twinlawn Ave., Hicksville, on Christmas eve. Members of the Civic Assoc. led by JOE KENYON were his helpers and assisted with the distribution of gifts. . . . The Bank of Hicksville and the Long Island National Bank will both be open until 8 o'clock this Thursday evening, New Year's Eve. . . . Next issue of the Herald will be out on Thursday, also because of the holiday. Material or the edition should be in our hands by this evening. It will feature our staff's predictions of things to come for 1954 in this area. . . . Don't fail to take the children over to West Nicholai St., Hicksville, if you want to see probably the most interesting home decoration of the holidays on the entire Island. People drive for miles to see the spectacle which covers two stories of the Dr CURTIS home on Nicholai between Jerusalem and Newbridge Rd. It's a wonderful display. . . . Among the tallest illuminated trees in Hicksville this year, from our observation, are those of JOHN LAUCHNER on Woodbury Rd and MARTHA MARTINO at the corner of East St and Chestnut. . . . Unofficial comment of Supervisor CHARLES E. RANSOM on the decision of COUNTY JUDGE BROWN upholding him on the Hicksville Home Rule Vote is said to be "I told you so".

Older residents of Bethpage will remember Mrs. ETTA CUSICK, 76, who died at her home in Hempstead last week. She was born in Seaford, moved to Bethpage when she was married and 34 years ago took her residence in Hempstead. . . . Mrs. THOMAS BERGIN, chairman of the Hicksville March of Dimes which officially starts on Saturday, announces that the first container of donations turned in on Christmas eve was from PAT BUFFALINO, manager of Rogers 5 and 10 Store. . . . There were a larger number of accidents on local streets on the day before Christmas. Few resulted in injury serious enough to warrant mention in police reports. . . .

New Arrivals'

Dr. and Mrs. Berhard Miller, 209 Raritan Ave., Highland Park, New Jersey, announce the arrival of their first child, a son, John William, born on Dec. 19. Dr. Miller, a former resident of Hicksville, is the son of Mrs. Margaret Miller, of E. Cherry St., Hicksville.

A Board spokesman pointed out that the interest rate compares favorably with that of other districts which have sold bonds within the last few months.

By ALLEN S. CARPENTER

The young children of our community, our country, and our nation are the first obligation of their parents, and all civic and religious minded Americans.

It bodes well for the continued greatness of our land that there are so many good people interested and devoted enough to give of their time, their money, and their experience, towards the development and training of our youth.

Our school boards throughout the land are largely made up of such people. Most of our educators, teachers and nuns in our schools work first in the interest of our children, secondly as a means of livelihood.

Our churchmen of all denominations give of themselves, striving to teach both young and old, God's Will. Without such inspired men, we would still live, little better than the other animals, in fear, and darkness, and sin.

Hundreds of good Hicksville people spend time in preparation, and then all their Sunday mornings in teaching our youngsters in the Sunday School rooms of our churches.

Other youth organizations abound, each taking time, energy, and money. Each providing some vital need in the lives of our children. Each having its part of our adult community at its service.

Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Cub Scouts, Brownies, Explorers Scouts, Sea Scouts, all part of the great Scouting movement of this and other countries teach our youth for universal, yet basic tenets of good citizenship.

But none of these things, not even all of them combined, can replace or even lessen the parents' obligation and responsibility. Without the love, and affection of family life, without the parents giving love and experience, each of our children would grow, warped and twisted. Each parent is the strength and the example for his children. The good or bad of each parent grows to be in some degree a basic part of his children. The parent cannot pass off to others this obligation, no one else can do it, no one else has even the right to try.

But each parent has another part to this obligation, that part which must be paid to society, as a contribution to good community life. Alone we are poor, and lost. Together we are great, rich in friendship and knowledge. This obligation on the part of all citizens, is their contribution in time and money, towards the continued growth of a better and more enlightened community of families, when we support youth organizations which develop citizenship, foster community friendship, and teach the clean, reverent, healthy life, we are helping ourselves as we help our children. Our development is as important to our children, as the proper development of our youth is to our country, and our God.

Because all youth wants to be proud of his parents. Those who can be proud of their parents are more apt to be proud of themselves, as part of a family, as part of a community of families. When our youth has this kind of self pride, they will be good people, good citizens. But there is nothing our children can do, to make them proud of us. We must do that ourselves.

The Rev. David S. Duncombe, pastor of Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, Jerusalem Ave., officiated. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery, Queens County.

John H. Bottjer

HICKSVILLE — Funeral services were held Saturday, Dec. 24, at 10 A.M. in the Henry J. Stock Funeral Home for John H. Bottjer, late of 12 Mead Ave., who died on Dec. 23. The Rev. Howard Rogers, pastor of St. Stephen's Lutheran Church, officiated.

He is survived by his widow, Catherine, one son, John, Jr., two daughters, Mrs. Elsie Schoemann, and Mrs. Eunice Heidel; one brother, Anthony; two sisters, Mrs. Sophie Schoepfer and Matilda Northrop, and by eight grandchildren.

John Bredehoff

Santa Tours

HICKSVILLE — Santa Claus went through the Duffy Park section and surrounding streets on Christmas Eve under the auspices of the Civic Assoc. He had a gift for every child, and enough left over to make a donation to the children at Meadowbrook Hospital. More than 150 homes were visited and youngsters were advised by Santa, via loudspeaker, to get to bed early so the Old Boy could do his annual job.

Gave Finance Drive $6,160

MINEOLA — The Republican Finance campaign in Hicksville resulted in donations of $6,160, giving it the lead for communities in the township of Oyster Bay where the total collection amounted to $15,015.75 from 1,208 donors. John R. Brandt was again chairman of the campaign for GOP funds in Hicksville.

The Gables

gther Kaye Kennedy of Flushing for the Christmas dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Rediger came all the way from Lexington, Ill., to spend the day with Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Decker of 7 Gables Rd.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Weller of 301 Plainview Rd. spent the holiday with Mrs. Francis Ketcham, Mrs. Doris Mitchell and her son Tommy of Water Avenue. We would like to send our best wishes to Mrs. Ketcham who is on the road to recovery after a siege of pneumonia.

Christmas is primarily a Children's holiday. So it was for the children of the Gables. Santa's sled was really bulging when he visited us.

June Olson of 304 Plainview Rd. received a doll and carriage. The Cerone children of 271 Plainview Rd. kept the jolly girls busy. Bronwyn found a canary under the tree. Debra a Saucy Walker doll. Mark a set of Lionel trains and baby Darren his first pair of shoes.

Barbara and Edwin Feuerstein of 31 Gables Drive both received two wheeler bikes. Barbara her first, her brother Edwin an English Racer.

Terry Weller of 301 Plainview Rd. among many beautiful gifts received a musical rocking chair.

The Decker children of 7 Gables Rd. found trains under their Christmas tree.

The Fundus children of 4 South Elm St., Margaret Ellen, Barbara Ann and Kathy received dolls while their brother John got a car and wagon.

Some of the families on Gables Drive have been losing their heat lately. For this reason a team from the lighting Company repaired some of the wires on Christmas.

Just a little extra note to thank everyone in the Gables who sent us Christmas Cards.

HAPPY NEW YEAR EVERYONE.

EASTERN DIVISION RACE:

See Balance Of Power With Comets

HICKSVILLE—For the first time in over a decade the Eastern Division North Shore Athletic League basketball picture is so spotty that no one dares tab anyone as the potential champion of the race that gets underway next week but the opinion is universal that Chet Jaworski's crew from this community holds the key to who will eventually wear the 1954 crown.

Such an admission, considering that Hicksville has already lost five of seven non-league starts and hasn't demonstrated that it has either the manpower or experience to go the distance itself, is preplexing to all but those who know Chet Jaworski.

The Comet mentor never concedes to a poor team and constantly works from the start of the season to the end to exact good performances from his club.

Such determination cuts greatly into the advantages opponents hold over Hicksville's inexperienced and short manned crew and any team playing the Comets when they respond fully to Jaworski's coaxing finds its ambitions blasted.

Hicksville was the decisive factor in paving the way for Seaford's title last year when the Comets ended Oyster Bay's 43-game winning streak 43-33 last February in one of the great scholastic upsets in the annals of Long Island Sports.

Even with such a poor start this year, St. Mary's of Manhasset bowed by a single point to the Comets in an unexpected reversal.

Another point to be considered was the loss Hicksville took at the hands of a better than good Levittown crew.

In that one Hicksville made only 16 of 60 shots with Richard Evanschuk missing 29 times in 34 attempts from the keyhole area. Levittown had the better of rebounds 44 to 21.

At that the final score was only 50-43 with Hicksville only five points behind with three minutes to go.

All these factors are causing concern in Farmingdale, Sea Cliff and Oyster Bay which are just about even in pre-season discussions as to championship possibility.

Westbury is acknowledged to be on the rise, but has to come too far. Roslyn hasn't played a game this season as yet and will cram all 18 games into two months but the feeling is that the Hilltoppers aren't hiding any pennant timber for a post holiday debut.

Oyster Bay without Dick Crowley but with a fierce press could storm back into the select circle.

An analysis of the Baymen's victory over Huntington, 62-60, is revealing. Using the press the winners committed 40 personal fouls and Huntington made good the staggering total of 34 from the free line but was so rattled on the floor that it could only total 13 field goals.

Pressing and breaking Oyster Bay flipped in 22 goals and despite its heavy toll in personal fouls had enough bench to play a five minute overtime. Ten players also hit the nets for points for Oyster Bay.

Of course the talk of Hicksville being the king maker has left the Comets out of consideration for the flag.

Chet Jaworski is a hopeful but practical man. He has gone on record with the observation that if it is a dog-eat-dog fight in the Eastern sector with everyone taking a bite out of the other fellow the Comets might break through.

The rest of the contenders in the other County loops will be keeping an eye on this chase. For although it sounds like there isn't a commanding quality in the Eastern sector this year the record is only too clear that once this family struggle has been resolved more North Shore and County champions have emerged from it than anywhere else.

New residents on Clove Lane, Hicksville, are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Nelson and daughter, formerly of Centereach, L. I.

HICKSVILLE—Paul Williams, 26, of 24 Ridge Lane, here, was treated at Meadowbrook Hospital on Dec. 21 after he was bitten on the right hand by a brown and white mongrel dog at Levittown Pkwy and Hempstead Ave., police reported.
