Hicksville Major Gave His Life To Save Others in Plane Crash

SNOW FLAKES filled the air, Tuesday afternoon at the LI National Cemetery in Plainview, when Air Force Major James R. O'Neill was laid to rest. An honor guard from Suffolk Air Force Base stood at attention (right) as the coffin was lowered into the ground. The heavy snow fall almost phased out the firing squad which fired three volleys, followed by the bugler sounding taps. Major O'Neill was a native of Hicksville who died a hero's death in Viet Nam on Feb. 6. (Exclusive Herald photos by Frank Mallett)

Neighbors, Boyhood Friends At Military Funeral

Classmates, boyhood friends and neighbors from Hicksville stood with members of their family in a heavy snowfall, Tuesday afternoon at LI National Cemetery, Plainview, while the body of US Air Force Major James R. O'Neill was laid to rest with full military honors. An Air Force chaplain said the final benediction.

Major O'Neill, born in Hicksville Dec. 24, 1922 and a 1940 graduate of Hicksville High School, died Feb. 6 in Viet Nam nine days after his arrival there. According to a fellow Air Force officer, he sacrificed his own life to make it possible for Lt. James E. Johnson and a Vietnamese radio operator to bail out over the jungle. The B-26 fighter-bomber plowed into a mountain side.

Among those at the cemetery was Town Councilman Edmund Ocker of Plainview who recalled that he and Jimmy had been lifeguards together at Tobay Beach about 1940 or 1941.

The Major, a bachelor, was the only son of Mrs. Caroline O'Neill who makes her home in Huntington Station. He is also survived by his grandmother, Mrs. Josephine Altmann of Stony Brook and a sister, Mrs. Marian Beck-lee of Trenton, Michigan.

In 1942 he went into the military service. He came home to attend Hofstra College and after graduation in 1950 went into the Air Force as a career officer. He had 50 missions and 186 combat hours in Korea and held the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal with three oak leaf clusters and Air Force Commendation Medal.

Lt. Johnson was quoted as saying: "We had about 15 seconds to bail out. The radio operator's chute got stuck in the escape hatch but he (Major O'Neill) held the plane level until the chute was freed. We feel he held the aircraft for the Vietnamese and myself to get out."

Lt. Johnson was rescued from the thickly jungled mountains 260 miles northeast of Saigon by helicopter 48 hours after the crash.

School Trustees Square Off

A rip-snorting controversy between various members of the Hicksville Board of Education, reminiscent of a period about six years ago, flared into print this week featuring the two newest trustees. William A. Bruno Jr. and George W. Kunz were elected to the seven-man Board less than a year ago. They individually released statements critical of fellow members without mentioning names.

Kunz made known a policy motion he planned to move before the Board at its regular meeting tonight (Thurs) together with an explanatory statement.

Bruno addressed "an open letter to the people of Hicksville" on stationery of the School District complaining of what he described as "the 6-to-1 majority on the school board" which he asserts "wants to hike the budget over $600,000 for next year." He thus formally divorced himself from other members of the School Board including three incumbents who endorsed his candidacy last May: President Jerome Zettler, Vice President Herbert H. Johnson and Board Secretary Cornelius J. McCormack.

Space does not permit publication in full of the text of both releases to the HERALD. Extracts follow.

The proposed Kunz policy motion is: "any Board member, any officer or clerk appointed by the Board, any Administrator or other employee of the District shall, upon receipt of material marked 'privileged and confidential', consider it so, and said material shall not be used or published without the consent of the author or sender of such unless after careful consideration by majority consent, the Board removes the 'privileged and confidential', marking from said material."

He made reference to so one by name, declaring "within recent days, one of our fellow Trustees released privileged and confidential material to members of the press. Knowing full well that other members of the Board — often in his absence — are still prying away at the budget and considering proposals affecting the well-being of certain individuals, he trumpets to the people that he, and only he, is the public's saving Savior."

"What this gentleman fails to comprehend is that there is more to pruning a budget than just wishing for it. It takes detailed analysis, hours of labor, common sense and some eloquence of thought. One who buries his head in the sand and lashes out with his feet doesn't accomplish anything — except to look ridiculous," Kunz stated. Bruno who last week had made public excerpts of a confidential memorandum from School Superintendent Donald F. Abt, to members of the Board of Education in this week's "open letter" claimed $600,000 can be cut from the budget "without touching education" and that with "intense study, it can actually be reduced about 10 per cent or about $1 million."

The HERALD declined to print Bruno's references from Abt's memorandum last week because prior to receipt of the news release the Abt memo had been shown in confidence to the Editor.

A cynical observer of the school district operations over a period of years wondered aloud this week how the local school system ever managed to survive 66 years lacking the eloquence now being given voice.

Families Enjoy Look at Mona

Mona Lisa made the trip from Paris and Hicksville made the trip to New York. "La Gioconda" was probably as mystified and charmed by the Hicksville families as they were charmed and mystified by her famous expression.

Families, in some cases spanning three generations, teenagers, Girl Scouts and their leaders boarded buses at 11:30 A.M. Sunday and arrived at the Metropolitan Museum of Art early enough to avoid a long wait. After viewing the Da Vinci Masterpiece there was still plenty of time to study the famous million dollar Rembrandt. Then the groups were able to contemplate some of the other wondrous exhibits and enjoy luncheon at the interesting museum cafeteria or in nearby restaurants off Fifth Avenue.

Joseph F. Madden, Mrs. Rosemary Walsh and William Jurgelievich of the School Recreation Dept. once again loaded the passengers for their return trip. During the ride home the group exchanged ideas and impressions of Mona and the other exhibits. A feeling of contentment and satisfaction about a Sunday well spent prevailed. Promptly at 5:30 P.M. the buses rolled up to Hicksville High with requests from all for more of the same in the near future.

DAMAGE ESTIMATED at $5,000 (incorrectly reported in one publication as $51,000) was caused when fire broke out in the Trading Post on E. Main St., Hicksville, next to the entrance to the Hicksville Theatre. The alarm was sounded at 11:26 AM on Friday, Feb. 15. Some smoke damage was suffered by Renee Frocks (second floor) and by three stores on Broadway, around the corner; a stationery store, Starlight Shop and Terard Jewelers. The fire failed to hamper the afternoon matinee at the Theatre. Between 4:30 and 7 the same bitter cold morning the vamps fought a stubborn fire at the Club Manor on Broadway at the RR crossing. In the Trading Post fire, Assistant Chief Clifford Davis who was in charge of the volunteers suffered a severe cut on the hand from a fragment of plate glass and required professional care, including several stitches. Kiwanis Observes CQ Week Here

Hicksville Kiwanis Club today issued a call to all community citizens to give sober consideration to their responsibilities as citizens in a free society. Feb. 24 to Mar 2 has been designated as CQ Week in Hicksville. Club President Harold W. Holden commented: "Our best defense against the things we fear most is the exercise of our rights and privileges to work individually and cooperatively in carrying out our responsibilities to our family, our community and our nation. The CQ program is designed to stimulate each citizen to determine his own Citizenship Quotient by asking himself: "How do I rate as a responsible citizen?"

In a series of meetings this month, the Kiwanis has faced the question of how they can demonstrate their own acceptance of citizenship responsibility in the community. Major projects approved for carrying out in 1963 are: Postmaster Week, Fire Prevention Week in cooperation with the Fire Dept., Public Safety, Continuation of the Club Scholarship Program and Stimulation of Getting out the Vote in Elections.

Herald Editorial Opinion

We Don't Want Towering Apartment Houses

On not less than three different occasions Edward J. Morris of Hicksville, leader of the Town of Oyster Bay Democrats, has in print declared that high-rise apartments would be a consequence of his plan for a Long Island Transit Double Loop. Since the eastern end of the "loop" would embrace Hicksville, Levittown, Bethpage and other mid-island communities, this has led to outraged expressions from the Supervisor of the Town of Oyster Bay, Thomas R. Pynchon.

Morris, a beneficiary of the election of a Democrat as the Nassau County Executive in the sense that he is among the hundreds who have achieved appointive positions of importance in the county government, is director of the County Dept. of Franchises. For more than a year now, he has striven mightily to enhance his own prestige and to pad out the size of the office. Although his title is director, he likes to be called Commissioner. Although the Dept. deals with Franchises, he likes to have it called the Dept. of Transportation and Franchises. Under Eugene Nickerson's 1963 budget, his dept. would get $115,050 as compared with $44,600 last year.

As the self-styled Transportation

Commissioner, he has been running around the County on all kinds of matters having nothing to do with franchises in the sense that the office handled its work before the New Frontier came to Nassau. Among his more expensive proposals is the so-called Transit Double Loop. A model of a Transportation Center to be built in connection with the Loop at Roosevelt Field has been on public display. It even includes a monorail system while admitting the "operation is some what speculative at this time for the real worth of monorail must be demonstrated."

This frenzied activity, coupled with weekly press releases, has brought out some weird angles. People in Levittown with homes along the proposed route of the "Loop" are reported selling their homes because they don't want a rail road in their backyards. Morris was quoted as saying: "Selling would be a terrible mistake. It's even possible that should a rail road be built, property would be more valuable BECAUSE HIGH RISE APARTMENTS might be constructed in the area."

Then in a letter to the Locust Valley

Leader, he really let the cat out of the bag. Again predicting the "Loop" will "permit an orderly development of multiple dwellings along the central tier of Long Island" and confessing that the cost of his "Loop" could be "justified only if accompanied by a complex of HIGH RISE Forest Hills type residential development" he added that this is not what he wants on the North Shore. There he wants to preserve the "existing characteristics".

And there you have it. The heck what happens to our mid-island communities and their residential development. We become a second Queens with towering apartment houses by Democrat plan and design. This is a direct quote from Morris: "its impact on growth in Nassau is likely to be similar to the impact of the subway system on Queens."

We don't want it and we don't need it. Hicksville as a community, for example, is trying to develop its educational facilities based on its continued orderly development with fine one-family residences. We are thankful that our Town Supervisor is alert to what Morris is trying to put over on us.

LATEST McCORMICK SURVEY:

Recommends Wait and Watch on Secondary Level

Junior High Conclusions.

A balance between anticipated enrollment in the junior high school grades and existing permanent capacity in the junior high school plant will not approach until approximately 1975. At that time, however, present enrollment data indicate that a compatible point between enrollment and capacity will materialize. It must also be pointed out that should parochial secondary school construction within and/or near the district materialize, it could have a greater impact than projected on secondary enrollment, hence could pre-date the balancing of enrollment and permanent capacity at these grade levels.

Also, the availability of the 24 portable classroom units, moved at some expense, makes the necessity for additional permanent facilities at the junior high school level doubtful. The junior high school's permanent capacity of 2,000 to 2,250 operating stations should not have to be supplemented by more than the 24 temporary units now in place to absorb the peak enrollments of the present and the next few years. Between 1965 and 1966, enrollment at this level should have declined to a point equal to the State's capacity for the plant. In very rapid order, the decline in enrollment in these grades should go below the 2,600 pupil capacity felt to be more realistic for the school and its program. Within five years after that, by 1975, enrollment should have declined to the capacity of the permanent plant by the State's standards. By 1980, the residual enrollments in these grades should be at a point consistent with the lower capacity for a broader curriculum and more lenient utilization as stated in Chapter III, (Herald issue of Feb. 7 - Editor)

Thus, the survey staff again recommends the maintaining of permanent construction at the junior high school level at its present capacity range and the continued use of the attached temporary units through the next 10 to 12 years until enrollment stabilization in the junior high school grades is at a level consistent with presently built permanent facilities.

However, as in the case of the ultimate permanent elementary plant capacity for the district, an addition of permanent specialized instructional areas to the junior high school to serve the curricular demands of the 1980's might some day be entirely defensible. Such a finalizing step would be based upon the educational demands and the data available to support such a step some 10 to 15 years hence. Present data do not support such a step at this time.

Senior High Conclusions

A balance between anticipated

enrollment in the senior high school grades and existing permanent capacity at the senior high school plant will not occur until 1978 to 1980, approximately 3 to 5 years beyond the time of the junior high school balance. As noted previously, larger than expected participation in forthcoming parochial secondary schools could pre-date the balancing of enrollment and permanent capacity at these grade levels.

Within a year, enrollment at the high school will exceed available maximum capacity by close to 1,000 pupils. After that, the gradual decline in grade 10 through 12 enrollment will lessen the impact to some extent, but certainly not to the point of comfort for at least ten years hence.

As stated in the section on elementary schools, the continued use of temporary classrooms at that educational level would allow the return of elementary school libraries by 1965. By 1969, the return of the second special instructional room at each elementary school for the program enrichment for which they were originally intended would be possible. The transfer of any of the twenty-six temporary rooms now in service at the elementary level to the senior high school would offset this educational gain at the elementary school level for approximately four years.

While it is a fact that immediate relief is necessary at the senior high school, it is also true that at this educational level the enrollment picture is somewhat clouded because of the officially undisclosed timing of the parochial secondary schools destined for the region, and the actual enrollment participation in them.

If the temporary units were retained and the educational advantages derived at the elementary school level until no longer needed in 1969, parochial secondary school construction would undoubtedly be completed or under way by then, with enrollment participation generally established by that time. Thus, a documented analysis of the one new unanswerable enrollment factor still affecting the district would be available.

This analysis would allow accurate deliberation and cost studies of the merits of some permanent addition to the high school as compared with the costs involved with the transfer of some or all of the temporary classrooms which, by then, would be well-used. There might also be the valid possibility of a combination of these two alternatives.

Thus, the survey staff recommends the maintaining of permanent construction at the senior high school level at its present capacity range through the next 5 years. In this time, parochial secondary school construction plans will become known and their exact impact can be reckoned with.

When these data are known, a permanent addition to the senior high school might become a defensible necessity. Until such data are known, a permanent addition to the senior high school might prove an unjustified expenditure and burden to the district. The same is completely true regarding the costly transfer of temporary units at this time since they may prove to be a poor solution at this level.

It is not without merit to consider the maintaining of the aging temporary units at the elementary plants and the use of some other type of prefabricated temporary classroom units at the high school, since some of the units now being marketed are close to the costs involved with detaching, moving, reassembling, and reconditioning the units now at the elementary schools. If such a step is undertaken, the same caution must be voiced regarding the possibility of some permanent addition being more defensible at the high school in the late 1960's or early 1970's. The survey staff, realizing that the high school will be under extreme pressure and will have to be operated at higher-than-normal utilization, and with a longer-than-normal school day with overlapping sessions, feels that the most defensible and prudent course of action lies in the recommendation underlined above.

Administration Center

The obvious need for expanded and coordinated facilities for the central administrative operations of the district should be coupled with the phasing-out of the Nicholas St. School as an instructional unit.

When definite plans have been established for the partial abandonment of the Nicholas plant, detailed studies of the complex central operation staff needs should be made. These, together with projected future needs for such a central administrative unit should be developed as a specification for the ultimate adaption of the building.

The long-term goal should be eventual consolidation of the now-diversified staff and equipment. Certainly the need, the availability of this plant after its educational abandonment, its location in the central area of the district, and the money spent to date improving safety features of the plant all would argue for such a step being taken as soon as possible. (To be continued)

AN EDITORIAL... 'Nothing Ever Changes'

We are now past mid-winter. The days are getting noticeably longer. The sun is up an hour later than it was on New Year's day and it is still light at six o'clock in the evening. L. I. Lighting Company made a valiant attempt to keep all the street lights on at the same time but after a few nights had to acknowledge defeat. New sections of the community are being dedicated and progress is being made on the traffic situation at the Cantiague School.

Yes, things are moving in West Birchwood. But where it concerns the STATE TRAFFIC COMMISSION, nothing ever changes. Its image is as the Rock of Gibraltar. Its promised survey of traffic conditions at the entrance to our community is still awaited. Its decision on our crying need for the green arrow on the Broadway traffic light is still withheld. Its bureaucrats move ahead majestically to more important matters impervious to the pleas of our elected representatives for relief from an intolerable situation. Yes, with the STATE TRAFFIC COMMISSION, in Jericho, nothing ever changes.

Letter to Editor

Dear Mr. Berkman:

A letter written by Sanford Sussman in the West Birchwood News of January 24, 1963 has come to my attention.

Since I have been an active working member of the West Birchwood Education Committee since its formation in May, 1959, I feel that I am qualified to answer this letter.

The land for the Cantiague School was made available to the Jericho Board of Education by Sosnow & Schwartz, who said this was the only location in West Birchwood for a school. Six months after the Jericho School Board purchased the land, Sosnow & Schwartz wanted it back in order to have it zoned for industry, but Sosnow & Schwartz would not sell any other West Birchwood land to the school district. The school board did not choose the location and therefore cannot be held responsible.

Two years ago, a Mother's March, organized by the West Birchwood Civic Association, was held in our community to protest our children having to use the Long Island Expressway overpass to get to the Robert Seaman School. This protest was taken into consideration by the school board and our children were not forced to walk across the overpass.

I have a child in kindergarten at the Cantiague School who walks because we are in the 3/4 mile zone by approximately 1/10 of a mile. In inclement weather, I drive him to school. While I am fully aware of the fact that not everyone has a car at their disposal, I do see the very practical possibility of car pools. Car pools would also eliminate much of the existing traffic problem at the Cantiague School.

It is my feeling that we should give a great deal of thought as to what we want our school tax dollar to do for us and to express our opinions to the Jericho Board of Education, so that they may take our decisions into consideration.

Sincerely,

MRS. FRANK SCHREIBER

A typical example of the keenness of competition was the game of the Yankees versus the Cardinals of two weeks ago. Both teams finished the ninth frame with 39 marks and the tenth frame was to once again decide the winner. The Yankees pulled in with a 900 to win the game by just two pins and tie the Giants for league high game. A tremendous sigh of relief punctuated the Yankee win.

A real tough one to lose at the wire for the Cardinals. Twenty-one pins was the total difference between the two teams for the night. Each week is tougher, more stimulating and proving more and more a tribute to the combination of "hard play and sportsmanship" of the league.

Organize Special Trinity Art Class

A Special Art Class for fifth and sixth graders at Trinity Lutheran School, 40 W. Nicholas St., Hicksville, has been organized for selected students who show special talent and interest in the area of art. Stanley Kramer, Art Teacher, reports that because "Experience Is The Best Teacher In Art," he hopes to explore many many areas as well as concentrate on several. The primary purpose of the class is to enrich and advance the instruction of children who are capable of handling more challenging art projects than can be given at the class level.

Accordingly, an extension of the classroom instruction on figure drawing in charcoal is contemplated. This art medium will also be translated to some plaster of paris sculpture work. The ultimate program accomplishments will in part be determined by the participating members themselves.

The Special Art Group meets every Monday afternoon, from 3:15 to 4:30 p.m., at Trinity Lutheran School.

Joseph J. Tomasovic, Jr., airman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Tomasovic, Sr. of 82 Myers Ave., Hicksville, was graduated, Jan. 18 from ANTIETAM, Peninsula Maritime School, at the Naval Air Technical Training Center, Memphis, Tenn.

Fountain Bleu, at this point... We don't expect the winners to be decided until the final night of play and the last ball is thrown.

Jackie and Ziggle Levine had a delightful trip cruising to Nassau. They voyaged on the Italia and had excellent weather and congenial company. In Nassau they went sightseeing and swam at Paradise Beach and checked on the limbo dancers and inspected the straw markets. The weather in Nassau was ideal for ducks, reported Jackie.

A preliminary Jericho world series in bowling took place recently between the Tuesday night league and the Thursday night league at the Mid-Island Bowl. The Thursdays clobbered the Tuesdays 2-1 with plenty of pins to spare. On the Thursday nighters were Monroe Swerdlow, Hartley Lewis, Sidney Albin, Lou Millman, Ziggle Levine. The Tuesday contingent consisted of Sam Goldstein, Vince Greco, Herb Block, Stan Furness and Jimmy Tuccinardi. The return match is scheduled for February 24th at the Westbury Bowl. Admission is free.

And speaking of bowling, the Yankees of the Jericho Men's League were struck a devastating blow recently. The Yankees, who have been leading the league all season, got the bitter news that their anchor man Bob Miller injured his right thumb while skiing at Davos (not in Switzerland) last Saturday.

Bob, who is an enthusiastic skier, had the misfortune to fall on his thumb while schussing down the notorious "Pink Cloud" trail in the heart of the Woodridge Alps. Among the terrified spectators were his wife Gerda, and Rita and Seymour Berkman.

An epidemic of Asiatic flu and viral infections is raging in Jericho and there are rumors that Jericho High School may be closed temporarily.

Among neighbors recovering from operations are Herb Lubin from minor surgery in Syosset General and Andrew Gilbert, son of Loren and Joan Gilbert from a tonsillectomy.

Al and Honey Krieger of Yates Lane had a grand engagement party in honor of their beautiful daughter Lynn's engagement. The festivities took place on Sunday, Feb. 10th.

Red-Cross Sets Blood Bank Day

The Syosset-Jericho Branch of the American Red Cross is planning a Community Blood Bank Day early in May. It is hoped that every organization in the community will participate. This is an opportunity to establish a Blood Bank and bring to all members of groups and their families the vital protection of the Red Cross Blood Program. Interested organizations are asked to call Mrs. Lawrence Hamsley, Jr., at WA-1-0687 before March 1st for further information.

Neal Nickerson

County Executive Eugene Nickerson will be the guest speaker at the next meeting of the Hicksville Regular Democratic Club, which will be held on Thursday, Feb. 28 at 8:30 p.m. at the Old Country Manor, 244 Old Country Road, Hicksville.

The Club invites everyone to participate in a highly stimulating evening. Refreshments will be served at the conclusion.

An open house at the new Cantiague School, sponsored by the PTA, drew an estimated 500 West Birchwoodites to the school Wednesday night, Feb. 13th. It was the first opportunity most parents had to inspect the new school which houses the first six grades in our area.

Following a short business meeting which took place in the auditorium, inspection tours of the classrooms took place. Teachers were present in each classroom to confer with parents on Little Rollo's progress in the academic world.

Among the school officials present were Leon Siskind, principal of the Cantiague School; Acting Superintendent of Schools, Leon H. Westfall, and some members of the school board.

Coffee and cake was served in the cafeteria and the evenings activities were concluded with a social evening as neighbors who had gathered for the winter greeted each other with springlike enthusiasm.

"If Balzac were here, he would have me!" cried the dying Balzac. But the great novelist, in his weakened condition, lacked the magnetism to summon his creation from the world of The Human Comedy to his bedside. When the chips were down, the illustrious Dr. Horace Bianchon, whom Balzac had caused to work scientific wonders, could not save his creator because he could not be there to attend him. But then neither could the four lesser physicians of this world who were there to attend him.

What was the motivating force that drove Balzac to create The Human Comedy and led him to identify so closely with it that, when friend told him of a dying sister, Balzac cut him short with "let's talk of something real, of Eugenie Grandet"?

As a young man he wrote to his own sister "without genius, I am done for". This feeling of desperation is perhaps the key to his intense energy in pursuing the potentialities of that quality in himself which culminated in The Human Comedy. If he had lacked, or been unable to utilize, that genius, he might have been "done for", or, as the word he used is literally translated, "gone up in flames" at the age of 30 rather than 50. So perhaps Dr. Horace Bianchon, together with the 2,000 other characters Balzac created, did save him after all.

Balzac was not alone among his contemporaries in his desperate need for genius. As Alfred de Musset has described so lucidly in his Confessions of a Child of the Century, published in 1836, the young men of his age looked around them and, instead of the recently departed greatness of the Napoleonic Empire, or the gilded glories of the Ancient Regime, they could see only a sea of mediocrity into which, they felt, without genius, they would sink.

It was this fear and disdain of a mediocre present that led a Theophile Gautier to mount his raft of genius and elegantly express his contempt for the "modern" world in comparison with past civilizations. It was his feeling of being cast into an arid limbo between a futile past and a productive future that determined the qualities of Stendhal's magnificent characters and led him to assert "I shall be read only in 1880 or 1900, or perhaps as late as 1930".

Balzac, lacking Gautier's romantic decadence and Stendhal's radical defiance, was more observant, perspicacious and intimately involved in his society than either of them. He determined to utilize his genius in the creation of a "history of Manners" in which "French society would be the real author; I only the secretary." A political conservative who was guided by "the twin principles of Catholicism and Royalty", he would illuminate the characteristics and lacks of his contemporary society by "depicting the two or three thousand conspicuous types of a period" in a series of novelistic social and philosophical studies.

With this purpose in mind, he evolved a Plan which contained seven divisions. Under the first six of these headings are classified all the studies of manners which form the history of society at large. These divisions are the Scenes of Private Life, of Provincial Life, of Parisian Life, of Military and Country Life. The seventh division and the second part of the plan contains the novels which comprise the Philosophical Studies "in which the social instrument of all these effects is displayed, and the ravages of the mind are painted, feeling after feeling". All his novels and shorter fictional creations written after the age of 30 are incorporated and classified within this vast scheme. Minor characters in one novel become major characters in another. Events of one novel are referred to or built upon in another in such a way as to build up a whole interdependent world.

Saintsbury, the Victorian critic, describes the world Balzac created as "a partly real, partly fantastic shadow, where the lights and the physical laws are slightly different from this world of ours, but with which, owing to the things it has in common with that world, we are able to sympathize, which we can traverse and comprehend".

The keys to his creation are observation and imagination. An intense observer who saw much, Balzac applied to his observations a speculative lens that both ramified and transformed them until he had produced, as he had proposed "a history of Manners of French society" but one that was "slightly different from this world of ours." While this world is intensely pervaded with the color and cast of Balzac's imagination, it is curiously free of the author's conscious will. Once the act of creation has been accomplished, the characters and situations seem to develop and move by a logic of their own, as if they had achieved an autonomy from their creator's manipulations.

The Human Comedy is not a scientifically or even socially scientifically true "history" in the

New Program

The Educational Skills Center of Jericho announces a new program that is scientifically designed to improve the study habits and skills of students.

The E.S.C. "Learn How to Study" course is a ten week program. Each student's study skills are evaluated and an individual program of improvement is developed. Students are taught to schedule their study time, techniques of good note taking, how to get the most out of class, a prescription for examination jitters, and many other good study skills.

The Study Skills program is the product of years of research in teaching students the skills necessary for their success in school. The course is taught by experienced New York State licensed teachers.

Sense that Balzac intended it to be. He has, however, through the intensity and prolificacy of his portrayals, revealed his period and place certainly more thoroughly and intimately than any other writer, perhaps more so than any other writer of whatever description.

To shift from the discussion of his work as a whole to that of individual titles is perhaps more difficult to do with Balzac than with any other writer. Death prevented him from writing all of the 144 studies he had planned for The Human Comedy, but he did complete close to 100 of them. His work is so vast, so inextricably intertwined, and yet so varied and non-repetitive that no single titles stand out so clearly from the main body that they can easily be singled out as outstanding examples.

Certainly his two best known novels today are Eugenie Grandet and Pere Goriot. They are probably among the best of his novels but, taken by themselves, give no idea of the range, the intensity, the gigantic images and ideas, the magic of the Balzac conception.

If it were necessary to limit oneself to the reading of 25 Balzac novels, one might hesitatingly pick, together with the above titles, the following, in the order of their appearance in The Human Comedy: A Woman of Thirty, Gosbeck, Beatrix, Ursule Mirouet, Bachelor's Establishment, Gaudissart the Great, The Old Maid, Lost Illusions, Scenes from a Courtesan's Life, Lily of the Valley, Rise and Fall of Caesar, Balthazar, Government Clerks, Middle Classes, Chouan Country Doctor, Peasantry, Magic Skin, Quest of the Absolute, Christ in Flanders, Unknown Masterpiece, About Catherine de Medici, Louis Lambert, Seraphita.

This might be a representative selection. But far better than such selective listing is to follow the creator's Plan and to read them all in the order in which he has classified them. Anyone who does that will become soaked in that marvelous world and will become a confirmed Balzacian for life.

Ten Pin Talk Summer Bowling, Mixed League

by Henry Dockswell

Some weeks ago we commented that "who knows but in this second half the last might be first." Well, sitting atop the league and tied for first place are two teams that finished 10th and 11th in the first half, Marv Cohen's "Champs" and Murray Gitelman's "Spits". Both had a fairly easy time of it this past week. Marv's boys beat Leo Geyer's "Lions" quite handily 5 to 2 and Murray's guys knocked off Jack Sloan's league leading Mets 7-0, sweeping them out and down into 5th place.

Al Minoff, Capt. of the Albis, who last time out bowled a 202 and found that it still wasn't enough to bring his Albis to a winning margin, decided this week that he might as well do it alone. This he proceeded to do as he threw not one but two games of 214 and 202 and with a little help from Sid Sachs, whose average is still climbing, his Albis overcame Fred Sapio's "Royals" 5 to 2. They are now in 8th place and this is the highest they have ever been. A little more help from Al Grubbs, Ely Fisher, Lou Truchil and Irv West would really accentuate their climb. These last three 200 games give Al a total of four this year and puts him right smack into the fight for that trophy, only two behind the front running Fred Sapio.

Nat Warren found the groove leading to the 1-3 pocket and reeled off six strikes in a row to come up with a 212, his second one this year. The rest of his "Midst" teaming however could only come up with one good game that night and they lost a squeaker to Dave Batterman's Tigers 4-3. Nat is a comparatively new bowler but his average, 154, belies that fact. As Nat would say, "Class will tell." His first really good one this year as he bowled a 203. As you watch this tall lefty with the smooth round-house motion you get the feeling that he can't miss, but somehow he does. Maybe now that he has broken the 200 barrier he'll start to, as he would put it, "bow like crazy". And believe me, Sol's "Invalids" could really use a little crazy bowling. They just got taken by Sid Simon's "Trophies" 5 to 2 and right now they are safely ensconced in last place with no place to go but up.

Lenny Wainick, a veteran of many splits, finally conquered one of the most difficult ones. Faced with the 4-7-9-10 split, he turned around, ala Babe Ruth, pointed to the 4 pin and proceeded to line. He wound up, let fly and darned if that ball of his, like it had eyes, clipped that 4 pin and he made the split. Amid roars of disbelief he slowly turned, as if it was an every day occurrence, sauntered back to his seat, and fainted.

William M. Gouse Jr., Post No. 3211
By Eddie Klesing

Our last meeting was highlighted by the appointment of a Memorial Day Parade committee, a new Officer of the Day, an "Americanism" chairman, and the election of a new Post Chaplain.

Commander Ed Shannon appointed himself along with George Walden and Lou Klein as this year's Memorial Day Parade committee. They met with other veteran organizations to start plans for this year's parade.

Mike Znack, took on the duties of Officer of the Day, a job vacated by Andy Sadowick. Mike, a likable guy, should have no trouble filling the job.

Lou Klein, a front runner on "Americanism", should enjoy his assignment as chairman for this committee. The subject is one of Lou's favorites.

A very important job in any Post is that of Post Chaplain. This job entails the visiting of the sick and disabled members. He must report sickness and distress to the Post and comrades. Elections gave this task to Andy Sadowick. Andy, always gave his best in everything he did and can be sure the members look forward to his future with luck and success. The cooperation of the members can make Andy's job a lot easier by reporting to him immediately all sickness and distress. From time to time, this column and bulletins to members will list the chaplain's telephone number so they can contact him if need be. Call Andy at WE15-4176.

Continued sponsorship for Little League baseball was voted for and we look forward to the V.F.W.

Present Annual Music Recital

On the evening of Feb. 14, the Hicksville Senior High School presented its annual Chamber Music Recital.

This concert gave the more advanced music students of Hicksville an opportunity to perform either as a soloist or in a small group, music of a high calibre. Presented were brass, woodwind, string and percussion ensembles. The Advanced Choral Ensemble also performed several compositions.

A very appreciative audience applauded the students and their directors, R. G. Pellerin, Thomas A. Buttice and Charles Arnold. Charles Gouse and William Goulette are the district Supervisors of Music.

Attentive Audience

A fascinating commentary accompanied by color slides depicting Far Eastern life in Quemoy, Taiwan and Hong Kong was presented by Sister Joseph Damien, of the Sisters of St. Joseph to an attentive audience at the Jan. 28th meeting of the St. Ignatius Loyola Auxiliary of Christian Mothers, Hicksville. Sister Joseph, Assistant Professor of History at St. Joseph's College for Women, Brooklyn, personally photographed the interesting places and people last summer while studying in the Far East under a Fulbright scholarship. The pictures brought into sharp contrast the living standard of the Chinese Nationalists with that of our own.

Prior to this presentation, the regular business meeting was conducted. During this meeting, Fire Co. Capt. James Taxter of the Bureau of Fire Prevention instructed the mothers in means of preventing home fires and proper procedures in case of fire.

A report was made on the very successful Ice Skating Party held Jan. 24th and final plans were announced for the "Sweetheart Ball" to be held on Feb. 15th in the school hall.

All members were urged to attend the next regular meeting, Feb. 25th, at which time the guest speaker will be Sister Jean Clare, O.P., Diocesan supervisor and curriculum coordinator in the Dept. of Education, Diocese of Rockville Centre.

Cometland

By Joe Koerner

COMETS SHAVE BRAVES. . . And then suddenly it was all over and done with. . . The Comets had evened their score with the Syosset "Braves", 66-52 and were now in undisputed possession of 1st place in the Section 1, basketball race. Mac Arthur and Syosset were tied for 2nd and Farmingdale was a distant 3rd, with a 5-4 league record. It was as simple as that and now that the big action has been faded, it was easy to look back and calmly discuss the highlights of the game. All had agreed, that the Comets', 5th man for the evening, Paul Colosano, had done a bang-up job of filling the shoes of Bob Smith, after the latter had tapped out, via the foul route. . . Smith had racked up 27 points, high for the game, before picking up his 5th personal foul of the evening.

"And how about Bill Luft, Chip Jaworski and Vin Hannigan" said a loyal member of the C.R.F., who had made the Safari into the wilds of Syosset. He was still flushed and was amazed to find his heart beating normally, after living through a home town, whistle blast by the refs. This was the guy, who upon arrival, had been chilled to the marrow by the Syosset night air. . . but now that his Comets had copped the duke, he had his coat off and was softly whistling, "Dan Druffs", Summer Leaves in B Major. "It's a grand night for singing", the guy hummed as he jumped in his car and headed for the calmer world of Cometland. There were other descriptive passages, of course but let's just say this was another one of those unforgettable nights for those that follow the fortunes of the Comet Cagers. They're not the very best team that ever came out of Hicksville High but most certainly, they'll leave a path of fond memories in their wake. This is a snarl, snappin' bunch of wildcats and they play the ball like a hot poker. Look for them, to not only cop the Division title, but to go at least three deep in the Tournament days ahead. Our crystal ball figures, the Dalers, without any pressure, will provide plenty of competition, this Friday night in the locals' back yard but we still see the Comets, in with a 10-2 league record, for the season. Other scorers, following Bob Smith's 27 were, Billy Luft 17, Chip Jaworski 14, Paul Colosano 13, Vin Hannigan 5, George Fillaphone and George Rivas 2 and Bruce Damm 1.

METEOR B'S UNDEFEATED. . . Jr. High basketball coach, Marty Riger, reports in with a clean slate for his Meteor B squad, after downing L.L. Lutheran in the season's finale. "A very rewarding season", Riger said. . . "a season the kids and myself, will always look back to with fond memories". High scorers in the 56-32 win over Lutheran were, Bob Hendrickson 16, Joe Grant 10 and Jack Sinella 5. High scorers for the season were, Hendrickson, averaging 10 pts per game and Sinella, a close second with 9. Top rebounders were Brian O'Leary, Joe Grant and Jerry Harding. Other outstanding player mentions, went to, Kevin Bailey, Jack Baltz, John Beary, Jerry Calandi 116, Peter Oriane, Bruce Goldmacher, Mike Miller, Bill O'Donnell, Nick Samin and Doug Peschel. And last but not least, a plug for coach Marty Riger who does a tremendous job of helping to cut the wisdom of today's youth. He's a credit to the fine coaching staff we have here in Meteor and Cometland. Lots of good luck gang. . . Wear your mauls well, for undefeated seasons are not always the result of hard work and hustle.

MAT FACTS. . . BILL STARKE N.S. CHAMP. . . It takes a good boy to weather the storm of tournament wrestling, where only the best survive the gruelling rounds of competitive action. You're all alone out there, man against man and no substitute can come in to help you get your wind back. Bill Starke knew these facts. . . he was schooled well in the fine arts of schoolboy wrestling by his coach Bill Roberts. He was a big winner, last Saturday night at the North Shore High School winning his 5th straight bout of the tournament, by decision Don Hupp of Farmingdale, for the 106 1/2 lb. North Shore Championship Belt. This Friday and Saturday, Bill Starke has a chance to add a County Championship to his laurels, when the Section 8 (Nassau County Championship Tournament) is held at the Clarke High School. This is mighty fast company and only the champs make the grade to the bigger tournaments, that finally end in the All State At Cornell in March. Other Comets getting a chance on the Clarke mats, are Dave Trudil 95 lbs, a winner in the North Shore Semi - Finals, and Robin Winkle, runnerup to Clarke's, Brian Lambe the new N.S. 115 lb. Champ. Lambe had decided Winkle 5-3 in the finals, last Sat. night at North Shore High. Watch for this pair to come again lock horns, at Clarke this weekend. . . and also for another young old-timer by the name of Allan Strell, from Valley Stream, Central. Strell barely shaded Winkle in last year's County Championship match. Strell stopped Lambe this year in a dual match, after Lambe had racked up 35 straight wins. A week prior to that Lambe had stopped Winkle after 25 straight. Look for this trio to provide the action in the 115 lb. class. They're as evenly matched as 3 peas in a pod and all decisions between them have been mighty close.

TOMORROW'S CHAMPS. . . Jr. High wrestling coach, John Santoro reports in with a 21-16 loss to undefeated Farmingdale. That's a 4-3 season for the Meteors so far, with 2 more matches remaining on the slate. Point winners for the locals were, Howie Berkowitz, Tom Lee, Horace Lindo, Bill Brough, and Russ Mahler.

Legionnaire's Log

Charles Wagner Post No. 421, Hicksville

BY ARTIE RUTZ

Quite amazing is the continued hardheadedness of our statepolitical "employees" who seem to reject, without conscience, the Korean Veteran Bonus. . . Or what else can you expect from a Governor who antagonizes such a large group as the automobile owners. . . Why do our elected state officials refuse to put the Korean Bonus directly to the people of New York State by putting it on the ballot? . . . New Yorkers have always shown great appreciation for the services of their soldiers. . . After nine years of delay and neglect, the implication arises that the Korean Vet didn't do a thing stopping the Communist aggression in that part of Asia and therefore doesn't even rate a token of thanks as did the World War 2 Vets. . . Must their holler discrimination as do the minority groups in order to gain what is rightly theirs? . . . Write to Rockefeller and Carlini and tell them what you think. . . And while you're in the writing mood, get in touch with two of New York's Representatives in Congress, Congressman Charles E. Goodell and Congressman Hugh L. Carey, House Committee on Administration, House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. . . Please inform them that you do not wish the Committee Funds cut off from the House Un-American Activities Committee. . . Our Communist "friends" are busy on this front too. . . It might be a well invested evening to attend the next school board meeting and see and listen for yourself just what goes on, remember you are also a taxpayer. . . A happy report to make: Bob Sutton will be the new parade coordinator for the Post, and about time too. . . We have a long sick list to report this week. . . Joe Ratto, Mike Palladino and Pete Muller are all under the physicians' care. . . The Bond drawing at the last meeting once again failed to produce a winner who was present, Lou Wollenhaupt had the winning number but he wasn't present. . . The st. Patty's Dance is definitely on despite the tearing out of part of the ceiling and walls so get in your reservations now. . . Have you bought Building Bonds today???

SCENE

Your local, truthful Pontiac dealer's. (It's his big Open House to celebrate George Washington's birthday.)

CAST OF CHARACTERS

Your local, truthful Pontiac dealer and his band of truthful salesmen. Plus a cast of thousands, disguised as Pontiac owners, prospective owners and interested bystanders (all seeking the truth).

SYNOPSIS OF PLOT

Putting themselves in the shoes of Master G. Washington, your Pontiac dealer and salesmen will "tell all" about Pontiacs and Tempests. A few snappy samples:

TRUTH NUMBER 1

Tempest isn't the best-looking car of the year. The nod goes to Pontiac. Barely.

TRUTH NUMBER 2

Pontiac's engines (from 215 to 370* bhp) aren't the strongest around. Cape Canaveral has that claim all sewn up.

TRUTH NUMBER 3

Pontiac isn't the only car with curve-straightening Wide Track. Tempest's got it too, this year.

Following this startling exposé, your Pontiac dealer will give a stirring lecture, entitled: "Why George Washington's Birthday Makes Me Go All Soft-Hearted About Extra-Big Deals and Whopping-Great Allowances."

NOW THERE ARE TWO WIDE TRACK CARS. PONTIAC AND TEMPEST. SEE THEM AT YOUR PONTIAC DEALER'S WIDE TRACK-TOWN.
