HICKSVILLE, L.I., NEW YORK 10¢

Entered as Second Class Matter at Hicksville, N.Y. Post Office

Summary of 5 Propositions

1. - Add 22 permanent rooms to Senior High School as well as combined gym-cafeteria at cost of $1,100,000.
2. - Add two-story building to Senior High School, first floor for central storage and second floor for administrative offices, at cost of $595,000.

5. - Authorize demolition of so-called Lumm house on high school property fronting on Newbridge Rd. No cost stipulated. Vote scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 23.

The Hicksville Board of Education will submit a five-part referendum to the voters on Nov. 23, the major portion of which provides for the construction of 22 permanent additional rooms for the Senior High School scheduled for occupancy in Sept. 1965. With an appraisal yet to determine the cost of a small land purchase, the five questions add up to a total of $1,765,000.

The proposal represents the majority thinking on the Board and was worked out after months of study in committee. It is recommended by Superintendent of Schools Donald F. Abt. According to Board President George A. Jackson, the district will receive substantial reimbursement from the state on the total package.

The major difference of opinion among Board members, Friday night as they balloted on the five questions, appeared to be

The total award was for $3,828,500 which is $628,500 more than the county's appraisal.

Dear Lynda:

Hicksville CD Auxiliary Police cooperated with the volunteer firemen in handling the crowds for the Labor Day tournament. The CD Communications division handled messages between Mid Island Plaza and Marie St. Fire headquarters throughout the day. TOM HARRISON is back from ARIZONA looking appropriately tanned. JOE (Smiskopp) LOONEY says he knows the RR grade crossing program is eight months ahead of schedule, disagreeing with last week's headline. LILLIAN, President of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Little Inn Chowder and Marching Society, announces thru her social secretary, TERRY, that a contest is in the works to see who can raise the best beard. The contest will be limited to males because no one growing a beard is allowed to join the ladies auxiliary. There will be a handsome trophy for the finest chin growth. More details soon. That falls in the Club Diner with a foot in a plaster cast (savior of skiing last winter) is not eligible to enter the contest because he has head start.

Plainview Water District has published a handy little booklet on "Your Water Supply". Among the tips on saving water: take showers instead of baths — the usual bath requires 36 gallons, the usual shower 25 gallons. Twenty gallons is enough for a bath (who says) and 10 gallons is enough for a shower if you turn it off while you lather. And here's another: only use 1/4 bottleful to rinse your milk bottles; the dairy washes them anyway. Think before you turn the tap.

We hear that a million dollar law suit looms against the county as the result of that business about traffic signals and Uncle Millie charges. DING A-LING DONLAN was telling the other day how he got his nickname. JEROME L. SILVERMAN, CPA of 4 Julliard Dr., Plainview, has been elected to membership in the New York State Society of Certified Public Accountants. A Democratic candidate announces he is going to Germany (so soon before election) to consult with some European sociologists regarding old age assistance. He shudders gone to Washington. The Hicksville Civil Defense Unit will hold its first fall meeting on Monday night, Sept. 9, at 8:30 PM in CD Hq. in the Town Hall Annex on Broadway, Hicksville, according to Director HENRY F. BRODECK.

That new bar on North Broadway has a long established name. It is called the Hicksville Inn and what memories that brings back for many. The old Inn stood at the corner of Broadway and John St for generations before the ground was cleared as the site for the Central Federal Savings and Loan Assoc. FRED RICKER, past business administrator of Hicksville School District, handed out cigars during a recess at the Board meeting, Friday night. Mr. and Mrs. Ricker are the parents of their first child, William Herbert. The CHARLES RIZZI orchestra will play for a series of Sunday afternoon (4 to 7) dances at the K of C Clubhouse starting next month. Somebody said ALEX is building a U-shaped shuffleboard so that the players will not have so far to go to get back their weights. It also saves space but GEORGE CONNOR believes the curves will have to be banked. UNCLE JIM lives over around Huntington but is very faithful to Hicksville. He makes the long train ride every day to visit around among his local friends — and sometimes he takes their money because they are terrible in predicting the outcome of baseball games. The boys were talking the other day about local drinking emporiums which are said to be haunted. They agreed that the spirits at each place are very loyal and the ghost from one haunted bar is never seen in another haunted bar. Of course this always leads to speculation about buried treasure.

Historic Controversy:

Hicksville Airpark Case Raged for Four Years

By FRED J. NOETH

In the fall of 1945 -- eighteen years ago -- the Hicksville Airpark had a modest beginning on a former tract of farm land on the east side of Robbins Lane, within view of Jericho Tpke. The area today is the site of residences, small industries, an elementary school and Robbins Lane itself, which used to be a narrow one-way eroded farm road, a modern wide highway with curbs.

For more than five years, from 1945 to 1949, the Hicksville Airpark was very much in the news and in the courts as George V. Spohrer did battle to keep 'em flying.

At one time there were a dozen veterans providing flying instruction for ex-GIs and others interested and it was reported that more than 500 learned to fly.

It began early in 1945, according to Spohrer, when he met with Town Supervisor Harry Tappen and asked the most suitable spot in the township for an airpark. Tappen, he recalled, thought the vicinity of the old Town Incinerator (technically Locust Grove) would be logical.

Spohrer got an option on the farm near the incinerator (north of the RR) and applied to the CAA for designation for a landing area. This was granted on June 22, 1945.

A group of Town residents known as the Hicksville Flying Club (later changed to Hicksville Airpark Club) asked for a lease of his property which he considered a private non-commercial airfield. The Flying Club said it would apply to the Zoning Board of Appeals of the Town for a variance to permit use of the field for commercial purposes.

FIRST VARIANCE

The variance was granted originally in October 1945. This was later annulled by the courts which left Spohrer with the property and buildings, a private non-commercial airfield and a court decision that a section of the town's ordinance was unconstitutional.

The battle was only getting warmed up. By May, 1948, in the name of Hicksville Airpark Inc.,

GEORGE V. SPOHRER in a recent photo when he was operating the Las Vegas night club in the former main hangar of Hicksville Airpark. After flying operations closed down forever the Airpark, Spohrer sold off some of the property for industrial use, built and operated the Hicksville Farmers' Market for a time, later added bowling alleys and then the Las Vegas which was gutted by fire about a year ago.

Spohrer applied for a permit for an airport, hangar facilities etc. The application was returned to him about 16 days later. On June 25, of the same year, he applied for a change of zone from Residential B to Industrial I which was granted Oct. 19.

On Aug. 1, 1948 he received notice from Hicksville Airpark

Club cancelling all contracts. He was told by the town that he could not operate the airfield without a special permit. In January of the next year he filed an application for a permit to operate the airfield on industrial zoned property. After waiting a month he withdrew the application for permits to use the buildings. And so it went. The airpark would be operating, along would come a new legal suit or ruling; everything would then close down. Then a new application, some other approvals, objections and shut down.

In May 1949, a move by residents of the area seeking a temporary injunction to restrain operation of the flying field, was turned down pending suit by the Town of Oyster Bay to compel removal or demolition of all installations.

LEGAL NIGHT MARE

The Airpark Case became a kind of legal nightmare and went thru all the courts in the state. Only the tenacity of Spohrer kept it going. He frequently enlisted large segments of auxiliary support. More than 2,000 persons signed petitions addressed to the Town Board urging that the Airpark be kept in operation, although some of the property owners surrounding the flying field were strongly opposed (and of course outnumbered by those more remote from the area). An organization called "Veterans Committee for Hicksville Airpark" made a strong pitch for national defense which was then strongly in the mind of the post-war generation.

For example, one resolution adopted by the Veterans Committee declared "Reserve Liaison officers of the Army are now using the facilities of the Airpark under orders of the Army" and "prior to the recent World War small airports were found by government authorities to be a tremendous asset to the national defense in time of emergency".

Copies of petitions and resolutions were sent to then Congressmen Leonard W. Hall and the late Kingland Macy as well as to all veteran groups and the Town Supervisor.

The entire controversy ended in 1949 when Spohrer abruptly announced plans for an industrial park on his land. He subsequently started the first Farmer's Market on Long Island, modeled after a like establishment in California, followed by bowling HICKSVILLE AIRPARK from an altitude of about 1500 feet, looking south. The flying field, main hangar and smaller buildings are visible in the lower left hand sector. In upper right is the incinerator and sandpit. Northern State Parkway, then under construction, snakes across the upper right. Surrounding area was mostly farm and woodland.

EAST HAMPTON AIRPORT was little more than a landing strip back in 1945 when Hicksville Airpark was trying to get started and tangling every month with legal problems. This is the East Hampton modern general aviation airport today.

alleys and a night club. Today Spohrer, always a successful operator in Jackson Heights, operates the Market 64 Bowling Lanes on Robbins Lane and a pitch-and-putt golf links on South Broadway, Hicksville. He still owns two planes and flies.

HIGH SCHOOL VOTE

An amendment offered by George Kunz to provide only 15 permanent rooms was lost with five opposed, one in favor and one abstention. Irving Lawrence sought to amend the question to build 24 rooms. This also lost with four opposed and three in favor.

William A. Bruno Jr. voted "no" on four propositions, giving his approval to the question regarding demolition of the Lamm house (no. 5).

When the hour of 1AM arrived, requiring unanimous vote of the Board members present to continue the meeting, the policy was temporarily suspended for the evening. As it turned out the vote to continue was unanimous.

A resolution was adopted to seek and acquire the Koutensky property, three quarters of an acre on the west side of Division Ave just south of the High School parking field.

Herald Editorial Opinion:

Knock It Off, Jack

A press release this week notes that school taxes, in Nassau increased one-third since Gov. Rockefeller took office. The statement if issued by Jack English, county Democratic chairman.

This is hardly news and we would be willing to estimate that the school taxes in Nassau would have increased one-third if Ave Harriman was the governor. There simply is no relation between the two facts.

The big-spend school districts are going to have higher and higher tax rates. There is no problem about making tax rates go up in school districts. Mr. English knows there is no relationship between which party is occupying the Governor's chair and what the local school district does by way of preparing a budget. The only possible tie-in would be for the state to increase the amount of aid paid to school districts which set up budgets with $7 tax rates. Any thinking person must conclude that the state (which is really you and I) cannot continue to bail out the local big spenders. This would be most unfair to those moderate school boards which try desperately to hold the cost line.

The tax rate for Jericho next year will go down, slightly. Does Rockefeller get the blame for this too?

The Wantagh tax rate next year, according to Mr. English, will be $7.20 per $100. Can there be a connection between this statement and the report in the nation's press recently that Wantagh has the second highest teacher salary scale in the United States?

That Solo Flight

The 65-3p Continental with the author in the front seat for the first time -- and no one in the rear seat -- began to lose altitude rapidly as we banked over Jericho Tpke less than 100 feet below and within a few feet of Robbins Lane as it was then; a narrow road dropping sharply into a group of trees. Ahead was the Hicksville Airpark landing field and we were on our solo flight.

It turned out we had to go around the traffic pattern (twice more) before we were close enough to earth to step out. Instructor Frank Manelski signed us out for solo and we went on to put in some more time.

But today, some 14 years later, we can't help wondering what would be the present-day reaction of Birchwood Park at Jericho and assorted neighbors to that private flying field in their midst. George V. Spohrer and his Airpark ultimately won out in court and earned the right to operate and then, almost as suddenly, converted to one of the first industrial parks of its day and ceased to offer haven for small, sportsman-type aircraft. But it was a long, tough battle before this was all to come to pass.

Meet Newest Board Member

Howard T. Jankowitz, the newest addition to the Jericho Board of Education, has distinguished himself to the members of this area by his conscientious efforts in making Jericho a better place to live.

For the past year he has been Chairman of the Education Committee of the West Birchwood Civic Association, guiding it through many facets of our educational problems, and initiating action when and where necessary. As a member of the Welfare Committee of the West Birchwood Civic Assoc., he helped solve the traffic problem at the Cantigue School. He has also been an active member of the Board of Directors of the West Birchwood Civic Assoc. His efforts in organizing the Birchwood Park Lawn Cooperative have resulted in considerable savings for many members of the community.

Jankowitz is a product of the New York City School System. His college education was interrupted by a tour of duty in the Navy in 1945 and 1946, where he served in the Pacific Theatre of operations. Upon his return he attended The City College of New York and was graduated in 1950 with a B.B.A. degree in Accounting. At City and at Hunter, he undertook graduate studies to prepare for his State Teachers license, which he obtained in 1951. During his college years and after, he spent much time working in afternoon and evening community centers for the Division of Community Education of the New York City Board of Education.

For recreation, Jankowitz participates in tennis and basketball and can often be found on Sundays at the Cantigue School shooting a few baskets.

He is the Director of Advertising, International Sales and sales to Original Equipment Manufacturers for P-G Products Mfg. Co., Inc., the leading independent manufacturer and distributor of replacement parts for major appliances. He has worked for them for the past twelve years in a variety of executive capacities and has been a strong contributor to their rapid growth.

Howard and his wife Naomi have been married for eleven years and have three girls, two of whom attend our schools. Ellen is eight, Karen five, and Susan two.

Jankowitz feels that our school system has seen very rapid growth both in population and in plant, and just as with many businesses, this has brought many problems. He feels that there is a very definite need to improve the caliber of education in the district. He believes that the professional staff is the most important single factor in any school system. He is ready to devote much of his time and energies to help our district's schools grow and flourish at the least possible cost to the taxpayer.

HAROLD BRENSILBER

First Meeting

The Jericho High School P.T.A. will hold its first meeting of the 1963-64 school year at the High School on Wednesday, Sept. 11th at 8:30 P.M. Dr. Thomas F. Carey, new Superintendent of Jericho Schools, will address the membership. Parents will have an opportunity to meet the High School faculty.

My Neighbors

A total of $97.6 billion has been provided by the U. S. to help foreign nations since 1946.

School Board Names Trustee

By Selma Constant

On Aug. 22, the Jericho Board of Education appointed Howard T. Jankowitz to the Board to fill the vacancy created by the recent resignation of Dr. Paul Frisch.

Dr. Thomas Carey, Superintendent of Schools, announced that there will be a parent opinion survey conducted by an authorized research organization which will poll 10 % of the community on curriculum, teachers, discipline, homework, etc. The information will be compiled and returned to the district.

Dr. Carey also stated that beginning with the September meeting, goals and priority plans for the school district will be presented. Short term goals to come to grips with current problems and long term goals such as staffing, curriculum, and housing will be placed on a calendar and Dr. Carey and board members will present ideas on what should be tackled first.

Planning Party

The Non-Partisan Citizen's Committee for the Election of E. Allen Pastel, candidate for Trustee of the Jones Fund, will hold a fund-raising cocktail party in his honor, Saturday, Oct. 5, at the home of Abraham Concol, 5 Magnolia Lane, Woodbury, beginning at 9 p.m.

Pastel's campaign manager, Charles Lato, of East Norwich, has been appointed general chairman of the event.

New Program For Kindergarten

The new, experimental programs in reading and language are being introduced this term to some of our Jericho School kindergarten children. As in all programs of this nature, it is necessary to have control groups and also, to choose these groups in a random fashion. That is, not to have all the older or all the smarter children in one group. This plan was kept in mind when the various groups for this program were selected and, as a result, only random selections were made. We hope that this program will be successful and that it will be the forerunner of a new, dynamic period in Jericho education.

Parent League Meets Sept 11

Petroleum Credit Managers Assoc., it was announced by the Association's president, Edward J. Maloney of Centereach.

The group, part of the Oil Heat Institute of Long Island, will hold its confab at the Sky Club, Garden City, and will have as its theme: "Automation—Its Effects on Credit Management."

Operation VFW

William M. Guss Jr. Post No. 3211
by Eddie Kiebing

Funny thing about a picnic -- everybody has a good time. A larger crowd than last year flocked to Salisbury Park on a day that was sunny, fair and somewhat windy. The propane burners used for cooking got off to a slow start but once going strong stayed that way with the grill sizzling and the pots boiling. Vince Braun will be glad to know his hamburgers and hot dogs were wolfed down with the greatest of speed -- which was not due to ravenous appetites alone. They were delicious. The games and prizes rounded out the day in which we all had fun.

Our ranks continue to expand as we add two more members to our membership. They are Vince Turitto of Arrow Lane and Frank Markowitz of North Drive. We welcome our neighbors and hope to see a lot of them at future meetings.

We have two big ones coming up this fall so far. First is the belated mortgage burning ceremony to be held at the Post on Saturday evening Sept. 21st. Then on Oct. 26th, the Ladies Auxiliary are planning an Oriental Night, which promises to be different.

The annual VFW convention held in Seattle this year is over and a new commander in chief has been elected. He is Joseph J. Lombardo, an ex-marine of World War II, from Brooklyn. VFW members of this state know the tireless efforts and activity our new commander puts into his work with the organization. We can look forward to an interesting year with Commander Lombardo.

Volunteers from the Post showed up early Labor Day morning to install the American Flags on the parking meters along the main streets of town -- and an impressive sight it was when completed.

Artie Retberg won the raffle at the last meeting -- Our next is Monday Sept. 9th. See you then.
