In Freezing Cold:

Four Firemen Injured Fighting Printing Plant Blaze 15 Hours

Four volunteer firemen were hospitalized with injuries during a tough, roaring fire in the Carnegie Lithographers, a printing plant at 12 Midland Ave., Hicksville, Tuesday night and Wednesday of this week. The plant was described as a total loss.

FIREMEN (top) on the roof of the Carnegie Lithographers venting the roof of the building. Lower, the intense heat forced them to retreat (Exclusive Herald by Frank Mallett).

FLAMES ROARED out of the printing plant at Midland Ave. Tuesday night.

Some firemen were on the scene continuously under the leadership of Chief John Specht for 15 hours. The alarm was given at 10:24 Tuesday night when the plant was not in operation. It was not until 4 o'clock Wednesday morning when some of the firemen could be released for badly needed rest after fighting the searing blaze in the freezing cold.

As tons of water were pumped into the inferno and it began to freeze on the street, the town highway dept was called to spread sand and steady footing.

Plainview Fire Dept responded to a standby call and sent men and equipment to the Hicksville main headquarters in case of other emergencies.

It was 7:30 Wednesday morning when some of the equipment could be released from the scene and returned to headquarters. About 20 men labored throughout the day with a payload and bulldozer to extinguish the mounds of burning paper. During the evening, a fire truck was dispatched to attached Twinlawn Ave. to protect homes on the block.

Red Louis Mertz, Jim Clarke, Ed Wicks and Peter Luhrs were taken to Syosset Hospital. Mertz and Clarke were released after treatment of burns on face and hands. Wicks with a leg injury from a nail and Luhrs with a cut on the head stayed in the hospital for further treatment.

The cause of the fire has not been determined and an investigation by the County Fire Marshall's office has been requested.

Be Sure House Numbers Are Visible, Fire Chief Urges

Please, for the sake of your family's safety and the protection of your property, be sure that the house number of your dwelling is clearly visible from the street — that is the urgent request of Hicksville Fire Chief John Specht. He reports that frequently valuable time is lost in certain areas where house numbers are not visible and do not run in direct sequence.

Give your house a Christmas present; a nice new bright, shiny and visible set of front door numbers.

by Chief Specht. He reported the entire building, owned by Jerry Spiegel, was gutted. The Carnegie Lithographers is owned by Jack Magnifico of Jericho. It was the most destructive fire in Hicksville in recent months.

Midland is a dead-end street adjacent and south of the Port Jefferson branch of the Long Island Rail Road running north off Bethpage Rd. The area is largely industrially zoned.

Voting Next Tuesday

Harold Manaskie Sr., of 13 North Drive is apparently unopposed for re-election as a Hicksville Fire Commissioner next Tuesday night, Dec. 7, when the polls at the Marie St. Firehouse are open from 7 PM to 10 PM.

However, he urges all his neighbors to give him their confidence and cast their ballots in the event of a last minute contest.

Voters must be 21 years of age or over and 30-day residents of Hicksville Fire District.

No advance voter registration is required.

The position of fire commissioner is voluntary with no financial compensation. Manaskie is a veteran employee of the L.I. Lighting Co.

In Jericho Fire District where the voting hours are 2 to 10 PM, incumbent William Simpson is opposed by Joseph Mayz.

Joseph Sagall is a candidate for re-election as Plainview Water Commissioner on Dec. 7. Voting hours are 1 to 10 PM.

Mets Coming By RR Saturday

The New York Mets "Hot Stove League Express" toot-toots to a fitting climax on Saturday, rain or shine, when slugging star Ron Swoboda joins the Shea Stadium passenger list for the final run to Hicksville.

Jack Fisher, Johnny Lewis and Danny Napoleon, makes its first stop at Hicksville. The Lions Club will host the group at the Long Island Railroad Plaza, to the accompaniment of the Hicksville band, from 10:30 a.m. until noon. Refreshments will be served.

Could Be Worse Here

Respecting the loss of business places due to the expansion of Jericho Tpke., (Floral Park) Mayor Farrell commented "As of right now the village has incurred a net loss of a half million dollars in assessed valuation."

— Mylos Martin in the New York Herald Tribune on March 29, 1964

Thank God For All His Gifts

Aren't you glad you have eyes to see
All the wonders God has given to thee?
Our American heritage, the land of the free
With the Star Spangled Banner proudly waving over land and sea

The brilliant sun, moon and stars in the sky.
With fields of cover and mountains so high.
Seedtime and harvest, day and night,
All the four seasons to give us delight
Hill and vale, and tree and flower,
For the wonder of each hour.

Aren't you glad you have pearly ears to hear,
The birds sweet songs and the children's cheers?
Peals of thunder and falling rain on the window pane,
The church bell chimes and people joyfully singing with restraint.

Aren't you glad you can walk and talk and use your hands,
And fulfill the gifted talents that God demands?
Daily do you humbly pray on your bended knees,
To thank God for His gifts and show you're pleased
That He has given us health, happiness, and everything
To make all our lives worth while living?
Truer love could not be shown us in any other way,
Give Him praise for all He gives you, each and every day.

Chargers Overpower Central Islip

By MILT PRYOR

Last week marked the end of an exciting season for our Hicksville Football Association. Along with uniforms we pack away until next season, fond memories of evening hours and weekends ringing out with young boys exuberance when a key block is made, a lofty kick executed or when a double reverse or a fine pass leads to a touchdown.

Last Sunday at the Wheeler Ave. School field in Central Islip our Mid Island Plaza Chargers overpowered a heavily favored Central Islip Team 20 to 0 to tie for second place honors in the Nassau-Suffolk Conference. The Hicksville's touchdowns were scored on a pass from Quarterback Brian McAulley to Jeff Campbell after Bob Podgurski had recovered a Central Islip fumble. The extra point was scored by McAulley. Hicksville's second touchdown was scored on a power play through the line by Steve Davis. The extra point was scored on a pass McAulley to Bob Delaney. Hicksville's last touchdown of the season was scored on a pass from McAulley to Steve Malone. Bob Podgurski set up this series again by recovering a fumble. As a point of information, Hicksville's defense was so strong that no Central Islip player penetrated past Hicksville's 30 Yard Line.

Last Wednesday at Coney Island Park, our four InterMural teams met for their final game of the 1965 season. The Hicksville Lions and Wildcats played each other and fine defense play sparked the game. The Hicksville Eagles continued their winning ways by overpowering the Hicksville Mustangs again. Thus the Hicksville Eagles closed out the 1965 season unbeaten.

At our raffle drawing, thanks to the tremendous help of David Schlessinger, General Manager of Gertz and Thomas Whalen, major appliance Merchandising Manager of Gertz, raffle prizes were presented to the lucky winners. Ed Grams, substitute quarterback of the Hicksville Eagles, selected the winning first prize stub, good for a portable 19" television. The lucky winner was R. Blassi of 123 Park Ave. Amitville, Hicksville's popular Dutch Lane Teacher John Maher, Head Coach of the Hicksville Wildcats accepted the T.V. for Mr. Blassi.

Kevin Masters, star quarterback for the Hicksville Mustangs drew the second prize ticket which went to Jed Varanelli of 59 Appleton Place, Dobbs Ferry. His prize, a stereo phonograph was accepted by his niece our own Donna Jones, Captain of the Charger's varsity cheerleader group. Trophies were then presented to League officers for their help in furthering the League. Joe Trapp was also given a transistor radio as a going away present by the boys of the Association. Joe is being drafted this week.

Boys who have not received their bench warmers yet will be getting them this week. All other prizes have been awarded to the boys of our League.

This Saturday, the majority of our boys will be at the Long Island Railroad Plaza to meet the New York Baseball Mets. The Met organization has promised some of our boys special surprises. Our Charger group, Varsity Team, will be going to Yankee Stadium this Saturday as guests of the New York Football Giants. They will be instructed by the Jolly Green Giant Greats on how to play football.

Next year we plan to field three conference groups plus an entire intermural program as well. We plan to have sponsors for each group. We wish to thank the following individual and our organizations for their valued support this year.

League Sect'y - Treas. Joe Trapp for doing just about everything for the League. When we asked Joe to do something, he did it regardless of hours, or time. Thanks to our League Director-Gene Calabrese. Not only did Gene schedule all games, he also officiated, purchased all team equipment, kept the equipment in top shape, as well as assigned all boys to their various teams. Our Varsity Director, Chris Gannaire who managed to unscrew all that was crumbled.

Our coaches Bill Roth of the Varsity Chargers who assembled a group of boys and made a team. A team that overpowered the other towns, and yet maintained the level headed understanding that this was only a game, and that how one wins is more important than just winning. Next season, when our Charger group moves up to the 150 pound conference Pop Warner you can rest assured that Coach Bill Roth will be there leading his "Flash cakes and Animals" to even greater triumphs.

Head Coaches Dick DuBrul of the Eagles, John Maher of the Wildcats, Al Masters of the Mustangs, and Art Terrellas of the Lions did a tremendous job this season. Having boys from the ages of 8 through 12 on the same team with weights ranging from 56 pounds to the nineties certainly was an important factor in the team's makeup. All the boys participated in every game, and the difference in the before and after of their training was indeed impossible to imagine. Next year, this year's graduates will be moving up into the 115 pound conference team and their training and knowledge will help to make this group a powerful challenger.

Our League is also grateful to the following officials who gave unstintingly of their time. William Leet, Ronnie Kane, Gene Calabrese, and Joe Trapp. Also the following asst. coaches who worked out with their teams throughout the entire season Ed Grams, Frank Kendall, Pete Morrissey, Warren Doolittle, & Bert Bergdahl. Our League Photographer Frank Mallett who was never too busy to lend a helping hand. Jim Cummings, of the Mid Island Plaza Association, Jim through the kind of help of Stackler & Frank and the Merchants of the Mid Island Shopping Plaza put our League in business with their generous donation. Mr. Kaplan of the Twin Theatres allowed our League to use his theatre for our first annual theatre

Know Escape from Fire

If fire should break out in your home today, would you know what to do?

Every 24 seconds a fire starts in a city somewhere in the United States, and every 45 minutes there is a fire death.

There were over 500,000 building fires in the United States last year, and well over half of these were fires in homes. By taking a few forward looking precautions, you can be prepared if fire occurs, says the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

If you know how to escape -- if you know how to get out of your house quickly -- you can save your own life and the lives of the members of your family. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York State had, in advance, worked out an escape plan when fire suddenly swept the Executive Mansion in Albany three years ago.

From his bedroom window on the second floor, the Governor had often looked at the roof of the porch just outside. He had decided that if the mansion ever caught fire and the way of escape down the stairs was cut off, the porch would be an alternative escape route.

That was exactly the course followed when the fire broke out in the mansion one night.

You, too, should have an escape plan, and you should make it now.

Here's how you go about it: Gather all the members of your family together and work out two alternate routes for escape from any upstairs bedroom or any other part of the house.

You should have two escape routes so that if one of them is cut off, you can use the other one. Make sure that every member of the family knows these two routes, as well as any house guests you may have. If you employ a baby sitter, she too should be familiar with these routes.

Now, after you have drawn up your escape plan, try it out. Rehearse it. With a little practice, every member of the family should be able to get out of the house in less than a minute. Everyone should also know how to call the fire department, either from the fire alarm on the corner or by telephone.

If you report a fire by telephone, remain calm, and supply complete information by giving your name, the street address and the name of the town. Today, many communities are served from a single central telephone office, and it is necessary that the name of your town be given to the operator in order to avoid error.

If, in front of the local telephone directory, there are instructions show. The Rotary Club of Hicksville, Charles Wagner American Legion Post, Long Island National Bank, aided our League greatly with their generous cash donation. We also wish to thank all the Hicksville families, businesses, and industry that contributed to our League. Without you all there wouldn't be a League. Finally, we will endeavor to keep you all informed of any changes or additions to our League. Again we wish to thank Mr. Noth of the MID ISLAND HERALD for his tremendous help in furthering our League.

MARK THANKSGIVING DAY WITH ASSEMBLIES

Thanksgiving Day was celebrated at Robbins Lane School, Jericho-Syosset, with two assemblies. Mrs. Edith Lane's fifth grade presented an original play of "The First Thanksgiving" for the intermediate grades. The school band and glee club made their first appearance of the year. Carleton Weber and Stephen Work joined the two musical groups in a fine rendering of these numbers. "The Prayer of Thanksgiving," "Come Ye Thankful People Come" and "Bless This House". Special guests which numbered over one hundred were the parents of the glee clubs, band and fifth grade.

Mrs. Vilma Diamond's third grade children appeared at an assembly for the primary grades in an original play "The Indian Maple Syrup Festival". The children costumed as Long Island Indians danced, sang and played Indian games.

William M. Gouse Jr.
Post No. 3211
by Eddie Klebing

There are three telephone numbers to call for reservations and tickets to our annual dinner and dance to be held at the Huntington Town House on February 19th. The cost is $26 per couple, which seems ridiculous at that low, low price. To become one of the "in-crowd" just pick up the phone and call either Frank Aug, chairman, WE 5-5079; Al Hanlon, WE 1-0257 or Les Teble at WE 5-4227.

This is the affair everyone who went to last year raved about, particularly, the cocktail hour, preceding the dinner. One member recently suggested putting three cocktail hours together and forgetting the dinner. By the amount of refreshments, both liquid and solid, served during the cocktail hour last year chances are our friend would never get past the second.

Two more committees were appointed by Commander Art Fuelling at the last meeting: Nominating Committee for the Board of Directors: George Walden, Ed Shannon, Frank Aug and Harry Wurth.

Journal Committee: Eddie Klebing, chairman, Frank Bleal, Bob Obermeyer, Lou Kleib, Lou Palladino and Tom Tedekin.

Legislation passed during the 89th Congressional Session increased compensation for service connected disability by ten percent. War orphans attending college also got a boost in benefits with increases from $110 a month to $130 a month for full time study.

The new law affecting the War Orphans Education Assistance Program removes restrictive provision for eligibility. The provision had previously required that the qualifying death or disability result from "performance of duty." The new law eliminates this performance of duty provision. All that is required now is that the total disability or death was "in line of duty" after January 31, 1955. The Veterans Administration is not able to automatically reopen cases that were denied under the prior restriction of the law and are urging that the child, parent or guardian file another application so that they may become eligible under the new law. No filing is necessary to obtain the increased allowance rates. The payments will be made automatically and no correspondence within the Veterans Administration is necessary.

The much discussed and hotly controversial Cold War G.I. bill which passed the Senate will still receive serious study by committees in the House. Pressure from various groups will demand serious consideration of the bill during the next session of Congress.

To Discuss Bounds Of Protest Dec. 7

Jane McGrath of Hicksville, and Renee White of Levittown, both on the Executive Board of the Nassau County Young Democrats, are members of the Speakers' Committee which is arranging a symposium on "The Legitimate Bounds of Protest".

The discussion is scheduled for Tuesday Dec. 7, at 8:30 P.M. in the Palm Lounge of the Garden City Hotel.

Downtown Feels Pinch

(Editor's Note -- This is the first of two articles on downtown problems based upon a report by the NY State Joint Legislative Committee on Metropolitan Areas Study. We believe it discusses problems of current interest in the Mid-Island Area.)

Downtown communities of all sizes are feeling the pinch of outside shopping centers and commercial and industrial parks which are threatening to relegate the core of the community to a blighted has been.

The downtown problem first became apparent in the days following World War II when residents moved to the outskirts. Merchants followed them out, where ample room for parking, lower tax structures and lower land costs soon established the pattern for the suburban shopping center.

Many communities came up with surface answers. Planning groups drafted comprehensive projects for downtown. Urban renewal funds were sought to demolish degenerated sections, and for new cultural and governmental centers.

Arterial programs now under way in many places, and new parking plans are helping to overcome one of the major problems -- rapid access to downtown and a place to park once you're there.

But a great deal still remains to be done. The New York State Joint Legislative Committee on Metropolitan Areas Study has appointed a seven-man advisory council of leading citizens to explore downtown U.S.A. and recommend paths of action communities could undertake to overcome their problems.

It was ascertained early in the study that two major factors were involved in most successful downtown regeneration programs -- available private funds for investment, and an equitable tax structure. They tie in together very closely.

It's one thing to apply for and receive aid to clear blighted areas of buildings, and quite another to get private capital to invest heavily in new buildings unless there is confidence in the community's future.

Private capital must have incentive to move ahead. It wants guarantees of a fair tax rate during the period of construction and until the new building is renting and paying for itself.

There are, of course, other problems which must be faced. It is important for planners and urban renewal people to work together in overcoming core decay problems. Delays and unnecessary tape serve to kill off incentive, and leave many worthwhile programs on the drawing board.

And investors, in order to come into an area, have to know possibilities exist.

Despite the problems existing for downtown everywhere, many communities are moving toward solving their most pressing problems, and protecting downtown as an important revenue-producer and the hub of the metropolitan community.

Gives Reminder On Tax on Meals

State Tax Commissioner Joseph H. Murphy has issued a reminder to New York City vendors that the first cent of the State and City sales tax applies to sales from 11¢ to 25¢.

The sales tax does not apply to meals that cost less than $1. If a restaurant check covers meals for more than one person, the sales tax is applicable only to those meals clearly shown by the check to come to $1 or more.

The sales tax does not apply to a group check where the total charge is one dollar or more but where none of the individual meals cost $1 or more.

Seniors Display Poise, Talent

The Senior Class of Plainview High School presented "The Diary of Anne Frank" recently.

The many months of preparation and rehearsal were well rewarded by the success of the performances.

These young people displayed the talent and poise of a polished professional cast. Their feeling and understanding of the characters they portrayed was extraordinary and thrilling.

This dramatic story of two financially stable Jewish families living together in an attic for 2 years, in an effort to hide from the Nazis during World War II, is sparked with love, humor and suspense. All of these emotions were portrayed beautifully and capably by this young cast.

A memorable highlight of the play was the rough and tumble scene between lively, religious Anne Frank and serious, unbelieving Peter Van Daan, who are thrown together and confined with six adults to live in secrecy within the walls of the attic. Their teen squabbles culminate in a physical brawl which was so well done, that the audience was startled and almost shocked by this display of violent emotion; and were aroused to applause when it was over.

Karen Lerner as the jabbering, warm, friendly and sometimes disobedient, Anne Frank had the audience loving her from the moment she walked on stage.

Ray Koepck's portrayal of Peter Van Daan was fascinating and thrilling. His quiet entrance, his serious emotions, his violent eruptions and his tender love scenes were all wonderful. His "clumsy" fall from a chair during a suspenseful quiet scene was so well timed and perfected that it drew gasps from the audience; then applause, when they realized it was not an accident.

John Herrera and Nancy Mae Mulhall played the strong Mr. and Mrs. Frank extremely well. It was enchanting to realize that these two middle-aged parents were really teenagers. By the time they were on stage five minutes, their youth was forgotten and they were wise, weary, practical adults.

Ray Southard and Betti Malta also did an excellent job of outgrowing their teens as they portrayed Mr. and Mrs. Van Daan, the not-so-well adjusted parents of Peter who found living under such circumstances more difficult to bear.

Doreen Essig played the part of Margot Frank, the pleasant, sensible, reliable older sister of Anne, with great charm and poise and Joyce Bortz did a beautiful bit of acting as Miep the helpful young woman who brought food and news from the outside world.

Steve Josias was Mr. Kraler, the business associate of Mr. Frank who arranged to hide his friends and was extremely warm and professional.

John Guagente played Mr. Drussel, the bachelor dentist also in hiding. His comically serious relationship with other people after living alone with his pills and allergies drew many laughs.

The darling of the production was an adorable little kitten called Mouschie, who of course had no speaking part, but performed like a trouper on stage.

In addition to this wonderful cast, many compliments must go to Mr. Gerald J. Kirby who directed these young performers and to the Stage Manager Darryl Hoffer who handled everything so well.

The scenery and lighting were extremely well done and the sound effects were perfect.

Proof of the poise and professional qualities of these young performers came at the Saturday night showing, when during the great rush to reset a scene, someone forgot to put the Hanukkah candle on the table. As the scene opens, this candle is a very vital part of the performance and the scene could not go on without it. Ray Southard and Ray Koepck spent two full minutes ad-libbing lines as they searched for the candle and Ray Koepck even made an exit off-stage and returned with it from back stage -- ad-libbing all the way -- so that the audience never knew it was not part of the script. Now that's showmanship!

Rescue From Fire

The closed door will serve as a fire barrier which could give you several minutes of precious time. You should leave the door closed, and use another escape route or go to your window and waken your neighbors by shouting, "Fire!" If you have a telephone in your room, report the fire immediately.

Now, suppose you place the palm of your hand on the closed bedroom door and it does not feel hot. You may open the door slightly. However, follow these instructions:

Hold your head away, brace the door with your foot, and opening it a bit, place your hand across the opening to determine how hot the air is. If it is not hot, take a cautious look into the hall to see if there are any flames or dense smoke in sight.

If the hallway appears to be cool, and there are no flames and smoke coming up the stairway, you may be able to use your regular escape route. But make certain that all members of the household have been aroused.

If you have any doubt about safe passage down the stairs, however, close the door, shout "Fire" to awaken others, go to your window where you can breathe fresh air, remain calm and await rescue.
