Increase Pay For Adult Teachers

Teachers in the Hicksville Adult Education program, now described as "continuing education" will be paid $6 an hour in the New fiscal year, by reason of a decision of the Board of Education, Friday night, while preparing the 1966-67 budget. In the current year teachers with three years or more service in the program have received $5 and all others $5 an hour.

The Board in a special session at Burns Ave. School heard Marvin Gibson, administrative assistant to the Superintendent of Schools, discuss for about an hour the vocational instruction programs offered district students.

Two codes of the proposed budget were completed during the session functions 300 and 900.

The Board voted at midnight 4 to 3, to adjourn. A regular meeting of the School Board is scheduled for this Friday night, Dec. 17, at 8:15 PM in the Senior High instead of the last Friday which would be Christmas eve.

McKeon Warehouse Fire Scene

Hicksville and Westbury Fire Depts. were battling a stubborn fire at the McKeon's Lumber Co. Warehouse on Old Country Rd., near the IJRR crossing, as this issue of the HERALD went to press.

The alarm was sounded at 11:57 AM and the firemen were still at the scene as the paper went to press. It looked like a long, hard fight for the volunteers under the direction of First Assistant Chief Gus Constotias. At the scene were six vehicles from Hicksville, and one from Westbury. Plainview Fire Dept. sent equipment and standby volunteers to man the main Hicksville headquarters.

The McKeon Warehouse is a big frame wooden structure. Years ago it was known as the Hicksville Lumber Co.

Counting All My Blessings

God gave me the world dear,
When He gave me you.
All my four precious children,
How I love you so dearly,
I am counting all my blessings,
And thanking dear God above,
That He gave into my keeping,
Four precious gifts of life.
What gift could be more enduring
And a constant source of pleasure.

A spring of inspiration,
That nothing else can measure,
I'm glad God singled me out from everyone,
For this particular blessing.

Let's Do It Right

The widening of Broadway thru Hicksville, a state highway, has hung over the head of retailers on the west side of the street for upwards of five years. And although rumors are a dime a dozen, the best informed sources say it may be months before anything happens because no money has been appropriated for the big project.

So, while we have this little period to prepare we believe there should be a concerted effort by the Town of Oyster Bay, Hicksville Chamber of Commerce and other official or semi-official agencies to have the LI Lighting Co bury those power lines either underground or behind the stores.

The village of Hempstead has not a single overhead power line (except Christmas decorations at this time). The LILCO recently ran a big power line smack thru the heart of Hicksville, erecting towering poles in parking lots (painted green so you won't notice them) with narry a whisper of protest. The same proposal out in Smithtown has raised a storm of opposition.

We are not opposed to the Lighting Co. We believe they try hard and do a good job (as witness the restoration of service during the Nov. 9 blackout of the grid). However, unless someone speaks up now, we are going to be confronted with those ugly overhead power lines on Broadway for the next generation or more.

Holiday Decorations

It looks very much, at this point, that Hicksville will go thru its second holiday season without lighting displays in the business section with the exception of the wonderful community tree sponsored by our fine service organizations and some individual merchant efforts.

The absence of those strings of lights over Broadway does not bother us so much. They were pretty simple and uninspiring. However, the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce to get some cooperation from the Long Island Rail Road makes us wonder. The Chamber some months ago communicated with the LIRR with a view to putting some kind of seasonal message on the bridges which now cross Broadway, Jerusalem Ave., Marie St., Nicholas St. and Old Country Rd. This could have been effective. We have seen this done in Baldwin.

But the LIRR has not even bothered to answer correspondence from the Chamber. (We know the LIRR is slack in its mail dept. because we wrote a letter a year ago and have yet to get an answer.)

Last year the Chamber tried to do the same thing and the answer came back that the structures were still under the jurisdiction of the contractor--the job had not as of then been turned over to the Rail Road. But what can possibly be the excuse this year?

PBC Needs Sponsors

The Hicksville Police Boys Club has issued an urgent appeal for adults who will act as sponsors. All interested are invited to drop in at the PBC Clubhouse, 85 Bethpage Rd., Hicksville, any evening between 7 and 9:30 PM or contact Patrolman Director Frank Darcy at WE 1-9387. Urgently needed are basketball and baseball coaches. The ladies are invited to join the auxiliary.

IT WAS 1948 but the scene was something out of 1648 when Hicksville celebrated its 300th birthday of founding with a community-wide eight-day program of activities. The committee in charge set the pace by dressing in colonial costumes for the opening event, the proclamation read by Don Smatlak on horseback as town crier, at the Hicksville Courthouse. Committee chairmen in costume were, from center to right, Bernard Braun, Edna Kuhne Sutton, Mary Haughey, General Chairman Gertrude Welterauer, Sarah Huettner and Fred J. Noeth. In the weeks to come the HERALD will publish pictures of many of the floats in the big parade which climaxed the festivities.

Jan. 14, 1914—Henry Ford revolutionized the manufacture of automobiles by inaugurating his "assembly line," a new technique that permitted the assembly of a car while it was in continuous motion. In 1913, before the assembly line, Ford mechanics spent at least 12½ hours putting a car together. Beginning with this date in 1914, complete assembly took only 93 minutes.

LIVING UNDER LAW

Who Owns a Letter?

Interesting letters may give birth to interesting notions.

Such as: "I'd better not throw away this letter from Fred. He might become famous some day, and then the letter could be worth a lot of money as a collector's item."

Suppose Fred really does become famous and his letter valuable. Would it belong to you, because it was sent to you? Or would it belong to Fred because he created it?

The law's deft solution is to divide the ownership of a letter into two separate rights—the right of possession and the right of publication. The recipient has the right of possession of the paper and ink.

He may keep the letter as a memento, sell it to a collector, or even toss it onto a bonfire if he pleases.

But the right of publication—to make copies and exploit it as a literary work—still belongs to the original writer.

This division of rights was illustrated in a famous lawsuit involving some personal letters written by Mary Baker Eddy, founder of Christian Science. After Mrs. Eddy's death, her executor tried to prevent the auctioning of these letters.

The court ruled that the sale itself could not be prevented, because Mrs. Eddy had given away the right of possession when she first mailed the letters. But the court did forbid reprinting of the letters in the advertisements of the auction, because Mrs. Eddy had never given away the right of publication.

As a rule, the separate rights of possession and publication will be kept intact. For the law is simply lending form to the instinctive promptings of fair play.

Famous Hoaxes Hoodwinked The Rich, Poor and The Smart

Ever since the serpent sold Eve a bill of goods about that apple, people the world over have been swallowing one hoax after another, some on a grand scale, and almost all designed to separate the gullible from their money.

Take the Cardiff Giant. The discovery of this 10 1/2-foot tall "petrified man" by well diggers on a farm at Cardiff, N.Y., in 1869 caused a nationwide furor. Ministers drew ominous meaning from this event, scientists expounded theories at the rate of one a day...and people flocked through the admission gates in a steady stream.

Before professors from Cornell and Yale Universities exposed the Cardiff Giant as a gigantic hoax, (the "giant" had been carved from Iowa gypsum the year before and secretly buried on the farm), the perpetrator of the hoax had tapped the people's pockets for thousands of dollars.

A similar hoax of the late 19th century—but this one exhibited "in living flesh and blood"—was the Jersey Devil, displayed by a Philadelphia museum whose headline-hunting press agent had capitalized on an old wives' tale. The legend would have people believe that the devil is the transformed seventh child of a Jersey mother who cursed it before birth.

The monstrosity that the Americans paid their dimes to see was, in reality, a decked-out kangaroo with artificial wings attached! And an expert at the Smithsonian Institute went so far as to solemnly declare that the creature might be a prehistoric animal that had survived in a cave or cavern.

Forty-six elephants were involved in one of the most colorful schemes in the tax records of the Internal Revenue Department. In 1927, "Honest" John Kelley, lawyer for a famous circus, reported that the show was forced to "abandon" some of its animal performers when it moved its winter quarters to Sarasota, Florida, from Bridgeport, Connecticut. He thus claimed enormous tax deductions for 23 camels, 18 bears, 23 lions, 800 horses and 46 elephants—all of which were presumably left to walk the streets of the Connecticut city until they were taken in by sympathetic citizens!

Some of the cruelest hoaxes have been perpetrated by medical quacks peddling "cures" for almost every disease, ranging from arthritis to cancer. One California man made several million dollars by selling a "magic box" which supposedly sent out waves that could treat and cure almost any human ill. And examples of this kind are not rare.

But the amazing is often true. What if a research scientist announced today that he has discovered a medication that relieves pain, reduces fever (although it will not alter a normal temperature), alleviates inflammation (especially in arthritis), will help you sleep (although it is not a sleeping pill), is one of the safest drugs known, and sells for a fraction of a penny a tablet. A hoax? Not at all. Such a product does exist. It is aspirin, which has been around for over 60 years. It is the most widely used medicine in the world, with Americans taking about 16 billion tablets a year. Just recently the Bayer Company produced its 100 billionth aspirin tablet.

Getting back to hoaxers, consider Jean-Pierre Schecroun, once a brilliant student at Paris' Ecole des Beaux-Arts, who was unable to make a name for himself in the highly competitive French art market—and found it more profitable to turn out phony Braques and Picassos. For two years Jean-Pierre baffled even the experts, and picked up nearly a quarter of a million dollars, until his grand deception was uncovered in 1963.

He did only drawings, water-colors and pastels. Why not oil paintings? "They take too long," Schecroun explained.

One of history's most successful hoaxes was engineered by a French peasant girl named Therese Daurignac. One day in the early 1880's, she began showing her neighbors a duly attested copy of a will leaving her $20,000,000. The bequest was made by a rich American, in gratitude for her having nursed him through illness.

No one ever saw his money; the "legacy" was forever tied up in legal technicalities carefully invented by Mademoiselle Daurignac. But on the strength of it, she persuaded French bankers, over a 20-year period, to lend her $12,000,000!

Those who have tried to get rich quickly by cashing bogus checks have sometimes shown a sense of humor. The FBI reports that one hot check passer wrote his drafts on such fictitious institutions as "The East Bank of the Mississippi." Another "paperhanger" signed his checks, "U.R. Stuk" and "N. O. Good."

The record for passing bad checks was set by the late Frederick Emerson Peters, who, by dint of some 200 impersonations, netted himself $250,000 with 28,000 rubber checks. But he was possessed by the spirit of charity. Among his many philanthropies was a silver chalice for a cathedral in Washington, D.C.

Peters paid for the chalice with a check, of course. And the check bounced—of course.

"Before you list the other fellow's faults, take time out to count up to ten—ten of your own." Harold S. May, The Florence (Ala.) Herald.

"Found out why the bridegroom never gets a shower... he's all washed up anyway." Dale Holdridge, The Langford (S. Dak.) Bugle.

"Training means learning the rules. Experience means learning the exceptions." Gerald K. Young, The Blakesburg (Iowa) Excelsior.

When the going seems easy, it could be that you are going down hill. John Maverick, The Cherryvale (Kans.) Republican.

"Courtesy is one of the best helps in traveling life's highways." John C. Beckett, The Independent, Nashville, Tenn.

This month veterans or their survivors receiving non-service connected pensions will find the annual Income Questionnaire in their pension check envelopes. Assistance in filling out these forms was offered by Frank V. Votto, State Director of Veterans Affairs. Mr. Votto urged those needing help in filling out the forms can get it by going to the New York Division of Veterans Affairs, 270 Broadway or 130 Clinton Street, Brooklyn. The form must be filled out by the veteran or his survivor who have received pensions prior to July 1, 1960. Those who have been added to the pension rolls since July 1960 must fill out a net worth statement. Deadline for return is January 31, 1966.

The Veterans Administration reminds veterans with a service-connected disability or a non-service connected disability who are eligible to take advantage of the re-opened National Life Insurance Program that they have less than six months to do so. May 2, 1966 is the deadline. Increases in compensation for veterans with service-connected disabilities begin next year. These increases will range from $1 per month for veterans with a 10% disability to $50 a month for those classified at 100% disabled.

For the more seriously disabled such as suffering from multiple amputations the increases will be substantially more and may total as much as $800. For veterans whose disabilities exceed 50%, the law also provides increases of approximately 10% in additional allowances, because of dependents. Other changes affecting dependents increase from 21 to 23 years the age limit of a child attending school on whose behalf a dependency allowance may be paid. The additional allowance for such children has been increased to a monthly maximum of $40.

Noel 1965

THE SILENCE of the night air is interrupted—A squeaking door—a patter of little feet on the stairs—muffled giggles—excited whispers—the clicking of a light switch.

Yes, the pre-dawn of another Christmas day has come to the home. The neat piles of gifts, so meticulously wrapped, under the star-spangled tree are torn asunder—the room becomes a maelstrom of colorful ribbon—a sea of wrapping paper of kaleidoscopic hues—and a cyclonic display of Santa's best wares are scattered hither and yon—youngsters darting from one gift to another like busy bees in a flower garden in full bloom.

And as the sun gently rises over the horizon, the kitchen becomes the clattering cacophony of dishes and bowls, pots and pans, that finally merge into a Christmas dinner—fit for a King.

Then when the final hour has arrived—guests departed, tired but happy youngsters are tucked into bed for the night—quiet has been restored—the exhausted parents in the stillness of the night pause to reflect—how much of this day has been devoted to the true spirit of Christmas.

The joy engendered by the family gathering pays tribute to family life, which after all, epitomizes Christmas—and helps to provide a fitting recognition to the Prince of Peace.

'It's Christmas Time again, and as this season fortells the passing of another year, we think of those who have helped make that year so very enjoyable. ## Yule Cards Create New U.S. Industry

A new industry was born when the first regularly published American Christmas cards were introduced in 1875 by Louis Prang, the grandfather of all American greeting cards.

Thirty-two years earlier, John Calcott Horsley, R. A., painter and illustrator designed the first known Christmas cards for his friend Sir Henry Cole, the inaugural and first director of the Victoria and Albert Museum in London, England.

While no authenticated "first" American Christmas card has been discovered, some historians believe that R. H. Pease, a lithographer of Albany, New York may have pioneered the first American Yuletide greeting which he lithographed about 1845. The card included a "commercial" by extending a "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year" from "Peace's Great Variety Store—in The Temple of Fancy."

Prang, a skilled printer from Germany, arrived in Boston in 1850 and opened a small lithographing shop where he specialized in delicately-tinted flower prints.

By 1870, he was well established in Roxbury, Mass., where his reproductions of oil paintings were so finely executed that he enjoyed a sizable business in England in competition with leading publishers there.

A woman employee in his London office suggested that he print "Merry Christmas" on some of his floral prints. By 1874, he had developed a good British Christmas card trade, and hence felt encouraged to offer his cards to the American public in 1875.
