Days Numbered For Courthouse Built in 1895?

The Hicksville Courthouse building at Heitz Pl and Bay Ave which it is reported will soon be levelled to the ground under plan of Nassau County for more road widening and tree removal dates back over 70 years. The small brick building in the rear, nearly concealed from public view by the over grown planting goes back 80 years.

While the building has not been used for many years the courthouse itself has been used as a court of the justice of peace and in more recent years by the County District court system. It is still a District Court with court offices on the second floor.

The site of the courthouse was deeded on Aug. 19, 1893 by Arnold C. Heitz, one of the men responsible for the replanting of many stately trees in the community. He also donated the land for the old school on Nicholas St and for several local churches.

Oyster Bay Town Clerk's records show that the last bid for construction of the frame two story courthouse, complete with cupola was received on July 12, 1895.

Over the years the building was known local as the "town hall" and was the scene of many political conventions for the entire township. During World War II, Selective Service Board 712 has housed in a wing of the building and hundreds of men said their last farewells as civilians to their loved ones on its tree-shaded and (in those days) well-kept grounds. And after the war, the Town established its Veterans' Service Agency in that same wing of the courthouse to help vets on their return to civilian life. The Vet Agency is now located in the Town Hall Annex on Broadway, Hicksville.

Against Law to Cut Down a Tree 280 Years Ago

It is a matter of historic record that Feb. 13, 1686 at Oyster Bay the town ordered that "no trees be cut down or felled in the street or common, under five shilling penalty for each tree; but anyone may lop a tree growing before his door or his fence that may be an annoyance provided he cannot kill the tree."

For many years the second floor served as the living quarters for the town constable, a post held by Charles Hafner until 1938, when he became a court marshal. By 1948 the second floor had been converted to court office space.

The HERALD has learned from reliably informed, but unofficial sources, that the county court system plans to rent modern office space for the 4th District Court in another area of the community. In addition, the grounds have been allowed to go into disrepair. The building is owned by the Town of Oyster Bay and rented to the County of Nassau for a nominal annual rental. In return the maintenance of the structure is the responsibility of the County.

Indignant residents, aghast at the present rate of tree destruction and upheaval on the public streets, have begun the organization of a community effort to "Save Our Historic Courthouse." Newer residents as well as longtime homeowners are both vocal in their concern as expressed to the HERALD.

School Board Zips Thru First Monday

The Hicksville Board of Education during its first regular session of the new fiscal year, Monday night, concluded its business in a swift one hour and thirty-five minutes, including several top level administrative appointments.

Acting on the recommendations of School Superintendent Donald F. Abt, the Board unanimously appointed:

Leon Galloway, long time member of the faculty and more recently principal of the senior high school, to the new position of Administrative Assistant for Vocational Education and Fine Arts (adult education and summer schools included).

Irwin Rozman as head of the senior high school guidance dept. He has been with the district since Sept. 1967 and became a senior high guidance counselor in 1961.

Samuel Royce as head of the junior high school guidance dept. He has been with the district since Sept. 1958 as a junior high counselor.

Samuel Goldberg as head of the senior high foreign language dept. He joined the district in Sept. 1955 in the foreign language dept.

The Board also acted upon a new Senior High School principal at $20,000, the appointment to be effective "as soon as possible." It has since been learned that the New Jersey man chosen will not be available.

Action was not taken on several other openings in the staff including an Administrative Assistant for Curriculum Development and Federal Funds, junior high school principal, an elementary principal and three elementary assistant principals.

At the beginning of the session Dr. John Rouse, language arts supervisor of the district, spoke and answered questions for a 50-minute period regarding curriculum development in his field.

President George A. Jackson made the following committee appointments with other to follow: Delegate to PTA Council, Evelyn Silver; Scholarship, Caleb Hornbostel; delegate to Nassau Suffolk School Board, Harry Kershen; Flanagan Report, Marvin Goldberg; Adult Education, Cornelius McCormack; Bus Inspection, Mrs. Silver, Harold Sternberger, Goldberg and Kershen; Policy, Sternberger.

Oppose Civilian Police Review

Participants in the June balloting of the Meadow Brook National Bank Community Opinion Poll opposed a civilian dominated police review board by a vote of 68% to 30% according to results released today by the Bank.

In Hicksville, the vote was 67.5% against, 29.9% for and 2.6% undecided, according to George Steiner, manager of Meadow Brook's Hicksville office.

The idea of extending the city subway system to Nassau and Suffolk Counties received the approval of almost two out of three voters in the overall poll. Locally, 68.2% were in favor of the proposal 29.6% were opposed.

In response to their questions asked by the Bank Poll, an overwhelming majority supported proposed legislation to combat air pollution and a large majority were for increased action at the community level to conserve our natural resources.

In Hicksville, the vote was 86.2% in favor of air pollution legislation, 12.6% against and 1.2% were undecided. At the same time 83.7% felt greater action was needed at the community level to preserve our natural resources, 13.7% were opposed to the idea and 2.6% were unable to decide either way.

Girls Cadet Corps Could Use Your Financial Aid

The seven-year-old St. Ignatius Girls Cadet Corps has been representing Hicksville in marching and maneuvering competitions on Long Island, several neighboring states and Canada, bringing fame and glory to the entire community. They have three major engagements ahead of them and could use assistance of community minded residents, organizations and business firms to assist with the expenses of travel and uniforms for the 68 girls, ages 10 to 19.

The Corps will be in Albany on July 22 for the State American Legion Convention and in Washington, D.C., on Aug. 27 for the National Legion Convention under the auspices of the Charles Wagner Post, American Legion.

They can use a substantial finance lift for a trip to Lynn, Mass., for the World Open Championship of Drum and Bugle Corps, Aug. 20. Their director notes that it will cost $25 a girl for food and lodging for the World Open.

Contributions may be sent to Thomas R. Costa, Director, St. Ignatius Girls Cadet Corps, 4 Brooks St., Hicksville.

Sausmer Joins West Side Exodus

Sausmer's Hardware on Broadway, after 45 years in business in Hicksville, is going out of business. A sale of all merchandise and fixtures starts today (Thurs) according to Myron Sausmer who has been manager of the store for 30 years. His father, David, who started the business, came to Hicksville from Glen Cove when the local population was about one-tenth its present size. The elder Sausmer and his wife will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary next year.

The departure of Sausmer's will make even more desolate the west side of Broadway, running south from Herzog Pl. Several long-time business concerns have left, never to return, with the scheduled widening of Broadway (a state highway) slicing 40 feet off the front of the building line.

The Chamber of Commerce recently dispatched another urgent request to state legislative representatives, enclosing copies of the HERALD, seeking positive information regarding the widening, evacuation, demolition, etc.

Meanwhile, Gov. Rockefeller announced in Albany that a list of highway, parkway and RR grade crossing elimination projects advanced to bid opening during the first six months of this year hit a peak of $279,627,275. However, the list contained no mention of routes 107 or 106 (Broadway and Newbridge Rd.).

John, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Coffey of 6th St., Hicksville, attended the week-long introduction to State and Municipal government during the week of June 29th. Sponsored by the Charles Wagner Post, the youth had the distinction of being elected to the position of Municipal Court Judge at the well known Legion program held at the State Agricultural and Technical University. EDITORIAL OPINION

The Civic Spirit

It was 40 years ago when a meeting was called in the high school, thru the initiative of the late Arthur Crossley and others, for the purpose of voting to establish a Hicksville Public Library. The first Board of Trustees included Dr. Bernard Webster, chairman; Mrs. Charles Voigt, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. E. A. Van Slyke, Miss Louise Augustin and Miss Emily Fippinger. The library was officially opened on Feb. 6, 1928 in a second floor classroom in Nicholas St. School. It has come a long ways since those days.

Aside from noting to the anniversary of the Library, we call attention to how the library was started because it illustrates a civic spirit of that period in a time when many worthwhile projects were undertaken. There was dedicated unselfish, sometimes misunderstood, leadership.

It must have been something about the size of the community (it was 5,500 in 1926) with its well-kept homes and tree-lined streets that drew to it men and women of energy who sought to improve and make living here more enjoyable. Certainly the Chamber of Commerce spirit was in the air. (A 1927 advertisement for the community listed such features as paved streets, city water, electric lights).

That same spirit of getting things done, being proud of the town, its school athletic teams, etc continued right up until 1948 when the population was 16,000. Then came the selling off of the farm lands, subdivisions and thousands of new dwellings springing up in a matter of months. Former School Superintendent E. H. LeBarron was fond of telling the story that he went on his summer vacation one year and came home to find he was confronted with the additional enrollment of youngsters from 2,000 homes built during that summer. The too-rapid growth brought with it large civic problems and misunderstandings between "old timers" and "newcomers" and the business of working together seemed to fade.

Lately we have noticed a rejuvenation of interest as the business section gets seedy and goes to pot and the trees come down and the bulldozers chug and churn. We meet folks now who say proudly, "why, I've been living here for 15 years now." The subdivisions have developed their own cozy atmosphere and those youngsters who were just starting school when mom and dad settled here are now away at college or have gotten married.

Whether we can recapture some of that civic spirit that started a public library and raised $1,219.97 thru a Choral Concert to buy the first books and equipment, remains to be seen. We can sure use it.

Pageantry in Brass

By the St. Ignatius Girls Cadet Corps

This past week has been a busy one to say the least. The girls put in three full nights of practice in order to complete their drill by Saturday evening, July 9.

The girls appeared in Babylon, and the show they put on was tremendous. Showmanship was high and the competition was great, but the girls proved to all who saw them that they have all it takes to be a good Marching and Maneuvering Corps.

The Drill, written by Mr. Carmen Chuna, displays a beautiful general effect and was written to emphasize each girl's ability and the best the Corps can give to the highest degree. Music, arranged by Mr. Hy Drietzler for the horn line and Mr. Don Friesing for the drum line, is also written to bring out the best in the girls. This fine arrangement coupled with the teamwork and spirit of the girls blends perfectly for a beautiful and effective show.

The girls are also preparing for their own Marching and Maneuvering Contest, Pageantry in Brass, to be held July 30 at 8:00 P.M. at St. Raphael's field, East Meadow. The girls are currently selling tickets in the Hicksville area.

Some of our younger members have a little trouble pronouncing Pageantry. One young lady was selling tickets to 'Perjury in Brass'. Don't be frightened by the sound of the title the show is worth seeing no matter what it is called.

Congratulations to Cathy Larkin, one of our bass baritone players, graduated from Queen of the Rosary Academy. Cathy plans to continue her studies at Farmingdale Agricultural Institute, where her major field will be Dental Technology.

William M. Gouse, Jr.
Post No. 3211
by Eddie Klebing

With the enactment of the new GI Bill of Rights a steady stream of questions concerning benefits available under this new law are finding their way into the Veterans Administration, newspapers, magazines or wherever an answer to the inquiries can be had. Below are some representative queries.

Q.- How much training does I receive under the new GI Bill?
A.- Each eligible person will be entitled to educational assistance for a period of one month or the equivalent in part time training for each month of his service on active duty after January 31, 1955, but not to exceed 36 months.

Q.- What federal Civil Service preference rights does the post-Korean GI bill give me? I had active duty from May 30, 1960 to June 1, 1961 and received an honorable discharge.

A.- Five point preference in competitive examination for federal Civil Service jobs will be added to the competitive examination scores of veterans discharged after January 31, 1955. Ten points will be added for veterans with service connected disability or who hold a Purple Heart.

Q.- What part of my tuition and cost of books and supplies does the VA pay under the educational provisions of the new

GI bill?

A.- None. If you have been discharged from service and are attending full school under the new GI bill the VA pays you $100 a month if you have no dependents; $125 with one dependent; and $150 with two or more dependents. The rate is proportionate for three fourths or one half time. You pay for your own tuition, books and supplies.

Q.- Will my earning from full time employment have any effect on the amount of training allowance I will receive while going to night school under the new GI bill?

A.- No. Whether you attend school full time or part time, daytime or nighttime, income will not affect the amount of training allowance paid.

Q.- Besides guaranteeing home loans, what other type are granted under the new GI bill? How about business loans to start a business?

A.- Business loans are not authorized. GI loans may be made for the purchase of homes, farms, farm supplies or equipment, or to obtain farm working capital; also to make alterations, repairs or improvements in homes already owned and occupied; or to finance delinquent indebtedness on the property.

Press Assn. Sets Dinner on Sept 30

The Nassau County Press Assn. with a membership representing 40 community publications in the county including The Beacon Publications will hold its annual Dinner-Dance at Carl Hoppl's Baldwin on Friday night, Sept. 30. Charles Koenig, publisher of the Long Island Graphic announces the program for the evening will include the formal installation of Assn. officers, several recognitions, dancing and a floor show.

Being recognized by the Press Assn. are Assemblyman John S. Thorp, Jr. and State Senator Edward J. Speno who were instrumental in assisting the Nassau publishers in achieving more realistic legal advertising rates as mandated by the State of New York. Last month Governor Nelson Rockefeller signed into law legislation introduced by Mr. Thorp and Mr. Speno providing more equitable rates in line with current production costs.

The Press Assn. will honor retiring President Fred Simon, publisher of the Elmonitor. His successor will be George E. Fey, publisher of the Southeaster.

Tickets for the gala event are available from all member-publishers of the Association or from Ticket Chairman S. Nicholas Napoli, publisher of the Baldwin Citizen (BA 3-4600). More than 600 persons attended the 1965 dinner.

OVERDRIVE: Art Silvestone, former L. I. Amateur and Open champion, spends his Mondays off from his job as pro of Rock Hill Golf and Country Club, keeping in trim—by driving golf balls at the Douglaston Golf Range, on Northern Blvd., just east of Belt Parkway. Art, who shot the lowest (73) qualifying round for the U. S. Open, of all Long Island aspirants, also teaches at the Douglaston Range on Mondays. Between lessons, Art is supplied with buckets of practice balls by Bob Black, popular proprietor of the Range. (Graphic News Photos)

United Nations of Fish:

L. I. DINING SPOTS VIE FOR MOST EXOTIC FISH DISPLAYS

DEEP TALE: An amused viewer and her pet poodle watch some 200 exotic fish, from some 40 areas of the globe, worth more than $2,000, float gently through one of the many elaborate aquaria displays exhibited on Long Island, at the Coral House, widely-known restaurant and catering hall at Baldwin. The display, part of a new rage that is sweeping Long Island because of its relaxing, entertaining, and educational features, introduces new aquatic species like "Blue Angels," "Clown Loaches" and "Tri-colored Sharks." Aquatic Productions Co., a new Long Island enterprise, prepares special underwater scenes for their clients, including restaurants, bars, offices, waiting rooms, lobbies, and homes. They rent and maintain aquaria from Manhattan to Montauk Point. (Graphic News Photos)

At Centereach "Jamboree":

BROOKHAVEN CATV PREVIEWED BY 20,000

More than 20,000 persons crowded a large circus tent in Centereach, during a three-day "Jamboree" staged by Brookhaven CATV Corp. last month to see how "crystal-clear" programs of 12 New York and Connecticut channels will be delivered to their homes by the franchised firm, a subsidiary of Broadway Maintenance Corp. Left, Brookhaven CATV's antenna tower, at Selden, in 450 feet above sea level. Right, a group of jamboree guests enjoy TV snacks while watching reception of channels heretofore unavailable to them.

CLOSED CIRCUIT: As announcer Gene Ladd (center, right) interviews guests at the jamboree, Norman Lipkins, president of Brookhaven CATV Corp. turns on Channel 6 for the first telecast on the system. Channel 6 will give subscribers time, temperature, weather data, public service bulletins and FM music on a 24-hour basis. New York Giants Football games from Connecticut Channel will be an "extra" bonus. (Graphic News Photos by Miyata)
