Extended Care Now Available

A new part of the medicare law started on Jan. 1, according to Daniel H. Newman, Acting Social Security Manager. This is the part that pays for skilled nursing care provided elderly people following their discharge from the hospital.

Medicare will pay for up to 100 days of skilled nursing care in an "extended care facility" following a hospital stay of three days or more, Newman said. An extended care facility can be a skilled nursing home, or it can be a separate but distinct part of an institution, such as a ward or wing of a hospital.

"Extended care," Newman explained, "is a cross between hospital care and the traditional nursing home care." Care in an extended care facility will combine the quality of medical treatment ordinarily given in a hospital environment with the opportunity for the patient's increased activity and self-reliance during the recuperation period.

In one sense, Newman said, the stay in an extended care facility will be a substitute for time that before would have been spent in the hospital. For example, a medicare patient who before might go into a hospital and spend 15 days may now stay in the hospital for only 10 days and then be transferred to a qualified extended care facility for continued treatment.

In line with the purpose of the extended care benefit, only persons who have been treated in a hospital for at least three consecutive days and enter the extended care facility within 14 days of hospital release for treatment of the same illness, are eligible for this special benefit, Newman said.

As an extension of hospital treatment the skilled nursing home stay will normally be fairly short, Newman said. Medicare will pay the full cost of the first 20 days in the extended care facility and all but $5 a day for an additional 80 days. Newman emphasized that medicare will not pay for long-term care in a custodial nursing home.

In the past, Newman said, this special kind of care in an extended care facility has not been readily available and, therefore, very few people have really experienced it. The skilled nursing benefit under medicare will encourage the development of skilled nursing homes and support a new and important trend in medical care.

Pageantry in Brass

By the St. Ignatius Girls Cadet Corps.

The Corps attends approximately thirty to forty functions a year and each one holds something for each of us to remember. The smallest parade or the biggest contest reveals a host of experiences.

Last week, we were invited to perform at the Convention for the nomination of the Republican candidate for the office of Nassau County Executive. Everyone has seen a convention on television, but few of us have had the opportunity to get in on the excitement. And excitement is an understatement.

We seem to have an uncanny ability to fit in wherever we go, and this was no exception. In fact it was "right up our alley." This was one of the few times when the louder you are the more you're appreciated.

Naturally we were more than willing to comply with the wishes of the committee men. Of course, aside from the excitement, we felt we were a small part of the happenings we usually read from the inanimate pages of a history book.

This Sunday, March 12, we will take part in the traditional St. Patrick's Day parade in Hempstead. Both our first and second Corps will represent the people of Hicksville in this parade.

This ad is about money. It may not be for you.

Think your present checking account is the last word in handling your money? We have news for you. There's a new way, designed to meet the demands and opportunities of today.

We call it Checking Plus.

Checking Plus

Checking Plus is not for everyone. It's only for responsible people, who understand and appreciate its flexibility and convenience.

People who like to keep most of their money invested and working, and still have funds to draw on, if necessary.

People who want protection from sudden emergencies and the opportunity to get in on unexpected good buys.

People whose income is certain but irregular, such as doctors, lawyers, architects and salesmen.

People who want to establish credit just once, and not have to establish it again each time they take out a loan.

Checking Plus is the new idea in checking accounts recently introduced by First National City Bank. A checking account that gives you real freedom, even to avoiding the embarrassment of accidentally over-drawing your account.

We think Checking Plus is the checking account of the future.

Checking Plus works like any other checking account. You write checks the same way. But you have a plus! You have more money than your balance to draw on. A cash reserve. First National City sets this money aside for your use if and when you need it.

Your reserve may be as little as $400 or as much as $5,000.

$400-5,000

Any time you write a check for more than you have in your account, we automatically take enough money out of your reserve (in multiples of $100) and credit it to your account.

If you don't use any of it, you don't pay a cent. Many people just want the security of knowing it's there.

If you do use part or all of the reserve, you are charged for the portion transferred to your account. The charge is 1% per month.

Repay as soon as you want, or take as long as one or two years. If you repay in, say, 10 days, your charge is only 10/30ths of 1%.

As soon as you repay any part of the reserve, it's ready to use again.

Another plus in Checking Plus is the special Identification Card. It's yours for the asking, and lets you cash your Checking Plus checks at any one of our branches.

If you can appreciate what money in reserve can mean to you, and the freedom and convenience it gives you, come see us at First National City. Any branch in the five boroughs, Nassau or Westchester.

Ask about Checking Plus, the modern checking account with a standby cash reserve.

Peace of mind never cost so little.
