House Struck by Lightning

Capt. Owen Magee

During Friday March 3rds early morning thunder storm, a house at 23 Robbins La. (Cantigue Park area) was struck by lightning. The single family dwelling suffered considerable damage. Firemen were hampered by heavy rain and high winds and dense smoke. The alarm was turned in at 6:52 AM and 50 Hicksville firemen and 7 pieces of apparatus responded. Asst. Chief Roy Schaaf was in charge. The tremendous force of the bolt also damaged the house next door. Firemen were on the scene for several hours. There were no injuries reported. Three fire alarm box circuits were also knocked out of service by lightning on Friday, causing damage to new equipment in the dispatchers office. The parts are on order and the three circuits have been connected to other circuits that were not damaged. A garage fire on March 1st at 8:00 PM at 47 Pine Street caused slight damage to the structure and due to other recent fires there the fire marshals office is conducting a routine investigation.

Abortion Pro Heard by N.C. Supervisors

By Janet Gosnell

The recent county action to ban all elective abortions at the Nassau County Medical Center, taken last week, spurred the biggest attendance in recent months at the Board of Supervisors meeting on Monday, bringing about 325 people to the Mineola hearing room to support or slam the current abortion legislation and the county's action.

The action was taken on the basis that medicaid funds, according to state law, would not be allotted for elective abortions. According to the county executive, allowing those who could pay to have abortions and disallowing those who couldn't would amount to discriminatory practices.

"Reverse the ban. Don't force us to take you into court again. We always win." Those were the words of Bill Baird, director of the Parents' Aid Society, who is no stranger to the court room and to abortion

Sand-Casted Candles Demonstration

The Hicksville Public Library with the cooperation of the Cultural and Performing Arts Division of the Town of Oyster Bay Department of Recreation and Community Activities, will have Mrs. Trudy Stein give a lecture demonstration on Sand-Casted candles on Wednesday afternoon, March 22, from 12:45 to 2:45.

This is a new craft not yet fully explored by current women's magazines. Mrs. Stein will demonstrate the molding in sand of beautiful and lasting candles, free-form hanging planters and lovely serviceable flower pots decorated with honeycomb wax flowers ideal for centerpieces. On display at the Library are some of the examples of this craft made by Mrs. Stein. She will also offer simple techniques in candle-making using ordinary household molds and helpful hints on the use of various waxes, wicks, scents, color, ice, equipment, etc.

In its continuing efforts to bring a variety of interesting and enriching activities to the community, this is the second program that CAPA is presenting to the women of Hicksville at the library.

PROS AND CONS on present abortion legislation were about equally represented in an overflow crowd of about 325 persons who jammed the hearing room for the Nassau County Board of Supervisors meeting on Monday, a follow-up to the recent county action to ban elective abortions at the Nassau County Medical Center. Anti-abortionists, top, Marlene Baird, of Plainville, Carol Basso, of Hempstead, and John Short, chairman of the Right to Life committee, pose with one of the many signs which plastered the walls. Below, among these in favor of the present abortion law were representatives of the Monday Workshop, a Merrick study group which examines various sociological problems. The sign reads: Let us "Control our Own Babies." With them is Bill Baird, of the Parents' Aid Society, Hempstead, an abortion clinic.

proceedings. Mr. Baird, one of sixteen speakers who presented pros & cons (equally divided) to the supervisors, said he would attempt to get the Catholic Archdiocese's tax exempt status removed on the basis that it was propagandizing against abortion.

Leading the other side was John Short, of the Right to Life committee, who asked: "which of you, on the Board, is willing to be a spokesman for the unborn children?" promoting repeal of the abortion law.

Some of the signs around the room read: "Caso is Killing Women." "Let us Be Born." "The Devil is Alive and Well - he calls himself Bill Baird."

Those who spoke on both sides were of various ages, with young people predominant on the pro-abortion side. Some grizzly pictures showing dead babies, the result of abortions too late in pregnancy, were shown by a Mary Jane Tobin, speaking against abortion. One woman, moved to tears, asked that abortion be eliminated on the basis that she had been unable to adopt a child, what with the birth rate going down.

Plainview Man Receives Cash Award

Mr. Robert Slomovitz, an Operations Officer with U. S. Customs in New York City, received an award recently when his suggestion, estimated to save the Customs Service about $6800 a year, was put into effect. Mr. Slomovitz's suggestion involves a procedure which would enable teams of import specialists to provide information to the Customs Information Exchange in a shorter period of time than previously by use of typing pools. The Customs Information Exchange circulates to all nine regions of Customs in the United States unusual cases handled in any one region so that each can process similar cases in a like manner.

Mr. Slomovitz joined the Customs Service in 1963 after receiving a BA in economics from Hunter College. He lives at 3 Clark Street, Plainview.

Questions and Answers

Question: I am going to retire next year. I want to find a place away from the usual retirement spots - where it is reasonable to live so I can afford to come back to visit my married children. The books I have don't give me the kind of information I need - for instance, 75 per cent mean temperature could be 115 per cent in summer or 30 per cent in winter.

Answer: You want the Norman Ford books - "Bargain Paradieses of the World", "Florida", "Fabulous Mexico" - Where everything is Cheaper "Utopia is an Island".

These specialize in information important to the person who contemplates moving for all or part of the year - such as rents, taxes, prices of various size houses, local transportation, recreation facilities, availability and price of everyday items such as groceries, dry cleaning, utilities, car repairs, etc.

About foreign places, these will tell you whether you could manage speaking English only the difference in foods available.

Drug Prevention Program

Whether in small rural community or large urban city, drug abuse has become a plague in our nation. Many special groups have been organized to fight drug abuse, and now the Boy Scouts of America is conducting a project in Hicksville to mobilize its BOYPOWER to share in eliminating this problem.

The fact that the Nassau County Council can reach 31,000 members - the largest youth group in this area - makes this an important step to encourage young people to take a stand against drugs and to help each other find wholesome alternatives.

BSA officials accept the fact that it is unrealistic to assume that young men and adults who are unit leaders can become experts on drug abuse. But, they say, it is realistic to assume that they can enlarge the understanding of these key leaders and give them reliable information which they can communicate to others.

An important factor in this program, called Operation Reach, is that these leaders are already dedicated to help youth attain their full potential as young citizens and that they are carrying on from week to week an educational program that is designed for character development, citizenship training, and mental and physical fitness. They will be doing what they are already prepared to do.

The Scout Troop and Explorer Post are the basic units for the BSA, and the whole drug abuse prevention program of Operation Reach is centered in the neighborhood where the unit meets. The young people themselves decide how they want to use the program.

Facts are presented to boys without arguing or preaching or scaring. Youth draws its own conclusions. Based on the BSA experience in training boys, their leaders are following this principle: "Just be honest. Youth can make intelligent decisions. Youth doesn't want to be pushed. It just wants facts."

One of the goals young people are being asked to accept is to "reach for the real highs instead of going for a poor substitute like drugs." The Boy Scouts of America is attempting to meet head on one of the serious major problems of our times. We believe this mobilization of BOYPOWER will be an important contribution toward the ultimate solution of drug abuse.

The festivities start at 9 P.M. with Irish and American music by Tom Connors, featuring Chris Kennedy, renowned Irish accordionist and entertainment. William Patrick Collins, Division president has appointed John Harty, as Master of Ceremonies of the evening.

Income Taxes- What's Deductible?

SMALL BUSINESSMEN AND SALESMEN HAVE TAX SIMILARITIES

This is the sixth in a series of articles on ways you can save on your Federal income tax returns this year. The articles are written by Henry W. Block, president of H & R Block, Inc., America's largest tax service.

Many small businessmen, salesmen, and other taxpayers are tossing away a portion of their yearly income because they are unaware of the tax laws regarding special methods of handling deductions available to them.

An outside salesman (one who does his selling away from his employer's principal place of business) is allowed to take his travel, entertainment and sales expenses as an adjustment to gross income. After subtracting his adjustments and arriving at adjusted gross income, he has the option of deducting his personal itemized deductions on Schedule A or electing any of the standard deductions available to him. An ordinary employee, other than an outside salesman, may take his travel expenses as an adjustment, but his sales and entertainment expenses must be taken as an itemized deduction on Schedule A.

The self-employed person is in a position similar to that of the outside salesman since his business expenses are also deducted before. Most self-employed persons (small businessmen, doctors, lawyers, etc.) deduct their expenses on Schedule C, although in the case of those who are members of a partnership the expenses are deducted on Form 1065 and the net figure is transferred over to Schedule E of Form 1040.

OFFICE IN YOUR HOME

If you maintain an office in your home (for example, a doctor's office or salesman's office, when your employer does not provide you with office space) you may be able to deduct that portion of your home expenses attributable to your office space. If you own your home, you should keep records of your expenses for utilities, insurance, interest and real estate taxes and deduct that proportionate share which goes for your office. For example, if your office occupies 400 square feet out of a total of 1600 square feet, you can deduct one-fourth of these expenses. Remember that taxes and interest are also deductible as itemized deductions and cannot be taken twice. If you rent your home, you apply the same fraction to your monthly rental payments, plus utilities. If you do not use your space strictly as an office (half the time it is an office and half the time it serves as your den or sewing room) the Internal Revenue Service will use a time-space formula and you will only be allowed a deduction for that period of time when the area is actually used for business purposes.

BUSINESS DRIVING

The cost of any driving for business purposes is deductible. If you rent a car, then deduct the cost of the car rental attributable to business. If you use your own car, certain ground rules must be followed. You must separate your business driving from your personal driving and the best way of doing this is by keeping a diary or log in which you record your mileage for each business trip. The ratio of business to total miles driven is the percentage of total auto expenses which can be deducted for business purposes. Some allowable auto expenses are gas, oil, insurance, licenses, repairs, tires, batteries, finance charges, depreciation, etc. Depreciation is nothing more than the spreading of the cost of an asset over the useful life of the asset rather than deducting the entire cost in the year of purchase (an asset used for business with a useful life of more than one year must be depreciated). Assume that John Smith purchases a car which he will use in his business and further he estimates that the car's useful life to him will be three years. John paid $2900 for the car and estimates that in three years it will be worth $800 (salvage value), leaving $2100 to be depreciated. By using the straight-line method of depreciation (deducting an equal amount for each year of useful life) John will have an annual deduction for depreciation of $700.

Many people have neither the ambition nor the energy to save all of the receipts for car expenses. For them the government allows an optional method of deducting mileage - 12 cents per mile for the first 15,000 business miles and 9 cents per mile thereafter. If you use this method, you are not allowed any deductions for depreciation, repairs, etc. - the 12 cents covers all of the expenses. Regardless of which method you use, you are allowed to deduct your fees for parking and tolls.

In our discussion of office in home expenses, it was noted that interest expense had to be allocated between business and personal use since a deduction for the entire amount of mortgage interest on Schedule would amount to a double deduction insofar as the business portion of the property is concerned. The same rule applies to finance charges on an automobile used for business purposes - with one exception. According to a recent Revenue Ruling, anyone who elects to use the optional standard mileage rate for business driving will still be able to claim the full amount of his finance charges as a personal deduction on Schedule A of Form 1040.

REPORTS

Nassau and Suffolk County legislators are holding public hearings this week to consider legislation to preserve and protect our coastal waters from the potentially damaging effects of oil drilling operations off the coast of Long Island.

In the forefront of this fight to save one of Long Island's most precious resources are State Senators Ralph Marino and George Murphy, and Assemblymen Philip Healy, Joseph Reilly and Joseph Margiotta. These gentlemen are chairing the hearings along with Senators Norman Levy, Leon Guiffreda, and Bernard Smith, chairman of the Committee on Conservation, and Assemblyman Peter Costigan. These legislators are sponsors or co-sponsors of bills providing the state with authority to protect the environment from this potential threat to our shores.

At my request, David Maffrici, director of the Town's Division of Environmental Control, presented a statement in my behalf supporting the proposed legislation. Among the bills under consideration is one banning offshore oil and gas drilling and providing penalties for oil polluters.

Another prohibits leasing, drilling, capping, developing or operating wells. Two others grant the State's Environmental Commissioner the power to review and cancel oil drilling leases within 200 miles of the coast and to levy stiff fines on polluters.

These are all important pieces of legislation, and I urge all Oyster Bay Town residents to give them full support.

TOWN NOTES: We recently welcomed aboard a new Town Councilman, Greg Carman of Farmingdale. This young, dynamic attorney is sure to be an asset to the Town Board.

I join with all concerned Americans in deploring the violence in Northern Ireland and can only hope for a swift and equitable settlement of the issues at stake in a peaceful manner.

Dear Friends :

IN A MOVE AIMED at upgrading the county's battle against drug and alcohol abuse, County Exec Ralph Caso plans to eliminate the Nassau Drug Abuse and Addiction Commission and create a Dept. of Drug and Alcohol Addiction. "After several months of intensive review, I have come to the conclusion that the present operating system is not effective in dealing with the growing drug problem," he said. Mr. Caso said that the new department will also deal with the growing problem of alcoholism. A local law to create a Dept of Drug and Alcohol Addiction is being drawn and was presented to the Board of Supervisors on Monday. It is expected that a public hearing will be held at the March 20 Board of Supervisors meeting. Mr. Caso emphasized that the proposed restructuring will not mean any cutbacks in current programs and services. Why not put that March 20th hearing on your calendar? It should be very worthwhile as it certainly brings up many questions. All of our fine elected officials are more than glad to hear your opinions on matters of this magnitude...it is always a guide to them in their final decisions.

Until next week, stay well, and don't waste a day,
Sincerely,
SHEILA

Caso Says ...

Coliseum To Be Profitable

Nassau County Executive Ralph G. Caso told the Nassau Hub Execs Breakfast at the Hempstead Holiday Inn recently that it appeared likely that the County's new Coliseum at Mitchell Field will break even or nearly so in the first year of operation and that there is every possibility of profits in the future.

He saw this as assurance that the Coliseum's operation would not be a burden on the County's taxpayers. He said that any profits would be transferred to general funds where they would help in reducing the tax burden.

Caso, dressed colorfully to reflect his role at the moment of "promoting the Coliseum", said that obtaining first class attractions at the start was causing others to beat a path to the Coliseum door. He referred to the Nets of the ABA, the Islanders new NHL franchise, the Ice Follies and Peggy Fleming for the April 12 official opening and the Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey Circus in November.

The County Executive said that the Coliseum is already serving to solidify community interest and pride, and people throughout the County are identifying with the Coliseum and its teams. He said that a preview Family Day open house has been scheduled for Sunday, April 8 with free admission for all residents of the County.

Environmental Conservation Commissioner Henry Diamond was the March 8 speaker on "The Environment: Time for Decisions". Presiding Supervisor Francis T. Purcell will address the group on March 15.

Newsday Photographs At Library

The Plainview-Old Bethpage Public Library will host a display of children's photographs taken by "Newsday's" prize-winning staff, from March 15 to 31. The display is entitled "The Two Worlds of Children".

One is a very real world peopled by many grownups, the other is a private world of fantasy. In this exhibit the photographers have captured the moods of Long Island's youngsters as they go about the important business of living in both worlds. The library is open Monday through Friday from 9:30 AM to 9:00 PM and Saturdays from 9:30 AM to 5:30 PM.

Post Offices To Use New "Banks" System

All post offices will start using a new "BANKS" system on March 6 to speed the flow of about $15 billion in annual revenues to a central Postal Service account in the New York (City) Federal Reserve Bank.

The "BANKS" system will reduce the "float" time for post office revenues from an average range of five to seven days to an average of two days.

At present, money, checks and other daily cash credits received by post offices usually require the five to seven days before they are credited to the central account (known technically as the Postal Service "Treasury Symbol" account).

Under the new system, the money will be credited more rapidly for use or investment by the Postal Service.

The reduction in "float" time is expected to increase investment yields substantially for the Postal Service. It will also assist in improving accounting and disbursement procedures, since it will eliminate the uncertainties which have been involved in a relatively slow and varying "float" of revenues from nearly 32,000 post offices.

Starting March 6, postmasters will telephone their daily revenues, toll-free, to a financial reporting firm, National Data Corporation of Atlanta, Georgia. Each day, the firm will report total revenue credits for all post offices to "concentration" banks.

The Postal Service last December 27 announced the names of the 21 concentration or "cash mobilization" banks, chosen from among the nation's largest who had expressed an interest in providing this service.

Each of these 21 banks will consolidate credits for hundreds of post offices—as reported to them daily by the Atlanta firm—and then report the credits to the Federal Reserve, to be applied to the Postal Service account.

Meanwhile, the approximate 32,000 post offices will continue to deposit their actual cash, checks and other negotiable paper in some 9,600 local banks, just as they have done in the past. These banks will then arrange for transfer, through the 21 concentration banks, to the Federal Reserve.

Both the 9,600 local banks and the concentration banks will have the funds on hand sufficient time to compensate them for their handling of the accounts, as well as reimbursement to the Atlanta firm for its services. In addition, since the system will result in greater efficiency in handling daily postal revenues, the banks will benefit.

Postal financial officials report that the banks affected have been favorable to the program.

"Too Expensive":

Caso To Break Welfare System

Nassau County Executive Ralph G. Caso recently revealed a major restructuring of the Social Services Department that will serve as the forerunner to changing the welfare system as it is known today.

"Our aim is to break the highly structured, monolithic system, that, all too often, tends to keep people on welfare and stigmatize them in the eyes of others," Caso stated. "It also is a very expensive system."

The county executive explained that a financial assistance division will be created immediately within the department to put that operation on a more economical, business-like basis.

"It will operate separate and apart from other department functions," Caso explained, noting that legislation pending before Congress would put financial assistance operations under federal control. "Our reorganization plan will expedite the possible transition into the projected federal system," he added.

Social Services Commissioner James M. Stuart pointed out that the public assistance program constituted 85 percent of the 1971 welfare budget, but only 30 percent of the department's staff activity.

"Yet, in the public eye, the welfare check operation completely overshadows such department programs as children's services, the children's shelter, family services, the A. Holly Patterson Home and other services for the elderly," Stuart said.

In an attempt to break this welfare image, the reorganization plan calls for the creation of four service bureaus within the department: Family Bureau, Employment Bureau, Development Bureau, Bureau of the Aged and Youth Bureau.

"The four bureaus will work toward solutions to the problems that are at the root of the welfare syndrome," Caso said. "Services such as family and marriage counseling, family planning, help for the aged, homemaker services and work incentive programs will be aimed at the heart of client problems."

"Your Federal Income Tax" Booklet Topped On Million Mark

Sales of a booklet which gives information on how to fill out Federal tax returns have topped the one million mark since early January, the Postal Service reported today.

The publication, entitled "Your Federal Income Tax," was written by the Internal Revenue Service and contains many examples illustrating how the tax law applies to actual situations.

The Postal Service said the booklet is still available in large and medium-sized post offices (first and second class). Copies are being rushed to post offices in large cities where demand for the booklet has exceeded expectations.

The booklet, written by government experts, consists of 160 pages and costs 75 cents a copy.

First-class post offices also are selling another popular IRS publication called "Tax Guide for Small Business," which gives special guidance to owners of small businesses. The small business tax booklet also sells at 75 cents a copy.

Modular Scheduling for John F. Kennedy High School

On February 28, the Plainview-Old Bethpage Board of Education approved the implementation of Modular Scheduling at the John F. Kennedy High School, effective September 1972.

A presentation of the specific modular scheduling plan to be implemented was presented to the Board of Education by Mr. Barry L. Gleim Principal, Mr. Melvin Gruber and Mr. Irving Pleat, Assistant Principals, and Mr. Stuart Agins, Guidance Department Chairman. For the past three years the faculty and Student Government at John F. Kennedy High School have been investigating the merits of implementing modular scheduling.

The faculty and Student Government have overwhelmingly recommended the implementation of a modular schedule for the coming year. Modular scheduling is a natural outgrowth of a real need to provide a more flexible and individualized program for each student. It is felt that the master schedule reorganization will help in meeting this need.

The implementation of modular scheduling is a continuing aspect of secondary school redesign. The master schedule to be implemented will have seventeen modules of twenty minutes each with three minutes passing time between each module. Time will be provided for independent study projects, large group instruction, regular classroom instruction and seminar groups.

Girl Scouts - Ahead of the Times

It began with a gathering of a small group of girls at the home of a dynamic, forward thinking woman who had said, "something for the girls of Savannah and all America and all the world and we're going to start it tonight."

The date was March 12, 1912; the place was Savannah, Georgia; the woman was Juliette Gordon Low; the "something for all the girls" was Girl Scouting. This was the genesis of an idea which grew to be the spur to action of the 11,750 girls and adults served by Mid-Island Council Girl Scouts, Inc. Because its informal education program has remained flexible through the years and its membership reflects all the diverse backroads of our communities, Mid-Island Girl Scouts have always been ahead of the times. From that first troop of 18 girls 60 years ago, to today's nearly 80,000 girls and adults on Long Island, the byword has been action - social action, interaction, ecological action and community service action - all stemming from the inner awareness and growth of Scout members.

As we mark Girl Scouts' 60th birthday this year, it is our pleasure to extend congratulations and thanks to a youth organization that is a position force for good and an important part of the Long Island scene.

Oyster Bay Public Housing Pays Its Way

Public housing pays off in more ways than one. Oyster Bay Town Supervisor John W. Burke recently received a check for $5,828.37 from Housing Authority Chairman Jesse Harmon as the first payment for the Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. housing project in Oyster Bay Hamlet.

Burke said that this amount, for 9 months of the Housing Authority's 1971 fiscal year, is larger than that paid by the former owner of the property in annual Town taxes.

"The housing project is not only fulfilling a major need in the Town," Burke said, "but also does so without placing a financial burden on the Town."

The payments amount to 10 percent of the shelter rent, which is the total rent paid by the tenants minus the cost of heating and utilities. This form of compensation is used to offset the loss in revenue to the Town since the property is no longer on the tax rolls.

Burke noted that Oyster Bay Town has made significant strides in housing for its older residents since the Oyster Bay Hamlet project opened its doors to the first tenants in July 1970. In addition to the 48 family units and 48 senior citizen units in Oyster Bay, other projects, one of 36 units in Plainville and a 37-unit development in Bethpage, have been opened.

Presently under construction are a 96-unit complex in Syosset, one of 72 units in Hicksville and 75 apartments in Massapequa for a total of 412 housing units.

The Town also has applied to the Department of Housing and Urban Development for funds for an additional 500 units of housing.

Water Conference Told:

How L.I. Sound Could Be A Fresh Water Reservoir

A provocative proposal for converting Long Island Sound into a potential fresh water reservoir was presented to the Long Island Water Conference at its meeting last night (Monday) in Bethpage. The meeting was held at the Holiday Manor.

Proposal was presented by Anthony J. Pansini who was the principal speaker at the Water Conference meeting. Mr. Pansini, engineering and management consultant of Waco, Texas, told how it is feasible to dam up Long Island Sound at both its eastern and western extremities which, in effect, would convert it into a fresh water reservoir.

Mr. Pansini's plan envisions a deep sea port at the extreme eastern end of the Sound; construction of a 17-mile dock facility and a transportation network connecting the Long Island with New England. Mr. Pansini estimates the entire project to cost 1/2 billion dollars.

Seven trillion gallons of fresh water a year would be available to Long Island from the New England watershed because of rainfall, he indicates. He illustrated his remarks with maps and other visual aids.

A professional engineer licensed in New York and Texas, Mr. Pansini is a graduate of Cooper Union. He is a fellow of the American Institute of Electronic and Electrical Engineers, member of the American Society for Testing and Materials, and of the American Association of Cost Engineers. He is the author of "The Northeast Be Dammed" published in 1969 by the Greenvale Press. Prior to moving to Texas, he was with Long Island Lighting Company in engineering and management capacities.

Richard Lauman of East Williston and the Lauman Company, Bethpage, is Chairman of the Long Island Water Conference. Other officers are Commissioner Nicholas Bartilucci of the Jericho Water District, first vice chairman, and Commissioner Cornelius Enzel of the Manhasset-Lakeville Water District, second vice chairman. Commissioner Enzel is program chairman for the Water Conference.

ACCEPTS: Nassau County Executive Ralph G. Caso accepts from County Comptroller Angelo Roncallo a check for $974,384, representing reimbursement from the state for land acquisition costs for county's Old Bethpage Restoration Village. The money may have been lost to the county forever if senior deputy county attorney Burton Joseph had not discovered that original application had not been followed through since 1964, when property for the restored village was acquired. Checking into a folder on the facility, Joseph discovered that the previous administration had not processed an application for the 75 percent state reimbursement. After huddling with the county's fiscal administrator, Deputy County Executive Thomas G. DeVivo, Joseph rushed the completed application to Albany. Upon learning the application was approved by the attorney general's office, DeVivo included the $974,384 amount in the 1972 county budget as anticipated revenue. The senior deputy county attorney also explained that the cost for the Old Bethpage land was underestimated, originally, at $1.3 million by the old administration. The final acquisition figure was more than double that, meaning the county could have received twice as much as it did. Caso complimented Joseph "for a job well done."

You Can Help To Conquer Cancer In Your Lifetime

The American Cancer Society, Nassau Division, has need for hundreds of temporary volunteers to save lives by becoming kit assemblers for the 1972 Educational - Fund Raising Crusade.

You can help stuff the Crusader kits with life-saving information on the need for a Pap test and other Cancer Society messages relating to research, patient services, rehabilitation, education and the need for a check-up through the family physician or the Cancer Detection Center in Elmont.

Be a do-it-yourselfer or organize a group. The only requirement is that you have the means to transport kits from the Nassau Division headquarters at 1515 Kellum Place, Mineola. With only a few minutes instructions, you can do as many as you wish.

To save lives, call Mrs. Brent of ACS at 516-248-4633. Your time is a valuable gift.

Boy Scouts Of America Begins Drug Abuse Prevention Meetings

Scout Troops and Explorer Posts in this area have been holding meetings related to Operation Reach, the drug abuse prevention program of the Boy Scouts of America.

Youth and adult leaders of 15 B.S.A. units were trained to hold meetings for parents and for other unit members, according to Joseph L. Sealise, Chairman of Operation Reach in the Great Bear District which includes the Communities of Hicksville and Levittown.

"When these Unit meetings are held, the leaders have a fivefold purpose in mind as they and the young men leaders present this new and positive approach to drug abuse prevention," Mr. Sealise said.

"The purpose of the plan is (1) to create a climate and a framework in which young people will help each other find their highs in real things; (2) to provide ideas and materials that young people can use for developing warm and open relations with each other and with their families; (3) to provide a plan which will result in young people taking an open stand against the use of drugs; (4) to help parents create a climate of warmth and openness that their sons and daughters will understand as genuine love; and (5) to give youth and their parents reliable information about drugs and drug abuse."

Mr. Sealise said that the chief goal of Operation Reach is to convert youth-to-youth pressure from experimenting with drugs to taking a stand against drugs.

School Enrollment Information Meeting

How does a parent proceed to enroll his child in a non-public school? Certainly one could send for reams of material from a number of schools but Long Island Lutheran High School in Brookville feels the best way is for the parent and prospective student to attend a special Enrollment Information Meeting.

which Lutheran High School programs several times during the year. On Sunday, March 12, there will be a general Enrollment Information Meeting for parents and prospective students at 3 P.M. on the Lutheran High campus at 131 Brookville Road, Brookville.

The Long Island Nurserymen's Association Annual Garden Show opens its doors Wednesday, March 15, at the Long Island Arena, Commack, for an eight day preview of Spring in all its splendor.

Larger than ever, this year's show will have twelve major gardens, each with a different theme, executed by local nurserymen and covering the entire range of garden living here on Long Island.

In addition to the formal and informal gardens, pools and patios, eight plant societies will have educational and ornamental display areas for their particular plant interests or topics. The Long Island Horticultural Society under the guidance of Sydney Burns, president, has taken on this task of coordinating the horticultural enthusiasts to create a unique exhibit for this purpose.

To make more area available for better viewing this year, the east and west bleacher areas are being converted to absorb some of the educational displays and to afford the public an opportunity to see the main gardens from another angle.

One of the exciting new dimensions of this year's show is the establishment of a "Garden Theatre" planned and manned jointly by the Nassau and Suffolk County Extension Services. Continuous color movies and slide presentations with sound tracks, covering a wide range of garden and flower topics and environmental aspects are planned, interspersed with lectures and demonstrations on flower arranging for the average home owner.

Thursday, March 16, is "Federated Garden Club Day," sponsored by the Second District of the Federated Garden Clubs of New York State. Mrs. John McHugh, guest speaker and flower arranger, will have a program in the Garden Theatre, 1:30 in the afternoon.

The Cooperative Extension Service of Nassau and Suffolk Counties will have an interesting ground cover exhibit showing 16 varieties chosen for sun, shade, slope areas and poor or sandy soil. The garden will be manned at all times by county agents so the public can personally get their gardening questions answered. This project is under the direction of Frank Stadelberger and Walter Larmie.

Nassau, Suffolk and Queens Counties will be represented by gardens: Alley Pond Nursery, Bayside; Atlantic Avenue Nurseries, Freeport; Bay Ridge Landscape, Inc., C. The Plainview-Old Bethpage Public Library presents the Marx Brothers gem "Room Service" Friday, March 17 at 7:00 PM and 9:15 PM. This 1936 classic shows Groucho, Harpo and Chico at their glorious best as they attempt to produce a Broadway play

Twelve students of the Holy Family Grammar School attended the fourth Long Island Recorder Festival. This festival was held February 5 at the Thomas J. Lahey School in Greenlawn.

Over 200 students participated in an all day Work Shop and then gave a concert at the end of the day.

Gerald Burakoff (of Hicksville School district 17) conducted the Elementary workshop.

Renata Maimone, (who teaches children after school at Holy Family School) conducted the Intermediate workshop.

Kenneth Wollitz directed the workshop for the advance group.

Teachers, parents and students were very pleased with their concert and are looking forward to the next recorder festival.

From Your Congressman

James R. Grover, Jr.

Now that President Nixon's China visit has faded from our TV screens, preceded as it was by his careful warning not to expect concrete results, one conclusion can certainly be reached. Going to China took a lot of courage.

As the first American President to view the Great Wall, Mr. Nixon opened the door to new criticism. Those of his detractors who had been calling him too immovable and too intractable are now calling him too unpredictable, too adaptable and too liberal. They give the impression that this visit was a brainstorm, born of political expediency, or an afterthought. Actually, the President - who was then Mister Nixon - told a group of U.S. Congressmen back in 1965 that he felt we were past due to open the doors to China and dialogue. He felt then and undoubtedly feels now that our leadership in bringing China back to the brotherhood of nations would create a totally new balance of power which would be favorable to our interests in fostering a generation of peace.

Certainly, the Chinese appeared fearful during the early hours of the President's visit. But the evaporation of tensions was a visible thing as the visit went on and they began to emerge as human beings concerned about their nation and its future.

The relaxation appeared complete when Chinese newspapers were allowed to circulate news of the President's arrival. Now, at home, a thousand instant experts, would-be Presidents and nouveau Sinologists are analyzing ad nauseum the trip, its substance and possible results. Whatever success may have been achieved in the private talks between President Nixon and Chinese leaders, our greatest success was undoubtedly the renewed ability to communicate to a cloistered, suspicious people, no matter how divergent may be our views of government, our way of life and social viewpoint.

Income Taxes—What's Deductible? Show At Library

This is the third in a series of articles on ways you can save on your income tax return this year. The articles are written by Henry W. Block, president of H & R Block, Inc., America's largest tax service.

Studies show that the average American teenager earns from $400 to $900 annually and spends almost every cent of it to create a billion dollar market in high fashion.

You might think that this teenage earning and spending power could cause a problem for Mom and Dad when they are preparing their own Federal income tax return, but in most cases it is not a problem at all.

First of all, it may be necessary to again dispel the notion that parents must report on their own income tax returns the earnings of their children. This is not true! If a child makes more than $1700 he must file his own return, but his earnings are not taxable to his parents. Teenagers, assuming they are under 19 or are full-time students, can earn as much as possible in their jobs and their parents can still claim each as a $650 exemption in 1971, so long as the parents provided more than half of the total cost of their offspring's support.

Suppose your 16-year-old daughter worked all summer at a local department store and earned $850, which promptly went for swim suits, fancy hairdos, and mini-skirts? However, you, as her parent, provided all the essentials and extras amounting to far more than half of her support.

Can Receive Refund

Your daughter can still be a $650 exemption on your tax return and also get a refund on the tax withheld from her pay by her employer. In order to do this she must file her own tax return claiming her own personal exemption of $650. (Yes, the same $650 can be claimed on both her return and your return) as well as her low-income allowance up to $1050. Since her taxable income was less than $1700, she is not required to file a return, but unless she filed a form W-4E with her employer telling him not to withhold Federal taxes, she must file a tax return in order to get her money back.

Parent As Employer

But what if you, as her parent, owned the department store which paid your daughter the $850 she earned? On your business tax return you are allowed to deduct "reasonable" wages paid to your child. And, in such a case, your child can still be a $650 exemption on your personal income tax return.

Saving On Your Child's Education

By making present gifts of money or securities to your child, you can save present tax dollars for yourself and at the same time provide for his future education. If your annual gift per child is less than $3,000 ($6,000 if your wife joins in making the gift), then you need not file a Federal gift tax return. The interest on the money should be left on deposit (dividends on stock reinvested) and it will automatically be added to the principle.

As long as the earnings from the investments, when combined with your child's other income, do not exceed $1700 he does not have to pay any tax on them and since you do not own them any longer, neither do you.

If your child receives a college scholarship you do not have to consider this amount when figuring the percent of support, which you provide. So long as you provided more than half his support, excluding the scholarship, you are entitled to claim your child as a dependent.

Teen Marriage

Suppose your child marries before reaching the age of 19?

What happens to your exemption?

In some cases, newlyweds and parents can be of benefit to each other for tax purposes. For example, let's assume your 18-year-old daughter married on September 10 of last year, and you provided at least half of her support for the entire year. Her husband, who is a college student, earned $1200 during the summer. If she and her husband file a joint return, you would be prohibited from claiming her as a dependent for 1971, even though you did support her for most of the year. If your son-in-law filed a separate return, you could then claim your daughter as an exemption on your return.

The amount of tax that you as a parent would save through such an arrangement could be considerably more than the tax due on your son-in-law's separate return ($34 in the present case) and you would be better off by giving him the money and claiming your daughter on your own return.

Kinetic Art Show At Library

The Kinetic Designs of Jules Intraub are on display now through March 13 at the Plainview Old Bethpage Public Library.

Mr. Intraub first became interested in Kinetic drawing after seeing a popular children's toy. He designed his own generator and started working with a ball point pen. Over the years his patterns and equipment have become more sophisticated and he is now producing work of great beauty.

Plainview - Old Bethpage High School News

On February 29th, Mr. Kemp Hannon of the County Attorney's office addressed the Free School and members of Mr. Kapiloff's, Mr. Pilla's and Miss Hilton's classes on the issue of Civil Rights in Nassau County. Mr. Hannon is a practicing attorney who is involved in litigation on cases dealing with voting.

He spoke to the students for about an hour and the next 45 minutes were devoted to questions and answers. Mr. Hannon gave extensive information on voting and the legislative as Nassau County is affected.

Current juniors are eligible to be programmed for Independent study Program for the second semester of their senior year 1972-73. They need not detail their

I.S.P. Project at this time, nor do they have to indicate the amount of time they will need. I.S.P. students develop projects of their own that they would like to do either in or out of school for periods ranging from 2-3 periods a day to 1-2 days a week, to longer periods to time out of school (such as the full second semester of their senior year). Projects can fall into any one of several categories - career exploration, research, service, out-of-school experiences, etc. Successful completion of an I.S.P. project entitles the student to one-half to one unit of credit, and appropriate notation is made as part of the student's record and college applications. Necessary adjustments can be made in their schedules for 1972-73 to provide room for I.S.P. and to still meet graduation requirements.

"The Start of Something Big" - That's the name of the show all the Eighth Grade Students presented to the students and faculty. The director was Thomas Ciancia with Nancy Johnston as Assistant Director. The skits included All in the Family, Let's Make a Deal, Ed Sullivan with Four Really Big Acts, and the Dating Game. The finale consisted of all the students singing Chattanooga Choo-Choo. The students did it all; writing the show, producing it, and finally presenting it. Sister Alphonse Louise was there to lend a helping hand.

Sister Joan Staudohar, Dominican Community Supervisor was a recent visitor to our school. We are sure her stay was pleasant and beneficial to all.

The third grades, in our new trimester, will go on mini-departmental; with Sister P. Magill, O.P. teaching Religion, Mrs. R. Hilly, Math. and Mrs. V. Pignataro, Science.

Also in the new trimester, Elective courses will be offered to our Junior High Students. The courses will be offered every Friday from 1:45 P.M. to 2:45 P.M. The courses offered are: Beginners Gymnastics Exercise, Conversational French for Beginners, Sewing, The Rhythm Guitar, Arts and Crafts, Algebra, Fundamentals of Debate, Learning through Research, Cooking Is Fun, First Aid, General Art, and Teachers Aide.

In a recent competition of the Nassau County Junior High Mathematics League; Jericho Junior High finished first, St. Ignatius finished second and Hicksville Junior High finished third.

The Eighth grade girls have challenged the women on the Faculty in a Volley Ball Game to be held Wednesday Evening March 22nd at 8:00 P.M. The Eighth grade boys will cheer the girls to victory and the men on the faculty will cheer for the women.

On March 3rd at 10:00 A.M. a very successful Bread Banquet was held in the school auditorium. Over 120 children and their parents and families attended. All of these children will receive

Russian Olympic Wrestling Team

Recreation and Parks Commissioner Richard A. Fitch announced that the Russian Olympic Wrestling Team will meet a group of national and world championship wrestlers fielded by the United States Wrestling Federation at Hofstra University on Friday evening, their First Holy Communion. There were scripture readings by the children and hymns were sung by all; also sharing of the bread and wine and juice for the children. There will be similar Banquets on March 11 and March 18th. Sister Rita Mary Sullivan, O.P. is in charge of the arrangements.

March 24. According to Fitch, the American wrestlers are all candidates for the U. S. Olympic team and the meet could very well be a forerunner of the 1972 Summer Olympics.

The meet will be held at the Hofstra University Physical Fitness Center beginning at 8:00 p.m. and the matches are sponsored by the Nassau County Department of Recreation and Parks, and the United States Wrestling Federation. Tickets, priced at $3.00 and $4.00 are now on sale at: Eisenhower Park, East Meadow; Christopher Morley Park, Roslyn-North Hills; Cantiague Park, Hicksville;
