HAD On Cablevision

Help-Aid-Direction (H.A.D.), Hicksville's own youth and family counseling, drug abuse prevention center will be on Cablevision T.V., channel 12, Monday through Friday, July 29, to August 2, from 5:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. Cablevision T.V. is available to residents of the Hicksville, Jericho, and Plainview communities by subscription. On this program, H.A.D. will be represented by Mr. Robert Losche, H.A.D. President; John Maniec, H.A.D. Executive Director; and Gene Evers, a young man actively involved in the H.A.D. facility and various services. The main purpose of this television presentation is to inform the families of the Hicksville- Jericho- Plainview areas of the many counseling, recreational, and socialization services available to them by the H.A.D. agency.

5,000 Nassau Senior Citizens Eligible For More Benefits

Somewhere in Nassau County, there are about 5000 senior citizens who are entitled to, but haven't claimed, a guaranteed monthly income - in addition to Social Security benefits - under the nation's Supplemental Security Income Program. In an operation called "SSI Alert - Phase II" at the Nassau County Department of Senior Citizen Affairs, in cooperation with the district Social Security Office and the Nassau Chapter of the American Red Cross, has embarked on an all-out search for them.

In a unique effort to seek out eligible Nassau residents age 65 and over who have not yet applied for their monthly SSI checks, the Department will tap the resources of its Retired

Senior Volunteer Program (REVP) and will recruit and utilize a corps of senior citizen volunteers to help find those eligible.

Efforts will concentrate in low-income communities with high density elderly populations. The Social Security Office in Mineola has estimated that out of 35,000 social security recipients within the low income spectrum, some 4000 to 5000 who might be eligible for SSI, have still not applied.

Supplemental Security Income is available to those 65 and over who have a total monthly income, including social Security, of less than $227 for an individual living alone - or less than $315 for a married couple living in their own home or apartment. Recipients may also have a limited income from employment, own their own homes if valued below $25,000, own a car valued at below $1200 or own an insurance policy with a face value of no more than $1500. SSI recipients are automatically eligible for Medicaid. Those age 65 and over who think they are eligible for SSI should contact the nearest Social Security office for an application.

Men and women age 60 and over who wish to join the corps of RSVP Volunteers in this search will be transported to and from their volunteer stations to assist as researchers for the project. Contact Nassau County Department of Senior Citizen Affairs, One Old Country Road, Carle Place, 11514 - telephone 535-4442.

WHLI Adds New Program

Radio Station WHLI will add a new perspective to its programming starting August 5 - focusing on what WHLI Program Director Jerry Carr terms "the meaning of events which affect our daily lives, and an effort to better understand other areas of interest and concern."

Called "Focus", the commentaries will be broadcast by WHLI on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 8:45AM, 1:35PM, and 5:35PM.

Commentator for "Focus" will be Martin Weiss, of Westbury, one of Long Island's most respected weekly newspaper columnists and well known for his work in the field of broadcast journalism.

Publisher of The Westbury Times from December, 1956, through July, 1973, and a past president of the Nassau County Press Association, Mr. Weiss is currently publisher of the Education-Training Market Report, a nationally circulated newsletter reporting and analyzing funding, programs, and other developments in the fields of education and training. The newsletter maintains offices in Westbury and Washington.

Mr. Weiss is also president of the Westbury Chamber of Commerce, a member of the Council of the State University's College at Old Westbury, and a member of the board of directors of the Nassau County Chapter of the American Red Cross. He has received more than eighty awards for journalism and community service, and his column, "On The Wire," remains a regular feature of The Westbury Times.

A resident of Westbury for 22 years, Mr. Weiss is married, and has two sons. His wife, Arlene, has been an early childhood education teacher in the Westbury School District for the past eight years. His sons, James 22, and Andrew 17, are seniors at Hofstra University and Trespier Clarke High School, respectively.

Comments Mrs. Carr about "Focus": "The program will be unlimited in its scope - and whether you agree or disagree with the opinions expressed, WHLI thinks its listeners will find Martin Weiss' commentaries stimulating and refreshing - irrepressible in their content, and irreverent about what and whom they scrutinize."

Play Called On Hofstra, Jets

The ground that striking members of the New York Jets of the NFL are now picketing on should be on the county tax rolls. That is the opinion of County Attorney John O'Shaughnessy, which has been passed to Abe Seldin, chairman of the Nassau Board of Assessors.

As we go to press, The board, meeting of Wednesday, July 24, will have called the play in Mineola affecting 6.31 acres of land of Hofstra University in Hempstead, leased by the school to the football club.

Last April 11, the Jets and Hofstra entered a rental agreement for land adjoining the main campus. A building, parking lot and two football fields are to be constructed and the site will become a permanent training camp for the team Most of the Jet player personnel, as well as those of their NFL teams, are now on strike against the team owners and walking picket lines.

The Jets' facility is east of the main portion of the campus on the north side of Hempstead Turnpike. The land for development was purchased by the university from Nassau county in a sale approved by the Board of Supervisors on April 8. It involved a total parcel of 12.5 acres at a sale price of $166,240. O'Shaughnessy indicated that if the university was using the land exclusively for educational purposes, it would be tax exempt. Since a portion of the property will be leased to the Jets, a profit-making corporation, it is subject to taxation.

Seldin said the County Attorney's information was outlined to the Board on Wednesday July 17 and a decision would be forthcoming at the next session.

CAUSE Urges Vote For Anti-Strip Mining Bill

Coalition Against an Un-Sound Environment (cause) urged the Long Island Congressional delegation to vote for representatives Udall and Mink's anti-strip mining bill. The bill, which will be voted on in Congress this week, curbs strip mining, requiring reclamation of lands dug out for coal, and prohibits dumping wastes on steep slopes. In a telegram sent today to the Congressmen, CAUSE Chairman Dr. Donald Cotten, said, "Approve strip-mining curb bill. Amend including Long Island sand-mining regulation preventing further destruction."

Dr. Cotten pointed to the local threat of land devastation through inadequately controlled sand-mining and suggested that the Long Island legislators amend the bill to include controls on sandmining. In addition to creating eyesores, and leveling the once scenic terrain of Long Island, sand-mining creates erosion and drainage problems. At the very least an intelligent combination of sand-mining and garbage landfill should be encouraged. Instead of municipalities purchasing expensive landfill sites, usable for other purposes, the sand pits could be filled with refuse, recovered and then developed for building sites.

Dear Friends:

The Nassau County Board of Elections has instituted a new policy which will be of assistance to the electorate of the County. From 4:45 p.m. to 9 a.m. weekdays and all day on Saturday, Sunday and holidays, a telephone answering service will be in operation so that people may call, leave their name, address, telephone number and whatever questions they may have. The next morning they will receive their answer. The telephone number to call is 535-2411.

"It is hoped, as we approach Primary and Election Days, that we will be able to provide the people of the County with greater service by receiving their questions during the time that the office is officially closed," a spokesman for our Board of Elections told me.

BEST WISHES on his retirement to Hicksville Postmaster Ralph G. Cascardo, whose retirement we reported last month. It became official on July 19, which was the date of a gala Testimonial Dinner in his honor, given for Mr. Cascardo by his many friends and fellow workers. It was held at the Huntington Town House.

The editorial on page seven was brought to our attention by the Nassau Suffolk Contractor's Association which is concerned with reliable, adequate and safe transportation and represents the heavy construction industry on Long Island employing over 40,000 residents. This active Association's purpose is to negotiate labor contracts with the construction trade unions and to work with those unions towards an equitable interpretation of said contracts, to work with government agencies that supervise public works projects toward a compatible working relationship and improvement of the specifications governing this work, and to strive for a better Long Island way of life through public service and charitable works in the communities which they have helped to build. Certainly these are most commendable aims. As far as the editorial is concerned, it is based on much knowledge and research. Also, we feel that anyone who has hit a sharp pot hole (and who hasn't) will heartily agree, that our neighborhood roads must also be kept in good condition.

SEVERAL OF YOU telephoned me about The Shields of Nassau County, who have been conducting a telephone campaign to sell tickets to their fund-raising "Circus Vargas", which is scheduled for Wed., Aug. 21, Thurs., Aug. 22, Fri., Aug. 23, Sat., Aug. 24 and Sun., Aug. 25 "Under the Big Top" at the Mid-Island Shopping Plaza in Hicksville. Here is some information for you so that you can not only be assured that they are a legitimate organization but also can find out more information if you so desire: Their name is THE SHIELD OF NASSAU COUNTY, INC. Supervisor JOHN W. BURKE REPORTS

The recent reports of deposits of ocean being found on the ocean bottom, some less than a mile off Long Island's Atlantic coastline, are of considerable concern to the Town of Oyster Bay as they represent a potential threat to one of our most precious natural resources.

Although the area where sludge has been found lies to the west of the Town's south shore, we are, of course, vitally interested in the possible hazards.

There are questions regarding both the origin and movement of the materials popularly identified as 'sludge.'

The material may be sewage sludge, the waste treatment residue that is carted out to sea, or it may be the result of deposits that find their way into south shore waters through storm water run-off.

This run-off was identified as a major source of pollution in our bays by the Town's Environmental Control Division over a year ago. Storm water picks up animal wastes, pesticides and heavy metals that are carried through shore area drainage systems directly into our coastal waters.

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Agency and federal Environmental Protection Agency must make the final determination as to the nature of the material before any attempt can be made to chart its alleged movement.

The action that should be taken will depend on the determination by these two agencies. Should the dumping of waste treatment residue pose a potential threat, we must seek to implement alternatives for disposing of this material, such as incineration or its use as fertilizer.

As more concrete and macadam have covered our lands during past years, the potential for natural recharge of storm waters has lessened. We may now find ourselves faced with the responsibility of treating this run-off or decreasing its quantity. This situation presents a complex series of problems, and may not be readily resolved.

In any event, I can note that our Town's south shore waters are currently free from contamination. A watchful eye is being maintained by the federal agencies and also through the water sampling conducted by Oyster Bay's Division of Environmental Control.

Roncallo Reports

I favor extending the territorial limit of the United States to two hundred miles to protect the fishing resources of our country. Earlier this year, the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee held an on-location hearing in Islip at which I testified on this legislation.

I told the Committee that unless we act and soon to protect this vital resource from further depletion, our domestic fishing industry will be in trouble.

We used to guarantee the freedom of all nations to fish on the high seas. We did this because we were under the assumption that the resources of the seas were inexhaustible and so should be free for all takers.

We are learning the hard way, however, that none of our natural resources is inexhaustible. And we are learning that if we continue to allow the waters off the United States to be plucked clean of fish, we lose.

Since the early 1960's, fishing boats from the Soviet Union have operated close-in off the East Coast from New England to North Carolina. They weren't the only ones, however, as ships flying flags from practically every country in the world have been spotted fishing in our waters.

We used to take in about 93 percent of the total off-shore Atlantic catch, however, in the last fifteen years, this has dropped to about 50 percent of the total haul.

This same thing applies to Pacific coastal waters where we also end up sharing our fish in our waters with other nations. For this we get nothing in return and in fact are sometimes fired upon when we fish well off other nation's shores in what is legally international waters.

This legislation is important for Long Island, for our fishing industry and for the future supply of fish.

I was pleased to note that in line with this legislation, the United States announced its qualified support last week for a 200 mile limit at the United Nations Conference on the Law of the Sea meeting in Caracas, Venezuela. While many of the stipulations contained in our qualified support of the two hundred mile limit were unacceptable to other countries participating in the Conference at least this indicates a willingness on the part of the Administration to consider a revision in our territorial claim.

I, for one, don't think this change in boundary can come any too soon.

Washington Report

Congressman NORMAN F. LENT

FEDERAL "BEEF, PORK & POULTRY-BARREL" PROGRAM ACTUALLY A BANK BONANZA: Many of you were in touch with my Washington and District offices last week to voice your complaints over the impending passage of a $2 billion loan-guarantee program which many understood to be a subsidy to keep beef, pork and poultry prices at artificially high levels.

Despite my vote against it, the program passed the House by a vote of 210-204. I believe the provisions of this ill-advised risk of your money by the federal government deserve some explanation.

We all know that beef prices, despite occasional weekly "specials" at the market, have lingered at abnormally high levels ever since price ceilings on meat were removed late last August. Understandably, little justification can be given by those of us on the consuming end of the food chain for any federal "insurance" for loans to the beef producers supposedly getting rich at our expense.

The facts of the situation, however, do not provide quite so simple an answer as to why the guarantee program should have been rejected.

The amount of beef consumed by each of us dropped dramatically as prices skyrocketed last summer, and has never returned to previously high levels. Caught short by this diminished demand for their product and dramatic price increases for the fodder they themselves must feed their animals, the producers have claimed - and to some degree proven - that they have been losing anywhere from $100 to $200 per head at recent auctions.

The cattlemen's case is simply stated. By their account, the "middlemen" involved in the marketing of beef, pork and poultry have been "warehousing" tremendous quantities of these products and reaping tremendous profits through the resulting artificially-created shortage. The price cutbacks the producers have suffered (with "on the hoof" prices having dropped from 54 cents / lb. to 35 cents / lb. in the past year) have not, as you well know, been passed on to the consumer.

The loan-guarantee program, then, is nothing more than a cure for the symptom instead of the disease. It offers federal guarantees backing up bank loans to meat producers, who claim a desperate need for funds to keep their heads "above water" until lower retail prices increase the demand for their products - something of a risky investment.

The problem which needed and still needs correction is the unconscionable practice of "middlemen" who are keeping the prices of beef, pork and poultry artificially high, for profit's sake.

Hess To Re-Open

Following a court order, the Oyster Bay Town Board recently approved a special use permit for the Amerada Hess Corporation to re-open a gasoline station on the southwest corner of Pine Hollow Road (Route 106) and Lexington Avenue in Oyster Bay hamlet.

The special use permit carries eleven conditions including prohibitions against outdoor storage of vehicles or vehicle parts, the sale or rental of vehicles and against the conducting of body work or major repairs.

After a public hearing on July 24, 1973, at which many residents spoke out against the Hess Corporation's proposal, the Town Board denied the application. The corporation then obtained reversal of the Board decision in a court ruling last June 5th.

RALPH PERRETTA, a former Holy Trinity High School standout athlete, earned a major award for coach Dave Rankin's 1974 Purdue track squad.

Peretta, a senior majoring in physical education, turned in an outstanding season for the Boiler-maker cindermen. A shot putter and discus thrower, Peretta's best shot put toss of the year was 54 feet 4 1/2 inches for a fourth spot in the Big Ten Meet, while his fifth place mark of 154 feet 11 inches in the Big Ten Meet was his and the team's number one effort in the discus for the '74 campaign.

Peretta, who is an all-American offensive guard candidate for Purdue's 1974 football squad, placed in the top three slots six different times in either the shot or discus event.

Easter Seal Summer Day Camp

Patricia and Nicole giggled over lunch. Michael did his first "cannonball" of the summer into the Olympic-sized swimming pool. Robert and Peter sped on a collision course with their wheelchairs to the cheers of sideline spectators in a rousing game of outdoor basketball.

Multiplied hundreds of times, these signs of joy and delight marked the opening on July 8th of the Easter Seal Summer Day Camp at Human Resources Center, offering the prospect of six weeks of fun, growth and healthy activity to about 160 severely disabled children from Long Island and New York City. Without this unique program, which runs five days a week through August 16th, most of these children would be spending their summer indoors, away from friends, in the debilitating atmosphere of isolation.

Residents of our own community, because of their contributions to Easter Seals, are to be thanked for giving a summer of sunlight and growth to the campers, of which four are residents of our local areas: Janet Stappner, Plainview; Bonnie Salander, Hicksville; Gary Kishanuk, Hicksville; Sharon Campos, Hicksville.

GOOD FELLOWSHIP:

Great Neck; Cathy O'Rourke, of Bayville; and Maureen Fitzpatrick, of Williston Park. Part of the University Extension Service at Human Resources Center, the summer fellows will be serving the largest enrollment ever at the 14-year-old Easter Seal Summer Day Camp, about 160 severely disabled children from Long Island and New York City.

NEW EAGLE SCOUTS: Two new Eagle Scouts, Patrick McEvoy and Michael McNamara, were honored by Boy Scout Troop 91 sponsored by St. Ignatius Loyola Church, Hicksville, this past week. At a large Eagle Court of Honor the two were accorded honors for their outstanding achievement in scouting.

Former County Judge Francis Donovan and Councilman Warren Doolittle conducted the investiture of the new Eagle Scouts, Patrick McEvoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McEvoy and a student at the Plus X Pre-Seminary; Uniondale and Michael McNamara, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael McNamara, a student in the Hicksville High School.

Among the laurels bestowed upon the new Eagle Scouts were letters of congratulation from President Nixon, Governor Malcolm Wilson and Senators Javits and Buckley. County Executive Ralph Case and Town Supervisor John Burke were represented by aides who read and presented special scrolls of commendation. Among the local organizations adding their honors to McEvoy and McNamara on their greatest evening in scouting were: the Charles Wagner Post of the American Legion, whose representative Richard Evers, awarded the Legion's "Good Citizenship Medal" to the Eagles; the Hicksville Lions Club which presented Eagle Rings and the Bishop Kellenberg Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, whose representative, George McQuire, "Faithful Navigator", read a letter of commendation to the new Eagles.

Eagle Scouts McEvoy and McNamara are members of an old Hicksville scout unit currently under the leadership of Scout Master Edward J. McCann. Arrangements for the colorful ceremony were under the direction of Mrs. Joseph Varley. Serving as Master of Ceremonies was former Scout Master Walter Schuurmann, who helped launch the Eagle Scouts on their scouting quest some eight years ago.

"LILCO is engaging in other unconscionable practices which must stop," Mr. Schrader said. "Everyone will remember that electric heat customers were up in arms this past winter because they were receiving electric bills two and sometimes three times the amount of their mortgage payments after being persuaded to use electric heat through LILCO advertising. Several consumers are suing LILCO for fraud," he said.

"LILCO was forced to stop advertising on December 1st, 1973 by the state PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION. However, they are still promoting it. The electric heat customer receives a promotional electricity rate whereby he pays significantly less per KWH for his electricity than do non-electric heat customers," Mr. Schrader said. "This continued promotion of electric heat must stop." Mr. Schrader called for a state wide ban on building new electric heat homes and converting existing homes to electric heat and a complete restructuring of electric rates.

Editorial

Neighborhood Roads Need Care Too

During World War II roadbuilding was virtually stopped, understandably. Consequently, by 1945 our roads were a wreck! And Americans, held immobile during the war rushed out in unprecedented numbers to drive on those roads. In 1940 there were 302 billion vehicle miles of travel recorded. In 1945 there were 250 billion; but by 1950 the figure had skyrocketed past the previous peak to 458 billion.

One outgrowth of the frustration of trying to drive many more miles on deteriorated roads was the establishment of the 42,500 mile Interstate System. It was a small addition to the total of 3.7 million miles of America's roads, but it promised citizens the opportunity to cross entire regions, and eventually the country, with relative ease. The Interstate System was badly needed, but as it was being built, unfortunately other primary and secondary roads yielded to its greater priority and were neglected.

Ground transportation today faces a similar crossroads. The present energy shortage unlike the crisis of World War II will not demand a halt to road building and auto manufacturing but will require conservation of existing facilities and a greater efficiency.

More money - with good reason - is being poured into mass transit systems. For example, the rail transit system being considered for Denver would cost more than all the highway expenditures in the state of Colorado since 1918!

And transit systems, particularly rail, will serve only a small portion of the transportation need. Washington, D.C.'s "Metro" - costing more than all the streets and highways built in the area since the capital was established in the 1790's - will be best serve only 16 percent of area trips!

Nevertheless mass transit still is a necessity. Some systems, particularly scheduled bus or dial-a-bus systems may prove more cost-effective in the long run. They can use existing highways and provide much greater versatility as future population patterns emerge.

Along with greater use of mass transit will be the necessity for continued expenditures for roadways - not so much for new roads but to make the present ones safer and more efficient. Smoother roads, wider lanes, more gradual slopes and curves, elimination of grade crossings, better signal systems for less stop-and-go driving, priority bus and carpool lanes, fringe parking lots - all these are going to cost money.

Representative Jim Wright of Texas, after six years of investigation concluded that, "Over the next twenty years it is estimated that only about 200,000 miles of totally new mileage will be added to our road network. But the amount of rebuilding and upgrading that will be required is almost inestimable, given current traffic projections. It is on these kinds of projects that we must concentrate."

The congressman's figure on new mileage - primarily neighborhood streets, as in the past - represents about 5 percent of current roadways. This compares with estimated increases of about 60 percent in travel and 36 percent in registered drivers over the next 20 years, according to the Highway Users Federation.

The specious argument by some that America must "abandon roads" for mass transit is less than persuasive. On the contrary, upgraded roadways will continue to play an important part in serving the needs of both "mass transit" and personal mobility. Letting roads "go to pot" to pay for steel rails would be pennywise and pound foolish, another old adage that rings true today.

News From Our Attorney General

Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz announced this week the commencement of a proceeding in which he charged a nation wide fraud involving the sale of $250 million in silver coins to investors. He said approximately $33 million had been invested in the fraudulent scheme by New York state residents. The principal defendant in Monex International, Ltd., doing business in New York as Pacific Coast Coin Exchange. The papers on file in the court charge high pressure sales tactics, fraudulent practices, and false claims in offering literature. The Attorney General seeks a permanent injunction against all defendants, cancellations of all contracts, at the option of purchasers, restitution and or delivery of the coins.

Mr. Lefkowitz this week announced one of the first actions undertaken to eliminate abortion referral services which engage in deceptive business practices.

Two abortion referral agencies, Medico Stat, Inc. and Medico International Abortion Information and Counseling, Inc., and their president, Nicholas Fanczi, a one time harness racing horse trainer, have been barred from conducting a commercial medical referral business in New York State.

A firm which generated a large volume of mail orders through nation wide advertising for its photographic enlargements of consumers' pictures and then failed to deliver the products in a reasonable time even when the consumer paid an extra charge for "superspeed service", has been ordered to speed its service and deposit $3500 with the Attorney General for restitution to consumers. Mr. Lefkowitz announced this week. BYU Incorporated, also known as Congers Color Labs and Blow Yourself Up, Co., and Raymond M. Mohr, president, consented to the entry of a judgment.

Consumers in the metropolitan area recovered nearly $1.5 million in money, goods and services and through the cancellation of deceptive and fraudulent contracts and agreements as the result of action taken by the Bureau of Consumer Frauds and Protection of his office during the first six months of 1974. Mr. Lefkowitz announced this week.

DEVOTIONS

To Live In Christ

Many think they can go solo through life, "doing" life all by themselves. "I don't need God; religion is for children and old ladies." Sorry, Mac, you've got it all wrong.

True Christianity has a place for strong men and women. Christ calls no one to "Easy Street." Jesus only made two promises to His disciples: that they would get into trouble if they followed Him, and that He would stick by them when they did.

Those who live their Christianity often find they receive as many jeers as cheers. There is always trouble when one speaks out against injustice. Most of Christ's disciples were killed for their efforts. Evil rarely sits idly by when under attack.

The false image that many hold of Christianity is a bastardization of the real thing. Christianity is not something that happens to you, it is something you make happen. It is not a noun but a verb...actively making an impact on the lives of those who come into contact with it.

Most of the significant men of Christianity have been strong men of great character. Men willing to do what was right rather than what was expedient...men and women who felt that living a meaningful life was more important than life itself.

Those who feel they can live a significant life apart from Jesus Christ might well rethink the matter again. Check the Christian field manual (the Bible), and you will be surprised at what you'll find. If your church isn't where it's at, perhaps God wants to use you to get it back into shape. That's if you're courageous enough for the task.

Christianity needs strong men and women; those who are proud that they are on of God's own and have found meaning in a life of service. They understand St. Paul when he says, "To live is Christ," for they are truly alive.

smokes perhaps a half pack of cigarettes, as he pores over his papers for the next morning's sales meeting.

Such habits, warns the Nassau Heart Association, are all too commonplace with busy Americans on the move today, and can lead to diseases of the heart and blood vessels, the nation's leading cause of death.

At home, where life is more routine, it's easier to follow Nassau Heart Association's advice on how to reduce your risk of heart attack and stroke. But once on vacation, or during a high-pressured business trip, it's easy to forget about your health.

Nassau Heart Association advises that to help prevent heart attack or stroke, see your doctor regularly, avoid cigarettes, eat foods low in calories and cholesterol, exercise regularly and maintain normal weight. And when traveling, here are some additional tips:

1. If you're on a long motor trip, don't forget to make frequent stops, if only to stretch your legs for a few minutes. And if you're on a long train or airplane trip, get up now and then and walk around. Sitting too long in one position can cause poor circulation.

2. Be cautious when changing from one extreme climate to another. A problem for travelers, particularly elderly people or people with heart disease, is a sudden change from one extreme of weather to another.

3. Know these signs of heart attack. Delay spells danger.

• Prolonged, heavy pressure or squeezing pain in the center of the chest, behind the breastbone.

• Pain may spread to the shoulder, arm, neck or jaw.

• Pain or discomfort is accompanied by sweating.

• Nausea, vomiting and shortness of breath may also occur.

Neighbors Say 'Nix' To Jack's Backyard

By Janet Gosnell

Opposition was strong and emphatic at Town Hall on Tuesday to the petition of Jack's Backyard of Syosset, Inc., for a change of zone from Residence D to Business E District for a corner parcel in Syosset fronting on Jackson and on Edward Avenues.

The property is presently improved with a residence and a garage with an apartment, both rented. According to William Niles, attorney for the petitioner, the intent is to convert the main residence to a restaurant operation described as a "Steak & Brew" type operation, to attract lunchtime and suppertime clientele.

Decor would feature barn siding walls and antique furniture. Capacity for the 1,000 square foot building would be 88 persons, according to owners Steve Stackle and Harold Seelin.

The owners denied the possibility of a discotheque operation, and said that relationships with neighbors at their St. James establishment is satisfactory.

Presidents Protest

Leading off the opposition to "Jack's Backyard, front yard, or anything else," were neighbors Mrs. Lois Peacock, of Edward Avenue, and Jean Hemback, of Florence Avenue. Mrs. Peacock presented an opposing petition, which she said contained over 100 names, and said that both she and Mr. Hemback had visited Jack's Backyard in St. James.

"When Great Western moves to another area, it doesn't become Lord & Taylor, and when McDonald's moves, it doesn't become the Viennese Coach," said Mrs. Peacock. The St. James Jack's Backyard, which according to owners is primarily a bar operation, was crowded with teenagers, said Mrs. Peacock, and parking overflowed the lot and traveled several blocks down the street, she said.

When she visited, she said, one teenager suggested to her husband, "Hey Dad, Take her to Howard Johnson's."

Jean Hemback protested the infringement of customer parking for Manero's and the Red Barn on neighboring streets, as well as on the unsanitary condition of open, full garbage dumpsters at Manero's.

Also figuring in the opposition was the proximity of the Locust

Road elementary school and the pedestrian traffic of little children en route to the small shopping center just south of the subject property.

AT SUPERVISORS' MEETING:

Ecology Vs. Economy In Proposed Pratt Purchase

By Janet Gosnell

Environmentalists, developers and taxpayers locked horns at the Nassau County Board of Supervisors' meeting on Monday. The occasion was a public hearing lasting two hours in respect to the proposed acquisition for park and recreational purposes of the Pratt estate in Glen Cove, the 300-acre parcel consisting of natural shoreline and upland forests known as "Wellwynne" bounded by Crescent Beach Road, New Woods Road and Long Island Sound.

The question of the acquisition of the parcel had been brought expeditiously to the public hearing stage by a petition, now pending with the City of Glen Cove, by Forbes Development Co. to develop Wellwynne with condominium homes in a cluster zoning style. That petition is hanging in the balance, pending the County's decision whether to acquire the property.

"A Treasure Trove"

The picture of the property as an ecological jewel and a treasure trove never to be again created was painted by environmentalists who spoke, including Charles Bassett, President of the Long Island

Chapter of the Nature Conservancy; Janet Marcuse for Abe Krasnof, of the Vacant Land Use Committee; Kathleen Sacco, of Old Westbury, who described herself as an "unemployed ecologist"; Vincent A. Paglisi and Rosalie Talbot, of the Biology Department at Nassau Community College; who deplored the loss of ecological student training grounds; Helen McClure, of the Audubon Society; and Richard Penn, of the Glen Cove Environmental Conservation Board.

The loss of a present $80,000 in real estate taxes and of a potential $1,250,000 in real estate taxes with Forbes' proposed development provided a strong case for the overburdened taxpayers and their representatives who spoke, including Grover Moscovitz, of the Glen Cove Chamber of Commerce; Edward Carlson, of Glen Cove; Luke A. Mercadante, ex-mayor and supervisor from Glen Cove; George Visile, who described himself as a laborer; and Arthur Morelli, who made the comment that the environmentalists are "polluting our economy."

The attorney for Forbes Development spoke just briefly about the condominium plan, which would leave the majority of the land free and wild, he said.

According to the environmentalists, even a park would be too much for the natural flora and fauna found on the Pratt estate, much of which is almost extinct on Long Island, including the great horned-owls which live in its pine forests. Mrs. McClure said county residents should be allowed to visit the proposed preserve "by appointment only" and with guides to be sure they don't disturb the wild life.

On the other side of the coin, Mr. Visile said that 30 to 40 per cent of his co-workers in the building trades are currently unemployed and unable to maintain their homes because of the high taxes.

At the close of the hearing, and after many exhortations by the county executive for brevity and non-repetitiveness by speakers, the supervisors closed the hearing and reserved decision.

Sewer Easements

There were no speakers at public hearings on sewer easements in Levittown and Farmingdale. The Levittown easements are from Sprucewood Drive north about 100 feet and from Balsam Lane to Hempstead Turnpike. In Farmingdale, the easement is from Soma Place northwesterly to Merritts Road. The remaining public hearing was on the acquisition of a 20-acre parcel adjacent to the Muttontown Park and Preserve. Carl Schmidt, of Rockville Centre, protested the county expenditure to acquire the land.

In other business, the county approved payment of policemen for time spent in court testimony in connection with cases in which they are involved; okayed the use of the Coliseum parking lot for the Yamaha Learn to Ride Safety Program; and executed a new agreement with Zara Contracting to remove and relocate some sewer piping in Massapequa.

Rent Guidelines Board

The Supervisors also approved the appointment of three members of the Rent Guidelines Board as required by Section 4 of the Emergency Tenant Protection Act of 1974 after

L.I. Citizens Group Calls For Blackout

A large Long Island citizens group is calling for consumers on Long Island to turn off all lights in their homes between 8:00 and 9:30 p.m. on July 28th as a protest against monopolistic practices on the part of the Long Island Lighting Company.

"LILCO and every other utility in the state act with virtually no regulation," said Richard Schrader, spokesman for the 600 member Citizens In Action. "LILCO's activities fly in the face of the public good and at present there is no way the public can influence the utility's activities," he said. "The State Public Service Commission is simply a rubber stamp for LILCO decisions."

Mr. Schrader said every time LILCO want's a rate increase, the PSC holds token hearings and grants the increase. "We think it is obvious," Mr. Schrader said "that LILCO's interests and the interests of the PSC are in direct conflict with the well being of the consumers on Long Island."

The Citizens In Action are also opposed to the fact that LILCO is riddled with conflict of interest connections with three major area banks, Franklin National, First National City and Chase Manhattan.

Each of these banks has large lines of credit open to LILCO and each bank own large blocks of LILCO stock, Chase Manhattan, in fact, is LILCO's largest stockholder with 1,001,991 shares or 5 percent of the total.

Mr. Schrader said this kind of connection between the banks and LILCO gives the banks an opportunity to frame policy for the best interest of the bank rather than providing cheaper and better service for the customers.

receipt by the county of a letter dated 6/19/74 from the Mayor of the Village of Great Neck Plaza that a state of housing emergency exists.

Names to be recommended to the New York State Commissioner of Housing and Community Renewal are: Nathan Cantor, of Long Beach,

Social Security

Transit Aid To Nassau Buses

QUES: I am disabled and need my car so my wife can take me to the doctor once a week for special treatments. Will my car make me ineligible for supplemental security income payments?

ANS: If your car is used to take you to your doctor for regular treatments, it won't be counted as a resource in figuring your eligibility for supplemental security income payments.

ANS: It's a good idea. Social security can continue payments up to 4 months in a vacation period to students who plan to return to school full time. Since you're not sure you'll go back to school, you should have your social security checks stopped to avoid the possibility of having to pay back some benefits. If you decide to return to school, social security can pay back benefits due you.

ANS: Yes. Contact any social security office, and the people there will help you get a social security card showing your new name. Your social security number will remain the same for life, however. Earnings credited to your social security number both before and after your marriage build disability, survivors, retirement, and Medicare protection for you and your family.

Nassau County's Metropolitan Suburban Bus Authority will receive $203,071 as its first payment under the Mass Transportation Operating Assistance Program (Governor Malcom Wilson informed Assemblyman Stuart R. Levine (R-Bethpage) today.

Levine explained, "The plan calls for these payments to be made quarterly during the year and to be matched by local funds."

"This money for the Nassau bus authority," Levine said, "will be added to money already given to the authority by the county and will be used to defray operating losses. These funds will be in addition to commuter service aid granted by the state to the Metropolitan Transportation Authority."

Levine pointed out that the Mass Transportation Operating Assistance Program, financed by a $100 million appropriation of the Legislature, is a one-year interim program designed to permit local transit systems to hold down fares and maintain transportation assistance plan is being developed.

"Fire Report"

By Ex-Capt. Owen W. Magee

A total of 35 alarms were received by the Hicksville Fire Dept between July 16th & 23rd. 6 were malicious false alarms, 12 rescue calls and 17 fire calls.

Plaza Store Damaged
Firemen answered a report of a general alarm fire at the Mid Island Plaza on July 23 at 1:11 a.m. Upon arrival vamps found no fire, but a faulty sprinkler head burst, sending in the automatic alarm. Some water damage was suffered by the Carol Jewelers Store. Vamps were on the scene over an hour vacuuming up the water.

Smokey House Fire
On July 23 at 12:54 p.m. vamps responded to a house fire at 95

Cherry La. A couch fire did heavy damage to one room. The vamps had to cope with acrid fumes to douse the fire. No injuries were reported.

In other news we hear Ex-Chief Sam Weiss of Co. No. 5 is home after a stay at No. Shore Hospital. We wish Sam, who is also a Hicksville Water Commissioner a speedy recovery.

We also wish fireman & dispatcher John Luft of Co. No. 7 success as he heads for Texas and a new job.

Definition of "Vamp"
Many times in our articles we use the term vamp to refer to our local volunteer firemen. "Vamp" is a nickname for all volunteer firemen. It comes from the old days when among the accessories worn by the old time volunteers were their gaily colored knee socks called "Vamps" Since then it earned them that nickname.

Could It Happen To You
A Long Island resident driving his car along the highway, dozed for a split second and sideswiped a telephone pole. A cigarette he had been smoking fell from his lips onto the seat. The wreckers, when towing the damaged car away noticed smoke pouring from its windows. He drove to the nearest fire station, to turn in the alarm. The fire spread to the fire station arriving vamps had no trouble finding the blaze.
