Hicksville Soccer Club News

Over the past week, the Hicksville American Soccer Club has sponsored the First Annual John Burke Soccer Tournament for ten year olds. Our Lady of Lourdes from Massapequa emerged victorious at the end of the Tourney, by defeating the Hicksville American Team in the finals 4 - 0. Congratulations to both finalists, and extra's to the winner O.L. of L., Massapequa Park.

The second Tournament under the lights at Cantiague Park saw twelve (12) year olds competing in the First Annual Ralph Caso Soccer Tournament. Garden City East, Garden City West, Our Lady of Lourdes, Massapequa, and the Hicksville Americans survived the elimination rounds over N. Shore, St. Ignatius, Williston Park, E. Meadow, Glen Cove and St. Mary's of Roslyn; to enter the semi-finals. Semi-final games will be held on Tuesday 11/26 at Cantiague Park under the lights and the winner of this tournament will be decided on Friday night 11/29. Come and see athletic prowess at its best, under the lights at Cantiague Park.

Last weekend, the intramural program began with the Massachusetts win 3 - 1 over N. Hampshire. M. Lewis scored the single goal by N.H. on assists by L. Sneddon and T. Lewis while S. Mascolo at goal and M. Rosenbach handled defensive chores. P. Schnurr (2) and G. Grusso (1) booted the winning goals at F. Freyese at F.B. closed off the defensive and for Mass.

Another close game followed as Maryland pulled out a 2 - 1 victory over Georgia on single scores by R. Nakasian and J. Bush. Goalie C. Bentley made many good saves to augment the defensive work of S. Muller & F. Pfiffer at half back. The lone score for Georgia was made by D. Spadaro. The close score and the tension in this game resulted from the hustling effort of goalie R. Brutschen and his defensive alignment of P. Cronin, R. Markey, K. O'Leahan, D. Skupinsky, G. Skupinsky and K. Rochelle.

Later in the weekend, under the lights at Cantiague Park, Georgia came back with a 2 - 0 win over Delaware. This time the scoring was done by F. Christiano & D. Spadero, with assists by L. Rubin & M. Bell. Goalie R. Brutschen, D. Skupinsky & B. Altheus continued their aggressive activity. The scoring was done in spite of outstanding efforts by Delaware's T. Kenny, T. DeMeo, L. Mejia, K. Rice on defense and C. Bier, J. Neto, L. Ziembicki and J. Laborati on offense.

Another close game in the Bantam Division saw N. Hampshire defeat Conn. 2 - 1 on a double score for L. Sneddon with assists by T. Leavy and E. Flanagan. Helping out for the victors were M. Meyer, M. Maduras, I. Zaretsky and M. Rosenbach.

The last Bantam game was a victory by Conn. over Delaware 3 - 1, with 2 goals by J. Carroll and 1 by W. Maguire for the winners. Defensive assignments were more than competently handled by D. O'Leary, J. Anglin, K. Kugler, & R. Bell while goalie S. Gorz did a fine job. Delaware's J. Laborati scored on an assist by G. Bier while team mates A. Horowitz, and J. Neto produced exceptional efforts.

down by the Comets prevented Holy Trinity from scoring its fifth straight shutout.

The Titan J.V. has now won 17 consecutive games and 2 successive Catholic High School football league crowns. They outscored their opponents this year by 264 to 34.

These most impressive achievements must rank the Holy Trinity J.V. team among the very best, not only in the metropolitan New York area but throughout the state.

United Way of Nassau-Suffolk in Final Stretch of Campaign Drive

The United Way of Nassau-Suffolk, reported during a lunch for volunteers at Salisbury Club that almost at the third quarter mark in its 1974 fund-raising drive, it had reached 62.15 per cent of its $2,175,522 collected or pledged. Funds raised by its annual campaign, Long Island's largest, are allocated by the United Way's Admissions and Allocations Committee to 94 social service agencies and hospitals.

Robert E. Scheuing, United Way's Campaign Chairman and President of Hempstead Bank stated that "Despite all that we have read and heard about inflation and a depressed economy, we have experienced more campaigns and increased levels of giving. Nor are we alone. Other United Ways around the country are finding the same thing to be true. If United Way results around the country are a gauge, it is certain that the American people are answering the special challenge faced by the year's United Way Campaign. "In addition to the progress reports, 300 guests heard representatives from two of the agencies served by the United Way of Nassau-Suffolk. Mrs. Elaine Sommer, Case-Work Supervisor, Smithtown office of Jewish Community Services on Long Island, described this agency's broad-spectrum program of family services, including psychological counseling, home-maker services and direct financial assistance.

Mr. George Williams, Executive Director of the Huntington Township YMCA outlined the Long Island YMCA's special child after school day-care program. He also introduced three participants of a swimming program at his facility, who described a dramatic incident of saving a young child's life. Workshops Offered to Handicapped

An innovative series of in-training workshops in therapeutic recreation for the handicapped has been arranged through the joint efforts of the Nassau County Department of Recreation and Parks and St. Joseph's College in Brooklyn. It marks the first time in the Long Island-Metropolitan area that a governmental recreation agency and a college have pooled their talents in such an effort.

The symposium, which begins January 9, is open to professionals, para-professionals, and other interested individuals currently working in agencies that provide this type of therapy. Participants may obtain at their option—two college credits from St. Joseph's Brevard Campus at a fee of $50.00. There is no charge for non-credit participation.

The session will be held in the Special Activities Center in Eisenhower Park, East Meadow, and will run from 10 a.m. till noon on specified days.

The new course is designed to develop practical preparation for those concerned with servicing the handicapped through recreation and through related activities such as nursing, rehabilitation, occupational and creative arts therapy, and leadership in indoor and outdoor activities.

Course lecturers include: Theodore F. Childs, Professor of Special Education at Long Island University; Sheila Peck, drama teacher and therapist at LINK Community Center, Lynbrook; Sam Scheiner, Adjunct Associate Professor of Architecture at the New York Institute of Technology; Daniel Sullivan, Instructor in Adapted Physical Education at Adelphi University and Director of the Athletic Program at the Human Resources Center in Albertson; Francis A. Cosgrove, Deputy Commissioner of the Nassau County Department of Recreation and Parks; Dr. Morton Thompson, Chairman of the New York State Agricultural and Technical College (SUNY) in Farmingdale and Consultant to the Nassau County Department of Recreation and Parks; and Ann White, Supervisor of the Recreation for the Handicapped Unit of the same department and an instructor at the State Agricultural and Technical College.

Applications and further information may be obtained by contacting Ms. White at the Special Activities Center, Eisenhower Park, East Meadow, 11554 (Phone - 292-4254).

Fire Safety Experts Offer Tips for Safe "Alternate Heating"

Lloyd G. Ryan, Fire Marshall of Nassau County, and Ronald Buckingham, Director of Suffolk County's Department of Fire Safety, following a meeting held in Mineola, joined in issuing a warning to the public about the possible dangers of auxiliary heating devices that Long Island residents may use in the face of the severely cold weather predicted for this winter. The fire safety experts offered the public the following cautions and guidelines for safe "alternative heating":

The use of top burners or ovens in gas stoves for home heating presents a serious potential hazard. If these stoves are used for long periods, such as all night, in an area in which doors are not opened frequently to allow fresh air in, the oxygen in the area can be depleted, and the improper combustion can produce carbon monoxide that may lead to asphyxiation. If the gas oven door is kept open, the thermostat will not periodically shut off the oven and the stove elements may actually burn out.

The Long Island Lighting Company has advised us that if large numbers of people use their gas ranges for heating on a very cold day, the unexpected substantial demand for natural gas could cause a drop in gas pressure in gas mains that would force the shut down of portions of the gas system. It would take days to restore this service (every pilot affected would have to be individually relighted) and cause great hardship to numerous families.

Fireplaces are probably the most inefficient means of heating a house, surprising as it may seem. More heat will go out through the chimney, because of the fireplace draft, than will be generated by the fireplace. Both wood fires and gas logs in fireplaces should be used only in well-ventilated rooms as they burn up oxygen and can lead to asphyxiation. Any gas log used should bear the American Gas Association's seal of approval and must be properly vented either through the chimney or by means of a special approved vent.

If you use any type of fossil fuel heater such as oil, kerosene, or gasoline, make sure it is properly vented to the outside, to prevent the build-up of combustion products. If a room is completely closed, the fossil fuel heater can use up the oxygen in the room, leading to incomplete combustion and the production of carbon monoxide and the possibility of asphyxiation.

The most dangerous of potential home heating devices are charcoal grills. These should never be used in a house unless directly connected to a flue or chimney. Charcoal briquets produce about 20 percent carbon monoxide at all times and in a closed room can contribute very quickly to carbon monoxide poisoning.

The simplest and best form of auxiliary heater is an electric heater that meets the following specifications:

1. It should bear the Underwriters Laboratory seal. All new heaters that carry the U.L. seal are equipped with a switch to shut off the appliance if it is in danger of overheating.
2. It should have a "tip-over switch" that automatically shuts the heater off if it should accidentally be knocked or tipped over.

Before using an electric heater, check your home wiring. The U.L. Code recommends that, since most home wiring is equipped with 15 amp. fuses, a heater using more than 1,440 watts should not be used on a continuous basis (3 hours or more). If a heater does use more than 1,440 watts, it should only be used intermittently (intervals of less than 3 hours) without any other appliances on the circuit. When used on a circuit with other loads (television, refrigerators, lights), a heater should not exceed 900 watts. Lastly, if an electric heater is used on a routine basis to heat cold spaces, it should operate on a separate circuit that, in the summer, for example, might be used for an air-conditioning unit.

Electric stoves should not be used for heating. If stove elements burn continuously for long periods (which would occur if the oven door were left ajar), the life of the appliance could be shortened.

Keep all auxiliary or portable heaters away from flammable materials such as curtains, or bedding. Make sure that someone responsible sees that children, the elderly and disabled, are safeguarded from accidents. Keep these heaters out of general home and office traffic patterns and do not allow children to play near the heaters.

If you have an old heater that you plan to use, have it checked by a qualified service agency to make sure that there are no frayed wires, corroded or deteriorated fittings that can create shock or fire hazards.

LILCO Report Calls Nuclear Energy 'Most Desirable Way' to Meet Future Power Needs

Nuclear energy is the most desirable way to meet Long Island's electric power needs during the period of 1981-1984 because of its substantial economic and environmental advantages over oil and coal—the only practicable fuel alternatives for this period, according to a recent study done by the consulting firm of Arthur D. Little, Inc. In addition, all indications are that nuclear power will be provided from a more reliable fuel supply.

The report points out a very important and vital consideration, and that is that the nuclear energy industry has demonstrated an outstanding safety record, both in terms of the attention devoted to safety matters, which has no precedent, and in terms of accident and related safety statistics. The report states that there has never been an instance in which a nuclear power plant or any supporting activity has caused public injury or harm.

Addressing itself to costs, the study points out that while nuclear power requires substantially higher capital investment than oil and coal, its significantly lower fuel cost more than outweighs initial heavier financial requirements. During the first 15 years of operation, the savings from a nuclear plant the size of the combined units planned near Jamesport are estimated to be $1 1/4 billion over a comparable coal plant and $1 1/4 billion over an oil counterpart.

The study documents the serious problems connected with the availability of oil or coal to meet the nation's increased energy needs during the next few decades and discusses the more favorable outlook for the availability of uranium.

As far as the environment is concerned, fossil fuel plants have the disadvantage of emitting products of combustion to the air; require 2 to 25 times as many fuel deliveries per year as comparable nuclear plants; and require 55 to 75 acres of storage space for waste products per year. The storage of nuclear wastes requires less than a total of 600 cubic feet a year and will be removed to an Atomic Energy Administration designated site.

The complete study "Report to the Long Island Lighting Company on Base-Load Alternatives for the 1981-1984 Period" has been sent to all public libraries of Nassau and Suffolk Counties and has been placed in LILCO's nuclear library, 138 East Main Street, Riverhead.

An olde fashioned wooden sign hung on the wall, welcomes all to friendly talk, casual, homey decor and music from the jazz group - Soular Caravan.

Tidings of Christmas '74 can be found in treats featured for the night. Egg nog and Christmas cookies have been added to the usual Coffee House fare.

There'll be something olde and something new - something for everyone. Come to Private Dining Room B, 7:30 P.M. at Hofstra University and help us celebrate the holiday season by perpetuating a time-honored tradition of sharing AND caring.

Supervisor JOHN W. BURKE REPORTS

Local municipalities in which tax-exempt, foreign-owned properties are located may be compensated for their lost revenues if Congress acts on a bill introduced by Congressman Angelo D. Roncallo.

Letters supporting the passage of this bill (H.R. 13422) have been sent to Long Island and New York City congressmen by Nassau County Executive Ralph G. Caso.

For many years properties owned by foreign countries and international organizations have been exempted from state and local real property taxes at the direction of the Federal government. In Nassau County alone, this has meant the loss of almost $100,000 a year in revenues to the County and local municipalities.

Under the legislation proposed by Congressman Roncallo, the Secretary of the Treasury would compensate state and local municipalities for the lost revenues incurred. Here in Nassau County this would mean about $55,000 for the school districts of Glen Cove, East Norwich and Brookville, and an additional $40,000 to Nassau County, the Town of Oyster Bay, Glen Cove and the Village of Upper Brookville.

These foreign properties have not only enjoyed a free ride in the many services provided by local government, but in many cases have required additional police services, such as increased police protection, that the average Nassau County taxpayer does not receive. Over the years this has meant an additional burden to the Nassau County taxpayer of over $1,000,000.

Since this tax-exempt status is a privilege accorded to foreign governments as a courtesy by our Federal government, it is only fair that the Federal government share in the fiscal burden these places on the local municipalities.

TOWN NOTES: A booklet outlining the property tax reduction program for senior citizens and veterans is available from the Taxpayer Information Bureau, Nassau County Board of Assessors, 240 Old Country Road, Mineola, 11501.

Petroleum Allocation Act Extension

As you may remember, I was the first Congressman to propose legislation extending the Emergency Petroleum Allocation Act past its scheduled February 28, 1975, expiration date. It looked as if we would have had more heating oil and gasoline this winter than last winter, but I wanted to be abundantly sure that Long Island would get its fair share of the available supply.

Until the Emergency Allocation Bill was passed last winter, Long Islanders were not receiving an equitable share of the Nation's fuel supplies because the large number of independent dealers were being shortchanged by the major oil companies in favor of company owned stations.

I'm pleased to report to you that the full House has just approved by a vote of 335-55 the bill H.R. 16757, which is very similar to my original proposal. It will extend the Emergency Allocation Program for six months, until August 31, of next year. The plan originally took effect in the midst of the Arab oil embargo last winter. Criticized initially, the plan later operated to ease the country's fuel woes and keep independent gas stations and fuel dealerships, dependent on major oil companies for supplies, from closing down. If the independents had "gone under," competition would have decreased where it was already low, and this might have led to still higher prices. I would have preferred a one year extension, but the six month extension approved by the House does at least take us past the winter and assures us that if any shortages occur this winter, we on Long Island will receive our fair share of the oil which is available.

Extending the Emergency Petroleum Allocation Act for six months is no cure for the Nation's energy needs, and it does not set a long term policy either. These are complicated problems and will only be solved through conservation, increased energy production, and increased reliance on new forms of energy. What the extension does do is give the incoming 94th Congress some breathing room to organize, knowing that no part of the country will be fuel shortchanged in mid-winter.

By its vote to extend the Mandatory Petroleum Allocation Act, the House recognizes that we still have a serious energy problem. I hope the Senate will follow suit. Then, if there is a problem in the middle of the winter, we will be set to deal with it.

Caso Congratulates Congress for Affirmative Action on Mass Transit Aid Bill

Nassau County Executive Ralph G. Caso congratulated members of the U.S. House of Representatives for their "quick and affirmative" action on the mass transit aid bill.

"For more than a year, I, along with other city and county officials across the nation, have been pushing for federal aid to our mass transit systems," Caso observed. "We often have been critical of Congress for the pace at which it approached this problem.

"By the same token, the Senate and the House are to be congratulated for the speed with which they moved this legislation after the election recess.

"It proves that the system does and can respond quickly to an urgent national need."

Caso, who heads the National Association of Counties' Mass Transit Aid Task Force, wired his congratulations to House Speaker

Carl Albert and Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield. President Ford had indicated his support for the bill during debate and is expected to sign the measure.

It is estimated that the National Mass Transportation Assistance Act of 1974 will mean approximately $560 million in operating aid over the next six years to the New York - urban area.

LIRR'S "What Make's the Train Run" Available

The Long Island Rail Road is once again making available its successful safety program entitled, "What Makes The Train Run."

The program, geared for youngsters in the first through the sixth grades of school, dramatically illustrates through color slides how an LIRR electric train draws up to 700 volts of electric power from a third rail with the same type of electricity that is found in a bolt of lightning (direct current), and emphasizes how dangerous it is for anyone - child or adult - to walk or play near this constant river of electricity.

The main character of "What Makes The Train Run" is "Metro Man", a blue-striped, coverall-clad cartoon character who, for some 15 minutes showing time, warns youngsters about the hazards of loitering or playing near the third rail. He is the nemesis of "Mr. Third Rail Danger", the villain of the show.

The railroad is also making available a 16mm film, "It's Your Tomorrow", for junior high school and adult audiences. This film, which also deals with safety around railroad tracks and other property, has a running time of 17 minutes.

Both shows are available for schools and civic and community groups. The show is presented by Donald J. Neiss, LIRR manager of production services. The show may be scheduled by contacting Mr. Neiss, LIRR, Jamaica Station, Jamaica, N. Y. 11435, 212-526-0900, Ext. 228 or 229.

BOCES Distributes $1.4 Million to Nassau's School Districts

The Nassau Board of Cooperative Educational Services (BOCES) this week distributed $1,440,965 in state aid reimbursements to the local school districts of Nassau County.

The payment was the third of six installments on an estimated $17,291,820 that will be distributed to the districts by BOCES during the 1974-75 school year.

This week's payments are reimbursements for BOCES services purchased by Nassau's school districts during the 1973-74 academic year.

Under the BOCES state aid system, local school districts pay tuition and fees to send pupils to special and occupational education programs and to subscribe to data processing and other services provided by the cooperative board. The State then reimburses the districts, through BOCES, under a special formula.

Reimbursements average about 58 percent of the district's original cost, and are paid in the year after the costs are incurred.

BOCES aid payments are in addition to the regular state aid that local school districts receive directly from Albany.

VEEB Honors High School Equivalency Graduates

In July 1971, VEEB initiated High School Equivalency classes for adults.

Now, three years later, VEEB has assisted hundreds of Spanish speaking and English speaking adults in obtaining their diplomas.

VEEB has, within the last year, incorporated College Entry Preparation with the High School Equivalency Program and as a result 38 graduates have continued their education at the college level. Many have entered vocational training programs and the majority have entered the labor market.

VEEB has called together all past High School Equivalency students and will honor them in a graduation ceremony, the first of its kind ever held in Nassau County, on Friday, December 13 at Hempstead High School, President Street and Peninsula Blvd., from 7:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m.

Invitations have been sent to Nassau County Officials and community leaders. The general public is also invited to attend. VEEB is proud in the success of the program and "takes off its hat" to its students who have achieved so much after the completion of their training!

Those of us living in the Hicksville area will have the opportunity in January to donate blood for the benefit of Hemophiliacs in our area.

In addition, blood donors will be assured that an unlimited supply of blood will be available during 1975 for themselves, their spouse, dependent children under 19 years of age and parents and grandparents on both sides of the family. The opportunity to donate blood will be on Friday, January 10, 1975, in the Social Hall of the United Methodist Church of Hicksville, Old Country Road at Nelson Avenue. Donations will be accepted between 4 and 9 p.m.

Ambulatory Services at NCMC Receive Full Departmental Status

The Nassau County Medical Center has announced the elevation of its Ambulatory Services section to full departmental status and the appointment of Dr. Peter Addiego as director of the new unit.

In announcing the change on behalf of the Board of Managers, Donald H. Eisenberg, superintendent of the medical center, noted the rapid growth of Ambulatory Services in the past 10 years (from about 30,000 visits a year in 1964 to more than 147,000 last year). He said: "In the past decade, there has been a vast increase in the tendency of many county residents to use their hospital for all of their health care needs. More and more county residents are availing themselves of our ambulatory services more and more frequently. The elevation of this unit to full departmental status is a recognition of this trend."

In a letter formally advising Addiego of his appointment, the superintendent said, "I am very pleased at the recognition that this appointment accords our Ambulatory Services and equally pleased that an individual of your caliber is charged with this important responsibility." The appointment becomes effective immediately.

As director of the new Ambulatory Services Department — the 12th department of the Nassau County Medical Center — Addiego will report directly to the superintendent and will be responsible for the administration of all outpatient services, including the emergency room. One of his first tasks will be to complete the implementation of an appointment system in the clinics.

Addiego, 43, was assistant superintendent for seven years prior to being named director of the Department of Ambulatory Services. The New York City-born physician completed his undergraduate work at New York University and was graduated from Georgetown Medical School in 1957. He completed his internship, residency and fellowship in medicine from 1957 through 1962 and was named coordinator of medical education at the medical center in 1965. Three years later he was appointed assistant superintendent.

The new department head said, "I am proud and pleased to have been chosen for this position. The delivery of the best in health care in comfort and for the convenience of our outpatients is a most challenging task." Addiego added that, "My task has been made easier by the fine work done by Assistant Administrator Leo Fronza in keeping pace with the growth of ambulatory services during the year that he has directed the administration of the outpatient area. He shall continue to be of invaluable service to the department."

Workshop

The Long Island State Park and Recreation Commission is sponsoring a two morning photography walk and workshop at Nissequogue River State Park in Smithtown on Sunday, December 8 and Sunday, December 15. The workshop session will consist of a discussion of nature and architectural photo techniques. Among the topics to be discussed are Close-up Photography, Long Distance Photography, and Special Effect Outdoor Lighting.

After the workshop, walks will be conducted which will afford an opportunity to photograph the natural beauty of the park as well as a number of interesting structures, including an old grist mill. Each session will begin at 9:00 am and last until 12:00 noon. Reservations are required and limited to 20.

Guest photographer Robert Lang of Port Jefferson will be the instructor assisted by Park Naturalist Jack Cahill.

For information and reservations call the park office at ANS-1054 between the hours of 8:00 am and 5:00 pm.

Caso Seeks Support for Revenue Compensation Bill

Nassau County Executive Ralph G. Caso has begun mustering Congressional support for a bill which would compensate local governments for revenues lost through tax-exempt foreign properties.

"Abe Seldin, chairman of our Board of Assessors, has detailed for me some $100,000 in revenues lost to Nassau yearly because properties owned by the Soviet Union in Glen Cove and Upper Brookville are off the tax rolls," Caso said.

"These properties are off the tax rolls, but at the same time require far more government services than the average taxable property. This unfair situation has gone on for many years, but in these times we can no longer tolerate it."

Caso and Seldin said the inequity can be corrected through passage of a bill introduced in the House of Representatives last Spring by Congressman Angelo Roncallo of Massachusetts. The measure would direct the Secretary of the Treasury to compensate state and local municipalities for the loss of real property taxes due to exemptions directed by the federal government on properties owned by foreign countries or international organizations.

"I have sent letters to Long Island and New York City Congressmen to gain support for the Roncallo bill (H.R. 13422)," Caso said. "This bill seems to be a sleeper. With some all-out support, it could be passed to the mutual advantage of many local areas of government."

According to Seldin, there are three properties in Nassau which would be affected by the bill. They total almost a half million dollars in assessed valuation. Two are in Oyster Bay Town and the other is in the City of Glen Cove.

"Passage of the bill would generate $55,000 in school tax revenue in 1975 for Glen Cove, East Norwich and Brookville School Districts," Seldin said. "In addition, over $40,000 in revenue would be split by Nassau County, Oyster Bay Town, Glen Cove and the Village of Upper Brookville."

"My department is now forwarding a detailed report on revenue lost through these foreign properties to the Congressional Research Service of the Library of Congress. Such information was requested by the service and we were quick to respond."

Caso said he is seeking support of New York City congressmen since millions of dollars in exempt property exists within the city.

"The United Nations complex and dozens of other properties owned by foreign nations in the city would be affected by this proposal," Caso said. "It is time for the rest of the nation to shoulder some of the burden now being borne by America's international communities, which play host to representatives of foreign nations."

"It is unconscionable that the people of New York City and ultimately all the people of the state must pay out-of-pocket for such things as the million dollars worth of protection which had to be given Arab terrorists during their recent UN visit. It is equally wrong that a handful of taxpayers have to pay the bill for these foreign diplomats, who live in well-protected country estates and fashionable town houses."

In accepting this position, Mrs. Ocker stated, "Heart and blood vessel diseases, the nation's Number One Killer, will claim more than a million lives this year. In addition, lost wages and medical expenses resulting from these diseases will cost the nation an estimated $20 billion in 1975. This is why it is so important for each of us to help raise funds to conquer these dreaded diseases."

"When my son said 'nuclear expert,' I thought he meant graduate school. He meant joining the Navy!"

Mr. J. Jarabek, Lake Oswego, Oregon.

"At first I was surprised," remembers Mr. Jarabek, "because I'd never heard of joining the Navy to get nuclear training. Then I found out that more than 70% of the nuclear reactors in the country today are operated by Navy men."

This year, the Navy will again accept about 200 outstanding college graduates for its Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate (NUPOC) Program. Those who get in will have the chance to become experts in the field of nuclear power.

Could your son make it?

He must have a solid foundation in engineering, mathematics or physics. He must be able to handle advanced technology. And, of course, he must demonstrate the qualities which typify an officer in the U.S. Navy.

Once in the program, your son will be well-paid; starting salary is comparable with salaries given to junior executives by private companies.

If your son is still in college, it's even better for him. If he qualifies and is selected for the program right now, we start paying him (over $500 a month) during his senior year in college.

What do you think? Does Navy nuclear training sound like the kind of program your son could qualify for—or be interested in? If so, mail the coupon below. Or call the Nuclear Desk (toll-free) at 800-841-8000 anytime. The Navy

Anti-Crime Patrol

The Nassau County Police Department will begin its special holiday season anti-crime enforcement patrol aimed specifically at preventing crime and arresting persons who commit them, at the end of the month.

This special beefing up of patrols within the Police District is called Operation "Crime Stop," and has been in effect for the holiday season for several years.

To help implement the operation, Commissioner Louis J. Frank said all members of the department engaged in patrol duty have been told to "be alert and exert a maximum effort, giving special attention to areas known to experience an increase in crime during the holiday season."

The special patrols will go into operation on November 30th in each of the department's eight precincts and will include members of the Detective Division and the Crime Prevention Unit, all of whom will be armed with special weapons. Unless otherwise directed, the special patrols will end on January 1, 1975.

Commissioner Frank said, "We are confident that Operation Crime Stop will be an effective deterrent to many would be criminals and prevent any marked increase in crime during that period."

Committee On Public Access Clarifies Law

The Committee on Public Access to Records announced action in Albany compelling state and local governments to open their records to "any person."
At its regular meeting, the Committee also released a resolution stating that it "will exercise its authority to regulate public agencies concerning the public's access to records, specifically the availability, location and nature of records." The resolutions follow the issuance of regulations adopted by the Committee which governed fees for copies, hours of inspection, and appeals from denial of access. Regulations issued by the Committee have the force and effect of law.

The Committee was established on September 1, 1974, to oversee implementation of the Freedom of Information Act.

WASHINGTON EVENTS AFFECTING OUR COMMUNITY

U.S. Census Bureau statisticians predict that in the next 15 years, the greatest population jump is slated for Florida, a 43% increase by 1990. Next is Nevada, with almost 39%, followed by Arizona, Maryland and Virginia. Biggest population losses are predicted to be in North Dakota, Montana, South Dakota and Wyoming.

Senator Hollings

Conservation of energy continues to be a major topic in Washington. Senator Ernest Hollings (D-S.C.) has championed the cause by introducing legislation for federal standards on auto fuel consumption. Those in favor of this concept think it is superior to taxes on car weight or horsepower, for it gives manufacturers an incentive to improve auto efficiency.

Biggest gasoline conservation innovation of all may well be the "light foot" concept, according to Department of Transportation mileage studies. Cutting back your average speed from 60 mph to 50 can save six miles per gallon with a standard 4000 lb. car, a 30% increase in fuel economy.

Breakfast Buffet: Nutritious For Children, Easy For You

Does your body pick foods that have a lot of vitamins? Not always. Your body is smart enough to make you blink when there's dust in your eye or cough when something tickles your throat. But you can't trust it to always make you pick foods that are rich in vitamins. That's why it's a good idea to eat a well-balanced breakfast—like milk, fruit or juice, toast and butter, and a bowl of cereal.

This is one way to teach your children about good nutrition. Another way is by example. Set up a breakfast buffet and let the children help themselves. See the side panels of any of the Post children's cereals for other breakfast nutrition hints. The basic cereal breakfast is a good way to begin the morning.

In the 1860's the Princess of Wales suffered a slight accident which for a time caused her to walk with an almost imperceptible limp. In a spirit of servile imitation many of the women about the court also adopted this method of walking!

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Off Guard

Erma was all too familiar with the cracked floorboard in her apartment, and she usually stepped over it with care. But one day her attention was diverted by her pet parakeet, as it made a sudden beeline for an open window. Momentarily off guard, Erma tripped on the floorboard and sprained her ankle.

Could she collect damages from her landlord for not keeping the apartment in good repair? In a court test, the landlord argued that Erma herself was guilty of negligence for forgetting about the faulty condition of the floor.

But the jury absolved her of negligence and granted her claim. Reason: the "distraction doctrine." Under this doctrine, behavior that would ordinarily be considered negligent may be excused if the person's attention was distracted from the danger.

But not every kind of distraction is enough to constitute an excuse. It must be quite sudden, quite unusual, and quite compelling. Something less won't do. Thus:

A shopper in a supermarket noticed a loose curtain on the floor ahead of her. Just before reaching that spot, she paused to converse with a friend about rising prices. By the time she started walking again, she had forgotten about the curtain—and proceeded to fall over it.

"It was her own fault," said the market when she sued for damages. And this time, the court agreed. The court said a friendly chat was not a compelling enough distraction to justify forgetting about such an obvious danger.

What about traffic noises that distract a pedestrian? That will not ordinarily be enough to excuse negligence.

A man who stumbled on a broken curb claimed afterward, in suing the city, that the rumble of an oncoming car had diverted his attention. But a court held this to be no excuse.

"The sound of automobiles," said the judge, "is hardly an uncommon occurrence in urban America. City inhabitants should not be diverted by ordinary city traffic."

ON THE HOME SCENE

By Kathleen Strawhacker

LIGHTEN THE LAUNDRY LOAD

You get a lot of static from winter. Along with the common cold, knits that hug where they should hang and pants that stick to socks like paper on the wall are among the less attractive aspects of the season. That is because static electricity is a condition aggravated by dry, cold weather. It's most prevalent in synthetics which have hardly any moisture of their own.

The way to help prevent this is to use a fabric softener when you launder. This conditions the fabric to allow a better drape, which provides a path for the discharge of static electricity and keeps clothes from misbehaving.

That is only one of many good reasons for using a fabric softener. There is also the delicious softness it adds to sheets, towels, shirts, underclothes. It's kind to skin, helps pamper every member of your family and is an inexpensive way to live the soft life. Many women skip this step in laundering because they are in a hurry and don't want to take the time to go back to add softener after the wash cycle is completed.

Well, there's no need to take extra time and steps or hang around and wait until the wash cycle is completed. An efficient, economical fabric softener that is detergent compatible can be used right in the wash cycle and will leave your clothes feeling soft and smooth, as though they had been washed in rain-water!

It's a good idea to have several large bins or hampers in your laundry area to help sort the wash as it collects. With four containers, you'd use one for white things, one for colored, one for extra-dirty clothes. The fourth container will hold clean things ready to be ironed.

Knowing the special quirks of some of the fabrics you launder helps in giving them the correct treatment. Try to keep hangtags with laundering directions. Identify them by writing owner's name and type of garment on the tag as: Dad's red plaid shirt, Anne's pink dress, etc.

Dear Kathleen,
How do you get tar off vinyl flooring? My collie tracked some in from the roadway and I don't seem to be able to get it off. Would you also recommend a good product to use on it?

Mrs. David Parkchester
Clearfield, Pa.

Dear Mrs. Parkchester:
Some substances, like chewing gum and tar, can be tough to remove, and you have to be careful not to damage the surface. Also, tar may leave a permanent stain since its color tends to seep right down into the flooring itself. However, here are a few tips that might be worth trying. First, use an ice cube in a plastic bag to hasten hardening of fresh spots. Scrape up excess with a dull edged tool—work carefully to avoid scratching the floor.

The next step (except on floors that are not resistant to solvents, such as asphalt tile) is to apply a small amount of household solvent, like odorless mineral spirits or naphtha, with a cloth or very fine steel wool and rub clean. Wipe dry with a clean cloth and repolish if necessary.

For future care of your vinyl floor, I'd suggest a water base polish such as Future, Kleer, Super Beon, or Glo-Coat. Each puts down a clear, long lasting shine and stays shiny through many washings. If you want a product that never has to be stripped I'd suggest Step Saver, which removes the previous coat of itself as it cleans and lays down a shine.

Human Resources Auxiliary Opens Boutique, Glass Shop

The Human Resources Center Auxiliary has announced the opening of its new Boutique and Glass Shop.

The Boutique features a wide variety of hand-made articles created through the talents of many of the Auxiliary's more than 350 members, as well as Christmas cards, holiday stationery, decorations, and many other useful gifts. The Glass Shop contains intricately designed glass pieces hand engraved by the disabled workers at Abilities Inc., the internationally replicated demonstration work facility. Items of glassware include bud vases, paper-weights, ashtrays, and many others, all individually carved by hand and available nowhere else.

The annual Christmas sale is coinciding with the grand opening of the Boutique, located within the facility of Human Resources Center, on I.U. Willets Road in Albertson.

Proceeds from the sale of all items, which are offered Monday through Friday from 10:00 am to 4:00 pm go towards the programs of Human Resources Center with its School serving 216 severely disabled children with tuition free, fully accredited education; and the Human Resources Research and Training Institute, with its demonstration programs of evaluation, training and employment; and Abilities Inc. The Auxiliary's Volunteers serve Human Resources Center in many capacities, as teacher aides, swimming instructors, aides in clerical training, and as tour guides for the more than 10,000 people who visit Human Resources Center each year.

Nassau Libraries Offer Vocational, Educational Services

A new vocational and education information service is being offered by Nassau County through the Nassau Library System.

The service is now being set up in 25 public libraries in the county to provide fingertip information for women and men seeking new occupational fields.

The program has been set up by the Nassau County Women's Unit, under guidance of Lurana T. Campanaro, director, with the cooperation of Mrs. Muriel Javelin, Nassau Library System Interagency consultant. The Women's Unit trained library personnel in use of the service.

"While the program was planned primarily for women, men are not excluded," County Executive Ralph G. Caso said. "The Women's Unit is designed to provide vocational counseling and referral to women, but since there is no comparable service for men, this new program is equipped to assist males as well."

"I believe it is an advantageous home community-type extension of the Women's Unit service with great value for those seeking new fields, additional career training and possibly second careers."

Mrs. Campanaro said each of the selected 25 libraries is being equipped with an extensive card file containing educational and vocational information. The file includes background requirements for various occupations, educational needs and how to obtain them, plus data on salary ranges and advancement possibilities.

"This service is preliminary for anyone seeking new vocational or career outlets," Mrs. Campanaro said. "It isn't of course, an employment service, but will give a person an idea of what background they need to pursue a job."

"The librarians checked out in handling the system will provide basic information. If more is needed, they can refer people to the counseling and guidance offered by the Women's Unit."

The new Vocational and Occupational Information Centers - called Voicenters - is a ready reference for information on such fields as fashion, business, market research, mental health fields, nursing, education and dozens more.

If someone is interested in nursing for instance, the Voicenter can provide basic information, according to Mrs. Campanaro.

"It is broken down into sub-categories such as licensed practical nurse, registered nurse, public health nurse, etc.," she said. "The cards show job descriptions for each, requirements for certifications, education, where to get it, the fees involved and other background."

"Such information gives people a notion of where their present background can place them, what further training is needed of the likelihood of achieving it. At that point, our counseling service could take over and give guidance."

The Women's Unit has offices at One Old Country Road in Carle Place. For information, call 535-4646.

The public libraries with Voicenters are in Bethpage, East Meadow, Elmont Farmingdale, Franklin Square, Freeport, Glen Cove, Great Neck, Hempstead, Hicksville, Levittown, Long Beach, Massapequa, Merrick, North Merrick, Oceanside, Oyster Bay-East Norwich, Peninsula, Plainville, Plainview, Old Bethpage, Port Washington, Roslyn-Bryant, Seaford, Shelter Rock and Westbury.

County Vehicle Deaths Down 30 Per Cent

Vehicle deaths in Nassau County are down 30 per cent from last year Nassau County Police Commissioner Louis J. Frank announced today.

Frank stated that through October, the number of people who died in automobile accidents this year is 107 as compared to 154 for the same period in 1973.

Of these, 60 fatalities have occurred within the Police

District, the area covered by the county department's eight precincts, 23 in local departments and 19 on parkways patrolled by the Long Island State Park Police.

Commissioner Frank said he believes among the main reasons for the reduction in the number of deaths has been the enforcement of the 55 mile per hour speed limit.

Caso Proposes Name-Change for Nassau County Jail

County Executive Ralph G. Caso wants to change the Nassau County Jail's name to fit its aim.

He'll ask the Board of Supervisors on Monday, Dec. 2, to give the East Meadow facility the title it deserves — Nassau County Correctional Center.

"Calling it a jail is obsolete," Caso said. "Our philosophy is to rehabilitate and our goal is to return inmates to society ready to accept a productive, law-abiding role."

"With Sheriff Michael P. Seniuk at the helm, and with the cooperation of many other county departments, what is now called the jail has in truth become a correctional and rehabilitation center."

The name-change was suggested to Caso by Seniuk, who pointed out that New York State prisons have recently been retitled Correctional Facilities.

"The name jail," Seniuk said, "creates a mental picture of gray stone walls, iron bars and official indifference. That's not Nassau and its not enlightened penology."

Seniuk cited several projects which support his point in asking the name change.

Construction is underway on the separate Work Release Facility, which will provide for nearly 100 inmates. Along with living quarters outside the walls, they will have education and rehabilitative services within the 11 buildings being erected. The men and women in the program will go out to paying jobs each day and return each night. From their salaries, they will contribute toward their keep. When their terms are completed, they will go into civilian life with jobs to support themselves and families.

When work is completed on the 10th floor of the Nassau County Medical Center, the Sheriff's Department will have a fully-equipped and staffed 14-bed infirmary to be called the Correctional Medical Facility.

On-going projects at the presently-titled jail, supervised by Corrections Commissioner Saul A. Jackson, are remedial reading, high school equivalency courses, a women's vocational training program a pre-nurse's aide course taught by S. U. N. Y. Farmingdale instructors, and job counselling.

"In the vocational area," Seniuk said, "we are now in deep discussion with the Nassau Vocational Education and Extension Board to begin a full career training program. "Additionally, the county's Social Services Department proposes to bring in a team to work with inmates in every area of human services."

"It is part of the county's Mental Health Department plan to bring mental health services directly to the inmates for rehabilitative purposes and to provide referral and follow-up assistance on their discharge."

Seniuk pointed out that the Federal Bureau of Prisons recently opened its new Metropolitan Correctional Center in San Diego, Calif., for short-term confinement. It is an institution primarily for persons awaiting trial or serving short terms. They are housed in functional units rather than cells and are provided activities.

"The situation is similar to what we have in the county," Seniuk said. "Short-term prisoners and persons awaiting trial make up our population. We give them recreation, instruction, counselling and opportunity to change their course of life."

"On Dec. 2, we'll also begin a new policy of allowing inmates to be out of cells during the day to take part in individual or group activities. Visiting days will be increased from two to three per week."

"We believe this is a modern approach to an age-old situation. We will welcome a new name."

Kessel Protests Telephone Rate Hike Request

Richard Kessel, former Democratic candidate who has formed a consumers advocate office, has begun a drive to get telephone company customers to write letters to the PSC protesting the proposed telephone rate hike.

Kessel, who has been active in the fight against LILCO, says that the phone company's request is absurd, and that it puts a crushing burden on senior citizens. "This is not simply a rate hike. Unlimited time for local calls will be abolished. Thus, senior citizens, who depend upon the telephone call more than most of us, will be punished by the fact that after 5 minutes on a call, they will be charged for each five minute period after that. Right now, they can make local calls for one message unit, and speak for an unlimited amount of time with no additional charge.

Kessel urges everyone to write one letter to the Chairman of the Public Service Commission, 44 Holland Ave., Albany, New York, demanding that the request be denied, and also demanding that the chairman of the PSC step aside in the deliberations. "Mr. Kahn, the chairman, was a consultant to American Telephone for five years, and I seriously doubt that he can make a fair decision in this matter."

Kessel and other members of his consumers group will be passing out reminders at supermarkets, railroad stations, and other public areas to remind people to write these letters. "We must begin to band together and show our strength as consumers. If we can get enough people to barage the PSC with letters, we might at least be able to dent the current proposal. It takes five minutes to write a letter. Those five minutes might be very important."

Nassau-Suffolk Fight Offshore Oil Drilling

Nassau and Suffolk Counties drafted this week for the first round in a legal fight against offshore oil drilling. The last round may be fought in the US Supreme Court. The counties are aiming for a TKO against the US Department of the Interior.

The decision to file suit in federal court before the end of the year was reached at an emergency meeting on Tuesday, Nov. 19, in Hauppauge. The meeting of officials from both counties was called after the Interior Department had announced its intention to begin selling offshore leases in December, 1975.

"It has been obvious for a long time that the Interior Department is committed to Atlantic offshore drilling no matter what evidence comes in that it would be hazardous," Nassau County Executive Ralph G. Caso said today.

Caso said that the two counties are not going to permit Long Island to be gobbled up by the oil industry without a fight.

Caso and Suffolk County Executive John V.N. Klein announced their intention a year ago to file suit against any proposed offshore oil and gas drilling in the Atlantic Outer-continental Shelf (OCS).

"The Interior Department is making a mockery of the concept that people in a potentially threatened area have the right to make their views known on a project that would radically alter their environment," Caso charged. "The department has fixed a sales schedule before even the first of the required public hearings on the draft environmental impact statement."

Caso called the hearings a charade and said that the department is going through the motions of complying with the National Environmental Protection Act even though the decision has already been made to go ahead no matter what facts come to light at the hearings.

Long Island's 12 towns — three in Nassau and 10 in Suffolk — have been invited to join the lawsuit as co-plaintiffs.

Caso warned that potential major offshore spills — called inevitable by the Bureau of Land Management which prepared the draft environmental impact statement — are only one of the hazards to Long Island's beaches and wetlands.

"Offshore drilling would require extensive pipelines and a vast complex of onshore and inland refineries and industrial facilities in every community in both counties that would irrevocably destroy the Long Island that we know," Caso explained. "I saw what this kind of oil industry industrialization has done to the relatively underpopulated Gulf Coast of Louisiana. I shudder to think what it would do to Long Island."

Caso pointed out that a comprehensive report by the U.S. Council on Environmental Quality, released last April, had confirmed his testimony before the Council six months earlier that the oil and gas reserves in the Atlantic were much smaller than the oil industry had claimed. The council concluded that Long Island was a "high risk" area for offshore oil drilling, stating that the onshore facilities necessary to support offshore production would cause property values to plummet. Other studies have since confirmed Caso's position that offshore production would not significantly lessen the nation's reliance on foreign oil nor reduce East Coast fuel prices.

Caso is scheduled to testify next month in Trenton, New Jersey, on the Bureau of Land Management's draft environmental impact statement.

Caso said that it is symptomatic of the Interior Department's attitude that it had quietly scheduled the hearing initially for Nov. 28, almost before the ink was dry on the 1,500-page, two-volume document. The department did not notify the county, even though an Interior Department official had telephoned Caso only days earlier, in response to a letter from Caso to Interior Secretary Rogers Morton, assuring the county that the department had no plans to take any new action on offshore drilling.

When Caso and Klein protested vigorously and demanded time to study the statement, the department rescheduled the hearing for Dec. 11 but refused to move it to Long Island.
