Late Saturday, Aug. 9, the Hicksville Fire Dept. Rescue Squad was called to 203 9th St. to assist a 70 yr. old resident who was felled by a heart attack. Squad members worked to stabilize the victim for 30 minutes with drugs and sent an E.K.G. to N.C. Medical Center, after which they rushed him to East Meadow where 2 doctors, 2 interns, 3 nurses fought for 45 minutes to nurses fought for 45 minutes to keep him alive. But their fight was in vain and the victim was pronounced dead. On the positive side, the new heart monitoring equipment and new advance medical training is paying off. Many victims now stand a fighting chance to survive. The squad has helped several victims in the past few weeks survive, what, without the aid of this new equipment, would have been certain death.

Enrollment To Decline

Nassau County's school enrollment will undergo a startling decline of 48 per cent by 1985, according to a planning report submitted to County Executive Ralph G. Caso. The report also shows that, while public school enrollment is in steady decline, the per pupil cost of education has increased 43

Making matters worse, the eclining enrollment has been declining enrollment has been accompanied by a reduction in state aid to public schools, forcing a 34.5 per cent increase in the amount of school costs to be raised by local taxation and a consequent increase in the local school tax rate of 29.7 per cent. These are some of the facts presented in a school enrollment study just completed by the Nassau County Planning Com-mission and presented to Caso for the use of his Commission on Priorities Priorities.

The study, which deals with enrollment from 1970 to date, and projects figures into 1985, indicates the school age population will drop from 389,102, the 1970 figure, to 201,500 by 1985. That is a decline of 187,602 in the 15-year period.

and we should pass the luck along."

The Hicksville parish started "passing the luck along" last May when a member of the Community Life Committee, which originated the idea of sponsoring a Vietnamese family, contacted the Diocésan Resettlement Council of Catholic Charities for information. The following month Mrs. Cecelia Rios of Catholic Charities, accompanied by the Rev. Joseph Duc-Minh, a Vietnamese priest assigned to Corpus Christi parish, Mineola, attended an informal meeting at the Hicksville parish to more fully explain the program. Because of Hicksville parish to more fully explain the program. Because of his extensive knowledge of the Vietnamese culture and his ability to speak the language, Father Duc-Minh has been indispensible to the Diocesan Resettlement Council and to the resettlement program in general.

After obtaining some details about the sponsorship program, the Community Life Committee sought the parish council's approval of the project. The council okayed the idea providing it had the support of the parish. Parish priests made sponsorship the priests made sponsorship the subject of their homilies the weekend of July 4 and asked those interested to attend a meeting soon afterward. Ac-cording to Mrs. Moore, more than 60 parishioners turned out for that meeting. "I couldn't believe those people," she exclaims. "From the time they came in the deor they were gung ho, full of ideas, enthusiasm, the works." Following the suggestion of the Diocesan Residement Council, the 'parishioners' divided into subcommittees. Mrs. Moore and her husband, Frank, were put in charge of food for the refugees. They 've been asking supermarkets for gift certificates and received an offer of 100 pounds of rice from a store in Flushing. Anne and Elmer Breschard were helped in their search for housing by an immediate offer of a finished basement, complete with bath and cooking facilities. The Rev. William Karvel, an assistant at St. Ignatius Loyola, and his employment committee contacted businesses in the area to let them know they'd be seeking job opportunities for the refugees in the near future.

Under the chairmanship of Mrs. Enid McEvoy, the finance committee is planning a cocktail party Sept. 7 in the Knights of Columbus Hall. Heitz Pl., Hicksville, to raise funds for the Vietnamese family. The party is open to all who'd like to help the cause and details can be obtained by calling Mrs. McEvoy at OV 1-5763. Close to $1,000 is already in the kitty, proceeds from a door collection takenup after Masses one Sunday.

The sucess of the parish project The sucess of the parish project to date doesn't surprise Mrs. Moore at all. "We have a special parish," she says, "and Fthought if any group could do it this group could. You can't imagine anyone who does more than Father Harrer. When someone comes up with such a wayout idea that the rest of us tremble at the suggestion, Father will say, "I don't see any problem with that. We couldn't have done it without the support of all the priests. That's what makes the whole parish so special—the kind of people they are. They really make you understand what it means to be a Christian and the joys of living a Christian life."

Board of Supervisors

By Marcia Yeates

The Nassau County Board of Supervisors listened well into the late afternoon to some 28 speakers at its public hearing Monday on the Board's three proposals for reforming the present structure of the county government. The Board's proposals, two of which have already been defeated at the polls by light votes, were approved of by some of the speakers and roundly castigated by others. At its last meeting, the Board had proposed restructuring the County government by (1, modifying the present six-man Board of Supervisors to comply Board of Supervisors to comply with the one-person, one-voice mandate given by the courts; (2, creating a 15-member legis-lature, with members receiving $20,000 to $27,000 per year salaries; (3, creating a twelve-member legislature, with similar salaries.

Just before the hearings began, announcement was made that State Supreme Court Justice Joseph Liff intends to impose the 154nember legislature plan drawn up by the citizens commission headed by Dr. Robert Payton, President of Hofstra University.
Richard Kessel of Merrick, an outspoken opponent of the Board's proposals, led off the morning session with a warning that unless the Board withdraws its proposals or presents a clear choice to the voters, he and Bernard Flaton, a Merrick attorney who had previously chall-enged the Board's actions in the Congressman John Wydler of Garden City warmly praised the Supervisors and stated his support for retention of the Supervisors and stated his support for retention of the present Board, with the required weighted voting adjustments. calling a legislature "too costly."

Mayor Dalton Miller of the Village of Hempstead recommended that two items be put on the hallot, 11. the revised Board of Supervisors, 12 the Payton plan for a legislature.

Mayor William Fleischer, President of the Nassau County Village Officials Association read a statement drafted by the Asso-ciation's Executive Board calling it a "distinct disservice to put three propositions on the ballot."

The executive Board Javared a three propositions of the beautiful and the free amodified weighted voting plan. Mr. Fleischer stated that he did not concur with their decision and that he, himself favored putting the Payton Commission plan and the weighted voting plan on the batter.

State Senator Karen Burstein State Senator Karen Burstein stated that she felt 'anger and dismay' at the Board's actions in delaying the change in governmental structure. She accused the Board of 'historical amnesia' and 'arrogance of power' and urged them to adopt the Payton Commission plan. Her speech was greeted with loud appliance.

speech was greeted with loud applause

Also critical of the Board's actions to date in presenting a plan for reforming the County government, was Elinor Berger, President of the Nassau County League of Women Voters. She called the Board's proposals "desperation measures." She was joined by the presidents of twelve local leagues in her statement of opposition to the Board's actions.

Nassau Democratic Chairman Stanley Harwood called the Payton Commission Plan "superior to the Democratic Party plan" and recommended that the Board put only that plan on the ballot.

Many other speakers stated that putting three (ur even four) proposals on the ballot would be too confusing to voters.

After hearing speakers all day on the proposals, the Board reserved decision on which plan or plans it will decide should go before the electorate

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor:

To the Editor:
The battle for this year's bloated budget is over. The trick artist's of HCBE succeeded in wrapping their elephantine 75 76 tax burden around the neck of the Hicksville taxpayer like a pair of cement shoes on a drowning man. The success of their ploy in putting all the administrator and teacher goodies into a package that had to be approved before voter-desired tems could be gained has hardened the opposition of a great many taxpayers against future school budgets. I for one, an exsheep, have joined BELT (Better Education - Less Taxes) and pledge to continue efforts to reach that goal which hopefully will preclude this community from sliding to fiscal insolvency as is being experienced by New York City. That slide will come within a few years unless fiscal sanity returns to all public spending but particularly school spending because of its catalytic effect upon the soaring and already incredibly high property until reason replaces the invisible hand of self-interest.

The school board mandate is a hattle for this year's

The school board mandate is a The school board manuscript simple one: "To provide quality education for all children while remembering its responsibility to all Hicksville taxpayers". The all Hicksville taxpayers". The word ECONOMY should be foremost in the minds of school board members. But it is not within the nature of HCBE school board members to economize. The monstrous budget for the 75 76 school year reflects their adoption of that enormous fallacy "bigger spending better education". Many taxpayers rationalize their belief in that fallacy by adopting a secondialacy: "The better education allegedly received from bigger spending will increase the value of property". You can believe that fallacy only if you believe a person doesn't die as dead from starvation as from hanging. If school taxes continue to zoom upward as they have in the past two years, try to find a buyer for your property. The value of a adoption of that enormous fallacy two years, try to find a buyer for your property. The value of a home is only what a buyer will pay for it - not what is wanted for it, and no person will choose voluntarily to reside in an area of and ever-increasing high and ever-increasing property taxes.

If HCBE is as powerful as they think they are then they are challenged to reduce the cost of education without lowering the standard of education. It most standard of education. If most certainly can be done if the HCBE school board; (1) has the guts to do it; (2) has the guts to eliminate programs of dubious value (BOZO Courses); (3) has the guts to eliminate courses that the gus to eliminate deadwood and duplication in the teaching na anna na mana na man staff: (5) has the guts to say "NO" to local groups; (6) has the guts to reduce inflated staff and guts to requee inflated staff and teacher salaries; (7) has the guts to reduce administrative and teaching positions as enrollment decline; (8) has the guts to tighten the belts of school ad-ministration and instruction; (0) ministration and instruction; (0) and has the guts to eliminate firlls from employee contracts. HCBE will not act on the challenge. Its board members approved a multi-year teacher contract which they must live with and which we must pay for. Therefore HCBE board members must be removed and replaced with people of moderate persuasion in the next two years otherwise spending at their actions. otherwise spending at their ac-celerating rate will continue and property taxes will rise to colossal highs. Then a trickle of colossal highs. Then a trickle of departures from Hicksville will begin. The trickle will turn into a flow, then to a flood, and will end in anexodus. Hicksville, a carbon copy of New York City, will remain only for the rich who can afford the high property taxes, the very poor whose taxes will be paid by the county, the locked-in elderly who are too poor to pay the taxes and too poor to move, and the teaching and school and the teaching and school administration staff, who if living in Hicksville, will remain for "income sake"

Sincerely Yours, Frank H. Willard Ex-sheep

At Garvies Point Museum

If you'd like to know what living on Long island was like 8,000 years ago, be sure to see The Garvies Point Museum exhibit, "Artifacts of the Prehistoric Long Island Indians," open from August 10 through November 19. The exhibit describes, through artifacts of the era, something of the quality of life experienced by the Long Island Indians. The collection is on loan through the courtesy of the Museum of the Long Island Chapter of the New courtesy of the Museum of the Long Island Chapter of the New York State Archaeological Association, located at Southold.

Association, located at Southerns.
The exhibit provides an overview of the various types of clay, stone, bone, antler and shell artifacts which survived the centuries. Included are numerous awis fashioned from deer and bird leg bones, eyed needles made of rib sections, a probable net weaving tool, rate fishhooks, barbed harpoon heads, antler tine arrowheads and perhaps the only two turtle shell dishes recovered from Long Island archaeological sites.

Also on display are rarely seen carved stone vessels that were used by local Indians about three used by local Indians about three thousand years ago. Shaped like overgrown casserol dishes, the pots were fashioned at quarry sites in southern New England and traded across the South. The pottery frágments feature a variety of geometric designs which were stamped, impressed or incised in the soft clay before the vessel was fired. Other stone tools and implements represented are spearpoints. and implements represented are spearpoints, knives, blades, scrapers, drills and axeheads. The Garvies Point Museum and Preserve operated by the Nassau County Department of Recreation and Parks, located on Barry Drive in Glen Cove, is open daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is 25 cents

Vandalism Causes 314,630 Damage

Oyster Bay Town Councilman Salvatore R. Mosca has praised the Town's Department of Public Works and Purchasing Division for acting promptly to secure bids for emergency repair of drainage facilities in Bethpage. "These two agencies (DPW and Purchasing) moved swiftly and in close cooperation to prepare and advertise bids for the repair work," said Mosca. "It is a result of these efforts that the Town Board was able to authorize the repairs on Tuesday, August 12th."

The Councilman from Beth-page said that vandeling beth-

Probation Department Needs Volunteers

Thirty men and women from all walks of life are now working as volunteers in the Nassau County Probation Department. Louis J. Milone, Director of Probation, has announced that the department is now recruiting additional volunteers to assist probation officers by working with children, adults and families.

Probation volunteers must be at least 18 years of age and residents of Nassau County. They must be willing to share their time, their interests and their skills in order to help others help themselves."

Interested persons may contact Miss Genevieve Tevlin, Coordinator of Probation Volunteers at 585-4639, for additional information.

The probation volunteer program, according to Milone, is a national effort to increase community participation in probation and to provide assist-ance to probation officers with high caseloads, as well as to clerical staff.

clerical staff.
"It is an attempt to make probation work better for everyone," Milone said, "for economic as well as human reasons. It costs more than $10,000 a year for the average prison sentence. Probation supervision which keeps an offender in the community, costs about $1,200 a year." The present group of volunteers in Nassau County consists mainly of college County consists mainly of confect graduates, many with advanged degrees, who are acting as volunteer probation officers. Others are qualified college students, housewives and businessmen. Several are experienced in counseling, law and related disciplines. plines.

Training is provided by the.

Nassau Rep Theatre Presents 'Luv'

On August 22, 23, 29 and 30th the New Nassau Repertory, Long Island's only professional County sponsored theatre company, will present Murray Schisgal's hilarious comedy "Luv". Performances will be held in the County Theatre located in the Social Services Building, County Seat Drive, Mineola, Curtain time is 8:40 P.M. All tickets are $2.50 General Admission.

"Luv" is a comic look at the marital disillusionment of three characters and their zany at-On August 22, 23, 29 and 30th the characters and their zany attempts to solve their problems by alternately marrying and divorcing each other. Harry Berlin attempts to solve his absolute disillusionment with the world first by suicide and then by marriage to Ellen Manville.

Ellen seeks intellectual and sexual satisfaction through her marriage to Harry. Milt Manville seeks freedom to marry a twenty year old sex-pot through his divorce from Ellen. All efforts are a failure. Harry "lays in the
