The formal meeting was adjourned at 2:05.

The Board denied a permit to Baron-Blakeslee, a division of Purex Corp., to construct a chemical tank farm in an in-dustrial-residential section of Hicksville. The company had petitioned for permission to build 29 chemical storage tanks in a 1.86 acre section of property near 1.86 acre section of property fleat Gardner Ave. and W. John St. Opposition to the construction was based on the possible dangers of fire and explosion which the storage of some 190,000 gallons of liquid anti-freeze would present to the surrounding areas. The Board denied the permit, claiming that the tank farm would be of no benefit to the community

The first of six public Hearings was a "Petition of Town Board's Own Motion" for a change of zone from Bus-A to Bus-F at Woodbury.

This Hearing was brought about by the Supreme Court Decision overruling TOB and declaring that the present zoning was unconstitutional. [Jan., 1976). The property in question lies on the n s of Jericho Tnpk e o Woodbury Rd. It is that parcel between Crest Hollow Country Club and Woodbury Commons. Burkes T.V. and The Antique Shop currently stand on the property 135 x 150 feet.

Item No. 2 was put off until September 28 because of an impropriety in the Notice to Concerned Parties.

The third item on the agenda was a Hearing on the Petition of Crown Petroleum Corp. for a Speaking in opposition were Mr. Gianne, Michael Leone, Joseph Storelli, Mrs. Juliano and Joseph Storelli, Mrs. Juliano and Caroline Kwarte. The Board reserved decision.

Item No. 4 was almost a duplication of No. 3 with the exception that the petitioner, Save Way Stations Inc. was taking over a station that was boarded up.

Mr. K.B. Friedman, attorney for Robert Hall Clothes, objected.

The next hearing was to consider the Proposed Local Law providing for the protection, preservation and conservation of freshwater Wellands.

Under the terms of the New York State Law, if the TOB fails to provide jurisdiction over the Wetlands, control passes to the County of Nassau and in the event of their failure it would pass onto the State of N.Y. Opponents to the law argue that this is another step lowards loss of Home Rule and that the Town is attempting to provide stopgap measures to safeguard control.

Mr. Joseph Beck of Oyster Bay Cove objected to the proposal and suggested repeal of the state law. The last of the Hearings was to

Dear Editor

Despite the innovations such as resource recovery in the area of solid waste disposal. Oyster By Town officials seem unalterably determined to proceed with their idea of dumping raw garbage into a 6-acre hole in the 65 acre proposed Plainview landfill park. Supervisor Burke is quick to acclaim the Town's newspaper recycling program, yet he fails to recognize the inherent danger of contaminating the water supply of Town residents by dumping raw garbage on top of ground water. Oyster Bay officials try to allay the fears of residents by pointing to the plastic liner which will contain the garbage. Environmentalists and engineers have voiced the possibility that the liner would deteriorate, allowing the garbage to seep through, effecting the water which lies beneath

I believe, that, if Mr. Burke and his less-than-enlightened Republican colleagues would face reality, they would see that the 65 acre site is unsuited for this type of industrial development. They should also be made aware that dumping raw garbers into that dumping raw garbage into a hole is the most regressive method of waste disposal. HAPPINESS AND SUCCESS HAPPINESS AND SUCCESS Every normal person wishes to be happy and successful. Often in counseling I ask the question.
"Given all the positive and negative forces in your life, when you put it all together, are you basically happy?" When a person says. "No." I realize that we have work to do.

we have work to do.

I believe that Jesus Christ is at the center of personal happiness, and a successful life. To live a life favorable to Him is to permit God's Spirit to exert control over our lives. And if we permit His control of our lives, then His will becomes our will. And what is His will? "I came that you might have life and have it more abundantly." His will is that we have happiness and purpose in life.

I would like to suggest what I call four P's to developing a relationship with God. They are: People, Prayer, Pursuit, and Patience. Sort of four P's in a pod the pod or encompassing factor is God Himself. Our first P is for People. It is difficult to discover God in a yearner.

God in a vacuum,
On several occasions teenagers leaving for college have told me that they didn't plan to attend church at college for they wanted to use the time in college to make up their own mind about God.

Yet, with such a position you cut off one of the surest ways to experience God; which is to be around people whose lives are God-touched and therefore Godblessed. If your faith ever becomes weak, that is the time when your church attendance and your activity with other Christians needs to be the most intense. God will use His people to reach out to you if you don't avoid them. Our first P that helps us know God and thereby have happiness and success is off one of the surest ways to Let me try to illustrate. If you're in a little boat approaching a sandy beach and you throw out the anchor, and it approaching a special property of the sand, and you pull on the sand, and you pull on the anchor rope until the boat the anchor rope until the boat to the boat to the boat, or have you moved the shore? Of course, you've moved the boat to the shore. The purpose of prayer, likewise, is not to move God and heaven to you, but to move you (Continued on Page 12)
