New Flag At Kennedy Mall

By Richard Evers

Old Glory continues to wave day and night at Hicksville's John F. Kennedy Memorial Mall with its monument to the war dead of the community. Thanks to the recent donation of two flags by the Charles Wagner Post of the American Legion, the mall on Broadway at the junction of Jerusalem Avenue was graced anew this Veterans Day with the national colors.

Constant buffeting by winds, the glare of sun and damp of night soon reduce even strong fabric to gallant tatters, so it is necessary for frequent changes of the colors during a twelve month period.

The meeting then moved on to Councilman Joe Saladino, the Republican candidate for Town Councilman. Mr. Saladino thought that the G-1 Zoning discriminated against the "little guy". Mr. Saladino has done many things, including being a laborer, a private with the infantry, and he has dabbled in the arts. Mr. Saladino went to Law School at St. John's University and he said that he was happy to be at the Council with our resident Councilman, Tom Clark.

Ann Ocker apologized that she was unable to attend, but she had a cold.

Tom Clark then took the podium. He informed the Council that the state finally allowed a public referendum on the parks, and it will be held in March. By January, a booklet with all the information will be printed.

The Parking Garage is almost up to capacity, especially in the months from October through May. The existing lots in the G-1 zone will be built upon - the lots now used by some commuters to park their cars. Therefore as G-1 develops, we might be in need of more high density parking. Concerning the G-1, Tom Clark urges anyone to design or sketch what you would like to see on Broadway to be and send it to either himself or any other member of the Town Board. They would like some input.

Sewers are coming by leaps and bounds. They passed East Street. The next major line will be going in on Levittown Parkway to Acre to Charlotte to Cantiague Park and the work will begin in a couple of weeks. He will bring a map of the sewers at the next meeting. The January construction will be going out for bid.

As work is being done on sewers, storm drain sewers - sewers with catch basins - are being constructed. In some sections, curbs, aprons, and portions of sidewalk are being replaced. As the construction company goes along, the decision to replace goes by grade and height. As he goes down the street, the contractor is per-

Social Security: A Major Overhaul Needed

By Cong. Norman Lent

This month, the House of Representatives and the United States Senate begin trying to adjust the differences in the legislation they have passed attempting to patch up our ailing Social Security system. There is no doubt the system is in serious trouble, and will be unable to meet its financial obligations to the retired persons who depend upon it unless changes are made.

The trouble is, neither the House nor the Senate did much serious study of the problems and possible solutions. Both the House and the Senate resorted to their customary "bubble gum and bailing wire" approach. For years now, they have been applying temporary patchwork without attempting to deal on a permanent basis with the problems which cause the difficulties.

On October 27, I voted against the House Social Security Tax Bill, H.R. 9346, for that reason. Although it passed by a vote of 275 to 146, most supporters conceded that H.R. 9346 was a jumble of patchwork solutions, held together with a network of higher tax rates. For example, without so much as holding hearings on the question, the Ways and Means Committee had voted to put more than 6 million federal workers into the system. There was no thought as to how this would be worked - that was left to the future. It was just a "quick fix" idea. Fortunately, we who opposed the plan were able to muster enough support so the provision putting federal workers into the program was knocked out of the bill.

But what was left was bad enough. H.R. 9346 would sharply increase Social Security taxes for workers and their employers, tripling the maximum amount paid by workers and employers alike. The Senate has proposed even higher increases in the maximum rates, and, for the first time, would require employers to make higher contributions for some employees. This violates the 42 year old Social Security tradition of having the employer contribute taxes equal to those contributed by each employee.

Earlier this year, I joined in sponsoring a bill to set up a National Commission which would be required to make a thorough study of all the problems now plaguing the system. The Commission would be required, within two years, to report recommended solutions to the Congress. It seems to me this is the only way we can put Social Security back on a sound basis.

A modified version of this Commission is proposed in the bill which passed the House. Whether it will survive the Senate-House conference is not clear at this point. But whatever happens, I believe it is vitally important to go ahead with this study. And I plan to continue to work for this major overhaul of our Social Security system, until we have worked out the problems, and settled upon a system which guarantees every person participating in it his or her rightful share of the benefits from it, without being taxed into bankruptcy first.

He or she is your grammar school child growing up in Nassau. The probability that they either have, are now, or going to use drugs is alarming.

In the early 1960s the youngest drug abusers in the county were high school students who went into New York to buy a five dollar bag of marijuana. When they were not able to find drugs there they stayed at home and sniffed glue or drank cough syrup containing codeine.

Today however according to Detective Captain Donald White, the head of the Narcotics Division of the Nassau County Police Department, grammar school children here are smoking marijuana, taking mind altering pills, and drinking alcohol.

"It frightens me," confesses this veteran of the narcotics force. "They're smoking marijuana on school buses, in school yards, in their homes, and at the movies."

According to Det. Capt. White glue sniffing is too passe for even grammar school children, and they instead are using the same drugs as adults.

"Often times they're introduced to them by an older brother or sister," notes the police officer, "and they don't have to go to New York to buy them because they are growing right here in the county."

Recently agents in his department arrested those allegedly involved in growing several 1000 pounds of marijuana in a field in Muttontown.

"Back in the 1960s an arrest for a few ounces of marijuana was a big bust," admits Det. Capt. White. "These days the seizure of forty or fifty pounds is routine."

The main objective of the narcotics department is to try to stop drug pushers and current conviction rate seems to indicate they are doing just that. But the fight to get the manpower needed to control drug traffic was an uphill battle for the department.

When Det. Capt. White joined the department as a sergeant in 1966 there were only 11 men assigned to the unit. As the drug problem became apparent to county officials, the number of officers attached to that department grew to its present high of 70.

"We knew back in the 1960s that our proximity to New York and its drug abuse problem would soon become ours," he says.

In 1966 there were 378 arrests for drug violations in Nassau but only four years later that number had nearly multiplied by 10 to 3,849, and according to Det. Capt. White most ended with convictions.

Yet Det. Capt. White is optimistic about drug abuse among the youth in Nassau who range in age from grammar school children to college students. Statistics indicate only a small number of young users wind up using hard drugs such as heroin. Most stop taking drugs once they pass the experimental stage of their lives.

"Except for the hard core addicts, the majority of offenders we arrest who are in their twenties or thirties are pushers not users," says Det. Capt. White.

Indeed the fight to control drugs in Nassau is a constant struggle. About four months ago police seized a truck in Roslyn that was travelling from Florida with a cargo of 350 pounds of marijuana.

Det. Capt. White admits alcohol abuse is a problem among youngsters in the county but said his department is not in charge with enforcing the illegal sale of alcohol to minors.

"That's handled by the Bureau of Special Operations," he says. "The most we ever handle is the arrest of a deli owner who is selling beer to a 12 year old."

Certain pills appear to be popular in particular communities throughout Nassau.

"A pill may be tested and approved by one group of abusers who then recommend it to another group in another area," he says. "It works by word of mouth and sometimes drugs do get a bad review."

That was the situation with LSD in the really early 1970s. Its negative hallucinogenic effects caused its decline in usage.

Currently the drug Phenylcyclidine or PCP is the most popular hallucinogenic drug in Nassau, says Det. Capt. White.

"The trip the user gets is not as bad as LSD," says Det. Capt. White.

However the rise in the use of marijuana and the low usage of heroin remains the most interesting aspect of drug usage in Nassau today.

"In 1971 29 percent of the arrests were for heroin, and 41 percent were for marijuana," notes the policeman. "In 1975 heroin arrests had dropped to six and a half percent and marijuana had risen to 66 percent."

The sun wasn't exactly dazzling for the Hofstra Homecoming celebration and football game with Wagner College of Staten Island, but the threat of rain didn't really materialize. Former Dutchman and N.Y. Jets grid star John Schmitt was on hand to MC some of the Homecoming events, and President Jim Shuart picked the best duty - kissing the Homecoming Queen. Mayor Bud Miller presented the Mayor's Trophy to Hofstra senior LB Mark Blankmeyer as most sportsmanlike member of Dutchmen squad. Hofstra gained a 6-2 record on their 27-7 win as the Huff brothers scored 2 TDs each.

The entertainment world lost another of its irreplaceable favorites with the passing of Guy Lombardo. Fortunately, his brothers Lebert and Victor remain to carry on the great Lombardo band in the style that has led the big band world for nearly half a century. But Long Island has lost one of its hardest working civic champions. On the local scene he will best be remembered for the musical extravaganzas which he produced in recent years at the Jones Beach Marine Theatre. But during the more than 30 years that he resided here as the Squire of Freeport's Woodliff Canal, he was an all-out, hard working member of many a committee dedicated to benefitting some worthy cause, often donating the services of his great Royal Canadians.

During the Nassau County Golden Jubilee celebration of 1949, we had such an association with him when he worked out the musical program for the first L.I. Industrial Exposition held at Roosevelt Field. His attendance at the planning meetings was tops, and he produced everything asked of him - including the Royal Canadians.

In countless encounters with him during the ensuing years, whether several months or several years apart, he showed that immediate recognition, as if it had been only yesterday. He will be missed.

County's Water Supply Prohibits Population Growth

Nassau County Press Service
By Michael Bux

A report to be released soon by the Nassau-Suffolk Regional Planning Board will advise local governments against any major additional population growth in Nassau County.

Citing the environmental hazards to the county's present water supply, and its adjacent waters, Dr. Lee Koppelman, the board's executive director said in an exclusive interview that the county's water supply would be able to serve a limited population growth of approximately 100,000 new residents to the county's present population of 1.5 million. The executive director noted that a population increase beyond that limit would require the construction of a waste disposal system that would probably be harmful to Long Island's adjacent water environment.

The new report confirms the 1970 master plan for Long Island which urged the towns of North Hempstead and Oyster Bay to maintain a low density population.

"Nassau residents are going to have to start to voluntarily conserve the water supply they currently have," said Dr. Koppelman, "because the droughts of the 1960s are just an indication of things to come."

According to opponents such as The Sierra Club, an environmental group, the county's overall water environmental position was greatly jeopardized when the village of North Hills approved a rezoning plan which allowed builders to construct up to 20 housing units per acre. Previously the area was zoned, to permit one house to be built for every two acres.

The Nassau County Planning Commission concurred with Dr. Koppelman's opinion when it rejected the village's application for the rezoning. However, the village had the power to override the commission's decision.

"The town proposal would have placed intolerable burdens on the water supplies of nearby communities, and also burden such levels of its governments as sewer districts," says Martin Abramson, a spokesman for the planning commission. "The commission felt that if the rezoning took place it would have increased the village's population from 300 to 10,000 and eventually its commercial enterprises would have increased the population by three times that amount."

The report from Dr. Koppelman is funded by the provisions of the Water Pollution Control Act, 1972 (Section 208) of the Environmental Protection Agency and took into consideration the nitrates found in the county's water supply, and the discovery of potentially carcinogenic products in the water system of the City of Glen Cove. The board's study also examined the historical decline in the water table levels of lakes and streams in Hempstead that were caused by droughts and the dumping of effluents from sewer treatment plants into the marine environment.

An additional impetus for the study was the closing of bathing facilities, and the curtailing of shell fishing in the county which was instituted when the county Department of Health found high levels of coliform in the water which exceeded safety standards.

As a counter measure to those predicaments the Nassau County Department of Public Works undertook a $5 million study to test the quality of water that is chemically processed and then filtered back into the ground. Also the county authorized the Army Corp of Engineers to determine if water could be obtained from the Hudson River during the 1960s when its water supply dropped to a low level after the droughts.

"If the water supply becomes serious in Nassau it would most likely turn to Suffolk for some of its water," notes Dr. Koppelman.

However, Dr. Koppelman points to the dilemma New York found itself in 20 years ago when it had to ask authorities of the Delaware River Basin for permission to use its water supply.

"The city had to go to the U.S. Supreme Court to get an okay," says Dr. Koppelman, "because residents down there were opposed to the idea."

WELWYN ESTATE in Glen Cove, for which the Nassau County Board of Supervisors approved the appropriation of $2 million in bonds at its Monday, Nov. 14th meeting. This amount together with $1 million previously authorized by this Board, constitutes the offer to a group of six who own this estate.

This estate, which consists of 201 acres, has been designated as a County park and preserve. It is reported that the present owners do not intend to accept the county's offer, as they are asking more money, which can only be obtained by condemnation proceedings.

Welwyn was part of six estates originally owned by the Pratt family who were Standard Oil Co. executives.

Dial-A-Bus

...six days a week, Monday through Saturday, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., from Oyster Bay thru East Norwich, Syosset and Jericho to Hicksville and return," said William F. Maher, president of Hicksville Transport, Inc., who is conducting the new Oyster Bay Dial-A-Bus which began operation November 16.

Maher said the new Oyster Bay Dial-A-Bus concept is designed to give preference to senior citizens who are desirous of convenient and economical transportation. The fare will be $1, one way, which is one-sixth the cost of taxi fare from the hamlet of Oyster Bay to the hamlet of Hicksville.

The expediting of a temporary state permit to enable Hicksville Transport, Inc. to start operation of the Dial-A-Bus for the convenience of holiday shoppers and the mobility of senior citizens during the seasonal inclement weather, was due to the intervention and behest of Mr. Martin Gach, director of the Nassau County Office of Public Transportation; Commissioner

Contact Lens Firm Has An Advertising Problem

Nassau County Press Service
By Michael Bux

The Nassau County Department of Consumer Affairs is looking into the possibility that advertisements by the Group Contact Lens Plans Inc. of Hicksville maybe misleading.

Robert McFadden, the department's chief investigator, has asked Stanley Leader, one of Group Contact's owners, to explain his advertisement which offers soft contact lenses for $99. One of the points to be discussed in their meeting is that the advertisement does not indicate that there is an additional $10 fee for an eye examination and a $15 charge for a care kit.

Mr. Leader contends he is not meeting with Mr. McFadden to review the advertisement in question.

"I have volunteered to explain the company's policy relative to the consumer," Mr. Leader stated in a telephone interview.

He explained that a year ago it became legal to advertise such devices as contact lenses, but the law forbade including the cost of an eye examination in the advertisement.

"A year ago we advertised hard lenses for $69 and an eye exam for $10," Mr. Leader says,

"but the law forced us to delete the cost of the professional service, which was the eye exam." However Myra Goggins, a investigator with the Division of Professional Conduct which is part of the Department of Education of New York State said the fee could be advertised.

Currently, Eye-Deal Optical in Bethpage and Lake Ronkonkoma is running an advertisement in Newday for soft contact lenses for $99, but its copy says that the purchase price does not include the cost of the eye examination or the care kit.

"Our ads are not misleading," Mr. Leader insists. "If you read the entire ad you will understand all the guarantees that we offer."

Group Contact also has offices in Albany and on E. 79 St. in Manhattan.

The company is not a member of the Better Business Bureau in New York, but that organization has received four complaints against Group Contact by consumers.

Among the charges are that the lenses do not fit well, that they cause infections and that it was apparent to others that the consumer was wearing the lenses.

The Better Business Bureau in Nassau says it does not have any complaints registered against Group Contact.

Group Contact's advertisement has been reviewed by the Nassau County District Attorney's office, which deals with commercial fraud, but Robert Clearay, the attorney in charge has decided not to pursue an investigation of Group Contact's operation.

"In order to get a criminal conviction we would have to prove intent to deceive beyond a reasonable doubt," Mr. Clearay said, and that would be difficult to prove here.

Yet Mr. McFadden said in an exclusive interview that, "The ad by Group Contact tend to be misleading, and that the additional cost for the eye examination and care kit should be indicated in the ad."

He said his preliminary investigation found that a consumer could buy the lenses for $99 while supplying his own doctor's prescription for the lenses and that he could also buy his own care kit at a drugstore.

"I wonder, though, what they would say if you supplied your own prescription and you were not satisfied with how the lenses fit," Mr. McFadden points out.

Plan New TOB Hicksville Annex

Oyster Bay Town Supervisor Joseph Colby announced that on Nov. 15 the Town Board awarded a $30,310.00 contract for construction of a new office for the Hicksville Annex of Town Hall to low bidder Marimart Company of Port Jefferson Station.

The new office space will be built in the Hicksville Parking Garage, Duffy Avenue and Newbridge Road, and will replace the present annex facility at 65 Broadway. Colby explained that the move will "consolidate Town services into an existing Town-operated facility and permit the eventual return of the current annex building and property to the tax rolls."

Town Clerk Ann R. Ocker said the new annex facility would offer the same services as the present annex. She said that construction of the new office in the parking garage would mean a loss of only a few parking spaces, and that special limited time spaces would be available for annex customers. She noted that the projected completion of the new annex office is late spring 1978.

Hicksville Case Finally Settled

It was announced at the County Board of Supervisors meeting on Monday that a Hicksville woman who sued the Nassau County Medical center in behalf of her infant has been awarded $350.

Susanne Gould of 29 Rover Lane filed a claim against the center for $35,000 after her infant daughter Deborah was treated at the center on Oct. 7, 1971. Four days later the child was brought to the center's emergency room complaining of pain and tenderness in her left fourth finger. She was examined by Drs. Russo and Demeterio who determined that there was no injury. On the following day the child went to the Nassau Hospital and her condition was diagnosed as an infection of the ulna bursa. She was admitted to the hospital and placed on antibiotics. Two days later she was operated on and the infected area was drained.

According to Mrs. Gould the infant then lost some degree of mobility in her left fourth finger. She contends Drs. Russo and Demeterio, who were interns at the time failed to order a blood test which might have confirmed the presence of the infection. And that failure to do so could be considered departure from good and acceptable medical practice.

The case finally appeared on the State Supreme calendar and was assigned to a non-jury trial. After a series of conferences with Justice Bernard McCaffrey, Mrs. Gould decided to settle for $350.

A Bowling Invitation

By Edie Silverberg

This year the Kadimah Bowling League of the Haddasah Medical Center is opening up its roster to new members. We are non-sectarian, and have been a league for eight years. We still have several openings. You need not be a member of Haddasah to bowl with us.

We meet every Thursday at 12:30 sharp, at the Levittown Bowling Lanes (at North Village Green, Schoolhouse Road and Parkside Drive, Levittown). We have members in several parts of Hicksville, so if you need a lift, someone can probably pick you up. We share a couple of hours of fun and relaxation, and at the end of the year we have an Awards Luncheon and make a cash donation to the Haddasah Medical Center. Last year's donation was over $150.00.

We are a sanctioned league of the WIBC, and have the use of the lane's fully supervised nursery.

Even if you've never bowled before, we'd still be happy to have you bowl with us...so...come on down...

A Message From Supervisor Colby

Weekly newspapers, such as the one you are reading now, are an important link between the local government and the people it serves. This is particularly true during the several months preceding an election when various parties and their candidates must make their positions on the issues known to the electorate.

All too often these local issues are buried or ignored by the mass media, particularly when national and state offices are on the ballot. At such times, it is only the sensational or emotional event or candidate that may gain the attention of the major media, and oftentimes, only in a superficial way. Events of local interest and concern must compete for time and space with state, national, and international events in radio, television and large-circulation daily newspapers.

This year, I believe that all of the candidates of both parties would agree that they had received full and fair exposure in the weekly press. The candidates' qualifications were spelled out, their stands on various issues presented, and balanced coverage given to related news stories.

In the Town of Oyster Bay, we are fortunate to have more than a dozen weekly newspapers to cover news of local interest. Their publishers and editors are knowledgeable and have a deep concern in the interests and problems of the communities their papers serve.

They not only serve as a "watchdog" of local government activities that may affect their communities, but also provide an important service to local government.

On Friday, August 26, the residents of Bridle Lane, Hicksville, bade farewell to their friend and mailman, Jack Russo. Jack was retiring after many years service with Hicksville Post Office, the last twelve of which were spent delivering mail in the "B" section. Friends gathered at the end of Jack's route and surprised him with a cake (decorated to resemble a letter.) and punch. A farewell card and gift were presented to Jack, along with many many good wishes for a long and happy retirement in Florida.

AT ST. IGNATIUS SCHOOL: In conjunction with their study of the Lord's Prayer in religion class, the Second Grade children at St. Ignatius Loyola school performed a one-act play for their parents and teachers. The play was an enactment of the bible story of Jesus teaching the Lord's Prayer to the people, and was accompanied by charming hymns sung by the children. The performance was enjoyed by the actors and audience alike.

BONDED THROUGH IRVING TRUST

Criminal Fraud

The film flam operators know where Nassau County is, so beware of new "friends" who know a quick way of making money, and want to share their luck with you.

Recently the Nassau District Attorney's office in charge of criminal fraud obtained a conviction in the Brigg Leasing case, a Great Neck automobile agent who was accused of rolling back the odometer on cars he was leasing.

But according to Mr. Watson, an attorney handling criminal fraud cases for the district attorney, each year residents in this county are exposed to a full range of fraudulent schemes.

"Fraud operators may come knocking on your door in overalls," says Mr. Watson. "But they are as slick as crooks who wear coats and ties."

And when it comes time for them to be defended in court they come up with the highest price attorneys they can find, says Mr. Watson.

He warns that widows and senior citizens are the easiest prey for these rip-off artists. Often they will befriend a widow who in the past has relied on her husband to handle financial matters.

"They know that a husband has probably left insurance money or a savings account so they offer their services as a financial advisor, and often the women are happy to have them take care of the problem but before she knows it they have left town with her money," notes Mr. Watson.

Usually the elderly are so immobile that they are not even able to report that they have been swindled.

"They'll knock at their door and offer to fix something they've noticed is broken outside their home. The price is reasonable but as soon as they're paid. They do part of the job, then leave."

But perhaps the most infamous group of swindlers in the United States is the Williamson family. They have been operating in this country for nearly 100 years and are so refined that they divided up the country into sections.

"They even have a convention every year to talk things over and to bring themselves up to date on the newest rip-off schemes going on," said Mr. Watson.

The reason they are not in jail is that criminal fraud is a difficult crime to prove. The prosecutor has to prove intent to defraud the complainant. Embezzlement is the most common type of criminal fraud that the Nassau District attorney's office handles but even that offense often requires the prosecutor to subpoena books and do a complete audit.

Mr. Watson said that another type of fraud that is common in the county when a dealer says he is going to sell someone exclusive rights to a dealership and then the buyer finds out that other consumers have been sold the same "exclusive dealership."

Yet perhaps the most inventive scheme that is practiced on an unaware consumer is what Mr. Watson refers to as the "Ponzi scheme."

It is an investment fraud where in the beginning the criminal returns a profit on your first investment. The unknowing consumer will then spread the word to his friends who will also get a return on their first few investments. BUT when the criminal feels he has taken in enough money, he stalls his investors on their profit returns until he feels the pot is built up large enough and he leaves town.

Shopping

Suggestions

The big shopping season is here. To spare you problems later, Nassau Consumer Affairs Commissioner James E. Picken has offered some suggestions for this year's shoppers.

1. Start at home by making a gift list. Then check ads and catalogs for the store that has the best buy on each item you want. It pays to comparison shop because no store is consistently lower on everything.

2. In the store, check the refund policy. A new state law requires stores to post the refund policy in a conspicuous place, usually near the cash register. If the store does not post its policy, then you are entitled to a cash refund within 30 days after purchase, provided the item has not been used or damaged by the consumer. The sign should tell you if sale items are covered and whether the refund will be offered in cash, credit or store credit.

3. Look at the warranty or guarantee before you buy, especially on radios, tape players, cameras, microwave ovens and other small appliances. Some products come with only limited warranties. Find out if repair service is available locally or if you have to send the item to another city. Keep the packaging if the guarantee says "return in original box."

4. Buy toys and games according to the age and capability of the child. Instruct youngsters in the safe use of items like skateboards, chemistry sets and electrical toys. On imported toys, watch out for sharp edges that could hurt or small parts that a child could pry loose and swallow.

5. Check plastic trees and decorations for fire retardance. Don't buy light sets with exposed wires or loose sockets. Look for the Underwriters Lab label.

Knights of Pythias Program

The Knights of Pythias Commuter Lodge in Hicksville will conduct a community-wide campaign to halt the rise in excessive drinking by teenagers, it was reported by Arnold Miller, Chancellor Commander.

"The spotlight has to be put on teenage alcohol abuse now before it becomes even more disastrous than narcotic addiction," he declared. "The New York City Health Systems Agency already reports teenage alcohol abuse is epidemic," he added.

Chancellor Commander Arnold Miller said the Pythian Program would be directed to getting non-moralizing, factual information about alcohol use and abuse to the attention of parents and adolescent children through literature, seminars and exhibits. "We also hope to obtain stricter enforcement of existing legal drinking age laws, more school emphasis on the subject, and greater public support for more dollars for research, education and treatment facilities for teenage problem drinkers," he explained.

The Commuter Lodge effort is being coordinated with the statewide program of the 70,000 member New York State Knights of Pythias which has called upon government leaders to give high priority to finding solutions to the problem, according to Chancellor Commander Miller. For the past several years, the Knights of Pythias has had a statewide anti-narcotics program and it is expected that the new teenage alcohol-abuse program would likewise be a long term ongoing effort," he concluded.

Heads State Police Chiefs Association

First Deputy Commissioner Edward F. Curran of the Nassau County Police Department has been elected president of the New York State Association of Chiefs of Police.

Curran succeeds Chief Thomas J. Sardino of Syracuse as president after serving one year as first vice-president. He thus becomes the 69th president of the association and the third member of the Nassau County department to hold that post. In prior years the association's presidency had been held by former commissioners Abram Skidmore and Francis R. Looney.

In his acceptance speech Curran said his goals for the coming year were to develop "active, productive, coordinated and cooperative" programs for the association. He said he would also sound out all active members regarding matters relative to advancing the association's affairs and the cause of law enforcement.

A Direct Line To Santa Claus

When Nassau's boys and girls get through making their lists and checking them twice, the County's Department of Recreation and Parks has arranged for a direct line to Kris Kringle, starting Friday, Nov. 25.

Red or green Santa's Mailboxes will be ready at all major County parks to receive children's letters until Christmas Eve. The Recreation Department's obliging "Santa's will forward" them to the North Pole, postage free, and see to it that each youngster through age 10 receives a cheery, pre-printed reply (containing no rash promises) from the Jolly Old Elf Himself, to any letter deposited by Friday, Dec. 16, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. daily. The only requirement is that return addresses be legible.

Participating parks are: Bay Park, East Rockaway; Canteague Park, Hicksville; Cedar Creek Park, Seaford; Christopher Morley Park, Roslyn-North Hills; Cow Meadow Park, Freeport; Eisenhower Park, East Meadow; Grant Park, Hewlett; Hempstead Harbor Beach Park, Port Washington; Inwood Park, Nassau County Arena, Long Beach; North Woodmere Park; Roosevelt Park; Wantagh Park; and Whitney Pond Park, Manhasset.

Raise The Roof Dance

There will be a gala "Raise The Roof Dance" to be held at Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, Jerusalem Ave. and Old Country Rd., Hicksville, on Sat., Nov. 26 from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. The proceeds of this dance will be used to pay bills incurred for the new roof and other emergency repairs to the Church buildings.

Music will be by "Sunshine." There will be a hot buffet and snacks (BYOB) and tap beer, ice, and soda will be for sale. Dress is optional and the donation is $5 in advance or $6 at the door. It will be a night of fellowship with dancing, toasting and breaking bread together.

Past President Tom Ryan, of the Hicksville AOH was elected as a District Court Judge on Election Day, congratulations Tom.

ROUND OUR TOWN: Danny Domovay, Chairman of the Mid Island Conservative Club bagged a deer on his recent hunting trip, back in time to host a victory party as well. Chatted earlier this week with Frank Kenney, who we learned is a past Grand Knight of St. Anne's Council, Queens Village. Frank is a member of Joseph Barry Council, Hicksville, and one of the best plumbing experts around as he tramped out some problems at my home at pre-time, thanks Frank. And with good reason, this Saturday at 12 Noon, your reporter will walk my daughter Ann Marie down the aisle at St. Ignatius as she will become Mrs. Robert Schmidt. A reception for 200 guests will follow at the Monsignor Bittermann Hall of the Joseph Barry Council, Knights of Columbus - till next time, God Bless.

King Kelly questioned the problem of snow removal. Tom said that the co-ordination of the snow removal will be looked into. The minute the snow starts to fall, the plows will be out. They moved 9 men from the labor ranks to chauffeur so that there will be enough men to man the plows.

This is a problem at Miller and Woodbury. Two or three projects are hitting the one corner at the same time and a marker for sewers is placed 18 inches from the woman's garage. Tom adds that the matter will be corrected.

DEVOTIONS

By The Rev. John H. Krahn

AMAZING GRACE

God's grace is amazing in the lives of all His people. For even the most righteous man falls painfully short of the perfection that God requires of those who will be with Him in heaven. The Bible says that at the end of time only those without my sin, none at all, will be able to stand in God's presence. This causes us problems, big problems, for none of us qualifies.

If I were to ask you whether you were sure of your salvation, I wonder if everyone of you could honestly say, "Pastor Krahn, if I die tonight, I feel certain that I would be with God in heaven." Anyone who loves the Lord and cannot state that conviction does not understand how amazing God's grace really is.

The reason that many of us cannot, is because we are so aware of our faults and find it difficult to believe that we must somehow do better before we can come to God and receive complete forgiveness. We think that we must change, keep the Ten Commandments, not get angry so easily, and a hundred other things.

Those of us who feel that way are heading down a dead-end street -- we'll never make it to heaven under our own recognition. Instead we must recognize that we need help and lots of it. We need to tap into God's unconditional love. A love that irrationally hangs in with us even when we spurn it again and again. A love that accepts us in spite of our faults. One that flowed from the lips of a crucified rabbi when He said, "Father forgive them for they know not what they do."

God's grace is tough love -- no slushy sentimentality, love that flows out of the cross where all demands of justice were met. God's grace through Jesus Christ provides us a place to stand where we do not need to try to do what we can't do anyway, that is, make things right by our own efforts.

Fellow ministers, God's good news for us today is that we are accepted. We have been accepted by that which is greater than us. We did nothing to earn that acceptance -- nor can we do anything to merit it.

We must simply accept the fact that we are accepted. And when we do, we can then experience God's amazing grace. Grace is God's gift of acceptance that becomes ours by faith.

I can't believe for you, you must do it for yourself. God's grace can only become amazing for you when you accept the fact that you are accepted.

John Campbell of Loretta Lane, Hicksville, was the unanimous choice as President of the Commodore John Barry Division Eleven, Ancient Order of Hibernians following nominations and elections of the Order held at the November meeting. Elected to serve with Campbell, are: John Steele, Vice-President; Michael Crowley, Recording Secretary; Timothy Lewis, Financial Secretary; John Murphy, Treasurer; Al McGrance, Chairman of Standing Committees; Eugene Hartly, Marshall and John McMullen, Sentry. Officers of the Division and Ladies Auxiliary will be installed by the members of the Nassau County Board in an impressive ceremony and reception planned for Sunday, January 22, 1978, at the Joseph Barry Council, Knights of Columbus, in the community. We extend a "Cead Mile Failte" to William Doherty, Jim O'Connor and Patrick C. Kennedy, newly-installed members of the Division. President Patrick Cowan and his officers have moved Division Eleven up the membership roles, as we continue to number the largest membership of any Division on Long Island - a proud statement and accomplishment by Pat and his Officers - most successful community activities, our annual picnic-dance with Noel Kingston and his Orchestra is still the talk of "Long Island" - what makes this all possible is the cooperation, interest and dedication of each member of this Order during the past 20 years.

WE HEAR THAT: Past President George Harkin of the AOH is in Syosset Hospital at this writing, no visitors - also Past Grand Knight Larry Trubinski is at Mid Island Hospital, Bethpage-your visit is welcomed. Pat Dowling, Past Division President under the weather, our very best for good health to these dedicated

News From The Galileo Lodge

By Joe Lorenzo

On November 4th, at the Crest Hollow Country Club, the Galileo Lodge held a dinner - dance in honor of Lewis Yevoli, a Town Councilman of Oyster Bay and a member of the Galileo Lodge. This was an auspicious affair for the Lodge in that it provided an opportunity for the membership to pay tribute to one of its own Italian - American legislators who is also a man dedicated, loyal, sincere and fully cognizant of the problems confronting the citizens of Long Island.

The affair was socially successful because it was not politically motivated and that it dealt strictly with the man. Lew made a warm speech in which he thanked the Lodge for honoring him and his family and his parents who also attended this dance.

Many leading dignitaries were there, including Casio, Margiotta, Roncillo, Dillon and other too numerous to mention. Finally a toasting thanks to Teddy Marrotti and Joe Lo Castro, the two members of the Galileo Lodge who were instrumental in putting this dinner-dance together.

The Galileo Lodge will sponsor its own Trade Show sometime after New Years. The very latest in ceramics, clothing, jewelry, houseware, appliances, etc., will be featured. It should provide some very interesting and pleasurable moments for Hicksville residents as well as those from other areas who will attend. This type of activity is rather unusual because it means that the whole interior of the Galileo Lodge will resemble a Merchandise Mart.

Speaking of interesting programs, I would like to mention the Bicentennial Memorial which is being sponsored by the Galileo Lodge and which is to be constructed on the Kennedy Mall site in Hicksville. I must mention that there is a slight delay in construction due to shortage of various materials, such as marble and other materials, but I am sure that Anthony Previte, 2nd Assistant Venerable of the Galileo and the director of this program, is doing everything in his power to get the machinery rolling.

Again speaking of beautiful sites, I would like to mention the horticultural efforts of John Iannotti a resident of Westbury and a member of the Galileo Lodge. Although I have not seen the panorama of some of the most beautiful flowers ever grown on Long Island, those who have witnessed this horticultural exhibition have told me that it rivals some of the most beautiful flower exhibits the state of Florida offers. The most delicate and exquisitely colored flowers adorn his property, which is 160 x 100. This spring and summer John Iannotti will present another of his amazing exhibitions for the edification of nature lovers.

Lodge Happenings

Christmas parties for orphan children and those of members of the Lodge are scheduled for December 11th, to be held at Galileo Lodge, Levittown Parkway, Hicksville. The party for the orphan children will start around 2:00 P.M. and the party for children of the membership will start around 3:00 P.M. Many refreshments and 'goodies' are in the offering as well as a visit from St. Nick himself. December 3, at the Galileo Lodge, a Christmas party for adults will be held. Tickets are $7.50 per person, with hot meals, soda and beer to be served. Contact Anthony Previte for tickets at this number: 931-9351.

Joseph Montemarrano (right), First Assistant Grand Venerable Order of Sons of Italy in America, congratulates Assemblyman Lewis J. Yevoli who received the "Man of the Year" Award at a dinner held in his honor last week.

Looking on from the dais are Mary Monteforte and her husband Venerable Anthony Monteforte, of the Galileo Galilei Lodge in Hicksville, as Carole Yevoli, the Assemblyman's wife beams.

This marked the fifth annual "Man of the Year" Award presented by the Galileo Galilei Lodge and this affair in honor of Assemblyman Yevoli proved to be a huge success.

Budget Hearings Scheduled

The Nassau Board of Supervisors today announced it will hold public hearings on the proposed 1978 County Budget, including the proposed use of federal revenue sharing funds, on November 28th at 2 P.M. and 8 P.M. in the fifth floor hearing room of the County Executive Building in Mineola.

Either oral or written comments and suggestions will be accepted at the hearings.

The proposed Budget and recommendations for use of the revenue sharing funds are available for public inspection Monday through Friday from 9 A.M. to 4:45 P.M. at the Board's offices in the County Executive Building, 1 West Street, Mineola, Room 333.

If you believe that somewhere in this world there is one person you are destined to meet...
