Hicksville Takes Part in Constitution Bicentennial

By RICHARD EVERS

Hicksville will be taking an active part in the nation's celebration of the 200th anniversary of the signing of the United States Constitution. Both school and church groups, especially, will participate in this Bicentennial Commemoration.

Hicksville schools have been invited to participate in America's National School Tribute to the U.S. Constitution on September 16. Although only back in session one week, the new Hicksville Middle School (at the former junior high school building), under the guidance of Principal Gerald Klein, has made plans for a 12:30 student ceremony. Officers of the student council will sign the new Middle School Student Council Constitution they will have drafted during the first week of school. This formal adoption of their school constitution is hoped to help echo the 1787 Philadelphia signing and bring home once again to the students the importance of America as a nation of laws and an enduring framework of government.

National Pledge of Allegiance

There will be an opportunity for students and teachers at all Hicksville schools to take part in the National Schools Recitation of the Pledge of Allegiance ceremony at 1 p.m. on September 16. Led by President Ronald Reagan in Washington, Hicksville students will hear his words over radios or school public address systems and join him in the pledge.

The pledge will be followed by an address by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger. The former chief justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, who heads the Federal Commission of the U.S. Constitution Bicentennial, will read and explain the meaning of the preamble to the U.S. Constitution.

Houses of Worship to Ring Bells

The Town of Oyster Bay Bicentennial Historical Commission has extended invitations to all Hicksville houses of worship to ring bells, chimes or carillons at 4 p.m. on Thursday, September 17, at the exact hour when delegates present in 1787 at the Constitutional

Church of Christ Property Renovation

RENOVATION WORK AT Church of Christ, Hicksville, is nearing completion. New shrubs will be added once the new lawn is established.

TOM GOODLET, PASTOR, and other church members at Church of Christ work on the fence and lawn—just two of the many jobs accomplished.

The Church of Christ, at 105 Broadway, is taking on a new look. The grounds are being renovated.

The church building, an historic Hicksville landmark, was built in 1902. Over the years the congregation has made many alterations to the building to repair and beautify it, including aluminum siding.

The current renovation of the property has included rototilling and seeding the lawn, replacing the shrubs, installing new lighting and a new sign, and removing the black wrought iron fence in favor of a white picket fence. Both the new sign and the new fence are located closer to the street, drawing greater attention to the property and the building.

"The entire congregation is very excited about our renovation efforts. This is our way of helping to beautify Hicksville. The clean and bright appearance of these improvements reflect the youthful enthusiasm within our congregation. All of the work has been done by about 30 energetic volunteers," said pastor Tom Goodlet.

The Church of Christ invites the public to stop by and view the renovations. A dedication ceremony will take place on Sunday afternoon, October 18, at 3 p.m. The community is invited to attend.

Greek Festival

Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox Church of Hicksville will hold its annual Greek Festival Friday through Sunday, Sept. 11, 12 and 13, on the church grounds, Field Avenue, Hicksville.

The times are Friday, 5 p.m. to 11 p.m., Saturday, 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. and Sunday, 11 a.m. to 11 p.m.

Hicksville Farms

By CATHERINE J. TOKAR

For many years John Nash and his friend Steve Wisniewski have worked in the deli business together. But only last week did they see their 'American dream' of owning their own business come to light. Still in their twenties, the hard work of the Nash-Wisniewski team has paid off. They are the owners of Hicksville's newest dairy-deli, Hicksville Farms.

According to the duo, Hicksville Farms offers great food at discount prices. "Discount" is the key word," said Nash. "We always keep our prices low, unlike many delis and supermarkets."

Wisniewski agreed. "We have a very low mark-up, so our prices stay low, too." At Hicksville Farms, everything from the coleslaw to paper towels is available at a discount price. The dairy-deli has a large selection of home-made salads and will soon carry a broad range of fruits and vegetables. "We also carry a full line of top quality Boar's Head coldcuts," added Nash.

Hicksville Farms will cater your office party or home party. All catering, from the six-foot hero to the potato salad, is offered at the discount level. "Remember," advised Nash, "that 'discount' is the difference at our store."

Although Hicksville Farms has only been open one week, Wisniewski says that the public's reactions have been very positive. "We're a friendly bunch of people," he said. "People really have to come in and see how low our prices are." Weekly specials will surely attract many customers.

Easy to reach, Hicksville Farms is located at 89 North Broadway, just before Baskin-Robbins and adjacent to the Berkeley-Clermont School.

Roger Nienaber, General Manager/Postmaster, Hicksville Division introduced the Long Island postmark at a press conference at the Western Nassau Mail Process Facility. ### Skin and Arthritic Problems Linked

It is well recognized that skin abnormalities are associated with many forms of arthritis. Doctors are not certain why this relationship exists. Rheumatologists (arthritis specialists), are keenly aware that many forms of arthritis can be associated with skin problems.

Types of arthritis which are associated with skin rashes are: systemic lupus erythematosus, psoriatic arthritis, Reiter's Syndrome, dermatomyositis, mixed connective tissue disease, Lyme arthritis, sarcoidosis, and vasculitis.

The types of rashes involved with arthritis vary and may occur prior to the onset of arthritis. Occasionally, these problems arise after arthritis has developed.

The symptoms can be fleeting and overlooked, as in the faint butterfly rash of lupus. Severe problems may occur if left untreated, as in vasculitis. Often, the problems are mild and can be successfully treated if detected early.

Arthritis symptoms include painful,

Applications may be submitted any time during the school year to your building Principal. If a family member becomes unemployed, if the family size decreases or if your family income increases by more than $50.00 per month or $600.00 per year, the family must contact the school to file a new application. The form requests information needed to determine economic need based on the income and number of persons in the family. The information provided on the application will be confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility.

The school district does, however, have the right to verify at any time during the school year the information on the application. If a parent does not give the school this information, the child/children will no longer be able to receive free milk and lunch.

Foster children are also eligible for these benefits. A family may wish to apply for milk and lunch for them.

Under the provisions of the policy, the designated official will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the designated official, he/she may make a request either orally or in writing for a hearing to appeal the decision. Robert Greenberg, Director of Special Education/Pupil Personnel Services, whose address is Administration Building, Division Avenue, Hicksville, New York 11801, has been designated as the Hearing Official. Hearing procedures are outlined in the policy. However, prior to initiating the hearing procedure, the parent or School Food Authority may request a conference to provide an opportunity for the parent and official to discuss the situation, present information and obtain an explanation of the data submitted in the application or the decisions rendered. The request for a conference shall not in any way prejudice or diminish the right to a fair hearing.

All questions on the application must be answered completely for the application to be considered by the school for approval. In addition, the parent or guardian must sign the application form, certifying the information is true and correct.

Legionnaires' Log

By GREG BENNETT

Charles Wagner Post #421, Hicksville

Local veterans had a proud moment on Saturday, August 29, as County Executive Tom Gulotta came to Connie Steers barbecue in Hicksville. Mr. Gulotta will also be at the Nassau County POW/MIA Observance on Thursday, September 17, at Veterans Memorial Avenue of Flags in Eisenhower Park. Former U.S. Congressman John LeBoutillier and Hempstead Supervisor Joseph N. Mondello also will be guest speakers. Nassau Veterans Service Director Dennis Dunne states that the names of the 28 missing Long Island servicemen will be read aloud. So let's plan to attend this ceremony as a united group, as our post and the American Legion has always called for an accounting for our POW/MIA.

On June 30, 1987, the House of Representatives passed and sent to the Senate, V.A. Beneficiary Travel Program-H.R. 2327, that would reinstate the travel allowance for certain veterans. Also VA Health Care Amendments of 1987-H.R. 2616 would prevent the VA from relocating any neighborhood Vet Center to VA hospital grounds without first submitting justification to Congress for a 120 day review. The means test, where nonservice connected vets can not earn over $18,234 and be eligible for VA care, will still be in effect. Remember, these bills must pass the Senate and be signed into law by the President. The "Atomic Veterans Relief Act of 1987", which would extend health and disability benefits to ailing vets and their genetically damaged children who are ill due to exposure to low-level radiation during the veteran's military service, is pending before the House.

Former POW's are eligible for medical care at VA hospitals and outpatient clinics. A national toll-free hotline, 1-800-821-8139, assists former prisoners of war.

Senator Moynihan, of New York, is basing a Congressional resolution to ask the United Nations to cutoff Kurt Waldheim's $81,650 yearly pension due to Waldheim's involvement in war crimes. In 1948, the U.S. Army Combined Registry of War Criminals and Security Suspects called for Waldheim's apprehension for "complicity in murder."

Tuesday, September 8, was our Installation of Post Officers. More details next week on the installation. Friday, September 11, is our post dinner at the Cloud Casino of Roosevelt Raceway. Our thanks to PC Wes Tietjen for working hard on this project. On September 11 at 8:30 p.m. there will be a meeting of post membership officers at the Elmont post. Any Legionnaire can attend to gain information about the duties of membership officer.

Remember to spread the word about the POW/MIA Observance on September 17 at Eisenhower Park. Our support now can bring positive support and action by our government and the Vietnamese.

FIXED RATES (below FNMA maximums and within FNMA guidelines)			CAPPED ADJUSTABLE RATE (loans up to $350,000)

10.00% annual rate	10.50% annual rate	11.00% annual rate	7.00% annual rate
10.48% annual percentage rate	10.86% annual percentage rate	11.26% annual percentage rate	10.54% annual percentage rate

Quoted rates are for self-liquidating, "full income verification" loans with a minimum down payment of 25% of appraised value on 1- to 4-family homes. The annual percentage rates include origination and placement fees. The Bank sets the interest rates on loans at the time of commitment (for a 90-day period), not at the time of application. The rates contained in this advertisement may change while an application is being processed, and may not be available at the time of commitment.

Repayment terms for 10-year (15-year and 30-year) fixed rate loans at the stated rates would be 120 (180 and 360) monthly payments of $13.22 ($11.06 and $9.53) per $1,000 borrowed.

Adjustable rate shown is a below-market introductory annual rate for the first year only. The annual percentage rate is based on the current value of "The Green Point's" Index Interest Rate (currently 11.00%) which is subject to change. The annual rate will not change more than 2% per year (up or down) and, over the life of the loan, will not vary (increase or decrease) more than 3% from the Index Interest Rate in effect at the time the loan is closed.

Ask for rates and terms on "no income verification" loans and on fixed-rate loans above FNMA maximums (up to $350,000).

High Blood Pressure

You can't see it, feel it, taste it or smell it. High Blood Pressure or Hypertension, is a disease. A potentially dangerous disease. It can lead to heart disease and stroke. As many as one in four American adults have high blood pressure. But because it is virtually symptom free, as many as 17 million adults have an increased risk of heart disease without knowing it.

But there is a simple, painless procedure to find out if you have it. The American Heart Association is conducting Blood Pressure Management Classes, day and evenings, three hours each session. Classes will be held at the Heart Office, 365 Willis Ave., Mineola on Sept. 15 and 22 from 10 a.m. to noon and evening sessions from 7:30 to 9:30.

Fee for the course is $25 per person, $35 per couple. Pre-registration is necessary by calling the Heart Office at 741-5522.

Galileo Lodge News

By Joe Lorenzo

President Joe Giordano's Message:

"The smallest actual good is better than the most magnificent promises of impossibilities."
Thomas B. Macaulay

One good rule to follow if you find yourself in a continuous process of doing things right, especially if the evidence of all those right things is before you, is to adhere to such a policy until change demands something to the contrary. Needless to say that the Galileo Lodge is an organization that clings to this rule like a fly clings to flypaper. Success breeds success. Why change horses in midstream, as they say, and evidence of this is the stream of events and activities in which the Galileo Lodge finds itself involved and more proof of this lies in its announcement that it will present its Anniversary-Scholarship Dance on Saturday, the 19th of September. Tickets sell at $35.00 per person and in the offering will be an appetizing cocktail hour, a sumptuous dinner with all the trimmings, beer, soda, coffee and cake, unlimited liquor, set-ups and some real enjoyable dance music for your listening pleasure by the Richard Lagness musical aggregation. This dance, obviously, is very important and is also very special to the Galileo Lodge in that it will honor ex-president Pete Massiello for his leadership of our Lodge for a number of years and will distribute the Louise E. Massiello Memorial Scholarship Awards to those needy students who could use some financial assistance as they embark on their careers. An Ad Journal will also be featured. Skip Monteforte, Armand Del Cioppo and Rocco Lombardo are the members of the Dance Committee and Ad Journal Committee. Because of the nature of this dance, all members of the Galileo Lodge and the Ladies Auxiliary are asked to attend this affair in strength.

When you are on a "roll", as the popular expression says, you stay on it. And if you are experiencing good results and find yourself firmly ensconced in the arms of success, why should you change. The Galileo Lodge is a firm believer in this policy and that's why planning and execution are vital parts of its success and achievement. The announcement that it will hold an Italian Festival on Friday, the 9th of October, has already caused much excitement and anticipation among its members, friends, patrons and probably throughout the community. Of course, the mood and atmosphere will be Italian and the entertainment consisting of a musical group from Naples, Italy, coming here especially to entertain for the Galileo Lodge, buy everyone is invited to attend. It's that kind of a festival, although the ethnic aspects are important also. There will be singing, dancing, food, refreshments and that very special ethnic entertainment. Please note that American dance music will also be featured. More news on this particular activity in later columns. Mark this festival on your must-attend list.

With summer now about to fade into the past, we know that it's time for the Galileo Lodge Fall Social and Recreational program to make its debut. As always, there is usually a certain amount of excitement and expectation about this program because it's devised for the edification of the members, friends and patrons of the Galileo Lodge. That old expression that says that all work and no play makes 'Johnny' a dull boy. Yes, it's good to mix business with pleasure. It eliminates stultification and boredom. It creates interest also. So, in next week's column, I will present to you the dates and the events that are part and parcel of this program. Oh, those dreary months ahead, wouldn't you like to chase those blue moments of this time of the year? So why not get out your must-attend list and get ready to make some notations on it and as the saying goes, you might be glad you did.

THE SCHOOL AGE

It's GETTING BETTER AND BETTER

ONCE UPON A TIME, NOT SO VERY LONG AGO, CHILDREN WERE ONLY EXPECTED TO DO ONE SINGLE THING: BECOME EXEMPLARY GROWN-UPS AS QUICKLY AS POSSIBLE. SO, FOR THE SAKE OF CONVENIENCE, THEY WERE PACKED IN UNCOMFORTABLE MINI-SUITS. LATER ON, PEOPLE'S IDEAS CHANGED; CHILDREN SHOULD BE ALLOWED TO BE YOUNG FOR A LONG TIME AND HAVE A HAPPY CHILDHOOD. THEY ARE SUPPOSED TO BECOME BETTER GROWN-UPS THAT WAY. AND NOW SOME PEOPLE EVEN SUGGEST THAT CHILDREN WOULD BECOME IDEAL GROWN-UPS IF THEY ARE ALLOWED TO REMAIN WHO THEY ARE.

Letters From Our Readers

Letters to the editor are welcomed by the editors and publishers of the Anton Community Newspapers. However, they must follow certain guidelines in order for us to print them: they should be as short as possible; we reserve the right to edit in the interest of space; they MUST be signed (a typed name at the bottom will not suffice); they must include an address and telephone number so that we can verify their authenticity.

We receive many fine letters which we would like to share with our readers, but we are unable to use them because they are unsigned or have a typewritten name only.

We cannot publish every letter we receive because of space limitations, but we try to present both sides of all issues. Personal attacks and letters considered to be in poor taste will not be printed.

Memories.....

.....of Tommy Heltz

My memories of Hicksville in the 30's included the Just-Rite Bakery. I was attending St. Ignatius School at the time and I remember using a brass token to get lunch at the bakery. It was across the street from the church.

I also remember when the building on the northwest corner of Broadway and Marie Street burned down. It housed the 5 & 10, the Sweet Shop and Bahrenburgh's Bakery. At that time the bakery was an inside store. After the building was rebuilt the bakery became the corner store.

At the time of the fire there was also a home for boys located on North Broadway where the Mid-Island Plaza is today. The boys attended St. Ignatius School. On their lunch hour they would scoot over to the burned out store and rummage through the remains of the 5 & 10 and slip into their pockets whatever they could find. When they got back to school the Sisters would smell the smoke, stop the boys, and have them empty out their pockets. Very few ever got away with anything. It was difficult to put anything over on the Sisters.

The first A & P store was across the street from St. Ignatius Church and one block north.

I used to pal around with Richie Hattenbach, and Richie Finnegan. Also part of our crowd was Tommy Foote, Frank Sticco, Louie Sinatra and Mickey Cardella. We used to have a clubhouse in the back of Finnegan's house on Harrison Avenue. We would go into the clubhouse and roll cigarettes (with a little machine) and fill them with Bugler tobacco.

Often we would stuff dummies (like they do for Halloween)... climb up and put it in a tree and wait for a car to come along. When it did we would drop the dummy onto the road and watch the car come to a screeching halt. At that time we would have to wait for a car to come along—there weren't that many around!

How often we would sneak into the movies. One kid would pay to go in and then we'd bang on the side door when we got there. He'd open the door and we'd all rush in—scatter into different areas—and hope that Artie Wallenhausp wouldn't catch us. Most times he or one of the ushers would nab one or two of us and put us out—and then we'd have to wait for the next time to get in.

On Saturdays when you bought your ticket you would get a numbered ticket. The other half would be put into a drum on the stage and they would pick out numbers. Prizes, donated by many of the local merchants such as Sausmer's Hardware, Williams Hardware, Huettner's, the 5 & 10, etc. would be given out. How we waited for our numbers to be called to win the grand prize—a bicycle—or smaller prizes such as skates, toys, dolls, games, etc.

In the summer we'd beg our parents to let us stay out late. Richie Finnegan and I would go over to Woodbury Road and keep the gatekeeper Marty Fuchs company. At that time there were no gates on Woodbury Road. He only used the STOP sign. The last train would get into Hicksville at 11:15 at night. The steam engine would have to come into Hicksville and go up to Woodbury Road. The engineer would let us get on. Then they would switch the tracks and the engine would back up to Marie Street (near the firehouse)... they'd switch tracks again and the engine would go down Broadway and then they would get it back to Woodbury Road. (That was the end of our ride). They then would back the train up to attach the cars that were waiting there—and it would be all set for the morning run.

The 30's were a time when Good Humor had Lucky Sticks and we had to use straight pens in school. It was a good time... so good that I still remember it with a smile.

Hicks Claims Crown As Vamp Champions

*The Hicks, racing team of Hicksville Fire Department, won undisputed honors as the championship team of Long Island for 1949 at the Invitation Tournament in Hempstead. The Hicks came from behind to score five telling points in the last event of the day and nosed out the Iron Men of Riverhead with a half-point to win the victory.

The Hicks have brought home 25 trophies in competition this year, including the top honors at the Nassau County Firemen's Association tournament, and may tie the previous total of 26 trophies they collected in 1946, according to Team Captain Lawrence Small.

Farmers Market, First of Kind on Island, Opens Friday Night at Airpark Property

*The first establishment of its kind on Long Island, the Farmers' Market, opens this Friday night on the Hicksville Airpark property, Robbins Lane, and will be open Friday evenings from 5 to 10 p.m.

The Farmers' Market idea, featuring booths or tables loaded with low-priced foodstuffs, produce and household articles, has swept the nation. The local market will be conducted Friday nights in the main hanger of the Airpark and outdoors. Floodlights have been installed and more than 50 tables have been set up to handle the articles for sale.

Fifteen years ago the Farmers Market in Los Angeles was started and it has since blossomed into a 20-acre outdoor plant with 141 business establishments.

Levitt May Build 4,000 In Hicksville

*Levitt & Sons plans to construct 4,000 houses in the Hicksville School District area during 1950, it was learned here this week from a reliable source. Estimates of 3,500 dwellings were revised upward to 4,000 this week, and acreage said to be held by the building firm now blankets the south end of the Hicksville district, reaching upward nearly to Old Country Road along the Parkway.

The construction of 4,000 houses in Hicksville would almost triple the number of dwellings in the community and add an estimated 12,000 persons to the local population, making it more than 20,000 people.

1,147 Request B'way Bus BMA Collects Petitions to PSC

*A total of 1,147 persons in the mid-Island area have signed petitions during the past week requesting the Public Service Commission to grant a franchise for regular bus service along South Broadway from Hicksville depot to Miller homes at Wantagh Avenue and Hempstead Turnpike, Island Trees.

The petitions were signed by patrons of Hicksville stores during a five-day period and by residents along the 3-mile proposed route to and including the Miller Homes area. The project was undertaken by the Hicksville Business Men's Association, Inc., and President Charles Schwartz promised speedy delivery of the pile of documents to the Levittown Bus Corp., which is interested in inaugurating the service.

Taxpayers Vote on Fire District Budget

*Modernization of the local fire alarm system is proposed under a special proposition before resident taxpayers next week. The proposal calls for the expenditure of $16,000 and a budget of $20,950.

Local interest is focused on Proposition No. 2 which calls for expenditure of $16,000 for the alarm system. Fire Commissioners explained that the air compressor which operates the signal horn at the firehouse needs replacement. In addition, the wiring on the control board and the panel itself must be increased to accommodate more alarm boxes. Alarm boxes cost $350 each, and sirens cost $500 each. Residents voted in favor of all the changes in 1949.

To The Editor:

September 18 is National POW/MIA Recognition Day, established by Congress and proclaimed by the president. This special day honors all former U.S. prisoners of war and all Americans who are still missing.

President Reagan states our government gives the highest priority to the accounting for our POW/MIA in Southeast Asia. Reports state the Vietnamese may cooperate in searching for POW's. Now is the time for a strong voice from the American people to bring about concrete action. Let's hold our president to his word and not let POW/MIA policy be linked to strategic issues, such as Vietnamese withdrawal from Cambodia.

Nassau County Executive Thomas Gulotta and the Nassau County Veterans Advisory Committee will be hosting a POW/MIA Observance on September 17 at 8:00 p.m. at Eisenhower Park. I urge all veterans and citizens to attend.

The Nixon administration initially pledged to give Vietnam 3.25 billion dollars in economic aid as part of the Paris Peace Accords, but this amount was voted down by Congress. Later, the Vietnamese refused 100 million dollars in medical aid. This grounded any cooperation concerning POW/MIA's.

Many U.S. servicemen remain buried in mass graves in North Korea and thousands listed as MIA. Our government should fully investigate the POW/MIA issue remaining from the war in Korea.

Surely, the combined resources of our public and private sectors can combine skills to account for our POW/MIA's. We owe it to our sons and daughters who fought to protect our freedoms.

Americans Ready to Celebrate 200 Years of Constitutionalism

All across the nation, Americans are preparing to celebrate. They're planning parades, historical reenactments, and educational seminars. School kids are participating in essay contests and tree-planting ceremonies, while their parents schedule exhibits and tributes.

We, the people, are celebrating the 200th anniversary of our Constitution -- the oldest written instrument of national government in the world. Drafted and signed in 1787, ratified in 1788, it gave the United States the means to keep its newly gained independence. Just as important, it created a flexible system of government responsive to the people, not vice versa.

Two centuries later, Americans are pulling out all the stops to commemorate the Constitution's origins. While the focus of this year's celebration is on Philadelphia -- where on September 17, 1787, the framers signed the Constitution -- millions of Americans elsewhere will be holding their own Bicentennial celebrations.

But the commemoration is much more than a one-day gala. A Commission on the Bicentennial of the United States Constitution, chaired by former Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, was created by Congress to oversee a four-year celebration. There are also commissions in nearly every state and in more than 1000 communities, each planning events designed for local interests.

All are working with private groups, educational institutions, public agencies and the like to bring the Bicentennial commemoration to Americans everywhere.

The tone of the celebration, set by the national Commission, is more cerebral than in anniversaries in years past. Chief Justice Burger, noting the general lack of knowledge about the Constitution, has called for a "history and civics lesson," in the hopes that Americans will better prepare themselves and their government for the future.

In response, schools and colleges have planned Constitutional essay competitions and symposia to examine the document. At the same time, millions of American adults are reading the document for the first time, as corporations and private groups distribute pocket-size editions from coast to coast.

A multitude of Constitution-related exhibits, some temporary and others permanent, are on view daily around the country. The most publicized may be in Philadelphia, New York and Washington, D.C., but other fine examples can be found in state historical societies and public libraries.

The Bicentennial celebration -- colorful, educational, meaningful -- could well touch every American over the next few years. And if it does? We, the people, will help ensure another 200 years of republican values under our Constitution.

Commemoration Runs 1987 through 1991

There's a noticeable difference between this anniversary and others in recent years. First, this celebration is more educational. Second, though many activities revolve around one date, September 17, the overall commemoration will continue -- for four more years.

Constitutional rule, after all, took years to create. Written and signed in 1787, it was ratified in June 1788. The federal government was formed in 1789, and the Bill of Rights was added in 1791.

Congress has designated 1987 through 1991 the official period of commemoration. The Commission overseeing the anniversary suggests the focus each year should be on the major events of 200 years before.

Other educational themes, suggested by the chairman of the Commission, retired Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, include:

- The creation, development and needs of the legislative branch of government in 1788, the executive branch in 1789, and the judicial branch in 1790. The Bill of Rights and other amendments could then be studied in 1991.

- The changes in the Constitution and in our society over the last 200 years, with an eye to the future.

A Letter from Lulabelle

... Do you have a picture of yourself standing in front of the class -- maybe second or third grade -- and a little frightened, but very pleased with yourself as you confidently recited "Oh how I like to go up in a swing, up in the air so blue" by Robert Louis Stevenson? ... Learning poems was such a part of our grammar school lives, and how those poems still come back to us, unbidden. ... "Up from the meadows rich with corn, clear in the cool September morn, the clustered spires of Frederick Strand" -- and all of the next one hundred or so lines of Barbara Fritchie. ... (How amazing!) I've just realized that I know every line of the poem, but I'm not at all sure how to spell "Fritchie". ... And there was "I have a little shadow that goes in and out with me" and "In winter I get up at night and dress by yellow candlelight" and "Between the dusk and the daylight when the night is beginning to lower comes a pause in the day's occupations that is known as the children's hour". ... and even much later in our school career from Shakespeare, "Speak the speech I pray you as I pronounced it to you, trippingly on the tongue". ... and so many more that are tucked into our minds and come forth now and then for our pleasure. ... but I believe that learning poetry is not very popular today. ... My grandchildren read some, write some, but don't seem to be able to recite any. ... and that's too bad since what you commit to memory becomes in some way a part of you -- a part of your overall experience. ... Young people today learn so many things that we never heard of in our elementary school days, and some things have to be overlooked -- but how I hate to have it be poetry that's overlooked!!

Yours, Lulabelle

Affordable Housing Is A Priority

"I can't afford to live here anymore." More and more children of Long Islanders and senior citizens are singing that song. Yet, the response from government has been cautious and not very creative.

Our strong economic growth and the fact that almost eighty percent of Long Island families live in owner occupied homes has driven the price of housing at an unprecedented rate. The result is a lack of housing for young families starting out; our senior citizens desiring to scale down; and new employees attracted to the island for expanding job opportunities.

In just the last six years the median price of a home has more than doubled - from $63,000 to about $100,000. (Most of the increase is directly attributed to land costs.) During the same period, the median family income rose from around $29,000 to approximately $43,000. While our median family income is the highest in the nation, the "median home" is completely out of reach for the "median family" unless there is a family subsidy. Rental units are almost nonexistent. The facts are that the young (our children), senior citizens and new employees are priced out of the Long Island market.

Long Island businesses are faced every day with refusals from prospective employees - not because of a lack of culture, medical care, parks, beaches, golf courses or educational facilities - but because those employees interested in the new job opportunity come to Long Island to look for housing and realize they cannot secure an adequate place to live. Several Long Island businesses, out of desperation, have resorted to the costly private busing of employees from New York City to fill gaps in employment. Not only does the lack of affordable or entry level housing impact prospective employees, but current employees are often lured away, because a better life style, in terms of housing, is available with employment off of Long Island.

There are other dimensions to the lack of affordable housing. As the price of housing escalates, businesses are forced to raise salaries to remain competitive for engineers, sales personnel and attorneys, to name just a few categories. In planning for future expansion, the impact of housing costs has caused more and more Long Island businesses to expand elsewhere. This puts directly at risk our future economic development.

Many companies come to Long Island looking for a new office or plant site and decide not to locate on the island because of the housing factor. It is clear that the lack of affordable housing contributes to family dislocation and will slow our economic growth.

The key deterrent to the development of affordable housing on Long Island is public attitudes. Local governments are often paralyzed because of community opposition to any form of affordable housing. By failing to act on affordable housing, we also may very well be killing further economic growth on Long Island. If the economic growth slows or declines, that will soon negatively impact on current home values - values which we so jealously guard.

Questions and opinions may be addressed to Mr. McMillan, Anton Community Newspapers, 332 East Second Street, Mineola, NY 11501.

Modest Means Home Buyers' Program Is Announced by Governor Cuomo

Governor Mario M. Cuomo has announced the start of the State of New York Mortgage Agency's new Modest Means Homebuyers Program. A total of $10 million in 4% mortgage money is now available for first-time homebuyers of low or modest income in this special demonstration housing program.

The following criteria must be met to qualify for a Modest Means Homebuyer mortgage:

- All applicants must be first-time homebuyers.
- All applicants must be credit worthy, have a steady job, pay bills on time and generally meet the normal credit standards for mortgage loans. Applicants credit history must be sound.
- Only existing homes qualify - the home chosen must have been previously occupied.
- Applicants must be able to prove that their income does not exceed the special income maximums outlined in the chart. The total income of all adults (30 years and older at time of application) who will occupy the home must not exceed these income limits.
- Part-time incomes of all adults in the household must be included.
- Income eligibility will be based on current income and tax returns from the previous three years. Both the applicant's current income as well as their income for each of the last three years must be below the special income maximums.

- Applicants must occupy the home within 60 days of closing the mortgage and it must be the applicant's principal residence.
- Applicants must choose a home within New York State with a purchase price that falls at or below the special purchase price maximums.

For further information on SONYMA's Modest Means Homebuyers Program call SONYMA's toll-free line, 1-800-382-HOME. Here in the local area the maximum income for one-family homes is $28,500 and for two family homes, $32,500.

The purchase price maximums are $80,000 for one family and $90,000 for two family homes.

Publishers Note....

It is the policy of these newspapers to give equal space to all candidates for any political office.

This year, there are many candidates in local, town, and county elections - and there are many candidates who have not sent us one picture or one news story.

We urge-and entreat-all public relations directors for candidates to supply us with material so that we may continue our policy of fairness to everyone.

SUNY Wants The Best

By GOVERNOR MARIO M. CUOMO

If education is to be our top priority, we must recruit and retain the most capable candidates to lead the great public universities in New York.

In 1984, I encouraged the SUNY Board of Trustees to appoint the Commission on the Future of the State University, chaired by Ralph P. Davidson, then Chairman of Time, Inc. This commission recommended that the State grant to SUNY and CUNY greater administrative independence, subject to review by the Executive and Legislative branches rather than direct control. An element of these recommendations, which I submitted as part of my 1986 legislative agenda, was the flexibility to set competitive salaries for the top officials of the universities - even if those salaries exceeded the salaries of the State's top elected officials.

Today the SUNY Board of Trustees approved a proposed salary plan, subject to final approval after a period of public comment, to provide the flexibility needed to hire the best available candidates to head SUNY and CUNY.

While the control of spending is as important in education as in all other areas of government, we cannot reasonably expect to attract the caliber of leaders needed by our public universities when other states are offering those same executives salaries that are literally double those in New York.

In the five State budgets which I have signed into law, the people of New York have been generous in their investments in education. It would be foolish to limit artificially our ability to recruit the most capable people to administer our investments in SUNY and CUNY by restricting salaries significantly below those offered by other public universities.

I support the action of the SUNY trustees and I believe it will help us achieve our common goal of making New York's public universities, as well as our elementary and secondary schools, the best in the Nation.

WHERE TAXES COME IN

Federal income taxes often play a part in deciding who buys what real estate and who sells when. We understand the wherefores of tax-oriented decisions and will encourage you to get all the facts as they apply to your situation.

The 1986 tax law kept the deduction for mortgage interest, with certain limitations, and took away deductions for ordinary consumer borrowing. Small wonder, then, that home equity loans have become increasingly popular borrowing instruments. If your home has appreciated several times over since you bought, you may be limited in what you can borrow. Talk to us about moving your equity to another property where you can get at it.

Any gains you make when you sell your principal residence are still tax-deferred, as long as you buy another, more expensive home within the prescribed time. Nor has the new tax law touched the once-in-a-lifetime exclusion of $125,000 of capital gain on the sale of your home after 55.

Time to sell? Talk to the experts at:

A Financial Planner's Secret What is Financial Planning?

A financial plan allocates your assets and income among a variety of investments. A financial planner assists in setting up a plan. He will discuss life insurance, mutual funds, IRA's, certificates of deposit, stocks and bonds. There is one investment that a planner will rarely discuss. It seems to be a financial planner's secret. Yet, it is a prime investment for banks. It is recommended along with government bonds for investment by trustees who are charged by law with exercising a high degree of care in handling the funds of their wards. It is the "first mortgage".

Purchase of a house and life insurance are first considerations for most families. The house, for many, remains the primary asset. There comes a time to review that asset. The family is raised and thoughts turn to retirement. This may mean moving south where houses cost less and northern winters are a memory. Take a typical couple leaving Hicksville for Florida. The Hicksville house sells for $150,000. The Florida house costs $50,000. They invest the $100,000 excess in a certificate of deposit at 7.5%.

Another couple makes the same move but takes back a first mortgage for $100,000 for 20 years at 12% as part of the price of their Hicksville house. Couple number two has a substantial increase in income. They also have an easier sale since their buyer does not have the cost of obtaining a bank mortgage and may pay more for the house.

How safe is such an investment? If the buyer defaults in payment after three years you retain an attorney to foreclose the mortgage. Unless the value of houses in the area has fallen at least 30%, the sale will bring more than enough to repay the balance of $95,645 plus your legal costs. Meanwhile you will have received $35,283 in interest over those three years compared with $22,500 received by couple number one. You may buy the house back on foreclosure since you can start bidding at the foreclosure sale with a bid of $95,645 without putting up any cash. If you are outbid, the proceeds will pay your loan and costs. Worth considering???

BUSINESS AND FINANCE

The Investor's Corner

By JOSEPH P. FREY, Ph.D.

A Horse Tale—Part 2

Last week, we talked a little about the horse business for fun, pleasure, profit and tax savings. This week we will look at how a person can invest for the advantages. How some people do it.

One owner I know has always loved the excitement, thrills and dangers of the business. His approach is to buy a horse on credit, sometimes with some friends' money. He does not race his horses in the local New York tracks. Rather he races them in smaller tracks. The expenses, especially stall rentals and feed are less. The horses are scheduled to run for purses for about 6 to 8 weeks. At the end of that time, if the horse is a winner, it stays; if not, it goes. No if's, and's or but's. It is cutthroat. Some years he makes 200 to 300,000 dollars; some years he loses. Most often he is a winner. This is a part-time activity for him.

The horse syndicate that I mentioned last week has not yet turned a profit. It has been investment all the way. Now that they have started to race the first horse, they may get a return. If the horse wins some races, they will make a lot of money; if not, they sell the horse and hope the others are better. They have built a stable of horses. The odds of making money are with them because they have used first class name horses to produce their babies. This is the Irish syndicate.

There is another, more unusual way that I have come across. In upstate New York there is a syndicator who forms "S" corporations with individuals who take small pieces of his deals. In each case the investor puts up only the initial money. The farm breeds, feeds, trains, and races the horses. It is a start-to-finish operation, including transportation to the Florida farm in the winter. Their track record is good and improving. In all cases the farm retains a 20 to 25 percent ownership in each deal.

They put together a syndicate a year, each syndicate ends up with about 6 horses. While they have been in the business for many years as trainers, breeders, etc. they have been forming syndicates for only about 6 years. The first syndicate has one horse left, and they have just about broken even (without tax considerations). The second has done better, it has been profitable. Its horses are still racing. It has some winners. The jury is still out on this one. The third syndicate promises to be a real winner. Its horses are running in good races, in good places, like Belmont and Saratoga. Some winners, some close seconds. These investors should make a bundle. Syndicates four and five are still too young to tell.

Each owner gets the thrill of ownership and the heartbreak for a limited investment. It is an up and down business. In this case, the risk is limited to your investment, and the tax benefits are excellent, especially if you like the track. The benefits are wonderful. If you journey to the track to see "your horse", all expenses are tax deductible. The Irish group writes of 3 to 4 trips a year when they go to check up on the horses. They all love Ireland too. The write-offs are all up front because the horse must live to grow. No income coming in, but you have the expenses (all deductible losses). Fast depreciation the only caveat you must be involved. The upstate farm syndicators require that the partners make decisions in writing about the horses. Of course the trainers present alternative suggestions for them to aid their choices.

Energy Audits Available For Small Businesses

As a special service for small business owners in Nassau and Suffolk Counties, Cornell University Cooperative Extension is offering free, comprehensive energy audits designed to identify ways of conserving energy and reducing energy costs. There is no charge for this service. It is entirely free and there are no hidden costs.

In announcing this expanded program, Mary Kay Merwin, Executive Director said, "We at Cornell Cooperative Extension recognize that cutting the costs of energy is often crucial for the life and growth of a small company. In many cases, low-cost improvements with short payback periods can expedite a business' growth and profits."

The state program of energy audits is sponsored by Cornell University and the NYS Energy Office. Locally the energy audits are conducted by Cooperative Extension under the NYS Small Business Energy Efficiency Program.

Audits are available for businesses that have less than 15,000 square feet, and employ less than 25 people. Ms. Merwin explained that the auditor does the following five essential tasks:

1. reviews all utility bills for the previous year;
2. inspects and tests equipment (lighting, heating, air conditioning, ventilation, refrigeration);
3. inspects building insulation (doors, windows, walls, ceiling);
4. makes a computer analysis to determine energy savings;
5. makes recommendation for conserving energy.

New York State Energy Commissioner William D. Cotter explained "Small commercial establishments are the backbone of New York's economy. But because they must rely heavily on their working capital to maintain and improve business, they are squeezed by high energy costs more tightly than larger companies."

Anyone interested in scheduling an audit or in finding out more details, call Suffolk County Cooperative Extension at 727-7850, or Nassau County Cooperative Extension at 454-0900. A trained small business energy auditor will contact you to schedule an appointment.

Investment Adviser Cites New Class Of 'Economically Depressed Affluent'

Increasing numbers of working couples who earn between $50,000 and $100,000 a year are joining the ranks of the "economically depressed affluent" in which they have all the material trappings of success but are plagued by financial insecurity.

This is the view of chartered financial consultant Alexander J. Mitchell of Manhasset who has specialized over the past twenty years in counseling working couples.

"Never before have so many people had so much money and kept so little," Mr. Mitchell says. "On the one hand, people are driving luxury cars, traveling abroad four times a year, and adding six-figure extensions to their homes. On the other hand, these same people are often hard-pressed to meet their monthly expenses, to fund their child's college education, or to handle financial emergencies, such as uncovered, major dental bills."

Citing recent Commerce Department figures, Mr. Mitchell said that retail sales are up 0.8 percent in July, but that the spending gains puzzled many economists "because income growth is not keeping up with inflation, and consumer debt remains at high levels."

Mr. Mitchell said that working couples without children are increasingly becoming "possession-gatherers" and are avoiding investing to achieve "wealth accumulation."

"Once the free spenders have children and start to incur substantial expenses for homes, education, or health," he said, "they begin to question where all their money has gone. They worked hard to realize the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, but they find, too late, that the only thing at the end of the rainbow is the end of the rainbow."

Fidelity New York Appoints New Marketing Vice President

Andrew Jarchin has joined Fidelity New York Savings and Banking as Vice President, Director of Marketing.

Mr. Jarchin will head the Marketing Department, located in the bank's Garden City administrative offices at 1000 Franklin Avenue. He was previously with Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. as Assistant Vice President, advertising/marketing.

Mr. Jarchin states, "I look forward to contributing to the further growth and success of Fidelity New York through the development of new marketing programs and products designed to meet the needs of our customers." He added, "This institution has a strong reputation for caring about its customers, and that gives us a strong competitive advantage in the marketplace."

Fidelity New York, with assets of $1.7 billion, is a large regional Federal Savings Bank serving its customers with a full range of financial services through a network of 21 branches in Nassau, Suffolk and Manhattan.

Win "Free Car Loans" From the Bank of New York

The Bank of New York, one of the largest consumer lenders on Long Island, has so far this year provided Island residents with more than 105 million to buy new cars.

This week, the bank will give three more Long Islanders $25,000 each for the same purpose. The only difference is, they won't have to pay it back.

That's because their names were drawn at random from among 9,172 entries in The Bank of New York's "Free Car Loan" Sweepstakes, conducted during the month of June at all 79 Bank of New York branches on Long Island.

The three winners are Robert Fatscher, Jr., of Centereach; Eric Fletcher, of Westbury; and Arthur Nappo, Jr., of Bay Shore.

Each will receive $25,000 to purchase a new car of his choice or to pay off an existing car loan. The winners may also use their prize money for other purposes if they desire.

The "Free Car Loan" Sweepstakes was designed to highlight The Bank of New York's aggressive pursuit of auto loan business on Long Island and throughout the greater New York metropolitan area. In addition to a vigorous marketing program, the bank typically offers among the lowest auto loan rates in the area—its current rate for new car loans is 10.4%. Car buyers who apply by calling the bank's Action Phone unit at 1-800-942-1784 by 2:30 p.m. each weekday receive a decision on their applications the same day.

Free Brochure on Homeowner Benefits

Are you getting the most value from your home? Whether you are buying or selling, it is most important for consumers to be educated about what is probably the most important investment of their lives. Are you eligible for a tax deferral on the profit made from the sale of a home? Which tax benefits will keep growing right up until the last paper is signed at closing? Are you eligible to deduct home search cost from your tax bill?

The Long Island Board of Realtors has prepared a free, easy to read booklet entitled, "Home Sweet Investment," which not only gives the answers, but can help you learn to ask the right questions.

For a free copy of the Realtors' brochure, write: "Home Sweet Investment," Long Island Board of Realtors, 300 Sunrise Highway, West Babylon, N.Y. 11704; or call: (516) 661-4800; (718) 739-8700.

MTA Agencies To Increase Service During Multisports Weekend

Long Island Rail Road and IRT Flushing Line service will be the best way to avoid traffic problems when both the U.S. Open Tennis Championships and the world champion New York Mets are in town on Labor Day and the weekend of September 12th and 13th.

With Mets and tennis fans traveling to the combined events, one in Shea Stadium and the other in the nearby National Tennis Center, traffic congestion and delays on roads leading to Flushing Meadow Park are expected.

The Transit Authority will operate extra trains on Labor Day and on Sunday, September 13th, increasing the frequency of trains to one every four minutes instead of one every eight. Trains will run every six minutes on Saturday, September 12th. The LIRR will offer half-hourly Port Washington Branch service to its Shea Stadium station on the same days. Customers on the LIRR's other lines may change at Woodside for No. 7 trains to Shea. Metro-North customers may take the Harlem, Hudson or New Haven lines into Grand Central Terminal and change for the No. 7. Metro-North offers frequent service to and from the terminal.

Diabetes Foundation Fashion Show

The Long Island Association of Diet Centers announced at a recent meeting that it will raise funds for the juvenile Diabetes Foundation.

LIADC has planned a fall Fashion Show and Celebration Dinner which will be held at the Long Island Marriott on Sept. 15, from 7pm to 11pm.

The fundraising event is expected to attract 600 guests to the Marriott's Grand Ballroom. Diet Centers from all over Long Island and Queens will participate.

Dieters who have achieved their ideal and goal weights will be modeling the well-known fashions of Mikiya which has locations in Great Neck, Cedarhurst and Woodbury. Both men and women dieters will model the furs of Fred The Furrier.

Karen Weiner, president of the regional IDF organization, said the funds raised would be used for medical research.

Donations are $35 per ticket and includes dinner. To reserve tickets call Diet Center at 294-8950 or the IDF office at 944-3622. Please reserve early.

The bidding:
West North East South
1 ♠ Dble 3 ♥ 5 ♣
Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead — four of clubs.
Some of the simplest plays in bridge turn out to be spectacularly successful. For an excellent example, consider this deal, played in a national championship. West was Julius Rosenblum, one of the founders and for many years president of the World Bridge Federation.

South got to five clubs on the bidding shown. As happens so often, the outcome hinged entirely on the opening lead. After considerable thought, Rosenblum chose to lead a trump. As a result, declarer had to go down regardless of how he played the hand. When West shortly thereafter got on lead with a spade, he led another trump, and declarer found himself unable to score more than ten tricks.

Let's suppose that Rosenblum had led the king of spades originally, which most players holding the West hand probably would have done. In that event, South could not have been stopped from ruffing three spades in dummy, and he would have made the contract. Or let's suppose that West had led his singleton heart, which was a possible alternative lead. This would also have permitted declarer to make the contract.

Actually, Rosenblum's trump lead was very logical. He reasoned that of the bidding, both North and East were relatively short in spades, and that South therefore had spade length and would be able to ruff spades in dummy. So, to reduce dummy's potential ruffing power, Rosenblum decided to lead a trump.

No truer arrow was ever shot!
Declarer won the trump lead in dummy with the ace and returned a spade, but he was fighting a losing cause. Rosenblum won the ten with the jack, played a second round of trumps, and South eventually went down one, losing two spade tricks and one diamond.

Norbert Binotti, a 38 year old interior designer, opened Antique Mart a month ago, featuring furniture made in the 1920's in southern France.
Nearly all the furniture is walnut and there are two styles: provincial and urban. The provincial furniture has carved motifs of fruits and vegetables, and was made for homes in the countryside. "The more elaborate Art Deco furniture that was devoid of carved ornament was made for a more sophisticated clientele, who lived in Paris or Nice."

AUTOMOTIVE SECTION

You Auto Know

By D.F. KARPPI

For a while now, I've been driving along saying to myself...I have to write about that. I watched a young lady on Northern State cutting in and out of the lanes. She was in a hurry.

You know how the story ends...I passed her by as she waited for a red light on Veteran's Highway.

On small, hilly, curving roads they dart out with no concept of who's coming over the hill in their lane (the wrong lane) when they dart out across the double lines to get ahead of you.

I think some of them have forgotten the rules of good driving. Well, we can't do anything about other people and their driving temperament, but we can brush up on our defensive driving techniques. The announcement has just come through for the Driver Improvement Programs, member of the National Safety Council, Fall program for the Defensive Driving Course for Nassau and Suffolk Counties.

Successful completion of the course entitles motorists, listed as principal drivers to 10% reduction on the liability portion of their auto insurance policy if the auto insurance policy anniversary is in 1987. For auto insurance policies with anniversaries on or after January 1, 1988, motorists will be entitled to a 10% discount on both the liability portion, as well as the collision portion of the insurance policy.

Graduates of the Defensive Driving Course are entitled to the discount for up to three years after completion of the course. In addition, completion of the course also deducts three points from the motorist's license by the New York State Department of Motor Vehicles if violations have been incurred during the 18-month period prior to taking the course.

The six-hour course is being offered in several formats at 29 locations in Nassau and Suffolk Counties.

There are 44 different classes scheduled either on two weekday evenings from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. or all in one day on a Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. The course is offered through many local Adult Education programs or libraries.

The fee for the course is $35. Registration is by mail only. Persons interested in the course should call (516) 249-3331 to have registration materials mailed to their home.

Hicksville All-Star "Kids For Kids" Baseball Benefit Game

By CHARLETTE ANSTNEY

Friendship was the theme of the day for the first Hicksville All-Star Kids For Kids Benefit Baseball Game on August 29. The enthusiasm and excitement displayed by the HBA and PAL ballplayers, spectators and the participants from the A.H.R.C. were of benefit for everyone to see. We had spent the week worrying whether we would be rained out or not. Friday night members from both teams were at work on the field and on Saturday, the Town of Oyster Bay sent equipment to help us.

The score was 10-2 in PAL's favor. All ballplayers played an excellent game. Buddy Goodrich, of the PAL 12-year-old All-Star Team, had the following to say, "Even though PAL won the trophy, everyone attending the event was a winner. HBA played a good game. The good sportsmanship exhibited between everyone made the day a special event to remember." Al Ciaccio, of the HBA 12-year-old boys All-Star Team had the following to say, "The members of the HBA 12-year-old boys All-Star Team and I wish to extend our congratulations to Buddy Goodrich and his fine baseball team (PAL All-Stars). The PAL team played a fine game. Sportsmanship, ability and friendship were displayed by both teams and the game supported the A.H.R.C. It was a good game and a positive day for everyone concerned."

PAL's Coach Buddy Goodrich announced at the game that Lonnie Ogulnick and Danny Goodrich were the MVP's of the game.

Everyone was extremely thrilled to see all the sports figures who volunteered their time to come there: Bobby Nystrom-Islanders, Gary Howatt-Islanders; John Tonelli-Islanders, Brian Trotter-Islanders and Howard Davis-Lightweight Boxing Olympic Gold Medal Winner, 1976. These gentlemen not only came to talk to the crowd at the beginning of the game, but they stayed for almost the entire game giving out autographs, having pictures taken with youngsters (and oldsters) and conversing on a one-to-one basis. Gary Howatt brought his wife and his children, Brody and Kristy, to see the game, as did Bobby Nystrom, who brought his children, Marisa and Eric.

The people who will be participating in this event are:

'Scruples' of Hicksville Night Softball League Champions

Scruples of Hicksville swept three straight playoff games to win the 1987 Championship of the Oyster Bay Night Softball League.

Final victory came on a last of the seventh rally, game three, to eliminate Anron's 8-7. Mike Wasiluk stroked a bases loaded single to erase a 7-6 deficit.

Playing under the lights of Oyster Bay township field Scruples squelched determined Anron's bids 15-12 and 9-7 (nine innings) in the first two contests.

Vital in those outings were two home runs, each by John Hakker, Carl Lance and Bill Lee. Hitting pinacle was achieved by third baseman Bill Huber. Despite a debilitating illness, which required hospitalization after the game, he lofted three home runs. He also made two crucial stabs of line drives to cut down Anron's threats.

Sharing defensive sparkles were shortstop Tommy Lutz and Lee. The latter notched five hits and Wasiluk banged six.

Pat Horan won the first game and relieved John Huffer to get credit for the second.

He nailed down the finale for Scruples manager Mike Gallant.

Scruples ran up a 28-4 won-lost season record. A split with Hicksville Ebbets Field and a double loss to Reinhardt's of Hicksville were among the losses.

Reinhardt's Sweep Ebbets Field for Championship

In an emotional best three games out of five series, Reinhardt's of Hicksville, managed by Art Daub, swept Doug Dwyer's Ebbets Field Cafe team with a 7-6 come from behind victory in the third and final game of the Oyster Bay Top Community Softball League Division.

Reinhardt's had to show its championship team play after Ebbets Field got off to a 4-0 lead in the first inning of the final game. Clutch hitting by Paul Rex with a 2 run homer and Eric Gabriel with a game winning bases loaded single, helped Reinhardt's win the game and the Championship. Outstanding for the Reinhardt's team in the entire series were Bob Sinicola for his defensive skills in left field, Steve Proniewych for his perfect ten for ten on base performance including two home runs, Don Proniewych with a clutch three run homer in the second game and Vinny Christiano who baffled Ebbets Field hitters with his gritty pitching performance in all three games.

Other Reinhardt players who contributed greatly to the most successful season were: Charles Arbia, Frank Christiano, Robert Daub, Frank Fuschillo, Joe Mitchell, Dennis Mulligan, Gary Scarolla, Bob Schmidt, and Don Vigliotti.

Hicksville Soccer Vanquishes Competition

By JAY SCHWARTZ

The '77 traveling "A" team from the Hicksville Soccer Club won first place trophies in their Labor Day Tournament at South Huntington Junior High. In five games they scored 19 goals and shut out all their opponents, 2-0, 3-0, 4-0, 6-0, and 4-0. Coach Richard Ilsley, with the assistance of Phil Caputo and Steve Florio, had prepared the team well.

Experienced goalie Greg Latini worked wonders keeping each shot in his grasp. Jonathan Schwartz held on to Latini's shutout streak when they exchanged positions for some halves.

The sharp goals came from Dan Wolchok, Joseph Croce, Russell Brousseau, Tom Coffey, Greg Latini, Jonathan Schwartz and Richard Werchenski. Strong passing by Philip Caputo, Joseph Florio, John Kanuck, and Joseph Matz made the scores possible. The strong defense was powered by Robert Ilsley, and David Nelson.

The team thanks the coaching staff and wishes Tracy Koetter a speedy recovery and Peter Titone a safe return.

HARVEYS IV WINS 3RD STRAIGHT

Harveys IV led by Frank Scarpinato and Billy Lawson won 5 games in the WESCO Sunday league playoffs to win their third straight Championship. Frank and Bill combined to go 25 for 28, with eight doubles, three triples, three homeruns and twenty-five RBI's. This improves Harveys three-year playoff record to 19-3.

Most Callers Do Not Think Hart Should Re-Enter Primary

Most callers to Input did not think that Gary Hart should re-enter the race for President in answer to this question: "Gary Hart is considering getting back in the Presidential race for the Democrats. Do you think he should come back?" Here are some of the answers:

NO MONEY

I was surprised to see so many people taking the possibility that Gary Hart might re-enter the Presidential primary seriously. I don't really think that he will get enough backers to mount any sort of campaign. He has past debts and might be counting on Federal election money to pay off those debts. But, it would be hard for him to raise enough to get back in the race. M.R.

RAW DEAL

I am pretty much for Hart re-entering. I think the newspapers and the public gave him a raw deal. I think he would make a good President because he has the ability to clearly analyze questions. I want a great leader and I do not want an analysis of his sex life. If you were going to have an important operation, you would not dismiss a doctor who had a couple of affairs and take on some incompetent. The Presidency is just as important. H.W.

BEST QUALIFIED

So far, I do not know of any Democrat who is better qualified than Gary Hart. All of the polls show that Hart is still the leader, so why not let him run again? The newspapers are not supposed to be deciding who should run for office. Forget about all of this sensationalism and let Hart run. J.E.

BITTER TASTE

There is a fantasy here if we believe that Gary Hart can get right back in the race again. When someone bows out of a race, it leaves a bitter taste in the minds of voters. And, under the circumstances that Hart bowed out, there was more than a bitter taste. He came across as a person who had very few principles and one who could not be trusted. There is very little hope that Hart could change enough minds at this stage of the game. M.W.

GAME OVER

I doubt very much that most people will vote for Gary Hart even if he does enter the primary again. His decision to opt out and then return would hardly seem as though it is the stuff that Presidential decisions are made of. The game is over for Hart and it doesn't matter who else is in the running. K.H.

JIMMY CARTER

I think that Jimmy Carter, and not Hart, would be better in the race. Carter has the experience. He had some terrible bad luck at the time he was President and I think he could do a far better job of being President than Reagan is doing. M.F.

WRONG TYPE

Hart has lost the support of the American people and he should just forget about running anymore. He is not the type of person we need to run the country. He was completely right when he withdrew from the race. F.W.

DOESN'T HAVE IT

Gary Hart just does not have it. But, as a Republican, if the Democrats want to put him up, I am all for it. He will not do as well as Walter Mondale against practically any GOP contender. While the media does not like Reagan, he would be re-elected again and any follower of his philosophy could beat out Hart. N.G.

SHOULD NOT RUN

This should be simple if I, as a Republican, would like to make it easy for my candidate to win. As the Democrats are sharpening their knives to go to work on the GOP candidate, Gary Hart's re-entry would have an immediate dulling effect on those instruments because I believe that no one, no matter how astute, could win the Presidential nomination in the face of such ill-timed escapades. I am not denying that he had the best of everything among the Democratic candidates -- a full grasp of the issues and the ability to forcefully present a strong position on them -- but who will believe him in the light of the exposure of his basic weakness of character. Obviously, he is not the only Democratic candidate but perhaps none other has that Devil-may-care attitude which was the spark which set him apart from the others, but which also turned out to be a weakness which the public-in all conscience-could not accept. I know there is that well-known saying about people living in glass houses but, in this instance, I have a feeling that they would be the first to cast stones. Gary is sorely tempted to have a go at it but in the interests of everyone concerned, I think he should resist the temptation. P.G.S.

The Obnoxious House Guest

By Jerri Donohue

Living in close proximity to a tourist magnet such as New York City, we have often played host to guests who invited themselves for a few days or weeks. And, like mosquitoes, they are especially common this time of year.

Guests come in all shapes, sizes, colors and accents but obnoxious visitors can be lumped into distinct categories.

#1 THE SLOB. The Slob forgets his sneakers, sometimes his dirty socks, for days under your sofa. He parks cold drinks anywhere, unmindful of water stains on your good furniture. His unsupervised kids draw murals on your wall. You might need to mail the Slob various possessions he leaves behind after scattering them throughout your house. I find the Slob's faults to be minor irritations: he feels at home and that's why he's somewhat careless. His redeeming qualities include a great sense of humor, and his sloppiness stems largely from absent-mindedness. He's simply more interested in your news, your kids, your garden, to pay attention to details of neatness. I feel great affection for certain Slobs of my acquaintance and only include this category because this type of guest drives my husband crazy.

#2 THE MOOCH. Hard as it may be to believe, there still exist far corners of the earth, such as particular pockets of the Midwest, whose inhabitants remain unaware that New York is an expensive place to visit. The Moch shows up with credit cards but very little cash—hence you find yourself buying his L.I.R.R. tickets, subway tokens, and even paying his museum admission. All these "little" expenses rapidly add up during a short stay. If you know that ordinarily the Moch can afford to pay his own way, you will deeply resent footing the bill for his vacation. Revamp your plans—skip Manhattan and concentrate on the sights nearer to home. However, if the Moch is a young and inexperienced traveler, or worse, a college student, have a heart and treat the poor soul.

#3 THE CHILD OR ANIMAL HATER. If you have pets or kids, do not ever, EVER entertain persons known to have a pronounced dislike for one of the above. Nor should you harbor in your home an individual who is allergic to the same. Why ban your dog or cat to the basement for days on end? Even if you didn't mind initially, you'll soon enough feel guilty about it. What's more, an allergic guest will probably snifle and sneeze anyway because you are unable to eliminate every animal hair floating about. If your guest is an animal-hater and you don't confine the pet, you will bristle at the tension between them throughout the visit. Similarly, when you entertain a person who can't stand kids, you will be acutely uncomfortable each time the baby cries or your child misbehaves even slightly.

#4 THE SNOOP. This visitor plays his own version of Twenty Questions. He wants to know the price of your new windows, what your taxes are, how many years are left on your mortgage. Most of the Snoop's queries are intended to ascertain your current financial situation, but he also poses other personal questions, such as whether all your children were planned and why you did/did not nurse them.

#5 THE IMPROVER. The Improver wants to fix up your appearance, your house and your family. You should lose 20 pounds, dye your hair, dress differently. Improvers who rent think you should extend the kitchen, add a bath, finish the basement. You need to change the color of newly painted rooms, rehang your pictures, reupholster your chairs. Improvers who have no front or back yard gleefully designate the shrubs and trees you should eliminate. Childless Improvers advise you as to the correct time to begin potty training. Improvers are usually relatives.

#6 THE COMPLAINER. Pleasing the Complainer is an impossible task undertaken only by masochists. The Complainer measures everything against an unattainable standard of perfection. During a year abroad I shared an apartment with a European who subsequently wrote to announce that she would spend a month with me in the States. I replied that two weeks would be fine, but when she arrived, this woman informed me that she had to stay FIVE weeks or pay a very stiff penalty for her plane ticket. Because of strict laws in her country, the funds she'd brought with her were quite limited. She stayed the five weeks, and a once lovely friendship suffered irreparable harm. New York was too hot, the subway was too hot, my apartment was too hot.

Discovery!

The theatres were too cold, the supermarket was too cold, the restaurants were too cold. My apartment (Queens) was too far from Manhattan. At my own expense, I accompanied this visitor to events that did not interest me, only to listen to her complain that the man in front of us was too tall ("I can't see a thing!") or the music was not her cup of tea, or our seats were no good and overpriced besides. At her insistence we attended a church service in Harlem, but she was disappointed in the Gospel music. In the course of her entire visit, my guest made only two positive observations about America and Americans. At the Children's Zoo in Central Park, she commented, "This is what Americans excel at—things for children. Because Americans are all big kids themselves." After seeing "42nd Street," she acknowledged that the American musical is wonderful. For the rest, everything in America is too expensive. American meals taste like they came from a drugstore. Americans are all too fat ("Even the poor people are fat!") and too rude. Americans have too much money, but no skill in the art of living. A steady barrage of this brings out the flag-waver in us all.

In spite of the obnoxious types profiled here, most guests have enriched our lives with happy memories of their visits, and we look forward to entertaining them again. Hosting out-of-towners forces us to rediscover the exciting tourist spots in the area. Best of all, our shared experiences renew the bonds with family and friends who are distant only because of geography.

REAL WINNER

The Portuguese Restaurant Arlindo's on Mineola Boulevard, Mineola, is a real winner. The arched entrance to the restaurant makes you feel as though you are entering a retreat long ago. The decor is beautiful inside with a bright and new appearance.

Featured on the menu are fish and meat dishes with a distinct Portuguese flavor.

We were well satisfied with the food which included Shrimp cocktails paela (a combination of many fine fish treats including lobster, mussels, shrimp and scallops). The service was very good and Arlindo, the owner, personally thanked us for being among his guests. We highly recommend this restaurant. T.R.

TOPS IN DINNERS

The New Hyde Park Inn is a landmark on Jericho Turnpike in New Hyde Park. Most people have been there many times for one banquet or another. Throughout the years it has served as a top catering hall for many affairs.

As a restaurant it is equally good. We went there last week and found that it has a full menu for dinner and that all of the good things that were at banquets can be had in the restaurant. Because it is a festive type place it is a great one to celebrate a birthday as we did. Tell your readers that the New Hyde Park Inn is tops for dinners. We know. We were there. Y.R.

GOOD RESTAURANT

A surprisingly good local restaurant is the Surfside on Hillside Ave. in New Hyde Park. This good sea food restaurant has been discovered by many other people who assemble there on almost any night of the week.

We were there on Thursday and found that their shrimp scampi and red snapper were wonderful. The preparation of the food and the entire look of the restaurant is appetizing. It is of new construction and everything looks spic and span. The food was deliciously cooked and the fish was as fresh as if it were caught a few hours before. This is a very good restaurant.

YOU CAN BE A

RESTAURANT CRITIC

If you visit any of the restaurants selected for inclusion in this section call 931-0027 at any hour and tell your ideas. We want YOU, the reader, to be our critic. Your message then can be printed in this space.

Q. Who is served first at table and when is the proper time to begin eating?

F.P.G.

A. The hostess is not served first unless she is the only lady at the table or is alone with her husband and children. If grandmother or even a young girl guest is present the dishes are first presented to her after inspection by the hostess. When the hostess is serving from in front of her place, with or without the aid of a servant, she is served next to last and her husband last. For her to serve herself earlier will mean her food will be cold and her filled plate in the way.

After several people have been served, urged by the hostess, guests begin eating so their food will not be cold. And, except at breakfast, the polite husband waits until his wife has been served before beginning to eat.

Q. Is it considered bad manners to take anything to drink to your lips while there is still food in your mouth?

A. Yes, because this may leave particles of food in the beverage or leave an unattractive smear on the glass. Your mouth should be empty before you take anything to drink. Certainly you should avoid the effect of "washing down" food that is already in your mouth. It is amazing how many people are guilty of this breach of etiquette.

Q. Why in some restaurants do I have to sit there so long before the waitress gives me the check?
A. Well the answer to your question is hard to define. It might be simply because the restaurant is so busy that the waitress hasn't time to add up the check. But at some of the better restaurants you will never get a check unless you ask for it. In these establishments they feel that the guests should decide how long they wish to talk or occupy the space after eating and only on rare occasions will they bring a check that has not been solicited and then with apologies.

Q. Some restaurants make a big thing over a lobster tank, but I think it is disgusting to have to kill these animals in order to get a meal. Why do they have these tanks?

A. The reason is simply that lobster has to be freshly killed to be eaten. The lobster tank lets the diner see that what he is getting is really fresh lobster. Possibly some squeamish people believe that the lobster tank should be somewhere else but most diners want to see the live ones and if you do not, you should be suspicious. They are killed instantly in boiling water.

TRIP INTO PAST

We always feel that we have a fine time and wonderful food when we visit George Washington Manor in Roslyn. It is like a trip into the past with modern food and service to visit the Manor.

They have a good menu of American food that is cooked just right. Last week we had a party of four people who visited the G.W. Manor and had entrees which included fish, beef, and veal. Every person in our group said that they thought this restaurant is one of the finest they had ever been to. We decided then that we should spread the word around and decided to make this call J.H.

KITCHEN HINTS

Steaming without extra gadgets

Steaming food is healthy and can be done with equipment already in the kitchen.

Here's how to do it:

1. Pour about an inch of water in a deep pot.
2. Suspend sieve or colander in pot. Line with wet dishcloth.
3. Place food in sieve. Fold extra cloth over food, cover with lid and steam. Cloth prevents food discoloration from contact with metals.

Q. Recently I was a guest at a club luncheon in a restaurant. Accidentally, I overturned my tomato juice. What was the right thing to do? The waiter didn't see the accident immediately. T.L.

A. A waiter seeing such an accident would immediately change the cloth, or if that was impossible at a long table, would spread a clean napkin over the spilled food. As the waiter did not do this because he was busy elsewhere, at a large luncheon you could have spread a napkin over the spot yourself, without undue discussion of the incident. Everyone occasionally has things like this happen.

GOOD LANDMARK

The Davenport Press, which has been around as a printing shop but never a restaurant, for many years is a good restaurant.

They must have performed a miracle to change the old Davenport Press building on Main Street, Mineola into a restaurant. But let me tell you it is a good one.

There are several large intimate rooms. The large one we were in contains a real fireplace. There is a long bar at one end of the building. The menu is a good one. We had prime ribs that were juicy and tender with an appetizer called "Davey Jones Locker". It contained different types of seafood, shrimp, oysters and other choice pieces. We recommend the Davenport Press. R.H.

Grilling seafood

Are you one of the many people who are intimidated by the idea of cooking fish on your home grill? Perfectly understandable. Perhaps you tried it once a few years ago and ended up with a few shreds of dried-up fish on the table, having scraped most of the dinner into the fire when you tried to turn the fish and you discovered that it had glued itself to the grids of the grill!

The reason that most meats and chicken in its skin do so well cooked over the dry heat of a barbecue fire is that they contain a fair proportion of natural fat and thus are self-basting and less apt to dry out. Fish and other seafood, being much leaner and often having quite delicate flesh, usually need a little help in the way of an oil-based marinade to retain moistness. Lean, delicate types of fish such as fillets of sole, flounder, cod, snapper or bass are best brushed with seasoned oil and cooked in a hinged grill basket so that the fillets can be turned without sticking and falling apart.

We have chosen here two sturdier types of seafood that can be cooked directly on the grill with wonderful results. Butterflied in the manner we describe, the shrimp shells provide additional insulation from the high heat of the barbecue fire, resulting in beautifully moist meat. The basting sauce is well-spiced with cayenne so use a little less of the hot pepper if your palate can't take the heat. Serve with steamed corn and plenty of crusty French bread to dip in the sauce.

Swordfish and tuna are two fish that take well to grilling and the mustardy marinade in our recipe can be used on either with delicious results. We can find swordfish chunks in our area — the pieces left over after the steaks are cut from the huge fish — and they usually are a little cheaper. Just make sure they're large enough (at least 1½ inches square) so that they don't dry out before they brown. Accompanied by herbed rice, a salad of green beans and red onion and served with a glass of chilled white wine, this is a summer meal to dream about.

SPICY GRILLED BUTTERFLIED SHRIMP

20-24 large shrimp (about 1½ pounds)

3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons olive oil
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 clove garlic, minced
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper
Lemon wedges for serving

Prepare and light barbecue fire or preheat gas grill.

To butterfly shrimp, cut through underside of body until you reach black vein that runs down back. Remove vein. Make sure you cut through tails of shrimp and then flatten by pressing firmly with heel of hand.

In saucepan melt butter with olive oil. Add lemon juice, garlic, salt and cayenne pepper and stir to combine.

Brush shrimp with some of butter-oil mixture and place meat side down on moderately hot grill. Cook for 2-3 minutes, turn to shell side, and cook another 1-2 minutes. Transfer to platter, drizzle with any remaining butter-oil mixture, garnish with lemon wedges and serve.

Preparation and Cooking Time: 30 minutes (excluding time to make the fire).

Yield: 4 servings.

GRILLED SWORDFISH WITH MUSTARD-HERB MARINADE

1½ pounds swordfish — either chunks or steaks cut at least 1½ inches thick
½ cup olive oil
2 tablespoons Dijon mustard
3 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons minced shallots or scallions
1 clove garlic, minced
1 tablespoon chopped fresh basil or 1 teaspoon dried
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
Sprigs of fresh basil as optional garnish

Prepare and light barbecue fire or preheat gas grill.

Leave steaks whole or cut fish in 2-inch chunks.

In mixing bowl combine oil, mustard, lemon juice, minced shallots and garlic, basil, salt, and pepper. Add fish to bowl, tossing gently to coat, and marinate for 10 minutes.

Remove swordfish from marinade and cook on moderately hot grill turning several times for total of about 10 minutes or until fish tests done. Place on serving platter, brush with leftover marinade and garnish with sprigs of basil before serving.

Preparation and Cooking Time: 30 minutes (excluding time to make the fire).

Yield: 4 servings.

Note: Fish may be cooked in stove broiler with excellent results if desired.

microwave magic

By Desiree Vivea

It's hard to believe those long, lazy summer days have rolled along so quickly — it seems like summer vacation just began a few weeks ago. And it's equally hard to gear up for fall and school days so fast approaching.

"Back to school" used to be synonymous with "back to brown bag routine," and the daily chorus, "What's for lunch today?" chanted by schoolchildren coast to coast. Today, most schools provide nutritious, balanced lunches but sometimes the kiddies want to pack their own. So check out your microwave cookbooks for recipes for unusual snacks, sandwich fillings and wholesome desserts to lure them away from the candy and soft drink dispensers.

Shop around for colorful vacuum containers to pack foods that need to be kept cold or hot. Carve a happy face on a fat red apple. Jot an encouraging note on their lunch napkins. When their hopeful little faces peer into their Hulk Hogan lunch pails, you will feel good knowing you helped brighten their day.

With your microwave, and these recipes to start with, you can provide delightfully varied and nutritious lunches for your little loved ones.

A departure from the standard bread, filling and mayo sandwich, pizza rolls make a tasty lunch. Place on a colorful paper plate, wrap in plastic wrap and provide a plastic fork.

PIZZA ROLLS

1 pound ground beef
¼ cup finely chopped onion
1 clove garlic, pressed or finely chopped
¼ cup thick tomato sauce
½ teaspoon basil or oregano
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 Italian rolls (6 inches long)
¼ shredded mozzarella cheese

Preparation Time: 5 minutes
Cooking Time: 18½ to 21½ minutes

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power); LOW (20 percent power).

Combine beef, onion and garlic in 1-quart glass baking dish. Cover. Microwave at HIGH for 7½ to 9 minutes or until beef begins to brown, stirring twice. Drain off fat. Stir in tomato sauce, oregano, salt and pepper.

Split rolls in half lengthwise and arrange in oblong baking dish. Spoon on beef mix and top with cheese. Microwave, uncovered at LOW for 11 to 12½ minutes.

Your kids will be the envy of the cafeteria when they unpack their barbecued chicken thighs. Pack these tasty finger foods in a vacuum container and provide plenty of napkins.

BARBECUED CHICKEN THIGHS

2 pounds chicken thighs (about 8)
¾ cup cola
Salt
1 cup ketchup

Preparation Time: 5 minutes
Cooking Time: 15 to 17 minutes
Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Arrange chicken in ceramic skillet, skin side down. Pour cola over chicken. Microwave on HIGH for 10 minutes, turning chicken pieces over halfway through cooking time.

Drain off about ¼ cup cola. Sprinkle chicken with salt, as desired. Pour ketchup over chicken. Microwave on HIGH for 5 to 7 minutes, until chicken is tender, turning chicken pieces over halfway through cooking time.

CHOCOLATE GRANOLA BARS

1 (6-ounce) package semisweet chocolate pieces
¾ cup peanut butter
4 cups granola

Preparation Time: 2 minutes
Cooking Time: 2 to 2½ minutes (plus 1 hour for chilling)
Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Place chocolate pieces in 2-quart glass bowl. Microwave, uncovered, on HIGH for 2 to 2½ minutes, or until melted. Stir in peanut butter. Blend till smooth. Fold in granola.

Turn mixture into 8-inch square baking dish lined with wax paper. Chill until set, about 1 hour. Cut in bars. Store in refrigerator.

GREAT GRANOLA

3 cups oats, quick or old-fashioned
1 cup coarsely chopped nuts, preferably almonds or filberts
¼ cup wheat germ
½ cup packed brown sugar
¼ cup honey 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
¼ cup shredded coconut
¼ cup chopped apricots
¼ cup raisins

Preparation Time: 5 minutes
Cooking Time: 12 to 13½ minutes (plus cooling time)
Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Place oats in 13x9x2-inch oblong baking dish. Microwave on HIGH 6 minutes, stirring twice. Stir in honey and vanilla. Microwave, uncovered, on HIGH 6 to 7½ minutes, stirring 3 times.

Add coconut, apricots and raisins to mix. Stir occasionally as granola cools, to break up. Store in tightly lidded container.

Cooking Corner

By Antonia Allegra

Marjorie Fortier has the knack of mentally cooking an original recipe before she ever measures her ingredients or gets out her pans.

It is a talent that won the Connecticut woman $10,000, the top prize in the 37th National Chicken Cooking Contest held in Jackson, Miss.

"After I mentally cook a dish, I write it down, including measurements and cooking instructions. Then I prepare it," Fortier said.

Fortier said she cooked a chicken-avocado-cheese dish for supper one evening and her husband was enthusiastic about it. So was each of her three sons and her daughter. It was then she felt she had a winner with her Chicken Avocado Melt recipe. She is always looking for new chicken recipes because she serves chicken for dinner about four times a week, she said.

A retired registered nurse, she now works part-time as a travel agent and enters four or five cooking contests a year. "I always enter the chicken contest and, if you'll pardon the expression, the beef contest."

She will spend some of her winnings on a trip to Mexico for herself and her husband.

Fortier was one of five national winners who finished in the money, sharing a total of $20,000 in prize money from the sponsoring National Broiler Council, a trade association for the chicken industry. The competition, which is held every other year, included cooking the recipe twice during the three-hour cook-off. Each contestant had his or her own mini-kitchen.

There were nine men among the 51 finalists but none placed as a national winner. Each judge did not taste all 51 dishes. Instead, the judges were divided into five groups of three — with each panel tasting 10 or 11 dishes. The problem with some of the entries was "overkill," according to the judges. But not for the rest of the national winners, who had the "right stuff" when it came to preparing chicken.

Gloria Kirchman of Mankato, Minn., won the $4,000 second-place award for an original recipe for a chicken, fruit and wild rice salad. It was not the first time chicken has been a money-maker for Kirchman. She used to pluck and dress chickens for Minnesota farmers for 50 cents each.

She now is the housewares manager for a hardware store and gives cake-decorating classes. Married at 13, she had a husband and two children to cook for by age 16 and it fueled her interest in cooking. At 39, she already has six grandchildren.

Kirchman showed her sense of humor in the original title she placed on her recipe. She called it Mosquito Lagoon Chicken Salad because her area of Minnesota has large mosquitoes. "But the contest people took out the word. They thought it sounded unsavory."

Third-place winner Rose Lewis of Van Tassell, Wyo., proved persistence paid off in cooking chicken. This was the sixth time she had won the chicken cook-off's state finals to earn a trip to the national event. But this was the first time she landed in the money, earning $3,000 for Lemon Mustard Chicken.

The wife of a retired rancher, Lewis lives in the tiny community called Van Tassell, population 13, where even a trip to the grocery store means a 50-mile drive.

"I like to think up new recipes and we eat a lot of chicken because it's easy to buy and store in the freezer." (She shops every 10 days to two weeks.)

Ann Combs practiced cooking her fourth-place prize-winning dish 10 times before the finals.

"My husband really got into it," said Combs of her Bittersweet Farm Chicken, which won $2,000. "He would say, 'Try it again and this time put the parsley up in the left-hand corner.'"

Combs is a retired nurse and she and her husband are restoring a old farm house built in the 1800s in Ashland, N.H.

The fifth-place winner, Nelda Smith of Texhoma, Okla., said her Chicken in Lemon Sauce was an original recipe. "I had some lemons and some cream in my refrigerator that needed to be used," said Smith, an accountant and sales representative, who also cooks a lot. "My husband is a farmer so I'm always cooking for field hands."

The recipe, which won her $1,000 in prize money, was the only one she entered in the cook-off.

CHICKEN AVOCADO MELT

4 broiler-fryer chicken breast halves, boned, skinned

2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 teaspoon ground cumin
1 teaspoon garlic salt
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon water
½ cup cornmeal
3 tablespoons cooking oil
1 firm, ripe avocado, peeled, sliced

Sure Way To Get Results!

When you advertise in a subscription newspaper, you get quality readership. You know that EVERY copy of the newspaper has been invited into the home and three to four people will most likely read it.

When you buy quantity, the only thing you might be sure of is that it has been hung on door knobs or thrown on lawns all over the neighborhood.

With our newspapers YOU ONLY PAY
FOR COPIES that will be read. It is this quality that produces results. Do not waste

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Q: In June 1986 we had a deck built that was attached to the east and south walls of our home. The deck is about 48 inches above ground. There is a railing about 38 inches high around the deck with pickets 6 inches apart. The deck is constructed of Wolmanized pressure-treated lumber with a lifetime guarantee against damage by insects or decay.

When the deck was constructed, the contractor said no sealer or protective coating should be used for the deck. However, the deck shows fading, weathering and some warping of the 2-by-6-inch boards for the deck and railing top. I have been told to apply a liberal coating of Cuprinol to protect the deck and railings. The contractor maintains that no protective coating should be used.

Should the deck be covered with a sealer and protective coating? If so, how should it be treated initially and how frequently should the coating be reapplied? — M.B.

A: I definitely would recommend a protective treatment for your deck. Be sure the wood is thoroughly dry before proceeding.

You can use a semitransparent stain with an alkyl base that has a water repellent in it if you prefer a colored treatment. Otherwise, treat with a water repellent recommended for exterior wood that is subject to weathering (Cuprinol is one).

If the deck is exposed to moisture from the underside, this should also be treated to prevent warping. If the ground under the deck is also subject to excessive moisture, you can provide further protection for your decking by covering the ground area with a heavy polyethylene plastic covering. Simply lay it on the ground area under the decking and weight the edges and seams down with bricks.

Q: I want to remove old linoleum that is glued to a previous one. Contractors here refuse to do it because of the asbestos dust involved. My problem is how to get rid of the old glue, which is yellow and hard as a rock. Would you suggest something to dissolve this old glue? — L.A.O.

A: Since the first layer of your flooring seems to be an asbestos tile or sheet flooring, I suggest that you contact a specialist in the removal of asbestos. The reason your second flooring was placed over the first was to avoid the release of asbestos fibers, which can become airborne with the removal of the flooring.

Asbestos is a health risk only when its fibers are released into the air and become breathable. This doesn't happen unless the asbestos is damaged, disturbed or deteriorated. With the removal of the flooring, you will be running a risk. There are contractors trained to follow Environmental Protection Agency regulations when asbestos must be removed.

Improper removal can create high levels of asbestos contamination, which has been linked to cancer. Information on testing for asbestos and its removal is available from the EPA. To get this data, call the EPA at (202) 554-1404 (or write Toxic Substances Control Assistance Office, TS-799, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, 401 M St. S.W., Washington, DC 20460) and ask for an asbestos information packet.

Most local health departments are able to refer home owners to trained inspectors and contractors authorized for the removal of asbestos materials.

Q: I have a brick house that is 3 years old. Do you recommend using Thompson's Water Seal on the bricks? I would like to seal them to prevent decay. — F.M.A.

A: A quality terrazzo sealer would provide the best protection, although Thompson's Water Seal can be used for this purpose. Check with your local masonry dealer for recommendations on the terrazzo sealer.

Be sure that the brick surface is clean prior to applying a sealer. Application of a sealer will change the coloring of the brick somewhat, making it appear darker.

er in first-degree relatives — parents, children and siblings — of Alzheimer's patients than for people without immediate relatives with the disease. In comparing the U.S. mortality tables with the Alzheimer's disease rates found in this investigation, the researchers determined that immediate relatives of Alzheimer's patients have a 121 percent, or one in six, chance of developing Alzheimer's disease.

"The potential implications of this study for society are enormous. Alzheimer's disease affects 1 million people already, and advances in the prevention and treatment of other diseases are constantly lengthening the average life expectancy of humans. Thus," say the researchers, "more and more people who have inherited the genetic predisposition for Alzheimer's are surviving long enough to develop the disorder."

For those mature adults without a direct family line affected by Alzheimer's, the probability or possibility of contracting the disease is dramatically lessened. For those adults with the disease identified within the near-family line, the probability still is that they will not contract Alzheimer's, but can be alerted to seek medical opinion early. New medications, such as THA, are being authorized — for limited use — to alleviate and defer the symptoms of the disease for a considerable time.

Most adults can forget the politicians and the alarmists and their broadbrush claims. Alzheimer's disease is not a part of the aging process.

TWEEN 12 & 20

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

Dr. Wallace: I am 15 and live with my mom. 17-year-old brother and 14-year-old sister. We are a very close, happy family. About a year ago our father died of leukemia. We miss him very much but his love has kept our family strong.

Our problem is that our dad's mother is unhappy that he is buried in Florence and wants him reburied in North Dakota next to his father. She keeps putting pressure on us and we don't know what to say to her anymore.

We realize that our father was her son but we don't want him so far away from us. What should we do? — Tammy Tammy: Your father's resting place should be where your mother desires and that is in Florence, Ala.

A firm, "Grandmother, we love you but our father will not be buried in North Dakota and that is final," should be sufficient whenever grandmother brings up the subject.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 16 and a bit upset. I have a full-time job this summer and I make pretty good money. When I get paid by check my mother cashes it and gives me $20 a week to spend. The rest is put into a savings account with my mom's name and my name on it.

Last week I saw the account book on the table in the living room so I looked at it. I should have had over $500 in it but all that was there was $100. Over $400 was withdrawn.

When I asked my mother about it she told me to never question her about money and that she would return the money "in due time."

Your comments please. — Barbara

Barbara: Your mother should have asked you to borrow the money if it was for her personal use or told you she was borrowing the money if for a family emergency. In any case, you should be repaid.

Dr. Wallace: I just finished an article in your column about the girl who was fed up being called names because she was overweight. She was asking teens not to tease other teens who were fat.

This reminded me of a fat girl who was in one of my classes last year. "Miss Piggy" was at least 60 pounds overweight, and all she ever did when kids called her names was to run crying to the teacher. Yet when anyone brought snacks into the room, she was the first one to beg for some of it. At lunchtime, all you would ever see her stuff her face with was cakes, pies, cookies and potato chips. Whenever anyone would say anything about her junk-food habit, she would respond by saying, "Mind our own business."

What I'm trying to say is that this girl deserved every name that she was called. If she doesn't have the courage to go on a diet, then she should not complain when she is called names. After all, it's us kids who have to look at her. She is lucky, she only sees herself when she looks in a mirror.

If I was fat and people called me names, I'd get shiny, and in a hurry. — Pat Pat: Calling people names is cruel and usually causes the "victim" moments of hurt and depression.

All you see is a teenager who overeats and is overweight. You don't see the emotional stress that causes her to overeat.

This girl needs professional counseling and friendship, not ridicule and name-calling.

Dr. Wallace: I'd like to respond to the girl who was complaining because she had to work in her father's office after school and on Saturdays. Poor baby! She feels punished.

I consider it a privilege to work for my father three afternoons a week and all day on Saturdays. I've been doing this for the past two years and feel it's a great deal. He needs a part-time helper and I enjoy earning my own money. This also has given me the opportunity of knowing my father much better.

I also have my home chores that include helping with the dishes, doing the laundry, working in the garden and mowing the lawn. I also taxi my younger brother and sister to ball games, meetings, friends' houses, etc.

The majority of homework is done at school. Some of my teachers allow time at the end of the period to study. Most students goof off — I do my homework.

I go out with my boyfriend on Saturday nights and often he goes out with my family on Sundays.

Don't get me wrong. I'm far from being perfect. I hate doing the dishes and I despise chemistry and trigonometry and I sure will be happy when my sister gets her driver's license in four months. I sometimes complain about these things, but I do them because they are my responsibility.

Debbie: Your letter made my day! Families that cooperate and help one another can do nothing else but be happy.

Here's to your good health in the mature years — with a handful of breaking news items for this week:

EXERCISE FOR BONE STRENGTH

New research from the University of California at San Francisco provides most positive recommendations for assuring the best and most spinal bone density to avoid or lessen the effects of osteoporosis. The recommendation: exercise.

By comparing CAT scans of the spines in men who pursued vigorous exercise programs and those who led sedentary lives, the researchers, for the first time, analyzed the types of exercise for the most productive results.

The greatest spinal bone density was in men who combined weight training with either free weights or resistance equipment, such as Nautilus machines, and aerobic exercises, such as running or aerobic classes. Those who exercised only with weights came out second in bone density, followed by those who just did aerobics. Non-exercisers had the lowest spinal bone density.

Osteoporosis is a condition "that may not be detected until a bone is broken, but it probably can be prevented," announced the medical researchers.

THE ALZHEIMER FAMILY LINE

Most anyone in the mature years could become scared and confused by the general reportage about Alzheimer's disease. The illness is a tragic one for those afflicted through a gradual loss of mental ability. Some politicians and some alarmists pontificate on the basis that "everyone" will get Alzheimer's — but the statements and claims are false. Most senior citizens will never contract the disease, and new research published in the Archives of General Psychiatry (May 1987) centers the disease mainly as an inherited one, rather than one assumed as a condition or result of aging.

Kenneth Davis, M.D., Richard Mohs, Ph.D., John Breitner, M.D., and Jeremy Silverman, Ph.D., of the Mount Sinai School of Medicine and the Bronx Veterans Administration Medical Center in New York City have published the results of their research to show Alzheimer's as a genetic disorder.

The investigators found that the risk for developing Alzheimer's disease is four to five times great-

Time to move your houseplants inside

Every year at about this time I set aside a special day to arrange our family's collection of cleaned and de-bugged houseplants into their permanent locations indoors.

After summer's fattening outdoors and a thorough cleaning, our houseplants always make their return indoors looking fetchingly sleek and lovely. The trick is to keep them looking that way for as long as possible during the winter months.

Because so much of the success and pleasure we enjoy in our houseplants depends upon finding indoor conditions as congenial as possible to each type of plant, the first thing I do is to group the plants according to their needs. This gives me the chance to appraise the amount of space each category of plant will require. Then I go through the house assessing likely spots for one group at a time.

Once I decide upon the best possible location for a group of plants I clean it well, paying special attention to window troughs and ledges where insect pests can sometimes be lurking. Then, when I arrange a group of plants in their carefully chosen location I take care not to crowd them, for all house plants benefit from the fresh air that comes with free circulation of air around them. Our plants will also display their charms most attractively when spaced well.

Arranging houseplants together indoors according to their light, temperature, soil moisture and air humidity requirements greatly simplifies their care, and eliminates the disappointments that are inevitable when plants are forced to battle conditions under which they cannot thrive.

Federal Convention Considers Finances Debts, Salaries and Taxes

Philadelphia, August 27, 1787 (Delayed) - In almost any organization, the question of who pays for what is sure to arise. The Federal Convention, meeting here since May, has now encountered this in regard to the new government they are proposing. One group feels that the central government should assume all state debts on the grounds that they had been incurred for the common good during the Revolution. States which have paid off substantial parts of their debts do not look favorably on this proposal.

The major source of the central government's income to do this would be its power to tax imports.

After the usual expression of diverse viewpoints, the question was put into the hands of a special committee. It produced a suggestion that all debts valid against the Confederation would be also valid against the new government. This avoids the difficult question of defining a valid debt. The suggestion was accepted and is being written into the new Constitution.

Earlier the convention had agreed that members of Congress are to be paid from the national treasury, rather than by the states.

Both of these actions are a reflection of the increasing acceptance of the power that would be given to Congress to raise funds through a tariff applied equally throughout the country. This is a power presently held by the individual states. They use it extensively and are understandably reluctant to give it up, but probably will do so.

In another action the Convention ended its experiment with longer meeting days. It interfered with the delegates' dinner hour.

Though few of our homes can offer absolutely perfect sites for indoor plants, we can at least select the most congenial possible conditions for each type. Tropical foliage plants, for example, form the backbone of many a houseplant collection. These thrive best in bright indirect light at normally warm room temperatures, ideally with a slight drop at night. They appreciate good humidity levels in the air, which is easiest to maintain when they're grouped together. The most common cause of failure with these plants, and many other types, during the winter is overwatering.

Some of the most popular houseplants in this tropical foliage category are palms, philodendron, dracaena and schefflera, asparagus and other ferns, wandering Jew, Chinese evergreen, Swedish ivy and the foliage begonias including the rex and angel wing types.

Spathe flower, or peace lily, is one of the few houseplants that will bloom in similar conditions of bright indirect light. But as a general rule of thumb most indoor flowering plants, while they require roughly similar temperature and humidity conditions as the foliage plants, need higher light levels. In fact in areas with low-light winters flowering indoor plants will bloom only in the brightest possible sites.

I'm thinking of such popular indoor flowering plants as wax and rieger begonias, impatiens, and hibiscus or Chinese rose, which often blooms well into the fall before it takes a winter rest.

More tolerant of drier air are geraniums and Christmas peppers. I look for one of the coolest, sunniest spots in our house for these plants. Under these conditions our Christmas pepper plants stay gratifyingly colorful and decorative all winter.

Among the most tolerant of plants are the aspidistra, or cast iron plant, and sansevieria, or snake plant. Both these decorative foliage plants stand up well to poor light levels and dry air. The sansevieria requires infrequent watering during the winter.

The popular spider plant is another one that's usually quite easy to locate and care for in most of our homes. It thrives in a wide range of light exposures, is fairly tolerant of dry air, and requires infrequent feeding and watering because of the efficient storage capabilities of its fat tubers. A row of these plants set in hanging baskets forms a graceful curtain across a window.

Furnishing the greenhouse

SUN-ROOM FURNISHINGS — Furnishings for sun rooms and solar additions should be carefully selected for their resistance to sun damage.

Decor Score

By Sharon Owen Haven

Q We recently added a glass greenhouse to the back of our home for energy conservation and much-needed family room space. Now we're looking for a low-cost, low-maintenance way of furnishing it attractively. Any ideas? — F.B.

A It's always safest to treat a glass sun room as though it is outdoor space without moisture.

The sun is capable of inflicting serious damage to furnishings despite the various tints and screens used for greenhouses. It will fade and disintegrate the fibers in fabrics and carpets. Woods bleach, dry and crack under its cheerful intensity.

Some home owners solve the problem by using outdoor furniture in their glasshouses. Since these furnishings are made of weather-resistant materials, they hold up well under the intense sunlight.

If you want more of an indoor atmosphere, consider natural wicker or rattan, which withstands the effects of the sun well. Even these materials need an occasional misting of water, however, to keep them from becoming overly dry and brittle.

Most glasshouses have floors of brick, concrete, or ceramic/clay tile because of their heat-absorbing qualities. Anything that covers them will interfere with this energy-conserving process and not last long anyway. I would leave the floors bare.

For comfort's sake, you may want to have some cushions or pillows in the space. My recommendation is to cover them in inexpensive fabrics made with natural fibers such as cotton muslin in very light colors with a minimum of pattern. These fabrics will last the longest, show fading the least and will not be so expensive to replace when they do fall apart (and they inevitably will).

Q I live in a rural area far from big cities, interior designers and showrooms. I want to make the most of what's available to me locally and do my own decorating, but I don't know much about the "rules" or basic concepts behind interior design. Could you recommend a good text? — J.G.

A Though there are many fine decorating books which you may want to read as well, I think you could make a good start with "Decorating Made Simple" by Mary Jean Alexander. This inexpensive paperback is published by Doubleday & Co., and is geared to self-study.

What I find particularly useful about it for the beginner is that the author defines in depth the many design terms that are commonly tossed around under the assumption that they are universally understood.

Not only are these terms discussed, but the author also makes good and ample use of illustration to show the reader what a concept means visually and how to recognize its absence. For example, the reader is trained to see the difference between balance and lack of balance is an interior.

Once these difficult concepts are understood, you'll be ready to tackle any interior design book in the library.

Your bowl is a 'bride's basket'

Q. This bowl is red and translucent white glass with a clear handle. There are no marks on the bottom. What can you tell me about it?

A. This is a bride's basket; they were popular wedding gifts around 1900. The correct name for this is opalescent cranberry swirl. A dealer would price this in the $175 to $200 range.

Q. I have a small oval candy dish decorated with a country scene. I am sending you sketch of the mark on the bottom.

Please tell me what you can about the origin and value.

A. Your candy dish was made by Carl Thieme in Potschappel, Germany, between World War I and II. It would probably sell in the $65 to $75 range.

Q. Why do experts always look for dovetails in the drawers of furniture? Even some new furniture has dovetails.

A. They don't look for dovetails; they look at dovetails.

The handmade dovetails in antique furniture are unequal and unevenly spaced. In modern factory-made furniture the dovetails are uniform in size and spacing.

A serious disease of newborn foals

Q. Our newborn foal seemed to be very healthy at birth and nursed almost immediately, but died within a few hours.

Our veterinarian thought the foal died because of anemia. What caused this anemia and how can we prevent it in the future?

A. The foal most likely died of a condition called neonatal isoerythrolysis, a very serious disease of newborn foals. A severe anemia develops in the foal because of an incompatibility between the foal's red blood cells and the antibodies obtained from the mare's colostrum during early nursing.

Foals suffering from neonatal isoerythrolysis are usually healthy when born, nurse the mare normally and are active for a short period of time. Twelve to 36 hours following birth, they become dull, sluggish, weak, quit nursing, and may be unable to stand. The membranes turn white or yellow. This yellowishness usually is not apparent until 24 to 48 hours following birth and becomes progressively worse during the next few days.

The course of the disease is variable. Foals may die of anemia in 12 to 36 hours. Most foals die on the third or fourth day.

Diagnosis of neonatal isoerythrolysis is based on the clinical signs seen in the foal and on testing the reactions between the mare's blood or colostrum and the foal's blood. Severely affected foals often require blood transfusions to survive.

The treatment of foals with neonatal isoerythrolysis involves removing the foal from the mare or muzzling it so that it cannot nurse for 48 hours. During this period the foal should be fed from another source, an artificial milk replacer or another mare's milk that is compatible with the foal's red blood cells.

Mares with foals with neonatal isoerythrolysis should be hand-milked every two to three hours. The foal can be allowed to nurse its mother after it is approximately 48 hours old because by then the ability to absorb the offending antibodies from the milk is lost.

Neonatal isoerythrolysis is usually not observed until the mare's third or fourth foaling. Mares with a history of having a foal with this disease should be watched closely near foaling time so that the foal can be removed or muzzled until its blood can be tested for compatibility with the mare's colostrum.

Foals can be raised from sensitized mares if managed carefully during the first 48 hours of life.
