

Hometown Pride Spurs Hicksville Fund Raiser

Warning stories of American community pride that saw hometown athletes supported in the recent Olympics were a source of pride to the nation.

An opportunity to respond in a similar manner is now before the Hicksville school, business and fraternal community. The board of directors of the Hicksville High School Association Alumni has agreed to administer a community fund raising drive to sponsor Hicksville High student, All-American lacrosse player Fred Amaya in the World Junior Lacrosse Championships at Adelaide, Australia, this summer. His selection to the American National team is a significant honor to his school and community.

The drive to send Hicksville's Fred Amaya to the World's Lacrosse games in Australia during August was launched by a one hundred dollar donation by the Hicksville Alumni Association.

The Lacrosse-Educational Scholarship gained additional support from two HHS graduates. From his new home in Maryland, Milton Levitt, Class of 1949, contributed one hundred dollars and a matching donation was made by Howard Finnegan, Class of 1943. Both made their donation in honor of the 80th birthday of Mr. Louis Millevolte. A 1926 graduate of HHS, Mr. Millevolte returned after college graduation to Hicksville. "In a 50 year career, he returned more to the school itself than any graduate in history," Mr. Levitt said. Mr. Millevolte served as coach, recreation director, physical education director, teacher and administrator.

Graduates and friends who want to extend support to Fred Amaya may send checks to the Hicksville Alumni Scholarship Fund, Alumni Box, Hicksville Senior High School, Division Avenue, Hicksville, N.Y. 11801.

Funds must be used only for travel, food and lodging, controlled by the United States Junior Lacrosse Association; no monies are allowed to be given to Amaya directly. This is in accordance with NCAA College eligibility rules. He himself must earn all short fall and personal spending money.

Permit Granted for Auto Repair Operation

The Oyster Bay Town Board has approved a special use permit for an automotive repair shop in Hicksville, according to Town Councilman Kenneth S. Diamond.

The applicant, WEJA Holding Corporation, was seeking the special use permit to operate an automotive radiator and transmission repair shop in a 'G' general business zone located on the north side of Woodbury Road at the west side of the intersection of Park Avenue and Woodbury Road, Diamond said. In granting the permit, the board did place a number of restrictive covenants on the property.

The board has limited the hours of operation to between 7:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. on Saturday. No repair work can be done on Sunday and no work can be done in the open.

The board also stipulated that no sales or rental of vehicles can be conducted on the property and that no gas or other type of fuel can be dispensed. All auto parts and vehicles must be stored inside and garbage and rubbish must be kept in suitable containers.

With regard to noise and fumes, Diamond said the board has mandated that no noise or odors can emanate from the building. Filters and other such equipment must be installed and properly maintained to protect the surrounding area from noise, dust, dirt, odors and other such substances.

Diamond said that no building permit or certificate of occupancy will be issued until a site plan has been submitted to and approved by the Town's Department of Planning and Development. The plan must show the size and location of all signs and lighting, location of parking spaces, access and egress and landscaping.

Town Begins Mandatory Recycling Program

By Rita Langdon

Bright, yellow buckets will begin to line local streets as the Town of Oyster Bay begins its mandatory recycling program this month. "We are looking at ways to keep the price of our 'throw-away' society down," Eric Swenson of the town's (TOB) Department of Environmental Control said. The town's current plan to reduce the cost of garbage is the SORT (Separate Oyster Bay's Recyclables Today) program. The TOB wants a resource recovery facility and to obtain this the state mandates recycling.

Seven gallon pails will be distributed to the eastern portion of Hicksville about the third week in April. The town, throughout the course of the year, will gradually reach all 62,000 homes in the TOB's sanitation collection district, town spokesperson Phyllis Souther said. Twenty gallon pails, costing more than $6 each, will eventually be distributed but no time frame has been set, she added.

Sanitation Collection

Regular sanitation collections will be made twice a week. Recyclables, which include glass bottles, metal cans and newspapers, will be collected every Wednesday beginning April 20. If residents do not have any recyclables, the pail must be left at the curb-side even if empty. "That's our indication that the residents are aware of the recycling program," Ms. Souther said. If residents fail to put their buckets out, the town will suspect that they are not recycling, and may visit the home to investigate the reason. Residents who disregard the use of the pails and combine recyclables with regular trash will receive warnings and then a summons. "It hasn't come to that yet. The pilot program has done quite well," she said referring to the program which is active in 4,200 homes in the Plainview and Old Bethpage areas.

What's Required?

All non-deposit bottles and metal containers must be kept out of regular household garbage. Residents must set aside items such as tuna fish cans, aluminum trays, foil, juice and liquor bottles, and place them in the yellow recycling containers. Glass bottles should not be broken before placing them in the pails. The town also requires that all labels be removed from metal cans. Newspapers must be bundled and left next to the recycling pail on Wednesday. No magazines or other types of paper may be included in the bundles. They are strictly for newspapers, Ms. Souther said. Literature concerning all the regulations and proper steps of the program will be distributed to all residents in upcoming weeks. "Recycling really does work. All we need is the resident's cooperation," she added.

OYSTER BAY TOWN SUPERVISOR Angelo A. Delligatti (fourth from left) presents a citation to Joseph Giordano, outgoing president of Galileo Galilei Lodge #2253, Order Sons of Italy in America. The Hicksville resident was honored at the organization's annual installation of officers, at which Carmine "Skip" Monteforte (left) was sworn in as president. Also on hand for the occasion were (second from left to right) Oyster Bay Town Councilman Thomas L. Clark; Mary Sarreco, president of the Lodge's Ladies Auxiliary; Town Councilman Kenneth S. Diamond; State Supreme Court Judge Joseph J. Saladino; and Town Councilman Douglas J. Hynes.

Town Denies Hicksville Day Care Center Permit

A request for a special use permit to operate a day care center in Hicksville has been denied by the Oyster Bay Town Board, according to Town Councilman Douglas J. Hynes.

The applicant, Wee Care Holding Corp., requested a special use permit to allow the operation of a children's day care center in a 'G-1' business zone, Hynes said. The property is located on the south side of West Nicholas Street, west of the southwest corner formed by the intersection of Broadway and West Nicholas Street, also known as 21 West Nicholas Street in Hicksville.

"In denying the application, the Board found that a children's day care center in the proposed location would create a substantial increase in hazards to the children who would be boarding and unboarding vehicles in a public street," Hynes said. "The Board also cited insufficient."

Additionally, the Board indicated that a children's day care center would not encourage the efficient use of public transportation facilities in the central business district and would create further congestion in the streets due to reliance on private automobiles.

Hynes noted that a public hearing on the application was held on Tuesday, November 17, 1987.

Police Charge Five With Prostitution

By A. Anthony Miller

Vice squad detectives arrested five women for prostitution last week at 366 West John Street.

Neighbors in the area, curious because so many people were coming and going from the Mid-Island Salon, alerted vice squad detectives to the situation, and at 10:50 p.m. March 31, officers collared Lee Insoah, 23, of Queens, whom they charged with promoting prostitution. Misdemeanor charges of prostitution were lodged against the other four women. They identified themselves as Yeon Bechtel, 39, Queens; Unsuk McAndrews, 39, North Carolina; Sun Yo Davis, 42, Alabama; and Chung Cho Hundshamer, 38, no address.

It was not the first time the vice squad made its presence known on West John Street, police said. On March 9, two prostitution arrests made in the same premises.

Armed Robberies

In other incidents, two area shops were robbed by gun-wielding men during the past few days. On March 31, a man armed with a handgun walked into the Pants Plus store in the Broadway Mall, and demanded the store's receipts from clerk Lynn Evans. Fleeing with $1,300 was a man described as white, about 35, 6'4", 200 lbs., with a beard, and wearing a brown leather jacket, blue jeans and a blue baseball cap.

The second store robbed was Denny's Children's World at 527 South Broadway. A white male approached manager Ida Senzer, 45, at 2:30 p.m. April 4 and demanded money. He opened his dark green jacket to display a holstered handgun, and fled with $920. The police alarm describes this suspect as being in his 30's, five feet nine to six feet tall, medium build, with black hair and a mustache.

No injuries were reported in either case.

Gun Possession

A 62-year-old Hicksville man was arrested at Reinhart's Tavern, 120 Woodbury Road, after he handed bartender Scott Reinhart, 24, a loaded .22-cal. automatic handgun. The patron, Michael Berese, of Spruce Street, a retired construction worker, had asked the bartender to hold the weapon because he had too much to drink.

Police said that in some southern states, where Mr. Berese comes from, that's an acceptable - indeed, preferred - procedure. In New York, however, possession of a gun without a permit is illegal, and that's why Mr. Berese was arrested by Officer Tina Swanno. An additional charge of marijuana possession was lodged against him after a search revealed a small quantity of the substance.

ERIC SWENSON OF THE town's Department of Environmental Control speaks about the need for recycling in the Town of Oyster Bay.

Garbage Problems

Garbage has become an increasing problem within the last half century, Mr. Swenson said. "I go out and buy a dress shirt; take it out of the plastic bag, remove the piece of cardboard that holds the form of the collar, take the pins out, and the white tissue paper to keep the material from creasing and that's all waste." He continued, "This is an example of a wasteful society and we are now paying the price." Mr. Swenson said that some of the solutions to the waste problem are beyond the local level. Forty-seven percent of the wastes thrown in the garbage are packaging wastes. He explained that much of what is thrown in the garbage can be recycled. "Recycling is technically feasible for most of our wastes, but the cost of transporting is astronomical."

Also adding to the crisis, is the tremendous growth in the town's population, which in turn causes an increase in waste, according to Mr. Swenson. TOB's garbage, on a typical day, fills 50 tractor trailer trucks with bailed, compacted garbage, he said. Currently, the town is spending 3/4 million dollars to ship garbage. "One of the ways [to reduce the cost] is recycling, and we are very optimistic about increasing the amount that is being recycled."

Outcome of the Recycling Program

Although no figures are available for the TOB, the Town of North Hempstead's recycling program which began in 1987 has been very successful, according to town supervisor John B. Kiernan. During 1987, the town sold more than 12,500 tons of material to reusers and generated more than $144,000 in revenue.

A Message From Milt Levitt

A little bit of Hicksville came to Maryland this past week via Pennsylvania and this in turn brought a couple from Hicksville to see what was happening... and it was a happening for Barbara and Bill Cheslock in general and for Bill Cheslock, Jr. in particular... what brought the Cheslock clan to Towson, MD was the ECAC Basketball Playoffs in which Lehigh University and their senior starting center were playing in a tournament whose winner would get a bid to the NCAA playoffs... well, the Hicksville people as well as the ex-Hicksville-ite and his wife and son were not disappointed. Lehigh swept 3 games starting March 5 and finished with a tough win against the runner-up Towson St. U. before a record crowd of over 4,000. Bill Jr. played perhaps the three most important games of his long and illustrious college career. Although he wasn't the top scorer in any of the games, his 6' 7" frame and head-up play was a dominant factor in all the wins.

A lot of joy and some sadness was felt by the senior Cheslock family for this is Bill Jr.'s last year and the last games he will play for Lehigh. Bill was an all Long Island choice when he graduated H.H.S. and opted to go to Lehigh not only for basketball but a degree in engineering as well.

There is something else the Cheslocks will turn to now and that is their daughter Pauline who will be playing varsity volleyball at Rider College in New Jersey later this year. Barbara and Bill were our weekend guests and it was great to reminisce about old Hicksville and the times that Bill and I played basketball first for the high school and then in amateur play with the old Hicksville Lions. All in all both Sue and my son, Ben, as well, had a really great time. Really shows how small the world can be at times... Hello to all my Hicksville friends... Milt Levitt

The Goings On of the Wolffs

Kathryn (Monika) and Chuck Wolff were on the go again. During the past month they have gone half-way around the world. To help alleviate jet lag, even though they did fly first class, they stopped at various points on the way to-and-from their Singapore destination. The first stop was Los Angeles, where the highlight was visiting Renmar Studios (the old Desilu Studio) to watch their friend, the wrestler, Big John Studd film an episode of the TV show Beauty and the Beast. After a 20-hour flight from Los Angeles the next stop was Singapore where they visited Raffles Hotel where the Singapore Sling was invented in 1915. Kathryn and Chuck found this to be both an inexpensive and lovely city to visit. On their return they spent four sun-filled days in Honolulu where everything looked like a postcard. Another stopover in L.A. to see the homes of the stars, then back to Fairfax, Virginia.

When they returned home they did their laundry and proceeded to the Marriott Castle Harbour Resort in Bermuda where they found it to be cold, rainy—and very expensive.

Debbi Made Chief at IRS

She is the daughter of Angie (Brigand) and Artie Cunn, who are back in Hicksville after living in Virginia for 11 years. Artie has retired from the ATF (Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms) Department but Angie is still keeping herself busy working at the Glass Cottage at the Millerside Inn. She loves working there as she gets to see many of her old friends, such as June (Vates) Kardell, Mary (Ellis) Schnepp (who is now retired); Evelyn Oliveri, George and Cynthia Kuhl, Mary Volpe and Flo Volpe—to name a few.

Angie and Artie are so very proud of their hard working daughter.

Our Condolences

Condolences go to the family of Louise Becker, formerly of Irving Court and recently of San Diego, California, who passed away March 28th. Louise, a nurse, and her husband Lt. Les Becker, (retired from the New York City Police Department) lived in Hicksville for over 25 years. Their daughter Leslie will be getting her doctorate in biochemistry in June. She graduated from Burns Avenue and Hicksville High School. Leslie is now married and has a little girl.

Danielle Christened

Danielle Marie DelRosso was christened at St. Dominic's Catholic Church in Oyster Bay on March 26th. She is the daughter of Marilyn and Robert DelRosso of Oyster Bay.

Sjogren's Syndrome - Its Relationship To Arthritis

Sjogren's (pronounced show-grins) is an inflammatory disorder of the glands and can be associated with many types of arthritis. Often, the problem causes dry eyes and a dry mouth. This abnormality can produce a feeling of grittiness in the eye or a feeling of constant thirst.

The cause of Sjogren's is not known. Certain evidence suggests a defect involving the body's immune system. Once this inflammation occurs, the production of tears or saliva is impaired. With the continual lack of these lubricating fluids, the eyes and the mouth become very dry. Many patients with Sjogren's experience such pronounced thirst that they carry a glass of water with them. These patients are prone to develop recurrent eye infections or dental cavities.

Often, people with this disorder come to the attention of the rheumatologist (arthritis specialist) because they have an associated arthritic condition. Types of arthritis associated with Sjogren's include rheumatoid arthritis, lupus, mixed connective tissue disease, and sarcoidosis. Although many people with Sjogren's may never develop arthritis, the occurrence of Sjogren's may be a very early sign of arthritis.

The diagnosis of this disorder is usually made on the basis of a medical history and a complete physical examination. This is done to make certain that an associated arthritis is not present. A simple tear secretion test, called a Shirmer's Tear test, can often confirm the diagnosis.

Treatment of the arthritis associated with Sjogren's is a specialty of the rheumatologist. If the symptoms are mild, little treatment may be needed. For more severe problems, medications are available and are helpful.

Arthritis strikes one out of seven people. Learn the facts. Call for your complimentary copy of "The Joint Approach: An Arthritis Overview."

Don't retire your IRA yet!

Right now many people are concerned how the new tax reform may threaten the IRA as a taxable deduction. The good news is that, depending on circumstances, many can still receive a full or partial tax deduction for their contribution. What's more, every-one's earnings in IRAs are tax deferred, substantially increasing the interest you keep. In addition, you always have funds available for an emergency (penalty may be imposed), you maintain full control over your retirement investment earnings, and you are fully vested immediately.

Why not find out about the new tax reform and how it will affect IRAs in the future? Your local Beacon branch representative will be happy to discuss details with you.

At Beacon Federal Savings Bank you'll also find a wide range of flexible, high-interest plans for a secure retirement, including IRAs, Keoghs and IRA/Money Market Retirement Accounts. Besides, we serve your needs for today with tax deferred annuities, low cost life insurance, mortgages, home improvement loans and of course, savings.

Color in Your Home

Color in a room can set the mood of its inhabitants. It can create happy feelings, comfort, energy, elegance and a host of negative feelings. Anne Ciccone, an instructor at Hofstra University, will elicit some interesting facts about "Color in Your Home," on Wednesday, April 27 at 8 p.m. at the Hicksville Public Library.

Registration is not necessary. This program is free and all are welcome.

Baby Sitting Course

Boys and Girls 12 years and older can learn responsible baby sitting techniques and earn a Red Cross certificate at the Hicksville Public Library's "Baby Sitting Course," which will be offered in three sessions. It will be held on the following Wednesdays: May 11, 18 and 25 from 3 to 4:30 p.m.

Register now at the Hicksville Library or at the Youth Council, co-sponsors of the event, 181 W. Old Country Road, 822-7594. The course is free.

Road Improvement Project

Supervisor Angelo A. Delligatti has announced a road improvement program to provide greater visibility at the intersection of Old Bethpage Road and Plainview and Farmingdale Roads in Plainview.

The program was offered by Supervisor Delligatti and approved by the Nassau County Board of Supervisors at its meeting of March 21, 1988.

"With the new development along Old Bethpage Road, the side streets have been set back to conform to a future widening of Old Bethpage Road," Supervisor Delligatti said. "I am certain that when completed, the program will result in a smoother flow of traffic not only for Oyster Bay residents, but for all travellers using our roadways."

Under the program, the county will acquire a part of two parcels of land that jut out of the alignment of Old Bethpage Road. The properties are elevated with trees and shrubs restricting sight distance at the intersection.

Supervisor Delligatti noted that the problem has become severe due to the increase in traffic along Old Bethpage Road, and said that the acquisition of these small parcels will allow for the removal of the existing hazard, the installation of new pavements, curbs and sidewalks to conform to adjacent properties.

"Nassau County can continue to grow only if we maintain and improve our infrastructure," Supervisor Delligatti concluded. "The program approved today will alleviate a potentially dangerous situation and allow for safer, smoother travel for both commercial drivers and residents alike."

Legionnaires' Log

By GREG BENNETT
Charles Wagner Post #421, Hicksville

Since March was National Women's Month, we salute America's female veterans and all women who contribute to our defense effort. World War II changed the role of American women as they enlisted in the military, worked in defense plants and ferried aircraft.

Saturday, March 19, was the Department Commander's dinner and the 27th annual military ball at Plattduetsche Park Restaurant in Franklin Square sponsored by Nassau County American Legion. Hicksville Legionnaires who attended were Cdr. Harry Christo, PC Artie Rutz, PC Ray Gamble, PC Lou Braun, PC Wes Tietjen, PC John Rizos, Adj. Arlene Howard, VC Greg Bennett, VC Al Cinotti, Americanism Officer Dick Evers, Steve Wyladkeha and George Bochel. Madame president Joan Rizos of our auxiliary attended with other auxiliary members. Cdr. Christo led our Color Guard, composed of Wes Tietjen and Greg Bennett, in review past Department Cdr. D'Amico and our own County Cdr. Dick Hockbruncker. Dick was escorted by his wife Cynthia, who is the Auxiliary Tenth District President. A most solemn part of the evening was the Eleventh Hour Ritual as County Chaplain Frank Tucker remembered those Americans who served our nation.

Department Commander D'Amico spoke about improvements needed in our schools as rape and drugs are now problems of our educational systems. He called for stronger American Legion publicity as news networks often highlight those stories which are anti-American, anti-God and anti-government. It's clearly time our major networks said something good about America.

Friday, March 25 was a Nassau County American Legion meeting held at the Williston Post. The highlight of the evening was the Nassau 500 drawing. Harry Christo was the lucky winner from our past as he won $50 and then picked his own ticket from the drum winning another $50. Please buy Nassau 500 tickets as proceeds support the fine programs of Nassau County American Legion. And don't forget our own Auxiliary 300 Club.

On Saturday, March 26, Charles Wagner Post held its annual awards and ceremonies night. Post Everlasting was conducted to pay tribute to comrades who passed away this past year. New Post and National Colors were presented as the old colors were retired. Local fire fighters and police officers were honored for community service during the past year. Continuous membership awards and certificates were given out. We also celebrated the birthday of the American Legion. There will be more on this great event in the next column.

Don't forget April 9 is the Post Commander's Night at Williston Post. Let's have a great showing of Hicksville Legionnaires to show appreciation for the hard work of Cdr. Christo.

As we mentioned before that March was National Women's Month we salute the members of our Auxiliary unit for their hard work in making Legion programs work. We honor Arlene Howard and Victoria Daines who are Legionnaires in our post. Howard is currently Post Adjutant and Daines has been a Legionnaire for 41 years.

Don't forget our POW/MIA, A belated Happy Easter, Passover and Greek Independence Day to all Legionnaires and Auxiliary members.

Letters From Our Readers

Letters to the editor are welcomed by the editors and publishers of the Anton Community Newspapers. However, they must follow certain guidelines in order for us to print them: they should be as short as possible; we reserve the right to edit in the interest of space; they MUST be signed (a typed name at the bottom will not suffice); they must include an address and telephone number so that we can verify their authenticity.

We receive many fine letters which we would like to share with our readers, but we are unable to use them because they are unsigned or have a typewritten name only.

We cannot publish every letter we receive because of space limitations, but we try to present both sides of all issues. Personal attacks and letters considered to be in poor taste will not be printed.

To The Editor:

This letter is being published upon request to the Editor.

Dear Friends:

At the last board of education meeting I announced my intention to seek re-election to the Hicksville Board of Education. I will now like to let you, the readers of this newspaper, know why I choose to seek re-election.

The motivating force that drives me, as a board member, is the keen satisfaction to serve without personal gain or monetary reward - it is a position of trust, service, and giving. Our prime task is to legislate and put in to practice by policy and regulation the tools, and means to educate our youth, hire the competent, negotiate with determined fairness, uphold the law, listen to the grieved person, and remember the taxpayers, for without their help nothing can be fulfilled.

My main attention over the years has been developing and revising board policy, is giving direction to our administrative staff, board and students. I have also chaired the finance and budget committees of the board, and have at times been successful in keeping costs down. As president of the board for three consecutive years, I made every attempt to bring order and stability to the district. I was not always successful, but I tried, and it is a nice feeling to know that administrators, teachers, and employees can work mutually with the community, with a real sense of warmth and accomplishment. This was born out when we negotiated the last teachers contract, and settled before the expiration of the contract, a rarity in Hicksville. We bargained in good faith and there was a sense of trust between both sides.

Stability in the district was my aim and is my greatest satisfaction.

In the coming weeks I will like to share with you, the readers, more specific areas, that must be addressed in this community as it relates to our school district.

Separating Recyclables: A Hassle—but it Will Benefit

The town's new recycling program (SORT) Separate Recyclables Today, is going to take some getting used to. Residents must realize that although the sorting, the bundling of newspapers and removing labels from cans can be a hassle, the process will benefit them in the long run.

Beginning April 20, residents will be required to separate all glass, metal cans and newspapers as part of the town's recycling program. "The town is looking at ways to keep the price of our 'throw-away' society down," Eric Swenson of the town's Department of Environmental Control said.

The Town of Oyster Bay wants a resource recovery facility and to obtain this the state mandates recycling. Although the town has no definite figures as of today, with SORT, the town expects to save 10 percent in shipping costs. According to town spokesperson Phyllis Souther, "Ten percent of what they are now shipping they figure they can recycle." The town spends 3/4 of a million dollars to ship garbage, or (as of February 1, 1988), $80 per ton.

We do not know whether the program will reflect a decrease in the tax rates, but we do know that residents will be making a vital impact on the environment. By recycling, residents will help decrease the amount of wastes being put into the ground; wastes which may affect our drinking water.

Returns are already being seen for the program which is active in North Hempstead. During 1987, North Hempstead sold more than 12,500 tons of material to reusers and generated more than $144,000 in revenue.

While it may be difficult to accept this program because an extra effort is required, residents will come to realize that their hard work will pay off; not only in reducing pollution, but hopefully with a reduction in their taxes.

EDITORIAL AND OPINION

The Investor's Corner

By Joseph P. Frey, Ph.D.

LILCO

The last thing I can be accused of is liking LILCO. I advocated that LILCO be allowed to go bankrupt when it was in such bad shape years ago. I believe that shareholders are to be rewarded or punished according to the quality of the management of their companies. When a company is poorly managed, the owners should pay.

I am also an anti-nuke, and have been since about 1974. That was about the time I read a book that changed all of my thinking on the subject. The book was entitled Small is Beautiful and was written by a Prof. Schumacker. It is written in a dry style, but the content will make anyone think about management styles and structure, ecology, and approaches to the problems of the third world nations.

Now, having said all that, why would I be against the LI Power Authority's attempt to take over LILCO. The new management has been effective in getting the various political authorities to approve rate increases that have enabled LILCO to survive. Despite my opposition to these increases that have saved the company from bankruptcy, this management knows how to run a public utility. They have done a good job with what they inherited. I am not sure that we would have the same competence from the LI Authority. Therefore, I chose the devil I know.

In addition, the big pitch of the Power Authority is that they will lower our bills because the authority will not have to pay income taxes. Forget that! No matter what happens the electric bills we pay will have to go up. That is the same kind of a pitch this country got with the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA). If memory serves me well, the TVA does not have significantly lower rates than other companies of like size. It is a haven for political friends of the government.

My fear is that, if the LI Power Authority is allowed to take over LILCO, we will have another haven for hacks. I foresee wonderful inefficiencies down the line that will raise costs and electric bills. If there is even a potential for mismanagement, I will go for keeping the devils that we know and have.

When we give up tax dollars to get that potential, who is going to make up the lost tax dollars? That's right, you are. So we may get it on the one hand and will lose it on the other. What kind of break is that?

I also pity the home owners in those towns and villages that have LILCO facilities. Are they going to pay through the nose? Power Authorities do not pay federal, state or local taxes. They make payments in lieu of taxes. Just ask Mayor Koch about how generous the Port Authority is to the City of New York. Remember an authority is a government unto itself, without local control or responsibility.

To summarize: I thought that LILCO should have been allowed to go belly-up, but having survived because the rate authorities helped them to survive, I believe they should be allowed to continue. They know how to run a public utility and the Power Authority is an unknown quantity. In addition, the lost taxes on all levels that will be used to temporarily reduce our electric bills will be an illusion as we pay more taxes to make up the lost income taxes.

Now, having said all of that, please keep Shoreham closed. It cannot be justified in any way. There are other ways to produce electricity without the terrible environmental costs involved. Once we get this controversy behind us, then LILCO can concentrate on alternatives to nuclear energy to supply the expected shortfall in energy generation.

A Letter from Lulabelle...

...What image do you conjure up when I say "electric trains"?...Do you remember those long-ago days when you—if you were a boy or your brother if you were a girl—sat before that shiny, silver, round circle of track and watched your trains travel along?...It was always such a thrill (if your father would let you) to put each engine and car carefully on the track, switch on the transformer (a seemingly magical contraption) and see the train go forward, backward and stop...and then came all the extras—cars, freight cars and more passenger cars—maybe a circus wagon...or a log car that actually turned the logs onto the siding...some trains had lights and some made smoke...There were gates that went up and down and signals that turned red and green...and the fun part is that all of these things still exist and are the joy of the model train enthusiasts, as well as the kids...and today there are so many possibilities that the first priority is to decide what period of train history yours will be—unless you feel like mixing modern and old-fashioned and it's your trains, so go ahead...One model train man I know has decided on the late 19th century, so all of his are steam trains, some with those wide funnel-shaped smoke stacks and wonderful old-fashioned cabooses... (I love cabooses and wish I had a lovely old red one in my back yard)...He learned to make mountains a surprisingly simple way—He buys plastic mosquito netting and drapes it over old pieces of foam or wood—any way he wants his mountains to be, with pastures for the cattle, etc...then he uses the plastic-impregnated gauze that physicians use for broken bones, wets it and drapes it over the netting...When it dries, hard as a rock, he paints it and scatters that green "grass" that he buys in the hobby shop—and voila, mountains!!!!...All of his houses are in keeping with the late 19th century theme and he rubs on a glaze to make the plastic, mostly made from kits, houses look properly aged...and with all of the chickens, cows and horses available, all to scale, it soon becomes a miniature wonderland with horses and wagons—no cars!!—and all of the residents in proper garb of the era...it's a wonderful hobby for everyone—and don't forget it started to be a toy for kids—Let them play!!!

Yours, Lulabelle

What the Politicians are Saying...

JOHN W. MATTHEWS, NASSAU DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CHAIRMAN, demanded that COUNTY EXECUTIVE THOMAS GULOTTA follow the lead of SUFFOLK COUNTY EXECUTIVE PATRICK HALPIN and sharply reduce the number of county cars and gasoline credit cards given to county officials. "No county-owned vehicle should ever be used for private purposes," he said.

U.S. SENATOR ALFONSE M. D'AMATO has proposed the repeal of the ban on using the military to stop drugs on their way into the country. (Ed. Note: most people didn't realize there was such a ban!) And he further advocated using America's economic assistance and trade as a lever against those nations not cooperating with our anti-drug efforts.

SENATOR JOHN R. DUNNE has announced that a series of consumer-oriented brochures entitled "Get Your Money's Worth" published by the New York State Senate are now available and can be obtained by writing to 550 Stewart Ave., Garden City, 11530 or calling 222-0068.

ASSEMBLYMAN Gregory R. Becker is encouraging eligible disabled veterans in New York State to take advantage of free travel on the New York State Thruway. Disabled veterans who receive disabled veteran license plates are eligible. Applicants may contact the New York State Thruway Authority, PO Box 1767, Albany, NY, 12201 or phone 518-436-3980.

NASSAU COUNTY EXECUTIVE THOMAS S. GULOTTA has announced a $3.5 million expansion in available funds to finance reverse annuity mortgages for senior homeowners in Nassau County. He said, "Inflation has eroded the buying power of those on fixed incomes, while, at the same time, the value of their paid-up homes has increased. This has led to a generation of older persons who are house-rich and cash-poor. The reverse annuity mortgage enables them to tap their home equity and to increase their everyday cash flow." For information, call Carol Greifer, Director, Family Service Association, 122 Jackson Street, Hempstead, 11550.

CONGRESSMAN TOM DOWNEY has announced that the Department of Defense has decided to push forward with the fight to continue production of the Grumman-built A-6 aircraft.

SENATOR RALPH J. MARINO is urging non-profit organizations serving elderly and disabled clients and contemplating new vehicle purchases to consider applying for federal funds available for 80 percent of these costs. Eligible non-profit organizations should contact Dale Meyers of the Department of Transportation at 518-457-8343.

CONGRESSMAN NORMAN F. LENT has co-sponsored legislation to exempt New York's 130,000 volunteer firemen and others who drive emergency vehicles from a federal law requiring them to obtain commercial driving licenses.

ROBERT R. McMILLAN'S

Direct Line

Whether you agree with the death penalty or not, I am sure you share with me the poignant memory of Edward Byrne's father emotionally calling for its reinstatement after the vicious murder of his son by crack thugs in Queens. His plea, recorded on television, was not a tirade, and under the circumstances, he gave a carefully reasoned and impassioned argument for the death penalty.

Robert R. McMillan

The same evening, and in back-to-back interviews on News 12, Ed Byrne's father was followed by a reporter questioning Governor Cuomo about the death penalty. In a very uncharacteristic public appearance, the Governor lost his cool. "Baloney," in belligerent tones, was his response when pressed by the reporter on the death penalty — at least implying that the argument for and those advocating the death penalty fit into that category of sandwich filler. Even though the Governor may not have known about the news conference held by Ed Byrne's father, his remarks showed a complete lack of sensitivity to the death of a fine young Long Island policeman at the hands of the crack industry.

Ed Byrne will, unfortunately, be just another 1988 murder statistic by year's end. With around 2,000 murders in New York State last year, New Yorkers have been very much like ducks in a shooting gallery.

Assuming the statistics remain the same this year, it means you have about one chance in 10,000 to get murdered if you live in the State and about double that number if you live in New York City. If that is not bad enough, you have even a greater chance being the victim of a violent crime living here — about one chance in one hundred. For these reasons, it is clear that arguments about the death penalty should not just be swept under a rug.

Referring to "baloney" hardly contributes to an intellectual interchange on the proper punishment for murderers. And, the debate does go on. Each of the last several legislatures has, on a bipartisan basis, passed a death penalty measure for certain types of murders — only to be vetoed by the Governor. Yes, there is no doubt that he is on the hot seat over this issue, particularly since a majority of people in the state, according to polls, favor the death penalty; and the murder of Ed Byrne has added to the heat. But, the circumstances of Ed Byrne's death give us all the more reason for a closer look at this issue in an unemotional way.

There are other areas of concern about life and death issues. Arguments about the "taking of lives" have raged for years over abortion and more recently a dialogue has started on the taking of a life when someone is terminally ill or "too old" to continue living — a form of legal suicide. None of these issues is going to fade soon. Proponents and opponents find themselves on different sides of each of these life and death subjects. The philosophical questions of morality, dignity and human rights are etched deeply on this debate. The arguments are not "baloney" on any side of any of these important issues. They are critical to all.

It is up to each one of us to sharpen our focus, listen to the arguments, and let our legislators and the Governor know how we feel. If you do not, others will make these important decisions for you.

Questions and opinions may be addressed to Mr. McMillan, Anton Community Newspapers, 132 East Second Street, Mineola, NY 11501.

The Jackson Dilemma

Jesse Jackson's outstanding victory in the Michigan caucuses raises the possibility that he very well might be able to win the Democratic Presidential nomination. There are many Democratic political operatives here in Washington who are scared senseless by the thought that Jackson might be the party's nominee.

The assumption among many hard bitten political pros is that if Jackson is the party's nominee, George Bush will be the next president. On the other hand, if a "stop Jackson" movement is put together and the nomination is taken away from him, the Jackson's constituency will desert the party in November.

Is there a way out of this dilemma?

For the Democratic party? Up until now the assumption among the politicians and the press is that there is no possible way that Jackson can win the nomination. That notion vanished after the Michigan caucuses. Now that there is the real possibility that Jackson might be the Democratic nominee, he and his position on the issues will come under increased scrutiny. The other Democratic candidates have been very reluctant to attack Jackson for fear of appearing racist, or angering the Jackson constituency, which any Democratic candidate must have, to win in November.

The political pros are not afraid of Jackson's race, they are afraid of his stand on the issues: his relationship with Fidel Castro and Yasser Arafat. Jackson's position is clearly to the left of the mainstream Democratic party. The last time the party nominated an individual as liberal as Jackson was in 1972 when Senator McGovern lost 49 states.

Jesse Jackson is a serious candidate. It is time we all took a close look at his position on the issues which face this nation. If Jackson is able to survive this scrutiny from the press and his fellow candidates and still win the nomination, then he is entitled to the support of every loyal Democrat.

Why has Jackson's candidacy been so successful? It is because he is the only presidential candidate who offers a vision of the America he wants to build. He is the only candidate who gives the voter any passion. People may support Governor Michael Dukakis or Senator Al Gore, but they believe in Jackson.

Letters to the editor are welcomed by the editors and publishers of the Anton Community Newspapers. However, they must follow certain guidelines in order for us to print them: they should be as short as possible; we reserve the right to edit in the interest of space; they MUST be signed (a typed name at the bottom will not suffice); they must include an address and telephone number so that we can verify their authenticity.

We receive many fine letters which we would like to share with our readers, but we are unable to use them because they are unsigned or have a typewritten name only.

We cannot publish every letter we receive because of space limitations, but we try to present both sides of all issues. Personal attacks and letters considered to be in poor taste will not be printed.

To The Editor:

The Assembly passed a measure several years ago which would have provided the buyers of new homes with certain warranty protections. Unfortunately, this measure died in the State Senate.

Although a new home is perhaps the most significant purchase of a lifetime, you get a better warranty when you buy a washer or dryer.

The Assembly measure would have provided one year of freedom from defects caused by faulty workmanship and defective materials, two years freedom from defects caused by faulty installation of plumbing, electrical, heating and cooling systems and 10 years freedom from major construction defects.

Attorney General Robert Abrams has received numerous complaints with respect to shoddy workmanship and defective construction of new dwellings. The fact is, while home costs have been rapidly increasing, consumers are getting less for their money than ever before.

This matter had already come to a head, when the Federal Trade Commission filed suit against Kaufman and Broad (K&B) Homebuilders. K&B agreed to provide homebuyers with warranties which would be transferred to subsequent purchasers. The FTC also threatened to take federal action if the builders did not remedy defects.

In New Jersey, complaints about the quality of new homes led to legislation to license builders and operate a state administered warranty insurance program. Minnesota has enacted a similar law; however, Ralph Nader has urged Congress to require all builders throughout the country to warrant their homes.

It is my hope that the State Senate will acknowledge the importance of providing homeowners with warranty protection and this will be the year New York will enact such a warranty program.

To The Editor:

I am deeply grateful for your article, "Allard Lowenstein: A Retrospective."

I worked on that 1968 campaign. It was a great moment in the political history of the United States. I used to think that John Kennedy's death was the most tragic event in the 20th century (politically). However, Al's death comes close. His tenure in Congress was a moment for the "little people." Those "moments" have been few and far between in American politics, especially in Nassau County.

Thank you again for your article. It was one (Al's election) of the most hopeful moments in my life. To renew a hope-filled memory was exquisite. When one's hope is removed, nothing is left.

ASK OUR MAN IN WASHINGTON

Dear Mr. Burns,

Question: I recently visited the Capitol in Washington. I noticed the statue on top of the Capitol. It looks to me that the statue is of an Indian. What can you tell me about this statue?

Answer: The figure on top of the Capitol is known as the "statue of freedom". It was designed by the sculptor Thomas Crawford in Rome, Italy, and built at a cost of $23,796.82. The statue was put in its present location on December 2, 1863. The statue is not of an Indian, although many people think it is because the figure wears an eagle's head and feathers. The statue is an allegorical personification of freedom and is that of a woman dressed in a flowing robe with her right hand on a sheathed sword. The figure's left hand holds a wreath and a shield. The motto "E Pluribus Unum" (Latin for "Out of Many One") is inscribed on the statue's base. The height of the statue is 19 feet and six inches. Its total weight is 14,985 pounds.

LIA Endorses Highway Funding Proposal

Calling the proposal clearly the best in addressing the near-term highway capacity needs of Long Island, the Long Island Association expressed its support for the State Senate Majority proposal on highway financing and urged both houses of the State Legislature and the Governor to approve the plan as part of the state budget negotiations now taking place in Albany.

"Clearly the Senate proposal, which would bring almost $700 million in new highway capacity funds to Long Island over the next four years, is in the best interests of all Long Islanders," LIA Transportation Committee Chairman Paul C. Kreuch, Jr., executive vice president, National Westminster Bank USA said.

The Senate proposal, which was developed and sponsored by Norman J. Levy, is one of three plans proposed to deal with a current state budget surplus. The Senate plan would put a $3 billion bond issue before the voters in November, and calls for highway funds to be disbursed on the basis of motor vehicle registrations rather than lane miles.

The Senate proposal would make additional funds available this construction season, even before the bond issue is passed, by appropriating a portion of the state surplus for highway projects now. This provision is very important to Long Island because many necessary projects have been delayed due to lack of funds.

The Long Island Association is the region's largest business and civic organization representing more than 400,000 employees, or more than one-third of the workforce of Nassau and Suffolk counties.

anti-nuclear group, whose fears and dire predictions blind them to the service which LILCO provides so faithfully. I will always be grateful to LILCO after an experience in the winter of 1986 when our gas furnace ceased operating. In the midst of the worst snowfall of the winter and icy drifts which made driving extremely difficult, the LILCO repair man appeared at our door at 1:30 a.m. and worked for the better part of an hour restoring our heat. We did get a bill from LILCO in addition to our regular monthly bill: $1.08, the cost of a new water gauge.

For the many years we have been homeowners in Nassau County, we have experienced many instances of the devoted and cheerful service of LILCO employees and only good management can maintain such standards of service.

OYSTER BAY TOWN TOPICS

FROM THE DESK OF:
SUPERVISOR
DELLIGATTI

Often we become so immersed in a problem we think we're the only ones who have to deal with it. This is especially true when we look for some guidance on the problem and those who are supposed to help suddenly seem to forget that that's their duty.

If you are a local municipality on Long Island, the case of waste disposal either already is, or soon shall be, that type of problem.

When Oyster Bay Town's only landfill closed down a couple of years ago and we had to undertake the great expense and uncertainty of hauling garbage out of state, it seemed the very agencies that were supposed to be assisting us suddenly had too much work and too few people to offer suggestions.

No, Oyster Bay is not the only municipality utilizing long distance hauling. Other Long Island towns and other areas of New York State are doing it. Each are doing it on its own with no assistance from the state.

Our Governor has made it clear that he believes that disposal of solid waste is a "local problem". So, he won't become involved. He will not push state agencies to develop clear detailed guidelines to assist municipalities in planning an appropriate direction. He will only play the role of critic, telling municipalities what they can't do.

He has performed this feat of extracting himself from the solution so well that many actually believe that disappearing is what he should be doing when the problem of waste disposal is brought up on Long Island, in the Catskills, in the Adirondacks and in the Finger Lake Regions.

But that is not what a state government is supposed to do with a problem that is being tackled by municipalities throughout the state. And, proof is readily available. If we look across the Hudson River to our New Jersey sisters, we see municipalities which are also hauling their waste long distances and into other states but we also see a Governor who has not abdicated his responsibility. He obviously believes his state must lead the way and give direction to local municipalities.

In New Jersey, the Governor insisted on and achieved the adoption of a tough mandatory recycling law that offers direction and assistance to local municipalities and tells those interested in expanding recycling markets to make the investment because the entire state will be recycling.

Even beyond that, the New Jersey State Assembly has passed a bill that lends more than words to encourage local municipal recycling efforts. The bill will create a $450 million revolving loan fund which, over a three-year period, will make money available to pay for local municipal collection and disposal costs which are skyrocketing there as well. The municipalities would be able to use these funds and repay it at 3% interest more than a year after their resource recovery facility was operational.

Innovative ideas such as these make me wonder why our Governor, with his multi-million dollar surplus, cannot be more responsive to the local needs of our state.

Over the next 18 months Oyster Bay will spend between $50 million and $60 million for garbage disposal, while at the same time, we must spend additional money developing and implementing our resource recovery/recycling programs.

We certainly cannot refuse to spend these dollars awaiting a change of heart from our Governor—he hasn't changed that "It's a local problem" tune in the past four years. The only avenue we have is to move as efficiently and effectively as possible to bring resource recovery and Town-wide recycling to reality. Next month we will almost double the number of households involved in recycling. By the end of the year, the recycling program will expand to the more than 62,000 households in the Town's Collection Districts. We will not say that the problem belongs to someone else. We will develop the expansion plans, buy the recycling pails and bring in the special compartmentalized collection vehicles to make recycling work, to reduce the costs of shipping and protect our environment.

Oyster Bay will solve this not-too-unique problem. It's just that we could do more a lot sooner and with less taxpayer burden if our Governor would look to our western sister and see what "leadership" really means.

Hicksville Change of Zone Hearing Rescheduled

Oyster Bay Councilwoman Ann R. Ocker announced that a public hearing on an application by KPT Enterprises, Ltd., has been rescheduled by the Town Board and would now be heard on April 19.

KPT Enterprises, Ltd. is seeking a change of zone from an 'E' residence district to an 'R'O' residence-office district for the purpose of operating a travel agency," said Ocker.

"Previously scheduled for a public hearing March 29, the Town Board was forced to reschedule the date when it learned that residents within a 300 foot radius of the parcel had not received proper notification of the proposed hearing as required by law," explained Ocker.

The property, fronting on Woodbury Road and East Street, is also known as 201 Woodbury Road, Hicksville.

The meeting is scheduled for 10 a.m. in the hearing room of Town Hall East, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay.

Added Living Space Subject of Hearing April 26

Certain amendments to the Town's Building Zone Ordinance pertaining to garage conversions and swimming pools will be the subject of a public hearing by the Oyster Bay Town Board on Tuesday, April 26, according to Councilman John Venditto.

"An amendment to Article III of the Building Zone Ordinance, applicable to all districts, is being considered that would provide for the conversion of attached garages to habitable living space," Venditto said. "An amendment is also proposed to provide for the location allowance for the construction of outdoor swimming pools on corner plots in residential districts."

of Ordinances, "Motor Vehicles and Traffic," which would prohibit the overnight parking of commercial vehicles in residential areas within the Town," Diamond explained.

The meeting is scheduled for 10 a.m. in the hearing room of Town Hall East, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay.

Oyster Bay Town Councilwoman Ann R. Ocker announced that all entries for the Town's United States Constitution Bicentennial essay contest must be in the committee's hands by Monday, May 2.

"The purpose in offering this poster competition is to encourage greater knowledge and understanding of the United States Constitution," Ocker said, "as well as appreciation for this important and philosophical document."

Many entries from Oyster Bay students of all ages have been received, and there is still time to design and draw your poster and send it, with a brief narrative explaining the symbolism of the design to the Bicentennial Historical Commission for consideration.

"The contest is open to all school age children from Kindergarten through 12th grade who live in the Town of Oyster Bay," Ocker stated. "All entries will be judged

Kiwanians Learn About New York's Lottery

"The New York State Lottery Aid to Education" was the topic of the hour at the March 23 meeting of the Hicksville Kiwanis Club. The representatives of New York State's Lottery who came with information were: Marketing Representative Johanna Weber and Assistant Regional Director Andy Arecco.

Ms. Weber spoke about the concept of a lottery and the benefits derived from it. Mr. Arecco distributed some brochures about the lottery, as well as a chart listing all the school districts in each county in New York State. Alongside each school district were two columns showing the dollar distribution for the year 1986-87 and the cumulative distribution for the years 1977-87. Hicksville received $484,832.29 in the year 1986-87 and $3,594,594.11 total for the 1977-87 period.

Mr. Arecco answered many questions about the details of distributing the money involved in the lottery. He stated that the distribution is based on a formula derived by the New York State legislators. The net result is: of the money put into each lottery, 40 percent goes into prizes, 45 percent goes into education and 15 percent goes toward administration.

TOB Awards Contract For S.T.O.P. Program

Recently the Town of Oyster Bay awarded a contract to Chemical Pollution Control, Inc., of Bay Shore to work with the S.T.O.P. program. They will help in the collection of left over insecticides, weed killers, and acids etc., and will dispose of the products correctly.

The list of products that can be accepted has grown, according to Danny Carr of Chemical Pollution Control. This year they can take aerosol cans. Last year they had no place to dispose of them.

They still cannot take 2,4,D, which is 2,4 dichlorophenoxyacetic acid a weed killer and 2,4,5,TP, trichlorophenoxyacetic acid, an herbicide. They are ingredients in agent orange.

Mr. Carr said that "there is not a landfill in the country that will take it." He said that the best disposal of those products is their use as directed on the products. He said "if used properly, it works fine."

Latex paint is also not collected. That is because it is not a pollutant, and can be disposed of as regular waste.

At the collection sites, about 30-55 gallon drums are set up by the company, at a cost of $1,500 per day. Residents line up and present their pollutants for disposal. The products are listed and inspectors determine which drum they go into.

Pesticides cost the most to be disposed of, $375 per drum. They are incinerated.

The other pollutants are transported to Bay Shore where they will be then shipped to their proper disposal point. The Town, in its resolution to accept the bid of the Bay Shore company, estimates the total award to be $170,000.

Woodland Avenue School's Jump-Rope-A-Thon

Woodland Avenue School recently held its sixth annual Jump-Rope-A-Thon and raised $5,037 for the American Heart Association.

The Jump-Rope-A-Thon, coordinated by the school's physical education teacher, Elizabeth Way-Stouges, consisted of 12 teams of approximately six students each, and one adult team. Each team member secured pledges from friends, neighbors and relatives prior to the Jump-A-Thon. On the day of the event, team members took turns jumping consistently for three hours.

Teachers and the school's principal, Dr. Manus Clancy, volunteered to monitor the event and P.T.A. parents supplied and distributed juice to the thirsty jumpers. It was an afternoon of excitement for a worthwhile cause.

The winning team included fifth graders,

Bobby Braun, V.J. Hoosack, Gregory Latini, Michael Ocuto, Richard Werchenski and Michael Whitman, who raised $1,388.45 for the American Heart Association. The top winners for the school, who were also from this team, were V.J. Hoosack ($370.40), Michael Ocuto ($369.00) and Gregory Latini ($314.00).

All the students who participated deserve a tremendous thank you. They not only jumped for 3 hours but they also took hours to secure their pledges and then collect from their sponsors after the event.

Woodland students teachers and friends extend a very special thank you to Mrs. Way-Stouges who devoted many hours of her time to organize teams, collect permission slips, supervise the event, collect and tally the donations. Mrs. Way-Stouges did a great job again this year.

GREGORY LATINI, Michael Whitman, V.J. Hoosack, Michael Ocuto, Keith Clancy and Bobby Braun comprise the winning team who raised $1,388.45 for the American Heart Association.

LISA RUDIS, Laurie Pease, Rachel Gangi, Amy Entel, Christina Hoffman and Kristin Rooney. Woodland Avenue students who jumped rope for the American Heart Association.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 NT	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
3 NT	Pass	4 ♠

Opening lead — king of hearts.

In most suit contracts, declarer makes a preliminary estimate of his chances by counting his losers. Long experience tells him that it is easier to assess his prospects if he thinks in terms of losers instead of winners.

But there are some situations that arise where declarer appears to have too many losers and yet can contrive to amass enough winners!

Consider this deal, for example, where South wins the heart lead with the ace and plays the KQ of trumps. When West shows out, South learns to his sorrow that he must lose a trump trick to East.

Declarer sees that he may also lose a diamond and two clubs, so the count of potential losers is unsatisfactory in the extreme.

South now turns to counting winners instead of losers. He notes that if he can score six trump tricks and his four high-card tricks on the side, he will make the contract.

He therefore sets out to ruff dummy's three hearts. He trumps a heart at trick four, leads a club to the king, trumps another heart, leads a club to the ace, and trumps dummy's last heart. The ace of diamonds and ace of spades then account for tricks nine and ten.

It is true that after South wins the first ten tricks, East has a trump trick coming and West has two club tricks and a diamond coming. But these four losers somehow merge into three after ten tricks are played.

The principle that emerges is that when an unlucky trump break indicates that a defender is bound to score one or more tricks in that suit, it does not necessarily follow that declarer's number of winners is correspondingly reduced.

House Calls

By Edith Lank

Angry About Ads

Dear Edith: I am frustrated by the real estate ads that omit the price of a house. It is an enormous waste of time to drive all over town to open houses only to discover they are way over (or under) your budget.

I no longer even read the ads that don't list a price. If there's no price listed then I assume that either the broker is trying to ensnare me or they feel the price is a detriment to the house. What do you think?—C.K.

I agree with your first point, and years ago, when I used to write ads, I always tried to indicate price range. Obviously, not all brokers feel the way I do—not do all sellers, whose wishes the broker must obey.

It's too bad, though, that you feel agents want to ensnare you. Tracking down prices is just one service you're missing out on by avoiding brokers.

Remember that the broker works for the seller and is paid by the seller. You have no legal obligation to agents. It costs you nothing to utilize their efforts, which include locating properties that meet your specifications, helping analyze monthly costs, setting up appointments, recommending a financing package, negotiating your agreement with a seller.

If you house-hunt only by visiting open houses, you are losing out on properties that are never held open, and others that don't have "for sale" signs out front. You limit yourself by not taking full advantage of brokers.

Holes in Garage Roof

Dear Edith: We recently purchased our first home. We were told the garage roof was in good condition but we could not get into the garage because the keys were not available. When we inspected just before closing we could not see the inside of the roof because doors and building materials were stored at the ceiling.

After the sellers moved we were appalled to discover several holes in the roof. The broker and our attorney both claim we bought the place "as is." What are our rights?—R. and S.T.

You may or may not have a case against those who told you the roof was in good shape. The cost of a garage roof is probably not enough to warrant paying for a lawyer's fee. Call 1-800-ALCALLS.

valuable time, though. Why not try small claims court (usually up to $1,500) yourselves? It's a simple, inexpensive procedure, and you'll get a judge's opinion.

May Marry or Not

Dear Edith: I am a single woman, 49 years old. I owe $28,000 on a $40,000 home, now valued at $90,000. I am thinking about renting it out and moving to Florida—or selling, which I hate to do. I may marry my boyfriend there or I may not. Is the tax on a home really that bad if you sell before 55 and don't re-invest? Or should I give the home to my son or daughter?—D.T.

If you hate to sell and aren't sure about your boyfriend, you should probably hold on to the place. On the other hand, it's difficult to be an out-of-town landlord. You must have someone in town to manage things for you, either a relative or a dependable neighbor. It's often impossible to ask enough rent to afford professional management.

If you sell and don't buy another home within two years, your profit is treated as ordinary income and you pay at your normal tax rate (transitional rule for 1987 only, no more than 28 percent). Profit is figured from your purchase price—it sounds as if it would be about $50,000. The IRS doesn't take the mortgage into account.

As for giving the house to your children—I have no idea why you want to. There are a lot of drawbacks. Talk this over with a lawyer, who can discuss your whole situation.

The IRS offers two special tax breaks when you sell your own home: a chance to postpone tax on profit, and if you're over 55, a chance to avoid tax completely. For a copy of House Call's leaflet, send $1 and a stamped, return envelope to TAX TIPS, 240 Hemingway Drive, Rochester NY 14620. Edith will also answer personally any letter with a return envelope.

(Price your home too high and no one comes to see it. Price low and it sells too fast. How to arrive at the right level? See the leaflet PRICING YOUR HOME TO SELL. Send $1 and a stamped, return envelope to Pricing, 240 Hemingway Dr., Rochester, NY 14620. Edith Lank will also answer any letter with a return envelope.)

Hicksville Varsity Baseball Swings Into 4th Golden Era

The Hicksville Varsity Baseball team will be led by three returning letter winners this season. Selected as tri-captains, the three players are pitcher Phil Campisi, shortstop Tim Gansrow and catcher John Della Ratta.

Senior Dan Kilfoil, a 6'3" right hander, has worked hard all winter and has been impressive on the mound. Last year's leading J.V. hitter Mike Rose, along with pitcher second baseman Joe Passo, infielder Tom Cassata, outfielder Glenn Graepel will be relied on heavily this season. Infielder Mike Cuomo and outfielder John Steneck recently moved into Hicksville and are welcome additions. Three sophomores are on the roster and should see plenty of action. They are pitchers Jim Son and Joey Luparello and outfielder Roger Chin. Seniors Jim D'Angelis, Russell Cassar and junior Brian Robey round out the roster.

This year's Hicksville team will rely on excellent pitching and tight defense.

First Game

The team won their opener 5-3 over

Plainedge, a team picked to do very well this year. Phil Campisi had the win with 7 strikeouts in 4 innings and Joe Passo had the save. Glenn Graepel had a 3-run homerun. Mike Cuomo went 2 for 4 and Tim Gansrow went 2 for 2 and had 3 stolen bases.

Coach Bob Hilsky is currently leading Hicksville High in its fourth successful baseball era. The Illustrated News is currently forming the diamond history of the orange and black which has the best won and lost record in the history of Nassau County. From 1925-1932 Hicksville ruled the baseball world compiling a 77-22 won lost record.

Hicksville Strikers Hold Huntington 0-0

By Fred Frey

The Hicksville Strikers boys' soccer team met the Huntington Cobras at Ganssman field on March 27, game in the Long Island Junior Soccer League under 19 division. The Hicksville Strikers played a scoreless tie game with the Huntington Strikers.

Tim Richards played an outstanding game as goalkeeper, making seven saves along with a superb save of a penalty kick in the second half of the game. Tim concentrated on the penalty shot and parried the ball to the outside of the net for a remarkable save. His defensive unit of Tom Boccalola, Keith Walsh, Ron Sargeant, Vince Longo and Geoffrey Frey distinguished themselves with notable protection of their goal. In one instance, Tim left the goal area to defend a corner kick. A Huntington attacker then shot the rebound towards the net and Tom Boccalola made a fine header to ward off the score. The mid-field of Mike Brigandi, Glen Rose, Neal McKenna, Pete Thompson and Steve Gourlay constantly kept the ball moving toward the forward line. Applying the pressure on the Huntington goal was Greg Martin, Todd Sinett, Greg Fisch and Jeff Schroeder.

The Cobras had a total of 10 corner kicks, which they were unable to capitalize on due to a fine Hicksville team defensive effort. The Cobra goalkeeper, Dan Calahan, made a total of two saves and Hicksville had two corner kick opportunities.

Both the Huntington Cobras and the Hicksville Strikers have outstanding and talented players on their squads and are among the strongest teams on Long Island. The Hicksville Strikers are coached by Pat McHugh and Steve Gourlay. Their efforts have kept this team in top contention in the Long Island Junior Soccer League.

On Sunday, April 24, at 1:30, the Hicksville Strikers travel to North Babylon to meet the Minuteman in a regular LIJSL game.

EDITORIAL AND OPINION

The Investor's Corner

By Joseph P. Frey, Ph.D.

LILCO

The last thing I can be accused of is liking LILCO. I advocated that LILCO be allowed to go bankrupt when it was in such bad shape years ago. I believe that shareholders are to be rewarded or punished according to the quality of the management of their companies. When a company is poorly managed, the owners should pay.

I am also an anti-nuke, and have been since about 1974. That was about the time I read a book that changed all of my thinking on the subject. The book was entitled Small Is Beautiful and was written by a Prof. Schumacher. It is written in a dry style, but the content will make anyone think about management styles and structure, ecology, and approaches to the problems of the third world nations.

Now, having said all that, why would I be against the LI Power Authority's attempt to take over LILCO. The new management has been effective in getting the various political authorities to approve rate increases that have enabled LILCO to survive. Despite my opposition to these increases that have saved the company from bankruptcy, this management knows how to run a public utility. They have done a good job with what they inherited. I am not so sure that we would have the same competence from the LI Authority. Therefore, I chose the devil I know.

In addition, the big pitch of the Power Authority is that they will lower our bills because the authority will not have to pay income taxes. Forget that! No matter what happens the electric bills we pay will have to go up. That is the same kind of a pitch this country got with the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA). If memory serves me well, the TVA does not have significantly lower rates than other companies of like size. It is a haven for political friends of the government.

My fear is that, if the LI Power Authority is allowed to take over LILCO, we will have another haven for hacks. I foresee wonderful inefficiencies down the line that will raise costs and electric bills. If there is even a potential for mismanagement, I will go for keeping the devils that we know and have.

When we give up tax dollars to get that potential, who is going to make up the lost tax dollars? That's right, you are. So we may get it on the one hand and will lose it on the other. What kind of break is that?

I also pity the home owners in those towns and villages that have LILCO facilities. Are they going to pay through the nose? Power Authorities do not pay federal, state or local taxes. They make payments in lieu of taxes. Just ask Mayor Koch about how generous the Port Authority is to the City of New York. Remember an authority is a government unto itself, without local control or responsibility.

To summarize: I thought that LILCO should have been allowed to go belly-up, but having survived because the rate authorities helped them to survive, I believe they should be allowed to continue. They know how to run a public utility and the Power Authority is an unknown quantity. In addition, the lost taxes on all levels that will be used to temporarily reduce our electric bills will be an illusion as we pay more taxes to make up the lost income taxes.

Now, having said all of that, please keep Shoreham closed. It cannot be justified in any way. There are other ways to produce electricity without the terrible environmental costs involved. Once we get this controversy behind us, then LILCO can concentrate on alternatives to nuclear energy to supply the expected shortfall in energy generation.

A Letter from Lulabelle...

...What image do you conjure up when I say "electric trains"? ...Do you remember those long-ago days when you—if you were a boy or your brother if you were a girl—sat before that shiny, silver, round circle of track and watched your trains travel along? ...It was always such a thrill (if your father would let you) to put each engine and car carefully on the track, switch on the transformer (a seemingly magical contraption) and see the train go forward, backward and stop...and then came all the extras—cars, freight cars and more passenger cars—maybe a circus wagon...or a log car that actually turned the logs onto the siding...some trains had lights and some made smoke...There were gates that went up and down and signals that turned red and green...and the fun part is that all of these things still exist and are the joy of the model train enthusiasts, as well as the kids...and today there are so many possibilities that the first priority is to decide what period of train history yours will be—unless you feel like mixing modern and old-fashioned and it's your trains, so go ahead...One model train man I know has decided on the late 19th century, so all of his are steam trains, some with those wide funnel-shaped smoke stacks and wonderful old-fashioned cabooses...I love cabooses and wish I had a lovely old red one in my back yard)...He learned to make mountains a surprisingly simple way—He buys plastic mosquito netting and drapes it over old pieces of foam or wood—any way he wants his mountains to be, with pastures for the cattle, etc...then he uses the plastic-impregnated gauze that physicians use for broken bones, wets it and drapes it over the netting...When it dries, hard as a rock, he paints it and scatters that green "grass" that he buys in the hobby shop—and voila, mountains!...All of his houses are in keeping with the late 19th century theme and he rubs on a glaze to make the plastic, mostly made from kits, houses look properly aged...and with all of the chickens, cows and horses available, all to scale, it soon becomes a miniature wonderland with horses and wagons—no cars!—and all of the residents in proper garb of the era...it's a wonderful hobby for everyone—and don't forget it started to be a toy for kids—Let them play!!

Yours, Lulabelle

What the Politicians are Saying...

JOHN W. MATTHEWS, NASSAU DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CHAIRMAN, demanded that COUNTY EXECUTIVE THOMAS S. GUILLOTIA follow the lead of SUFFOLK COUNTY SENATOR JOHN R. DUNNE and sharply reduce the number of county cars and gasoline credit cards given to county officials. "No county-owned vehicle should ever be used for private purposes," he said.

U.S. SENATOR ALFONSE M. D'AMATO has proposed the repeal of the ban on using the military to stop drugs on their way into the country. (Ed. Note: most people didn't realize there was such a ban!) And he further advocated using America's economic assistance and trade as a lever against those nations not cooperating with our anti-drug efforts.

SENATOR JOHN R. DUNNE has announced that a series of consumer-oriented brochures entitled "Get Your Money's Worth" published by the New York State Senate are now available and can be obtained by writing to 550 Stewart Ave., Garden City, 11530 or calling 222-0068.

ASSEMBLYMAN Gregory R. Becker is encouraging eligible disabled veterans in New York State to take advantage of free travel on the New York State Thruway. Disabled veterans who receive disabled veteran license plates are eligible. Applicants may contact the New York State Thruway Authority, PO Box 1767, Albany, NY, 12201 or phone 518-436-3980.

NASSAU COUNTY EXECUTIVE THOMAS S. GUILLOTIA has announced a $3.5 million expansion in available funds to finance reverse annuity mortgages for senior homeowners in Nassau County. He said, "Inflation has eroded the buying power of those on fixed incomes, while, at the same time, the value of their paid-up homes has increased. This has led to a generation of older persons who are house-rich and cash-poor. The reverse annuity mortgage enables them to tap their home equity and to increase their everyday cash flow." For information, call Carol Greifer, Director, Family Service Association, 122 Jackson Street, Hempstead, 11550.

CONGRESSMAN TOM DOWNEY has announced that the Department of Defense has decided to push forward with the fight to continue production of the Grumman-built A-6 aircraft.

SENATOR RALPH J. MARINO is urging non-profit organizations serving elderly and disabled clients and contemplating new vehicle purchases to consider applying for federal funds available for 80 percent of these costs. Eligible non-profit organizations should contact Dale Meyers of the Department of Transportation at 518-457-8343.

CONGRESSMAN NORMAN F. LENT has co-sponsored legislation to exempt New York's 130,000 volunteer firemen and others who drive emergency vehicles from a federal law requiring them to obtain commercial driving licenses.

ROBERT R. McMILLAN'S

Direct Line

after the vicious murder of his son by crack thugs in Queens. His plea, recorded on television, was not a tirade, and under the circumstances, he gave a carefully reasoned and impassioned argument for the death penalty.

The same evening, and in back-to-back interviews on News 12, Ed Byrne's father was followed by a reporter questioning Governor Cuomo about the death penalty. In a very uncharacteristic public appearance, the Governor lost his cool. "Baloney", in belligerent tones, was his response when pressed by the reporter on the death penalty — at least implying that the argument for and those advocating the death penalty fit into that category of sandwich filler. Even though the Governor may not have known about the news conference held by Ed Byrne's father, his remarks showed a complete lack of sensitivity to the death of a fine young Long Island policeman at the hands of the crack industry.

Ed Byrne will, unfortunately, be just another 1988 murder statistic by year's end. With around 2,000 murders in New York State last year, New Yorkers have been very much like ducks in a shooting gallery.

The Jackson Dilemma

Jesse Jackson's outstanding victory in the Michigan caucuses raises the possibility that he very well might be able to win the Democratic Presidential nomination. There are many Democratic political operatives here in Washington who are scared senseless by the thought that Jackson might be the party's nominee.

The assumption among many hard bitten political pros is that if Jackson is the party's nominee, George Bush will be the next president. On the other hand, if a "stop Jackson" movement is put together and the nomination is taken away from him, the Jackson's constituency will desert the party in November.

Is there a way out of this dilemma for the Democratic party? Up until now the assumption among the politicians and the press is that there is no possible way that Jackson can win the nomination. That notion vanished after the Michigan caucuses. Now that there is the real possibility that Jackson might be the Democratic nominee, he and his position on the issues will come under increased scrutiny. The other Democratic candidates have been very reluctant to attack Jackson for fear of appearing racist, or angering the Jackson constituency, which any Democratic candidate must

Assuming the statistics remain the same this year, it means you have about one chance in 10,000 to get murdered if you live in the State and about double that number if you live in New York City. If that is not bad enough, you have even a greater chance being the victim of a violent crime living here — about one chance in one hundred. For these reasons, it is clear that arguments about the death penalty should not just be swept under a rug.

Referring to "baloney" hardly contributes to an intellectual interchange on the proper punishment for murderers. And, the debate does go on. Each of the last several legislatures has, on a bipartisan basis, passed a death penalty measure for certain types of murders — only to be vetoed by the Governor. Yes, there is no doubt that he is on the hot seat over this issue, particularly since a majority of people in the state, according to polls, favor the death penalty; and the murder of Ed Byrne has added to the heat. But, the circumstances of Ed Byrne's death give us all the more reason for a closer look at this issue in an unemotional way.

There are other areas of concern about life and death issues. Arguments about the "taking of lives" have raged for years over abortion and more recently a dialogue has started on the taking of a life when someone is terminally ill or "too old" to continue living — a form of legal suicide. None of these issues is going to fade soon. Proponents and opponents find themselves on different sides of each of these life and death subjects. The philosophical questions of morality, dignity and human rights are etched deeply on this debate. The arguments are not "baloney" on any side of any of these important issues. They are critical to all.

It is up to each one of us to sharpen our focus, listen to the arguments, and let our legislators and the Governor know how we feel. If you do not, others will make these important decisions for you.

Questions and opinions may be addressed to Mr. McMILLAN, Anton Community Newspapers, 132 East Second Street, Mineola, NY 11501.

have, to win in November.

The political pros are not afraid of Jackson's race, they are afraid of his stand on the issues, his relationship with Fidel Castro and Yasser Arafat. Jackson's position is clearly to the left of the mainstream Democratic party. The last time the party nominated an individual as liberal as Jackson was in 1972 when Senator McGovern lost 49 states.

Jesse Jackson is a serious candidate. It is time we all took a close look at his position on the issues which face this nation. If Jackson is able to survive this scrutiny from the press and his fellow candidates and still win the nomination, then he is entitled to the support of every loyal Democrat.

Why has Jackson's candidacy been so successful? It is because he is the only presidential candidate who offers a vision of the America he wants to build. He is the only candidate who gives the voter any passion. People may support Governor Michael Dukakis or Senator Al Gore, but they believe in Jackson.

Letters to the editor are welcomed by the editors and publishers of the Anton Community Newspapers. However, they must follow certain guidelines in order for us to print them: they should be as short as possible; we reserve the right to edit in the interest of space; they MUST be signed (a typed name at the bottom will not suffice); they must include an address and telephone number so that we can verify their authenticity.

We receive many fine letters which we would like to share with our readers, but we are unable to use them because they are unsigned or have a typewritten name only.

We cannot publish every letter we receive because of space limitations, but we try to present both sides of all issues. Personal attacks and letters considered to be in poor taste will not be printed.

To The Editor:

The Assembly passed a measure several years ago which would have provided the buyers of new homes with certain warranty protections. Unfortunately, this measure died in the State Senate.

Although a new home is perhaps the most significant purchase of a lifetime, you get a better warranty when you buy a washer or dryer.

The Assembly measure would have provided one year of freedom from defects caused by faulty workmanship and defective materials, two years freedom from defects caused by faulty installation of plumbing, electrical, heating and cooling systems and 10 years freedom from major construction defects.

Attorney General Robert Abrams has received numerous complaints with respect to shoddy workmanship and defective construction of new dwellings. The fact is, while home costs have been rapidly increasing, consumers are getting less for their money than ever before.

This matter had already come to a head, when the Federal Trade Commission filed suit against Kaufman and Broad (K&B) Homebuilders. K&B agreed to provide homebuyers with warranties which would be transferred to subsequent purchasers. The FTC also threatened to take federal action if the builders did not remedy defects.

In New Jersey, complaints about the quality of new homes led to legislation to license builders and operate a state administered warranty insurance program. Minnesota has enacted a similar law; however, Ralph Nader has urged Congress to require all builders throughout the country to warrant their homes.

It is my hope that the State Senate will acknowledge the importance of providing

homeowners with warranty protection and this will be the year New York will enact such a warranty program.

Robert P. Zimmerman
Special Assistant to the Speaker

To The Editor:

I am deeply grateful for your article, "Allard Lowenstein: A Retrospective."

I worked on that 1968 campaign. It was a great moment in the political history of the United States. I used to think that John Kennedy's death was the most tragic event in the 20th century (politically). However, Al's death comes close. His tenure in Congress was a moment for the "little people." Those "moments" have been few and far between in American politics, especially in Nassau County.

Thank you again for your article. It was one (Al's election) of the most hopeful moments in my life. To renew a hope-filled memory was exquisite. When one's hope is removed, nothing is left.

To The Editor:

Eileen Brennan's series of articles on our electric power crisis has given us an objective analysis unmarred by emotional overtones. So far in all the discussions on LILCO, we have had two points of view: that of LILCO officials, justifying their actions and defensive about Shoreham; and that of the

ASK OUR MAN IN WASHINGTON

Dear Mr. Burns,

Question: I recently visited the Capitol in Washington. I noticed the statue on top of the Capitol. It looks to me that the statue is of an Indian. What can you tell me about this statue?

Answer: The figure on top of the Capitol is known as the "statue of freedom". It was designed by the sculptor Thomas Crawford in Rome, Italy, and built at a cost of $23,796.82. The statue was put in its present location on December 2, 1863. The statue is not of an Indian, although many people think it is because the figure wears an eagle's head and feathers. The statue is an allegorical personification of freedom and is that of a woman dressed in a flowing robe with her right hand on a sheathed sword. The figure's left hand holds a wreath and a shield. The motto "E Pluribus Unum" (Latin for "Out of Many One") is inscribed on the statue's base. The height of the statue is 19 feet and six inches. Its total weight is 14,985 pounds.

LIA Endorses Highway
Funding Proposal

Calling the proposal clearly the best in addressing the near-term highway capacity needs of Long Island, the Long Island Association expressed its support for the State Senate Majority proposal on highway financing and urged both houses of the State Legislature and the Governor to approve the plan as part of the state budget negotiations now taking place in Albany.

"Clearly the Senate proposal, which would bring almost $100 million in new highway capacity funds to Long Island over the next four years, is in the best interests of all Long Islanders," LIA Transportation Committee Chairman Paul C. Kreuch, Jr., executive vice president, National Westminster Bank USA said.

The Senate proposal, which was developed and sponsored by Norman J. Levy, is one of three plans proposed to deal with a current state budget surplus. The Senate plan would put a $3 billion bond issue before the voters in November, and calls for highway funds to be disbursed on the basis of motor vehicle registrations rather than lane miles.

The Senate proposal would make additional funds available this construction season, even before the bond issue is passed, by appropriating a portion of the state surplus for highway projects now. This provision is very important to Long Island because many necessary projects have been delayed due to lack of funds.

The Long Island Association is the region's largest business and civic organization representing more than 400,000 employees, or more than one-third of the workforce of Nassau and Suffolk counties.

anti-nuclear group, whose fears and dire predictions blind them to the service which LILCO provides so faithfully. I will always be grateful to LILCO after an experience in the winter of 1986 when our gas furnace ceased operating. In the midst of the worst snowfall of the winter and icy drifts which made driving extremely difficult, the LILCO repair man appeared at our door at 1:30 a.m. and worked for the better part of an hour restoring our heat. We did get a bill from LILCO in addition to our regular monthly bill: $1.08, the cost of a new water gauge.

In the many years we have been homeowners in Nassau County, we have experienced many instances of the devoted and cheerful service of LILCO employees and only good management can maintain such standards of service.

Dem Candidates Coming

All of the Democratic presidential candidates will be participating in the County-wide Senior Citizen Forum to be held on Friday, April 8, at 10:30 a.m. at Adelphi University, Garden City. This is the only scheduled appearance of all of the candidates at a single event on Long Island prior to the New York State Primary on April 19. The forum will be held in the Ruth Harley Center auditorium, South Avenue and is scheduled to conclude by 1:30 p.m.

The forum will be unique in that all of the candidates have been requested to limit their remarks to issues of concern to the Senior Citizen community, namely: Affordable Housing, Health Care Quality and Accessibility, Income Tax, Medicare and Catastrophic Hospital Insurance and a National Health Plan.

United States Senator Daniel Patrick Moynihan will extend greetings to the attendees and it is hoped that Governor Mario M. Cuomo will also pay a return visit. Newly elected State Assemblywoman Earlene H. Hill will serve as moderator.

Admission is free and there will be no monetary solicitation. Arrangements have been made for those who wish to purchase lunch snacks at modest cost.

Local officials and friends of the Senior Citizen community have arranged for buses to leave from a number of communities throughout the county and to bring Seniors to the Forum. The buses will discharge their passengers at the Ruth Harley Center at Adelphi University and then park at the Garden City Swimming Pool, Cherry Valley Road. Cars should park at the same location. New 'Y' Nears Completion

"Now that eighty-five percent of the construction is complete, we are confident that the new building of the Sid Jacobson-North Shore YM & YWHA will open by July, 1988 and that we will hold our summer programs in our new facility," reported Marvin Natiss, president of the 'Y'.

Michael Weinberger, co-chairman of the 'Y's' Building Committee, explained, "All necessary building approvals have been obtained as expected and major snags avoided. We're moving ahead on construction even more rapidly than we anticipated; it looks like clear sailing."

The new facility is located in East Hills, at 300 Forest Drive, directly behind the Pall Corporation on Northern Boulevard.

"Since construction began in May 1987, tremendous progress has been made," Mr. Weinberger continued. The construction firms of Krinsky Enterprises and Landing Construction Company have nearly completed all work on the building's exterior. The walls are up; the roof is on; underground utilities are in place, and the parking lot and driveways are laid out.

"We are turning our attention to the building's interior now," Mr. Weinberger said. The building's inner walls, windows, doors and ceiling are in place. The running track has been installed; the gymnasium and auditorium laid out; and excavation on the in-door pool completed. The contractor is installing finishing materials, including carpeting, tile and wall covering. New furniture has been ordered.

The many summer programs to be held in the new facility include the Early Childhood-Parenting Center activities for parents and children, ages three months to two years, together; and for children from two to four years of age, independently. During this start up period, physical fitness programs for children, teenagers and adults will gradually be introduced.

For more information about the 'Y' or its programs, call 484-1545.

KITCHEN, BATH & HOME INTERIOR IDEAS

There Are Many Ways to Make Backsplash Attractive, Cleanable

Brought to you by Don Boico, CKD, CR

Remodeling a bath or kitchen never is cheap, and often it can cost quite a lot. This is easy to realize when you consider that it involves several different trades such as plumbers, electricians, carpenters, designers, tile setters, and code inspectors, as well as any number of fine products.

How much will it cost you? You might consider it this way.

If you drive a Seville, you will not be satisfied with kitchen remodeling that costs less than $12,000, and more likely you should think of over $15,000.

Your bathroom remodeling will be too little at $5,000, probably will suffice at $10,000-plus.

On the other hand, the norm for fully-designed and remodeled kitchens is about $20,000, for bathrooms about $4,500.

But you can do less and spend less. Many kitchens are done for, $9,000, many baths for, $5,000, but such prices can not involve new design or structural changes.

The main point to remember is that you are doing something for the years ahead. Your trip to Europe is over in two weeks. Your new car loses half its value when you drive it home.

But your new kitchen or bathroom is used every day for many years and both can add significantly to the value of your home if ever you want to sell. Come in, and let's talk it over.

Funds for Elderly and Disabled Transportation

State Transportation Commissioner Franklin E. White has announced a program for buying vehicles to transport elderly and disabled clients.

This program, funded by the federal government and administered by the State Department of Transportation, can help provide non-profit organizations incorporated in New York State with special transportation services for the elderly and disabled. Interested organizations should call Dale Meyers, at 518-457-8343. They will be sent information and an application manual.

The U.S. Urban Mass Transportation Administration's 1989 funding program is expected to provide 80 percent of the cost of new vehicles and related equipment. The local provider of services is required to pay the remaining 20 percent. In New York State, 50 to 60 organizations are expected to receive funds to buy such items as vans or small buses equipped with wheelchair lifts.

Commissioner White noted that over the past 13 years, the UMTA program has provided 1,429 vehicles to 369 organizations statewide. "The program helps bring essential mobility to thousands of elderly or disabled New Yorkers," he said.

Computers Open Doors For Blind and Deaf-Blind

Helen Keller Services for the Blind (HKSBS) has announced the opening of its Leonardo Del Vecchio Technical and Training Centers to provide evaluation and training for people who are blind or visually impaired at its Hempstead Service site, 320 Fulton Avenue, and for people who are deaf-blind at the Helen Keller National Center headquarters, 111 Middle Neck Road, Sands Point.

"Historically, people who are blind have not had access to printed information - whether it be in ink or on a computer monitor. This has been a barrier in securing employment and, with the advent of computers in the classroom, in school as well," said Martin A. Adler, MSW, ACSW, HKSBS president.

HKSBS has simulated several work stations in the Center. These stations feature state-of-the-art IBM compatible machines. The adaptive aids are voice synthesizers, braille output and enlargeable print displays. Through training, clients will receive marketable experience in word processing, database management, spread sheet accounting, computerized reservations, customer services, programming and more.

Apple computers have also been purchased which will expand HKSBS's realm into the educational arena. Using adaptive aids, school-age children who are visually impaired or blind will now have the same advantages associated with computer literacy.

These innovative Centers have been established as the result of a generous gift from Mr. Leonardo Del Vecchio, Chairman of the Board and President of the Luxottica group and Avant-Garde Optics, Inc., (located in Port Washington).

Sjogren's Syndrome - Its Relationship To Arthritis

Sjogren's (pronounced show-grins) is an inflammatory disorder of the glands and can be associated with many types of arthritis. Often, the problem causes dry eyes and a dry mouth. This abnormality can produce a feeling of grittiness in the eye or a feeling of constant thirst.

The cause of Sjogren's is not known. Certain evidence suggests a defect involving the body's immune system. Once this inflammation occurs, the production of tears or saliva is impaired. With the continual lack of these lubricating fluids, the eyes and the mouth become very dry. Many patients with Sjogren's experience such pronounced thirst that they carry a glass of water with them. These patients are prone to develop recurrent eye infections or dental cavities.

Often, people with this disorder come to the attention of the rheumatologist (arthritis specialist) because they have an associated arthritic condition. Types of arthritis associated with Sjogren's include rheumatoid arthritis, lupus, mixed connective tissue disease, and sarcoidosis. Although many people with Sjogren's may never develop arthritis, the occurrence of Sjogren's may be a very early sign of arthritis.

The diagnosis of this disorder is usually made on the basis of a medical history and a complete physical examination. This is done to make certain that an associated arthritis is not present. A simple tear secretion test, called a Schirmer's Tear test, can often confirm the diagnosis.

Treatment of the arthritis associated with Sjogren's is a specialty of the rheumatologist. If the symptoms are mild, little treatment may be needed. For more severe problems, medications are available and are helpful.

Arthritis strikes one out of seven people. Learn the facts. Call for your complimentary copy of "The Joint Approach - An Arthritis Overview."

county economy as region moves toward the 1990s. The program will be concerned with human resources, manufacturing productivity, competition, and international issues of high technology business. Speakers will examine near-term economic factors impacting the region and industry. Panelists will explore options and new directions available to government to help high technology driven industry. 'Narrowing the Wage Gap'

Narrowing the Wage Gap Conference IV organized by Women on the Job will present working women on Long Island with an opportunity to hear two national figures: Barbara Ehrenreich, noted author on issues concerning women and the economy and Claudia Wayne, the Executive Director of the National Committee on Pay Equity on Saturday, April 16, at the Garden City Unitarian Church from 8:30 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. There will be a panel discussion on Negotiating Pay Equity with Public Employers as well as workshops designed to help nurses, librarians and clericals achieve pay equity.

Women on the Job, a not-for-profit employment advocacy group sponsors this annual Conference as part of its program to achieve economic justice. According to Executive Director Lillian McCormick, "Women are still being paid 'girls' wages and despite the fact that approximately 28 percent of the 88.5 million households in the country are headed by women, there is still the mistaken idea that women are only working for 'pin money'."

The Conference is co-sponsored by the Long Island Educational Support Staff Association, representing women who work as clericals and nurses in 50 school districts on Long Island and the Women on the Job Task Force, a coalition of 50 women's business, professional, labor, civic, religious and human rights organizations. A $6.00 pre-registration fee is required. For further information, contact Women on the Job at 883-1691.

Proper Nutrition: The Real Story

by CLAIR WILDMAN, R.D., Chief Clinical Dietician
The Community Hospital at Glen Cove

What discipline, requiring no license, can make an individual wealthy, successful, and publicly sought after? The answer is nutrition. The national interest in health and fitness is a great lure for quackery and it's become increasingly difficult to separate fact from the profit-making schemes in this field.

For all people, but for athletes in particular, a reading of research literature in the field would be helpful in dispelling myths and planning a strategy for optimal performance. Since that's not always possible, here are some guides for proper nutrition when engaging in athletics.

To begin, the special nutritional requirements of those regularly engaged in an exercise or fitness program are two:

1. Extra calories, necessary for the increased energy expenditure.
2. Additional fluids needed to replace fluid lost in sweating.

Replacing fluids lost during exercise is important in minimizing the effects of dehydration. Increased sweat loss results in a reduction of oxygen transport to the working muscles and may contribute to heat exhaustion. In hot weather, cold water is the best choice for replacing sweat loss since it is absorbed faster than commercial sport drinks that contain sugar, potassium and other electrolytes.

Fluid loss exceeds sodium, potassium, and chloride loss during exercise. The ingestion of salt or high sodium beverages or foods during and after exercise offers no advantage in terms of increasing fluid retention or preventing sodium retention or preventing sodium loss during exercise.

To help plan for the amount and variety of food required each day, the Basic Four Food Groups can be used as a guideline. The chart below gives the recommendations for the minimum number of servings needed each day.

To perform your best prior to a competitive event, it is advisable to consume a small meal comprised of high carbohydrate, low fat foods. Carbohydrates are best for the following reasons:

1. They digest faster and more readily than protein and fats. Fats remain in the stomach longer and may cause discomfort during competition.
2. They are stored in the muscles as glycogen, a readily available energy source.
3. They maintain blood glucose at a normal level, thereby preventing hypoglycemia with its symptoms of weakness and light-headedness.

Suggestions for pre-competition meals include: cereal with skim milk and fruit; low fat cottage cheese with fruit; or a sliced chicken sandwich. It is recommended that the meal be eaten two to three hours before the event and include two to three glasses of fluids, preferably water, juice or skim milk. Drinking frequently one to two days prior to an event is equally important as one to two hours before it.

It is important for the professional athlete as well as the average fitness buff to be able to distinguish nutritional fact from fallacy. Attaining sufficient knowledge to separate the two is the way to maximize one's athletic ability and achieve a competitive edge.

Proper Warm-Up is Competitive Athlete's Secret Weapon

by BARRY ROOT, M.D.

Director, Physical, Medical & Rehabilitation The Community Hospital at Glen Cove

Athletes in training for their sport utilize a tripart method of preparation: proper warm-up, consistent practice, and occasional cross training.

Many scientific studies have shown that the best way to prepare for a competition in any sport is to repeatedly perform that sport. Thus, swimmers are the best prepared for their event at the pool, and runners are the best prepared for their event on the track. Consistent training at a specific event results in increased strength, endurance and mobility of the muscles needed for that exercise. In addition, a complex phenomenon occurs with repetition in training; the brain, peripheral nervous system, and muscles work together to create greater exercise efficiency, resulting in improved performance.

proper warm-up. The warm-up generates an increase in body temperature and in blood flow to the appropriate muscles. This results in a variety of benefits to the athlete both on muscular and cellular levels.

Technically speaking, a rise in body temperature is accompanied by a rise in the temperature of the specific muscles to be used, causing increased blood flow to these muscles, promoting more efficient use of the body's fuels. The extra blood delivers more oxygen and fuel to the muscles and, at the same time, removes more metabolic by-products such as lactic acid. On a cellular level, increased temperature enhances the release of oxygen from the hemoglobin molecules and from the myoglobin molecules, which provide an extra source of oxygen to the activity. The simplest is a passive warm-up using external means such as a heating pad, sauna or shower. This is frequently impractical. The general warm-up utilizes active movements of various major muscle groups and therefore increases muscle and body temperature. Calisthenic exercises simplify the general warm-up. And the specific warm-up concentrates on the neuromuscular components of the body that will be utilized in the competitive event.

A word about static stretching. Static stretching alone is not an adequate way to prepare for a competitive event. Static stretching involves the holding of postures in which muscles are stretched and held, and joints are often bent beyond their normal range of motion. This can result in injury by overstretching muscles and ligaments. Gentle stretching through the full normal range of motion, however, is a sensible way to initiate the warm-up period. This should be followed by a specific warm-up.

Physiologically, one should remember that the best way to prepare one's muscles for an event is to increase the temperature of the muscles used in that event. Therefore, the best runners in a 10K race do not hang around the starting line practicing contorted positions. Instead, they park a mile away, and after gentle stretching, jog to the starting point to warm up the appropriate muscles and increase the blood flow to their legs.

park a mile away, and after gentle stretching, jog to the starting point to warm up the appropriate muscles and increase the blood flow to their legs.

Cross training is defined as the practicing of one activity in preparation for another. The benefits of cross training are limited, but it can provide some relief from the tedium of identical daily work-outs. Cross training has a more important role when there's an injury. It maintains cardiovascular fitness and overall fitness while allowing a joint to recover. The swimmer with an injured shoulder can maintain cardiovascular fitness and leg strength by running and cycling.

Perhaps the most important way competitive athletes improve performance and protect themselves from injury is through a skeletal muscles. Various other enzymatic and metabolic reactions also occur more efficiently with increased muscle temperature.

Another benefit accrued by warming the body is boosting the speed of nerve impulse transmission and muscular contraction. Adequately warmed muscles, tendons and ligaments demonstrate increased elasticity and improved coordination, both of which are major factors in preventing athletic injuries.

So, the competitive athlete needs a good warm-up. But what's the best way to start? There are three basic types of warm-up that are usually used in preparation for strenuous

BUILDING FOR YOUR HEALTH

While you're running for your health, Community Hospital is building for your health. Three major expansions and improvement projects are planned or underway. The projects will enhance existing Community Hospital programs, contributing to the provision of technologically sophisticated medical care in a modern, up-to-date facility.

Next fall should see the completion of Community Hospital's expanded Emergency Department, currently under construction. A one-story addition to the present department coupled with interior renovation will provide a new reception area, extra treatment rooms, a separate walk-in entrance away from the busy ambulance port, and specially designed waiting and examining rooms specifically for children. Close to 30,000 visits annually are made to Community Hospital's Emergency Department, a fully staffed, round-the-clock facility, open 365 days a year.

Nuclear Medicine at Community Hospital has outgrown its current location. The burgeoning section, with more equipment on order to bolster its high tech services, is currently spread over two floors. It will be relocated to a wing of its own this summer. A new SPECT (Single Photon Emission Computed Tomography) camera will supplement the existing nuclear cameras in operation, and provide a wide range of diagnostic capabilities including brain and cardiac scans.

Finally, Community Hospital is planning the installation of a hospital-wide computerized information system to increase overall operating efficiency. Computers will be placed at all the nursing stations, and at appropriate medical and support services, providing direct integrated information to all the areas of the hospital requiring it.

The Community Hospital at Glen Cove is a 256-bed, not-for-profit, acute care hospital serving the north shore of Long Island for 66 years.

CAST MEMBERS of the Underground Railway Theater

The Underground Railway Comes to LI

During the week of April 11-14, Friends of the Arts will present, as its annual Artreach program Sanctuary: The Spirit of Harriet Tubman performed by the Underground Railway Theater of Cambridge, Massachusetts. The cast will conduct workshops at eight different schools and perform the full-length production at the Adams Playhouse, Hofstra University, on April 15, at 12:30 p.m.

This group combines a multi-racial acting ensemble, masks, shadow-puppets, projections and live music, to celebrate the underground railway of the 1850s which brought slaves north to freedom, and to draw connections to the plight of Central American refugees in today's sanctuary movement. The chorus for the production will be made up of about 100 voices from schools in Garden City, Hempstead, Locust Valley, Oyster Bay, Rockville Centre, Roosevelt, and Westbury.

Artreach is made possible through the generous support to the Herman Goldman Foundation, Grumman Corporation, the Long Island Community Foundation, Mobil Oil Corporation, and Pall Corporation.

Please call Friends of the Arts at 922-0061 for further information.

Mr. Whiteley, who will be making his second appearance in as many years at Christ Church, has programmed compositions by the Belgian Joseph Jongen, the Frenchman Maurice Durufle, and the Italian Raffaele Manari from this century. From earlier times, there will be pieces by Johann Pachelbel, G. Dietrich Leiding, and Julius Reubke.

The concert which will start at 4:00 p.m., is the third in the series for 1988. As a special inducement to non-subscribers, two people may attend the concert for a total cost of $15.00, the first ticket at the regular admission of $10.00 and the second at a 50 percent discount. Although they will be available at the door, reservations may be made in advance by calling 922-6377 on weekdays between 9:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Christ Church is located at 61 East Main Street in Oyster Bay, a short distance east of Route 106.

Still to come in the four-concert series is a recital by Ketil Haugsand, harpsichordist from Norway, on Sunday, May 22, also at 4:00 p.m. Tickets for his recital may also be reserved in advance or purchased at the door on April 10 at Christ Church.

Great Performances Series

Friends of the Arts has announced its 1988/89 Great Performances series, six outstanding concerts scheduled for performances at the Tilles Center in Greenvale.

The series will open Oct. 23, with Neville Martinier conducting the Stuttgart Radio Orchestra and continues on Nov. 13, with the Vienna Chamber Orchestra performing and Philippe Entremont as both conductor and piano soloist. Christoph von Dohnanyi will conduct The Cleveland Orchestra on Jan. 25, 1989. On Feb. 26, 1989, Vladimir Feltsman will return to Friends of the Arts' Great Performances series for a solo recital. On April 14, 1989, Seiji Ozawa will conduct the Boston Symphony Orchestra and the series will close, with the St. Louis Symphony under the baton of Leonard Slatkin.

Subscription prices remain at $120 (section A) and $105 (section B) for all six concerts, a saving of 20 percent when compared to single ticket prices. A renewal drive is currently underway. For further information, or to receive a free brochure, call Friends of the Arts at 922-0061.

St. Mary's Basketball Camp

Chris Schneider, Varsity basketball coach at St. Mary's Girls' High School in Manhasset, has announced that a girls' basketball day camp will be conducted at St. Mary's parish schools.

The camp will be a one week session from Monday, June 27, through Friday, July 1, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The basketball camp is designed for newcomers to basketball, as well as the more skilled. Girls entering the 4th grade through 10th grade are eligible to attend. Lectures, films, team practice, guest speakers and two full court games daily will be included in the days schedule. Four full indoor courts and three full outdoor courts are available and the cost for the week is $95.00.

For a camp brochure, call 627-2141 or write: St. Mary's Girls' Basketball Camp, 25 Second Street, Manhasset, L.I. N.Y. 11030.

AT THE NEW North Shore University Hospital Child Care Center Gretchen Gaudelli, (left) Director, of Forest Hills; Carrie Senzer, Employee Liaison, of Great Neck; and Ashley Urquhart of Huntington look on as Mary Seremetis of Westbury and Tashiro Wakai of Forest Hills take turns on the slide.

Hospital Opens Child Care Center

North Shore University has opened its own on-site Child Care Center, making it one of the very few Long Island hospitals to offer its employees this service. "North Shore was anxious to take this step to ensure that its employees' child care needs would be met," said Carrie Senzer, Employee Liaison.

Gretchen Gaudelli, Director of Innovative Learning Center, Inc., says she sees a new trend in child care. "As more women choose to remain in the work force, combining careers and motherhood, it becomes increasingly important to offer affordable, quality on-site day care for them. North Shore understands this and is now providing this much needed service for all its employees," she explained.

The new Center was established through the efforts of a committee of employees from different departments, including Social Work, Nursing, and Personnel, who researched various programs and decided that innovative would best meet the needs of the parents and children. Mrs. Senzer feels that "The Center offers parents an ideal situation because they can visit with their children during the day. In addition, they have input as to the Center's policies and procedures. Having this new resource," she adds, "is useful to the hospital's efforts to recruit and retain top quality staff in all its departments."

Available to children who range in age from two months to five years, the Center employs licensed full-time teachers and is open Monday through Friday from 7:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. The Center has three large playrooms for the three age groups into which the children are divided, with each room fully equipped with a range of toys, sand boxes, and slides. One room even has a piano for sing-a-longs. Ms. Gaudelli describes the program as offering each child "a rich developmental curriculum of age appropriate activities in a bright, warm, caring environment."

Openness About Sex Topic of Conference

The importance of being more open and communicative on the subject of sex will be a major focus of the 1988 Community Conference, sponsored by the North Shore Child and Family Guidance Association. The title, Sex: A Topic for Conversation...exploring sexuality in changing times, will open with an address by Dr. Sol Gordon, psychologist, on Monday evening, April 11, and will continue with workshops on Wednesday morning, April 13. The conference will be held at the North Shore Child and Family Guidance Center, Whispered Wishes, 480 Old Westbury Road, Roslyn Heights.

Dr. Gordon, writer, lecturer and educator, who is nationally recognized for his work in the field of sex education, will set the stage for conference deliberation.

In choosing the subject of sexuality, the committee noted that being able to feel more comfortable in sharing thoughts and feelings with one's children, parents or other adults about sex is essential in dealing with sexual issues. The conference will also consider the need to retain values and a sense of balance in the face of overt sexuality in the media and in advertising.

Workshops will deal with the many facts of this critical topic from responsible sex to its relation to self-esteem. Five workshops will be offered, each with a professional leader from the Guidance Center or the mental health field.

Workshops will be held simultaneously. The fee is five dollars for each session of the conference. Participants may attend one or both. Debra Fisher and Mella Ioppolo are co-chairpersons.

Ronald McDonald House Goes Afloat

Reservations are being taken for a weekend-long "cruise to nowhere" aboard the famous Queen Elizabeth 2, to benefit the Long Island Ronald McDonald House.

Departing on Friday, June 10, and returning Sunday, June 12, the QE2 cruise will offer the Ronald McDonald House passengers exciting gifts, prizes and special events. Other features include first class cabin accommodations, 24-hour steward service, luxurious dining, casino gambling, Golden-Door-At-Sea Spa privileges and celebrity appearances. But more important, those who participate in the cruise will help some very special families.

"The Ronald McDonald House was established to help the families of seriously ill children who are undergoing treatment in nearby hospitals," said Judy Goldwyn, executive director of the Ronald McDonald House located on the grounds of the Long Island Jewish Medical Center. "The money raised from the ticket sales will help the House continue to provide a warm and upbeat place for these families to stay, a home-away-from-home, while their children receive hospital care."

To send the passengers off on their journey, a party is planned at the QE2 dock at W. 55th Street in Manhattan. The send-off will include a flag-raising ceremony aboard the QE2, music, celebrity appearances and other festivities. After the party, the QE2 will travel down the New Jersey shore and then back to the ship's dock Sunday afternoon.

The cruise package will also offer a fireworks display and raffles for valuable prizes. In addition, half of the casino gambling proceeds will be donated back to the Long Island Ronald McDonald House.

Reservations for the Long Island Ronald McDonald House's cruise to nowhere are limited to 500 passengers. Call Judy Goldwyn at the Ronald McDonald House, (718) 343-5683, for ticket information.

Head Injury Association Hires Executive Director

Stuart Gleiber and Charles Wolf, Co-Directors of the Long Island Region Head Injury Association, have announced that the local chapter has hired Janice Coughlin as its first Executive Director.

Prior to her employment with the Association, Ms. Coughlin worked in the Suffolk County Executive Office for more than seven years as an Assistant to County Executives Peter Cohan and Michael LoGrande. Her duties there included liaison with the Suffolk County Department of Health Services, membership on several Boards and Commissions and the review of local, state and federal regulations and legislation.

The Head Injury Association is a not-for-profit organization formed in the early 1980's by concerned families and professionals in order to provide support for persons with head injury and their families; to increase public awareness and knowledge about head injury; to create an information and resource center for head injury; and to encourage prevention programs.

The Long Island Chapter, through grants from New York State Office of Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities provides a respite/recreation program and maintains a 24 hour hotline to help families in crisis and to provide information to professionals and interested members of the community.

Anyone interested in the Head Injury Association should call the Hot Line at 542-0339.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 NT	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
3 NT	Pass	4 ♠

Opening lead — king of hearts.

In most suit contracts, declarer makes a preliminary estimate of his chances by counting his losers. Long experience tells him that it is easier to assess his prospects if he thinks in terms of losers instead of winners.

But there are some situations that arise where declarer appears to have too many losers and yet can contrive to amass enough winners!

Consider this deal, for example, where South wins the heart lead with the ace and plays the K-Q of trumps. When West shows out, South learns to his sorrow that he must lose a trump trick to East.

Declarer sees that he may also lose a diamond and two clubs, so the count of potential losers is unsatisfactory in the extreme.

South now turns to counting winners instead of losers. He notes that if he can score six trump tricks and his four high-card tricks on the side, he will make the contract.

He therefore sets out to ruff dummy's three hearts. He trumps a heart at trick four, leads a club to the king, trumps another heart, leads a club to the ace, and trumps dummy's last heart. The ace of diamonds and ace of spades then account for tricks nine and ten.

It is true that after South wins the first ten tricks, East has a trump trick coming and West has two club tricks and a diamond coming. But these four losers somehow merge into three after ten tricks are played.

The principle that emerges is that when an unlucky trump break indicates that a defender is bound to score one or more tricks in that suit, it does not necessarily follow that declarer's number of winners is correspondingly reduced.

Ken Wood of East Hampton has 1,741 and should at least break the county record.

MacArthur's Chris Sinacori pitched a no-hitter last week as the Generals beat Calhoun, 9-0. It was his third career no-hitter. Farmingdale remains the top ranked lacrosse team in Nassau. Defending A-champ Garden City is second. League baseball begins Monday, April 11. The New York State golf champion Adam Spring returns to lead Roslyn's team this spring.

Lacrosse Vision Becomes Reality
One Million Investment Gains Long Island National Team

By Howard J. Flanagan

THE YEAR IS 1972

All-Americans Terry Wallace and Bruce Meierdiercks slosh tiredly from muddy Boswell Field at Hobart.

Wallace is a graduate of Hicksville High School and Meierdiercks started his career at Elmont.

Although Wallace scored six times and Meierdiercks has held Hobart-great Rich Gilbert scoreless there is no sign of jubilation on the weary faces of the two Adelphi stars as they shuffle toward their locker room together after a 14-13 sudden death loss at the hands of Hobart.

It isn't just an end to a game or a season. But it is the end of the careers of two well-established collegians because there is no tomorrow for these lacrosse stars!

THE YEAR IS 1987

Fifteen years have passed since that rainy day at Hobart. Although Wallace and Meierdiercks have pursued separate business interests they have remained friends and are now spectators at Michie Stadium in West Point. Both men quietly comment on Adelphi's performance against Army and as the game comes to an end they think of their last game at Hobart knowing that they have the answer. Yes, there will be professional field lacrosse for those more fortunate than yesterday's stars!

The American Lacrosse League was in its infancy. The two partners made a plan and are methodically following it through. They traveled the country discussing their plan and were concerned about how it would be received. The plan received enthusiastic support.

Stadiums have been selected in suburban communities conducive to a family atmosphere. The Studer Bowl (Denver), Tufts University (Boston), Hofstra Stadium (Long Island), Griffin Stadium (Syracuse), Montclair State (New Jersey) and U.M.B.C. (Baltimore) will host American Lacrosse League teams.

Regular admission for each game is $8.00 per ticket while season tickets are priced at

Charity Event for The Special Olympics

On Saturday, April 30, the Sportset Rockville Centre Club will be hosting a charity fitness event for the benefit of the Special Olympics called "LiftAmerica".

Participants solicit pledge promises from the community. They do not collect money. Their performance in a chosen fitness activity during the event determines the amount of the pledge. Pledges for the event are based on participation in any one of several forms of exercise. These include: aerobic dance, weight lifting, stationary cycling, sit-ups and others.

A $5 registration fee is required for all non-club members. This fee will be donated by Sportset to the "LiftAmerica" Fund. All participants will be eligible for prizes, including 3-month memberships at Sportset, T-shirts and more. All those people interested in supporting the Special Olympics are invited regardless of their physical condition, to come down and participate in some way.

The Special Olympics benefits more than 1,000,000 retarded athletes worldwide.

All those interested must register by April 15. For details, contact Jane at 530-8700.

Friends Wrestlers
Place Third in N.Y.

The varsity wrestling team at Friends Academy in Locust Valley placed third in the New York State Private School Tournament held at the Hackley School in Tarrytown. The teams overall dual meet record for the season was 9 wins, two losses and one tie.

At the New York State championships, nine wrestlers participated. There were 14 weight classes so each wrestler had to excel to earn enough points for the team to overtake schools with full squads. The results were that each Friends' grappler won a medal.

Two time state champion, sophomore Ramy Saad of Sands Point, placed first in the 101 pound weight class and senior Sherif Saad of Sands Point, placed first in the 120 pound weight class. Junior Joe Brewster of Glen Cove placed second for the second year in a row in the 135 pound class. Co-captain Russ Dubner of Roslyn, placed third in the 141 pound class; sophomore Josh Lohrius of Glen Head, placed third in the 170 pound class; senior Dell Daniels of Brentwood, fourth in the 188 pound class; co-captain Al Miller of Glen Head, fifth in the 148 pound class; junior Phil Canelli of Bethpage, fifth in the 160 pound class and freshman Sal Perry of Muttontown, placed sixth in the 115 pound class.

Josh Lohrius received a trophy for being the wrestler with the "most pins in the least amount of time" in the tournament.

$5.00 for eight home games at Long Island, New Jersey and Baltimore or $11.00 for seven home games at Boston, Syracuse and Denver.

Group tickets are available for groups of 15 people or more at $1.00 off regular admission.

The league comprised of the Long Island Sachems, New Jersey Arrows, Baltimore Thib, Denver Rifles, Boston Militia and Syracuse will become the fifth major professional sport in America.

John Pappas of Bethpage will coach the Long Island entry. The team will play Sunday afternoons at Hofstra.

In an interview with Anton Community Newspapers—which will give coverage to support the league in 22 Long Island weeklies—League President Wallace underscored some major facts.

• The league chose to open operations with six franchises with solid long-run financial backing.

• Smaller, comfortable stadiums were
