

Lower Tax Rate if School Budget Passes

(This story went to press before the budget vote.)

A $2.2 million increase in Hicksville's property values will result in a lower than anticipated school tax rate for residents. If the revised Hicksville School Budget was passed on August 10, taxpayers can expect to pay an additional $.80 cents over the 1987-88 tax rate of $25.86, or $26.75 per $100 of assessed value. This is $.90 per $100 lower than expected. (The anticipated tax rate was $1.39 over 1987-88 tax rate of $25.86 or $27.25 per $100.)

Assistant School Superintendent William Hall made this announcement at the Special Meeting of the Board of Education held on August 4. Mr. Hall reported that Nassau County had attributed the $2.2 million increase in Hicksville's property values to new construction, especially in the industrial and commercial class.

School board trustee William Bennett commented that it was unfortunate that the board did not have time to broadcast this information to the community before the budget revote on August 10.

New Old Country Road Principal

Geraldine Silver was appointed principal of Old Country Road School by a vote of 4-0. Board trustees Cardella, MacBride and Rooney abstained.

Mrs. Silver had previously served for two years as Assistant Director of Instruction for Hicksville. She is replacing Dr. Daniel McCann, who had resigned to accept another principalship in Westchester.

Other Board Matters

School board trustee Daniel MacBride, subject to recent criticism over his lack of attendance at Board meetings, made an announcement regarding his future involvement. Mr. MacBride is a rookie New York City policeman and has just received his first permanent assignment. He indicated that his commanding officer is aware of his involvement on the school board and that there should be no problem with his attendance in the future.

School board trustee Daniel Arena expressed his concern that the community had been "without a voice" while Mr. MacBride had been absent. He asked if Mr. MacBride had considered resigning. Mr. MacBride replied that he had been appointed to the police after the filing date for election to the school board last year.

A member of the community, Arlene Rudin, commented that several board members, including Mr. Arena, had been absent for protracted periods of time in the past because of various illnesses and personal matters.

The next regular meeting of the board of education is Wednesday, August 31, at 8:15 p.m. in the Administration Building.

Snake Puts the Squeeze On Ex-Capt and Police

A nine-foot boa constrictor, dubbed "Monty Python," escaped from his owner's home last Saturday and a fire department ex-captain and three police officers were called to the scene.

When efforts to contact an animal control person failed, the services of Hicksville Fire Department Ex-Captain Jack Pearson were requested at a home on Marvin Avenue. Upon arrival, Mr. Pearson confirmed that the snake was a boa constrictor of nearly nine feet long and was about to leave the area.

Working with three Eighth Precinct police officers, Mr. Pearson grabbed the snake, which in turn, grabbed him. After a brief struggle, the snake, nicknamed Monty Python by one of the team members, was put into a container.

A subsequent investigation by the police officers helped find the owner, who knew the snake was missing but thought it was still in the house. As the participants left the scene, they all agreed that the call was "a little unusual" for police or fire fighters in this area. A tip of the helmet to ex-captain Pearson and Eighth Precinct police for a job well done.

Chemical Fumes Cause Evacuation Of School Administration Building

HAZ MAT TEAM members at a decontamination scrub-down after they removed chemicals from a loading dock at the Hicksville School's Administration Building.

Fumes from chemicals on a loading dock forced employees to be evacuated from the Hicksville School's Administration Building last week.

The Hicksville Fire Department received an alarm at 8:22 a.m. August 8 from the Division Avenue facility of fumes coming from chemicals on the dock.

Responding to the scene were the Haz Mat team and six units. Firemen and team members under the direction of assistant chief Al Merk, found about 45 chemicals, removed from school labs, stored and awaiting transfer. As Haz Mat personnel suited-up in self-contained approach garments, firefighters stretched a precautionary hose line and set up a safety perimeter.

Haz Mat team members were given a list of the chemicals on the loading dock, some of which included ammonium chloride, ammonium phosphate, lacquer thinner, sodium metal and lead peroxide.

The entry team consisting of captain Eugene Pietzak and ex-captain Richard Russell, also found small quantity of phosphorus had leaked from a container. Once it was mixed with air, a reaction occurred which gave off toxic fumes. The chemical was isolated first, then put in an overpark drum. When a small quantity of sodium was found, it was packed in kerosene to stabilize. At this point, all chemicals were in a safe condition and the entry team exited the hazardous area and were decontaminated.

According to Gene Pietzak, a co-ordinator for the Haz Mat team, "The chemical phosphorus had intermixed with other chemicals causing fumes and a small fire. The chemicals were segregated and the burning materials removed." All unprotected chemicals were then stored in containers provided by the fire department.

Called to the scene to assist were Nassau County Fire Marshals, Nassau County Department of Health, and the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation. The Plainview Fire Department provided an engine company to stand by at fire headquarters along with a rescue unit from the Jericho Fire Department.

Although about six people were evacuated, students in a far wing of the school were in no danger and not affected by the incident.

The Hicksville Fire Department Haz Mat Team has been in existence since 1981 and responds to 60-80 calls a year. It was the first team organized on Long Island.

New Principal at Old Country Road School

Geraldine Silver was appointed Principal at the Old Country Road School effective immediately, it was announced at a special meeting of the Board of Education last week.

Mrs. Silver has been with the Hicksville School District for two years as the Assistant Director of Instruction. She has been involved intensively in curriculum and staff development, has coordinated funded programs, and has supervised reading teachers and librarians.

Mrs. Silver earned her bachelor of science degree in early childhood education from St. John's University, followed by a master of science in Special Education at Queens College. She returned to St. John's to earn a Professional Diploma in Administration and Supervision.

She was taught elementary and junior high students in both Regular and Special Education programs in Queens, and has also taught as an adjunct instructor at the College of New Rochelle. Prior to joining the Hicksville Schools two years ago, Mrs. Silver served as a teacher trainer, project manager, and city-wide curriculum coordinator for the New York City Board of Education.

Mrs. Silver is looking forward to working with the children and the faculty at Old Country Road. "Already people from Old Country Road have been very supportive, they've been open and warm, and they are eager to lend a helping hand," she said.

She said that she is honored to have been selected to the position. "I will miss all the good people in the central office," she said.

"However I look forward to getting to know all the children at Old Country Road and being with them."

Mrs. Silver is very fond of children and is extremely interested in the educational system. She and her husband Stanley, a Systems Officer at Citibank, have two children, aged two and four. Above all, she said, she enjoys being with her family.

She replaces Dr. McCann, who has resigned.

Clarification

Last week's Merchant of the Week column on First Class stated, "Dr. Greenman helped develop an outreach program for abused children at Hillside Hospital," when actually he started the development of this program. It was in the psychiatry department of Queens Hospital.

TO YOUR HEALTH

By RICHARD H. BLAU, M.D.

Fibrositis - The Exhaustion and Pain Syndrome

A disorder which has generated much controversy over the last several years is fibrositis. This debate revolves around the cause and the treatment of this disorder. Fibrositis (or fibromyalgia) is used to describe trunk and limb pain, not associated with inflammation of the joints.

Patients with fibrositis often feel pain and stiffness in their muscles. This stiffness may be associated with a feeling of exhaustion. The exhaustion results in poor sleeping patterns, and suffers usually awakes feeling unrefreshed. This cycle produces more muscle stiffness, further exhaustion, and depression usually follows. The pain and stiffness can be made worse by exposure to the cold, changes in weather, and even loud noises.

The cause of fibrositis is not known. Recent evidence points to a sleep disturbance resulting in an exaggerated pain response of the muscles. Emotional, stress is also known to play an important role in the fibrositis syndrome.

Patients with fibrositis are usually referred to rheumatologists (specialists in disorders of the muscles and joints), for diagnosis and treatment. The diagnosis of this disorder may be difficult at times and it is necessary to make certain that no other illnesses are present. Once this has been established, the recognition and identification of 14 specific tender trigger points will usually confirm the diagnosis.

Current treatment is centered around correcting the sleep disturbance. Medications which are able to break the cycle and restore normal sleep patterns have been some of the most successful therapies tested to date.

The Winthrop Experience

What our commitment to clinical research means to our patients.

Mention clinical research to most people and it conjures up images of white-coated doctors in gleaming laboratories working on arcane experiments for the benefit of future generations.

Right idea, wrong conclusion.

The fact is, today's research results are put to work more readily than ever before. And the hospital that is immersed in such activity is most often the first to bring its patients the benefits of the newest diagnostic and treatment methods.

Winthrop-University is, of course, just such a place. As a major teaching affiliate of SUNY Stony Brook School of Medicine, we provide a primary setting for the kind of ongoing clinical research that continually widens the frontiers of contemporary medicine.

Example: Osteoporosis

Examples of this are recent grants in excess of $1 million from the National Institute of Health and a leading pharmaceutical company to study osteoporosis prevention and treatment. Since osteoporosis afflicts as many as 25% of post-menopausal women, preventing it or arresting its progress is clearly of great importance to a major segment of society.

Various treatments are presently being practiced but none have proven completely satisfactory. This new study will concentrate on calcitonin, a hormone that is produced in the thyroid gland.

The good news is that calcitonin has already proven a safe and effective form of therapy, without the side effects associated with estrogen. The bad news is that its acceptance has been limited because it can be given by injection only.

New Form Tested

One objective of this project will be to help determine if calcitonin in an intra-nasal spray - inherently more acceptable than injection - proves equally effective. If so, a major new weapon will be available — here and now — in the fight against osteoporosis.

While research, of itself, may not be the most visible hospital function, it is a clear indication of an institution's vitality. It is also a major focus at a teaching hospital such as Winthrop. Clinical studies are currently underway in each of our departments, touching virtually every aspect of patient care. As a result, Winthrop is positioned at the leading edge of many medical advances and technological breakthroughs.

It should come as no surprise that today these events take place at an astonishing rate. Hospitals that engage in research programs are the ones most receptive to introducing such benefits to their patients.

If the need ever arises for you or a member of your family to enter a hospital, there is no substitute for the confidence that comes from knowing you will receive the most up-to-the-minute medical treatment available.

That's a promise that we at Winthrop make with pride.

Legionnaires' Log

By GREG BENNETT
Charles Wagner Post #421, Hicksville

The American Legion hasn't relented in its 10-year struggle to gain a special pension for World War I veterans. House of Representatives bill H.R. 2448 is an offshoot of Legion Resolution 486, calling for a $150 monthly pension for single veterans who earn less than $12,000 annually. A similar pension would be paid to married veterans whose incomes are less than $15,000 per year.

The Atomic Veterans Compensation Act of 1988 was signed by President Reagan on May 20. This bill, HR 1811, was strongly supported by National Commander John P. "Jake" Comer. VA Administrator Turnage and other top officials argued against the bill. The Department of Defense estimates that 200,000 GI's were exposed to nuclear testing from 1945 to 1963. The law requires the VA to pay benefits to vets who were exposed to radiation during military service if they developed certain types of cancer within 30 years of exposure and suffered at least 10 percent disability as a result. One only has to view films of atomic tests, which show GI's in foxholes during explosion and walking through nuclear dust clouds to demonstrate the exposure they faced to radiation.

Have you made a donation to the American Legion Child Welfare Foundation? As of May 27, Post and private donations have totaled $735,514 to this great cause. Nad. Cdr. Comer has set the nationwide goal at one million dollars for the "Foundation with a future". Donations should be mailed to the Child Welfare Foundation, P.O. Box 538, Indianapolis, Indiana 46206-0538.

Our next post meeting is Monday, August 15, at 20 Field Avenue. Until that time, remember our POW/MIA's and pray for their safe return.

Letters From Our Readers

Letters to the editor are welcomed by the editors and publishers of the Anton Community Newspapers. However, they must follow certain guidelines in order for us to print them: they should be as short as possible; we reserve the right to edit in the interest of space; they MUST be signed (a typed name at the bottom will not suffice); they must include an address and telephone number so that we can verify their authenticity. We receive many fine letters which we would like to share with our readers, but we are unable to use them because they are unsigned or have a typewritten name only. We cannot publish every letter we receive because of space limitations, but we try to present both sides of all issues. Personal attacks and letters considered to be in poor taste will not be printed.

To The Editor:

Again, I am writing this letter as the officers and some of the trustees and some of the members feel it is necessary. This is in reference to an article on the school budget that appeared in the Bulletin Board of the Hicksville Public Schools, Volume 18.9 Summer 1988.

Some of the excerpts are as follows: "The Senior Citizens of this community no longer have their field trips", "The Senior Citizens have been denied many of their activities." "It's a shame to punish the seniors because the budget went down."

Our club meets on Wednesdays at Levittown Hall. We have bingo, cards and games. In addition yesterday, Wednesday, we had a "Take me out to the Ball Game" luncheon party. The members are paying for their lunch and donating cakes and prizes for a raffle. But this is not unusual; we always pay for our luncheons ourselves.

So far this summer many of the members had a great time on several of our trips. On July 11th we had a full day outing at Pomona, N.Y. at the Platz Brauhaus at the cost of $37 per person. On July 28 a trip to Atlantic City cost $16 per person. On August 4 we went to the Hunterdon Playhouse in New Jersey to see the marvelous 40's and 50's musical show, Hot Diggity and had a delicious ringside full course luncheon, cost per person $32.50. Also on July 23 several of our members joined the Mid Island Seniors for a bus trip to N.Y. South Street Seaport, and a boat ride with lunch and show on board, cost per person $28. Remember on each of these outings each member taking the trip paid the full cost themselves.

As for the statement, "It's about $5,000 to run the club", we have no idea what that means as we are self-supporting. All our monies in our treasury come from the members dues, raffles and chinese auctions.

As I stated in last week's letter in the Illustrated, we do have some free school buses appropriated. But this time of year we need air-conditioning as it is too hot, so therefore we hire big chartered buses and pay for them.

So all in all we are having a fun summer, and it is good to go into Levittown Hall for a fun filled day; out of this heat. Is this being punished?

This letter is in behalf only of the Hicksville/Levittown Club as we haven't any knowledge how the other Hicksville clubs derive the monies to run their club.

Edna Crews, President
 Hicksville/Levittown Senior Club

Editor's Note: The following two letters are being published in this week's issue upon request, although some of our readers will receive the newspaper after the budget vote.

To The Editor:

I would like to urge all Hicksville residents to vote yes on Wednesday, August 10 from 10 am to 10 pm at their local elementary school. The budget has been reduced by $50,000, and because of a lowering of Nassau County's assessment for the Hicksville School District, the projected tax rate increase was lowered from $1.39 to 89 cents. I would like to share with you some of a letter I received from Christopher Higgins.

"I am a seventh grade student at the Middle School, and a member of Boy Scout Troop 381 of Hicksville. I am working on a Merit Badge for Citizenship in the community and have been studying the problem of the defeated school budget. Part of the requirements for this merit badge is to write to you with any suggestions I may have about this issue. First, I don't think the parents know how important the budget is, and I suggest that teachers tell the kids to make sure their parents understand it, and get out to vote for the budget. It will be the kids who suffer if the budget is not passed. We may have to do without buses, sports, gifted and talented programs, etc. And what about the PTA, can't they help tell the parents to vote?"

I can't tell if the budget is too much. The amounts are all too big for me to understand, but if the school board tries to cut the expenses, then I think it is up to the people who vote to figure out if the programs are worth that much money. Thank you for listening to me. Respectfully, Christopher Higgins."

I believe Chris says it beautifully. Vote Yes August 10.

Patricia Rooney, Trustee
 Hicksville Board of Education

To The Editor:

In our democracy, we the voters are not offered a second opportunity to vote when we are on the losing side. However, in education, when there are no financial resources to support the education of our students, they lose and I am sure that the voters of this community do not want to jeopardize the educational welfare of our young people.

There was much discussion by the community at our last board meeting that demanded a second vote and they played up to the audience, made up largely of our senior citizens that lost funding for their summer program. Now they are asked and you are asked to come out and support our budget. I am appealing to all you parents that have students in our specialized programs that stand to lose if this budget does not pass. Remember, we cannot, under the law, provide equipment and services for our sports program and our music program, just to name a few, nor can we provide the accustomed transportation to a large population of our students. That is why it is extremely important that you provide the support in voting for the funds necessary to put in place our financial plan for all the students, so they can have a well-rounded and safe education.

Our board of education has displayed a conservatively-oriented fiscal policy over the years and has kept costs down to a minimum and much credit must go to the superintendent and her staff in providing the board of education a sound, realistic budget. Unlike many other districts, our tax increase this year was only $1.43 and may, if this budget is passed on August 10, be further reduced by setting our tax rate based on the new construction in Hicksville that will be providing us with a sound tax revenue base. I, therefore, am appealing to the cross section of this community to support the Hicksville school budget of 1988-89. Vote at your local schools, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Wednesday, August 10.

Bill Bennett
 Trustee,
 Board of Education

To The Editor:

I sincerely request that you would print this letter in the hope that it will help our situation in Hicksville.

I would like to express my appreciation to Rita Langdon for her fair and balanced article "Concerns about the Soup Kitchen Among Hicksville Merchants" (INN (Interfaith Nutrition Network)) in the August 4 issue.

The article presents both sides of a problem that is not only one to be found in Hicksville, but throughout our country. The real problem is how to provide for the growing number of men, women and children roaming our cities and towns.

My concern is that the anger and accusations being voiced are not only divisive, but also block constructive steps to solve the problem. For example, the picture of the homeless man (accompanying your article) had been in Hicksville before the soup kitchen was even established. Although he has been invited to the soup kitchen, he has never been there. He receives no welfare and refuses help. He works at the railroad station newspaper stand and roams our streets collecting cans and scrap metal. Outside of his appearance, he is a hardworking, independent and friendly human being like all of us, but he has no home.

An analysis of the situation in Hicksville brings out some significant reasons for the increase of the problem in our town. Our community is basically an upper middle class community which commutes to work or works locally in positions that pay significantly more than the minimum wage. Thus, as Mr. Don LeCompte, owner of Antun's, had pointed out on numerous occasions, to obtain workers for the low paying, unskilled jobs needed by the business and industries of our area, workers have to be imported from other areas not as affluent as Hicksville. Some of these workers are provided transportation, and some are given housing or an inducement to come to Hicksville.

The difficulty arises from the fact that there is a large turnover of workers in these low paying, unskilled positions. When they quit or are fired, they often do not return to where they came from, but instead remain in Hicksville.

The cost of housing is another casual factor. In the last five years there has been a rapid increase in the conversion of one-family homes to multiple family dwellings and rooming houses. There are houses in Hicksville in which as many as 20 individuals live. What we are facing in Hicksville is the classic pattern of the transition of towns where the large houses that once formed the core of the town and villages gradually become multiple dwellings, businesses, boarding houses, and finally are torn down and replaced with apartments. Hempstead, Mineola, and Rockville Centre are examples of this process.

In addition, there is a population of homeless people that belong to the deinstitutionalized population. Mental health patients who have been discharged from the state hospitals roam our streets because we have not provided the day hospitals and group homes to care for them.

Hicksville is also suffering because of the closing of the Jones Institute. The most dramatic increase of the troublesome homeless came with the closing of the Institute on the outskirts of Hicksville which cared for many of the men wandering around today. Although the Jones Institute left, many of the people did not.

We also have our share of what is being referred to as the "New Homeless." The New Homeless are intact families—mother, father and children—and working mothers who, because of economic hardships, find themselves on the street. They are the workers who do not earn enough on which to live.

I have attempted to show that our problem in Hicksville is similar to that being experienced throughout our country. Our problem is not caused by, nor is it solved by providing a free meal to some hungry people. It is part of the fabric of our society and as such must be addressed by the total community.

I would plead that instead of anger and blame, that all interested groups in our community would form a task force, to address our problems. Years ago, Sheila Noeth formed the Hicksville Community Council. It was her dream that this organization would be a forum for the exchange of ideas and a place where cooperation and mutual help would lead to creative and healthy solutions to our problems. The council still exists, and those noble ideas still exist. Perhaps the community council or an ad-hoc committee of the council together with the business, religious, educational, government and private interests could work together. We have the resources and talent to solve our problems. So let us with respect and intelligence make our town a place of where we can all be proud and happy.

EDITORIAL AND OPINION

The Investor's Corner By Dr. Joseph P. Frey

The White House and the Federal Reserve

The June 9th article of this column discussed the very close relationship between the presidential election and the stock market's ups and downs. The article suggests that the Federal Reserve helps the "ins" before the election by keeping interest rates down. It also suggests that the Federal Reserve helps apply the medicine after the election to correct the excesses that were neglected in the economy in the reelection drive. This leads to the speculation that the White House controls the Fed.

Dr. Joseph P. Frey

In the law, the Federal Reserve Bank and its Board of Governors are absolutely independent of the Executive Branch. The President can appoint a governor (there are seven of them), but after they have been confirmed by the Senate, the governor can not be fired by the President. In addition, a governor can not be reappointed. He or she leaves the board at the end of their term, even if it is a partial term. They serve for all or part of a 14 year term.

The Chairman, who has a 14 year seat, is appointed as Chair for a four year term which can be renewed. If the Chairman is not reappointed, the practice is for the Chair to resign the seat.

However, this is not a requirement. It is custom. The reason for the resignation is to remove the influence of the old Chair on the Board. If the Chair does not resign, then the president has to appoint a sitting board member as chair unless there is a vacancy.

The only way to get rid of a member of the Federal Reserve Board is for Congress to impeach a governor. This has never happened. What it means is that on the books the President does not have any control over the Federal Reserve. Since the Fed has almost absolute control over our basic money supply, and since the Fed is the overseer of the financial system, does this mean that the President is a toothless tiger? Does it mean that the President has no control over our monetary policy?

Not quite! The President is the single most powerful person in the world. The prestige is enormous. So is the ability to apply pressure. It is apparent from past performance that the Federal Reserve does accommodate the party in power. The present board is no exception. Why?

The first reason is the fact that the board is usually composed of members appointed by the sitting president (all of the present governors were appointed by Reagan). They are usually members of the same political party, they are of a similar political philosophy as the President. As a result they are predisposed to accommodate the President, to give him what he wants. In addition, they want to see the same party remain in power. This is an added incentive to do what the president wants.

Second, the powers of persuasion of the president are awesome, especially President Reagan. It is hard to resist him. (President Carter did not have these skills and the Board did not accommodate him).

Third, the executive branch has control over spending, and to a limited degree can thwart the direction of Fed policy. This is a very limited option. So the question is, is the Greenspan Board priming the pump to insure a Republican victory?

There is some controversy about this question. The money supply has increased faster than the economy, interest rates have risen, but only by a little bit, and the economy continues its slow growth. Yet, the Fed has not increased the money supply as fast as the executive branch would like. Treasury Secretary Baker has urged the Fed to do more. That is why there is a controversy. Would this be what the Fed should do, or are they being accommodated? Since I am not a Federal Reserve Governor, I do not know.

I am sure that the Federal Reserve will start to change its direction close to and after the election. The deficit and its impact on the economy is a great monkey on our back. It has to be dealt with by someone. Congress is no help. That leaves only the Federal Reserve. We can only hope that the pain that it has to administer will be minimal.

A Letter from Lulabelle...

...When you were a little kid and your Mother insisted that it was your bedtime, did you cry, "Oh, please, Mother, just one more chapter!..." And, if she insisted that you go to bed, did you undress, put out the light and read under the covers by flashlight?... Do you remember how important it was to get to the end of the chapter about Nan and Bert, Freddie and Flossie—the Bobbsey twins in case you're too young to remember—and there were so many Bobbsey Twin books, as well as others that came in huge sets... and since most of them were published by Doubleday and since nearly everyone had a relative who worked there and since Doubleday let employees buy books for very little, almost everyone had these sets... One was referred to by aficionados as "the ECSK Library"... It was a set of books, not novels, about so many fascinating subjects—science, geography, history, biography and so many more and we were absolutely enchanted by them... and there was another set about many exotic countries all around the world, novels this time, and each had a central character and, in telling about his life, it taught us all about the customs of that country... Strangely, the only title I can remember is Pran of Albania and I remember most about that book the subversive of the females and the feuding that could arise from small, almost imagined insults... I wonder what happened to those books—so out of date and out of step now... But that early devotion to reading continues and those of us who love to read are puzzled by those who say, "I never have time to read," because a reader will always find time... I, for example, always read while getting gas and while stirring the chocolate pudding!

Yours, Lulabelle

What the Politicians are Saying...

GOVERNOR MARIO M. CUOMO has approved a bill to authorize private developers to participate in the Low Income Housing Trust Fund Program by increasing to $55,000 the existing cap on the amount of subsidy allowed for each assisted housing unit (subject to adjustment up to an additional $20,000 for certain projects) and to permit program funds to be used for new construction, as well as for the rehabilitation of existing units. By allowing the state to provide a larger proportion of the cost of producing rental and single-family housing, the bill enables rents and purchase prices to be targeted to levels that are more affordable than is currently possible.

CHARLES O'SHEA (R-C, Baldwin) is supporting legislation that would establish guidelines to determine child support payments. Currently, no guidelines exist. This bill would require the courts to award support based on a formula combining parental income up to $100,000 multiplied by the appropriate child support percentages: 17% of the combined income for one child; 25% for two children; 30% for three children; 31% for four children; and 35% for five or more. Recent studies indicate that the level of child support has declined by 15% from 1978-83 and by an additional 12 percent from 1983 to 85. The cost of raising children is, in most cases, underestimated, said Mr. O'Shea.

SENATOR ALFONSE D'AMATO and SENIOR DANIEL PATRICK MOYNIHAN have attached an amendment to the Transportation Appropriation bill, which will save New York State $2 million in federal highway funds that the state was to lose because it was determined that 50.6% of the state's motorists had violated the 55 MPH speed limit in 1987. The bill now goes to a conference committee.

Did You Know the Telephone May Be Injurious to Your Child?

ROBERT R. McMILLAN'S Direct Line

A few weeks ago, I had the opportunity to spend some time with a husband and wife who had been residents of this country for only ten months. They were Russians from Leningrad and are Jewish. Mr. and Mrs. David Karlin are what Lynn Singer and then Long Island Committee for Soviet Jewry stand up for on a daily basis. It took over a decade for the Karlins to receive permission to leave the Soviet Union. The track record of the Kremlin towards human rights has been a disaster.

During the Summit several months ago in Moscow, the Soviet position was made clearer. While listening to CBS radio news covering President Reagan's arrival, Joe Adamoff, a Radio Moscow correspondent, said the issue of Jewish emigration was blown out of all proportion in the United States. Mikhail Gorbachev, when asked about a list given to him by President Reagan, stated there are too many lists. All of this shows that Russia has a disdain for human rights and has no intention of letting people freely emigrate to the country of their choice. There does not seem to have been much of an improvement since the Summit.

The excuse often given by the Russians in denying a request to leave the country is that "state secrets" would be compromised. The absurdity of that position is best stated by the paramedic who has been waiting to emigrate for years and has been turned down based on the "state secrets" position. Hundreds of thousands of Jews are currently waiting to leave Russia. "Glasnos" does not apply to Jews in Russia where even the teaching of Hebrew can mean a jail term as a criminal!

With total disregard for human rights, the Russians have now moved to the use of public relations to lull the American people. More and more, they are utilizing spokesmen in this country who are not only fluent in English, but have an excellent understanding of our culture and public policy. These spokesmen are feverishly following the Soviet line on human rights. They appear on talk shows, at college campuses, and are always available to our press. They say, as did Joe Adamoff, the issue is "overblown" in the United States media. As far as I am concerned, if there is only one person held against his or her will, that blow to freedom can never be exaggerated—it can never be overstated.

The newest approach by the Russians was floated during the Summit in Moscow. Let's have a bilateral commission on human rights. Do we need another commission? I do not feel we do. If the deliberations of this proposed commission become the focus, and not the people in bondage, then the commission would only be another propaganda weapon. I doubt such a commission could work, in real time, to free people from Russian tyranny. It would merely be a debating society. This one will have to be watched carefully.

The idea that someone could be held against his or her will is repugnant to American values. Whether that bondage is in South Africa, Russia or in a POW camp, Americans should not rest until all of the chains are broken.

Questions and opinions may be addressed to Mr. McMillan, Anton Community Newspapers, 132 East Second Street, Mineola, NY 11501.

Robert R. McMillan

Summertime, and the living is easy. So goes the old refrain, and for too many children who won't exert themselves, don't or won't work, and can't see themselves taking advantage of any of the youth programs offered by the county and various agencies, there are some attractions not available to us parents when we were teenagers.

Easy access to a telephone is a case in point, and while there's rarely anything harmful in calling a friend to chat — as long as the line isn't tied up when it's needed — there is something new, and to us somewhat insidious, lurking in the wonderful world of electronics. It's the ability to dial a number beginning with the prefix 550 and "reach out" to a total stranger — or many strangers, for these are party lines par excellence — and when you get into a conversation, you could be talking to just about anyone, almost anywhere in the downstate New York area.

Talk Isn't Cheap

The lack of screening is just one phase of the problem. Another sinister side effect of the problem is the bill which goes with the call. Some of these services are $2 for the first minute and so many cents per EACH additional minute. Published reports indicate that some parents have become harshly aware of their children's new proclivity for communications via a monthly telephone bill running to hundreds or thousands of dollars.

It's easy, but not entirely appropriate, to blame the telephone company. The group calling programs, as they are labeled, are provided by independent sponsors, not affiliated with the telephone company, who are responsible for what goes on in the conversations. But responsible to what extent, is the question?

If 15-year-old Mary makes a date with John, who proves to be other than he claims, who's responsible? If Mary is attacked on this date, does the degree of responsibility change? On the other side of the coin, it could be argued that her parents should have exercised more control over their minor child.

The telephone company feels its liability is limited to telling you that you are responsible for these charges, that you may have your telephone blocked to exclude calls to the 550 numbers, and that you should talk to your children about the cost of these calls, and what to say — and not say — when using these programs. Is that enough? The telephone company derives an enormous profit from the service, and we wonder if its marketing arm and its legal division are eye-to-eye or ear-to-ear here.

The telephone company suggestions are salutary as far as they go. But as long as we're talking communications, perhaps we could take the opportunity to suggest that before we "reach out and touch somebody" we do some communicating at home. Who knows? Perhaps if we establish enough communications between parents and children, the latter may not have such a great need to find it outside the home.

— A.A.M.

MARTIN BURNS Our Man IN Washington

The Illusion Of Drug Testing

One of the biggest issues on Capital Hill continues to be the drug problem. With much fanfare, the Republicans in the Senate unveiled a number of proposals to deal with the drug problem. On the other side of the aisle, Speaker Wright has said on numerous occasions that he would like to see the Congress adopt a major new anti-drug package.

One of the ideas that has been mentioned, most notably in recent days by Senator Pete Wilson (R-Cal.) is that of mandatory and random drug testing which would impose random drug testing on all those applying for a driver's license for the first time.

Clearly, there is some place for drug testing in the war on drugs. It would be reasonable to test those individuals whose job places them directly responsible for the public safety. However, random drug testing seems to me to violate the constitutional prohibition against unreasonable search and seizure.

Even if we were to institute a policy of random drug testing, is there any expectation that it would win the war on drugs? If we are ever to solve the drug problem, we must first realize that there is going to be no easy solution. One of the major national newspapers ran an article a while back on a police "sting" operation aimed at the consumers of cocaine. Those the police arrested came from every section of society and represents every race and creed. It would be comforting to think that the drug problem is confined to one corner or another of our society. The truth is that drugs know no class, race or gender boundaries. One might say that they are an equal opportunity destroyer.

This fall there will be many politicians campaigning for office touting random drug testing as the panacea to the drug problem. But there is no simple solution to this most serious of problems.

Q: In your article "The Fourth of July: Let Us Remember," you mentioned John Paul Jones and John Barry. I have heard of Jones and his famous remarks to the British captain who assumed that he was about to surrender. "I have not yet begun to fight!" However, I have never heard of Barry. So I was wondering if you could tell me exactly who John Barry was and why he was so important?

A: John Barry was born in the Irish Village of Ballysammington in county Wexford probably about the year 1745. Most of his biographers agree that he came to this country in about 1762. Barry settled in Philadelphia where he pursued a career as a merchant seaman. By the time of the outbreak of the American Revolution, Barry was one of Philadelphia's leading merchant captains.

Barry was commissioned by the Continental Congress as the captain of the brig "Lexington." In April of 1776, Barry became the first American to bring a British vessel to port as a "prize" of war.

While General George Washington was at Valley Forge trying to keep the Continental Army together, Barry waged a brilliant campaign against British shipping in the Delaware River and Bay. One can imagine that Barry's exploits had a great effect on the American soldiers suffering through the winter at Valley Forge.

In the latter years of the war, Barry commanded the frigate "Alliance." Barry and the Alliance attacked British shipping around the globe. Barry fought what was probably the last naval engagement of the war when in March of 1783 he defeated three British frigates in the Straits of Florida.

Barry died in Philadelphia in 1803 from what seems to have been an asthmatic condition. Because Barry trained so many young naval officers he is referred to as "the Father of the American Navy."

ASK OUR MAN IN WASHINGTON

McMillan: Federal Government Must Be Active Housing Partner

Robert R. McMillan, the Republican and Conservative candidate for the U.S. Senate, has called for a renewed federal financial and moral commitment to the housing needs of a new generation of young families. He urged Washington to become an active partner with the private sector and with state and local government in providing young families with the same opportunities for homeownership and affordable rents enjoyed by their parents and grandparents.

Mr. McMillan said that as U.S. Senator he would do what his opponent has failed to do — he would work toward a new federal initiative to restore the American dream of homeownership to all Americans.

Mr. McMillan, who last year formed the not-for-profit Long Island Housing Partnership, Inc., the nation's first suburban coalition for affordable housing, said that a new Federal Housing Initiative must include, among others, the following provisions:

- To qualify for federal matching funds, states must demonstrate efforts to use the funds to support private sector investments.
- Strong private sector involvement must include built-in accountability to insure that new affordable housing is high quality, safe, attractive, and durable.

- A proportion of federal funds be set aside to encourage not-for-profit, locally-based developers.
- To offset the high cost of land, the federal government should, wherever feasible, contribute its underused and surplus land for housing, as they did in the Camp Hero Housing Program at East Hampton on Long Island.

Mr. McMillan also pledged to resist efforts to remove or reduce the income tax deduction for mortgage interest on first and second homes.

Postal Service Conducts Window Hour Study

Postmaster General Anthony M. Frank announced recently that the Postal Service will restore window hours on Sept. 10. "In readjusting hours, we will not simply return to schedules which were in place prior to last February's cutbacks. Instead we will identify those times that best suit local needs and permit enhanced service. We want the hours to represent better, more convenient service for each community," the Postmaster General said.

Post Offices on Long Island are now conducting customer surveys to assess their communities' postal needs. Survey forms are available in post office lobbies. Postal customers may also contact the Postal Service Consumer Affairs Office, P.O. Box 8000, Hicksville, NY 11805-9631 to obtain survey forms or provide input on preferred hours.
