John Pitrelli, School Administrator, Dies

Mr. John Pitrelli, administrative assistant to the principal at the senior high school in Hicksville, died suddenly from heart failure August 22, at the Nassau County Medical Center in East Meadow. He was 51.

Known affectionately by students as "Mr. P." Mr. Pitrelli was one of the most respected administrators in the district. Brooklyn born, he moved to Hicksville in 1959 when he was appointed to teach social studies in what was then the junior high school (currently the middle school). He taught in this position until 1966 when he was appointed to the Senior High School in the same capacity. In September of 1977, Mr. Pitrelli was ap-he remained in this position until 1985 when he was appointed administrative assistant to the principal.

Mr. Pitrelli earned his BA degree in History through with graduate courses at New York University and Hofstra University, and followed through with graduate courses at New York University and Hofstra University where he earned his MA in 1963. Since that time, he was an adjunct history and political science reacher at Nassau Community College, where he served as treasurer of the Adjunct Faculty Association.

Mark Cardella, a 1985 Hicksville graduate and currently a trustee of the Hicksville Board of Education, said that "Mr. Pitrelli was a fair and competent administrator, as well as a wonderful human being, who will be sorely missed in our community." Mr. Petrilli is survived by his wife Roseanne, a son Al, a daughter Nancy Anne, and a grandson.

"He Was Strict, But He Cared" Students Remember John Pitrelli By Jim McCrann

A caring and dedicated person was how most students described John Pitrelli who passed away this past week. It may seem ironic that students would say such kind words about a man whose main job was to discipline students, but for those who knew Mr. Pitrelli no words could ever describe what

Mr. Filterin no works Could even describe what a great person be was. Most students and former students of Hicksville High said they were stunned after learning of Mr. Pitrell's death. Many express-ed grief and sorrow over his death. Not only did they describe him as a caring person but they also had great respect for him; he was even respected by those whom he disciplin-ed. One are during from the disc for $100.000 ed. One graduate from the class of 1986, who was well acquainted with Mr. Pitrelli, said "He was a disciplinarian but he really cared about kids. He was strict but he cared. He was a good person and kids really liked him." Though he dealt mainly with kids who broke school rules, he was there for everyone. He was describ ed as "a fair man who would always try to do the right thing," by those who were fortunate enough to never have to endure his wrath. Ron Mancuso, a senior this year, summed up everyone's feelings about Mr. Pitrelli when he said, "I know he tried to make this school the best there is."

Mr. Pitrelli will be missed by all those who have known him. He accomplished something that is very difficult for anyone in school authority; that is to earn the respect of the students. Hicksville High School has lost great man; a man that will not be soon forgotten.

Soccer Field Construction at Triangle Park Angers Southeast Residents

By Catherine Tokar

Residents in southeast Hicksville have exressed their anger at the Town of Oyster ay's "surprise" construction of a soccer field at Triangle Park.

field at Triangle Park. Rosella Maggio, president of the Hicksville Gardens Civic Association, said her organization circulated a survey to its members in June of 1983 regarding the development of land between Old Coun-try and Plainview Roads behind Redeemer Lutheran Church. The results were sent to Oyster Bay councilmen and indicated that while the majority of residents favored developing the parcel, they did not favor the playing of organized sports at the site. "More than the majority of the communi-ty opinion was to create a 'kiddie park' and a passive park with benches, trees, shrubs and walkways," Mrs. Maggio said in a writ-ten statement. "They also said 'no organized sports

In a telephone interview, Mrs. Maggio, who lives on Field Avenue, said she is bothered by the lack of communication between the town and residents. "I'm very upper about this because the town is not paying attention to the community," she said. According to the survey, a soccer field was not approved by the residents." In reference to residents' concerns about lack of notification, town spokesperson Marlene Kastleman said the town is aware Park. "The town thought it had sufficient knowledge of what the community wanted

The Ups and Downs of The Hicksville Balloon

By A. Anthony Miller

By A. Anthony Miller The Hicksville Balloon Saga moved into week 2, and probably its final week, with good news and bad news. The good news is that the 35-foot hot-air advertising balloon stolen from the roof of the Ella Marie School of Dance at 25 Herzog Place August 20 has been recovered. The bad news is that the Town of Oyster Bay will not allow it to reoc-cupy its former position. Owner Ella Marie Columbo, who opened the school in June 1952, rented the advertis-ing device August 18 from Bal Advertising in Manhattan. She said it took three hourstoin-flate the jumbo device, which was to be usflate the jumbo device, which was to be us-ed for three weeks to attract prospective students to the school, which offers tap, ballet and jazz lessons. The red and yellow balloon, which police said was valued in excess of $5,000, was recovered last week. John Keyer, an employee of the Hicksville Water District, found the giant balloon and having read of its loss, arranged to return it to Ms. Columbo.

The studio owner said that Mr. Keyer refused to accept the 1500 reward, which had been offered for the safe return of the device. Ef-forts to reach Mr. Keyer were unsuccessful; it was reported that he had left for vacation and would not be back until after Labor Day. No arrests have been made in the case.

In the interim, Ms. Columbo said she had been visited by Alexander Pankoff, chief zon-ing inspector for the Town of Oyster Bay, who is said to have explained that the balloon could not be reinflated and used, as it was "distracting" to motorists. Pankoff was not available for comment, but Commissioner Richard Blankfein told the Hicksville Illustrated News that use of the balloon was prohibited as "dangerous" by section 131 of the Town Code and a summons would be issued for any violation.

Blankfein said that no application for use of the balloon would be permitted. Ms. Col-umbo, who had planned to use the balloon for three weeks at a cost to her of $1,000, indicated that she had returned the device and would forego her plans. Both she and the balloon were deflated at this development.

on that property," she said. But resident Norma Goerke, who lives on Plainview Road opposite Triangle Park. said nobody knows anything of the soccer field in her neighborhood, adding, "We haven't even had the chance to give input along with the Hicksville Community Coun-cil," an organization comprised of civic leaders and residents, which addresses local issues

According to Sheila Noeth, a past presi-dent of the Community Council, the council formed a parks' committee on parks many years ago to allow homeowners a voice in Town of Oyster Bay and local park projects. "We've always had a committee on parks, and this time no one could tell on parks, and this time no one could tell the committee of their going through with this?" she said. "The fire department presented its plans for the new fire house to the community, and the water district showed us its plans when it bought the land near Triangle Park. Why can't the town even tell us of its plans?" Housever, Ms Katternan said that the town even tell us of its plans?" However, Ms. Kastleman said that the town is not required by law to notify residents of construction changes by the Department of Parks. "For a street closing, the town is required to have a resolution and hold a public hearing," she said. "But there is no legal requirement for develop-ment of a town park."

there is no legal requirement for develop-ment of a town park." Councilman Douglas Hynes, in a letter dated August 3 to Ms. Noeth, said. "...Ad ditonal improvements are contemplated at Triangle Park, to be included as part of the gogo capital program. After receiving input from various segments of the greater Hicksville community, it has been tentative-ly decided to proceed with the construc-tion of a mini-soccer field, including an eight-foot mesh fence of the entire perimeter of the playing field." Mr. Hynes added that plans for a jogg-ing track are still under consideration due to "a local problem with dirt bikes." Other issues

Other Issues

Other Issues Other residential concerns include the installation of bleachers, lights, bathrooms and additional parking facilities. However, Ms. Kastleman said, "No bleachers are planned at this time, but there will be players' benches." She added that there are no current plans for lights, extra parking or bathrooms installed at this time. Ms. Noeth said she is not against soccer itself. "We're fighting for not knowing what they are doing. They never called a meeting. No one said anything about soc-cer. Now, we have no idea what we're pay-ing for."

cer. Now, we have no idea what we're pay-ing for." Mis. Maggio added that many members of her civic association are against any kind of organized sports because of the noise levels, the possibility of vandalism of the area, and the dangerous traffic situation. Mis. Goerke said, 'Years ago, the Town of Oyster Bay told us there was too much of Oyster Bay told us there was too much traffic there for any kind of park. We've been trying to get a passive park in there for at least ao years." She also said she is concerned about the effect of the construction on the tax rate. "If Hicksville people are paying for it, what right does the town have just sneaking it in?" (continued on page 2)

Ms. Kastleman, however, said the field, which will cost the town a predicted 104,805, may not adversly affect the tax rate. "This is part of the park district budget and should not have an impact on future taxes," she said.

In reference to the traffic situation, Ms. Kastleman said that the town is remedy-ing the situation by placing the fence around the area. "That is why it is there," she said.

Why a Soccer Field?

Ms. Kastleman indicated that the soccer field, which was "urgently requested" by the Hicksville Americans Soccer Club for use in September, will not be a mini-field, but a regulation size soccer field. According to Bill Dalton, of the Hicksville Americans Soccer Club, a regulation field is 10 yards by 80 yards, but the size of the field is measured to fit the age of the players. For instance, younger children play on a field 90 yards by $0 yards.

The soccer club, according to Mr. Dalton, was given the use of the Grumman lields for many years, but was notified a year ago that the fields would no longer be available due to Grumman expansion plans. The Americans, which sponsors 20 teams for boys and girls age 5 to 18, is still searching for fields to use for soccer games. "We've been looking into using other fields, but there is a lack of soccer fields in Hicksville," he said. "The soccer season begins this month, and we need fields.

Residents Want Public Meeting

The residents are demanding a public The residents are domaining a public meeting with the town in order to inform them of any construction changes at Triangle Park. They alerted Councilman Tom Clark of their plight, and he will call a meeting between the residents and the town. Ms. Kastleman said the meeting may be scheduled after Labor Day iso that the councilman can get input from residents and tell them what is feasible for the remaining land.

The cost of the park so far totals $88,505 according to Ms. Kastleman. The 1,000 feet of fencing currently being installed around the perimeter of the park will cost the town 16,000 provided by in-house funds. An additional 1300 will be added for the cost of the soccer goal posts. Ms. Kastleman also indicated that the construction of the soccer field "is not the end, it's just another stage" in developing Triangle Park.

TO YOUR HEALTH BY RICHARD H. BLAU, M.D.

Children and Arthritis

Juvenile rheumatoid arthritis (JRA) is a relatively common chronic childhood illness. It is estimated to affect up to one quarter of a million children in this country alone. The disease may begin at any age in childhood, and for some reason girls are more often affected than boys. As in the adult form of rheumatoid arthritis, the cause of juvenile rheumatoid arthritis is not known. JRA was once believed to be a single disease, but is now thought to be several dif lerent diseases affecting the joints of children. Since this recognition, several subtypes of IRA have been identified. 40% of children with JRA have many joints affected by the arthritis. This particular group of children can develop significant problems with arthritis in the neck. Another 40% of children with IRA have less than four joints affected by the arthritis. This group of children can develop problems with their eyes. These children should have their eyes examin-ed by an ophthalmologist several times a year. The remaining 20% of children with JRA have symptoms not only of the joints, but also of other organs. These children can have fevers, rash, or an enlarged liver or spleen. Treatment of children with arthritis is usually rendered by a rheumatologist (arthritis specialist). The overall outlook for children with JRA is good. Over 75% of all children with arthritis will eventually enter a remission. Major goals of therapy are to reduce joint inflammation, prevent joint deformities, maintain muscle strength and preserve joint function.

Woman Pushed Through Window at Dental Center

By A. Anthony Miller

Dawn Smith, 19, was allegedly pushed through a plate glass window by John P. McCann, 23, a carpenter with whomshe lives in Bethpage. Just why all this happened couldn't be learned, but police responded to the scene, 35 Broadway, Hicksville, at 12:30 a.m. August 27, and said that McCann had shoved Dawn through a ten foot by six foot plate glass window, inflicting a puncture wound to her left leg and a seven inch laceration of her left shoulder.

Before police arrived, McCann had reportedly kicked in a second plate glass window of the same size. Both windows belong to the American Dental Center. Dawn was treated at Syosset Hospital; McCann was charged with assault, criminal mischief and resisting arrest. Bail was fixed at 41,000 bond or 4500 cash at his arraignment August 29 before Judge Ralph Franco in First District Court, Hempstead, where he was to return August 31.

That's also the day that another man with window problems is to return to court. Mathew Grice, 21, of Hicksville, is accused by Second Squad Detective John Burnett of braking a front window to enter a California Street residence at 5:45 a.m. August 27. Cheryl Summer, the daughter of the owner, heard the break and called her father, Richard. Grice was allegedly found in a bedroom of the house and held for police. He was arraigned before Judge Edward McCarty. III who fixed ball at $1,500 or $1,000 cash alternative.

Kiwanis Club Wins a Friend from Carnegie

The Hicksville Kiwanis Club recently hosted Jeff Godfrey of the Dale Carnegie Institute of Nassau as a guest speaker. The Institute is otherwise known as the "How to Win Friends and Influence People" organization.

Sieg Widder, of the Kiwanis Club, said Mr. Godfrey was so impressed with how well he was received by the Kiwanians, that he filled out an application for membership. Kiwanian Roger Sirangelo, a "gung-ho" former Kiwanis Key Clubber, and currently an elected board member working with the Hicksville Kiwanis Membership and Interclub Committees, became Mr. Godfrey's sponsor. After slightly more than the prescribed number of visits as a guest, Mr. Godfrey's application was accepted and he was inducted as a member.

They Painted 'In Memory of Marc Carranza'

John DiBlossi promised Gloria Carranza that because of her son Mark's death, "A wall will go up in his name." It was the least he could do because Marc was his best friend, he said, "He was like an older bother to me." brother to me.

Although Marc Carranza, 21, died recenthis friends want everyone to know he will not be forgotten. Shortly after his fatal car accident, John and Gem (trade name) painted a mural in his name. Their canvas was the side of Calda Pizza on Old Country Road, the same pizzeria where Marc once painted a design. The new wall still reflects Marc's own artistic style - that of city graffiti artist - "And with a lot of class," they said.

A few weeks ago, Gem, a graffiti artist from Brooklyn, and John got the approval of Calda's owner and quickly began their masterpiece. While John painted the background, Gem painted Marc's character. Collectively, they completed the huge pain-ting writing in Memory of Marc Carranza." John still feels the pain of Marc's death. "Of course I'll miss him," he said. "He's in my heart every day, though."

Marc Reached for the Stars

Some time ago, Marc's parents said they wanted the family to move to Florida; however, Marc dreaded the idea. New York was his foundation, his roots. He just need ed a little more time to establish himself as a commercial artist. "We'll give you two years," his parents said. "If you're not in a good paying job by then, you're coming with us."

Now, nearly a month after her son's death, Gloria Carranza reflects on that conversation as if it took place in another time. "We only gave him a time limit in order to push him along" she said. "He sometimes needed that." She paused: "Florida could have waited."

Marc delved into the underground world of graffit when the family lived in Bayside. He knew dozens of people throughout the industry, including Gem, a popular artist. But, like some graffiti artists, Marc got in-to trouble. "He was caught many times," Cloria said. "He challenged authority of any kind:

one of his greatest opporunities. When he was accepted to the High School of Art and Design in Manhattan, he turned it down.
"He was too wild at the time," Gloria said.
"And he's always regretted that."

ć

Marc settled down a bit when the fami-ly moved to Hicksville five years ago. "By age 20, he transformed from a wild teen into a mature young man who decided he had to perfect his talent. He dedicated all his time to it. He knew he would make it."

MARC CARRANZA

"He did art out of love. He rarely de money. 'A true artist draws for the love of art, not the love of money,' he would say."

-Gloria Carranza, Marc's mother

Gloria recalls so many nights when Marc would stay up all night when many more would stay up all night drawing. "Marcs concept was never to work a 9 to 5 lob." she said. "When he finds something, he gives it all he has for about three full days, day and night, and then he'll take five days. off. Once he was involved, he got really into it?

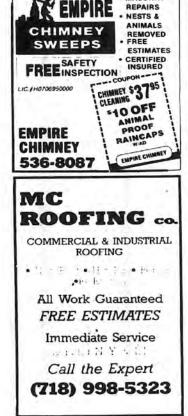

One of Marc's favorite sayings was, "A true artist draws for the love of art, not the love of money." And he believed it. Marc rarely made any money from his creations "He just loved working so much, half the time he would do it for free," said Gloria.

When Marc died last month, it was not only a shock to his family and friends, but a blow to the world of art. The art world was just beginning to see what Marc could do. He drew mostly for the music industry, designing band logos, album covers and tee shirts. More recently he was proposition ed by John Entwhistle, formerly of the Who, a rock band, to create the album cover for his new record. The unfinished drawing still stands in Marc's room.

Gloria remembers one particular night at the dinner table when Marc said, filled with excitement, "I'm going to be a millionaire. I know it."

She added, "Marc had very high expectations. Sometimes we felt he was too far above his head. Now he's gone, and we see that he really was going to make it." -CJT

To The Editor.

After several decades of decline. Hicksville is about to get a face-lift. One of the oldest towns in Ovster Bay, with a superblocation, concerned citizens, lovely houses of worship. and great facilities; it is a wonder that the drive to make its appearance worthy of its history has not gained momentum sooner, although attempts were made. However, now 15 the time, and this time it will succeed!

Efforts to improve the appearance of our town started last year with a clean-up spearheaded by the Midland Civic Associa tion and Councilman Tom Clark, aided by various fratemal groups, volunteer police and the Town of Oyster Bay Sanitation Department. The center of town, fountain area, Bethpage Road and Bay Avenue were cleaned and the appearance of the streets has been kept up very well by the residents. A new clean up is planned, and hopefully will be an annual event.

One triangle on Nevada Street and Bethpage Road was landscaped by the Town of Oyster Bay, and flowers were planted by the Midland Civic, A few days ago, the town dug up an ugly black-topped, weed-strewn triangle on Willet Avenue and Bethpage Road and prepared the soil for landscaping. This was in response to one of our requests to Supervisor Delligatti. Little spots of beau-ty are appearing, and "How Sweet It Is."

Early this summer, Ellie Draycott (Midland Civic President) and I met with Supervisor Angelo A. Delligatti and some of his aides to express our desire for improving Hicksville's appearance. The discussion centered on reing the center, moving back the billboard of fraternal organizations, repairing the foun-tain, landscaping, and creating oases of beauty around town. He was very understanding and sensitive to our needs, and spent a great deal of time listening and making notes. Already, the process of improvement has begun, and the momentum is building.

However, the big news is that much larger improvements are in the works. Through the efforts of Assemblyman Dan Frisa, who contacted Mr. Cuddy of the New York State Department of Transportation, the median on Broadway so damaged by construction will be landscaped and made attractive.

On Friday, August 26, Mary Ann Ferrado, president of the Northwest Civic, Kathy Del Rosso, president of the Duffy Park Civic and Gert Paul, Beautification Chairman of the Midland Civic met with Mr. Leonard Kunzig, Deputy Commissioner of Parks, Mr. Ken Muller and Mr. Richard Betz to discuss plans for completely re-doing the fountain and Memorial Triangle in the center of town. Unfortunately, the fountain may be beyond repair, although an effort will be made to save it. Included in the plans are new grass, rows of trees - hopefully, Bradford Pears - a Clean-up of the Yews surrounding the memorial and a flower-bed which local garden centers will co-operate to provide, ex-tra benches, and a lovely and tranquil center of town.

Now that the civits in the coalition are joining in the effort it is becoming a veritable certainty that our venerable town will start to be a shining example of what the Town of Oyster Bay can do when it has the support and cooperation of its constituents. We look forward happily to Hicksville's rebirth of glory.

Gent Paul, member of Midland Civic Association

Editor's Note: The July 28 edition of the Hicksville Illustrated News contained an advertisement for water filters. The Hicksville Water District received inquires from residents about the systems and the water district contacted the United States Environmental Protection Agency regarding the advertisement which said that it is "EPA certified." The following is a reprint of the letter the water district received from the EPA.

Dear Water District:

This is in response to your letter of August 16, 1988 regarding potentially misleading advertisement of Aquathin in the Hicksville Illustrated News', July 28, 1988, issue.

With regard to claim "EPA CERTIFIED" in the advertisement, please be advised that EPA does not certify any home treatment unit, However, under the provisions of the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act, if a manufacturer claims that a unit will inhibit or reduce the growth of microorganisms but no chemically active ingredient is used, then only the manufacturer must be registered. This registration does not imply any EPA approval of the unit nor its effectiveness for the manufacturer's stated purpose.

Although I've been a resident of Plannivew for the last 17 years, I lived on McAlester Avenue in Hicksville from April of 1953 through july of 1964. I am happy to say that I graduated from Hicksville Hightn 1957; we were the second class to graduate from what I still refer to as the "new" high school on Divi-sion Avenue where Mr. Galloway was the principal.

To me, one of the highlights of your publication is when photographs of an older Hicksville are from time to time reproduc-ed, particularly of the period with which I am most familiar - the Fifties.

This photograph was taken late on a Sun-day afternoon of August 1958. It is almost to the day, 30 years old. Why I took the picture I'll probably never know, but take it I did, and I've always held on to it. Perhaps we could share it with other Hicksville history buffs.

The photo speaks for itself. It covers most of the now missing west side of Broadway running north from Marie Street to Herzog Place. Missing from the south side of the photo are Englerts Bakery and the Sweet Shop; everything else is there.

It's interesting to note that at this point, Rogers 5810 was now Island Shoes. The stores running from Marie to Herzog were as best as I can recall:

To The Editor:

Last week, you may have read about my neighbors and my opposition to a Hostel at 499 Jerusalem Ave. in Hicksville. Our story is not unique in that these Hostels are constantly being placed in our communities. We only find this situation unique when it direct-ly affects our neighborhood.

We do not argue that there may be a need for a hostel for the mentally handicapped. We surely have members of our communi-ty with mental illness and we should help them. We argue the manner of the place ment of this home. We also ask if we lose to have a voice in who is placed in the Hostel. First, we have only forty days to act. Se-cond, the only way to stop the placement of the Hostel is to find an alternate site, thereby throwing the situation in someone else's neighborhood or prove that our communi-ty is saturated with such facilities. There is not even a definition of saturation so a bureaucrat can invade your community with as many of these facilities he or she wants to. Third, the intended location of this hostel is near an intersection which has at least one accident a month. This is not a location for such a facility.

Our elected officials in Albany, our County Officials and our Town Officials must address the problems now because our communities are hurting. We cannot allow communities to be pitted against each other to meet a serious need of our less fortunate. We must also get such facilities to meet local zoning laws. Our proposed hostel will house ten pa tients. We also need our elected officials to address the tax dollars should a hostel open. Gabriel Rodriguez

To The Editor:

I received a postcard in my mail stating: 'To our neighborhood friends-the EYE is watching you. You used water on such and such a day, etc. and that my name was being sent to the Hicksville Water District. without any name signed to the card.

First of all, anyone who is a fraid to sign their name to anything they write means—don't pay any attention to it. Second, the only rules the water district has is that we are not allowed to waste water sprinkling our lawns. We are allowed to fill our bird baths, wash our cars or boats, or clean our fish when we come home from fishing.... within reason.

Anyone who has anything to say to a neighbor should come up and ring their doorbell and tell them—not write anonymous post cards. Walter Werthessen

WHEN THE FED SPEAKS-WE BETTER LISTEN

WHEN THE FED STEARS-WE BETTER LISTEN When the August 11th INVESTOR'S CORNER article was being written, I was afraid that it would not be of great interest to the readers. The general thrust of that article was that the Fed Reserve is independent of the President. It also gave the reasons why the Federal Reserve accommodates the party in power. All good stuff, but with a tendency to be academic and potentially boring. As luck would have it (and without any fore knowledge on my part), the Federal Reserve Roard of Gover-nors did not follow the past. It raised the discount rate (one of many interest rates and not a very important one) the day before the article appeared It did not accommodate the par-before the article appeared. It did not accommodate the par-ty in power, The vote was 100 percent for the rise. The Federal Reserve certainly spoke volumes. It sent a message for us all to hear. The message? That is an easy one to interpret. They said that the inflationary pressures are building and they are acting in advance to head off inflation. The Fed has been signaling their concern for quite awhile. They raised the discount rate in September 1987, so this is the second time in Greenspan's term. At the same time, they have allowed the much more important Federal Funds rate to climb from a low of about a september to any the name interest rate (set by the large to hear.

Dr. Joseph P. Frey important Federal Funds rate to climb from a low of about 6 percent in 1988 to a little over 8 percent now. The prime interest rate (set by the large banks reacting to the Fed and market forces) is now up to 10 percent. Last year it was 8.25 percent. Very clearly the cost of money is up. It will be helpful for our understanding of these developments to review the significance and value of these various interest rates. First the discount rate. This rate is the rate that the Fed charges their member banks when the bank needs a loan for some reason. Usually, the reason is for a temporary emergency, some glitch in the bank's system, that upsets their normal bank routines. The key is temporary — two to three weeks. It is a privilege for the bank, not a right. The Fed can refuse the loan, and does so if a bank abuses this cheap source of money. It is not used much by the banks.

cneap source or money. It is not used much by the balks. The Federal Funds rate is much more important. This rate is the one used when a bank borrows from a bank. The basic reason that banks borrow from each other is to maintain their reserves' minimum with the Federal Reserve Bank. Each bank is required to have a percentage of their deposit liabilities deposited with the Fed to insure that they have enough to pay you your money. At least that is the theory. This percentage is called the required reserve. Since no bank can control how many of its customers are going to write checks or receive checks, no bank really knows if they have enough in reserve. Since the whole super nonreates on the same percentage some banks are onion to be under and checks or receive checks, no bank really knows it mey have enough in reserve. Sincerve, sincerve, sincerve, sincerve, so they borrow another bank's excess some are going to be over the required reserve. So they borrow another bank's excess to cover their deficit. It is a one day loan with all of the "paperwork" being handled by the Fed's computers. The rate is basically set by the Fed. So the direction of the rate is a fundamental indication of Fed intentions. It also affects the bank costs of money and, therefore, the individual bank's charges to their customers.

What message is the Federal Reserve sending? I think they are saying that the danger of inflation is real and the economy has a tendency to get overheated. They are saying that they will make interest rates climb to head off the POTENTIAL for inflation to in-crease. Since the bond and stock markets react poorly to interest rate increases, cash (as I have said repeatedly) is still your best friend for a while longer.

I have said repeatedly is still your oest intend for a while longer. Doctor Frey is a professor of investiments and finance at LIU/C.W. Post campus on Long Island. If you wish a copy of his "Ten Rules To Get Rich and Keep Ir, Too" send a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Anton Community Newspaper, 132 East and Street, Mineola, NY 11501, Attn: Dr. Frey.

A Letter from Lulubelle ...

... flove scrapbooks — do you?... And I have scrapbooks from years and years and years... I never throw anything away!!... And when I say scrapbooks, I mean scrapbooks — not these lovely modern photo album-types with self adhering pages... To me a scrapbook is quite large, and usually you buy them in the 5 and 10, and they have a cord with tassels (at least it has tassels when you buy it), and io, and they have a cord with tassels (at least it has tassels when you buy it), and it's possible to add many, many pages. . . and in this scrapbook, in addition to photo, of course, are many wondrous things — flattened corsages from long lorgotten dances and long forgotten boys — programs of concerts and plays and band con-certs and graduations — notes from girlfriends about what that certain boy said about me today — and even, let joy be unrestrained!!! — a note now and then from a boy!! . . . and then there are all of those dance cards — Do you remember therm. — They were usually printed on the from with the dare of the dance and them?... They were usually printed on the front with the date of the dance and maybe the theme — sometimes a cut-out of the theme — I have one shaped like a harp and the theme was — now don't say corny — "Harping on Music". and inside were the dances listed by number, and there was always a miniature pencil attached to the cord — with a tassel, too! ... and the boys wrote their names when a dance was promised — and it was terribly sad to have any empty lines!! — and the cord could slip over the girl's wrist so she could keep track of her promised dances... And there they are, in my scrapbooks, pencils and all, with lovely memories of good times in the long ago... I still make scrapbooks but now they have birth announcements of grandchildren and their school programs — and so it goes on ....

What the Politicians Are Saying By Assemblyman John C. Cochrane

Yours, Lulubelle

Answers to some of the most frequently asked questions about New York's budger shortfall? (1) What is New York's budget shortfall? What caused it? When the state Legislature, working with the governor, formulates a state budget, we rely on revenue projections, which estimate tax collections and other sources of funds. Although these projections cannot be precise, they do provide a guide for state spending Autoougn these projections cannot be precise, they up provide a glice to spend. policies and help us to determine how much money we will have to spend. This year, however, as a result of federal and state tax reforms enacted last year. It appears that the projections overestimated state tax revenues. This may cause a budget shortfall, a failure to attain a specified amount of revenues. Therefore, the state may fail to raise suffi-cent funds to meet all the appropriations laid out in the state budget, which was approved and certified in Anril.

and certified in April. Since state law requires a balanced budget, we need to take steps to eliminate the poten-tial shortfall by ensuring that expenditures do not exceed available funds.

(2) What steps have been taken to close the shortfall gap? The state has adopted a budget shortfall reduction package that creates a reserve of lunds and enacts some budget cuts, which should be sufficient to cover the deticut. The first component of the package calls for spending reductions and re-estimates of revenues, which should total too million in savings. We believe that these cuts can be enacted without cutalling assential services.

revenues, which should total hoo million in savings. We believe that these cuts can be evalued without curtailing essential services. The second shortfall reduction initiative allows the state to "borrow" 4600 million from a fund for low-income housing development and road and bridge repair. This fund, which was created last year when state revenues exceeded forecasts - the opposite of what occur-red this year - was not scheduled to be used until next year. However, the package will make the funds available on a contingency basis. That is, they will be used only if necessary. Under state law, the money is to be paid back into the fund by next year, meaning no projects will be confidered. be sacrificed

Basically, the state will be "borrowing" money for an insurance fund against the shortfall, and will pay back the money the following year.

(3) What will the shortfall package mean to me? To my community? Will my taxes go up? Taxes will not increase under the reduction package and no new taxes will be enacted. We owned to oppose any shortfall solutions which would have raised taxes or tampered with the tax cuts we passed last year. We believe that additional taxes would harm individuals and business development in the state and could have a long-term determental effect on-our economy.

our economy. The shortfall reduction package will not have a major effect on businesses or individuals across the state. Almost all budget programs will be maintained, and any cuts will not diminish the capacity of programs that provide essential services. (4) Will we face another shortfall mext year? The shortfall this year is most likely a one-time only occurrence. We believe that any discrepancies, or surprising trends, in revenue collections caused by the 1987 tax reforms have been taken care of. In addition, the covernment basendoned the Assembly proposal caling for covenue culturation.

nave been taken care of. In addition, the governor has endorsed the Assembly proposal calling for revenue estimation conferences to be held twice a year. The conferences will assemble representatives from the Legislature and the executive branch, along with leaders from the private sector, to develop an accurate revenue forecast for the state. # ROBERT R. McMILLAN'S irect Lin As a teenager, I had the opportunity to shape many of my values on a family farm in Canada just north of Toronto where my uncle Howard farmed some 180 acres. It was essentially a dairy farm with about thirty head of cattle. To support the cattle, he raised hay, com and oats. There were also some chickens and pigs. It was hard work — twelve hours a day, six days a week, with only the milking and feeding on Sunday. The big event was a visit to town every Saturday evening. But, things have changed greatly on today's family farm - except for the long hours. Most family farmers still work seventy hours and more a week with diminishing profits. In fact, the family farm and its values are fast Robert R. McMillan becoming a legend, with many families giving up. A few weeks ago I visited an upstate family dairy farm. Mike Olin, the owner, works seven hundred acres and has three hundred head of cattle. Working sevency and eighty hours a week has started to take testoll on Mike and his family. This summer's drought has also impacted dramatically. Corn growing to half its normal seasonal height and a second cutting of hav only lifteen percent of normal has put a fur-ther squeeze on Mike. The price of feed has increased by sixty percent in just the last several weeks. With a lack of rain in the Mid-vest as well as the North-east, prices are expected to go even higher. Mike Olin is no normal farmer. He is a high-tech farmer with state-of-the-art computers and scientific farming methods. He employs one assistant and his wife also works a forty hour week on the farm. It is, however, the computer farming that intrigued me. Each cow in the herd wears a necklace with a built in microchip transponder individually coded. When a cow wants to eat, it goes into any one of several stalls. The computer reads which cow is ready to cat and delivers automatically a mix of nutrients and feed to satisfy that specific cow. When the cow is finished, the computer records the portion fed out and substracts that amount from the daily ration. This is repeated throughout the day. Completing the cycle is a com-puter printout letting Mike know how each cow is doing in consum-ing the rations for the day. That information, coupled with milk pro-duction records, allows him to make sure the profitability of each cow is maximized. From my days as a dairy farmer in Canada, where feed was based on two handfuls for Sally and three for Elsie, farming has come a long way. But even with all of our scientific approaches, the farmers of our nation are still having trouble surviving. It was disheartening to see farm after farm and field after field lying fallow. Part of the problem is that we tend to make farm policy by "looking out the window." If it is raining count on a bumper crop — if not, make another policy. Farm policy should be more flexible. Policy should create stability and equity in farm income while achieving the fairest prices for the con-sumer Farmers deserve no less. A strong farm industry in this country is also in the best long-term interests of all of us as consumers. Questions and opinions may be addressed to Mr. McMillan, Anton Community Newspapers, 132 East Second Street, Mineola, NY 11501.

South African Sanctions Revisited

This past week, the House of Representatives enacted sweeping economic sanctions against South Africa. Two years ago, the Congress enacted economic sanctions against South Africa which prohibited all new private and public loans to South Africa and banned U.S. ex-ports of crude oil and related petroleum products.

The 108 of crude oil and related petrolec The 1080 law included a provision that if the South African government had not made substantial progress towards abolishing apartheid that the policy of the American government would be to impose additional sanc-tions. In October of 1087, President Reagan reported to Congress that the South African government had not met any of the criteria of the 1986 law for making progress towards the dismantling of apartheid.

The economic sanctions passed by the House amount to what is basically a total trade embargo against South Africa. If the legislation passed by the House, H.R. 1580, the Anti-Apartheid Act Amendments of 1986, is enacted into law, all U.S. investments in South Africa would be banned. American firms with investments in South Africa would required to sell off their holdings.

The arguments presented during the debate over H.R. 1580 were the same ones that had been presented two years ago. Those against sanctions point out that any further sanctions against South Africa would be very counterproductive. Although they certainly agree that the policy of apartheid is morally reprehensible, they contend that economic sanc-tions would hurt only the victims of apartheid. The anti-sanctions forces argue that American businesses have played a role in breaking down apartheid.

Supporters of sanctions contend that comprehensive multilateral sanctions are needed to bring down the policy of apartheid. The sanctions supporters believe that the South African government is so repressive that only with the most limited exceptions, the United States should have nothing to do with it in any way.

To The Editor:

In reply to an editorial by A.A.M. in the Record Pilot of July 21, 1988 I would like to state some facts and comments regarding the cabanas at Nassau Beach.

There is approximately a million dollar in-come from these cabanas that is "clear gravy" for the County Administration.

The County has not subsidized the cabana renters as is stated in the article.

An absolute minimum of repairs have been done to the cabanas. A few — very few have new outside doors — nothing has been done inside and nothing has been done cabana renters have paid for painting their cabanas and paid for numerous repairs.

Two new swimming pools were installed after 25 years. If you can believe it, the new adult pool is 3 ft, deep at the deepest point. Does this make sense for any adult — it is - it is ludicrous. Tennis and handball courts have not been maintained at all.

The $71/2 million dollar amount for a 'com prehensive improvement plan' would be prenensive improvement plan' would be much better spent building economy cabanas at the Central Terrace. These were torn down about 5 years ago in the middle of the night — what were they trying to hide? We are not looking for a palace or castle like the cabanas at Malibu Beach — those are Country owned.

County owned.

For your information and for those not familiar with the set up at Nassau Beach most of the cabanas are shared by 5 to 6 families. All the facilities at Nassau Beach are available to any Nassau resident with a leisure pass and a low daily fee. The beach is utiliz-ed by many, many people other than cabana Ifeel that the people of Nassau County are to the actual and only costs of running the facility. Where does all the money go?

In regard to the lottery system, you will find that almost everyone at Nassau Beach tind that almost everyone at Nassau Beach finds it very fair as it is presently set up. Why not appoint a 'watchdogcommittee' of people not employed by the County to be sure that everything concerning Nassau Beach is done ethically — running smoothly. I would like the author of the editorial to visit the beach and inspect the facilities — the a near leader the receiver the protect

To The Editor: OPEN SHOREHAM

I am in favor of saving the Shoreham Nuclear Energy Plant which would im-mediately provide us with safe nuclear energy at a much lower cost than any other fuel. Then we wouldn't have to pay for building five new fossil fuel oil burning plants which would increase our trade deficit, our dependence on OPEC oil and pollute our atmosphere causing additional sulphur fumes, acid rain and greenhouse effect. We also wouldn't have to be taxed $500 million for dismantling Shoreham. My friends, business associates and other concerned citizens with whom I have discuss ed nuclear energy almost all agree with me. These mature people realize that the nuclear industry in this country has never had one death or injury to the public, to any animal or to the environment. In fact, the Three Mile Island containment structure proved the safety of the U.S. nuclear plant design. Since then, all of our nuclear plants have been made doubly safe. The Shoreham nuclear plant is the safest plant ever built.

The panic and hysteria of anti-nuclear activists has scared the uninformed and cowered most of our politicians to do their bidding. Just ask any of them what is safer than nuclear power and they can't give you an answer. Our 100 nuclear plants over a 33 year period of operation have a 100 percent safety record (the "what if' scenario doesn't count). You can't say that for coal, oil, gas or hydroelectric dams.

Here is what mature and responsible people must do: write to your politicians, newspapers, radio and TV stations. Tell them you want your elected representatives to represent you and not these doomsday extremists that are determined to spread pollu-tion, escalate taxes, utility costs, trade deficits and dependence on OPEC oil. A ground swell to save Shoreham must be started now! Long Island needs your help. Please write today. Alan L. Hausman Port Washington

Facing a possible 1900 million budget

The Crack in the Liberty Bell By Martin Burns

Over two hundred years ago, one of the rallying cries of the American Revolution was 'taxation without representation is tryanny.' Well, believe it or not there are 700,000 Americans who are still denied their full representation in the Congress of the United States.

I am talking, of course, about the residents of the District of Columbia (D.C.). At present, the District of Columbia is represented in the House of Representatives by the Honorable Walter Fauntroy who is a non-voting delegate. Although Fauntroy can vote in committee meetings and speak on the floor of the House, he cannot vote. In the Senate, the residents of the District of Columbia have no voice whatsoever.

There are 17 nations in the world which have a constitution and a federal system similar to the one we have in the United States. Of all these nations, the United States is the only one which denies full voting rights to the residents of its capital city.

The arguments for statehood for the District of Columbia are indeed impressive. The District of Columbia's population is larger than that of four states; its total federal tax burden is greater than eight states; during the Vietnam War the District of Columbia lost

It has been said time after time by the op-ponents of statehood that if the District of Columbia becomes a state, that the nation would lose Washington, D.C. as its captial. An examination of the facts shows that this belief is mistaken. The current legislation pending in Congress, H.R. 51, would only divide the District of Columbia into two areas: a federal enclave known as Washington, D.C. and the state of New Columbia.

A recent national public opinion survey in-dicated that 78.2 percent of all Americans (eel that the residents of the District of Columbia should be accorded the same rights as all other citizens.

The phrase, "taxation without represen-tation is tryanny" was true when we suffered under the oppression of King George III. It is equally true when applied to the citizens of the District of Columbia today. It is past time we fixed the crack in the Liberty Bell.

deficit, the New York State Legislature is considering an exorbitant 32 cents per ounce ex-cise tax on smokeless tobacco.

While balancing the budget is an ad-mirable goal, the legislature's proposed method is wrong.

Why? Because excise taxes are regressive and punitive. They discriminate against the working poor, the unemployed and the politically powerless.

Unlike income taxes, which are graduated. excise taxes levy the same charge on every person, regardless of wealth; thus, they penalize those least able to pay. In my opinion, a smokeless tobacco excise tax is wrong on at least three counts: it would be unfair to the working class; it would raise little, if any, revenue; and it would easily en-courage illeal trafficking and organized crime.

To The Editor:

Your recent editorial about Nassau Beach cabanas was quite apropos. As a resident of this county for 25 years, 1 tried to get a cabana when my family was young. After my name was on the list for over 15 years, my name came up.

Unfortunately, I was in 'the hospital' in traction when I was notified. When I called to explain where I was, I was told, "Sorry, you have one week to come down and claim the cabana.

That was the last offer I had. It is very nice to have a cabana club, but I agree that $7.5 million of our tax money to support 498 people is out of line.

Pack 172 Strikes up the Fun at Woodbury

John Kulaya, from Woodbury Lanes on South Oyster Bay Road in Hicksville, threw a party for the Cub Scouts from East Street Pack 172 recently. Everyone said they had a great time.

The Cubs went to school that day with the excitement of bowling on their minds. After school, they all met at Woodbury Lanes. Mr. Kulaya waited for them with a smile on his face and greeted each boy at the door. Everyone was then given a pair of shoes to bowl in, and off they went. All that was heard was the smashing of the pins.

Love in Bloom at The Post Office

The Postal Service has two new Love stamps available at local post offices. Last month the 25 cent Love stamp showing a pink rose against a leafy, dark green background was placed on sale. Early this month, a 45 cent Love stamp designed to meet two ounce First-Class postage rates for wedding invitations and large greetings cards was issued. The stamp is a vibrant arrangement of red and yellow roses amidst a bed of deep green foliage.

In addition to the Love stamps the Postal Service has a philatelic Love Folder available. The folder, priced at $4.50, contains a block of four of both the 25-cent and 45-cent Love stamps. The 1988 Love folder is a charming keepsake for both the stamps. The 6-by-9 inch folder is inspired by poet Elizabeth Barret Browning's immortal verse, "How do I love thee' Let me count the ways..." Touching pic-tures and text show the many facets of love. The folder is the first philatelic item devoted exclusively to the Love issues, among the most popular and well-known of all United States postage stamps. The Love folder will be available at Postal Service Philatelic Centers at the Hicksville Post Office, Smithtown Post Office and Rockville Centre Post Office and after September 3 at Port Jefferson Post Office.

Customers wishing to purchase the 1988 Love folder by mail order may send a check or money order for 14,50 per folder, plus 50-cents for handling per totel order. The minimum order (which may include other philatelic items) is to philatelic items) is $10.

The 1988 Love folder item number is 0803.

Food Stamp/AFDC/ADC Households: Households which currently include children who receive Food Stamps or benefits under "Aid to Families with Dependent Children" or "Aid to Dependent Children" for your child, you only have to list the child's name and food stamp or AFDC or ADC case number, print their name and address and sim the application. Senarate applications sign the application. Separate applications must be filed for those children within that household who do not receive food stamp, AFDC or ADC benefits. Eligibility determina-tion for these children must be based upon the same criteria as for "All Other Households", as outlined below. Other Households: With incomes at or below the amount of money listed above for below the amount of money listed above for their family size may be eligible for and are urged to apply for free milk or lunch. They may do so by filling in the application forms sent home in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. Applications may be submit-red any time during the school year to your ted any time during the school year to your building principal. If a family member becomes unemployed, if the family size decreases, or if your family income increases by more than to per month, or 3600 per year, the family must contact the school to file a new application. The form requests information needed to determine economic need based on the income and number of persons in the family. The information provided on the application will be confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility.

The school district does, however, have the right to verify at any time during the school year the information on the application. If a parent does not give the school this infor-mation, the child/children will no longer be able to receive free milk and lunch.

In certain cases, foster children are also eligible for these benefits. A family may wish to apply for meals (milk) for them and should contact the school.

Under the provisions of the policy, the designated official will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the designated official, he/she may make a request either orally or in writing for a hearing to appeal the decision. Robert Greenberg, director of special education pupil personnel services, whose address is Administration Building, Division Avenue, Hicksville, New York 11801 has been designated as the hearing official. Hearing procedures are outlined in the policy. However, prior to initiating the hearing procedure, the parent or School Food Authority may request a conference to provide an opportunity for the parent and official to discuss the situation, present information, and obtain an explanation of the data sub-mitted in the application or the decisions rendered. The request for a conference shall not in any way prejudice or diminish the right to a fair hearing.

All questions on the application must be answered completely for the application to

Students Awarded at Yearbook Conference

A group of students representing the Hicksville Middle School and the Hicksville High School yearbook staffs attended a year-book publishing seminar from August 14 through August 17. The seminar conducted by the Walsworth Publishing Company, was held at Princeton University, Princeton, New Jersey. The staffs, accompanied by their ad-visors: Suzanne Susskind (Middle School) and Joan Gelberg (High School), attended workshops and sessions on all aspects of year-book development, production and marketing. The seminar attracted almost 80 participants from the east coast as far north as Buffalo and as far south as West Virginia. Staff members received individual certificates of achievement. The high school won the award for the Best Advanced Layout Design, the Gold Medal for the Best Theme and the Gold Medal for Best Overall Presen-tation, Planning and Theme Development. The middle school staff won the Bronze Medal for the Best Cover and Endpage Design as well as a workshop merit award

Attending the conference were-from the middle school: Kathy Hora, Maura Johnston. Elizabeth Mueller, Linda Thomas; from the high school: Giokazta Molina, editor-in-chief. Vicki Cullen, Rosanne Diana, Glenn Garbus, Mike Giacco and Vivian Ibrahim.

THE VOYAGE OF THE H.M.S. CHALLENGER (1872-1876): from Portsmouth to Madeira; to St, Thomas and Bahia; to Capetown and Prince Edwards Island; from Melbourne to Sydney, to Tonga;from Figi and New Hebrides to Hong Kong;from the Admiralty Islands to Yokohama; from Honolulu to Valparaiso, from the Falkland Islands to Montevideo...between and beyond, the expedition coursed the oceans and lands of the world, collecting data that would serve man's scientific research for generations to come.

Spring '89 At Queens College...The Challenge of a Lifetime

by KENI WOODRUFF

The sky above...the earth below...t and in between, the Challenger 2, an environmental exploration of wold-wide wide scope and significance! The expedition, scheduled to get underway in the Summer of 1989, offers college students an opportunity to earn 15 undergraduate or graduate credits during the 1880 Spring Semester at Queens College, and undertake an adventure that will challenge their imaginations and lead them to the farthest corners of the earth and as they explore the secrets of the oceans' floors, following a route charted more than 100 years ago by the HMS Challenger!

Under the aegis of the Science Museum of Long Island, in Manhasset, and Queens College (CUINY), and with the support, to date, of such prestigious institutions as the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, The Explorers Club, the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy and the British National Museum, the Challenger 2 Expedition will chart the environmental changes in the air and on the uppermost sediment layers of the earth's floor on its 221/2 year, round-the-world research voyage.

John Loret, PhD., noted marine biologist, Director of the Science Museum of L1. and Professor of Outdoor and Evironmental Studies at Queens College, will supervise the mounting of the Challenger 2 expedition, his scientific expertise enhanced by a roster of the world's leading marine and environmental scientists. The vessel, the Anne Katrine, a 120 year old, Norwegian built, galf rigged topsail schooner will be captained by Norman Baker, who sailed, as navigator, radiornan, and second in command, with Thor Heyerdahl aboard the reed boat expeditions Ra, Ra II and Tigris.

Not since 1872, when the ship Challenger, hoisted the White Ensign and embarked on the first 'modern' oceanographic expedition, has an undertaking of this nature been mounted.

CHALLENGER, at sea, somewhere in the Antarctic Ocean. Of the original 243 member crew, 144 remained at the end of the voyage. Only seven died, 26 were invalided or left ashore at various ports, five had joined Captain George Nares in an Arctic exploration; 61 seamen deserter'd the voyage in search of riches in Australias newly opened gold fields, or the diamond mines in South Africa.

A 15-Credit Semester Course to the Farthest Corners of the World Aboard the Anne Katrine on the Challenger 2 Oceanographic Expedition

The original voyage of the HMS Challenger, under the direction of Professor Wyville Thomson, was mounted by the British Royal Society and the University of Edinburgh, and led by a team of scientists headed by Sir John Murray. Departing from the safe harbor of Portsmouth, England, the three masted, square-rigged, 200 foot long, steam assisted, square-rigged, 200 foot long, steam assisted, supported around the world eight times, covering some 68,000 nautical miles in a thousand days at sea.

The expedition traversed and explored the world's oceans visiting Asia, South America, Africa, New Zealand, Australia and the islands of the Pacific, studying the marine and shore environment, the peoples and customs, charting the depths, movement and content of the seas, studying 'marine life, climactic phenomena and mineral deposits.

The findings of that voyage, painstakingly documented by the leading naturalists, seamen and scientists of the time...including Henry Moseley and John Murray. Lord George Campbell, Herbeft Swine and Richard Channer... provided the world with a detailed pictorial and narrative record of sea and shore that would open the doors to a brand new science, oceanography, providing an astonishing glimpse of cultures rarely encountered by Western man, the savage, cannibalistic tribes of New Guinga, the now extinct peoples of Tierna del Fuego, the ancient and sophisticated cultures of Japan and China.

Their detailed drawings of exotic marine specimens, of flora and fauna, and the extensive photographic records, thorough oceanograhic samplings and chartings, opened the doors to research and scientific speculation that would change the very nature of man's universe. This maternal, preserved and displayed at the British Museum of Natural History, provides suderns and researchers with precise reference data to this day.

The Anne Katrine will follow the 132 station oceanographic course charted on the original 3 1/2 year voyage, captained by Baker and manned by two professional mates, a cook, a writer, a photographer, a supervising scientist and a 15-member crew of university teachers, undergraduate and graduate students, in rotating >3 month vogage segments, over a >1/2 year period. The Anne Katrine, built in 1808, and sister

The Anne Karine, built in 1808, and sister ship to Roald Amundsen's 'Gjoa' (the first vessel to navigate the Northwest Passage over North America), has been completely rebuilt and refitted by Mr. Baker. It combines the romanctic trappings of a traditional sailing vessel with state-of-the-art technological equipment designed to capture, study and evaluate air, water, sediment and marine life samples taken during the 24-28 month Challenger 2 voyage.

The 15-credit, spring '89 semester program at Queens College will be broken down into five, 3-credit segments, over three phases, preceding and continuing through the actual expedition, which is scheduled to depart in the summer of 1989. Students will be stringently selected to underake the ocean voyage, and those not able to join the seagoing portion of the program will complete the Geology and Oceanography, a fourth campus based segment, will include Geomorphology and Structure of Oceans and Ocean Basins, the properties and movement of the sea, the formation of land masses, shorelines, bays and estuaries.

The final segment of Phase I will cover Seamanship. Students will study nautical terminology and nomenclature, rules of the 'road,' marlin spike seamanship, piloting, meteorology and first aid...all in a classroom atmosphere. The seamanship segment will continue in Phase II, on the water, where students will learn the practical aspects of their classroom studies, sailing shells, practicing marlin spike seamanship, navigating, operating, handling and maintaining ship's gear and familiarizing themselves with vessel maintenance and safety afloat.

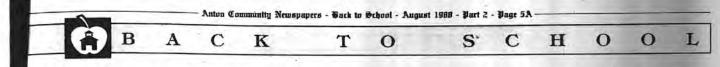

Approximately 240 students are expected to participate in the actual seagoing expedition. As part of their course completion, those who sail aboard the Anne Kristine will be required to keep a detailed log during every phase of their segment aboard the schooner and will be an active, working part of this unforgettable voyage.

Challenger 2, with the cooperation of the Royal Geographic Society, offers the scientific community a unique opportunity to contrast the findings of those early Challenger expeditions with the data and samples obtained with this, modern, expedition. Synoptic hydrographic transects, taken by and analyzed en route, with the most sophisticated equipment available to the research community. A newly developed, hydraulically lowered gravity corer and DuPont's lightweight, spaceage cable will allow sampling of the soupy, uppermost interface layer of the sea floor from as deep as four miles.

Anne Kristine's relatively small size will allow it to approach isolated islands and undersea mounts to study current scour and the upwelling nutrients observed around these natural undersea obstructions. The vessel will

Students entering grade nine in 1988 and 1980 must complete a unit of study (equivalent of 180 minutes per week for a school year) in a foreign language sometime between kindergarten and the end of grade nine. That requirement will be upped to two units for students who enter grade nine in 1990 and thereafter.

This year, in addition to the traditional subjects of English, Social Studies, Mathematics, Science, Health, Art, Music and Physical Education, seventh and eighth grade students must take one unit of technological education and three-quarters of a unit of home and career skills. These will replace standard industrial arts and homemaking courses and are geared to life in the last years of this century and into the 21st. In addition, students must have studied library and information gathering skills for the equivalent of one period weekly in seventh and eighth grades. Mathematics, one unit of Art and/or Music, one-half unit of Health Education, and the equivalent of two units of Physical Education. Students seeking a Regents diploma will have the added requirement of three units in a students have been required to take State tests in mathematics, reading and writing, with remediation provided to those failing to meet a specific cut-off score. In addition, as of the past school year, sixth graders took a State test in social studies to evaluate how, well their schools taught that subject. Begin ning in May 1989, they will also take a State program evaluation test in science.

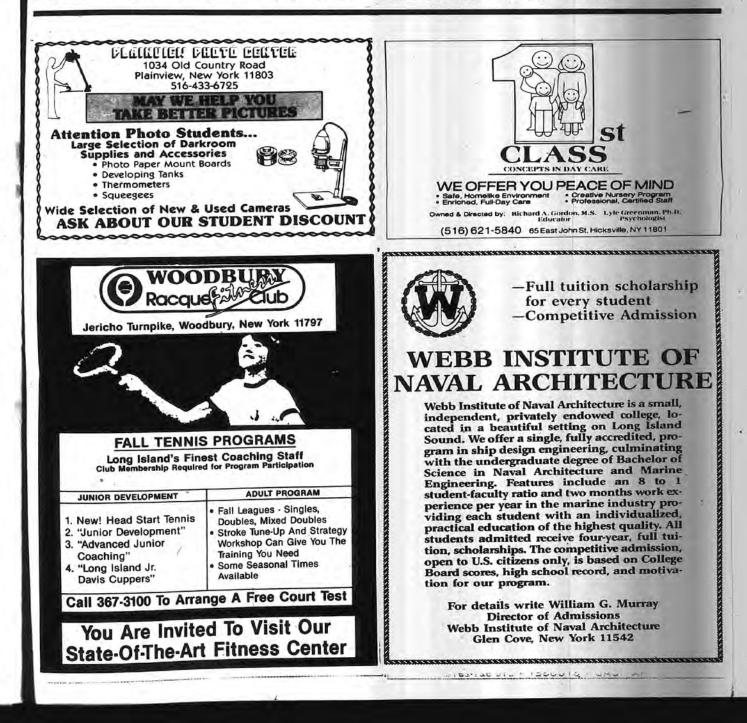

At the high school level, beginning with the graduates of 1990, students will have to pass a Regents competency test in American history and government. As of the graduating class of 1991, students will have to pass a Regents competency test in science. Graduates of 1992 will also have to pass a Regents competency test in global studies. These tests are in addition to Regents competency tests in reading, writing and mathematics.

By State mandate, new courses and exams are in store for students at all grade levels.

New Requirements in '89

High school graduates of 1989 will have to complete four units of Social Studies instead of three, in addition to four units of English, two units of Science, two units of foreign language. These requirements are in addition to the requirement that students have one or more concentrations in particular subject areas.

My Hicksville. ... My Hometown

By Tricia Cella DeBono

By Tricia Cella DeBono Hometowns are special. A place where you spent your childhood. A place where you grew up. Unless your family was mobile, you have a hometown. It probably is as Mayberry is to Andy Taylor, or Lake Wobegon Is to Garrison Kellor, or as Hicksville is to me. Bom in 1953, I began my life in a Levitt ranch home in Hicksville. I grew and became aware of people and places that surrounded me. My neighborhood of friendly folks made me feel secure and protected. Whether I was riding my bicycle on the sidewalk past their houses or taking a walk down the block to the West Green Drug Store, I felt safe. As a kid, in Hicksville, visitors to the neighborhood earned status. Our mailman, Tony, was a family friend and was kind to all the children. There were those we especially looked forward to section. For instance, the human man, who hymught cheoglate covered cakes.

forward to seeing. For instance, the bread man, who brought chocolate covered cakes, the anack man who brought a huge canister of potato chips and in the summer, the ice-cream man. He was extra special. My sister and I would wait on the curb, our arms stuck our rigidly straight. A great feeling of power and pride came over us as the Good Humor truck stopped in its trackst Bill, the kce cream man, dressed in white with matching cap, opened the hatch. We would watch the frosty steam rise, anxiously awaiting our heart's delight. Just as we would pay, half the neighborhood kids would run over to the truck. They would either buy their own pops or drool at the kids whose parents were generous that day.

Yes, summers in Hicksville were good, green, leafy and hot! The town pool was wet and wonderful. The pool became a favorite spot for all the kids in my neighborhood. At the end of every summer we would make sure we had a last swim. The gates would close until the next summer. The pool would drain and the boards would be taken down, as we'd get ready for the school year to begin.

Mid-Island Plaza

Before the leaves started turning orangey-red my mom would bring my sister and I shopping for school clothes at the modern outside mall, better known as the Mid-Island Plaza. A cluster of stores you could spot from down Newbridge Road by the giant multicolored star atop it.

For a kid, the best thing about Mid-Island Plaza was Gertz' Snack Bar. It served the For a kid, the best thing about Mid-Island Plaza was Gertz' Snack Bar, It served the most delicious creamy concoction ever to be rasted! Walking around the stores, being dragged by your mom, your legs aching, was all worth it as long as you knew before you left she would buy you a Gertz malt! My sister, Jean, being a very resourceful girl, had my grandfather treat us to a malt one shopping day. As Mom shopped we stood at the counter, Grandpa letting us have as many malts as we wanted. I envied my sister! She wasable to polish off four, while I became full after only one and a half! Afterward Grandpa warned, "Don't tell your mother how many you ate?" We didn't. In years, they transformed Mid-Island Plaza into an indoor mall, took down the star and removed our beloved snack bar. But as a teen in Hicksville, the crowded mall was the place to be on a Sturday afternoon. Every weekend my friends and I would coars

the place to be on a Saturday afternoon. Every weekend my friends and I would coax one of our parents to give us a ride up to the Plaza. Calling it the Plaza made it sound classy or cool, I suppose. During the Christmas season the Plaza was packed!

Christmas Vacation

Christmas Vacation Christmas vacation the raza was packed: Christmas vacation might have been spent at the Hicksville Public Library. I felt smarter just walking through the glass doors! But when it came to writing the deadly term paper the feeling often faded. When I needed a break from the dizzying heights of higher knowledge upstains, i'd escape to the security of the children's library downstairs. There I could visit old friends on familiar pages. Those were the books I often checked out of the Bookmobile. It stopped in from of Fork Lane School every Thursday aftermoon. In the bus with walls of books, the man with the pipe and glasses would help you find the book you wanted. He also had the job of keeping kids from running, shoving and falling down the bus stairs! Still the Hicksville Bookmobile kept coming and Dr. Suess became my buddy! Hicksville isn't an unknown town on Long Island, but while living there I never thought of it as an especially popular place. When I tell people I'm originally from Hicksville they often mention the fact that Billy Joel was also raised there. They ask if I had known him. I was too young to have met him. Though my next door neighbor, Lord Faur, did meet him once a few years ago. It wasn't at a rock concert, or at a posh restaurant. He was right in Hicksville hanging out at the Holy Trinity High School Octoberfest. She told me the news the day after, noting that as soon as he was spotted by others, he and his friend hopped on their motorcycles and took off. Though he knew that being in a crowd might be dangerous, he was there. Even after becoming famous and roaming far and wide, he came back to Hicksville! Twe not roamed off of Long Island, but I no longer live in Hicksville. As with all things, Hicksville has changed. Neighbors have moved away. After living there for more than and wide, he came back to Hicksville! Twe not roamed off of Long Island, but I no longer live in Hicksville. As with all things, Hicksville has changed. Neighbors have moved away. After living there days hanging out at the village green." The future will bring many changes, big and small, to Hicksville. One thing that will never change, I'm certain, is my affection for the place I was born and raised. Hicksville

IAS Begins New Season

248-1462

The Independent Art Society will begin the new fall season with two films from the National Gallery of Art in Washington. The films featuring two 19th century American artists are titled John Audubon. The Birds of America and Winslow Homer: The Nature of the Artist and can be seen at the Hicksville Public Library.

This is an opportunity for anyone who does art work of any kind or simply appreciates be-ing with others who enjoy the same. On the

Every week I meet someone who has questions about a particular exercise program. What concerns me is when I meet educators or coaches and they use exercises as part of their routines that are known to have inherent risks for the musculoskeletal system. While all of life, particularly sports medicine is somewhat cyclical there are some exercises that we know now to have more risk than benefits.

The first is straight leg sit-ups. We know through studies that there is a large increase in disc pressure during straight leg sit-ups. This is also true when the feet are fixed to the floor. Not only is this hazardous, but the effectiveness of the exercise for the abdominals is in the first 30° of motion. Any more the range of motion and the hip flexors are doing the work.

Next the dual leg lift. Again, this raises the disc pressure to dangerously high levels. The fulcrum with the legs as the lever focuses the pressure directly in the back. A safe alter-native for the lower abdominals is to be on your back, cross legs in air and try to push toes to sky, keeping the back flat. Another archaic exercise still circulating is toe touches. In the forward bent position at least one half of your body weight is hanging from the ligaments and discs in your back The usual intent of this exercise is to stretch your hamstrings. It is much safer, and effec-tive to do this by lying on your back, one leg straighten leg as far as possible.

Another favorite exercise that has a lot of inherent risk is the traditional "hurdler's stretch." This exercise puts a lot of force on the inside knee, the ligaments and cartilage. An alternative to this exercise would be standing, grasping ankle and extend hip and leg to the back.

Lastly, a coach's permanent is duck squats. We know the squat position puts an inor-dinate amount of force on the knee joint and this position, for prolonged periods should be avoided, much less "walking" in this position.

How do you size up what seems to be a reasonable exercise? Ask yourself what are you risking to do this exercise and do the benefits out-weight the risks? One other factor to consider is the level of fitness of the person performing the exercise. Many have done the above exercises with little or no negative consequences. However, in a less fit or less coordinated individual not only are these dangerous, but other are as well. If you are responsible for others exercise programs always gear your participation such that the least fit are as safe as the most fit in your class. It is your job to keep current with the literature. Don't hesitate to question "the ex-pert." "Experts" are generally people with opinions — so ask hard questions of them.
