Sport Clubs Go To Bat For Charity

By Rita Langdon

Hicksville's sports groups banded together on Sunday to make children's wishes come true.

Area sports clubs including the Hicksville Baseball Association, St. Ignatius Catholic Youth Organization and Hicksville Police Athletic League hosted a charity tournament to benefit Make-A-Wish Foundation, an organization that grants wishes to terminally ill children.

At press time it was reported that the 90 children who participated helped raise more than $3,000 for Make-A-Wish.

"Much is said about the negative that kids do. Here are positive things that 90 Hicksville kids are doing," said tournament coordinator Al Ciaccio.

This tournament, now in its fourth year, not only raised funds for the foundation, but was the first year that the teams saluted local heroes.

Paul Jurgensen, a 1988 Hicksville High School graduate, won a community hero award. Jurgensen is enlisted in the United States Army and is a member of the 82nd Airborne Division. In December 1989, he took part in the successful invasion of Panama. Because he is currently stationed in Saudi Arabia, his parents, Richard and Joyce accepted the award on his behalf. Joyce said, "I wish Paul was here to receive this. We are very proud of him!"

Police officer Steven McDonald and his wife, Patti Ann, and son, Conor, also received the Hicksville Hero Award. "This family is admired by the community of Hicksville for their strength and courage," Ciaccio said. Officer McDonald was paralyzed from the neck down in 1986 when he was shot three times in Central Park by one of three young men he had stopped for questioning.

Ciaccio said, "The courage and spirit that is demonstrated by our heroes matches that of the youngsters of the Make-A-Wish Foundation."

Due to the rain cancellation Saturday, the Sound of Long Island Drum and Bugle Corp could not take part in Sunday's activities which were held at Abe Levitt Field on Stewart Avenue.

Tournament organizers, wanting to provide entertainment, called Heart to Heart DJs in Hicksville which performed free of charge. After the ceremonies and while the teams were warming up they were a big hit with children and adults who danced to the music.

"Heart to Heart really hit a homerun for the tournament," Ciaccio said.

The idea behind the tournament was sparked four years ago when a group of 12-year-old Hicksville Baseball Association boys had lost the Williamsport Tournament, which is a Little League World Series. Al Ciaccio, an HBA manager at the time, told the boys that they should be grateful they were able to play at all. He said to them: "If God has blessed you with the ability to play, you have to give this back to other kids who can't play."

Ciaccio has approached police officer Bill Toelstedt, who is in charge of Hicksville PAL and the two teams faced off in a tournament to benefit the Association for the Help of Retarded Children. After the success of the first game, St. Ignatius CYO joined the following year. Today, the tournament has grown with donations coming in larger amounts. The Hicksville Baseball Association has donated all profits from its concession stand to the charities.

Winning is not the bottom line in this tournament, said Ciaccio, "but charity and participation is what the day is all about!"

Patti, Conor and police officer Steven McDonald received the first Hicksville Hero Award. The McDonalds were chosen as recipients because they "demonstrated the true meaning of a family." Far right, Al Ciaccio, tournament coordinator. (Illustrated Photos)

'Night Train' Debuts at LIRR Station

By Rita Langdon

When people mention railroad art they often envision spray-painted scribble. However, at the Hicksville train station, commuters are treated to something suitable to be displayed in an art gallery.

A Patchogue man's original work of art, on exhibit in the waiting room, was unveiled last week as part of an ongoing railroad improvement program.

The painting, entitled "Night Train," is an abstract work dominated by hues of dark indigo blue, purple, and white, to recreate the sights of someone looking out the window riding in a train at night.

"As one looks out a train window at night, lights of different colors come streaking by," said Night Train's artist Ronan Mulvey. "Repetitive images will appear closer together or further apart depending upon the speed of the train." Referring to the layout of his work on the western wall of the waiting room, he said, "Even the shape of the painting is intended to capture the feeling of speed and motion!"

Mulvey said it took about four months to complete the work.

"I put in about 40 hour a week at my studio in Patchogue," he said.

Done in acrylics using both brush and spray gun, the painting consists of three rectangular panels measuring approximately 15 inches by 10 feet, 18 inches by 10 feet and 27 inches by 10 feet.

Local sponsorship was provided by the Wet Paint Studio Group, Inc. of Sayville, a non-profit art organization.

Wet Paint's president Marlene Bezich said that her group sponsored the painting because it gives artists "a chance to promote themselves in the community."

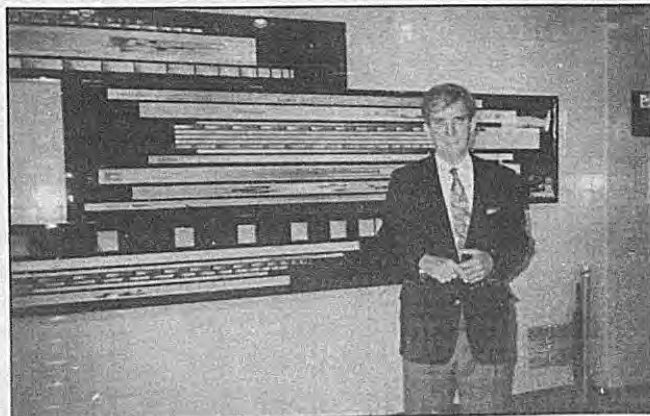

Funding to create the work was provided by the Metropolitan Transportation Authority (MTA) as part of its Creative Stations Program. The MTA's Arts for Transit Program brings visual and performing arts to subway and commuter rail facilities in the metropolitan region for the enjoyment of transit riders.

Mulvey's "Night Train" was chosen from a number of other paintings submitted by other artists.

"It was an exciting project," said Mulvey. "The MTA reaches out to artists to help them compete and I'm grateful for that."

"We're very pleased to open this exhibit at Hicksville," said John Bennett, vice president of marketing and planning for the LIRR. "It gives a lot of people the chance to see we're reaching out to customers from the start of the trip to the end of the trip."

It's Back To School, Hicksville Style

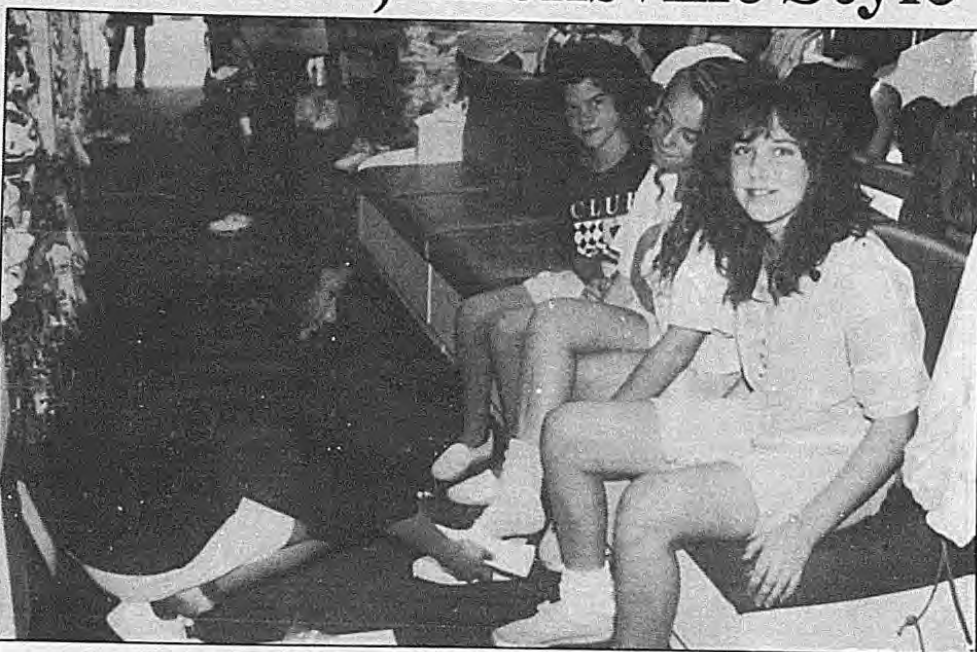

By Rita Langdon

Hicksville students are saying "good-bye" to neon colors and "hello" to earthy tones as they get ready to begin school next week in style.

While the prices remain high for back-to-school clothes, Hicksville kids and parents continue to purchase the latest fashions.

This fall, shoppers will most likely see the last of the neon on summer sale racks as they make room for the more "earthy tones," according to Joann G. Kellner, an assistant manager at the GAP in the Broadway Mall.

The GAP's color palate this fall includes a variety of new color names. Representing the earth tones are Redwood, Brass, Tarnish and Natural. Various shades of blue include Prussian, Regal and Emperor. Also dominating the market are Cardinal and Fire, the new names for shades of red. Green is a "cool" color this year with shades including Sherwood, Bowling Green, Greenwood and Evergreen.

"Everything matches here," said Gellner who added that all socks, accessories and belts are compatible with all the GAP's clothing. The store's book bags and braided belts are also being snatched up by students.

Fall shoppers won't be finding too many acid-washed jeans to purchase this year. It's back to the basics with the traditional plain blue jean and stone-washed. Z.Cavaricci jeans with the familiar white label on the front remain in style although some fashion advisors say they are slowly on their way out. But for now, the $65 to $75 price tag isn't chasing too many of the students away.

The casual and worn look of B.U.M.

Equipment is a hit among those looking for style and comfort. Oversized Champion sweatshirts, in 1990 shades, are still a must.

Hicksville students are running to buy the popular "pump-up" sneakers, according to Paul DeSimone, manager at the Athletes Foot in the mall. By repeatedly touching a ball on the tongue of the shoe, air is pumped into the sneaker for support. A release button is also located on the tongue.

"Reebok pump shoes sell purely because they pump up and they're the fad now," said DeSimone. While the pump may work, the laces usually don't, because they are seldom ever tied.

Sneakers bearing the names of basketball players are also popular. David Robinson's Air Force 5 and the Air Jordans, both by Nike, dominate the market, keeping the manufacturer at the top in sales, according to DeSimone.

The cost of all this footwear at Athletes Foot ranges from $109 to $130 for the pump-up sneakers. For Air Jordans, it's about $125 and for Davidson sneakers, $100.

A familiar site to TV viewers are the Nike sneakers sold by baseball and football player Bo Jackson. "Bo knows" what kids like and his design sells for about $110.

White Keds remain one of the most popular footwear among the ladies this season and "LA Gear is a little flat right now," said DeSimone. A bit of neon—especially turquoise and pink—still remain hot sellers in Nike sneaker wear.

Shopper Tara Heckler, a ninth grader at Hicksville High School, seems to have the right strategy for whatever fashion colors pop up this fall. While in the Athletes Foot she bought a pair of slip-on Keds. "I just wanted the plain ones because they're comfortable and white goes with everything."

EPA Investigates Possible Contamination

Field studies are underway to determine clean up action for a defense contracting site in Hicksville which was contaminated in the 1980s.

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) this month announced plans to fully examine the extent and environmental impact at General Instrument (GI) on West John Street which has been listed on the Department of Environmental Conservation's Inactive Hazardous Waste Sites.

The EPA has indicated that GI has been cooperative in all clean up methods.

The EPA released the following information concerning the site.

Site History

In 1980, General Instrument discovered that an underground waste solvent storage tank was cracked. GI promptly reported the release of hazardous substances to the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC), according to a DEC spokesperson.

GI also undertook a cleanup of the site under the supervision and approval of the Nassau County Department of Health.

The company removed the underground tank and adjacent contaminated soils in December 1980. In 1981, GI installed two groundwater monitoring wells to monitor the quality of groundwater downgradient on the site. Analysis of groundwater samples obtained in December 1981 and May 1982 from the two monitoring wells indicated the presence of volatile organic compounds.

The Department of Health also took samples and found concentrations of fluoride, zinc, aluminum and iron. A groundwater collection and treatment system which was experimental, was found inadequate and was discontinued in 1985. Four additional groundwater monitoring wells, two upgradient and two further downgradient, were installed in May 1986. Installation of the wells and analyses of groundwater samples were conducted for GI by a prominent engineering firm.

In 1989, GI voluntarily entered into a legal agreement with the DEC to conduct a remedial investigation/feasibility study at the site.

Current Status

GI has retained a well-known environmental engineering firm, Stearns & Wheeler, to conduct the remedial investigation/feasibility study.

The general purpose of the remedial investigation is to fully assess the extent and environmental significance of contamination resulting from the waste solvent storage tank, as well as from sources not owned by GI.

In addition, acquired data will be used to make a distinction between contamination resulting from on-site and off-site sources. The study will also include an endangerment assessment. This will evaluate the public health risk, if any, associated with contaminants and their migration.

Public Participation

As part of this process, a Citizen Participation Program will be implemented to ensure that the public is informed about, and can provide information concerning, the further investigation and clean-up of this site.

A local information repository is being established at the Hicksville Public Library. The repository is a place where people can examine the relevant public documents concerning the site.

Currently, a copy of the DEC-approved remedial investigation workplan is included in the repository. Upon completion of the investigation, a report of the results will be deposited in the repository, and a fact sheet will be distributed to the public. The public will be notified at that time.

The EPA and DEC are asking the public for any information that would be helpful to the investigation. Contact Dr. Joshua Epstein, a Citizen Participation Specialist, at 751-7900, ext. 353 or 399. Alex Moskie of the DEC is involved with the technical matters of the program. He can be reached at 751-7900, ext. 375.

Chemical Blaze Causes Evacuation

By Kathy Gerber

The Hicksville Fire Department's Hazardous Materials unit was called to Metco Company in Syosset after there was an explosion in an oven on Aug. 20.

Because of the hazardous nature of the chemicals manufactured at Metco, the Haz Mat squads from Hicksville, Nassau County Police Department and the Nassau County Fire Marshal's office were called to the scene at about 10:30 a.m.

Metco's warehouse contains an unknown amount of the chemical Aluminum Bronze Polyester Composite Powder that is used in the manufacture of aluminum, said Second Assistant Chief Roy Brouillard of the Syosset Fire Department.

Service on the Port Jefferson branch of the Long Island Rail Road was disrupted for a few hours, and nearby residents in White Birch were evacuated for four hours while fire department personnel and Haz Mat units handled the emergency, said Brouillard.

Covered from head to toe in protective clothing, the Haz Mat unit entered the building after contacting Chem-Trec, a national organization that supplies fire departments and industries with information about the nature of chemicals and how to proceed with extinguishing any fire involving chemicals, said Brouillard.

The Town of Oyster Bay Highway Department brought sand to the scene after the fire department was told not to use water to put out the fire. The chemical involved was removed from the building and contained in the sand.

Brouillard said that a private company hired by Metco will come and remove the chemical which is now being guarded by the police and the fire marshal's office. The building has been sealed off by the fire marshal's office who will investigate the accident.

Brouillard said the fire department's first priority upon the arrival to the scene was accounting for and evacuating the Metco employees.

The second priority, he said, was evacuating the area to the west of the building—the White Birch neighborhood encompassing, in particular, homes along Woodbridge Lane and Parkway Drive that were directly behind the railroad tracks behind Metco.

The area in front of Metco was not evacuated, said Brouillard, because the fire department felt these residents were better off inside their homes because the fumes were traveling to the west due to the direction of the wind.

Brouillard said the evacuation was a precautionary measure because any time chemicals are involved it is considered a hazardous situation. He said that people in the nearby residences did not receive prolonged exposure to the release of any toxic chemical in the air. He added that by the time fumes reached nearby homes, the chemical had been diffused. The fire marshal and the Board of Health have ruled that the area is now safe.

A member of the Hicksville Fire Department Hazardous Materials unit is hosed down to remove any traces of chemicals he may have come in contact with while working inside the building.

Medical help was needed by five people at the scene, said Brouillard. A medical triage area was set up in front of the Metco building, and five people were transported to the Central General Hospital in Plainview where they were treated and released.

Brouillard said that two employees were treated as a precaution, and three firefighters from the Nassau County Fire Marshal's Haz Mat unit were treated for heat exhaustion.

Residents who were evacuated were taken to a nearby school and were then taken to Jericho Fire Department headquarters.

Resident Joseph C. Bruen, of Woodbridge Lane, said he had no idea there was any type of fire until the fire department knocked on his door and told him he would have to leave. Bruen said he was glad the neighborhood was evacuated because "You can't take a chance with that stuff."

Burl Mansberger, Jr., a resident on Parkway Drive, also said that evacuation was necessary because "It is better to be cautious." Mansberger added that only 20-23 people were evacuated because most people were at work during the accident.

The police had to cordon off the surrounding streets during the emergency and traffic was diverted.

Early Detection

Everyone knows that early detection of disease saves lives...but it is important for you to seek diagnostic help where the techniques are advanced and sophisticated.

Doctors at our hospital are now using a new, double-contrast technique to see inside your gastrointestinal tract. Everything is much clearer, much more detailed.

Cancers of the colon, precancerous polyps, inflammatory bowel diseases, and ulcers can now be diagnosed very early on when cures are more certain.

Double-contrast diagnostic techniques are generally available only at major medical centers. Now they are available near your home at North Shore University Hospital at Glen Cove.

This is just one of the steps we are taking to make your hospital outstanding.

Town Board Grants Building Permits

Although a developer's plan to construct an office building at the former Meenan Oil site has been approved by the Oyster Bay Town Board, the applicant must comply with 14 restrictions.

Enterprise Joint Venture was seeking a special use permit to construct a four-story office building at the site located on the south side of Duffly Avenue, approximately 475 feet east of the intersection of Henri-ta Street in Hicksville. After reviewing testimony at a public hearing on Jan. 23, the town board placed 14 restrictive covenants on the property, according to Town Councilman Thomas Clark.

The town stipulated that the proposed building not exceed an interior size of 27,000 square feet, that there be no outside storage of material, trailers, equipment or waste of any kind except garbage and refuse, stored in closed containers. Also, all garbage pickups will use a common driveway and there is no garbage pick-up between 8 p.m. and 8 a.m.

The town board also placed restrictive covenants with regard to water conservation. Parking on the site will be permitted in designated areas only, and no more than 40 percent of the designated parking spaces can be reserved spaces.

Councilman Clark noted that no building permit or certificate of occupancy will be issued until a site plan has been submitted to, and approved by the Town Board. The plan must show location of ingress and egress, layout of all parking areas, drainage, location of dumpsters, location of all lighting and signs, landscaping and other details deemed pertinent by the Town's Department of Planning and Development. Limo Co. Granted Permit

In other town board matters, 14 restrictive covenants have been placed by the Oyster Bay Town Board on a special use permit granted to a Hicksville limousine service.

The applicant, Champion Holding Company, was seeking a special use permit for permission to continue the use of the existing building for a limousine service business in an 'H' Industrial District. The property is located on the south side of West John Street, also known by the street address of 331 West John Street in Hicksville.

In granting the application, the Town Board stipulated that no automobile repair be conducted on the premises; that no exterior alterations be made to expand the present size; that all outdoor lighting be contained within the premises and that exterior audio communications systems be used or maintained on the premises.

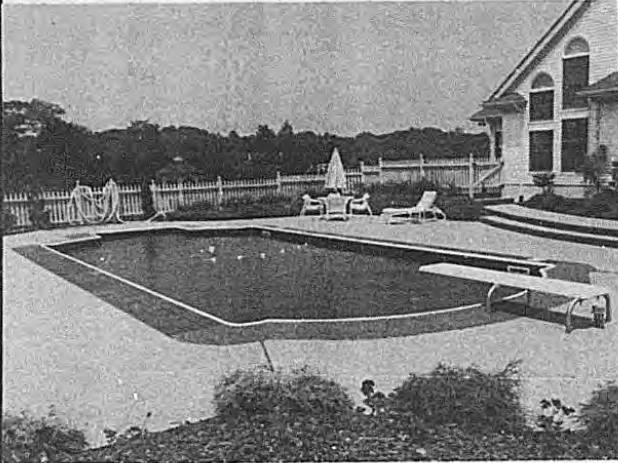

No building permit or certificate of occupancy will be issued until a site plan has been submitted to and approved by the Town Board.

November Public Hearing

A request for permission to modify restrictive covenants in a "C" Residential District will be the subject of a Nov. 13 public hearing at Oyster Bay Town Hall.

Merchants from Delco Plaza on Broadway in Hicksville donated gift certificates to "Abling" the Disabled, a not-for-profit group that will be exhibiting at the Home Exhibition Show at Nassau Coliseum on Sept. 14, 15 and 16. The gift certificates will be raffled off during the home show.

The goal of "Abling the Disabled" is to bring "the disabled into the mainstream," according to the group's president Scott Beby. Beby designs homes for the disabled that allow them to live more independent lives. "Abling the Disabled" will highlight many of their services at the show.

Two Worlds International Journey Into the World of Fitness and Dance

by Keni Woodruff

Fitness and dance take on a uniquely international accent at Dany Holdstein's Two Worlds. Offering the finest program of jazz, ballet, and tap study, as well as total workouts and aerobics, Dany combines his talent and training in his new Wheatley Plaza fitness and dance studio.

Trained in jazz and ballet, a student of Martha Graham, and a former member of the Pearl Long Company, Dany has performed throughout the United States and South America.

Two Worlds is affiliated with centers in Tel Aviv, Israel (Dany's homeland), and Aachen, West Germany. The centers offer an opportunity for dancers to pursue a professional career in dance or just learn to dance for the joy of movement. Promising students will have the opportunity to perform with Two Worlds' own company, on an international exchange basis.

Two Worlds' students will learn the basics and refinements of classical and modern dance, and hone their bodies with state-of-the-art fitness training. They are led by highly skilled, experienced dance and fitness instructors utilizing the latest in equipment and time honored professional teaching methods.

With its brand new studio space, Two Worlds is able to offer some innovative programming: Theater Dance and Aerobic Circuit Training (on Eagle Systems by Cybex.)

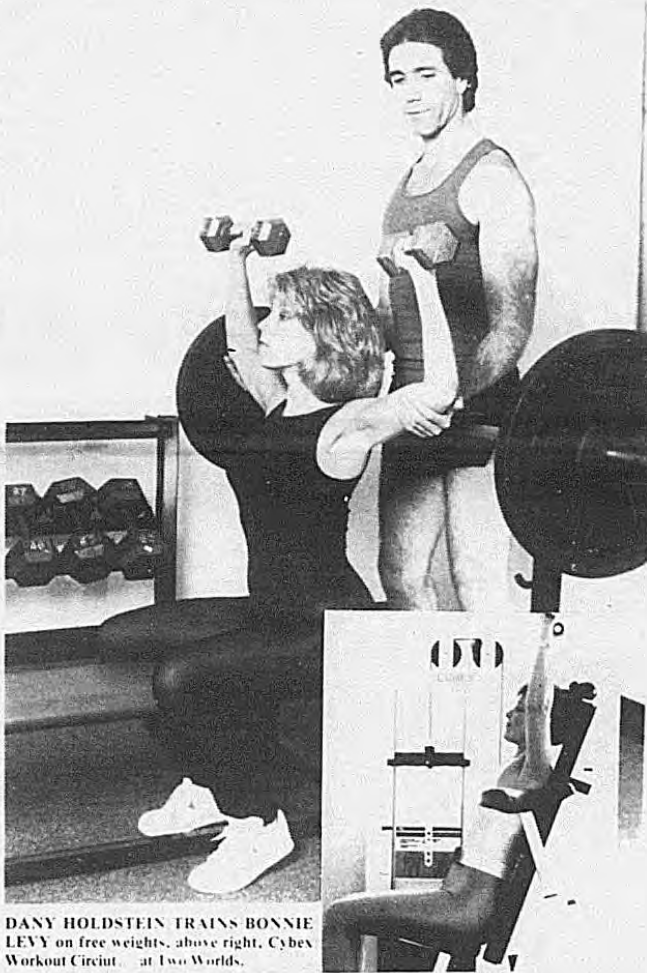

"We've been able to add more equipment," says Dany, "and our additional studio has allowed me to include an extensive Early Childhood Program under the direction of trained dance instructors with degrees in Psychology and Developmental Education."

"Add to this our new Ballet Program (under Ballet Master Juan Gautreaux, formerly with the Eglevsky), and the Two Worlds International Dance Company... we've come a long way!"

There are courses for adults, teens and children, ages 4 and up, seven days a week. The Center will reopen on Sept. 5, and planning for the fall semester is underway. Classes resume on Sept. 5.

Two Worlds offers complete circuit equipment training on Eagle/Cybex, with free weights and bicycles, and there's one-on-one or one-on two training by appointment.

For complete information, semester and class schedules, and a "tour" of the facility, call 484-6604, 340 Wheatley Plaza, suite 201, Greenvale.

Drug & Alcohol Abuse: The Straight Story

by Commissioner Harold E. Adams, CSW
Nassau County Dept. of Drug and Alcohol Addiction

Alcohol is everywhere in our society. Nassau included. Alcohol is legal, a recognized part of our adult life, and readily available.

Beer, coolers and wine are affordable, even on a junior high school allowance, so why are we surprised that more than 90% of young people have tried alcohol before they complete high school. And, why are we shocked that a measurable percentage of these youngsters "graduate" from tasting, to occasionally getting drunk, and, ultimately, to actually damaging themselves and others as full-blown alcoholics.

Early in this century, if "Junior" reached his 18th birthday without ever having tasted a drop of alcohol, he was rewarded by his family...many youngsters qualified.

Today, "Junior's" great grandchild, a "typical American teenager", will have taken that first drink before he, or she, is 12-1/2 years old...and, all too often, will have experimented with other drugs as well, either before that first drink, with it, or after it. We're not talking about "bad kids," or "those kids", we're talking about "our kids," Nassau County's well-loved, well-nurtured, well-dressed, well-educated and well-traveled teens.

The proof of this frightening reality is in the characteristics of the Department's clients below the age of 18. Let's look at 198 of them who entered treatment between January 1 and June 30, 1989...

87% of them were white; 92% were in grades 7-11; 82% had never been arrested; 31% had participated in a prevention program, and 58% had not had previous substance abuse service. The school had referred 30% of these youngsters, while 25% had come in voluntarily. Oh yes, 56% were male, and 44% were female!

No matter what their age, few chemically dependent individuals use one substance exclusively. Teenagers, particularly, are "poly-drug" (many drug) users. What drugs are popular? Among the 198 youngsters in the 1989 group, marijuana/hashish was the substance of choice, and an overwhelming 61% of these youngsters had used it. Cocaine and alcohol were a distant second, at 17% and 16%, respectively. The secondary substances of abuse were alcohol (for 45%) and marijuana/hashish (for 25%). Only 12% of this group used secondary drugs.

When we discuss drug use, "primary" is the number one drug of choice, and "secondary" drugs are the other substances.

These percentages have changed from year to year, especially since the cocaine "epidemic" began locally in 1985. Alcohol (usually beer) and marijuana have remained the most popular drugs since 1970, when the Department began treating youngsters in significant numbers.

Why are they doing it? "Why" is a hard question to answer. For the 12-to-18 age group, the general answers are peer pressure, lack of self-esteem, wanting to be

Editors note: this feature will continue in our next Health & Fitness supplement, September 6, in which we will cover warning signals and give you a listing of agencies, literature and hot lines to help you and your family gain awareness with the very sad actuality of substance abuse...kw

Breaking the Software Barrier

by Keni Woodruff

Software is the name of the game in today's high-tech computer-oriented world where names like WordPerfect, WordStar, DOS, LOTUS, dBase, Ventura, and dozens like them have created a brand new language barrier for potential users. Computer Breakthroughs, at 525 Northern Blvd., Great Neck, is a software training organization that is breaking down those barriers and providing in-depth instruction in major business software packages for users throughout the Metropolitan area.

In business since 1984, Computer Breakthroughs' client list includes American Express, Avis, Marriott, Dale Carnegie, the Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority, Queens College and the Great Neck Adult Program, among others.

"The typical Long Island office can't send half their staff to two-day seminars for software training," says Gina Scardino DeBolt, co-owner (with Larry Norflus) of Computer Breakthroughs. "We are a concept-oriented training company and our seminars were developed to help our students learn to 'think through' the program rather than simply keystroke. It enables them to become more self-sufficient in a shorter period of time.

"We've developed two training seminars, FastTrak (a 6.5 hour seminar) and MiniModule (a 3.5 hour seminar) are our most popular courses," DeBolt said. "FastTrak will get the student up and running in just one day, and is available in Harvard, WordPerfect, LOTUS, DOS and other, popular software packages.

"For individuals who need to learn the more advanced aspects of a program, we offer half-day MiniModules which focus in on specific areas like graphing, column manipulation, macro-programming, desktop publishing, legal, etc. We also offer courses in DOS, Windows, Word-

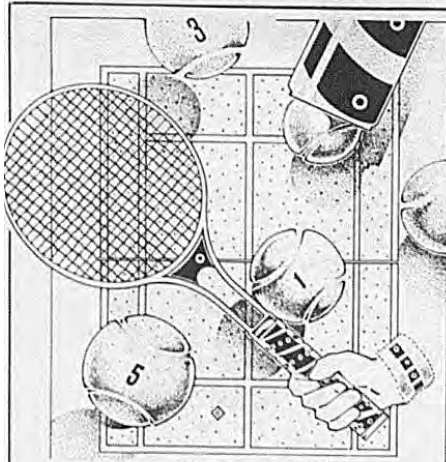

"one of the group", or, for some, changing family conditions. Also, the teenager's natural desire to experiment has gotten out of control for some. While the answer varies on an individual basis, it usually comprises one or more of these factors.

This is the most complex part of chemical dependence for parents to understand and cope with. There is no simple, one-plus-one-equals-two equation. Nor is there a logical cause and effect progression.

Most substance abuse agencies agree, prevention is better than detection, and the old cliché, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," is nowhere truer than in connection with chemical dependency. Prevention means avoiding years of pain, ill health, sorrow, family fractures and wasted money.

Unfortunately, nothing a parent does can guarantee a drug-free child, but setting that child on the right path makes straying less likely. The way is clear: develop open communication and trust; use discipline, and above all, set the example you want your child to follow. Living those words is hard, often frustrating work. But it is essential.

Parenting is the toughest job we have in life, and we enter it with the least preparation. We, myself and other professionals advise parents to take advantage of information sources they respect...other parents, friends, clergy, counselors, social workers, public, private or government agencies. (Our Department funds school-based social workers in 43 of Nassau's 56 school districts.) Read books by professionals, and, please call our department's education unit and ask about our Parents Network (433-8484).

Computer Breakthroughs offers seminars and classes Monday through Friday mornings and afternoons, with evening and Saturday sessions for those whose schedules make them unavailable during business hours.

"Our support goes beyond the training seminar," says Larry Norflus. "Any student who takes a class has paid for a service that includes post-training phone support. This enables them to call us with questions they may have about any of the topics, features or commands taught in that class."

"We also offer customized training for clients who want us to tailor the content or length of our standard courses to their specific needs," he commented. "We'll work with the client to set up the most effective training sessions for their company. We also do on-site training to familiarize the employees with both the software and its application to their specific, on-the-job requirements. Again, our on-site seminars can be customized to meet individual training goals."

Computer Breakthroughs Software Training Center is located in brand new facilities equipped with 386SX PC's, VGA color monitors and HP Laser printers.

Friends Academy, Committed to Excellence In Education for 114 Years

Friends Academy was founded in 1876 by Gideon Frost as a Quaker school. Today, Friends retains its Quaker affiliation and, in key respects, the school's philosophy and purpose are a direct outgrowth of this heritage. Quaker ideals of simplicity, moderation, patience, caring service to others, integrity in thought and action and commitment to non-violent resolution of differences form the foundation of a Friends education.

Friends is a co-educational, college preparatory, day school, enrolling 700 students from Pre-School Play Group through grade 12. Virtually all graduates go on to leading colleges and universities throughout the country, reflecting their various talents and interests. The school has a well-rounded, vibrant student body with nearly a quarter of the student population receiving some degree of financial assistance.

In keeping with its Quaker heritage, Friends provides its young people with a strong sense of ethical responsibility and develops each student to his or her fullest intellectual, social and moral potential. Once a week Lower, Middle and Upper School students attend Quaker meetings in the Matinecock Meeting House. This is a time for reflective silence and for students, faculty members or visitors to share their thoughts.

Friends has a demanding academic program that includes numerous advanced placement courses. The school is committed to excellence in education. It provides a low student/teacher ratio and offers small classes taught by a dedicated and highly qualified faculty of which approximately 70% hold advanced degrees. Close interaction between students and teachers, both in and out of the classroom, helps create a caring and challenging experience. Students are encouraged to become involved not only in the classroom but also in extracurricular activities such as dramatics, athletics, student government, school publications, Mock Trial and band and orchestra.

Community service plays a vital role at Friends at all grade levels. In the Upper School there is a mandatory 10th grade course which emphasizes the importance of community involvement. The courses culminate with a two-day "hands-on" experience working with the homeless in a shelter in New York City. In addition, a large number of students regularly volunteer at local hospitals, nursing homes, and boys' and girls' clubs as well as Habitat for Humanity in New York City and the Interfaith Nutrition Network, I.N.N., a center for the homeless in Hempstead.

The Locust Valley campus is located on 65 acres and it has extensive facilities for the Lower School program, an expanded Middle School and an Upper School. The Leonhardt-Cassullo Commons contains modern science laboratories. There is a Learning Center, the David O'D. Kennedy Library housing 30,000 volumes and a varied multimedia collection, and a visual and performing arts center. Nearly half the faculty are housed on campus. A multi-purpose field house contains an indoor track and fitness room and there are outdoor tennis courts, a track, swimming pool and fields for soccer, football, field hockey, baseball, softball and lacrosse.

Take the Test Prep Course that Test Companies Fear

Princeton Review students increase their scores meteorically.* That's why every major test company has announced overhauls of its tests in the past two years. It's also why we're the largest SAT course in the country. And it's why we'll soon be the largest LSAT, GMAT, and GRE course.

Our classes are small (10-15 students) and are grouped closely by shared strengths and weaknesses (the competition packs over 40 students of all abilities into a room). Our materials are kept up-to-date by over half a million dollars of research each year.

Call The Princeton Review today. And let the test companies worry about you.

Europeans Tour Local Garden Centers

When some 250 owners and operators of European garden centers toured facilities on Long Island this past weekend, local nurserymen had more than one reason to take note of the visit. Not only was the choice of this area by the international group an indication of the region's importance - but it was a reminder to everybody not to take Long Island for granted.

"These people could have gone to any part of the country for their tour," said Ray Bell, of Bell's Nursery in West Islip. "They could have gone to Texas, Boston, Atlanta, anywhere. To me, the fact that they visited us here is an indication of what we take for granted."

In a region that boasts good soil and climate, and with proximity to the major retail markets of the metropolitan area, Long Island nurserymen have developed what is seen as a highly sophisticated garden center industry, say analysts. Additionally, a sophisticated consumer population in the area has resulted in display, marketing and service characteristics which are useful for garden center operators elsewhere to note.

Or, as one Spanish garden center owner on the tour put it, "There's nothing specific we are expecting to find - it's just a little bit here, a little bit there, details that we're expecting to pick up!"

Among the Garden Centers visited by the tour group were Hicks Nursery in Westbury, Martin Viette in East Norwich, and Mohlenhoff Greenhouses in Huntington. For Fred Hicks, owner of Hicks Nursery and chairman of the event, the international visit was a fitting move. "The group chose Long Island as a site to visit because of the rich horticultural heritage that we enjoy," he said. This, he noted, is a legacy of the 'Gold Coast' era. "At that time, the great estates all attempted to mirror the outstanding gardens of Europe."

"Today, the descendants of the many gardeners and designers who worked on those estates have continued and expanded their expertise in horticulture."

Mr. Hicks should know - Hicks Nurseries itself helped put together gardens for such famous estates as Coe, Phipps, Tiffany and others.

While the European were expected to learn much from Long Island's Garden Centers, however, as the tour proceeded it was clear that the visit was something more than a one-way street, as far as cross-national learning was going. "I think English Centers are five years ahead of the Americans," said Dave Stafford, Managing Director for the All in One Garden Centre in Manchester England. "Not when it comes to Christmas, or other special events - but the way we display our product?"

In fact, he held forth for several minutes in one Long Island center about his own ideas for displaying products. "Look at the wooden floors," he noted. "In England, we carpet the floors - customers want to see the product in a setting that is like their own homes." Another service concept he thought should be considered in America? "Coffee shops in the store," he suggested quickly.

In addition to the Garden Center tour, the European visitors witnessed wholesale plant material distribution at Bissett's Nursery in Holtsville, the leading horticultural distributor in the area. Also, a tour of the synoptic garden at Planting Fields Arboretum, in Brookville, was conducted. "It is the only garden in the world in which plants are in alphabetical order to facilitate study and research," said Gordon Jones, Executive Director.

HUNDREDS OF EUROPEAN GARDEN CENTER OWNERS toured facilities on Long Island last week, as part of an annual International Garden Center visit. Organized by Fred Hicks of Hicks Nursery in Westbury, participants came from countries as diverse as England, Germany, Norway, Switzerland, France and Spain to witness first-hand the operations of local garden centers. A Letter from Lubelle...

...Going to Jones Beach or Long Beach was having a very special date when I was a teenager and a young married...The beaches were very different, but we loved them both...At Jones Beach, it was very dignified—I guess that's the word I want—There were deck officers in navy jackets and white trousers and a visored cap who kept things very orderly—although I don't recall ever having seen anyone who was not orderly!!!...And there was dancing in front of the band shell...and there was a water show in the East Pool house—the only pool house there was at that time...There were clowns who "fell" into the pool after much horseplay, and beautiful water ballets...We would sit on the balcony surrounding the pool and it was really delightful...and it wasn't only teenagers—all ages were there...And there was shuffle board and archery and deck tennis—maybe they still have them, but we could stay quite late and I believe the parks close early now...Then at Long Beach, it was all different...all commercial—a merry-go-round and a whip and a ferris wheel...and the games where one rolled a ball to get a good poker hand and won ruby glassware as prizes—I still have lots of ruby and use it all the time...And there were stands for salt water taffy and hot dogs and the first soft custard ice cream that I had ever had...The hotels along the boardwalk were all full and many of their guests would sit on the beaches along the way to watch the passing parade—people watching is always in style!!!...And when the nights were too hot at home, we would drive to the beach—taking the kids when we were older—and sit on the sand for hours waiting for the coolness to come...And now we can't go into our beaches at night and so much is lost that was such fun, so healthy, and so inexpensive...Kids have a harder time dating today than we did and it's a shame!!

Years, Lubelle

VICTORY for LONG ISLAND'S DUCKS!

THE WORLD RENOWN LONG ISLAND DUCKING HAS BEEN RAISED HERE SINCE 1873, WHEN THE FIRST LARGE WHITE DUCKS ARRIVED FROM CHINA.

NOT AS LARGE AS IT ONCE WAS, THE LI DUCK INDUSTRY NOW PRODUCES 2 MILLION DUCKS A YEAR.

OVER THE LAST FEW YEARS, UNSCRUPULOUS POULTRY PRODUCERS ELSEWHERE HAVE BEEN LABELING NON-LI DUCKS AS LI DUCKS, CASHING IN ON THE GOOD REPUTATION. THIS WAS A VIOLATION OF FEDERAL RULES, BUT THE U.S. DEPT. OF AGRICULTURE WAS NOT ENFORCING IT!!!

CONGRESSMAN GEORGE HOCHBRUEKNER OF CORAM ANNOUNCED ON AUGUST 23RD THAT HE FINALLY SUCCEEDED IN GETTING THE DEPT. TO ENFORCE ITS OWN RULES.

AS OF OCTOBER 1ST, IF YOU BUY A DUCK THAT IS LABELED AS "LI DUCK," IT WILL BE!

Last week we discussed rental property records, other investments, home mortgage, insurance, tax records and wills. Our sole concern was the record keeping of these items.

The next items that we have to keep organized records for are charge accounts and the various financial accounts that we have.

1) Charge Accounts — All of us like to spend, but most of us would prefer to forget the bills. Unfortunately, we can't. We have to keep a list by groups. That is, restaurant cards, Visa and Mastercard accounts. Then the various stores have to be listed along with miscellaneous local accounts. All of our records should have the name of the issuer and the account number. This is also good information in case you lose a card. Do not forget to tell where the records are kept. I would suggest you list the authorized users and the interest rates. Not one in ten knows that last figure. If we did, we would cancel most of them.

2) Checking accounts, Certificates of Deposit, and Money Market accounts — I lumped all of these together because they are all a variation of the theme. List in all cases the institution, telephone number, account number, interest rate, current balance and maturity date if their is one.

3) Stocks — List the company, the number of shares, the date you bought them, the purchase price and the current price. Where are the certificates stored? Update at least once a month.

4) Bonds — Who issued them, when did you buy them? At what price? List the maturity date, the face amount and the current price. Update these every month.

5) Mutual Funds. List the fund name, account number, date bought, or dates bought, along with the current asset value. These should be updated at least once a month.

6) Treasury securities. List the type, the amount, the interest rate and the maturity date. Update once a month.

7) Last, but not least for those that have them, IRA and Keogh plans. List the plan holder, the account number and the approximate value. This account, like all of the rest should tell where the records are located.

I think you will agree that none of this is hard work. It is time consuming to start, maybe a little frustrating. But think how hard it will be for someone else to come in and try to go through your records and papers. Without you they could go bonkers.

You should work with your spouse or business partner to create the summary. The more complete the record and the information, the better it will be as a tool for estate and financial planning. That's why the necessary detail.

With all of this data in front of you, you now have a handle on your complete financial condition. You Are In Control, not being controlled. Some steps that you should take will be immediately apparent. Others will take some planning and doing.

A computer is not necessary, but it is helpful. There are some easy programs to help you list all of the information. You will probably save a lot of time preparing your taxes. If that is not enough incentive, it might eliminate the necessity of a financial planner, and all of those fees. It might also make you realize that you need one.

The Investor's Corner

By Dr. Joseph P. Frey

MORE: GETTING ORGANIZED

Last week we started an article on how necessary it is for each of us to have our financial and tax records in some kind of order. It is good for our personal financial control, to keep us up to date, and to have a comprehensive record for our spouse or heirs if we die. Too many people die with their spouse completely ignorant of the family financial affairs. This is more true of people who are older because that was always "a man's job." Women never wanted to be involved or their husbands did not want them involved. A macho thing you know.

It is not so true of younger couples. Women are better educated, earn a substantial income and are better trained to be financial partners.

Campers Raise Funds For Cancer Society

Hicksville Carousel Day School campers who raised $4,500 in a swim-a-thon to benefit the American Cancer Society were honored at an awards ceremony last Friday.

Jane and Gene Formica, owners of the day school, began this fund-raising event many years ago when someone close to them died of cancer. This is the eighth year the school has run the swim-a-thon and the grand total raised in the eight years has been almost $30,000.

After accumulating sponsors, each child is paid for the number of laps they complete. The swim-a-thon was held during the week of July 23 at the school. Each child received a grab bag prize on the day of his or her swim and were given treats of Snapple soft drink and Entenmann's cookies, two sponsors of the event.

Mike Epstein, program and personnel director for the camp, said, "This is so special because it's a kids' effort." He added, "We have good kids here and they know how to help kids less fortunate than themselves." Mike, along with Terri Brown who is in charge of the school's swimming program, coordinated the American Cancer Society Swim Marathon.

Hicksville PAL Scoreboard Roundup

By Charlette Anstey

Congratulations to the Hicksville PAL Girls for winning the Hicksville All-Star Charity Tournament! Debbie Drew, our Ace-in-the-hole all-star pitcher deserves honors for pitching 10 superb innings.

The first game against St. Ignatius C.Y.O. resulted in a score of 13-3 with PAL winning.

The second game against H.B.A., with a score of 2-0 (P.A.L.'s favor), was a fierce and competitive game. Abbey Toich of H.B.A. did a fine job as relief pitcher.

It was obvious from the time our girls arrived at the field that they realized that the true meaning of this tournament was not just to win, but to contribute their time and energy to raising money for the Make-A-Wish Foundation. Our girls raised $170 over the sale of their tickets for a total of $430.

Since our softball season just finished, these girls had only a few practices to get together and practice.

Jack Zeller, Steve Pendergast, Rich Nolan and Diane Sullivan, the manager and coaches who headed up this team, instructed them from the beginning how important this tournament was. Steve was unable to attend the Tournament and Diane Sullivan volunteered to assist our team. Thanks Diane!

Our manager and coaches are writing an article concerning these two games.

The results of the Boys games at this tournament will also be reported in an upcoming column. Coach Pete Whitman has volunteered to write the article concerning these games.

The following are concerning our regular scheduled games:

Girls' Senior Division

Reds 16
Reds 3
Reds 9

Cubs 5
Expos 5
Cards 3

After two losses, the girls on the Reds came through with three victories. In the first game, a big six-run first inning put the team ahead. The second and third game had strong hitting led by Jennifer Sullivan with two homeruns and a total of 88 hits and Christina Kilmets with a total of 7 hits. Excellent pitching from Beth Brozie, Jennifer Rappaport and Kristy Beiner led to a strong Reds defense. The Coach Dan Edlund gives much credit to all the girls for their hard work and fine attitude. Manager Diane Sullivan has put together the right line-up and field positions to turn the team around. Keep it going girls—you're doing great!

Boys' Rookie Division

A's 13..... Mets 13

A great game played by both teams. Brent Rogers pitched three superb innings and Michael Kerney had four base hits. Eddie Eicholz and Kyle Wendel had two base hits each. Great fielding by Sean Naughton and Jesse Uanino.

A's 8..... Cards 7

Another exciting game played by both teams. Great pitching by Gregory Watterson and Jesse Uanino. Brent Rogers had a bases loaded triple and Michael Kearney had the game-winning hit.

A's 7..... Mets 3

Clutch hitting by Chris McGunigle and Paul Jan led the A's to victory. Pitching, the A's strong suit all season, continued to shine.

A's 1..... Cards 0
In an exceptionally pitched game on both ends of the diamond, the A's edged the Cards. Bobbi Geramikis and Chris Kearney combined for a one hitter as the A's pushed across the winning run with a bases loaded walk in the 5th inning. Shining on the defensive end for the A's were Ryan Tonelli, Mike Biglieri and Eric Micalizzi.

Girls' Junior Division

The Orioles beat the Red Sox in an Aug. 13 game which saw the Red Sox rally for seven runs in the final inning as they batted around the lineup before the game ended. The Orioles were lead by Tara Keilty, who had five RBI's, and Shannon Glynn, who extended her streak of reaching base to 12 times in a row. Liane Lewis pitched four strong innings while allowing only two runs. Kelly Mathis smashed a long triple, Jessica Smith continued her hot hitting, Stephanie Mitas had two hits, and Christina "Pooh Bear" Morreale, Cathy Jo Badalucco and Maureen Brodzowski each contributed base hits. Ivonne Gomez played great defense again. Speaking of great defense, what a catch Devin Reynolds of the Red Sox made on a line drive by Liane Lewis.

August 16: Orioles 10—Blue Jays 5

After last week's heartbreaking loss, the Orioles rebounded to defeat the Blue Jays for their first time, as they played excellent defense. Shannon Glynn fielded eight balls without an error, while Becky Mutterpearl played excellent shortstop. Tara Keilty played tremendous shortcenter, Kelly Mathis played errorless second base, Jessica Smith did well at third (and also had three more hits), and Christina Morreale did another great job of catching. Liane Lewis' and Jamie Hines' superb pitching and flawless fielding allowed the hard-hitting Blue Jays only five runs in the five inning game. Ivonne Gomez and Maureen Brodzowski reached base in each of their three at-bats. Elaine Koenig of the Blue Jays hit her usual homerun, while Amanda Mahnken once again pitched well. Both Denise Rutsky and Chris Nolan starred in the field.

Blue Jays 13

On August 7, the girls from both teams treated everyone who came down to watch, to a very exciting game. After taking an early 2-0 lead, the Blue Jays fell behind by 10-2, before they rallied and cut the Orioles' lead to 11-9 after 5 innings. In the top of the sixth inning, the Blue Jays scored 4 runs to take a 13-11 lead. However, not to be outdone, the Orioles fought back; quickly scoring a run and getting the tying run on third base, where she was stranded.

All of the Blue Jays contributed to the hitting attack, including Dana Mohrman with 4 hits, Elaine Koenig with 3 hits, Amanda Mahnken, Denise Rutsky, and Christine Nolan with 2 hits each, and Kathy Micalizzi, Christine Rutsky, Beth Leary, Jenine Camilleri, Jessica Gomez and Catherine DeBruin with 1 hit each.

The Orioles had big hits from Shannon Glynn who had 4 hits and Kelly Mathis, Liane Lewis, Rebecca Mutterpearl and Jessica Smith with 3 hits each.

Blue Jays 8

On August 20, the Blue Jays won a close game behind the hitting of Elaine Koenig, who had 3 hits including 2 home runs and 7 RBI's. Denise Rutsky and Christine Rutsky had 3 hits each; and Amanda Mahnken and Christine Nolan had 2 hits each. The fielding was handled by Kathy Micalizzi, Anne Kaiser, Jenine Camilleri, Catherine DeBruin and Jessica Gomez.

Blue Jays 14

On August 21, the Blue Jays and Red Sox played another exciting game. The Blue Jays got hitting from Denise Rutsky with 4 hits including a home run, Elaine Koenig with 3 hits including a home run, Christine Rutsky with 3 hits and Amanda Mahnken, Christine Nolan and Jenine Camilleri with 1 hit each. Also, Amanda Mahnken scored 4 runs and Jessica Gomez scored 2 runs.

Defensively, the play of the game was a great catch by Kathy Micalizzi of a hard line drive hit to left field; and the catcher's position was well handled by Catherine DeBruin.

Congratulations to the Red Sox team and their coach, Tony Notaristefano, on a great season.

Red Sox 12

Lufthansa's 'Iron Annie'...

Vintage Aircraft To Visit Republic Airport

In celebration of thirty-five years of service in this country, a German airline company recently brought to the United States the oldest member of its fleet, for six months of tours and displays. A fully restored, 1936-vintage Junker Ju 52, belonging to Lufthansa Airlines, flew into Oshkosh, Wisconsin on July 27th, for the first leg of its continent-wide tour.

Here on Long Island, that means that from September 4 - 8, airplane enthusiasts will have an opportunity to view the venerable machine. Flying into Republic Airport on the fourth, the Junker will be on static view on the fifth and sixth of September, followed by demonstration flights on the 7th and 8th of the month.

Standing 20 feet high, with a wing span of 96 feet and a length of 62 feet, the three-engine Junker was one of the most popular European aircraft of its time, comparable to the American DC 3. With a reputation for durability and reliability, the Junkers formed the backbone of Lufthansa's fleet - by 1940, the company owned over 80 Ju 52s.

Since it was first put into service on April 10th, 1936, the Ju 52 has endured a number of lifestyles - from commercial and military service in Norway, to passenger and freight transport in the jungles of South America - where, say Lufthansa officials, it was badly mistreated, poorly maintained, and abandoned in 1962.

In late 1984, Lufthansa purchased "Iron Annie," as she was called by the American who acquired her in 1975. After a 16-day, 10,000 mile North Atlantic crossing in winter, without benefit of cabin heating or de-icing equipment, the Ju 52 was meticulously restored at the airline's maintenance base in Hamburg, Germany.

The restoration work, which was completed in 1986, took slightly over one year, and on April 6, 1986, the Ju 52 made its second maiden voyage. This time, however, it was under the official name of "Berlin-Tempelhof", recalling the city of the airline's founding.

The saga of this Junker JU 52 is an intriguing one. Put into service by Lufthansa in 1936, it was sold to Norwegian Airlines after an accident with another aircraft. During World War II, the aircraft was commandeered by the German Air Force, and converted to military use.

After the war, the Junker returned to Norway, where it saw extensive service as a civilian transport until 1956 - when it was sold to Transportes Aereos Orientales, an airline in Quito, Ecuador.

After years of misuse and neglect, the Ju 52 was found in 1969 by Lester Weaver, an American barber who loved old aircraft. It was a wreck by then, with birds nesting in its fuselage, and electrical cables that had been eaten through by insects. Back in the US, he sold it to Martin Caidin, who restored it and dubbed it 'Iron Annie'.

For the USA tour, the Junker JU 52 crew is being led by the aircraft's chief pilot, Captain Heinz-Dieter Bonsmann, a Lufthansa Airbus captain and professional aviator with 11,000 jet-hours to his credit. A tour complement of 15 fellow pilots, eight flight engineers and 20 flight attendants accompany the craft at various points along the route.

Lufthansa's 16-passenger Ju 52, one of only a handful remaining today of the 5,000 built, has logged 1,100 hours of flight time in four years on new life as "the oldest" airplane in the fleet. In contrast Lufthansa's modern fleet of over 150 aircraft averages under seven years of age.

"Iron Annie" is making a 34-city USA tour from July 1990 through January 1991. As its only visit to Long Island - "The Cradle of Aviation" - Lufthansa has extended an invitation to the public to view the unique and historic aircraft when it comes to Republic.

AFTER THREE MAJOR REBUILDS and 8 different identities in five countries, this 1936-vintage Junkers JU 52 tri-motor will fly into Republic Airport September 4th for a four-day stay on Long Island.

30 Hour Reading Set...

Annual Moby Dick Marathon This Weekend

In a whaling mood? Canio's Books, the well-known literary salon in the East End town of Sag Harbor, will be featuring one of the more unusual events of the Labor Day weekend, as dozens of literary fans will gather for a marathon reading of Herman Melville's 'Moby Dick'. The event, the eighth of its kind, begins Saturday at noon, and is expected to go on through Sunday afternoon.

And according to shopowner Canio Pavone, there's no telling who might show up to read.

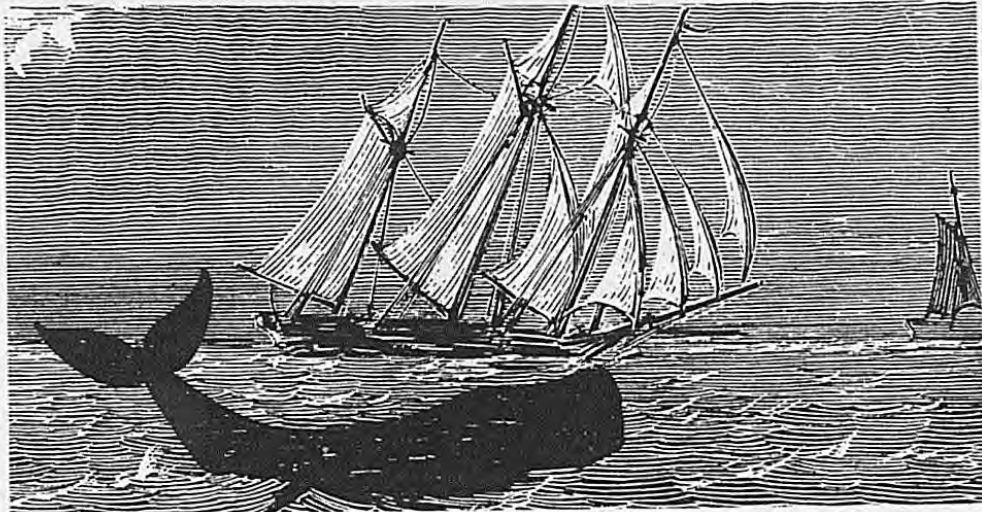

"We've had people like Kurt Vonnegut come and read a chapter," said Pavone, who established Canio's Books in 1980. One regular reader, he added, is torch-singer Phoebe Legere, who normally arrives in her stage outfit about three a.m., after her show at Bridgehampton's Bobby Vans is over. "She creates quite an impression," said Pavone. "It's really something - to see a woman dressed like that walk in, and then she does such an impressive job reading from Moby Dick."

Canio's Books is known throughout the Long Island literary world as the Sag Harbor home of poets and artists. On any weekend, visitors can expect a gathering of these folks - whether it is for a poetry reading or book party, an art show, or just for a quiet conversation with Pavone.

In fact, Canio's Books is widely considered a must visit for poets and artists who come to the East End.

All that, said Pavone, is an outgrowth of his attempt to find a quiet retreat from his responsibilities as a Spanish and Italian teacher in the Centerport area. "I didn't expect this sort of thing to happen," he said.

According to Pavone, it started the first spring after he opened his shop. "From the very first day I opened, Nelson Algren would come in," he said. "We used to have coffee together. Before long, other writers began coming around - and it became a sort of literary salon."

THE EIGHTH ANNUAL MOBY DICK MARATHON reading begins at noon on Saturday, September 1, at Canio's Books in Sag Harbor. The public is invited to listen in as writers and artists read from Herman Melville's American classic.

Ten years down the road, Canio's Books has probably had a thousand readings. The shop also boasts regular art exhibits, and Pavone tries to organize performances of various kinds to supplement the scheduled readings.

That's where the 'Moby Dick Marathon' comes in. In its eighth year, the labor day weekend event has become something of a legend among writers in the region. Beginning at noon Saturday and continuing straight through to the last page, the event is an all-night affair which emphasizes the communal spirit of Canio's shop. Essentially, a succession of readers, each of whom have signed up for a half-hour slot, will read chapters of Melville's great American classic. The event lasts for approximately 30 hours.

The event has grown significantly since 1982, when it was established. While nowadays it is not uncommon for patrons to stay the whole night to listen from start to finish, Pavone recalled that attendance has not always been that great. "The first year, the only people who stuck it out from beginning to finish were me and a high school boy," he said. "I think he was from Sachem. Anyway, his mother dropped him off outside the shop at five of twelve on Saturday, complete with a thermos and food!"

Why go to Canio's to read Moby Dick?

"Sag Harbor is one of the spots on Long Island that is known for its whaling tradition," explained one writer, who was seen signing up for a reading slot in the marathon. "And I never know who I'm going to run into when I come down to read!"

Not to mention the chance to hear one of America's great adventure stories, as told by a giant of nineteenth century literature and performed by some of the literary luminaries of our region.

Canio's may be found on the main road entering Sag Harbor. For more information about the Moby Dick Marathon, call 725-4926.

Richard Lewis Heads 150-Artist List

What key activities do you focus on to explain the character of a festival that includes 5 stages, 100 performers, crafts and foods, and an audience that could reach fifteen thousand people?

For the organizers of the United Jewish Y's Eighth Annual International Jewish Arts Festival of Long Island, the highlight items include a comedian, a composer, and a South American street-singer who has become internationally famous in Paris for her sultry voice and exotic music.

But for anyone who decides to attend the event, which takes place this Sunday and Monday, the key ingredient in an exotic, enjoyable day out could be as simple as a plate of kosher cous cous!

The best way to get a handle on the event, of course, is by listing the headliners. Top among them is comedian Richard Lewis, who will bring his unique brand of comedy to the festival on Monday, September 3 at 4:30 pm, somewhere on the 47 acres of the YM&YWH of Suffolk, 74 Hauppauge Road, Commack.

Lewis is known to those who follow the world of television comedy for his hour-long concert special, titled "I'm Doomed," which premiered on HBO this summer. The third in a trilogy of TV specials, it followed on the heels of his "I'm In Pain" for Showtime, and the ACE-nominated "I'm Exhausted," also on HBO.

He has also been a frequent guest on the David Letterman Show, and co-starred with Jamie Lee Curtis on the critically-acclaimed ABC television series "Anything But Love."

The international flavor of the event will be strengthened by the North American debut of Jacinta, the Parisian entertainer whose work includes sensual and exotic vocal renditions of Yiddish and tango songs. Born in Buenos Aires to Polish-Jewish parents, Jacinta learned Spanish and the music of the Argentine in the streets of that city. She arrived in France in 1977, and quickly achieved an international reputation for her works - which she writes in French, Spanish, Latino, and Yiddish.

Meanwhile, composer David Amram will be music director of the event for the eighth straight year. The first composer-in-residence with the New York Philharmonic, he has conducted orchestras worldwide, and is composer of more than one hundred orchestral works - as well as a prolific jazz and folk composer.

Rounding out the list of headliner artists at the International Jewish Arts Festival this year is Broadway's Elizabeth Swados, who has won three OBIE awards for her musical work off-Broadway.

Add to that opera companies, klezmer bands, dance troupes, and theatrical productions...jazz, classical and Middle Eastern performers...storytellers, poets and humorists - and you've got a virtual five ring circus operating under brightly colored tents on stages across the grounds of the Y.

Not to mention, of course, the exotic kosher foods from around the world, and traditional crafts - such as talli-weaving, woodcarving, calligraphy, painting and silversmithing.

The two-day event takes place Sunday and Monday, September 2 and 3, from 10:00 am to 6:00 pm, on the campus of the YM&YWH of Suffolk, 74 Hauppauge Road, Commack. Co-sponsored by three other Y's, the Jewish Festival is supported by Northville Industries' Hebrew National Kosher Foods; Howard Johnson Bed & Breakfast; the William Pitschek Music Fund; and Suffolk County and New York State cultural bodies. One day admission to all events is $14 for adults, $12 for seniors and students, and free for children under 12. A two-day pass is $20.

Information about the International Jewish Arts Festival may be obtained by calling (516) 938-4600.

HEADLINERS AT THE INTERNATIONAL JEWISH Arts Festival this year include comedian Richard Lewis, composer David Amram, and vocalist Jacinta. The event takes place rain or shine at the YM&YWH in Hauppauge, Sunday and Monday September 2 and 3.

Plaza Playhouse in Old Bethpage presents Sleuth, starring Joseph Cronin and John Ferry, through September 16th. The show is performed in Plaza's 'three-quarters in the round,' 266-seat theater. Call 694-3330 for more.

OUR NEWSPAPER CIRCULATION IS CERTAINLY NOT PAPER THIN!

At Anton Community, we stretch the terms of what most people consider "Community Newspapers." Our newspapers do cover the news and events of varied communities, but we offer so much more, and are so widespread that the connotation of "community newspaper" seems to understate us a bit. Opening lead — five of spades.

cash his spades.
However, you can make the contract by letting East win the opening spade lead with the ten. Once you do this, the defense disintegrates. When East returns a spade, you still have the suit doubly stopped, and when you then play a diamond, it does not matter which defender wins the trick. If West wins the diamond and returns a spade, you concede another diamond to East's ace and thus acquire nine tricks.

If East wins the first diamond lead, he can do no better than return a club (he has no more spades), but if he does that you rise with the ace and lead another diamond, insuring the contract without a shadow of a doubt.

It is true that ducking the spade at trick one would defeat you if it turned out that West had the A-K of diamonds as well as five spades. But this possibility is greatly against the odds, which strongly favor East having either one or both missing diamond honors.

It's not as abnormal as it may seem to let East's ten hold the opening trick. It is virtually certain that West has the king when East does not play that card at trick one, and it is therefore totally unnecessary to win the first trick.

Long Island Stage Shows "The Boys Next Door"

Nassau County Executive Thomas S. Gulotta has announced that the Long Island Stage will perform "The Boys Next Door" at the Hays Theatre of Molloy College. The play will open September 4 and run through September 23.

Jerome E. Seckler, Director of the Nassau County Office of Cultural Development, says that the play is a compassionate comedy about the escapades of four mentally disabled men living in a communal residence. It details a social worker's efforts to return them to mainstream life.

One theater-goer describes the play: "It is an hysterical comedy, but it makes you aware. It makes you wonder whether or not you should be laughing!"

The play stars Peter Barlett and Steve Lidman and is directed by Steve Kaplan. Mr. Kaplan is the producer of Manhattan Punchline, a New York City comedy club.

Clint Atkinson is the Artistic Director of the Long Island Stage, the Island's only fully professional resident theater. The theater is enjoying its 16th season.

Performances will be held Wednesday through Saturday evenings at 8 o'clock. Wednesday and Sunday matinees will begin at 2 P.M. Curtain time for Sunday evening performances will be 7 o'clock. Tickets are $12 to $22.

The Hays Theatre at Molloy College is located on Hempstead Avenue in Rockville Centre. The theater may be reached by calling 546-4600.

National Safety Council Announces Schedule Of Safe Driving Classes

Driver improvement programs announces the National Safety Council's Defensive Driving Course at 12 Nassau locations and at 22 Suffolk locations for the fall, 1990 season.

The defensive driving course is a six-hour, classroom instruction course designed to teach accident prevention techniques to people who already have a driver's license or learner's permit.

Motorists who complete the course who are principal drivers must be given a 10 percent discount on both their automobile liability and collision premiums for three full years.

In addition, the New York State Department of Motor Vehicles will remove up to four (4) points from the motorist's record for any infraction for which the motorist has been convicted in the previous 18 month period.

The fee for the course is $45 and registration can be accomplished through the mail. Persons interested in obtaining a registration kit which contains registration materials for four people, a complete schedule of classes and a detailed explanation of the benefits of the course can call 800-REG-STUF or 800-734-7883.

Beethoven Festival "A Treasury of Trios"

Friends of the Arts' Beethoven Festival has become a September tradition among music lovers in the tri-state area. This year's festival will take place on September 8th and 9th in Planting Fields Arboretum in Oyster Bay, Long Island.

After ten years of successfully presenting Beethoven's sonatas, trios and quartets, a special effort was made this year to find some of the more unusual chamber works. The Great Hall of the Coe Mansion will host "A Treasury of Trios" both Saturday and Sunday. Some of the trios are familiar favorites and some are rarely played. Trios for Flute, Violin and Viola; Flute, Cello and Piano; String Trios; and "Kakadu Variations" and the famous Clarinet Trio will share the days with the more familiar "Ghost" Trio and the three trios of Opus 1.

Since concerts are going on continuously and simultaneously in four locations in the Arboretum between 11 AM and 5 PM, the name of the game is choices. As you drive in, you receive a program which will tell you what is being performed in the Hay Barn, the Bea Jones Garden, and the Great Hall.

Tickets for the Daytime Festival are $15 and admit the buyer to all concert locations. For further information, call Friends of the Arts at 516-922-0061.

Christine's Helpline

School openings are just around the corner and your Nassau County Chapter of the American Red Cross would like to help working parents cope with the sometimes unpreventable afternoon when elementary age children are home alone.

When school opens, carefully screened and trained Red Cross volunteers will be manning the Children's Helpline at 222-6020 weekdays from 2:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. to answer questions Kindergarten through 6th graders may have.

Primarily volunteers will be on hand to listen and reassure a child who is alone, and cannot reach his parents. The Children's Helpline does not replace parental supervision and children should always have emergency instructions for police and fire handly.

The Forest Service would like to ask you for a little help with its paperwork.

Raiders Win 1st Place At Tournament

By Eileen Puerta

The Hicksville Americans 1978 Travel Team, The Raiders, continued to play winning soccer by taking first place at the 12th Annual Smithtown International Tournament. Teams from Long Island, Westchester, Canada, and Great Britain were represented at this tournament. Unfortunately, U.S.S.R. teams were unable to play this year due to political difficulties at the Goodwill Games.

The Raiders welcomed two new players to their team this summer: Todd Minerly and Stephen McTigue. Todd and Stephen both looked as if they had been playing with the Raiders all season long. Todd played well at both full back and half back positions for an entire half. Then he played goalie for the remaining half. Stephen was able to blend in splendidly at both half back and forward positions.

The first day of this tournament, the Raiders had Paul Oliva start in goal and Todd Minerly finish the second half. This winning combination continued for the entire tournament. The Raiders won the first game with a score of Hicksville 5, Smithtown 0. Goals were scored by Jeff Simpson with an assist by Stephan McTigue and Todd Minerly with assists from David Koehn and Anthony Riccardi during the first half of play. Goals were scored in the second half by Jack McTigue with assists from David Koehn and Stephen McTigue, and Nicholas Riccardi with an assist from Paul Oliva. The final goal was scored by Steve McTigue with an assist from Kevin Brown.

The second game of the tournament was against North Babylon. Once again the Raiders dominated the game with a final score of 4-0. Goals were scored by Jack McTigue and two goals by Jeff Rheinhardt and a goal by Kevin Brown with an assist from Anthony Riccardi.

On August 5, Hicksville played games against Sachem A and Sachem B winning both games with a score of 3-1. Todd Minerly scored goals in both games as did Jack McTigue. Steve McTigue scored in the first game with an assist from Jack. Jeff Simpson also scored in the second game with assists from Kevin Brown and Jack and Steve McTigue.

August 6 was the final and deciding game of the tournament. Hicksville was playing Sachem A team under weather conditions that were far from pleasant. Rain and blowing wind certainly kept crowds from watching this early morning game. Linesman Brian Koehn was decked out in rain gear and umbrella as he ran alongside the line with flag in hand. Sachem, having the wind in their favor, immediately scored the first goal. Hicksville bounded right back with complete control over the ball, scoring the first goal for Hicksville on a run down the sideline by Nicholas Riccardi.

The second half of the game Hicksville dominated with goals by Steve McTigue with an assist from Nicholas Riccardi, Jack McTigue scored with an assist from Steve McTigue and Jack McTigue scored the last goal with an assist from Paul Oliva. Final score: Hicksville 4, Sachem 1.

Thanks go to Giovanni Riccardi for great coaching, despite the loss of his voice by the third and final day. Special thanks to Brian Koehn for also helping with coaching, running the lines and for making a new fashion statement for rainy day soccer games.

Yankee first baseman Joe Pepitone helped kick off National Eye Exam Month at Sears Optical Store at 195 North Broadway last Thursday. Here, he autographs a baseball for Ron Holmes of Levittown and Jeff Wallick, a 21 year Hicksville resident. Ron and Jeff said they are both "die-hard Yankee and Pepitone fans." Ron and Jeff work in the Sears Security Department. Through Sept. 3, Sears Optical eye care professionals are donating $1 per exam to the National Society to Prevent Blindness. Last year, they raised $82,000 for research and education programs.
