'91-92 Library Budget Approved By Board

*Residents To Vote
For Package
April 17*

By Rita Langdon

Library board members approved a $1.9 million budget last week that is slightly higher than last year's voter-approved budget.

Residents will vote for the 1991-92 proposed $1,996,794 budget on April 17. The budget for 1990-91 was $1,965,789.73.

"That represents an increase of about 1.5 percent over last year's," said Hicksville Public Library director Kenneth Barnes, who noted that the increase is small because of today's bleak economic situation. He added that a major portion of improvement costs at the library were incurred in last year's budget.

Those improvements include a complete revamping of the library's circulation system which helps patrons check out books more quickly and easily. Funds for an added wing to house a computer room and renovations of the community room were also included in previous budgets.

"Recognizing the austere financial conditions in the Hicksville community... the DURING LAST WEEK'S recess, many Hicksville kids took a trip to the public library. They were reading books and put together puzzles that are available at the library. library board insisted upon presenting a budget to the voters far below the rate of inflation," said board president Marc Herbst in an interview.

The proposed budget calls for a $2.10 increase over last year. For an average Hicksville home assessed at $7,000, the homeowner pays annually $106 for library services. If the 1991-92 library budget is passed, that homeowner will pay $108.10 for the year.

Because the school district is on austerity, Herbst said, the library is forced to expand its services. "We had to fill a void caused by the austerity budget," he said, adding that the library's meeting rooms are used more often. Under austerity, the schools must charge groups to use their rooms after school hours.

"Despite the austerity we still kept the costs down to give the community what it needs," Herbst said.

Although no exact breakdown of the budget is available at this time, director Ken Barnes said the information will be included in a library newsletter mailed to every Hicksville home about three weeks before the election.

Registration to vote for the budget is Wednesday, April 10. Residents over 18 who have lived in the district for more than 30 days are eligible to vote.

Incumbent trustee Josephine Buckner is expected to run on this year's ticket unopposed. Buckner has been on the board since the 1960s. The term for office is five years. There are five board members.

The Hicksville Library's budget has not been defeated in more than 22 years.

PTAs Say Thanks To Dedicated Citizens

*Honors Parents, Teachers
At Founders' Day Dinner*

By Rita Langdon

Hicksville Council of PTAs is continuing its tradition of recognizing dedicated parents, teachers and school personnel by honoring them at a ceremony tonight.

Now in its 38th year, the annual Founders' Day dinner at Crest Hollow Country Club on Feb. 28, will bestow merit awards upon parents, teachers, administrators and others who "work diligently to prepare our children to take their place in society as useful citizens," said Terry Moehring, president of The Hicksville Council of PTAs (Parent-Teacher Association).

Traditionally, Founders' Day symbolizes the founding of PTAs on Feb. 17, 1897.

As part of the night's proceedings, resident Norma Goerke will be the district's honored guest—the top award for the evening. Goerke was chosen by a committee comprised of one representative from each school.

"Norma has given her time not just to PTA but to the entire community," said Moehring. "She is a genuine giving person who asks nothing in return. I think this award's long overdue."

A member of the PTA for 26 years, Goerke began her career in the East Street PTA by serving on various committees including Pre-School, newsletter and the East Street Carnival.

When her sons began attending the junior and senior high schools, she moved on to serve as President of the Junior High PTSA Senior High PTSA and the Hicksville Council of PTAs.

Goerke has been honored as a New York State PTA Life Member, PTA Council Honorary Life Member, and as Founders'

Day Unit Honored Guest having represented East Street School and the Junior and Senior High Schools.

Aside from school life, she has been active in the Hicksville Community Council, Hicksville Park District Task Force and has taught religious education at Our Lady of Mercy Church.

Today she works in the Special Education Pre-K Program at Dutch Lane School.

A Hicksville resident for 31 years, she is married to Herb Goerke and has three sons, Andrew, Robert and Brian.

In addition to Goerke, 34 people including parents, teachers, principals, secretaries, and teacher's aide and a custodian, will be honored.

Individual schools set up committees to discuss merits of those people they felt should be recognized.

At the high school level, Linda Biagini, David Bouton, Mary Esposito and Vicki Vrona will be honored. Biagini has served three PTA units and has been active with the Woodland Avenue, Junior High and Senior High executive boards for the past 11 years.

David Bouton, a high school science teacher, taught in the Hicksville Junior High School for 27 years. He is involved in the Middle School Academic Enrichment Program and the Middle and Senior schools Science Olympiad.

An active Woodland Avenue PTA member for 11 years, Mary Esposito will also be honored. She is credited with beginning the school's holiday and Fathers' Day boutiques. She is active at the Middle School and High School.

Also being recognized is physical education teacher Victoria Vrona who began her career in Hicksville in 1983. She has coached soccer, tennis, volleyball and basketball. Vrona, who has been nominated by New York State as Teacher of the Year, Secondary Level, is a 1969 graduate of Hicksville High.

Town Looks To Fill Empty Seat On Board

Hicksville Illustrated News - Hicksville, New York - Thursday, February 28, 1991

By Kathy Gerber

The Oyster Bay Town Board is expected to appoint Leonard G. Kunzig of Bethpage as its new councilman, replacing John Venditto, who was recently named town attorney.

If appointed to fill the open seat on the Town Board, Leonard G. Kunzig says he will work, "to continue to protect the suburban quality of life we enjoy in Oyster Bay."

Kunzig, currently the Deputy Parks Commissioner for the Town, is "one of the best choices" to fill the empty seat, Supervisor Angelo Delligatti said in an interview. The appointment was expected to be announced at the town board's Feb. 26 meeting.

Kunzig has worked for the town for almost 10 years and is "very knowledgeable" about both the town itself and the workings of the town, Delligatti said.

Kunzig has been deputy parks commissioner since 1988. He was first hired in 1982 as then Supervisor Joseph Colby's assistant. He was appointed as Colby's executive assistant in 1986.

The parks department, with 225 employees, oversees the Town's beaches, parks and golf courses, said Kunzig. While Town of Oyster Bay Deputy Parks Commissioner Leonard G. Kunzig is expected to be appointed next week to fill an empty seat on the town board.

deputy parks commissioner he was in charge of the conversion of the Bruce Estate into the Town of Oyster Bay Golf Course in Syosset.

He is proud of his work on this project and says the course is a great facility. He added, the Town is proud to be hosting the Professional Golf Associations' (PGA) professionals and assistant area tournament this spring and the Public Links Open in 1993.

Although he has never sought political office before, Kunzig says it's something he has always wanted to do since working as a teenager on local election campaigns. He will have to run for office in November when Venditto's term expires. A councilman's term for the town is four years.

Kunzig said he feels he can be "more of a service to people on the board than being an appointed official." He said he feels waste management is an important issue for the town. Instead of shipping garbage, he said "resource recovery is vital to this town." He said he thinks recycling is important but not a realistic solution to the garbage crisis.

Four generations of Kunzig's family have lived in Bethpage. His grandmother, Bertha Kunzig, is an officer and trustee of the Bethpage Republican Club. He and his wife Donna have two children, Brian, 5, and Cristi, 2. Kunzig, 32, is a charter member of the Bethpage Community Council, and a member of the Bethpage Central Civic Association, the Bethpage Historical Society, the Bethpage 50th Anniversary Committee and the Plainview-Bethpage Lions Club.

Kunzig earned a B.S. Degree in Accounting in 1980 from the School of Professional Accounting at C.W. Post. He has a degree in Computer Systems Analysis and Design from Grumman Data Systems Institute. Before coming to work for the town he was an internal auditor for the National Bank of North America.

Fire At Tony's Bumpers Burns For Six Hours

An early morning blaze at Tony's Bumpers at 82A Woodbury Road caused an estimated $1.6 million in damage to structures and inventories in the building and two neighboring business, Hicksville fire officials said.

The fire was reported at approximately 1:30 a.m. on Feb. 18 and brought many neighboring departments to the scene for assistance. Upon arrival, firefighters found flames already through the roof in the rear portion of Tony's Bumpers which is situated behind, but connected to the Concord Auto Supply Store at 82 Woodbury Road.

Hicksville fire chief Anthony Wigdzinski immediately called units from Jericho, Syosset, Westbury and Plainview for mutual aid.

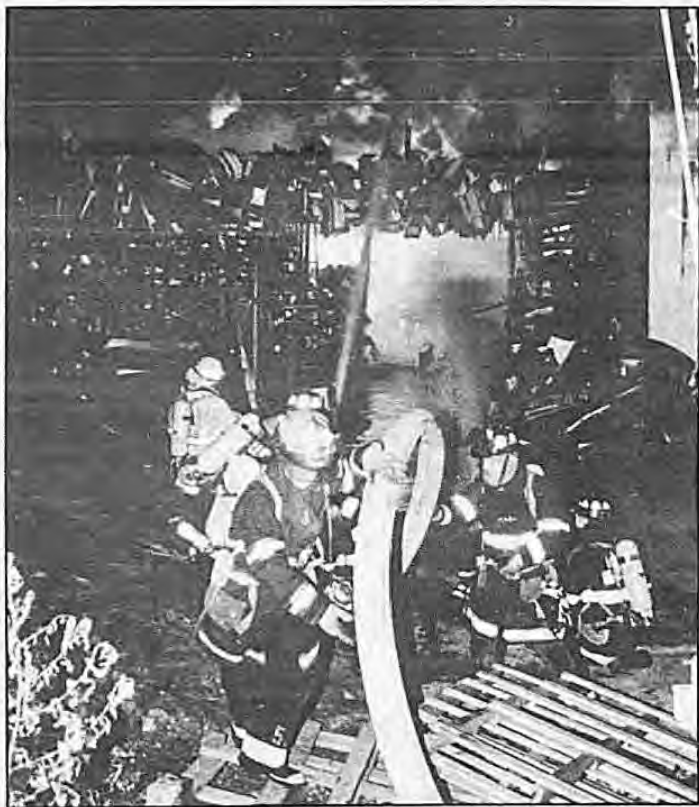

The fire burned for six hours before it was brought under control by more than 200 firefighters. The origin of the fire was believed to be in the office area of the bumper company and evidently burned unnoticed until smoke billowed up, department spokesman Owen Magee said. Tower ladders battled flames 150 feet in the air, one wall fell on a neighboring firm damaging a garage. Propane lines used by the Long Island Rail Road ignited, forcing shutdown of the Port Jefferson line for a short period. Firebrands were reported seen five blocks north of the fire scene.

The Westbury Fire Department was called for an Engine Company to patrol the local neighborhoods. Twelve pieces of apparatus from Hicksville were used in addition to units from Westbury, Jericho, Syosset and Plainview. Units from Farmingdale, Bethpage, Levittown and East Meadow provided stand-bys at Hicksville stations.

Hicksville Chief Anthony Wigdzinski was in charge of fire operations. The blaze is being investigated by county fire marshalls and its cause is listed as undetermined. "It is not unusual for a fire to start unnoticed and gain headway until it is spotted," said Magee.

Neighboring firms receiving damage were Concord Auto—which remained open for business the next day—$300,000 to structure, $100,000 in stock.

The Shivavone Electric Company at 88 Woodbury Road received about $4,000 from a falling block wall. Double G. Productions on Max Avenue received approximately $2,000 in water damage. "The building was so large and surrounded by other buildings, that it required fire units to back into dead end streets and work off rooftops of neighboring buildings," Magee said.

One firefighter was injured, spraining his back when he slipped on a patch of ice. The fire was under control at 6 a.m. and all units returned at 7:15 a.m.

In other department matters, the firefighters responded to the following:

- Firefighters responded to Jericho to standby as they battled a large hour fire in Old Brookville on Feb. 8.

- On Feb. 9 at 4:27 p.m., a smokey blaze broke out in a lower level storage area of Manufacturers Hanover Trust Company at 100 Duffy Avenue. Eleven units under Chief Wigdzinski using 60 members worked for 2½ hours to extinguish the fire which was hard to get at with equipment.

Later on Feb. 9, Hicksville's Hazardous-Materials unit (Haz-Mat) and firefighters responded to a propane leak at the Fairhaven Garden Center at 284 North Broadway. Members at the scene, under Assistant Chief Pat Scanlon had to burn off leaking gas that could not be shut off.

- On Feb. 12, Hicksville Haz-Mat responded to assist the Plainview Fire Department when a propane truck struck a step van carrying solvents and caused it to flip over on its side injuring the driver and spilling 200 gallons of mixed solvents. Haz-Mat Unit members contained the leaking fluids, removed the drums from the overturned vehicles soaked up the spilled product and prepared the area for a commercial clean up crew. The time of call was 9:25 a.m. and was completed at 12:30 p.m. The accident occurred by the Town Landfill on Winding Road.

GULF UPDATE:

—Week ending Feb. 25—

Soviet peace efforts get Iraqi approval, but are unsuccessful as allied leaders insist that Saddam Hussein withdraw from Kuwait without condition. Pres. George Bush puts a peace proposal on the table, which is in line with United Nations resolutions, and gives Saddam Hussein 24 hours to begin the pull-out from Kuwait. As the noon deadline for the last peace effort nears, Hussein reacts by launching Scud missiles on Israel and Saudi Arabia. Just hours after the deadline passed, Bush tells commanders to begin the long-awaited ground war and the final phase in Kuwait's liberation. The very early stages of the ground war are surprisingly successful, with minimal allied casualties and Iraqi surrenders by the hundreds.

Nassau Library System: A Well-Kept Secret

The Libraries' Library Offers Significant Service

By Eileen Brennan

Nassau County residents in general are familiar with their local libraries. We are a county that patronizes its libraries to a greater extent than most counties in New York State, but few of us are familiar with the Nassau Library System, the "libraries' library." Located on Jerusalem Avenue in Uniondale, the Nassau Library System acts as a service bureau for the 54 local libraries in the county.

Unlike the New York City Public Library system, in Nassau County the individual libraries are autonomous and self-supporting.

Like our system of towns, villages and cities, our library system is a patchwork quilt. Thirty-four libraries are funded by voter referendums and are tied in to a school district. Manhasset and Port Washington are examples of these. 14 are village libraries and are funded through village funds. Garden City and Hempstead are two of these. Five are "association libraries." These are among the oldest libraries in the system and were established by associations that sold subscriptions to members. Among those are the Great Neck Public Library, Bryant Library in Roslyn, the Locust Valley Library and the Oceanside Library. There are special district libraries, created because a need was perceived in areas that were loosely related to several districts but had no individual definition. The Shelter Rock Library on Seatingtown Road is an example of these. The City of Glen Cove has its own City Library and the City of Long Beach has a City School District Library. Confused?

Of those 54 libraries, 34 are tied in to the system's computer. Here, 80 percent of the books bought by the local libraries are purchased and processed, at a considerable saving to the individual libraries. The system also handles inventory control for the individual libraries and is the location of the central computer through which the individual libraries connect. For example, if a resident of Herricks wants a book that is not to be found in the Herricks library, the librarian can check the computer and see where in the county it can be found. If the book is located in Uniondale, for example, the librarian can request it and it will be delivered by the Nassau Library System's truck. According to Joe Green, the Nassau

Library's director, his system is one of the most efficient in the United States. Daily deliveries are made to each of the member libraries. Any request is honored within 24 hours.

A most important resource of the Nassau Library is its Outreach Service for the blind or visually handicapped. In one year, the system circulated 70,000 books on tape, which are kept in the Jerusalem Avenue location. The system keeps reader profiles of people who request these materials. They are able to check on whether a person is requesting a book already read, what type of books interest the person, his fields of study, etc.

Youth services are also offered. Monthly meetings are held for children's librarians and for young adult librarians.

Is there a downside to all this good news? Of course. It is the budget offered last month by Governor Mario Cuomo. The Nassau Library System is funded by New York State. "We're down to the bone," Mr. Green says, "and now we're being asked to cut into the marrow." The system has been cost-cutting since 1979. The staff has been reduced from 115 full-time employees to 65. Mr. Green is quick to point out that the quality of work has not gone down due to automation. The system's print shop has been eliminated. Formerly the member libraries were able to have their newsletters and other material printed at reduced costs. Now they're on their own. At one time the system processed the payrolls for the member libraries. That, too, has been returned to each library. Once there was a public relations office, but that position has been eliminated. Once the Jerusalem Avenue facility was open on evenings and weekends so that librarians could do reference work. No more. Mr. Green quoted Governor Cuomo's budget speech in which he said that "there will be no sacred cows and no sacrificial lambs." His retort: "We may not be sacrificial lambs, but we're little lost lambs." Responding to the topic of recession, Mr. Green quoted from a New York State Library Newsletter: "Libraries will get you through times of no money better than money will get you through times of no libraries."

Among the services provided by the Nassau Library System are the Outreach (service to the blind and visually handicapped) and the inter-library loan system. These are mandated by New York State. Mr. Green echoed the words of many school superintendents and town supervisors, when he said that if the state is going to have to cut funds, it should not add mandates.

A system as complex as the Nassau Library System and its relation to its member libraries requires a good deal of cooperation. Mr. Green meets once a month with an executive board of nine library directors who have been chosen by their peers. The library directors also meet collectively every other month. A number of committees meet as needed and Mr. Green also meets on occasion with library boards of trustees. "I really like to get out in the field as much as I can," he says, "but there never seems to be enough time."

Most of the facility in Uniondale is restricted to the use of librarians, but there is one service that is open to the public. That is access to government documents. All documents issued by the United States Government are on file and the public may have access to them at no charge. It would be a good idea to call first and check on hours of accessibility.

Mr. Green says that tours of the facility are offered and can be arranged by calling his office. The telephone number is (516) 292-8920.

We're putting our money where our mouth is to preserve Long Island's water supply.

Long Island's water supply is the finest in the nation. At Slomin's we're taking positive steps to help preserve it. Specifically, we've established a special financial assistance program to help subsidize the cost of complying with the new regulations regarding buried fuel oil tanks.

Under this program, you will be able to purchase our environmentally safe, 280-gallon fiberglass tank for a price that is truly below our cost.* There are also economical options available for above ground storage tanks, starting as low as $100 installed. We realize that even with our subsidy, replacing your tank may be a financial burden, so we're offering low monthly payments with no interest or finance charges.

As a leader in the fuel oil industry, we feel a responsibility to invest in our community... to put our money where our mouth is, so to speak. We're proud to be working with our Long Island neighbors to preserve our fragile environment.

Museum Open House

On the first Sunday of the month the Board of Trustees of the Hicksville Gregory Museum extend an invitation to the Hicksville community to visit the museum free of charge.

For the upcoming open house on Sunday, March 3, the museum is offering a special video presentation on Hawaiian volcanoes. Magnificent footage of volcanoes that have erupted recently and that are still in eruption are used to help illustrate the origin and development of the Hawaiian Islands. The power of the volcanoes and the fragile coexistence that man has with them are well documented.

The open house is from 1 to 5 p.m. and the volcano program will be shown twice, once at 1:45 and again at 3 p.m. The Hicksville Gregory Museum is located in the old Heitz Place Courthouse

Hicksville Podiatrist To Relocate Office

By Rita Langdon

For Hicksville podiatrist Dr. George Rubin, 38 years of memories have been made at his practice on Broadway. But, by next week, he'll be packing up those memories and adding new ones when he moves his office to a larger location at Hicksville Terrace.

Dr. Rubin, who came to Hicksville during the 1950s as a young podiatrist fresh out of New York College of Podiatric Medicine, has seen Hicksville grow since World War II into a bustling community. His first taste of Hicksville came when he was looking for a community to locate his new office. A friend suggested Hicksville because "the town was growing and he felt it was a good place for a young podiatrist to start out," Dr. Rubin said.

After a visit to real estate and insurance agent Bill Heberer on Marie Street, Dr. Rubin began his practice on Broadway on the second floor of where Chateau Pharmacy is today. Dr. Rubin's office was located next to well-known dentist Dr. Curtis.

With no clients at first, Dr. Rubin joined the local Rotary Club to help boost business, and later introduced himself to the nuns and Monsignor Bitterman at St. Ignatius Church down the block. He offered free treatment to the nuns and priests.

"It was very slow the first year or two," said Dr. Rubin.

Today, he and his two partners, Dr. Joseph

Miceli and Dr. Frank Ciamano, have more than 2,500 clients. Through the Rotary Club, the Chamber of Commerce and his prime location in the center of Hicksville, many local merchants and sales people were his first customers. Some clients came from Seamen and Eisemann Insurance, the 5 and 10, Sweet Shop and William's Hardware.

Back then doctors made housecalls, and to this day, Dr. Rubin still makes housecalls to those patients who are bedridden.

In 1967, Dr. Rubin moved his practice a few doors down to the former Craft Jewelry store.

On March 4, he will be operating out of the Hicksville Terrace shopping center at 495-24 South Broadway, because it has greater office space and parking, he said. He decided to remain in the area because "Hicksville's been very good to me both socially and economically." He added, "This is the place to be."

LONGTIME LOCAL DOCTOR George Rubin is moving his office to Hicksville Terrace, 495-24 South Broadway, this week.

From Flo's Mailbox

Hicksville's Very Popular In Upstate, N.Y.

Flo Gries is the Illustrated's social editor. From time to time, she receives some pretty interesting things in her mailbox. The following is a story about a "mythical" Hicksville town that was designed by a man upstate. She received the following letter from Bea Perricone. Flo's regular column appears on page 2.

"As a former Long Islander (Bellmore) and very much aware of "our" Hicksville, I thought your readers might be interested in a "mythical" Hicksville.

"Walter Bonney, a former telephone repair man (now retired) from upstate, New York, has recreated a "mythical" Hicksville, at his home in St. Cloud, Florida.

"Walter has hand-crafted a collection of 19th century buildings and horse-drawn wagons to create the village of Hicksville. This took him seven years.

"Some of the sights you will see in this typical "western" town is a lively stable, a place for travelers to water, feed and rest their horses. Some travelers are ever exchanging their tired horses for rested animals.

"Just down the street, weary travelers pay two-bits for a bed and a bath at Margie's Hotel. Men can be found drinking, playing cards and catching up on local happenings in the hotel's main lobby.

"At another landmark, The Red Door Saloon, barkeeper Jake will gladly pour you a drink while giving you all the latest gossip. On the porch, Walter has placed old man Willie napping.

"Alex's Country Store, a church, bank, sawmill, the sheriff's office as well as the personalities of Doc Pitford, Alex the blacksmith and B.S. Fields, the lawyer are all portrayed in this village.

"Main Street in Hicksville is congested with a family's prairie wagon and a young couple out riding in their surrey with a fringe on top. A larger Conestoga wagon is carrying a family and all its possession through Hicksville. There is also a chuck wagon and a water wagon to wash down the brick and cobblestone streets.

"Walter Bonney's creation of Hicksville has what most history books and museum don't—life.

"This display has brought back many memories to folks who used to live this kind of life.

"The miniature replica started out as a hobby, but mushroomed as his interest in the subject grew. It's a natural instinct. Through research and old photos, he was able to create wagons that are about 80 percent accurate.

"The buildings and wagon pieces are made of scrap wood and leather. The figures are made of self-hardening clay—which he paints.

"The display is laid out in a one-room building behind their home. It is open to school children or senior groups.

"Walter said that eventually he would like to donate "Hicksville" to a museum!"

Wouldn't it be nice if it was donated to "our Hicksville?" We would like to thank Bea Perricone for sending us this information. Bea worked for Bellmore Life for 17 years before moving to Kissimmee, Florida, and now writes a weekly column for the News-Gazette.

If anyone would like to contact Mr. Bonney, his phone number is 407-892-3541 and his address is 802 Missouri Avenue, St. Cloud, Florida 34769.

In this nine week program officers work closely with the students to bolster their self-esteem and give them concrete ways to say "no" to drugs. Math Students Help At Fair

As part of the Curriculum Fair at the Hicksville Middle School, Team 7 White helped out the Mathematics Department display some of the programs going on in the Middle School.

Problem solving is one of the major skills students are being taught to develop, so the students of 7 White created their own math posters depicting some classic mathematical brainteasers. They brought their posters to Mr. Scheck's math classes and Mr. Chester Singer, chairman of the math department, spent two afternoons picking out the six best posters.

These posters were hung in the main lobby during the Curriculum Fair and the parents were invited to solve as many of the problems as they could. If they were able to solve at least five of the six problems, they received a special Valentine's coffee mug as a prize from Team 7 White. The students whose posters were selected are Kristine D'Amato, Matthew DePalma, Aubrey Ann Hill, Janna Jachniewicz, Janine Rovtar and Rachel Weintraub.

After trying to solve the posters in the lobby, the parents were invited up to room 319 to see the rest of the work that the students of Team 7 White had done.

Public Auction Of Affordable Condominiums

For the first time in metropolitan New York, a significant number of affordable housing units will be sold at public auction by Sheldon Good & Company.

The March 23 auction will include the last 36 of 170 one and two-bedroom condominiums at Lexington Village, a 10-acre, garden-style residential development in Bay Shore, a South Shore community.

Originally priced from $97,780 to $124,980, the residences will be sold at suggested opening bids of $25,000 and $35,000.

Eight of the residences at Lexington Village, 1-15 Hemlock Drive, will be sold "absolute," regardless of price, to the highest bidders.

Steven Good, president of Sheldon Good & Company, said, "Until now, public auctions of residential real estate in the metropolitan region have involved luxury homes and town houses. On Long Island, especially, the properties being offered were at the high end of the price spectrum.

"The Lexington Village auction will allow many more first-time homebuyers to enter the market," he said.

In addition, 90 percent financing will be available at below-market rates to qualified owner-occupants and investors through State Savings, E.A. A certified or cashiers check for $2,500 or $3,500 will be required to bid.

The residences at Lexington Village have New England Colonial style exteriors. The interiors have large kitchens with all new appliances and counter-top convenience centers, ceramic tile floors and walls and walk-in closets. Each cluster of eight homes has its own laundry room.

The condominiums have spacious balconies and patios, high-efficiency insulation, and ample parking.

All the residences offered for sale will be open for inspection on Saturdays and Sundays from noon to 4 p.m. beginning March 2, and Tuesdays and Thursdays from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. Take the Long Island Expressway to Exit 53 South, Sagtikos Parkway. Proceed about 4 miles to Heckscher Parkway, left at the fork to the first exit, 42 North, Fifth Avenue. Make left at the first traffic light on to Spur Drive, North. Proceed about 1/4 mile to Manatuck Blvd. Turn right and continue about 1/4 mile to Hemlock Drive.

The auction will take place March 23 at noon at the Sheraton Smithtown Hotel, 110 Vanderbilt Motor Parkway, Smithtown. For further information, call the Sheldon Good Auction Line at 666-6751.

A Letter from Lulubelle...

...Isn't it wonderful that with lots of things being disappointing, some things are just as we always imagined and hoped they would be...Paris, for example...it always seems so unreal to find yourself walking along the Seine close to the river where you have watched Gene Kelly dancing...and you almost want to say as did the old lady in the old fairy tale, "Can this be it?...It's so exactly as you pictured that it can hardly be real...and to sail on the Bateau Mouche past the Eiffel Tower and on to Notre Dame...and to walk and then sit at a sidewalk cafe on the Champs Elysees...such bliss!!...and then in Holland to see those acres of tulips and workers actually wearing wooden shoes as the windmills turn in the distance...it wasn't just in the Hans Brinker story after all...and in the ancient ruins of the city of Ephesus, now in Turkey but once Greece, to realize that you are where St. Paul walked and then wrote his epistles back to the Ephesians—this is to be in a world of exaltation...to be in Venice when it's wonderful and not smelly as we hear it can be and to realize that there are only boats—no cars or trucks—now you always heard about that, but in the back of your mind, you imagined that somewhere in the recesses of the city there must be some trucks—but, no, there goes the garbage boat, the police boat, the fire boat—only boats—and, of course, the gondolas just as they look in the movies...And, as for London, the only surprise for me was that Big Ben wasn't higher—but it was so familiar and so were the wonderful black taxicabs that we all know so well from pictures that we feel right at home in them when we see them for the first time...And one other thrill that never fails, right here at home, is leaving New York in a freezing ice storm and arriving in Florida and seeing those palm trees waving in the lovely sunny breeze...We all know that lots of travel has its disappointments, but it is so wonderful that so much is just as it should be.

Yours, Lulubelle

The Investor's Corner

By Dr. Joseph P. Frey
Con Artists

The recession has hurt many people. They were hurting before it started. Real wages (wages matched against what it will buy) have been declining for years. Older people are having an increasing hard time trying to keep up. More and more people are slipping into or below the poverty level.

The recession has made all of this worse. If someone loses their job today, there are not many places they can go to find a comparable job. Many are taking jobs at less pay. Many have been biting the economic bullet.

This is exactly the environment where people become desperate. It is the type of environment when people turn to other methods to compensate for the lost income. People without hope slide downward economically. Some turn to crime when they have no hope or money.

People with some, but not enough, money try to increase their yields or principal. Usually, the gaming tables at the gambling casino are full as people try to increase their money. They are taking a foolish route because the odds are always in favor of the house. Others look to investing to do the same thing. Many, without knowing, are taking the same risk as at Las Vegas or Atlantic City. They go out and pursue big bucks. They leave themselves open to the con men.

Con men always sound so nice, so believable, so smooth and so trustworthy. We have written about this in past articles. People leave themselves open to scams. No one likes to lose money no matter how much they have. The ones with a lot are not the ones who normally are cheated.

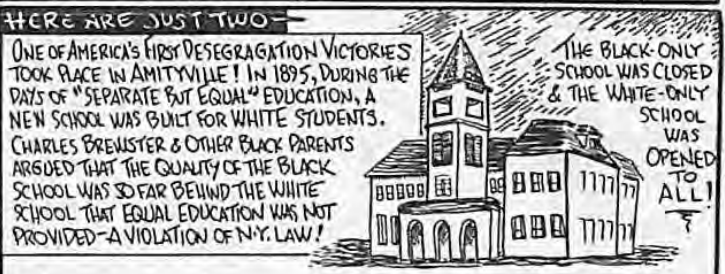

It is the ones who cannot afford to lose, that end up getting taken to the cleaners. The lure of a quick, honest dollar can be irresistible. You have probably received phone calls where you are "guaranteed to make mega-bucks." You will "grow your money in our real estate deal," or "triple your money" in this deal.

I remember once having some "smoothie" tell me that this deal was exactly what Bob Nurock ("did I know who he was") was doing for his clients. How could I resist! I did, by hanging up while he was still talking. If I need to be insulted, I would not pick a stranger to do it. If I wanted a deal just like Nurock's, I would go to Nurock because I regard him as quite knowledgeable and honest. That is how I took care of the problem. You should do likewise.

You should be very wary when you get a call from a stranger. The odds are that the caller is out for his benefit, not yours. In some cases, money can be made, all are not scams. You will find, if they are not scams, that the benefits are greatly exaggerated. It is never as easy, quick, or as risk-free as the salesperson makes it all sound.

Schemes come in all shades, flavors, and forms. The question is what can you do to protect yourself? Can you spot a fraud? Look at the deal. First, ask for it in writing, ask to see the prospectus. This requires them to mail it to you. (I always ask for the information to be mailed, not Federal Express). If it is a fraud, you have some protection under Federal postal laws. Some, not much because Boiler room operators move quite quickly. Second, look for warning signals. The investments' claims are stated by the salesperson. Are they out of line with what you could get in an investment you know about; a CD at your bank perhaps; a T-Bond? If the returns or percentages or claims are well above average, it is potentially very risky. Bells and sirens should ring in your head. Third, a sure-fire warning sign is "this is a last chance deal!" "Time is running out to get into this ground floor opportunity!" "You have been especially picked by a computer scan, we cannot hold your spot!" They usually ask for a check or a credit card at the point of maximum pressure (before you have a chance to think). Another warning sign is the way you get contacted. While many come in the mail, the phone call is quicker and more sure for a con artist. You can throw away a piece of mail; it is hard to get rid of a good phone solicitor. Never give your credit card number or send a check unless you know with whom you are dealing. You can check out people many ways. The Better Business Bureau keeps files, the Federal agencies like the SEC, the stock exchanges, and National Association of Security Dealers, or the State Insurance Department are examples.

The DR. Is 'IN' At IMAC

By William Gravert
Dr. John Performs At
Huntington's Inter-Media Arts Center

Whether you go out once a week or once a year, finding a comfortable convenient spot to catch a show can result in a guided tour of 'Nightclub Hell'.

Bypass this musical-maze at the Inter-Media Arts Center (IMAC) in Huntington, the last word in user-friendly nightspots.

Situated in the old Huntington Theatre at 370 N.Y. Avenue, the non-profit IMAC converted the 1700 seater into a 650 seat venue with ample stage, good sound system, and great sight-lines—there really isn't a bad seat in the house.

The spacious and comfy lobby features video monitors, on-board art exhibit, and full wet bar.

But booking is the barometer of any talent series. With rock, jazz, blues, folk, New Age, international music, and a smattering of live-dance-works, IMAC strikes a tasty, eclectic balance for the occasional or seasoned concert-goer.

On Friday, February 15 Dr. John (a/k/a Mac Rebinack) brought in his Louisiana-Delta song styling for two sold-out sets.

Gleaned from years as a New Orleans session-man and band leader, John's no-frills blend of Delta Blues, stride, and boogie-woogie is authentic as jambalaya but as approachable as corn flakes. He won a Grammy last year and was nominated this year in the Blues category.

Unfortunately, at the late show his sidemen (guitar, bass, & drums) were far from virtuosi, hence a missing flexibility in color and dynamic limited the set to somewhat garage-band parameters. But nothing could hide John's whiskey-steeped voice of crushed velvet and relaxed piano precision.

On the boogaloo-feel Runnin' Thru the Jungle, his rap-like soliloquy over a rumbling rhythm section brought hoots and cheers from the mostly thirty-something crowd.

With punchy left-hand rhythms and heavy right-hand solo style, John will never be pulled over for speeding, but he does occasionally flash his musical license-to-rip.

The evening's excursion through bluesdom concluded with Willie Dixon's Wang Dang Doodle (All Night Long). John displayed an ability to play with grit and grimace that's as polite as a fist in the gut.

One word of warning: IMAC's shows are all general admission. While currently "evaluating several reserved seating plans" according to Executive Director Mike Rothbard, right now it's first-come, first-served. So get there early.

Upcoming at IMAC: Flora Purim & Airtio, Sat. March 2; Kenny Rankin, Sat. March 9; James Cotton Blues Band, Sat. March 16; steel drummer Andy Narell, Sat. March 23. All shows at 9 p.m. Info: 549-ARTS.

THE LONG ISLAND YOUTH ORCHESTRA

clubs to South's opening spade bid and that South goes directly to four spades. Right at this point North has the values for a raise to six spades — considering South's leap to four. But, in order to test the possibility of a grand slam, North should first use Blackwood.
He doesn't do so to learn whether South has an ace — that is practically a sure thing — but because he is planning next to investigate a grand slam.
South's five diamond response shows one ace and North then bids five notrump, ostensibly asking for kings. By logic as well as universal agreement, this bid guarantees that the partnership has all four aces.
At this point, though, South should apply some simple common sense and bid seven spades, paying more attention to how many tricks he's apt to make than to telling partner how many kings he has.
From the standpoint of tricks, South can count seven spade winners, at least three clubs and the two red aces, and he should have no doubt whatsoever that North will provide a thirteenth trick — beyond his three aces — in one form or another. South should therefore bid the grand slam straightaway. Note, however, that even if South bids only six hearts over five notrump, as the actual South did, he can still carry on to seven spades after North attempts to sign off at six.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	4 NT	Pass
5 ♦	Pass	5 NT	Pass
6 ♥	Pass	6 ♠

Opening lead — king of diamonds.

Blackwood is one of the best conventions ever devised, but it should not be abused or it may defeat its very purpose. There are several delicate nuances connected with Blackwood that must be appreciated for the convention to be fully effective. Here is a case that shows how too rigid an application of Blackwood — such as the sequence shown in the diagram, which took place when the deal actually occurred — can do more harm than good.
Let's say North responds two
