HS Students, Staff Get Measles Shots

Approximately 1,350 Hicksville High School students and staff were slated to be inoculated this past Tuesday after a 15-year-old student was diagnosed with measles.

The Nassau County Department of Health set up a clinic in the high school gyms for free vaccinations after notifying the Hicksville district administration of the confirmed case on March 6.

Nora Richards, district spokesperson, said that a letter was sent home to all students, parents and staff notifying them of the vaccination program. Those who have already had a second measles vaccination are exempt from the clinic. The Department of Health warned that students who do not receive the second measles vaccination may be subject to exclusion from school.

There are approximately 1,200 students who have not as yet received their school measles vaccination, Richards said.

She added, "The student who contracted the measles has been tracked to indicate that exposure during school hours has been limited to the high (continued on page 6)

IKEA Opens New Store In Hicksville

By Rita Langdon

While many areas are suffering a setback due to the recession, Hicksville is experiencing a business boom.

IKEA, a Sweden-based home furnishing store which opens next Wednesday at the Broadway Mall, recently hired more than 270 workers to operate the new Hicksville store.

About 1,700 people were interviewed for jobs at IKEA, according to Jean Marc Claiser, store manager. He added that many Long Islanders were hired, including people from the Hicksville area.

"This is going to be a big opportunity for Hicksville," said Peter Sharkey of security, a recently hired employee. "There's a lot of jobs for younger people."

The Hicksville store, IKEA's first in New York State, occupies 226,000 square feet—the size of five football fields—and is a free standing building on the mall property. IKEA has 91 stores in 22 countries worldwide.

IKEA offers home furnishing, ranging from sofas to soup spoons, wall units to wine glasses to wall paper. The furniture and other household products are imported from Sweden and are also made in the United States.

Claiser attributes the store's reasonable prices to IKEA's do-it-yourself method. Customers who purchase furniture, in many cases, transport the goods home and assemble themselves. Claiser said, "If you have difficulty putting it together, we have specialists who can help by phone."

GRAND OPENING: IKEA, a Sweden-based furniture company, will open its doors next Wednesday, March 20, at the Broadway Mall on Route 107 in Hicksville.

"If you need more screws we send them out UPS [United Parcel Service]."

He added that IKEA has a "very good return policy. If you take it home and don't like it, we'll give you your money back." In addition, savings are passed onto the customers (continued on page 6)

Silver Jubilee Celebration At Holy Trinity

By Rita Langdon

Holy Trinity Diocesan High School will not just be reflecting on 25 years of memories during its anniversary celebration this year, but will be setting the ground work for its future.

As a result of its year-long celebration, money will be raised at selective events to help implement a new scholar incentive program, expand its communication curriculum and to upgrade the school auditorium.

Trinity will be hosting an elaborate dinner dance at the Crest Hollow Country Club in Woodbury and will be raffling off a 1991 Ford Explorer, both on April 12.

"Such an anniversary celebration is not merely an opportunity to look back," school principal James J. Boglioli said. "It is a time to turn the page of the next chapter in Trinity's history."

All proceeds from the dinner, raffle and ad journal will go directly toward these three future improvements at the school.

This past Sunday, Trinity honored one of its past principals, Msgr. John Seidenschwang at a special mass concelebrated by Most Rev. John R. McGann, bishop of Rockville Centre, and priests from neighboring parishes. Msgr. Seidenschwang, now pastor at St. Anne's in Garden City, joined the Holy Trinity family in 1975. "Msgr. John was a major force in the school growth and development," said Boglioli.

Under Msgr. John's leadership, the number of computers at the school increased from five to 100, extra science labs were made mandatory to give students more hands-on experience, a sophomore enrichment program was instituted, and improvements were made in the math, science and language arts programs.

"He really turned the school around," said

William Dalton, director of development and a teacher at Trinity since its early years. "His management style was to get people to say, 'Yes, we have to reform. We need programs that will make the students feel good about themselves,'" said Dalton.

Trinity's theme throughout its anniversary celebration is "Thank You For The Moment." Dalton explained that in many cases each Trinity student remembers one particular and special moment during his or her high school days. Those "moments" will be highlighted in pictures at the dinner dance. One important event captured in photographs—for example homecoming, football games, the ring dance—for each graduating class will be posted on huge boards at the dance.

Other events planned for Trinity's anniversary celebration include a 5-K Run, sponsored by the Hicksville Lions Club, on April 14 at the school. Earlier this year, Trinity hosted a dinner theatre called "The No Frills Review" as part of its celebration.

Another goal of Trinity during this celebration is to reunite alumni, parents and friends. "I think what makes this school unique is the people," said Dalton. "Not only do alumni tell us we've prepared them well, but they tell us they've always felt like family."

Trinity, a Catholic high school for grades 9-12, opened its doors on Newbridge Road in Hicksville in 1966 with 660 freshmen. Its first graduating class was in 1970. This year Trinity has 1,420 students enrolled, and expects to have 1,470 students walk through its doors in September.

"Trinity has established a rich tradition of excellence," said principal James Boglioli. "The vision of a school where a youngster can receive a value-centered education in a family atmosphere remains alive!"

Birthday girl Caitlyn Elizabeth Kegney celebrated her first birthday on January 22 with her own cake. As you can see, she thought it tasted good.

Attention Jacob Fans

Would the person who sent us a letter last week about Yacob (Jacob), Hicksville's first homeless man please contact our office as your name and phone number was misplaced. Supreme Court Upholds Oyster Bay Town Decision

A Supreme Court Judge upheld the Town of Oyster Bay's decision to deny a permit for a developer to construct an office building near residential homes.

Peter DeJana had applied to the town in 1990 for a special use permit to build a two-story office building and operate a public garage, store heavy equipment outdoors and repair vehicles in connection with municipal services. The property is located on West John Street, west of Kuhl Avenue, Hicksville.

The town denied the permit in September 1990 because "the proposed use would cause undue noise, odor and fumes to penetrate surrounding residences." The board also said that granting this application would result in "appreciable reduction in the market value of properties in the area."

Dejana took the issue to the Supreme Court which ruled in favor of the town board's decision.

Judge Robert Roberto, Jr. presided over the case.

Town Still Waiting For New Traffic Signal

A traffic light which was scheduled for installation in January has been delayed, according to the New York State Department of Transportation (DOT).

The signal was slated for installation in front of the Motor Vehicle Department on Broadway at Ludy Street in January 1991.

A DOT spokesperson said the contract that includes the installation of this signal has been awarded and construction is expected to begin shortly. There are several signals contained in this contract, which is scheduled for completion in January 1992.

"This signal will be installed as early in the contract as possible," said James O. Frein, Acting Regional Traffic Engineer of the DOT. "The contractor is awaiting delivery of materials necessary for this installation."

The Town of Oyster Bay requested the light because of dangerous traffic situations in that area.

Man Sentenced In Abuse Case Said He Aided Robert Izzo

A Williston Park man was sentenced last week to the maximum term of 2½ to 7 years in jail for sexually abusing a 10-year-old girl in his home in 1987.

The man, Anders Quintano, 33, also said that he drove a school bus while Robert Izzo sodomized a kindergartener. Izzo was found guilty on Feb. 27 on 35 counts of child abuse.

Quintano pleaded guilty last year to first-degree sexual abuse and criminal facilitation, said Ed Grilli, spokesperson for Nassau District Attorney Denis Dillon.

Business Leaders Bring Home County Awards

Next Stop: State Competition

By Rita Langdon

Hicksville High School's Future Business Leaders of America will continue their climb up the corporate ladder as they participate in a state-wide competition this spring.

Four club members have already made their mark on the county level this year by collecting seven top awards at a business leadership competition in Westbury.

Come April, however, five members will get another opportunity to compete—this time against 2,000 of their peers. Michael Chang, Sandeep Chainani, Sal DeFazio, Hedy Elbedewe and Kathy Rombach will represent the Hicksville chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) at the New York State FBLA Leadership Conference held in Rochester April 8 through April 10. At the conference, under the guidance of their advisor, Ed Sullivan, the students will attend workshops, participate in competitions and learn leadership training.

At the state-wide competitions this spring, the students will "meet new people, learn leadership qualities, and what it's like to compete," Sullivan said.

At the Nassau County FBLA County Leadership Competition held last month at SUNY Farmingdale, Hicksville placed first, second and third in a variety of categories. Michael Chang took first place in business mathematics, second place in Introduction of Business and Computer Concepts. The business mathematics portion required Chang to take a 100 question test, with the highest score receiving first place.

Hedy Elbedewe won first place in Office Procedures and third place in Introduction to Occupations. The second place award for Office Procedures went to Sandeep Chainani. Denise DeBenedictis won second place for Business Ownership and Marketing.

Although the club has won awards on the county level in the past, "This is the best we've ever done in first, second and third place," said Sullivan.

The business club, now in its sixth year, has 17 members who meet a few times a month after school. So far this year, the club has hosted three major fund-raisers. One included a Type-A-Thon to benefit the American Red Cross. The chapter members raised $168.70.

At the general meetings the students are introduced to business procedures through teacher guidance and rap sessions.

Through the club, "we hope they get some experience in the business world," said Sullivan, a high school business teacher.

Eleventh grader Hedy Elbedewe said that as a club member she is getting a jump on her planned accounting career. She said that Ed Sullivan helps the students prepare for the competitions and outlines what to expect in the business world.

"I feel I will advance [more quickly] when I get into the business field," she said.

In other high school news, 12th grader Christopher Munson has been chosen by the school and the Hicksville Elks Lodge as February's Student-Of-The-Month.

Among the academic leaders of his class, Chris is also a member of the many clubs. He is currently on the School Improvement Committee and the Youth Advisory Committee. He is also a student government representative, a member of the National Honor Society and Spanish Honor Society, on the Prom Committee, in the Orchestra and Festival Chorus, and a member of Athletes Against Substance Abuse.

Additionally, he has interviewed Assemblyman Fred Parola on Channel 10, attended the American Legion's Boys' State, has been a member of Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD) and Teens Against Drug Abuse (TADA), the National Junior Honor Society, has been a class president and class secretary, and has performed in two school musicals.

Currently, Chris is a member of the varsity football (unsung hero award), basketball and lacrosse teams. He has also twice been captain of the baseball team (Howard Finnegan & Golden Glove Award), and played on the Intramural Hockey team.

Chris has a list of community services also to his credit.

Hicksville High's number one ranked student in her class, Carrie Ann Sabato, has been named a finalist in the 1991 Competition for Merit Scholarships. Carrie Ann has received a certificate of merit, along with approximately 14,000 finalists nationwide, and is now being considered for a Merit Scholarship.

Carrie Ann is vice president of the National Honor Society and is also a member of the Spanish Honor Society and the Volunteer Club. She has been in the chorale for four years and she plays the piano. Carrie Ann plans to attend the State University of New York (SUNY) at Binghamton; her alternative choices are SUNY at Geneseo and Cornell University. With many academic desires, her college major plans are undecided.

Hicksville High School had two participants this year in the Nassau County American Legion Oratorical Contest. Representing Williston Post No. 144 was David Cuccaro, and from Elmont Post No. 1033, was Cynthia Gaylor. Twenty-six students from 13 high schools participated in this event.

Hicksville Schools Honor Super Students

Hicksville schools have established programs that recognize those students who have done exceptionally well during a designated time period. The following are students who have been acknowledged by their school.

As an outgrowth of the district's MAC Committee team, with representative from school faculty, staff and parents, several Hicksville elementary schools have initiated an honor roll. Student on their schools' honor roll have attained outstanding performance in the areas of academic achievement, effort, behavior, homework, study habits as well as above average competency in special subject areas. Ikea Opens New Store because IKEA purchases in large quantities for all its stores.

The showroom, located on the second floor, contains real-life room settings of bedrooms, bathrooms, living rooms, kitchens, offices and work rooms. IKEA supplies its customers with catalogues, tape measures, shopping lists and a small pencil for jotting down notes and measurements.

After choosing their items, customers must collect those goods at the self-service warehouse. Information Stations are located on every floor if a customer needs help. Through the use of computers, trained personnel can help customers design rooms.

There is a parking canopy located outside the shipping area for customers to load their cars. The first floor houses the Marketplace and features lamps, gift shops, bed linens, curtains and blinds, textiles, area rugs, plants, frames, tools, hardware and wicker.

IKEA also provides supervised play rooms for children while their parents are shopping; one "ballroom" filled with bright plastic balls for children 3 to 6 years of age and the other for children ages 7 to 10. Other playrooms are dispersed throughout the entire store on both floors. Also available are strollers to take the children around the store and a baby changing room which offers free diapers.

IKEA offers a selection of Swedish specialties at the IKEA Restaurant and Cafe from hot entrees to light snacks. "The cafe is designed for very, very fast service," said Ron Rescigno, department head for food service.

The IKEA Swede Shop offers a variety of Swedish delicacies such as Lingonberries (a berry found in Sweden), herring, Swedish meatballs, salmon, hard bread, cheeses and candy.

Kids can eat at tables just their size that are set up in a special area of the restaurant. For babies, high chairs are available, baby food in jars are sold and IKEA offers to warm a baby's bottle for free.

During IKEA's five day celebration beginning Wednesday, March 20, 125,000 visitors are expected. The first customer to enter the new Long Island store will win the furnishing items pictured on the front cover of IKEA's 1991 catalogue which has been distributed to most homes on Long Island. The second and third customers will also win furniture, and the next 100 people will win

TED folding chairs. A 1991 SAAB 9000, a trip to Sweden, and a HALLAND buffalo leather sofa are among other items to be awarded.

Children's activities will also be featured during grand opening festivities. IKEA is named after its founder, Ingvar Kamprad who grew up on a farm called Elmtaryd in the parish of Agunnaryd in the south of Sweden.

school only." Richards also said that this student does not have siblings in any of the other Hicksville schools.

Measles, according to the Department of Health is highly contagious and the most serious of the common childhood diseases.

There were 43 confirmed cases of the measles in Nassau County in 1990, said Shelly Feuer Domash, Department of Health spokesperson. There have been five confirmed cases this year.

We're putting our money where our mouth is to preserve Long Island's water supply.

Long Island's water supply is the finest in the nation. At Slomin's we're taking positive steps to help preserve it. Specifically, we've established a special financial assistance program to help subsidize the cost of complying with the new regulations regarding buried fuel oil tanks.

Under this program, you will be able to purchase our environmentally safe, 280-gallon fiberglass tank for a price that is truly below our cost.* There are also economical options available for above ground storage tanks, starting as low as $100 installed. We realize that even with our subsidy, replacing your tank may be a financial burden, so we're offering low monthly payments with no interest or finance charges.

As a leader in the fuel oil industry, we feel a responsibility to invest in our community... to put our money where our mouth is, so to speak. We're proud to be working with our Long Island neighbors to preserve our fragile environment.

Super Students

The Chinese New Year was recently celebrated in Anne LaBarbera's Lee

Avenue ESL (English as a Second Language) kindergarten class. Hsiang Chao Squire brought delicious homemade food for the kindergarten teachers Mrs. Grayson and Mrs. Ellis, Mrs. LaBarbera, and the children to sample and enjoy. Mrs. Squire also explained the special holiday customs and presented everyone with a bag of treats. East Street School students have been kept busy with a variety of activities. It was "Famous People Day" in Ms. Gagliardo's third grade class. The children enjoyed themselves as they entertained each other with impersonations, bag puppet skits, TV taped shows and more. This was a February not to forget as Abe Lincoln, Martin Luther King, Jr., Helen Keller, the Great Harry Houdini, and many more famous figures came alive to tell tales relating to the dynamic lives they led.

Dennis Oehlor and his friends once again visited East Street School for their annual demonstration and presentation of athletic excellence.

The fact that these three men have either lost their sight or the use of one of their legs has not stopped them from achieving Olympic greatness.

The sixth grade students in Robert Hilsky's and Dr. Leo Kanawada's classes were privileged to again see their remarkable ability to run in world-record time, sky dive and hear words of inspiration and courage.

CONTACT LENSES

THE GOOD NEWS: One American in 10 — 20 million people — wear contact lenses. Most of them successfully. Contact lenses are their choice for looking good and seeing well.

AND THE BAD NEWS: 1 million Americans have stopped wearing contact lenses for a variety of reasons, not the least of which are improper fitting, and improper or inadequate professional supervision.

When it comes to contact lenses — your vision, comfort and safety — selection of the right doctor may well determine success or failure. To be thorough, skilled, caring professional, we are your first line vision resource center. At Woodbury Optical Group all contact lens treatment is administered by Dr. Dean Han, O.D., M.A., founder and director of the Contact Lens Research Foundation. Dr. Han has treated thousands of lens wearers successfully. He is a highly respected and frequent lecturer to the profession in the U.S., Canada and Europe. His texts and articles are used for reference throughout the globe. Dr. Han is the director of the Low Vision Clinic at a leading New York teaching hospital and instructor of ophthalmology residents.

Letters To The Editor

East Street School

To The Editor:

At last Tuesday's Board of Education meeting [Feb. 26] Dr. Fenton thought there was something wrong with her microphone—she asked if the audience heard an echo. I certainly did, Board Member Bill Bennett said, "close East Street School," and in the audience there was an echo from Mr. Bennett's fans "close East Street, close East Street."

Their reasons for wanting East Street closed has been gone over again and again but is without merit since each so-called problem with East Street, such as age and asbestos can be found in other buildings throughout the district. A survey was also presented under the auspices that PTA filled it out and endorsed it. The people in the auditorium were led to believe this by Mr. Bennett. In actuality, this survey was never completed by PTA and its figures are inconclusive. I wondered where did Mr. Fenton get this survey and who filled it out if not PTA? I think we all can juggle figures to fit our needs. Our PTA's should be very angry that Mr. Bennett referred to this survey as coming from PTA.

So then why is East Street the echo at almost every board meeting? Perhaps some people think THEY (East Street School) should be closed along with Willet Avenue even though the plan to close two schools in one end of town has been the downfall of a proper school-closing plan from the very beginning. THEY should be closed since some people are angry with the Board Members for recinding their votes. THEY should be closed because some people are angry with James Martillo for recinding his vote to close East Street. THEY should be closed because some people are angry with Donna Martillo for working hard along with other parents to keep East Street open.

I ask you to stop and take a good hard look at who "THEY" really are: The Board is not East Street School, nor is James Martillo, Donna Martillo or even Dorrie Bernardo. East Street School is a building housing Hicksville's students—our children. Along with their teachers and principal, THEY fill the halls and rooms with learning, living and laughter. THEY deserve to be there. THEY deserve to be able to reach their school each day safely without any hazards. THEY deserve not to be bused all over Hicksville just so the angry people can feel satisfied.

I apologize if this letter stirs up some resentment. It is not my intention. People who have been attending Board Meetings can understand my frustration with Mr. Bennett and the special group he represents and will understand I feel the need to clarify once and for all, East Street School is not anyone to hold a grudge against. East Street School is our children of Hicksville.

Dorrie Bernardo

Incumbent For Library Board

To The Editor:

With this letter I wish to express my intention to serve the Hicksville Community for another term on the Library Board of Trustees. I am a resident since 1951 and was a teacher in the Hicksville Schools since 1964. In 1981 I was elected to the Library Board where I could combine my love for books and my work for an ever better library. These 10 years have been very exciting. Not only was the Library and its services expanded, but I had the privilege to be present and instrumental when modern technology revolutionized the library's operation. Computers for our patrons and students use, modern cataloguing, a video library, all coming in during my service at the board. Most recently we have been instrumental in easing the austerity in the schools as we extend our services to the community.

We try to keep the budget as low as possible, yet improvement is always on the agenda. Vote, on April 17, for the budget and allow me the pleasure to serve again and bring the library further into the future.

Josephine Buckner

Response To Letter

To The Editor:

After reading the letter by Dianne Otten in your Thursday, February 21, issue we feel impelled to respond.

The Rally that was held on February 10, 1991 at the John Burnes Park in Massapequa was to support the families of our Service Men and Women who are now serving their country. Anti-War Protestors did not belong there. This rally was not to make a political statement for or against the war. It was rather to show each other how much love and support there is in our communities. What better way than to come together in friendship, with outstretched hands to comfort each other. This was our motive for going.

Our Men and Women, our loved ones, joined the military with the intention of serving their country faithfully.

The Vietnam War taught us a valuable lesson. The Veterans of that war and this war were only doing their duty, we should not turn our backs on them. Neither should we expect them to neglect their duty and surely face court martial.

The outpouring of support for our troops is not an over reaction nor the result of guilt. It is the realization that although war is a horrible travesty these men and women rose to the call of duty with dignity and bravery. They deserve our love and respect.

A Letter from Lulabelle...

...In your house are there drawers and boxes of photos and other scrapbook things that you are going to paste into your books "one day"? ... If you are like most of us and not one of those super-organized people who make a travel scrapbook every time they return from a trip, you are just like me and have drawers and boxes that are very precious—but that you never get around to putting into the scrapbooks that are also on the shelf. ... I have gotten to the point where I try to put all the items from one year into a large box—pending really pasting them into the scrapbook—so that at least they are organized by date—which, for me, is a giant step forward. ... And, in some of the drawers are the old photos of those long gone—some in fading sepia—and I realize, to my astonishment, that I am the senior remaining member of the family and probably the only one who would remember just who is that lady in the big hat or that gentleman with the handlebar mustaches. ... And so I am trying to prepare for the future, when some kid will have to do a family tree for a school project, by labeling the back of these old photos and trying to give the connection to me. ... One fascinating treasure is an actual indenture certificate binding one of my ancestors to a tailor. ... It lists his duties and also what the tailor must do for him. ... On the back in my Grandmother's writing it says, "The children's grandfather". ... That must mean that this boy being indentured was the grandfather of my Mother—and what was he to me? ... Old wedding certificates, birth and baptismal certificates, and all the rest are so precious to me. ... My oldest scrapbooks from the time of my wedding so long ago were purchased from the 5 and 10 and were made of that craft paper that has since become weak and is disintegrating, so I have had to put each page into a plastic cover because I really want to preserve the original. ... I have often said that when I am gone, my kids will probably not fight over anything but who gets which scrapbook!!!

Yours, Lulabelle

Message From Serviceman

To The Editor:

Today I received my first letter from one of the thirteen servicemen from Desert Storm to whom I sent GOOD OLD HICKSVILLE, Part IV. I quote his letter:

"Let me start off my first taking the opportunity to thank you for your thoughtfulness. I found the book to be very informative and enlightening.

"Living in Hicksville only 18 years, I enjoyed being able to look back in time and have some insight as to what Hicksville was like back then.

"Your book is titled GOOD OLD HICKSVILLE, Part IV. Is there a part I, II, III? and if there is, how can I get my hands on them?

"I noticed your address is now Huntington. How long have you been out of Hicksville?

"On behalf of all of those serving in the Persian Gulf, I want to thank you for your support. Thank You.

God Bless You.

(Signed) SSG Joseph Artale"

I have sent Joseph Books I, II and III. I have also called his home and had a long talk with his wife. Joseph is in Saudi Arabia and he is glad the war is over and the bombing has stopped.

Dorothy Brown

COUNTY BRIEFS

Compiled by Michael J. Maloney Increased School Bus Safety

The New York State Senate has passed legislation which will strengthen qualifying procedures and require the fingerprinting and comprehensive screening of all school bus attendants throughout the state.

Senator Norman Levy, who sponsored the state law requiring the fingerprinting and increased screening of all school bus drivers, said that he introduced this measure to further safeguard children from incidents involving child abuse, including sexual and other physical abuse, by school bus attendants.

Under this bill, school districts would be mandated to require all school bus attendants to be fingerprinted and be subject to the same increased criteria for employment as bus drivers.

The actual fingerprinting would be done by the bus attendant's employer. The identification would then be forwarded to the State Department of Motor Vehicles, which would request a criminal history check from the state Division of Criminal Justice Services. Motor Vehicles would then inform the bus company and the applicant if the applicant is qualified to be employed as a school bus attendant.

Symposium of Diabetes

The Long Island Chapter of the New York Diabetes Association will hold its 14th annual symposium for people with diabetes and their families on Saturday, March 23, from 8:30 a.m. to 2:20 p.m. at C.W. Post College in Greenvale.

Workshops by leading practitioners in the field of diabetes as well as displays by producers of diabetes-related products will round out the day. A special workshop for teens will be held as well.

Registration fees for ADA members will be $10 and for non-members, $15. For more information and registration forms, contact the office at 752-1752.

Junior High School Wrestling

The 17th annual Junior High Wrestling Tournament will be held at the Nassau Community College Physical Fitness Complex on March 24 and 25, from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Saturday and from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Sunday.

Boys in grades 7, 8, and 9, who did not compete on varsity or junior varsity teams during the 1990-91 school year are eligible to enter the tournament in which they will compete as individuals, not representatives of their respective schools.

Registration and weigh-ins will take place on Saturday, March 24, from 8 a.m. to 11 a.m. The fee is $3 per entrant.

The Physical Education Complex is located in Garden City, just north of Nassau Coliseum, off Charles Lindbergh Boulevard. Spectators are invited and admission is free. For further information, call the Sports Unit at 542-4439 on weekdays.

Record $'s for United Way

A record $10 million in projected contributions was announced by the United Way of Long Island recently.

"Long Islanders responded to human needs with overwhelming generosity, resulting in local contributions totaling $5,011,000," announced Campaign Chairman Fen Fisher. To achieve the $10 million total, the local dollars are combined with the campaign results from regional accounts.

New For Villages: Contested Elections

Compiled By Dave Mock

In the recent past, most village elections in Nassau County have been leisurely affairs in which the incumbents ran either unopposed or with less-than-forceful opposition.

But this year is different. In several villages this year, the election atmosphere is unusually heated. Slates of parties are not only showing up on local ballots to oppose the incumbents, but have spent more time and money than usual in getting their message across.

For the first time in years, local mayors and village-board members from Westbury to Floral Park and from Mineola to Munsey Park are actually "feeling the heat."

For example, in tiny (1,200-resident) Bellerose, the Village Party is being challenged on two fronts and has resulted in a three way race for the mayor's position, plus four candidates for two trustee positions. The heat has resulted in standing-room only debates and considerable community discussion.

And considering the interest, there are some in the community who believe there may be a chance that an opposing candidate could win at least one position.

Another heated race pits East Hills Mayor Leonard Nadel of the East Hills Party against Larry Aaronson of the Unity Party.

In Floral Park, Bea Cook—the first non-Citizens Party candidate for office in the western-Nassau village, focuses her attention on controlling government costs to minimize the impact of taxes on local residents. She also believes that, in general, the village of Floral Park should go beyond one-party politics.

The Westbury-based Coalition Party, which is sending three trustee candidates and a village-justice candidate against the three incumbent Action Party trustees and a village justice candidate, has challenged the village's policies on development, garbage disposal and entry into a state pension plan as parts of their overall contention that the 15,000-resident community is run badly.

In some cases, the incumbents are responding sharply to not only defend their records, but also indicate why the opposition is off base. For example, supporters of the Action Party trustees in Westbury (Paul Echausse, Bridget Zaino and Alphonse Campbell) maintain that the Coalition Party's literature is inflammatory and inaccurate, and that the Coalition candidates (Chip Zaino, Joe Pascarella and John Burnett) challengers have no strong standpoint on or understanding of the issues.

Sometimes, elections are not only heated, but complex. For example, Mineola Mayor Ann Galante of the Hometown Party is not seeking another term, and Deputy Mayor Robert Hinck is running for her place against Independent Party candidate Sal Cataldo.

There are two trustee seats available, but the Hometown Party is running only one trustee for the position, John Colbert. Incumbent Frank Pewarski of the Citizens'

Party is running unopposed. In addition to Pewarski, Patricia Frasco is also running for a trusteeship. Because the Citizens decided not to run anyone for the mayoral seat, Mr. Cataldo—originally of the Citizens' Party—decided to run on the Independent ticket.

Got that? In Munsey Park, a contested election pits mayor Arthur Schultheiss and trustees

Sheila Ong and Al Gallo against mayoral candidate Lawrence Ceriello and trustee candidates Lauramm Pandelakis and Richard Drago. The issue is the granting of certain variances from the village code to enable a developer to build on the former Bonwit Teller property.

In little Sea Cliff, trustee Ted Blackburn of the Civic Progress Party is running against Robert Pucciaillo of the New Village Party for the mayor's spot vacated by Norman Parsons (who endorses Ted Blackburn). Two trustee candidates from each party—incumbent Claudia Moyne and Peter Speranza of Civic Progress and John Barabiere and Michael Riccardi of New Village—are running for election.

For the first time in years, some mayors and village-board members are being challenged in village elections.

Still, in a few communities, the votes are not complex at all—since they are uncontested. For example, on the Great Neck peninsula, none of the six village elections are contested. And in New Hyde Park, trustees William Fischl and Jack Briguglio and Justice Richard Morici are running unopposed, as are Williston Park village trustee Ludwig Jack Odierna and Justice Nicholas Francis O'Shea.

Considering the fire and brimstone of many village elections, it is interesting that in one village—Garden City—the fire and brimstone has been over for more than a month. For their residents, election contests ended Feb. 12, when Deputy Mayor Brian Deveney overwhelmingly defeated local attorney Jack Curry—a sitting trustee—in the mayoral race.

The election was unprecedented because Mr. Curry, a sitting trustee, decided to challenge Mr. Deveney, who was the choice of the nominating committee of the eastern part of the village. Although the move was appropriate under the Community Agreement, Garden City's unique form of government, it was the first time in the venerable village's history that a candidate for mayor was challenged by a fellow trustee.

Opening lead — jack of diamonds.
 An alarmingly large number of players show a lack of respect for safety plays. What is annoying about this attitude is that their casual disrespect usually does not wind up costing them a blessed farthing because the remote situation that they should be trying to protect against seldom occurs.
 However, lightning sometimes does strike, and when that happens these players often wind up licking their wounds and bemoaning their fate. For example, consider this deal where South gets to six spades and sees — or should see — that the only way he can lose the slam is to lose two trump tricks.

 So, instead of dismissing this possibility, which seems exceedingly remote, South should concentrate all his thoughts on ways of overcoming a 4-0 trump division, if that unlikely distribution happens to exist.
 In line with this, he should win the diamond lead in dummy and return a low trump. When East follows suit with the six, South should play the seven, being perfectly willing to lose the trick to the nine, ten or queen in order to assure the slam beyond the shadow of a doubt.
 In the actual deal, the safety play pays off and South avoids going down one. Going up with the ace on the first trump lead would be correct if East played the nine, ten or queen at trick two, or if East showed out on the first trump lead. In all of these cases, South could then hold himself to either one trump loser or none with proper play.
 This frame of mind — where declarer prays for the best but prepares for the worst — is often crucial to achieving a winning result. It pays to plan the play.

YA Gotta Have Art: Poetica Musica At Heckscher Museum

By William Gravert

Like the Rock of Gibraltar at the gates of the Mediterranean, the Heckscher Park in Huntington. A vest-pocket museum snug enough to enjoy chamber music or poetry yet large enough to leisurely view a cogent visual exhibit without needing a road map to negotiate a labyrinth of display rooms.

Saturday, March 9, was the first in a series of three evenings of chamber music by the Long Island chamber group, Poetica Musica. Titled "The Sound of Color", the program was chosen to compliment the current work on view — "Transformations Into Color: The Art of Stan Brodsky".

Brodsky's lush landscapes, still-life and abstract oils demonstrate an ability to weave a mosaic of deep tones and vibrant luminosity of color as well as an affinity for the land and sea.

While the Poetica group includes a guitarist/flutist, Saturday's performance featured soprano and Poetica artistic director Eleanor Valkenburg and pianist George Schlein.

While Poetica succeeded in evoking the spirit behind the works rather than merely painting a word-picture, the music and art did seem at times, mutually exclusive. While Brodsky's oils are quite approachable to the uninitiated, Poetica's music acted as a backdoor to the intuitive under-belly of the artist.

Musically the program included accompanied chansons and solo piano pieces.

Valkenburg's strong, rich mezzo-soprano resonated through the main exhibition rotunda on Maurice Ravel's Tout gail, but was most melodically pleasing on his Chanson des Cueilleuses de Lentisques.

The soaring impressionistic passages of Henri Dupare's L'Invitation au Voyage accompanied by a watery, melodic piano-underpinning were right at home with Brodsky's various sea-scapes.

Dupare's La Vie Anterieure found Valkenburg at her most evocative in a carefree give-and-take with the accompanist.

Schlein's keyboard prowess was showcased on American Charles Griffes' Fantasy Pieces, Opus 6.

The Barcarolle is a tense piece culminating in a rolling-boil of sonic interplay. The Not- turno provided relief with its playful introduction and sensual dimension. The Scherzo's floating, whole-tone melodies are juxtaposed against an ominous, almost militaristic sub-structure.

Featured Soprano and Poetica Artistic Director Eleanor Valkenburg

Artistically, the evening was as firmly grounded as the Rock of Gibraltar.

Upcoming performances of Poetica Musica at Heckscher: "Under the Big Top: The Circus in Art", Saturday, May 18; "Birds of America: The Prints of John James Audubon", Saturday, Oct. 19. Info: 516-351-3250.

Dates to Remember

March 21 CYO Open Meeting at 8 p.m. in the Old School Basement of St. Ignatius. These meetings are open to all parents of youths enrolled in our CYO programs. Have any questions? Want to get involved? This is the meeting to attend.

April 12 - Basketball/Cheerleading Trophy Night at 7 p.m. in the Old School Auditorium.

EAST STREET SIXTH GRADERS recently participated in a three-day resident program at Caumsett State Park where they had an opportunity to explore the 1600 acres of this undeveloped, unspoiled land. The program included activities in orienteering, nocturnal awareness, seashore ecology, maple sugaring, and survival skills. Here, some students warm up by the fire.

N.Y. Islanders To Students: 'Just Say No'

Hicksville High School's Student Athlete Leadership Program has been conducting special programs in the district primarily to promote sports as an alternative to drug and alcohol abuse. Most recently the organization sponsored a New York Islanders Forum on "Athletes and Healthy Lifestyles."

Islander hockey team players Patrick Flatley, Glen Healy, and Ray Ferraro entertained questions from the seventh graders at the Middle School during a program structured by the Student Athlete Leaders under the direction of Patrick Pizzarelli, Supervisor of Physical Education, Health and Athletics.

Jiggs McDonald, the "voice of the Islanders" on SportsChannel, served as emcee of the program in which students formed a line to ask questions to the panel of Islanders as well as to the high school's Student Athlete Leaders.

"We chose to 'just say no,'" Glen Healy responded to a question regarding drugs and peer pressure. "We chose the right road."

The Student Athlete Leadership Program was started in the fall by the High School Physical Education Department in conjunction with Athletes Helping Athletes, Inc. Objectives of this program are to improve the image of athletes on all levels in relation to drug and alcohol use, encourage youngsters in a positive manner to participate in athletics, and identify and pass along to the youngsters the life skills they have gained as athletes and how this has helped them to become better people.

Additionally, Manufacturers Hanover and the New York Islanders, along with Athletes Helping Athletes, honored

N.Y. ISLANDERS Glen Healy, Pat Flatley and Ray Ferraro.

Hicksville's Student Athlete Leaders as well as 225 outstanding Long Island high school students for their work in the Islanders Student/Athlete Leadership Program. The ceremony took place prior to the New York Islanders and Buffalo Sabres game recently.

The twenty-six Hicksville High School Student Athlete Leaders, trained on the importance of serving as role models, are: Joe Allen, Eric Basta, Eric Blicher, Dennis Cantalupo, Tom Carolan, Laura DeAngelis, Mike DelPercio, Renee Fabrizio, Tim Glover, Brian Harkins, Dawn Hoosack, MaryBeth Kessler, Christine Kilmets, Kacey Knauer, Lisa Latzo, Danny Longo, Mike Longo, Dawn Mullee, Lisa Pacifico, April Rodriguez, Brian Rooney, Andrew Sham, Christine Spina, Jennifer Sullivan, Kalpa Udeshi, and Robbie Walker.

Hicksville Soccer Honors Steve Florio

Long Island Junior Soccer League held its 9th Annual Convention at the Huntington Hilton Hotel March 1-3. At their kick-off dinner this past Friday, attended by 700 people from various Long Island soccer club Boards, one special person from each club is designated to receive a "1991 Volunteer of the Year Award."

Hicksville American Soccer Club Board members chose Steve Florio as its recipient. Steve has a long involved history in Hicksville Soccer, as a Board member, Coach of the 1977-A Pioneers travel team, conducting soccer clinics, etc.

Space doesn't permit us to list Steve's accomplishments but the youth of our community is always uppermost where Steve is concerned. Present at the dinner to show support for a great guy were Steve's wife, Wendy, familiar to Hicksville residents not only on the fields but as owner of "Hairport" hair styling salon; Board members and spouses: Jim and Dorothy Wiesneski; Jay and Gail Schwartz; Al and Karen Blicher; Joe and Marie Matz; Phil and Mary Ann Caputo; Mike and Gerri Kanuk; as well as the George Brunos; the Dino Camarinos; and the Mike Huzars.
