Many Residents Enjoy Greek Festival

By Victor Caputo

The Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox Church of Hicksville recently held a three-day long weekend festival to raise money for the afternoon Greek School which is held at the church.

The festival offered many fine homemade pastries and plenty of traditional Greek food. There were rides for the children and games of chance for adults. There was no Las Vegas type gambling, just lottery tickets and games of skill where residents could win prizes.

There was a raffle on the last day of the fair and the winner took home a new car.

The festival ran most of the afternoon and until 11 p.m. At 6 p.m. and 7 p.m. festival goers were entertained by young Greek dancers, dancing the old Greek traditional dances.

"They dance various traditional Greek dances. All of the dances are very beautiful," said Father George Stavropoulos, head of the Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox Church.

Children were all laughs and smiles, riding down the slope of a tremendous slide located in front of the church. Residents who just wanted to sit and relax, sip Greek coffee and eat the fine food offered while enjoying the wonderful weather of the weekend, could do so in the wooded area behind the church where tables and chairs were set up.

The turnout for the fair was very large. "Many people have come to the festival this year, especially since they know the proceeds will go toward the opening of the school on Sept. 16. This is the 15th festival that we have had and it looks like it will be very successful," said Father Stavropoulos.

There are currently 325 children in the Greek school and all speak the Greek language fluently.

"The Greek church is the center of the Greek community," said Father Stavropoulos, walking through the church, pointing out various educational books used by the school. "We need the cooperation of the Greek school and the Greek family to successfully educate a child," he said, pointing to various pictures of children on the wall.

Inside the church were diagrams depicting the different letters of the Greek alphabet so residents could see how Greek letters are pronounced.

Residents were invited to walk through church where services are held and look at the beautiful pictures that line the ceiling and walls. Books used during the church services were on display at the far end of the church to introduce residents to the teachings of the Greek community.

The smell of traditional Greek food hovered throughout the parking lot of the church and residents made sure they had their fill of most of them. There were plenty

Supervisor Race Heats Up

By Victor Caputo

With election day little under two months away for the position of Town of Oyster Bay Supervisor, incumbent Angelo Delligatti and challenger Lewis Yevoli rallied their supporters for the final, crucial weeks of campaigning.

Delligatti spoke with the Hicksville Republican Club on Sept. 13, assuring the large number of residents in attendance that his record should speak for itself come election time.

"The Town of Oyster Bay is one of the greatest places to live. Other towns around Oyster Bay are having problems. We, in Oyster Bay, still enjoy an A-1 bond rating. Our residents pay less taxes in 1991 than they did in 1989 and will pay less in 1992.

"We have been hit hard on Long Island by state aid loss to the schools and that has increased taxes to residents. We are trying, by lowering taxes within the town, to alleviate that burden on town residents," said Delligatti, to an ovation of applause from the many in the audience.

Delligatti also spoke of things that the Town of Oyster Bay has done to make the communities look better.

"In the last four years, the town has planted 6,000 trees in local communities," Delligatti said.

He focused for a few moments on his opponent, stressing to those in attendance that what they might hear coming out of that camp may be unfounded accusations. "I want to assure you that what you will hear from my opponent on my record will not be true," said Delligatti.

He was very confident in his record and that was apparent in his speech. "I have a great team of people working with me. With everyone's help, we will have a great victory. We are going to go forward," said Delligatti.

In closing his speech, he let the people of Hicksville know that he has not forgotten about them, assuring them that the town "... recognizes the importance of Hicksville" as a viable part of the township.

Large numbers of residents rallied earlier in the week in the Yevoli campaign camp. Yevoli campaign headquarters opened in Hicksville on Sept. 11.

Yevoli, in his speech the day his headquarters opened asked people to look closely at his record. "I am very proud of my record and what I have accomplished. Once the public knows the whole story, they will be upset. They are a lot smarter than the Nassau County Republican machine give them credit for," Yevoli said.

He outlined things that, as an assemblyman, he did not vote for, such as the decrease in school aid and the gasoline tax.

He claimed his opponent did not lower taxes in the Town of Oyster Bay. "Delligatti

The Mail Drop-Off Box Has Moved

The Hicksville Illustrated mail drop-off box is no longer at 9 California Street. The new location where residents can drop off notices, engagements, letters and happenings is now at Boo's Flowers, 38 West Village Green, Newbridge Road, Hicksville. It is just past Holy Trinity High School if residents were traveling south. Boo's Flowers is open from 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Mon.-Sat. and Sunday from 10 a.m.-3 p.m. They will be happy to show you where you can drop off your mail. The last mail that will be picked up at 9 California Street will be on Wed., Sept. 18. Your cooperation in making the shift easier is greatly appreciated. If there are any questions, residents can call Victor Caputo, 747-8282, ext. 146.

I Know Someone In That Photo

Several issues ago, an old Labor Day parade picture was printed in this section. At that time we asked if anyone could name

Patrick DeMonaco, now living in Farmingdale, writes: Back in 1947 I lived at 111 Broadway in an apartment above my father's (Frank) fruit and vegetable store. It was probably from in front of the store that the Labor Day parade picture was taken. The only person I can identify in the picture is my sister, Rosemarie, who appears directly to the right of the marching boy.

Thank you Patrick for pointing out your sister, if anyone else knows somebody in the picture, write to us, we would really like to know more of the people.

New Borns

Robert and Patricia Weiss, formerly of Hicksville and now living in Brentwood, are proud to announce the birth of their baby girl, Caitlin Eileen, on Feb. 1.

Caitlin Eileen Weiss

The proud grandparents are Robert and Frances Weiss and William and Eileen Garne. Both sets of grandparents are long time Hicksville residents.

The godparents are Margaret Quinn and Brian Pineeli. Caitlin is also welcomed home by a six year-old brother Eric.

Kristine Nicole Weiss

Michael and Bridgette Weiss, formerly of Hicksville, are proud to announce the birth of a baby girl, Kristine Nicole, on Aug. 23.

The Weiss' presently reside in Syosset. The proud grandparents are Robert and Frances Weiss of Hicksville and grandmother Veronica Craig of Syosset.

Robert and Frances Weiss, it should be pointed out, have been blessed with two grandchildren this year, congratulations.

Proud Achievement

Jerome Fischer, formerly of Hicksville, was recently presented a 1991 Fellow in the American Healthcare Radiology Administrators during the 19th annual meeting of the AHRA in Nashville, Tenn.

Jerry attended the Hicksville schools and after three years of service in the army, he attended the University of Vermont at Burlington. He earned his Bachelor of Science in Healthcare from the university in 1980.

Jerry's wife Kathy, his daughters Lauren and Erica and his parents, Anita and Joe Fischer of Hicksville, were with him in Nashville to offer him congratulations.

Anita and Joe Fischer are very proud of their son. Their children and grandchildren are a tremendous joy to them.

Gone Fishing

Who said that girls can't fish? Tara Lynn Strazzeri, age eight, went fishing at Captree with her mom, grandpa Morris and brothers Sal, age 10, Eddie, age 9, and sister Sara, age 7. Well guess what! She won the pool for the largest fish (fluke).

Scholarship Winner

David Holland, of Hicksville, is the recipient of the A.F.S.C.M.E. Jerry Clark Memorial Scholarship. The amount of the scholarship is $20,000.

David's parents are very proud of him and wish him well in his further endeavors.

Goodbye Flo

For those who do not know, Flo has retired from the newspaper. She was a tremendous help when I first took over as editor, helping to make the transaction as smooth as possible.

I still encourage all residents to send in their hometown news because people do love reading about what is going on in the community.

Thank You Flo for all your help and I hope your retirement is a relaxing one. Take care.

Happy Birthday

How could we have forgotten to wish a Happy Birthday to Al Merk, Second Assistant Chief to the Hicksville Fire Department. His special day was August 24.

Hope it was a good one Al and we wish you many more!

Heard From:

Received the following note from old friend, Kitty Hennerty.

"I'm not big on letter writing or nostalgia but couldn't resist this time. After not seeing each other for some 30-odd years and no contact for about 25 years, an old school chum, Gloria Valentine tracked me down. She receives all of your newspaper articles from Edna Turner then passes them on to me.

Ah, such fond memories. I have great fun trying to fit faces to names. Last week Ernie and I had the pleasure of spending some time with Gloria and her husband, Lefty, at their lovely beach house at Orient Point. Gloria and I had a wonderful "Do You Remember?" afternoon.

Dolores Crawford, Wilma Harnischfeger, Elsie Horan, Vivian DeMott at Bear Mountain, N.Y.

Kitty Hennerty, Gloria Valentine, Millie Abrams

Upon going through my tattered childhood album of photos I came across some that might be of interest. I think we (the class of '43) were the first class (perhaps only) that didn't go to Washington, D.C. at Easter, due to World War II. Instead we took a day boat trip to Bear Mountain and am I sending you some photos from that day. Unfortunately no one thought of a group photo!"

Kitty: It was great hearing from you and seeing the photos was even better. I remember all of you who are in the pictures... and I will tell you that our class (1944) also went on a day trip to Bear Mountain—and had a ball. Of course, we probably didn't have as much fun as if we went to Washington but it was still "our senior trip."

Tragedy Brings Family Together

By Victor Caputo

Cystinosis is a rare, inherited metabolic disorder that affects only a handful of children across the country. The effect of cystinosis on a child has been described as a failure to thrive, in other words, a failure to grow.

Statistically, the number of cases of cystinosis may not represent a problem to large scale America, but to the Krummenacker family, whose five-year-old daughter Laura is diagnosed as having it, the problem is an everyday reality that they must face.

The problems for Laura started very early in her life. When she was three, she came down with a normal household virus, which most kids her age catch. "Something did not seem right. She did not bounce back from the virus like she should have," said Laura's mother, Marybeth.

She began to look dehydrated and was constantly vomiting. She was admitted to the hospital and after eight days, the tests showed nothing conclusive. The doctors could not diagnose the disorder, said the Krummenackers.

The nightmare for the Krummenackers worsened as they searched for a proper diagnosis for their daughter.

It was not until a specialist, who had recently heard a lecture about cystinosis, was able to guess what might be wrong. "By that time we had lost all faith in medicine and doctors," said Marybeth. "What we have learned is to be a child advocate. You have to question a doctor," said Laura's father, Larry.

"We were told we were overreactive parents any time we questioned if something was wrong," said Marybeth.

The specialist ordered an eye exam to see if it was cystinosis. Crystals will form in the eyes if the disorder is present. The crystals were there and the specialist recommended a scientist at the National Institute of Health in Bethesda, Maryland.

The Krummenackers, due to events of the past, were skeptical as to whether this is the disorder or not. They did agree to go down to the institute to see what it is all about. "It is not a hospital as we pictured, it is a research facility," said Larry.

LAURA KRUMMENACKER is bouncing back to as normal a life as possible with recent treatments and tests she is undergoing.

It was here that they met Bill Gahl, who has been studying the disorder for 10 years. "He explained the symptoms of the disorder and what I heard was what, in essence, I had been telling the doctors from the start," said Larry.

"Going down to the National Institute of Health has restored my faith in medicine," said Marybeth.

Laura is now taking research medication and it is apparently working. "This is the place of last resort. Unfortunately, because it is such a rare disorder, the government will not approve the drug because it needs to see more research," said Marybeth.

Laura now lives by a strict schedule of taking medicine every six hours, every day. She still goes to the National Institute of Health every five months to receive more tests. The medicine is not a cure, but it is a remedy to combat the symptoms of cystinosis, helping Laura to lead as normal a life as possible.

"She is as active as any other child. Her personality is much better than it was before she started taking the medicine. She feels good now and has lots of energy," said Marybeth.

Laura is currently attending kindergarten and is enjoying it very much.

While the medicine helps her, it packs a vile smell, and sometimes it is a fight for

Opening Program

The Hicksville Historical Society will open its new year of stimulating programs with "Digging For Your Roots," an insight approach to genealogy and family research by Suzanne McVetty on Sept. 24.

The meeting of the Hicksville Historical Society will consist of a brief business meeting. All members and potential members for the growing historical organization are invited to be present when McVetty explains how to dig for your roots.

The meeting starts at 8 p.m. and will be held in the community room of the library.

Make Reservations Now

The Hicksville Public Library still has a few tickets left to see the Broadway show Nick and Nora, starring Barry Bostwick and Joanna Gleason, at the Marquis Theatre in Manhattan on Nov. 2.

Residents can make reservations now at the circulation desk of the library for the matinee performance. The ticket price is $68.50 per person for orchestra seating.

The bus will leave the library at 10 a.m. Residents can have lunch in the city on their own. The show starts at 2 p.m.

There are no refunds unless the trip is cancelled.

Traffic Safety Campaign

Police Commissioner Samuel Rozzi and Police Sergeant Anthony Gambino have launched the Auto Club of New York's 46th Annual Traffic Safety Campaign by mounting the programs first posters.

The black and yellow posters will be displayed at major intersections and school crossings throughout the rest of Sept. and all of Oct. to alert motorists to the need for extra driving care as thousands of local young people return to school.

Drivers are urged to observe reduced speed limits in school zones and to stop for school buses with flashing red lights.

The AAA "Schools Open" campaign began in 1946. Since that time, traffic fatalities among children 5-14 years old have been sharply reduced in New York State despite the considerable increase in both motor vehicle and school enrollments.

Senior Citizen Discount

A senior citizen may be entitled to a partial exemption from school district taxes, up to 50 percent of the assessed valuation of their home.

Applications must be made annually, on or before May 1, to the Department of Assessment, County of Nassau.

If the application is approved by Nassau County, tax relief will be applied to real property taxes for schools in the next year, beginning July 1.

Senior citizens who think they might be eligible, or want further information can call the Department of Assessment at 535-2377. Seniors can also write to them at the Department of Assessment, County of Nassau, 240 Old Country Road, Mineola, NY 11501.

Sock Hop

Residents should begin preparing now for the St. Ignatius Sock Hop with musical guests Johnny Maestro and the Brooklyn Bridge and The Starlights.

The sock hop will take place on Oct. 25, from 8 p.m.-1 a.m.

Tickets are $30 per person and includes a cold buffet, beer, wine and soda. A cash bar is also available. Further information can be obtained by calling 937-1560, 822-8676 and 931-3659.

Man Saves Life, Favor Returned

By Victor Caputo

Greg Vazquez was a police officer working out of the Fourth Precinct, Oceanside, back in 1977, when he saved the life of a man hurt in an industrial accident.

By using a wire tourniquet, he was able to stop the bleeding of the man, who had lost most of his arm during the accident, in turn saving his life.

Almost 15 years later the favor was returned to this long time resident of Hicksville. Two of his grandchildren, Bryan Hazel, five, and Kevin Hazel, almost two, were recently pulled out of a canal in W. Babylon by citizens and saved from drowning.

"Through the actions of Nadine Guenther, her daughter Jeannine and David Loveland, the lives of Bryan and Kevin Hazel were saved.

"Bryan and Kevin were being pushed in a double baby stroller by their mother Pamela, when, by accident, the stroller and children fell into the canal," said Frank Metzger, president of the Retired Police Association, during an award ceremony for the heroes of the day.

Jeannine Guenther, while outside playing in her yard, saw what had happened. She immediately ran into her house and alerted her mother. Her mother, Nadine, sent her off to call 911 and get help to the scene of the accident. Like a pro, Jeannine was able to summon police and rescuers to the scene quickly.

Nadine Guenther, who is not a good swimmer, jumped into the water and pulled Kevin, who was floating unconsciously on top of the water, back onto land.

David Loveland, a Levittown school teacher, was working on his friends boat a short distance away, when he heard the commotion. He raced to the scene and helped Nadine and Kevin out of the water and began artificial respiration on Kevin and was able to revive him. He then jumped into the canal and pulled Bryan and the stroller out of the water.

The boys were taken to Schneider

Childrens Hospital and released a few days later.

The three heroes were recently presented plaques from the Retired Police Association for their life saving effort. "This is the first time the Retired Police Association has given an award like this," said Vazquez.

Vazquez has lived in Hicksville for over 20

TO YOUR HEALTH

By RICHARD H. BLAU, M.D.

Children and Arthritis

Juvenile rheumatoid arthritis (JRA) is a relatively common chronic childhood illness. It is estimated to affect up to one quarter of a million children in this country alone. The disease may begin at any age in childhood, and for some reason girls are more often affected than boys.

As in the adult form of rheumatoid arthritis, the cause of juvenile rheumatoid arthritis is not known. JRA was once believed to be a single disease, but is now thought to be several different diseases affecting the joints of children. Since this recognition, several subtypes of JRA have been identified.

40% of children with JRA have many joints affected by the arthritis. This particular group of children can develop significant problems with arthritis in the neck. Another 40% of children with JRA have less than four joints affected by the arthritis. This group of children can develop problems with their eyes. These children should have their eyes examined by an ophthalmologist several times a year. The remaining 20% of children with JRA have symptoms not only of the joints, but also of other organs. These children can have fevers, rash, or an enlarged liver or spleen.

Treatment of children with arthritis is usually rendered by a rheumatologist (arthritis specialist). The overall outlook for children with JRA is good. Over 75% of all children with arthritis will eventually enter a remission. Major goals of therapy are to reduce joint inflammation, prevent joint deformities, maintain muscle strength and preserve joint function.

Arthritis strikes one out of seven people. Learn the facts. Call for your complimentary copy of "The Joint Approach - An Arthritis Overview."

Record Convention Draws Many People

By Victor Caputo

The Galileo Galilei Lodge, Levittown Parkway, Hicksville, recently hosted the Long Island Record Collector's Convention on Sept. 8.

Collectors, young and old, from all over Long Island and New York City attended in hope that that record, CD, or tape they needed to complete or start their collection would be there.

There were many tables stacked with albums, CDs and cassettes to search through. If somebody needed a particular artist's release, chances are it was there.

About 25 dealers set up tables to display their merchandise. The musical variety extended from the classical records of Mozart and Beethoven to the country style of Patsy Cline, the classic fifties and sixties sounds of the Temptations, The Beatles and The Rolling Stones to the heavy metal crash of today's artists such as Guns And Roses. There was much more as well.

For the collector who still loves vinyl albums, this convention was the place to find them. Now that many music stores have stopped carrying vinyl altogether, conventions such as this one are one of a few places where vinyl is in abundance.

Admission into the convention was $3 and, as many collectors said, "it was well worth it."

Throughout the day, the dealers exchanged business cards, talked about valuable items in their own collections and even when they would be getting certain items back in.

"I can't believe I found this," said one teenager, as he was buying an imported Guns And Roses box set of their last album.

The convention comes around every three months or so. Music collectors would find it well worth the time to stop into the next one and see what can be found among the tables of music.

United Way Food Drive Involves Schools

In an effort to replenish Long Island's increasingly diminishing food pantry supplies, United Way has invited local schools to participate in "Happiness is Caring and Sharing."

This is a one day food drive on Oct. 20 at the Broadway Mall, Hicksville.

At a recent press conference announcing the event, clients from United Cerebral Palsy of Nassau County brought wagons of food to kick off the drive.

Participating students and their families are invited to bring non-perishable foods to a special weigh-in station at the mall. The total of the most pounds of food will win a truck load of Entenmann's cake and a personal computer courtesy of IBM Corporation. The food will be distributed through Long Island Cares and Nassau County Community Outreach.

Further information may be obtained by calling 249-1100.

What Hicksville People Are Reading

Every week the Hicksville Public Library takes a tally of what books residents are requesting the most.

In the fiction area, the top novels are As The Crow Flies by Jeffrey Archer, The Sum Of All Fears by Tom Clancy, The Firm by John Grisham, Heartbeat by Danielle Steel and Beast by Peter Benchley.

Tops in the non-fiction category are Iron John by Robert Bly, The Westies by T.J.

English, When You Look Like Your Passport Photo, It's Time To Go Home by Erma Bombeck and A Question Of Character by Thomas C. Reeves.

The Hicksville Library also keeps a wealth of videos for residents to take out. The top video requests this week were Once Around, The Grifters, Avalon and Reversal Of Fortune.

POLICE REPORT

A serious auto accident occurred in Hicksville on Aug. 16 at 5:30 p.m.

Glenn Jansson of Levittown, was driving his motorcycle north on Newbridge Road when he collided with a car driven by Laura Keenan of Babylon at W. Marie Street, while she was making a U-turn from south to north on Newbridge Road.

Jansson was taken to Nassau County Medical Center after suffering head trauma and was listed in critical condition. Keenan complained of back pain and refused medical aid at the scene.

Both the car and motorcycle were impounded for safety checks. There were no tickets issued at the time.

St. Ignatius Kicks Off School Year

School bells rang loud at the Saint Ignatius Loyola School signaling the start of another school year for many boys and girls on Sept. 4.

Children came back from what was one of the hottest summers ever on Long Island and immediately got back to work.

Faculty members and students are excited about the school year ahead and promise great things.

The Opening of School Mass was celebrated on Friday, Sept. 6 by the pastor, Father Edward Tarrant.

An assembly was held on that Friday to honor the children who achieved Student of the Month honors last June. They received a rousing ovation for the fine work they accomplished.

Badges for the safety patrol individuals were given out at the assembly. Safety is a big concern and is being treated that way by students and faculty.

There are many great things promised ahead by the students of Saint Ignatius Loyola School.

The students are ready to meet all challenges that learning has presented them with and intend to prove that this year.

CHILDREN in class 1-1 look eager to meet the challenges of first grade at St. Ignatius Loyola School.

SCHOOL SHORTS

Visiting The Schools

With all the hustle and bustle that the first few weeks of school can bring, it may be a good time to refresh the guidelines for paying a visit to the Hicksville schools.

The Hicksville School Board adopted a policy and set procedures regarding visits during the school day other than those made by a member of the family who might be attending a scheduled school activity or if someone is bringing or picking up a child from the school.

Visits are authorized for parents who are conferring with staff members about a child's program, former students who need records or are addressing classes at a program arranged by the department head or administrator, people transacting business or performing instructional duties, delegated members of the Citizens Advisory Committee, parent helpers assigned to assist teachers, chaperones for school activities, or Board of Elections volunteers on official business.

All visitors must sign in at the principal's office upon their arrival. If an appointment has not been previously arranged, approval of the principal is required and the visit must be limited to a specific location.

All visitors are asked to leave the building after their business has been completed.

This is a good way to ensure the children's safety while they are in the school's care. "The rules are set with the child's safety in mind. We want to have control over the safety of the children who are in our care," said Superintendent Salvatore Mugavero.

Community Use

The public schools are the centers of community life. They are also not-for-profit. Nonsectarian organizations can use school facilities according to the district's regulations. Applications and inquiries should be directed to the Office of Facilities and Operations at the Administration Building by calling 933-6677. Remember, even though the School Board encourages community groups to use Hicksville Public School facilities for civic, educational, cultural, or recreational purposes, school-sponsored activities will take precedence in scheduling the use of the school's building and grounds.

Remember Schools Open

Residents should remember that school is open and many children will be boarding buses or walking to their respective schools.

By being a little more alert and cautious on the roads, accidents are less likely to occur.

Remember that kids are not always looking at what is coming at them, so the driver of the automobile must take that responsibility.

School is open, so please remember to drive carefully.

camp which is located at the University of Penn. They practiced about nine hours a day, learning various intricate drills in conjunction with the music they studied all summer.

The Sept. 22 festivities should last about three hours. There will be a raffle, a souvenir stand and several food concession stands. These will be manned by volunteers of the Band Parent's Association.

The general admission price is $3 for residents; $2 for students, and senior citizens and children under 12 get in for free.

Residents are encouraged to come down and cheer for the Hicksville High School Band that has worked so hard to be ready for the competition.

We're putting our money where our mouth is to preserve Long Island's water supply.

Long Island's water supply is the finest in the nation. At Slomin's we're taking positive steps to help preserve it. Specifically, we've established a special financial assistance program to help subsidize the cost of complying with the new regulations regarding buried fuel oil tanks.

Under this program, you will be able to purchase our environmentally safe, 280-gallon fiberglass tank for a price that is truly below our cost.* There are also economical options available for above ground storage tanks, starting as low as $100 installed. We realize that even with our subsidy, replacing your tank may be a financial burden, so we're offering low monthly payments with no interest or finance charges.

As a leader in the fuel oil industry, we feel a responsibility to invest in our community... to put our money where our mouth is, so to speak. We're proud to be working with our Long Island neighbors to preserve our fragile environment.

For more information, call Slomin's in Nassau at 932-7000, in Suffolk, call 242-4888.

Beware Of Inaccuracies In Your Credit Report

By Robert Abrams
Attorney General, State of New York

Your good name might already be ruined — without you even knowing about it. Hard to believe? Not to the Long Island residents who have complained to my office in recent months. Those New Yorkers, and thousands of others, have been the victim of mistakes that were accidentally entered into their credit histories.

One Garden City man, who thought he had a perfect record of paying back his loans, received a rude awakening when he was turned down for a mortgage. It seems that the credit reporting bureau — TRW in this case — confused him with another person who had a similar name and a poor credit history.

Others have been turned down for auto loans and credit cards and even been denied promotions, all because a credit report inaccurately indicated that they were poor credit risks or had criminal records. Having a mistake in your credit history sounds like a nightmare, but it is an unfortunate reality to millions of Americans.

The three dominant credit bureaus in America maintain credit records on more than 90 percent of all adults in the United States. An investigation by my office has revealed that at least one out of three credit reports may contain inaccurate information, and some of those errors may be grave enough to cost you a loan, or a credit card, or a job.

To add insult to injury, it often takes months, and even years, to effectively rectify errors in your credit report. By that time, it is often too late to help the consumer.

The credit bureaus misrepresent themselves to be mere "libraries of credit histories" that keep credit information on consumers. In fact, credit reporting agencies secretly rate and evaluate consumers for "creditworthiness." Consumers are never told that TRW, the most dominant credit reporting agency in this state, offers stores and banks a point-scoring system that keeps a score on each consumer. In many of these scoring systems, a high score tags the consumer as a poor credit risk.

Unfortunately, consumers never see their score. In fact, people who pay to see their credit report are routinely sent a complicated form that differs substantially from the simple-to-read form given to subscribers of the credit reporting agencies. Consumers are never even told that a second version of their credit report exists.

My office is trying to do something about this gross injustice. Last month, I filed suit against TRW, charging the company with misleading consumers, disregarding the privacy rights of individuals, and failure to maintain reasonable procedures to assure the accuracy of its credit reports.

Under a law that I proposed, credit agencies must move quickly to delete items in a credit report that a consumer disputes and that cannot be verified. TRW alone receives 500,000 complaints each year from consumers across the nation who complain about inaccuracies in their credit reports. But the company admits that the same errors often reappear time and again, without the knowledge of the consumer.

Earlier this year, Consumers Union paid to see 161 individual credit reports. Of those 161 reports, 48 percent contained errors, some of them quite significant.

Moreover, it was learned that a quarter of the reports had already been examined by people who did not have the legitimate business need to see the information. The credit database is unlawfully invaded, and the information ends up in the hands of direct marketers and junk mailers. Although most of us don't have anything to hide, there is no reason for our private credit reports to be in the hands of the corporate equivalents of Peeping Toms.

I have endorsed a proposal, which is currently being considered by the state Legislature and by Congress, to amend the Fair Credit Reporting Act by allowing consumers to obtain a free copy of his or her credit report each year. This way, citizens would be able to spot the errors in their credit reports before somebody else does.

Consumers are entitled to see the same information that credit grantors will review when they make the critical decision to issue a loan or a credit card. The credit reporting agencies are denying you this right. Until this situation is resolved in the courts, make sure to demand to see your credit report if you are turned down for credit — that's the law.

A Letter from Lulubelle...

...I met her fifty-seven years ago, when we all went to junior high because, even in those long ago days, my town had what was then the latest in education circles—junior high....She had come from another school in our town, so I had never seen her before...and there are pictures of that class and there we are, with our skinny figures and our straight hair—and she has glasses and, even though I needed them, I never wore them outside the classroom...and she was much wiser about boys than I and had a huge crush on a darling, little, chubby kid with curly brown hair—he never looked at her, of course, but we looked at him all the time—and I was so interested in her tales of what Jimmy did today....We both liked school and were very involved in extra-curricular activities, but she was in everything...a class officer, a team manager, an assembly speaker...and we were always together—"best friends"...and since she was an orphan who lived with her sister, my parents considered her another daughter and she was often with us, pecking into the pots to see "what's for dinner" and sleeping over and talking all night...and when we were in high school, we double-dated—which meant walking to the movies and having a soda afterwards and then walking home...and we babysat for 25¢ per hour and agonized over every purchase from our hard-earned money...and we walked to school together every day and then home and then stood on the corner, hoping that some boy would stroll by...and then we were grown up and she was my maid of honor and I was her matron of honor...and I had two kids and she had three...and we lived through the war years and finally fulfilled our dream of having a house, hers a Levitt and ours a tiny bungalow...and would you believe, here we are, still young as ever—inside that is—and still best friends—and we never had a fight—honestly!! And I still tell her things no one else knows and I still trust her completely...and this kind of friend—if you are lucky to have one—is surely one of the greatest blessings of a lifetime...and her name is Jane...

Yours, Lulubelle

He also said that there are numerous issues that will come to the forefront of this election. He also said that he would not back away from any issue during the campaign.

Yevoli also expressed confidence that he will win the election. "When I started my campaign, people told me that the Republicans are worried. We are not going to let them off the hook. I think we have a chance," he said.

Both candidates seemed prepared to give the big election day push to get their messages out to Town of Oyster Bay residents before it is time to vote.

There are many issues that the candidates will have to comment on before Nov. 5.

From the way things look now, both candidates are confident that the election will go his way.

Hicksville Native Tours South America

Hicksville native Mick Lewander has recently returned from a tour of South America with a traveling production of the Broadway musical, Ain't Misbehavin'.

Lewander is an active club, studio, TV and radio performer in addition to his work in musical theater. He is a faculty member of Berklee College as well.

He has been an orchestra member in Nunsense, Little Shop Of Horrors, La Cage Aux Folles and Kiss Me Kate.

As a jazz player, he has studied with such legends as Max Roach, Alan Dawson and Joe Morello.

He has been a member of the Berklee percussion department since 1987. Lewander prepares students for a performing career in all of the contemporary music styles through comprehensive technique studies and instrumental training on a variety of percussion instruments.

Laura to take her medicine.

The family, says the Krummenackers, has formed an incredibly tight bond. "The situation has strengthened our relationship. It forces you to either run away from it or deal with it," said Larry.

"Some days are better than others," said Marybeth.

The couple has also found strength from the Cystinosis Foundation. "It is a support group for families dealing with the disorder. The group has put us in contact with people who have gone through or are presently going through the same things you are," said Marybeth.

At the present time, the life expectancy of children suffering from cystinosis is very short. However, research is continuing and with the help of contributions from the community, a cure might not be too far off.

There will be a garage sale on Sept. 28 at the corner of Bay and Grove Streets and all money earned will go to the Cystinosis Foundation. Information about the disorder or how to contribute can be acquired by calling Marybeth Krummenacker at 931-6785.

Until the time a cure is found the Krummenacker's will continue to give Laura her medication and help her to lead as normal a life as possible.

Opening lead — five of diamonds.

This deal occurred in a team-of-four match. At the first table, South got to three notrump and West led a diamond, declarer winning East's jack with the queen. Declarer could see seven winners and needed two more for his contract. His best source for additional tricks was in the heart suit, so he led the ten and let it ride when West followed low.

Had West held the queen, South would have made the contract with an overtrick. But East took the ten with the queen and returned a diamond.

West's diamonds thus became established and declarer ultimately went down one.

The bidding and opening lead at the other table were exactly the same, but here declarer made the contract. South won the diamond lead with the queen, led a spade to dummy's queen, and returned a low heart. East followed low, as most players would do, and South played the ten. West ducked in order to preserve his entry, but it availed him naught.

Declarer led another heart, West playing low again, but South — having already located the queen — went up with the king, felling East's queen. Another heart lead forced out the ace and South made four notrump.

Despite the unusual nature of the second declarer's method of play, it had an extremely sound foundation. South didn't mind losing a trick to the queen if West had it, since West would be unable to make a damaging return. Declarer's only real concern from the start was that East might win the first heart with the queen and return a diamond through the A-10 — and he took steps to prevent this from happening.

In effect, South assumed that East had the queen. If this was the case, there was an excellent chance that he would not play it if the first heart lead came from dummy.

Heckscher Exhibit: Not Just For The Birds

By William Gravett

It was a kinder and gentler time. In the early 19th Century John James Audubon traveled America's wilderness cataloging winged-wildlife in their natural habitat, recording hundreds of species in glorious watercolors that later would become life-size prints.

Audubon's "Birds of America: Double Elephant Folio" is on display at Heckscher Museum in Huntington through Oct. 20. Named for the large-sized paper used, "Double Elephant" features 53 of 435 hand-colored engravings on loan from the Colorado Springs Fine Arts Center.

Considered his definitive work, "Birds of America" reinvented ornithology by portraying birds in natural positions instead of the stiff scientific style of the day.

In the 1820's and 30's, Audubon, a taxidermist as well as artist and naturalist, tramped through the marshlands and coastlands of the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers, Labrador and the Florida Keys chronicling over 450 birds species. English engraver Robert Havell produced plates with his staff coloring the resulting prints according to the Audubon originals.

"Technically and artistically these prints are recognized as a major tour de force in 19th century printmaking," claims Anna C. Noll, Heckscher curator.

Audubon is credited with discovering 25 new species and many subspecies—but many habitats have vanished. Worse still, several of the birds in "Double Elephant" are extinct or vanishing, including the Great White Whooping Crane, Ivory-Billed Woodpecker, and Passenger Pigeon.

In contrast with today's image of a 'conservationist,' Audubon killed and dissected his subjects before diagramming them, according to biographer John Chancellor. He often killed dozens of animals at a time, as Chancellor excerpts from Audubon's journal: "'(today) we shot 30 partridges, 27 squirrels, a barn owl and a turkey buzzard.' "' (Perhaps it wasn't THAT kind and gentle a time.)

Heckscher is sponsoring a series of seminars and workshops in conjunction with "Double Elephant."

Sat. Sept. 21, 11 a.m.: Heather Forest spins yarns for the whole family with folktales and fables celebrating nature, including: "A Winged Eagle," a Native American folktale, a Haitian tale, "The Story of Owl," and others. Admission:

ANTON COMMUNITY NEWSPAPERS OF LONG ISLAND

William Henry Seward, John M. Taylor,
Harper Collins, 340 pp., $25.

Subtitled Lincoln's Right Hand, this is an outstanding biography of a man known to most Americans as the perpetrator of "Seward's Folly," the purchase of Alaska. The reader finds that this achievement came at the end of a long and distinguished career.

The biography opens with the Republican convention of 1860 at which William Henry Seward, United States Senator from New York, was expected to be the nominee. He did, in fact, lead on the first two ballots before being overtaken by the eventual nominee, an obscure lawyer from Illinois named Abraham Lincoln.

Mr. Taylor then tells the story of Seward's early years growing up in the town of Auburn in the Finger Lakes section of New York State. Although his family was not well-to-do, young Harry, as he was called, early showed his intellectual promise and he was educated at Union College and subsequently studied law with an attorney in Goshen, New York.

Politics attracted the young lawyer from the start and he was elected state senator at the age of 29. Eight years later he ran for the office of Governor of New York State as a Whig and was elected in 1838 and reelected in 1842. He declined to run for a third term because his liberal hospitality while in office had taken a toll on his family's finances and he returned to the practice of law in Auburn. Having earned enough money to pay his debts by practicing patent law, he re-entered the public arena with a successful run for the United States Senate in 1848. Two themes dominated his campaign and his entire life. He was anti-slavery and pro-immigration. This latter position put him in life-long battle with the "know-nothings," the so-called "nativists" who opposed the entry into the country of the immigrants, especially the Irish who came as a result of the disastrous potato famine in their own country.

Seward soon became the leading anti-slavery voice in the Senate. He had been an early supporter of the then President, Zachary Taylor, and his star rode high for a time, but in 1850 Taylor died of a stomach ailment and he was succeeded by Millard Fillmore. Fillmore was a fellow New Yorker and he and Seward had long been political opponents, so for a time, Seward was in eclipse.

In 1854 the Whig party was in disarray. A new political party, calling itself the Republican Party, was organized in 1854 and, although Seward did not agree with all of its positions he allied himself with it.

In 1856 James Buchanan was the Democratic candidate and the Republicans sought to nominate Seward, who declined. Instead they nominated James Fremont who was defeated by Buchanan. Four years later appeared to be Seward's year, but, as cited above, he lost the nomination to Abraham Lincoln.

After actively campaigning for Lincoln, Seward accepted the appointment to be the new president's Secretary of State. The first state to secede, South Carolina, did so even before Lincoln's inauguration and seven others soon followed. Seward was a committed Unionist and his critics called into question his devotion to the cause of anti-slavery because of his massive efforts to keep the South in the Union. Once the Civil War had begun, however, the Secretary of State turned his great energy and intelligence to winning it. He had, as one observer said, "the prime ability to be a diplomat, the ability to deal amiably with people with whom he disagreed."

John M. Taylor is a distinguished biographer and the son of General Maxwell Taylor. He has written a fascinating biography of a fascinating man.

The Rise Of Black Churches

"Climbing Jacob's Ladder: The Rise of Black Churches 1740-1877," an exhibition examining the beginnings of African American churches, will go on display at the African American Museum in Hempstead from Sept. 22 through Dec. 22, County Executive Thomas S. Gulotta has announced. Admission is free.

"Climbing Jacob's Ladder" was developed for national travel by the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service (SITES) and the Anacostia Museum. The exhibition chronicles the rise of black churches in major east coast cities from the "First Great Awakening" in 1740, a series of religious revivals that exploded across America during the last half of the 1700s, to the end of the Reconstruction Era in 1877. During this period, black churches served not only as houses of worship, but as centers for a broad range of communal endeavors.

The exhibition will feature interpretive panels illustrated with graphic reproductions and photographs, multi-colored banners on which lines from spirituals are silkscreened, free-standing units with biographies of important black church leaders and a map of the United States depicting important centers of black church development.

Although introduced to Christianity,

A PHOTOGRAPH OF THE FISK JUBILEE SINGERS, who were chiefly responsible for introducing black religious music to a wider audience, is part of the exhibit. "Climbing Jacob's Ladder: The Rise of Black Churches in Eastern American Cities, 1740-1877." The exhibit, which examines the beginnings of African American churches, will be on display at the African American Museum in Hempstead from Sept. 22 through Dec. 22.

blacks were discriminated against by all denominations; thus black Christians were forced to seek independence and control over spiritual affairs. The continuing quest by black Christians for dominion over their spiritual and communal lives is the central theme of this exhibition.

Photographs of prominent black churches in Nassau County will also be on display. One such church is listed in the National Historic Register - the Lakeville AME

Zion Church, Long Island's first African American National landmark.

The African American Museum, operated by the Museum Services Division of the Nassau County Department of Recreation and Parks, is located at 110 North Franklin Street in Hempstead. The Museum is regularly open Tuesdays through Saturdays, 9 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. and Sundays, to 4:45 p.m.

For further information, call 485-0470.

Fall Chamber Series For Chelsea Center Begins

Beautiful chamber music will grace Chelsea Center during four Sundays this autumn. The Nassau County Office of Cultural Development is sponsoring a Fall Chamber Series featuring performers of the highest caliber.

The New York Brass Choir will open the series on Sept. 22 at 2 p.m. Led by conductor Dean Karahalios, New York Brass is a select group of the area's finest brass musicians, specializing in liturgical, youth and concert programs.

Celebrations Brass, directed by Patrick Dougherty, will perform at Chelsea Center on Oct. 27 at 3 p.m. Nassau County Executive Thomas S. Gulotta says "the group has been delighting audiences since 1975 with its exciting and entertaining programs." Celebrations Brass offers a lighthearted and relaxed presentation, while maintaining the highest artistic standards.

On Nov. 10, the renowned Minnewaska Chamber Music Society will present "From Baroque to Broadway." The 3 p.m. program will include works for violin and piano and vocal works from Broadway musicals. Judith Alstadter is the Director of the group performs on the piano. Hiroko Nakahara will play the violin, and Ron and Julie Anne Meixell will be the vocalists for the afternoon. Jerry Seckler, Director of the Office of Cultural Development, says that "the Minnewaska Chamber Music Society has earned a reputation for performing excellence and imaginative programming."

The final entree of the musical feast will be presented on Nov. 17 at 3 p.m. and will feature the Drucker Trio. The group was originally formed to promote music for two clarinets and a piano. Stanley Drucker and Naomi Drucker perform on the clarinet and Blanche Abram is the pianist. Ms. Drucker is the Director of the trio. The title of the Chelsea Center concert is "Music Old and New."

All performances will cost $6 for general admission tickets. Box 189, East Norwich, New York 11732.

Chelsea Center is located on Northern Boulevard (25A) in East Norwich.

Par-Tee Fore Chari-Tee, Sept. 25

"Par-tee Fore Chari-tee" with the March of Dimes and tee-off against birth defects Sept. 25 at the Hauppauge Country Club.

Golfers are invited to sign up in foursomes or as individuals. The day begins with a continental breakfast and tee-off times are from 8 to 11 a.m. The tournament is followed by an awards dinner and a raffle drawing for prizes. There are also longest drive and closest to the pin contests and prizes for low gross, low net first, second and third.

Chairman of the tournament is Marty Weinberg, of Weinberg & Parker Attorneys at Law. He and his committee have organized this "Par-tee Fore Chari-tee" to benefit the March of Dimes Campaign for Healthier Babies aimed at reducing the incidence of birth defects, low birthweight and infant mortality.

For more information about the golf tournament, contact Susan Commike at 496-2100.

TAKING TIME OUT is two time Wimbledon winner Stephan Edberg as he visits with Kevin Kolm at the North Shore University Hospital after Hurricane Bob interfered with the Golf Classic.

Stephan Edberg Visits Children's Hospital

When Hurricane Bob interfered with his scheduled Golf Classic, two-time Wimbledon winner Stephan Edberg visited the North Shore University Hospital.

Edberg saw the Child Life Program in action and signed autographs for hospitalized youngsters, including 10-year-old Kevin Kolm of Hicksville.

The Child Life Program, a component of the Variety Children's Medical Center of North Shore University Hospital, helps ease the stress of hospitalization on youngsters. The Child Life Program was the beneficiary of the Hamlet Challenge Cup Tennis Tournament, the Stephan Edberg Celebrity Golf Classic and the other tournament week activities.

HOCKEY CHAMPS! Joseph Fontanella (Our Lady of Mercy), Daniel Koloski (Woodland Ave.) and James Sedoruk (Lee Ave.) are back after a successful summer hockey tour.

Summer Hockey Team Members Return

Three boys from the Hicksville area were chosen to play hockey for the Long Island Summer Team.

They traveled as far as Toronto, Canada, to participate in the North American Summer Invitational Hockey Tournament.

The team is composed of boys born in 1980 and they are selected from various Long Island hockey teams. The boys skate together from May-August and then return to their regular teams in the fall.

Hicksville Rockets Sail Past Opponent

The Hicksville Rockets (boys under age 11) Soccer Travel Team started off their first season as a travel team with a bang.

They defeated the Commack Chiefs 6-0. The scoring was led by Martin Ferrario with three goals, Brett Huzar, David Musinski and Michael Tanella, who each scored one goal.

Chris Musinski played an excellent game. Strong goaltending by Danny Cocchi preserved the shutout.

Great play was also shown by Mike Camarinos, Adam Sobel, Andrew Berner, Nick Alano, John Fiorello, Anton Berzins, David Neves, Hank Zuckerman, Eddie Pettie and Paul Maritano.

This win comes on the heels of their winning first place in their division in the Huntington Boys Club Labor Day Tournament. They went undefeated there in six games, of which the closest score was 4-1.

Fall Soccer Registration Underway Now

Hicksville American Soccer Club intramural team registration has begun for the fall season.

The fee for the first child to sign up is $75, for the second child $50, for the third child $25 and there is no charge for a fourth child in a family who signs up to play.

Fees are paid at the time of registration. Registration fees include accidental medical insurance.

It is the parents' responsibility to determine the physical readiness of the child and parents must list any unusual medical conditions on the registration form.

Further general information can be obtained by calling Terry Bruno at 735-7194 or Dean Camerinos at 931-8610. Sign-up information for children between the ages of seven and 12 can call Gary Bretton at 938-2359.

Sign-up for children between the ages of three and six years can call Rich LaPolla at 931-0739.

The league is also looking for volunteers to help in various jobs within the league.

DAWN MULLER is being interviewed by sportscaster Carl White.

Hicksville Student Interviewed On TV

Senior Dawn Muller was selected by Channel 5 Fox Network as "Student of the Week" in the Metropolitan area. The network recently filmed an interview at the high school with Dawn which aired on Fox 5 at 7 p.m. on Sept. 13.

She is an honor student who is a member of the National Honor Society. She was the recipient of the Marines Distinguished Athlete Award last spring which honors those students who are athletically and academically talented.

A member of the Student Athlete Leadership Program, Dawn has played on Hicksville's varsity softball, volleyball and basketball teams.

PAL Fall Sports Registration Underway

PAL fall basketball registration for boys, ages 7-15 and girls, ages 8-15, will start on Monday, September 23 and Wednesday, September 25 at Woodbury Lanes, South Oyster Bay Road and Woodbury Ave. It will also be held on Tuesday, September 24 and Thursday, September 26 at the Hicksville Library, Jerusalem Ave. and Second Street.

Registration times for all days is from 7 p.m. until 9 p.m. The basketball programs run from November through March.

Basketball is not the only thing kids can register for on the above days and times. Judo is offered from October through April for boys and girls, age 6-18. Registration is on a first come, first serve basis, until all classes are filled.

Summer baseball and softball registration for the summer of 1992 will be held at the same time and places as the basketball registration. Boys baseball is for boys age 8-15 and girls softball is for girls age 8-15. The season runs from approximately July 4 through Labor Day.

Lacrosse, for boys in the third, fourth, fifth and sixth grade, registration will be held at the same time and place as the basketball registration for the upcoming school year. Fall 1991 registration is the only one for lacrosse. There will not be another registration for lacrosse in the spring, 1992. Teams will have limited membership size.

Karate registration will take place at the same time as the basketball registration for the October through April boy's and girl's leagues for age 10-18. Registration is on a first come, first serve basis.

Bowling registration for the September 91 through April 92 season for boys and girls age 6-18 is also beginning. People can register at Woodbury Lanes any day during regular operating hours. Saturday leagues are at 9:30 a.m., 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

Weekday leagues are also available and the first half runs from September through January and the second half runs from January till May.

Parents must be present at registration.
