Residents Say No To Drive-Thru Facility

By Victor Caputo

At a recent community meeting, residents living near a shut-down Carvel on the corner of Tobias and Jerusalem Ave. chose to oppose the owner's plan to sell the property in order that a Dairy Barn-type establishment could be erected.

Residents also concluded that they will oppose the building of a parking lot on property that is deemed residential just a short distance away. The lot is across from the commercial lot where the Dairy Barn-type establishment might be built. The additional parking spaces, residents feel, could at some point in time allow a 7-Eleven type establishment to be built. That type of establishment is unwanted by people in the surrounding area.

"People in the area are afraid that if this Dairy Barn-type facility fails, something worse may move in after it. By opposing this, they feel they are eliminating the possibility of that happening," said Jim Murphy, a representative from Assemblyman Fred Parola's office, who had scheduled the public meeting.

"We have enough convenience stores in the area, why do we need any more. I see no need to approve such a structure of this nature," said Rocky Gonzalez, president of the South Hicksville Civic Association.

Howard Avertene, the attorney for Herbil Holding Co., who currently owns the property in question, attended the meeting to answer any questions residents had.

"The man who wants the land to build the establishment already operates that type of business and is quite successful. He wants to have a top notch establishment in this area as well," he said.

Residents voiced concern about several things, such as the entrance to the establishment on Tobias Street. They did not want to see an increase in traffic on the residential street. "When we met with residents in the area earlier, they showed concern over the entrance to the site that is on Tobias Street. With the new plans, we have eliminated the entrance altogether," said Avertene.

Avertene explained that the establishment would operate as a drive-thru only and would not operate for 24 hours. There will be only one way to enter and one way to exit the area and that would be onto Jerusalem Ave., according to the plans.

Residents wanted to know why the site had parking spaces if it was only going to be a drive-thru. Avertene explained that the town requires parking spaces to be there. The spaces would probably be utilized by the people working in the store.

The idea of an establishment that would sell alcohol did not bring a smile to residents' faces. Avertene said that he does not think alcohol would be sold.

"Why does your client care what the people want," said a resident, wondering why the owner would want the public's input if they already own the property. "We always seek to work with the community on properties such as this," said Avertene.

Residents were not satisfied with Avertene's explanations. They intend to fight the petition that will go before the town board at a future town board hearing.

If the town does reject the Dairy Barn-type establishment, Herbil Holding does have the right, according to the way the property is zoned, to build a retail establishment without special permits from the town.

"It is a business zoned piece; it is going to be used for something, even if it is not the Dairy Barn-type establishment," said Avertene.

Jim Murphy confirmed that if this establishment was not built, then another type of retail store, such as a convenience store, could be built. "Anything is possible. Whatever retail business they wanted to build

Town Calls For Commercial Waste Recycling

By D.F. Karppi

The Town of Oyster Bay is extending its recycling efforts to include commercial waste. At the present time, commercial garbage is not picked up by the Town of Oyster Bay. Private carters handle all commercial waste.

The Environmental Control Division of the Department of Public Works will host a Commercial Recycling Symposium at the Crest Hollow Country Club in Woodbury on Oct. 23 to introduce the various aspects of commercial recycling to Town of Oyster Bay businesses.

"The commercial sector is a very important segment to add to our recycling efforts. Town businesses that recycle will reduce company costs while reducing the size of our disposable solid waste stream, that adds up to savings for both the company and the Town," said Supervisor Angelo Delligatti.

The Town is currently preparing a manual to be used as a recycling guide. The Commercial Recycling Manual will be mailed out to Town of Oyster Bay businesses, on Oct. 1, along with an invitation to attend the symposium. The guide is being prepared by the Environmental Control Division.

Businesses will be, in essence, invited to join the Town's S.O.R.T. program. The Town hopes to include corrugated board in their recycling efforts. Local businesses will be asked to help the Town find markets for it.

Vendors will be at the conference so business people can talk to them one-on-one about what can be recycled. Many businesses already recycle. An example is Grumman. They have a tremendous recycling program, said Town Of Oyster Bay Public Information Officer Jackie Hession. The Town hopes a representative from the aerospace company will share their expertise at the conference.

Businesses will be encouraged to set up systems that will be attractive to their employees.

Town of Oyster Bay employees, who work in Town Hall have been recycling for some time. "It is second nature to the town residents, they are used to recycling at home already," said Oyster Bay Public Information Officer Phyllis Barry.

The Town provides blue bins for newspaper recycling. There are receptacles next to the Xerox machines to permit waste office paper to be recycled. There are also holders at desks for waste paper. The different methods work to catch waste paper where it is generated in the office.

If Steven Romalewski of the New York Public Interest Research Group, Inc. (NYPiRG) is correct, the response from the commercial sector should be good. He said recently "Public officials have been far behind public opinion on how to solve the garbage crisis." The public is ready to recycle.

Phyllis Barry said "I can't speak for other public officials but the Town of Oyster Bay under Supervisor Angelo Delligatti's leadership has become a recognized leader in recycling. Our S.O.R.T. program has received national acclaim on a number of occasions as one of the best curbside recycling programs in the country.

"Our commercial recycling program is just another example of Supervisor Delligatti's initiative in recycling which includes his spearheading the Nassau Suffolk Regional Recycling Co-operative."

Steven Romalewski is a strong advocate of recycling. He said garbage is filled with valuable material.

The public should produce less waste, recycle more material and shouldn't accept large scale disposal methods, he said.

He commented recently that the towns need to focus on public yard waste, composting, grasscycling and commercial waste.

When asked how the Town of Oyster Bay is doing on its recycling efforts he said, "They were late in extending their recycling efforts and they should not build an incinerator. It

Correction

A typographical error occurred in the page three story of the Sept. 19 issue of the Hicksville Illustrated News about the rescue of resident Greg Vasquez's grandchildren. The children's last name is spelled Hazel, not Hazel, which appeared in the article.

Clarification

In a Sept. 12 article about the Town of Oyster Bay's proposed incinerator plant, Steven Romalewski was quoted as saying, "The town could immediately save more money by utilizing off-site trucking."

The clarified statement is: "The town could immediately save more money on off-site trucking by expanding recycling effort."

Students Visit Broadway Mall

More than 20 international students studying abroad at Long Island University's C.W. Post Campus this year visited the Broadway Mall in Hicksville as part of a special orientation program to help them learn about American culture.

During the trip, which was made earlier in the month, the newly enrolled Long Island University students were introduced to American products and prices. Many of them took the opportunity to purchase linen, towels and toiletries for their dorm rooms.

Most of the new C.W. Post students are natives of Japan, Korea and Taiwan.

The Broadway Mall visit was one of a number of activities planned for the week-long orientation.

The students also learned about American customs, ranging from dating practices and exchanging greetings to renting a car and earning a driver's license. They attended various seminars and social gatherings such as "Getting To Know You" and "Everything You Wanted To Know About Americans But Were Afraid To Ask."

Shell Looks To Remodel Station

By Victor Caputo

Shell Oil Company and Josam Associates recently petitioned the Oyster Bay Town Board for a special use permit and a zoning change at the corner of South Oyster Bay and Woodbury Roads in order to demolish the already existing gasoline station and construct a new service station and retail food mart.

The zone would have to be changed from a Business F to a Business G district before demolition and reconstruction of the buildings could take place.

"We are seeking to change to a Business G district to comply with the town's ordinances. The site is currently being operated as a gas only operation," said Kevin O'Brien, attorney for the applicants.

O'Brien pointed out during his presentation to the board that the site had been in operation since 1955. "There really has not been much in the way of change to the area except for the necessary changes for repairs.

"What we are proposing is to raise and rebuild a new gas station," he said.

The food mart, he said, would not be a large scale market. The primary business of the station would be the sale of motor fuel and the mart would basically sell things such as potato chips, motor oil, wiper fluid, maps, milk, rolls of film and other items of that nature, he said.

"There would be no food preparation on the premises and since the town does not grant the right to sell alcohol on the premises, none will be sold," said O'Brien.

"Is there going to be an increase in traffic flow?" asked Town Councilman Leonard Symons. Vincent Donolly, a traffic expert hired by the applicant to run a study of the area to see if the traffic volume would increase, answered that question.

He studied establishments like the one proposed around Long Island and found that 60 percent of the customers that go to these establishments buy only fuel, 21 percent buy fuel and food and 13 percent buy only food.

He figured that the site will bring about an additional 19 customers to the area during the peak driving hours. He also figured that most of the potential customers who would stop in an establishment such as the one proposed would already be on the road anyway.

"There will be no major impact from the activity of the site on traffic. We feel the increased traffic will not be significant as long as the site is laid out properly," Donolly said.

John J. Breslin was asked by the applicants to do an area character study to see if the new building would be harmful to the surrounding community. "The applicant's proposal would not have any adverse effect on surrounding property values.

Oyster Bay Town Supervisor Angelo Delligatti asked to see a landscape plan of the site. The town board would like to see trees and shrubbery around the site if possible to help it blend in with the community and not be an eyesore. The town board does not want to see tremendous advertising signs that could be considered as an eyesore.

O'Brien said that the applicants would be willing to work with the town to come up with a landscaping strategy and he complimented the work of the town in bringing many trees to the central business district of Hicksville.

Delligatti praised the Hicksville Fire Department, who took on the responsibility to make sure the trees are watered.

Now That's Italian: Ethnic Radio

Tony Panzarella and Dick DiRusso want to make one thing perfectly clear: America is not a so-called "melting pot."

The term, they say, implies that the country's ethnic diversity is somehow stirred into a great nationalistic cauldron, melted into some indistinct slag, then poured out to harden as a mono-ethnic culture that has little resemblance to the sum of its original parts.

In their own style, the two men try to drive that point home every Sunday morning on a new, very ethnically oriented radio show called Italian American Spotlight, which airs live on WGBB (1240 AM) for two hours following the 9 o'clock news.

"It is our diversity that makes America the exciting country that it is. We are, of course, Americans first and proud of that fact. But our cultural heritage is very important to us and we want to keep that heritage alive on our show," said Panzarella, who, along with DiRusso, is the co-host and co-producer.

DiRusso is executive producer and owner of the News and Entertainment Network, which currently airs a total of five shows on several Long Island radio stations. Panzarella is the producer for most of them.

Noting the fact that Italian Americans comprise the largest single ethnic group on Long Island and often bemoaning the fact that second and third generation Italians are gradually losing touch with their roots, the two men played with the idea for such a show.

They were determined that it would be both fun and significant at the same time. It would deal with issues of concern to Italian Americans, highlight Italian American celebrities, focus on Italian food and restaurants and be a media outlet for groups such as the Sons of Italy.

The executives at WGBB, whose tower is in Freeport with a signal that reaches as far as Brooklyn in the west and mid-Suffolk County in the east, liked the idea and gave the go-ahead for a trial one-hour slot at 9 a.m. each Sunday. The show made its debut

June 9.

By mid-summer, audience reaction made it obvious that the station had a hit on its hands. Not only was the slot made permanent, but the station insisted that the show be expanded to two hours, effective Sunday, Sept. 8.

Italian American Spotlight has actually

Free Lunch Aid For Hicksville Students

The Hicksville Union Free School District has announced a free price meal policy (free milk and lunch) for East Street Elementary School, Fork Lane Elementary School, Old Country Road Elementary School, Woodland Avenue Elementary School, Hicksville Middle School and Hicksville Senior High School children.

There are income eligibility guidelines for the free milk and lunch program. For a family size of one, the eligibility requirement is an income of $8,606 or less per year and for a family of three, it is $14,482 annual maximum salary.

The Hicksville Public Schools would be more than happy to go over the regulations with residents who need assistance.

Families are urged by the school district to take advantage of this program if they are eligible for it. All families need to do is fill out the application forms sent to the homes with a letter to the parents. Additional applications can be picked up at the principal's office of each school.

Households which currently include children who receive food stamps or benefits under "Aid To Families with Dependent Children" or "Aid To Dependent Children" only have to list the child's name and food stamp or AFDC or ADC case number, print their name and address and sign the application. Separate applications are required for children in the same household with different case numbers.

Applications for the program may be submitted any time during the school year to the principal of the school. If a family member becomes unemployed or if family size decreases, or if the family income increases by more than $50 per month, a new application must be filled out.

The school district does have the right to verify at any time during the school year the information on the application. If a parent does not give the school the information, the child may be dropped from the program.

All questions on the application must be filled out. Foster children may also be able to receive the lunch programs.

A complete copy of the policy is on file at each one of the principal's offices in the schools and in the office of the School Food Authority District Administrator where it can be reviewed by any interested person.

SCHOOL NOTEBOOK

Hospital To Utilize Willet School

North Shore University Hospital-Cornell University Medical College's Preschool and Infant Development Program, which is a school for youngsters with development speech problems, has relocated to the Willet Avenue School in Hicksville.

The program moved from the Westbury Dryden Street School when the school needed the space back.

The program is designed to help very young children who have difficulty in developing speech and language. "The goal is to help a child reach their full potential and to help them go into the main stream school life," said a spokesperson for North Shore University Hospital.

The Hicksville Public Schools are happy to have North Shore University Hospital leasing space in the school building. The building was not going to be used by the district any longer and was closed. "It gives us a facility that is no longer used by the school that will bring in additional revenue. They are also an impressive neighbor to the school," said Superintendent of Schools Salvatore Mugavero.

The decision to lease the school building was made by the school board at the July meeting.

Children Learn About Bus Safety

Kindergarten students from the Old Country Road School, Hicksville, along with their Principle Mrs. Silver, took part in a class that was taught by Fran Guttilla from the Transportation Department on bus safety.

She went over many aspects of bus safety. She demonstrated the proper procedures of entering and leaving a bus and where to stand when the bus arrives and where to cross the street when the bus drops them off. She also showed them a video depicting the many aspects of bus safety.

The class was very educational to the children, who are beginning their years in the school system. With last year's school austerity budget, busing for kindergarten students was deleted. This class was designed to bring children up-to-date on bus safety.

Guttilla was very helpful and answered many questions the children had on bus safety.

By the time the class was over, the children had a good understanding of the importance of understanding bus safety. The lessons that they learn now might one day prevent a tragic accident from occurring.

LEARNING ABOUT BUS SAFETY. Students gather to listen to Fran Guttilla lecture about bus safety. Students found the program very educational.

SCHOOL SHORTS

Elementary Enrichment Program

The Hicksville Public School District is once again continuing to offer the Elementary Enrichment Program, which is open to all students in grades four-six. Youngsters are invited to enroll in activities that may lead to the development of future study.

Courses offered in the fall are Computer Lab One, Computer Lab Two, Guitar Lab One and Two, Piano Lab One and Two, Fun in the Kitchen, Aerobics, Foreign Language One, Spanish Language Two, Arts, and Crafts.

The program is offered after elementary school hours in the Middle School or in the Lee Avenue School. There is a $15 fee per course. Registration will take place on Wednesday, Oct. 2 from 9 a.m.-11:30 a.m.

Checks are to be made payable to the Hicksville Public Schools. Priority will be given to registration by mail and mail must be postmarked by Oct. 1.

Fourth, fifth and sixth grade parents and students who are interested and have not yet received a letter from the District Activities Director pertaining to this program may contact the director at 933-6585.

Excellence In Music

Six students from the Hicksville Senior High School have been selected to participate in the New York State School Music Association All State Band, Orchestra and Chorus. Each group will be performing at the state convention to be held in November.

Selection to each group is keenly competitive and only those students meeting the very highest statewide standards of excellence are chosen.

Representing Hicksville are John Christ (Symphonic Band), Sheera Horvath (String Orchestra), Guy Carloni (Band Alternate), Chris Kemmlin (Band Alternate), Ron Castillo (Orchestra Alternate) and Taylor Ferranti (Chorus Alternate).

Fire Safety Program

Instructors from the Public Fire and Safety Education Division of the Nassau County Fire Service Academy will be visiting Hicksville elementary schools at the end of this month and into Oct. as part of the fire and safety curriculum for elementary students.

The program introduces and reviews fire safety concepts and behaviors contained in the National Fire Protection Association's "Learn Not To Burn" curriculum. The program is nationally recognized by school authorities and is used by many districts in Nassau County.

Students put what they have learned into practical use by utilizing the Academy's Fire Safety House Trailer. The trailer is a complete scaled down replica of a two story house built especially for Public Fire Safety and Prevention Education. It is an educational tool designed to provide students with both a safe and positive learning experience.

evolved into far more than was envisioned at the beginning. Live interviews with top celebrities have been added. Recent appearances by comedian Pat Cooper and singers Jerry Vale and AJ Martino, for instance, have boosted ratings substantially.

Also added has been the airing of tunes by top Italian American artists such as Frank Sinatra, Tony Bennett, Frankie Laine, Connie Francis and others; and some good natured banter between Panzarella and DiRusso, which includes DiRusso's weekly dose of Italian trivia and the resultant ribbing by Panzarella.

The addition of a substitute hostess, Jackie Frasinia Guertin, added a new dimension and new voice to the show with a woman's perspective.

Says Guertin: "Besides the diversity of our show, the thing that makes it stand out from existing Italian radio is that we broadcast completely in English!"

Which is a salient point when you consider the audience Spotlight is attempting to reach. A study of Long Island's nearly one million Italian Americans revealed that fewer than 20 percent can speak or understand the Italian language. Virtually all speak English.

Panzarella, of Malverne, and DiRusso, of Woodbury, and Guertin, of Merrick, are all native Long Islanders whose grandparents were born in Italy. Their show has been well received by Long Island's Italian American community.

Former County Court Judge Al Samenga, of Elmont, now Nassau's Commissioner of Accounts, notes that a program such as Spotlight "is not only warranted, but mandated." Native-born Italian Americans, he says, are often unaware of the contributions of their ancestral family and of their identity "and of the world-wide esteem generated by that identity?"

One of the show's early guests was Vincent Romano, chairman of the Commission for Social Justice, the anti-defamation arm of the Sons of Italy in America.

Romano told Spotlight's listeners that Italian Americans were fed up with being depicted negatively in the media. And he praised the efforts of the show to air such problems and to fill such media voids as the demise of Il Progresso, at one time the nation's leading Italian newspaper.

"Italian American Spotlight," said Samenga, "informs, instructs and enlightens our native born English speaking Italian American population of their heritage of culture and accomplishment!"

With the expansion of the show to two hours, Panzarella and DiRusso will have more time now to develop the various segments of the program.

Interviews with local guests will be slated for the first hour, along with restaurant reviews and call-ins from listeners.

The second hour will feature celebrity interviews, community bulletin board and more.

Dispersed throughout both hours will be music of Italy, American pop by Italian artists and, as Panzarella puts it, "DiRusso's incessant trivia!"

O'Brien also stressed that Shell Oil Company does put flower beds around its stations and would not put up a tarp-like sign that is torn and stained, but one that would clearly tell what the prices of the fuels were so that customers would know before they entered the station.

No residents came to the town hearing to argue against the building of the site. One letter was, however, submitted against the plan. "We already have a convenience store in the shopping center. We do not need another one," said the letter.

The town board reserved a decision so residents still can make their voices heard on whether they approve of the new gasoline station or if they do not.

We're putting our money where our mouth is to preserve Long Island's water supply.

Long Island's water supply is the finest in the nation. At Slomin's we're taking positive steps to help preserve it. Specifically, we've established a special financial assistance program to help subsidize the cost of complying with the new regulations regarding buried fuel oil tanks.

Under this program, you will be able to purchase our environmentally safe, 280-gallon fiberglass tank for a price that is truly below our cost.* There are also economical options available for above ground storage tanks, starting as low as $100 installed. We realize that even with our subsidy, replacing your tank may be a financial burden, so we're offering low monthly payments with no interest or finance charges.

As a leader in the fuel oil industry, we feel a responsibility to invest in our community... to put our money where our mouth is, so to speak. We're proud to be working with our Long Island neighbors to preserve our fragile environment.

BRIDAL 1992

A SUPPLEMENT OF LONG ISLAND COMMUNITY NEWSPAPERS

For A Jazzy Fall: Fashionable Feet

For the woman who wears JAZZ, fashion is fun, colorful and of-the-moment. She has her own personal style and selects items for her wardrobe that reflect that style. Sassy, classy — and sometimes street chic, her tastes vary depending on her mood and the occasion.

The JAZZ Fall - Holiday 1991 collection captures this electric spirit. There's an array of looks that range from sixties inspired style to evening elegance. The fashion 'collector' loves JAZZ because she can find contemporary styling at prices that allow her to tap into all her favorite trends.

This season, dazzling color looks fresh. One sure footed style: the 'Galaxy,' a high-heeled red shoe bootie. For PM polish, black looks best. The newest versions of the evening shoe are just a bit bare with sling-backs and geometric cut-outs. The 'Cradle,' 'Lounge' and 'Cosy' are the perfect complement to all the new bare 'slip' dresses. And for easy-going freetime style, the 'Lasso' pairs the best of the West with a modern suede bootie.

Slipping into something sporty and spectacular is easy with JAZZ. Whether a woman is searching for one perfect pair of shoes or a complete closet full of options, Jazz offers a leg up on real style.

Bridal Gown Rental, An Alternative To Buying

"Rent my wedding gown?" Why not. Men have been renting their wedding wear forever...it's expected. Judith Stone, founder of Island Bridal Gown Rentals, 148 Broadway (Rte. 107), Hicksville (681-5816), has helped hundreds of brides fulfill their fantasies, enabling them to dress in the wedding gowns of their dreams without frustrating shopping trips, disappointing service or enormous expense.

"It's a really unique service," says Judith Stone. "A bride can be married in an exquisite, custom fitted dress, complete with slip, headpiece, veil and gloves and bring everything back to Island Bridal Gown Rentals after the wedding. We have a larger stock of gowns and accessories than most bridal shops," she notes, "and the rental fee includes all alterations except length changes."

Island Bridal Gown Rental stocks more than 500 gowns, in sizes 4-22. There's a style for every taste, from ornately formal, wide skirted cathedral train traditionals to today's trendy slim or short styles. Most of the gowns are brand new, many are designer creations and others are antique and vintage gowns.

Each gown is meticulously cleaned, fully restored and hand pressed before it is available for rental. The bride can try on the gown she will ultimately wear, not a wilted sample in the wrong size. Rental costs start at $100. "Budget is one of the most important factors in deciding on a gown," says Judith. "Service and satisfaction are next. My brides find all three here."

Personal service, enormous selection and privacy were the most important factors in designing Island Bridal Gown Rentals' delightful new showroom. Gowns are arranged by size and fittings are arranged by appointment, enabling Judith and her skilled, full-time seamstresses to give each bride the friendly, individual attention she deserves. The fitting rooms are spacious and the alteration area is well lighted and roomy. Sensitive to the needs of larger women and the difficulties they encounter in the average store, Judith has a unique selection of gowns in sizes 16-22.

A bride can rent her gown as little as a month before the wedding or a year or more in advance. Once she's selected her gown, it's unavailable to anyone else until it's been cleaned and restored after her wedding. Fittings are scheduled to allow ample time for any redesign that may be necessary. Each gown is carefully cleaned, hand pressed and ready several days before the wedding. No wait for the gown to arrive, no disappointments, no surprises!

A full service bridal shop, Island Bridal Gown Rentals offers complete custom alteration service for all gowns, no matter where their origin.

If your heart is set on wearing your mother's or grandmother's wedding gown, Island Bridal Gown Rentals is the place to go. Museum quality preservation and restoration of vintage gowns are a specialty here. Nearly 25 years of hands-on experience has made Judith Stone one of the most respected restoration specialists on Long Island. Damaged or loose beading and lace will be repaired, vintage trim and fabric will be matched, the gown will be redesigned and altered to fit your body shape and today's styles.

If you've purchased a gown, after the wedding, Judith and her preservation specialists will repair loose beading and trim, carefully clean the gown, store it, with your accessories, in an acid-free, museum quality box designed to keep it beautiful for your own daughter.

Wedding bells in your future? Shop first at Island Bridal Gown Rentals, you'll be among the hundreds of smart brides who have ended their search for the perfect gown in Judith Stone's capable hands. You'll even find an interesting selection of gowns for your bridesmaids. For an appointment, call 516-681-5816.

You're nervous. All the family and most of your friends will be there. She's nervous. No matter that you're taking care of all the details—she's the one in the spotlight.

The bat mitzvah girl needs to be contemporary, stylish, beautiful, elegant and comfortable. That's a tall order for one dress but there's a boutique on the south shore that has no problem filling it.

Shoshana Kanowitz, owner of Miri's, 87 Columbus Avenue in Cedarhurst, has all the experience necessary to dress the girl and please the mom.

Shoshana and her staff know how to turn the sometimes awkward teen into a sophisticated young lady. They do so with diplomacy, an expert eye for fashion and the patience and knowledge to customize perfectly. Many dresses take several fittings, but, as many moms and their daughters will attest, the finished product is well worth the effort.

For Kids' Birthday, Make It A Cabaret

Gail and John Caparelli have developed the perfect setting for the perfect children's party. Here's how they go:

Kiddie Cabaret in Bayside provides children's entertainment every Saturday and Sunday when the doors open at 12:30 p.m. Themes change weekly and feature talented clowns, magicians, puppeteers, magical mimes, circus performers and costume characters.

The club is decorated with balloon bouquets and dance music fills the air. Young staff members encourage arriving children to "do the locomotion" or the "hokey pokey." Some children may prefer to sit down to tables set with paper and boxes of crayons and draw pictures. Adults may relax and enjoy a complimentary cup of coffee or tea. After everyone arrives, the children are seated and served a lunch of pizza or hot dogs and a beverage. Birthday party groups are seated at their specially reserved tables. Lunches are available for purchase by adults.

At 1 p.m. sharp, the feature entertainment begins. Special attention is given to the birthday children in the audience and they may be asked to come up on the stage to assist in a magic trick or song and dance. All of the performers encourage general audience participation. The performance lasts for approximately 45 minutes. At the end of each performance children are given a "magic ring" and balloon to take home as a souvenir.

Birthday Parties continue for another half hour during which time one of the host/hostesses will serve a choice of cake or cupcakes, soda or milk and present each child with a favor. All paper goods are included. Total length of performance and party is two hours.

Need to know more? Want to book a party? Call Gail Caparelli at (718) 224-3789 for more information.

A Special Thanks

On the 17th and the 18th of August, the Hicksville Youth Council held a fundraising weekend entitled "Save The Hicksville Youth Council." The events was a great success.

The weekend not only aided us to begin to bridge a gap in funding that was created by a cut in our state aid to local governments, but the weekend brought attention to the agency and allowed us to build a positive relationship with this community.

A lot of work went into the planning and the implementation of this weekend. The Hicksville Youth Council would like to thank all of the parents and young people who rallied to our cause. They attended meetings, they went out into the community to solicit for supplies and prizes, they planned, constructed and manned booths and they priced and sold merchandise at our garage sale. The agency would like to extend our gratitude to these dedicated people who worked in the heat and the humidity of that weekend.

A special thanks to Larsen Home Improvement for donating all of the lumber that was used to build the booths. We would also like to acknowledge the Beacon Federal Savings Bank for the use of their parking lot, Holy Trinity Episcopal Church and Antun's Catering Hall for the use of their folding tables.

We would also like to extend our thanks to the following corporations and local businesses for their contributions to this fundraising effort:

Chemical Bank, Hicksville Florist & Fruiterers, Country Cove Flower and Farm Shop, Fluff 'n' Puff, Layback and Read, Mishugina Mark Inc., Schult's Delicatessen, William M. ## Residents Did Not Enjoy Greek Festival

The Hicksville Illustrated published an article in Thursday, Sept. 19 issue that depicted the Greek Festival held on Field Ave. in Hicksville as "a good time had by all." Well, it is time the residents' side be told!!!

Residents did not enjoy the festival. We were subjected to and witness to excessive noise, lights, rowdiness, garbage, loitering, property damage, and very audible profanity used by groups who appeared to be intoxicated and looking for a confrontation. We did not appreciate the use of our properties for people to "relieve" themselves and cars blocking our driveways. A resident was hospitalized because of injuries sustained due to an argument with a non-resident whose unauthorized vehicle was blocking his driveway. A utility pole was struck and knocked down by a car that went out of control, missing pedestrians and landing on a homeowner's lawn. Groups of youths appeared suddenly and had to be dispersed or chased by police. These are only a few incidents that occurred this year and have in past years.

None of the unpleasantness of the festival has ever been publicized.

"Resident" cards are issued to homeowners who live on the closed streets, only to find that they have been duplicated causing confusion for the auxiliary police and subjecting them to harassment from non-resident and residents, who have tried to be cooperative but feel we have been pushed to the limit. Our rights have been taken advantage of and assaulted.

No, the Residents of Field Ave., Field Ct., Walter Ave., Meadow Lane and adjacent streets, did not enjoy the festival, especially at times well after the supposed 11 p.m. closing.

We did not enjoy the entire weekend. We never have and it is time we let it be known.

The festival should be stopped or moved to a non-residential area.

Hicksville Gardens Civic Assoc.
Rosella Maggio, President

Red Cross Swim-A-Cross

Eighty eight swimmers, ranging in age from eight to seventy eight, took the plunge August 29 and swam a mile for the Nassau County Chapter of the American Red Cross—raising more than $4,000 to support Chapter services.

The Swim-A-Cross, which was chaired by Joan Imhof, Director of Nassau County's Volunteer Services, was underwritten by Frank M. Flower & Sons, Inc. of Oyster Bay and hosted by WKJY (98.3). The Nassau County Police Department Marine Division, the Oyster Bay Harbor Master and Crew, and E&B Marine Supply Co., Inc., gave generous support to the event.

A Letter from Lulabelle...

...Do you remember the "tourist cabins" that were along every well-travelled road (two-lane, of course, ... this was long before turnpikes and parkways) ... You would be driving along as dusk approached wondering where you would rest for the night and there would be a sign "cozy tourist cabins just ahead" ... These were individual little houses, usually with a front porch with two Adirondack chairs, a bed or two and hopefully, but not always, a private bath ... Many farmers with property along these roads would augment their income with these little rentals ... They were usually very clean but there were no amenities that we cannot live without today—no restaurant or snack bar—no pool—no disco ... just a place to sleep and maybe the farmer's wife would give you breakfast for a modest sum ... These cabins had many fancy names ... I once stayed in one that was called "really nice cottages" and they were about the worst I ever saw!!! ... But, in general, they answered a need long before the modern motels and we were always glad to see one ahead—one with clean curtains and decent paint ... And mostly, they charged one dollar a night!!! ... But before you tell me you can't believe it, just think about how much your salary was in those long-ago days!

Yours, Lulabelle

The Investor's Corner

By Dr. Joseph P. Frey

Salomon
From time to time we get a big story about some security or the pricing, buying, selling, or auctioning off of the security. Let us look at one so we can understand what is going on.

The Treasury Auction. Salomon Bros. has been in the news lately because the firm and its former employee, boy wonder Paul Moser, tried to corner the U.S. Treasury or Agency bond offerings. He took all of the senior managers off the company. Just what did he do, and how could he do it?

We have to first understand how the bonds are auctioned. Each time a bond sale by the government takes place, the bonds are bid for by primary dealers. A primary dealer is a large financial institution which has a recognized relationship with the Federal Reserve to buy, sell and help maintain a market for the government paper (bonds). They bid for the bonds and then resell them.

If a primary dealer can get inventory of the bonds at a high interest rate yield, that dealer makes a small percent of profit (their spread). Even if the spread is small, when it is multiplied by billions and billions of bond dollars, it is big money.

The Old Procedure. The primary dealers bid for the bonds at different percentage of yields and varying amounts of dollars at each level. There were no limits on the amount of money a dealer was able to bid at each interest rate level. There was only one basic rule, no dealer could buy more than 35 percent of the total being offered. The dealers do not bid a price, they bid a percentage yield at each level.

The Federal Reserve, as the Treasury's agent, want to pay as little interest as they can for the bonds. To do so, they start accepting the lowest percent bid, and continue to higher bids until all of the bonds have been sold. There are always bidders. These are securities backed by the safest country in the world. The market is huge. The average, the middle between the highest yield and the lowest yield accepted, becomes a benchmark. This establishes an approximate yield price for the resale of the bonds.

Those who win the auction have bonds with interest rates higher than the average. Those who lose are those with the bulk below the average yield. This game is for winners. Most of the bonds are resold immediately.

The art is arranging your bid to get high yields. The dealers bid at all levels, bidding for greater amounts as the yield increases. If you bid too high you get no bonds. Remember, the Fed is accepting the low interest yields first. If the trader is skillful, and gets a large amount of high yields they win big immediately (and the year-end bonus increases.) Paul Moser was skillful. He would bid for more than 100 to 300 percent of the entire bond issue even though Salomon could only buy 35 percent. This tactic worked so well for Salomon that the U.S. Treasury changed the rules. They tried to prevent the firm from being so aggressive. No rules had been broken, only the spirit of the auction.

The New Rule. It was a slight change but a profound one. After July, 1990, no firm was allowed to bid for more than 35 percent of the entire issue at every yield level. This made buying large amounts at high yields much more difficult. It made the making of huge money much more difficult.

To get around the new rule, Paul Moser started in a small way to have Salomon customers bid for the bonds. That was no problem except that the customer did not know about it. They ended up with about 45 percent of the bonds offered. Salomon would then buy the bonds from the customer and resell them. Of course, the amounts got bigger and bigger.

Senior management found out, if they didn't know all along. Their obligation was to report the incident. They intended to do so, but sat on their collective hands for months. (Because they were making money?)

Did greed do them in, did ego? We may find out in the trials. It is nice to believe that greed always loses. Unfortunately, it is not so.

Treating Families While Treating Cancer

When a child has cancer, it impacts on the entire family. From the moment the doctor makes his diagnosis, their lives are altered, sometimes for years. Since every member of the family will be involved in the child's treatment, Schneider Children's Hospital of Long Island Jewish Medical Center believes it is vital that the family's cooperation and understanding is enlisted in the very early stages.

Oncologists who are most familiar with the course of the disease are trained to talk to the family, which includes parents, siblings and grandparents. The physician tries to get parents to understand the nature of the illness before approaching the child.

Understanding may come slowly and while the treating physician tries to be optimistic that the treatment will work, it is equally important not to offer false hope. He or she must also weigh the amount of information to give the child—too much can be frightening and too little can make the child imagine the worst. Children need to ask questions and clinicians must answer them honestly.

The close relationship between family and oncology team continues after the child leaves the hospital. Parents are urged to treat their children normally during remission. They are encouraged to send them to school and allow them to participate in normal activities. The oncology team remains available 24 hours a day so that parents need not feel alone when they need support and advice.

Mental Illness Awareness Week

Mental Illness Awareness Week is Oct. 6 through 12 and the Queens/Nassau County Chapter of the Alliance for the Mentally Ill/People Acting Together with Hope is planning a community outreach program during that week which will include visits to libraries, schools, hospitals and shopping centers.

The goal of the outreach is to create a better understanding of mental illness, a greater compassion for the mentally ill and better services for the mentally ill.

Town Says Recycle

creates unnecessary problems.

"Ash is more and more difficult to dispose of," he said.

NYPIRG recently released a six month investigation that they say documents Long Island's failed attempts at solving its garbage crisis. The report is titled: A Legacy of Waste: A Review of the Implications of Solid Waste Generation and Disposal on Long Island.

Steven Romalewski, NYPIRG's Long Island Toxics Campaign Coordinator and author of the report said, "This study shows how Long Island's officials, despite 10 years of public pressure to solve garbage problems, have allowed the garbage crisis to continue largely unabated.

"Unless state and local officials take decisive action to end Long Island's dependence on garbage dumps and incinerators, our report concludes that the problems will only grow worse."

The report reviews the efforts made during the 1980's to address the solid waste problems and concludes that despite numerous reforms, these problems remain unsolved. It blames officials at all levels of government for failing to reduce Long Island's waste output, sanctioning the operation of "huge expensive and polluting landfills and incinerators," and "allowing recycling programs to remain woefully inadequate."

Residents Say No

there, they could, as long as they stay within the town's regulations," he said.

The issue is not over yet. On Oct. 10 at 8 p.m., another meeting on the subject will be held at the Hicksville Public Library in the community room.

Residents fear an increase of traffic on an already busy Jerusalem Ave. and a 24 hour establishment selling beer in an already saturated market.

The Marketing Of A Night At The Opera

By William Gravert

Opera in America suffers a gentrification gap.

To some, opera is a fat lady in a funny hat with horns, warbling stratospherically in a foreign language. Go to the opera? The thought often yields a nasty, contorted face — as if you were inviting them to dine on sour milk and rotten eggs. To the average Joe the opera crowd is pompous, the performance dull, the story confusing. Perhaps it's a matter of being "guilty with an explanation."

Opera's identity crisis with the middle class stems not from poor performance value, but from a poor perception of a night at the opera. In short, lousy public relations:

As the misunderstood stepchild of the other "high-arts" — Classical theatre and the symphony — opera has yet to crossover to mass artistic acceptance.

As an opera lover attempting to sell-it-like-it-is, here are a few pluses:

The operatic catalogue includes dozens of familiar musical themes. Well known scores, such as Bizet's Carmen, or Puccini's Madam Butterfly boast classic melodies often used in features, film-shorts, commercials and cartoons.

As for the crowd's pompous image? Operatic audiences aren't only the society-crowd or the "upper-crust". Yuppies and other upwardly-mobiles have adopted the opera as the "socially correct" thing to do. (Often whether they like it or not!)

Because most scores aren't in English, many companies now employ a Supertitle system — English translations are projected over the proscenium, thereby reducing confusion with foreign lyrics or the occasional convoluted plot.

Smaller companies specialize in nifty, often slick, interpretations of an art form basically stalled in the 19th century. Larger companies present the world's most gifted singers in huge productions that dwarf the Broadway theatre.

Downtown Manhattan's Amato Opera is presenting a new production of Mozart's Marriage of Figaro through Sept. 28. Info: 212-228-8200.

The Gilbert & Sullivan Society is breaking ground with a Yiddish-language production of The Pirates of Penzance. Info: 212-722-1285.

The terrorist hijacking of the Achille Lauro cruise ship is the basis for a new opera by John Adams, The Death of Klinghoffer.

NOT JUST FAT LADIES in funny hats, Opera has more and more pluses going for it as in the scene from Pagliacci. NY City opera will produce Tosca at the Tilles Center in January.

Modern staging meets contemporary harmonies at the Brooklyn Academy of Music. Info: 718-636-4100.

The Metropolitan Opera season opens this week and runs through next April. Epic productions, rivaling D.W. Griffith, highlight a repertoire spanning the obscure to the grandiose. The orchestra is highly regarded with a world-class stable of soloists. Note: Despite many fans asking for it, the staid Met hasn't caved-in to the heresy of Supertitles, so buy a libretto (lyric translation). Info: 212-362-6000.

The New York City Opera, the Met's Lincoln Center neighbor, pioneered liberalized staging techniques, as well as adding B'way classics to its repertory. Not content to trudge through the standard operatic canon, last year it presented Sondheim's A Little Night Music, with stunning results. Subsequent productions of Lerner & Loewe's Brigadoon and, new this year, The Most Happy Fella, by Frank Loesser, have proved a tasty lure to new opera-goers. Old faves Madame Butterfly, Puccini's Turandot, Tosca, La Boheme, Mozart's Le Nozze di Figaro (The Marriage of Figaro) and Pagliacci, by Leoncavallo, are still on the bill. Info: 212-870-5570.

When You Wish Upon A Child...

you can make a wish come true. There are hundreds of children right here in our communities who have special wishes, but perhaps a limited time in which to accomplish them.

While the foundation and agencies looking for cures still need your dollars, all we're asking for is a wish come true.

...for 8 year old Myles - wants to have a special party and ride in a limousine on the day his adoption is finalized.

...3 year old Nick is a big fan of Mr. Rogers and wants to visit Mr. Roger's neighborhood.

...Gerald, age 15, would like to be reunited with his dad.

Call today and see how you can help a dream come true.

The Art of Card Reading

The bidding:
 East South West North
 Pass 1♥ Pass 4♥
 Opening lead — ten of spades.

Card reading — the art of diagnosing how the unseen cards are divided — is the backbone of good card play. Knowing where the missing cards are located is like playing a hand with all 52 cards exposed, and to play a hand well when all the cards are in sight is seldom a difficult challenge.

Consider this deal where declarer went wrong. East won the spade lead with the jack and continued with the A-K of spades. South ruffed the third spade, drew trumps, led the ten of diamonds from dummy and went up with the king after East followed low.

The king lost to the ace and declarer took West's jack of diamonds return with the queen. He later tried a club finesse that failed, and the contract went down one.

The point that declarer missed — and it was the heart of the matter — was that East had passed as dealer and was highly unlikely to hold the ace of diamonds (having shown up with the A-K-J of spades and a singleton heart on the first five tricks).

Once South assumes that West has the ace of diamonds, it becomes clear that instead of covering dummy's ten with the king, he should follow low from his hand. In the actual case, even though West wins the diamond with the jack, he then finds himself stymied.

A diamond return, whether high or low, allows South to score two diamond tricks with the help of a ruffing finesse and in that way eliminate his potential club loser. A spade or club return also allows South to avoid the club loser and make the contract.

Either way, it turns out that East's pass as dealer is the same as shouting from the rooftops that West has the ace of diamonds — and it is this significant clue that should induce South to find the winning line of play.

The run was sponsored by Bank Leumi and Apple and Eve Juices under the auspices of the U.S. Committee Sports for Israel. The entire net proceeds from the event will be dedicated to supporting the United States at the 14th Annual Maccabiah Games in Israel.

Over 400 runners took part in the five kilometer run.
