Community Graffiti Hotline Number

By John W. Garger

A committee of Hicksville residents, businessmen, police, and school officials have announced the introduction of the Hicksville Community Graffiti Hotline. The special phone number enables callers to leave a recorded message of any information they think may be helpful in reducing the amount of graffiti in our community. Callers can remain anonymous. Information will be forwarded to appropriate authorities. The hotline number is not for reporting emergencies or for reporting graffiti activity in progress, 911 should be used for those situations.

The hotline number is 336-6249 and is available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. It will be monitored daily.

Other communities on Long Island have successfully used hotlines, such as the one in Hicksville, to transmit valuable information from the general public to authorities which result in a decrease of graffiti activity. Remember, the information that you think may not be important may be crucial Hicksville High School students have devised three posters with anti-graffiti slogans designed to help in the campaign to stop the spread of graffiti in our community.

Three students were responsible for the artwork of the posters and three others provided the slogans. An anti-graffiti hotline number will appear with each poster. The hotline number is sponsored by local community groups.

The students who did the artwork are Jenny Sue Abarno, Michael Dattoma, and Kim Downes. The slogan writers are Michele Aversano, Dominic Freda, and Veronica Hamezyk. The slogans are "Don't Spray It, Just Say It," "There's Nothing American About Graffiti," and "Leave Your Mark On Society, Not On The Wall."

The students are trying to do their part. According to Nancy DeSorbo, "The program is a partnership between the school and the community to combat the problem of graffiti in Hicksville." The community task force is doing their part with the hotline number, this is the student's way of pitching in.

The goal of the campaign is to hand out the posters to merchants in the town so the community will become more aware that there is a problem and that something can be done about it. Posters will also be placed in each of the district's elementary schools in order to educate younger students to the severity of graffiti.

HIGH School artists and slogan writers and assistant principal Leslie Mann pose with the Anti-graffiti poster which will be placed in local stores along with a graffiti hotline number.

The idea for the poster campaign came from the School Committee on Graffiti, which consists of parents, teachers, PTA members, and the administration. According to Leslie Mann, assistant principal at the High School and chairman of the committee, Superintendent Mugavero offered to re-

Miracle Of Expansion At Nassau Center

By John W. Garger

The Nassau Center for the Developmentally Disabled held a ribbon cutting ceremony, on Thursday March 12, to mark the end of renovations to the Janet Maureen Grace Day Program building in Hicksville on New South Rd.

The Hicksville location has been open since the early 1980s. Due to aging facilities and advancements in the center's programs it was necessary to renovate the existing structure. The result is a bright new building and a continuation of growth in the Center's advancement even in these tough economic times.

The ceremony, which was attended by many dignitaries from both state and local agencies, highlighted the success of the program so far in dealing with autistic children and adults and people who are developmentally disabled. The goal of the center is to help these individuals achieve maximum mental, physical, and emotional growth.

In order to achieve this growth many improvements have been made to the Hicksville center. Classrooms have been enlarged to provide for more creative, innovative and effective programming; a fully functional model apartment has been constructed to help teach independent living skills in an homelike environment; the all-purpose room has been improved to include dropped ceilings for enhanced acoustics and a rubberized floor to perform activities on a safe surface; additional office space has been added; the medical office now includes state-of-the-art medical equipment; energy conserving materials have been used to aid the newly renovated heating and cooling systems; the building inside has been painted with bright colors for a cheerful learning environment; a new alarm system has been installed; and collapsible room dividers were used to enable small groups to function more effectively for enhanced learning.

David Schiffman, President of the Board of Directors, said, "the renovation is just one of the many things we plan to do." He added "The changes are significant but this is a story of teamwork and cooperation of everyone on the staff. We all won!"

During the renovation the building remained open and classes were still held. To make this possible Carol Bikard, Recreation Supervisor, scheduled class trips and other outdoor events for the students. The result of the hard work and cooperation of everyone is a bright, new facility that was finished on time and under-budget.

A highlight of the ceremony was a presentation by one of the program's participants. Terrence McGurk gave a presentation introducing himself and explaining how he spends his time at the center. His ability to address the audience proved the quality of the staff and the effectiveness of the program.

Elin Howe, Commissioner of the Office of Mental Retardation and Development Disabilities of New York State, invited Mr. McGurk to help her with the cutting of the ribbon. She stressed how pleased she was with the center's activities and their focus on real life situations.

During a video presentation the Center's

Speech Communication Department introduced a new communication mode that they have begun to use with the program participants. The new method is called Facilitated Communication, it is a means of "facilitating" expression for people who either do not talk, or do not talk clearly.

Facilitated Communication, originated by Rosemary Crossley, an Australian educator, allows its users to point to letters on a keyboard in order to construct words, phrases, and sentences. The users are helped by aides who give hand-over-hand or hand-over-arm support, pulling back after the user makes a selection, providing assistance in isolating the index finger, and giving encouragement. Eventually the support can be lessened and it is hoped completely phased out.

Although Facilitated Communication is not a cure for autism or other developmental disabilities, it is an effective way for people with such disabilities to express themselves more clearly.

NO MORE CUTS! Administrators, staff, students, parents and senior citizens from across Long Island showed their support at an education aid rally held at SUNY Farmingdale on Saturday, March 14.

Thousands Rally For School Aid

By John W. Garger
Michael J. Maloney

"No more cuts!"

That was the message sent to Governor Mario Cuomo and state legislators by nearly 2,000 Long Island school administrators, board members, teachers, parents and students who gathered at SUNY Farmingdale March 14 to rally against proposed cuts in state education aid.

Hicksville was represented by more than 25 people. Among the residents of Hicksville were Mary Beth Becker, Hicksville Council PTA Legislative Chairperson, Donna Giacopino, Hicksville Council Delegate, Nancy Callari, Hicksville Council PTA Vice-President, and Richard Pfaender, School Board Trustee.

The Governor has proposed to cut an additional $1.2 million in state aid to Hicksville. This follows a cut of $3.1 million last year. Hicksville Superintendent said, "It is high time that Albany quits punishing Long Island school districts and its children in order to satisfy its budgetary requirements in other areas."

Emil Voigt, President of the Jericho Teachers Union and a member of the New York State United Teachers Board of Directors, said the state is trying to make up for its $5 billion shortfall by cutting education. The largest percent of the cuts have come from Long Island, he added.

"This is the same government who talked about creating the decade of the child," said Voigt.

Since December 1990, Long Island schools have lost approximately $300 million in aid, which represents nearly half of the entire reduction in education aid statewide, despite comprising only 15 percent of the state's population. Cuomo's budget proposal for 1992-93 calls for Long Island schools to lose an additional $73 million, or 30 percent of the $240 million in statewide education cuts. It is this apparent inequity that many Long Islanders object to.

"No longer will we allow Long Island to be treated as the stepchild of the state by a governor who speaks with a forked tongue recognizing our real property distress and the inequities of the education formula when he visits and speaks on Long Island, only to quickly spread falsehoods regarding our wealth when he leaves and then offer us only the leftover crumbs on the educational aid plate when he submits his budget," said Joseph Barry, President of the Nassau-Suffolk School Boards Association.

According to Barry, Long Island schools have reduced their work force by 3,500 people since July 1991, of whom 2,000 were instructional personnel. Some of the programs that have been eliminated or severely cut include: gifted and talented, art, music, full day kindergarten, extra-curricular activities, summer school, driver education, and building maintenance. Additionally, Barry says that the economy on Long Island has lost $460 million because of the lost aid in 1991.

"For every additional $1 million lost in state aid, another $70,000 will be lost to our economy, deepening the recession's impact on Long Island," said Barry.

Local educators say that any further cuts will undermine the high quality of education (continued on page 12)

Ruling Upheld, Duffy Pk Wins

By John W. Garger

The New York State Supreme Court has upheld the decision by the Oyster Bay Town Board to deny a special use permit to JPM Properties, Inc. and Oyster Bay Sand and Gravel, Inc. of Hicksville.

"An Article 78 brought against the Town of Oyster Bay by JPM Properties and Oyster Bay Sand and Gravel has been dismissed in all respects," Councilman Thomas L. Clark said. The petitioners were seeking to have set aside a decision by the Town Board to deny their request for a special use permit to maintain an existing sand and gravel operation with related public garage, retail, and office uses on property located in an 'H' light industrial district on the north side of Duffy Avenue, north of the intersection with Combes Avenue, also known as 292 Duffy Avenue.

Duffy Park Civic Association president

Dave Staton is very pleased by the court's action. He said, "This should send a message to business owners that the Town has final word on what constitutes beneficial use of commercial property and what is detrimental use. It has long been our contention that businesses that operate in close proximity to homes need tighter restrictions than those that are not near homes. We at Duffy Park applaud the Oyster Bay Town Board for making the hard decision and we thank the court for supporting it."

Jeff Fungeld, owner of Oyster Bay Sand and Gravel said he does not understand the reason for the decision. "I do not understand it, especially after doing business in the community for 16 years." He said that his company will appeal the decision.

Clark noted that the Town Board's denial on June 18, 1991 of the request for a special use permit followed a public hearing held on February 5, 1991, at which local residents expressed their concerns regarding the existing and proposed uses. "In its denial of the application, the Board enumerated as reasons, failure by the applicant to mitigate potential adverse impacts on the nearby residential neighborhood by refusing to restrict hours of business operation, a lack of off-street parking, the disturbance created by idling trucks, intensive vehicular movement on and off the property as well as on Duffy Ave, and general disrepair of the property with no adequate assurances of improvement," Councilman Clark stated. It was also noted that the applicant has had a long history of zoning violations concerning improper uses of the site.

In addition, the Board stated that the existing and proposed uses constitute an over-intensification of land use and that the granting of the application would impede future efforts to harmonize and stabilize the character of the area.

Middle School Presents "Pippin"

The Hicksville Middle School invites you to join them for an evening of magic and merriment when the Drama Club presents the acclaimed musical Pippin on April 2, 3, and 4.

Tickets are general admission and will be sold at the door. If you wish to purchase tickets early, call 933-6646 for ticket information. All seats are $5 and each performance begins at 7:30 p.m. in the Middle School Auditorium. Thursday evenings performance is free for resident senior citizens.

Set in medieval times, Pippin tells the story of a boy's search for fulfillment. As the first born son of Charlemagne (Mary Williams), Pippin (Todd Master) is heir to the throne. However, matters are complicated when Pippin's stepmother Fastrada (Kristine D'Amato) and his brother Lewis (Thomas Patrone) plot against him. When Pippin fails at War, Power, and Glory, he seeks the advice of his grandmother Berthe (Stacey Patrone) who sings of the simpler things in life. Pippin then tries peaceful domesticity with Catherine (Jennifer Traxler) and her son Theo (Melinda Forresta) but finds he's bored and doesn't want to assume too much responsibility.

With the help of many players acting in different roles, the leading Player (Annemarie Elenio) leads Pippin along to the Finale, Pippin's ultimate expression of fulfillment (which must remain a surprise!).

Other cast members include Kristen Anstley, Corrine Callari, Beth Hoffman, Elizabeth Gaynor, Cassandra Braun, Jessica Haupt, Jessica Panica, Melanie Raffo, Jennifer Mierzejewski, Christine Osso, and Lisa Santoriemma.

The score by Stephan Schwartz is contemporary, embellished with many beautiful ballads, the most famous being Corner of the Sky.

SCHOOL NOTEBOOK

Woodland Pupils Adopt Whales

At the Woodland School Mrs. Ulrich's fourth grade class has been involved in Project: Save The Whales, sponsored by the International Wildlife Coalition (IWC) in Massachusetts. They have been trying to raise enough money to save 21 humpback whales, one per student. Each Student chose one whale they wished to adopt.

To raise the money, the children have made and sold "pet rocks," Valentine items, and collected soda cans at the PTA carnival.

In Mrs. Collier's fourth grade class at the Old Country Rd. School, the students are involved in a similar project. The whale adoption project has been integrated into a language arts unit on business letter writing. Through their letter writing efforts, students have been working in cooperative groups in order to produce the most convincing and well written letter to the IWC proposing their reasons and concerns for adopting a whale. The students have also engaged in the collection of soda can deposits in order to raise the money needed to adopt a classroom whale.

These projects have sparked a great deal of interest in the youngsters. Many have become involved in independent reading on mammals and pollution in our oceans.

Mrs. Massa's class has also been working on the exciting, integrated "Voyage of Mimi" program. Incorporating this program into their art curricula, students have been working on creating fossils of different animals during their art period.

The sixth grade students have also been attending the PRIDE program every Thursday. Under the guidance of a Nassau County Police Officer, the youngsters have learned about drugs and peer resistance. The students have been making posters to illustrate the lessons they have learned.

turn to students some monies that would ordinarily be used to replace or fix objects destroyed by vandalism or graffiti, if the campaign achieved a result of lessened graffiti.

Mann then contacted the high school English classes asking the students to come up with slogans, the school's art classes to come up with artwork, and the school's business classes to come up with a marketing idea. The result is total high school involvement which has already resulted in a heightened awareness of the problem.

The hotline number (see New Graffiti Hotline) is 336-6249. It can be called 24 hours a day with any information pertaining to graffiti in the Hicksville area. However, if you see an act of graffiti in progress call the police at 911.

For additional information on what is being done or what you can do to combat the problem attend the Hicksville Community Council Meeting on April 2. There will be a panel discussion on graffiti in our town.

when pieced together with information supplied by another caller.

In addition to the hotline number, the Second Precinct has a new graffiti specialist. Captain Jack Dooley will coordinate anti-graffiti activity and keep track of reported cases for the second precinct.

He says that although Hicksville has had an ongoing graffiti problem that other surrounding communities are being hit worse.

Capt. Dooley feels that kids do not realize the seriousness of the graffiti situation.

Almost all graffiti cases are treated as felonies because it is very easy to do more than $250 worth of damage with paint. "Where once graffiti was more of an artistic expression, now it has become a turf war between youth groups." He also explained how it is the property owner who is victimized and does not receive any compensation unless an arrest is made.

Capt. Dooley urges all people to report graffiti activity. He gives his assurance that all reported incidents are investigated.

Time's Running Out

Within a week, the deadline for the New York State budget will be upon us. At press time, there was no package in sight and there's little reason to believe that the budget will come in on time. After all, the legislators and the governor announced accord last year at the same time we were hosting barbecues in our backyards and saluting our country's birthday.

Why are our elected officials having such difficulty agreeing on a package? Apparently, the snags are how to pay for Medicaid and how to fund educational programs.

The argument over educational funding has been a stumbling block for years. There are those who believe that "wealthy" Long Islanders should not be the recipients of a great deal of aid.

And then again, there are those—such as the hundreds of Nassau and Suffolk County residents who attended a rally at SUNY Farmingdale a short while ago—who believe the contrary.

It's not a good year for the state and it's foolish to believe that any budget agreement will be completely satisfactory to Long Islanders or their upstate counterparts.

It is imperative, therefore, that the budget come in as close to deadline as possible.

Every day the state budget is late costs local entities—schools, villages, towns—more money. These entities prepare their budgets with the expectation of funding from the state. When that funding does not arrive on time, governments and schools are forced to seek the money from other sources in the form of loans. Interest on those loans adds up each and every day.

So, give your legislators and the governor a call. Tell them that while you want Long Island's "fair share," you won't tolerate another budget that's months over deadline.

Earn Respect

I would like to address Mr. Lupski's letter in the March 19 issue of the Illustrated concerning the community's attitudes toward Mr. Mugavero. First, let me make it clear that I have met and spoken to Mr. Lupski on several occasions and have found him to be a man of integrity and honesty. My reply has nothing to do with the reputation of Mr. Lupski. He has an honorable one. My reply has to do with the superintendent. Yes it is true that the school board (which the community elected) hired Mr. Mugavero, but I'm sure everyone would agree that school boards can make mistakes. Yes it is true that many people from the community do verbally assault the superintendent on many different occasions. But the letter makes it sound like all the "five hundred" residents got together one day and decided to attack the superintendent. Perhaps all 500 people are wrong or perhaps just the superintendent is. Yes it is also true that this man has inherited many problems, but rest assured that they must be solved with community support and board direction. He is not King Mugavero. I would also never claim to have his expertise on education or administrative management and would never think of applying for his position, but because he has that expertise, that doesn't give him or anyone else in his position the right to talk down to taxpayers. Respect is not something he gets with the job, it's something he must earn. I must admit he has a very hard job and must make many unpopular decisions. He can't make everyone happy all the time on every issue, but please remember the residents of this community pay him handsomely in return with their hard-earned tax dollars. To some degree, Mr. Lupski is correct, it would be wonderful to stand behind our superintendent and support him, but it's very hard to do that when some people feel that every time they speak to him or disagree with his ideas he answers them back with little or no respect.

In closing, I would like to point out that over the last two years (Mr. Mugavero has only been here for eight months) the people of Hicksville have suffered great turmoil and discontent. Many wounds are still open. Scars are trying to heal. We are not like other school districts where he might have worked before. Because of these unique circumstances, we must be treated accordingly. When this community finally feels that the superintendent fully understands and addresses these problems appropriately, we too will then show him the courtesy and respect that he must eventually earn.

Joseph Visconti

Once again, our school board has failed to reach a decision to close an elementary school in Hicksville. The responsibility for this failure rests squarely on the shoulders of Carole Wolf.

As board president, Mrs. Wolf has shown absolutely no leadership in the process of decision making. She has made no attempt to get this board into a productive discussion of the issues involved in closing a school. Until Mrs. Lafferty's suggestion to hold work/study sessions, the issues had not been discussed at all. How can Mrs. Wolf expect seven board members with seven different minds to somehow come together the night of the vote when there has been no discussion or agreement among them from September to February? Mrs. Wolf continually allows board members to ramble on about unrelated matters and to wander in and out of meetings instead of keeping them focused on the task at hand. She has allowed board members to play games with board procedure without so much as an acknowledgement of their misconduct, much less a reprimand. Mrs. Wolf rarely uses her gavel—allowing members of the audience to shout out during board action and public sessions, and while she makes a big show of using her three minute timer, some speakers are held to the time, while others are allowed to go way beyond their allotted time—all at Mrs. Wolf's arbitrary whim. All of this adds up to frustrating, directionless meetings which go on until 2 or 3 a.m., at which point no rational decisions can be made.

Mrs. Wolf's term has not expired and she will be sitting on the school board again next year. I sincerely hope that when the new board convenes in July, they will have the good sense, as their first action, to elect a board president who possesses the qualities necessary to run productive, organized board meetings, and not return Mrs. Wolf to this post, as she is clearly incompetent.

Colorful Night

On behalf of the Hicksville High School PTS, I would like to thank the parents, teachers, administrators, school secretaries and students who volunteered to participate in our first "Color Nigh" on March 10.

This exciting evening served a two-fold purpose. While raising needed funds for our Scholarship Fund, it also served to bring the Hicksville High "family" closer together. This high spirited group entertained a delighted audience, who watched two teams, the "Black" and the "Orange" (our school colors), compete in volleyball and other zany events.

While the "Orange" team was declared the winner, the "Black" shared the victory as our students benefited from the experience of cooperating and interacting with adults who showed they care.

A Letter from Lulubelle...

Today, with all the scary talk about skin cancer and watch out for sunburn and all those high-numbered sunburn lotions, it makes you remember when you were a little kid and there wasn't any lotion—and we all got sunburned... There we were at Long Beach or Point Lookout after a long drive from home—and long before there was any way to get to Jones Beach by car—and my family didn't even own a beach umbrella... We were wearing those itchy wool knit bathing suits which never dried and soaked up sand like a sponge and we ran in and out of the water without a thought of the sun... And then, when it was time to go home, we insisted on getting completely wet again and our parents made us put on our bathrobes—the made-from-blanket-cloth kind with that string around the middle with the tassels on the ends—and sit on our towels so we wouldn't get the upholstery in the car all wet... And it was so uncomfortable with the wetness and the sand inside our suits that we could hardly wait to get home to go under the hose to wash all that sand away... And then came night and the torture!... Do you remember how that hurt?... and your Mother would run a cool tub of water and lavishly sprinkle in baking soda and it would feel so good... But the blisters would come in a few days and you would look like a shredding onion and some of your friends would beg to be allowed to "peel" you... I know that there's still sunburn—so many remedies on the market can't be for nothing—but I do hope we are a lot more sensible about the sun's good and bad qualities... Take care!

Yours, Lulubelle

Hicksville School Board's meeting on Feb. 26. Disturbing also was that the drastic action was scheduled on that date, ahead of elementary school reorganization, and so late in the agenda. It seemed like a deliberate placement. It would provoke long and bitter discussion during the first opportunity for the general public to speak. It would mute and dilute the discussion on the closing of Lee Avenue School. It would so elongate the meeting that most in the audience for school closing would long since have gone home when that matter came to a vote. However, the shrewd placement was thwarted by the board's concurrence with trustee James Black's timely motion to move those items forward in the agenda. But the subject of this letter is the "firing" itself and not its placement in the agenda.

A lawsuit filed by the President of the Hicksville Teacher Aides Union against the school district gave the superintendent no viable option but to release all the teacher aides and to hire only teacher assistants. The Nassau County Civil Service Commission ordered the district to stop hiring teacher aides until the suit is settled. This order has resulted in systematic weakening of the service provided by the district to our emotionally handicapped and learning disabled children by a growing shortage of teacher aides. The union's rejection of the offer by the Superintendent to settle by certifying the teacher aides as teacher assistants along with a small monetary settlement left no alternative to firing the teacher aides and the hiring of teacher assistants even if at a greater cost. Our children simply need the help and assistance required by the law and it was being denied by the suit. Overtime and double shifts by present teacher aides is impracticable because the teacher aide shortage will only get worse as time drags on.

The rejection of the Superintendent's offer also indicates in no uncertain terms that the real objective of the teacher aides union is "money" and not certification of members as teacher assistants. His offer was a counteroffer to the unions which asked for member certification and approximately one million dollars in damages. Union members worked and were paid as teacher aides for which they were hired. No wrong or harm occurred to them in the course of their employment. The Superintendent at the time, Dr. Catherine Fenton, obviously did not believe our teacher aides were required to perform the duties of teacher assistants. Thus just as obviously she would not train nor certify our aides as assistants. That decision was hers to make, not the union's. It appears the union shot itself in the foot by egotistic activities and now wants the district to pay the medical bills. This case is no different than a kitchen helper who peels potatoes and carrots and then wants to be called and paid as a chef or as a toll collector who wants to wear a gun and be called and paid as a policeman. Therefore, do not judge the new superintendent or the school board trustees too harshly for the drastic action taken that night.

The letter resulted only from my interpretation of information contained in a letter dated Feb. 18, 1992 signed by the president of the Hicksville Teacher Aides Association and addressed to "Concerned People of the Hicksville Community."

Seeking Support

I would like to take this opportunity to ask your support in my bid for re-election to the Hicksville Public Library Board on April 8. I would like to be able to continue my efforts to serve all of the community in making our library the best for our tax dollar.

I have actively sought computerization for many years. In addition, I continually sought the means of having our Children's Room open when ever the library was open in the evenings (as it is now) rather than two nights a week as had been the policy in the past. I am continuing in my efforts to increase the story hours being brought to our children and hope to see the day when we will have more for them in the evening so that children who are in charge of caregivers during the day have the same opportunities as children who are not. I feel that these programs are of extreme importance to our young children in developing good reading habits at an early age.

I have also been instrumental in bringing many library services to the disabled and am pleased that our library is in compliance with the Americans With Disabilities Act of 1992. Once again, I ask for your support for my re-election on April 8. Clara T. Bennett that exists on Long Island. They point to the fact that Long Island schools have a greater percentage of students going on to college, passing standardized tests, students using microcomputers, and library books per pupil than the rest of the state. Long Island schools also have a significantly lower dropout rate than the rest of the state. Long Island schools this year produced eight Westinghouse semifinalists, a 10th place winner and the overall first place winner in the competition.

"Educating a child is the best investment we can make," said David Boone of the School Administrators Association of New York State. "We just began to turn the corner in making progress in education. More children are graduating from our schools. Not as many are dropping out. Fewer students are getting involved in drugs. This is no time to give up."

Educators believe that money spent on education now is an investment in the future. Providing young people with the skills to become productive, law abiding, self-supporting citizens becomes more difficult when funds are cut, and that pumping billions of dollars into social welfare programs that better education could have avoided, is wasteful.

"It costs approximately $9,000 to $10,500 to educate a child in Nassau and Suffolk counties for one year," said Dr. Joseph Del Rosso, President of the Suffolk County School Superintendents Association. "It costs $30,000 a year to keep a prisoner in a cell in New York State. Education is a bargain by comparison."

Local legislators—at least the 14 who either spoke themselves or sent representatives—all promised to make sure that no cuts to education will be made this year.

Mary Beth Becker can be seen today on "The Parola Update" (Ch. 10 at 4 p.m.) speaking on recent belt-tightening actions taken by Hicksville's School Board and concern that programs could be jeopardized if the Governor continues to decrease funding to education.

Ground Breaking For Girl Scout Camp

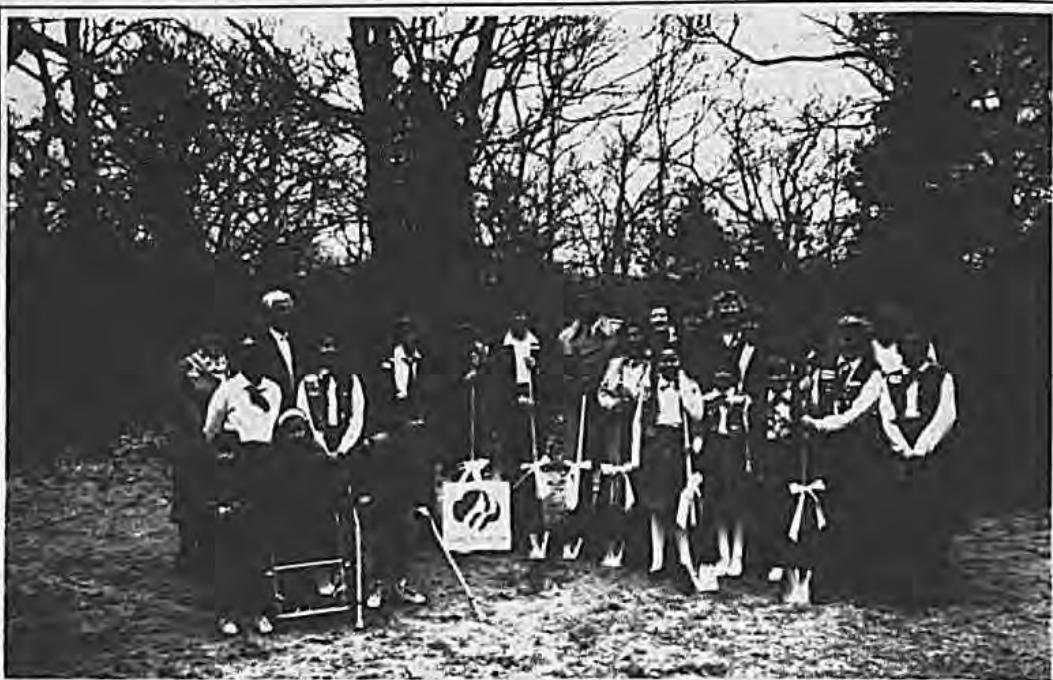

Girl Scouts of Nassau County broke ground earlier this month for a $3 million building and renovation project at Camp Blue Bay in East Hampton.

According to Girl Scout President and Chief Volunteer Officer, Ann M. Butera, the project was made possible through careful planning and budgeting.

"This ground breaking is the culmination of more than five years of study and hard work by a dedicated group of volunteers. It is important to us to provide the best services possible to our membership and this project will enable Camp Blue Bay to be used 12 months of the year," said Ms. Butera.

The building and renovation project includes the building of two new troop houses, a large activity center designed for both indoor sports use and inclement weather use, an ecologically sound wash house, and the renovation of the dining hall. The project is expected to be completed by September 1993.

For more information about Girl Scouts of Nassau County and camping opportunities at Camp Blue Bay, call 741-2550.

Discover A New Breed Of Summer Camp

It used to be that youngsters spent their summers at play in one of the multitude of traditional day camp programs which abound. However, to keep pace with the ever changing needs of youngsters in the 1990s, a new breed of Summer Camp is emerging.

One such example is Discovery Camp, now in its third year of operation. Discovery Camp combines all of the fun and recreation of a traditional summer camp program with creative learning through a "hands-on" approach to enrichment and education.

Neil Graham, the director of the camp, explained that, "Parents' requirements of summer camps have changed dramatically over recent years. They no longer want their children to play and swim all summer, they want an experience of educational value that will last."

The Discovery camp offers educational enrichment for children aged 5-14. Each child experiences a range of fascinating topics, such as science, computing, theater, English, media and creative skills. The students discover first hand a range of interesting skills and talents. These include discovering how to make a television program; how detectives use forensic science to catch criminals, discovering how to put on a stage production, how to design tee-shirts or how to program a computer.

The staff at Discovery Camp provides an international flavor to the summer. The majority of the teachers hail from top educational establishments in England, such as Oxford, Cambridge and London. These staff are complemented by educators from Europe and the United States.

Discovery Camp is opening an additional site this summer at Molloy College, a wonderful facility in Rockville Center that will complement the site in Garden City.

More information or camp brochures can be obtained from contacting Neil Graham, P.O. Box 328 Garden City, New York 11530 or calling 739-1100.

30 YEARS OF TRADITION AND EXCELLENCE IN SUMMER PROGRAMS

Kay Helps

College Students Cash In

Brian Kay, a graduate of Roslyn High School and Cornell University, has founded College Assistance & Scholarship Help, Inc., a college, career, and financial aid counseling firm.

Kay became interested in helping students pursue their educational and career goals after seeing many of his friends discontinue their college education due to their family's financial circumstances.

Every year, millions of eligible students miss out on their share of the $30 billion available from federal, state and private student aid programs. In most cases, these students either do not apply for financial aid, or do not know how to complete the financial aid forms properly. College Assistance & Scholarship Help, Inc. helps families and students locate and apply for every source of financial aid they are eligible to receive from the federal, state, campus-based, and private aid programs.

College Assistance & Scholarship Help, Inc. is currently working with local minority groups, government officials, unemployed workers, and students to promote higher education and job placement in our community. As a final note, Kay stated that "Financial aid is available to people of all income levels, including those with incomes of over $100,000".

Finding The Right Financial Aid Source

Many people are surprised to learn that every year there is more than $30 billion available to students from state and federal grants, from private sources, from colleges themselves and from a whole variety of student aid programs. In fact, some reports indicate that there may be as much as $135 million in student aid that goes unused each year. If this is true, why are so many students struggling to pay for their college education when there is a solution to this financial question?

Scholastic Adventure, through its National Processing Center, has developed a program with the advice from guidance counselors and financial aid officers throughout the country to assist students and their parents seek out their share of the $30 billion in student aid that will be available this year. Practically every student is eligible, regardless of scholastic achievement or personal financial circumstances; the secret lies in knowing where to apply. With today's inflationary trends, college costs continue to soar. Scholastic Adventure can help the potential college graduate to choose the school in which they are interested; rather than "settling" for a school because of the financial question.

The Scholastic Adventure Program provides a personalized College Financial Planning 40 page confidential strategy designed to help students locate and create the chief eligibility factors for private, campus-based and field of interest scholarships for each student year, including Graduate School. Each student can now seek out their share of the aid that is available this year. Each student's report will contain a complete step-by-step strategy that will insure the best possible chance to receive all the money he or she needs to attend the college of choice. Scholastic Adventure has the computerized knowledge of scholarships and financial aid not found in any book or pamphlet published by the colleges or the state or federal government.

In addition, the students who utilize the service will receive a complete printout of all the state programs for which they are eligible in their resident state. Veterans will receive knowledge of their complete VA educational benefits; information will be gleaned from the Student Financial Planning Questionnaire about Academic Scholarships for the "B" student or better; information will be given to those interested in the hundreds of Scholarship Contests available nationwide; and of the existing financial aid opportunities to those with religious affiliations and those opportunities available to those with a specific ethnic background. There is even the availability for Athletic Award Scholarships within the Scholastic Adventure Program.

Each student report will contain a printout illustrating the total cost of attendance and all the campus-based scholarship programs available; will illustrate the family's "Expected Family Contribution," and the student's financial need at each school he selects. Each report will calculate the exact amount of money for which the student is eligible to receive from the Pell Grant and the Guaranteed Student Loan Programs.

In addition, Scholastic Adventure can help the potential college graduate in numerous other ways. College selection and advanced placement reports match the student's specific school needs with almost 600 options and 500 majors to develop a highly personalized college profile to identify all the schools that meet the individual standards desired.

The Testbusters Score Improvement System is designed to help the student attain the highest possible score on the SAT. He or she will learn the critical test taking strategies necessary to achieve high scores, essential for admittance to the college of choice.

The Career Guidance Report will identify those careers and occupations that most closely match the individual's interests and requirements; will contain a detailed description of each career selected, including job outlook, expected salaries, opportunities for advancement and skills required for success.

Special Scholarships are also available.

Each student who requests information about the Scholastic Adventure program will receive free of charge a copy of each of the brochures, "10 Ways to Stretch Your Scholarship Chances" and "The Secret to Getting Financial Aid."

For information, contact Scholastic Adventure, PO Box 270, Westbury, NY 11590-0037, or call 1-800-475-2288, Ext. 1564; or a local call - 333-5132. Each telephone number can be dialed on a 24-hour basis.

A Roslyn Student Loan Can Ease The Financial Burden Of Higher Education.

- Low interest rates.
- No repayment until 6 months after leaving school.
- First and second-year undergraduates can borrow up to $2,625 per year.
- Third, fourth and fifth-year undergraduates can borrow up to $4,000 per year.

New Site For Great Neck Music Center

Earlier this year, the Great Neck Music Center celebrated its grand reopening and 10th anniversary with a grand opening gala. The celebration was held at the music center's new location at 625 Middle Neck Road.

The Great Neck Music Center moved to its new location last summer and reopened in September. The new music center has more space for the music store area, more teaching studios, plus a full basement for the repair shop and for storage. Ample parking is another welcome improvement. A village parking lot lies directly adjacent to the music center.

More than 200 students, parents, faculty and friends joined the directors, Beth and Jimmy Korahais, at the grand opening gala for refreshments and music. Musical performances by the Music Center's outstanding faculty included pianists Dana Pielec, Meichun Bao, Brandt Fredricksen, Maria Asteriadou; flutist Lu Ann Peskanov; clarinetist Jeff Adler; violinist Leslie Talluto. To the delight of the guests, they performed many solos and duets from Bach to Liszt.

For the past 10 years, the music center has served the musical needs of the Great Neck community and neighboring towns. Beth and Jimmy Korahais, the founders, owners and directors, moved from Manhattan to Great Neck 15 years ago. Beth taught piano privately and Jimmy, a classical guitarist, taught at Adelphi University.

The Korahais soon recognized the need for a community music center. They envisioned a music center where serious music students could study with professional, experienced teachers in a school atmosphere; where students could meet and encourage each other; where young musicians could perform solos, duets and ensembles in frequent student recitals.

The Korahais turned their idea into reality. The new Great Neck Music Center combines the educational resources of a music school with the convenience of a music store. It has six sound-proof studios and a beautiful recital hall and waiting area. The music store in the front has a large selection of music, accessories, cassettes, CDs, new and used instruments and quality rental instruments, while an expert repairman is readily available to service instruments.

Over the 10 years, the music school faculty has grown from two teachers with 40 students to 16 teachers and nearly 300 students. The Great Neck Music Center offers traditional lessons for most instruments and also has many teachers with specialized training who teach piano and violin using the Suzuki Method which is a revolutionary approach for teaching young children. The music center has one of the largest Suzuki programs in the metropolitan area.

By George Wallace

Did you know that when he was six years old, Walt Whitman was picked up and kissed by Lafayette?

That Whitman secretly wrote rave reviews of his own poetry in newspapers for which he worked?

That Whitman was fired from a job with the Bureau of Indian Affairs for publishing the "obscene" Leaves of Grass?

Or that on learning about the innovation of the curveball in the world of baseball, Whitman complained that it was morally unfair, not to mention undemocratic, for a pitcher to employ deception when pitching the ball to the batter?

If you didn't know these or hundreds of other facts and stories about America's Good Gray Poet, get ready. Because, from March 26, the centenary of Walt Whitman's death, to May 31, the 173rd anniversary of his birth, there will be a celebration of Democracy's Poet throughout Manhattan, Brooklyn and Long Island.

In all there will be almost 50 events including 10 readings, three exhibitions, two concerts, six symposia/panel discussions, three living history performances, 15 lectures and gallery talks, five walking/bus tours and four family workshops.

Packed into a 10-week period, the joint effort will examine the West Hills-born Whitman's work within the context of his life and times.

It all kicks off March 26 at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in Manhattan with poets Allen Ginsberg, Galway Kinnell and C.K. Williams reading from Whitman. Following that, there will be a 12-hour marathon reading with such prominent actors as Christopher Reeve, Claire Bloom and Jane Curtin.

There's plenty more, of course. Some of it distinguished and scholarly (a three-day interdisciplinary conference at the Museum of the City of New York in April); some of it stagey (three one-man shows by actor Daniel Barshay); some of it participatory (the Brooklyn Historical Society's walking tour of Whitman's neighborhood); and some of it personal (the Brooklyn Historical Society's scholarly study of the poet's sexuality "through a variety of different lenses")

All this for a man who didn't like curveballs?

Well worth it, given the huge place Whitman currently occupies in the American art community's pantheon. So huge, apparently, that it has become necessary to put together a list of events, not to mention presenting personalities and organizations, which can only be called staggering.

Among the sites where activities will take place are the Academy of American Poets, Brooklyn Historical Society, Columbia University, Federal Hall National Memorial, Manhattan's Mercantile Library, Museum of the City of New York, the New School, New York University Humanities Council, Poets House, Queens College, Symphony Space, South Street Seaport, Teachers and Writers Collaborative and Long Island's Walt Whitman Birthplace.

Check calendar listings or Walt Whitman's Birthplace for more detailed information on the events.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1♦	2 NT	3♦	6♦
6♦	Pass	7♦

Opening lead — eight of hearts.

The percentage play does not always succeed, and sometimes it can prove very expensive.

Consider this deal played in a World Bridge Olympiad match between Canada and the United States. When the Canadians held the North-South cards, they got to seven spades on the sequence shown and West led a heart, won by South with the nine.

Declarer played the queen of spades at trick two and, after West followed suit with the deuce, South had to make a critical decision. After giving full weight to all factors — including East's "unusual notrump" overall promising length in hearts and clubs — South finessed the queen.

This allowed East to score his singleton king and the contract went down one — 100 points. Had declarer gone up with the ace instead, he would have scored 2,210 points!

It is hard to fault South's decision, since he made the play that was likely to win far more often than it would lose. Perhaps the finger of blame can be pointed more correctly at South for optimistically electing to take a stab at seven spades, rather than passing six.

When the U.S. North-South pair played the hand, they stopped at six spades. West led the jack of clubs, ruffed by South. Taking no chances, declarer led the queen of spades to the ace, caught the king, and so made the slam with an overtrick for a score of 1,460 points. Ironically, the declarer who bid six made seven, while the declarer who bid seven made six.

In the Service, Elly Shodell, Ed., Port Washington Public Library, 66pp.

In the Service, the story of the workers on the grand estates of Long Island from the 1890's to the 1940's, grew out of the Oral History Program of the Port Washington Public Library. The Oral History Program was founded in 1980 in order "to document and preserve the voices of residents who have lived through major economic, cultural and political changes on Long Island — from the oyster farmers of the 1880's to the aviation pioneers and 'barnstormers' of the 1920's, from workers in early sandmining and boat building industries to leaders of today's environmental, architectural, business and political groups."

As Ms. Shodell says in her introduction, during the first two decades of this century, 325 houses of more than 25 rooms were built on Long Island. The names of the owners of those houses are familiar to anyone conversant with New York society of those decades — names like Guggenheim, Belmont, Astor, Mackay, Vanderbilt, Gould, Hearst, Phipps, Morgan and Whitney.

Much has been written about these families and about the houses they built, designed by such architects as McKim, Meade and White, Delano and Aldrich, Richard Morris Hunt.

Ms. Shodell has chosen to shed light on a different corner of this world, the corner of the people who made it function. Without the workers on the estates, both inside and outside, there would have been no grand homes or magnificent gardens, no polo, no yachting. Fortunately for Ms. Shodell, "from Glen Cove to Kings Point, from Westbury to Oyster Bay, many retired estate workers still live in the area. Since 1983, the Port Washington Public Library has conducted in-depth oral history interviews with the systematically recording memories of years spent on the great estates."

Some of these workers were employed on estates like Clarence Mackay's "Harbor Hill" or Charles Pratt's Glen Cove estate. These establishments employed between 250 and 400 people. According to one descendant of a worker on the Guggenheim estate, "The Irish girls were maids and housekeeping type jobs. The Italians, a great many, were gardeners in the soil itself. The dogman was Scottish and so was the dairyman. And they did the very same things that their fathers in Scotland and England did, so they just kept the same way of life, almost because everybody was apprenticed more or less in those days, and that's how they came here."

In contrast to the harsh conditions in which industrial workers found themselves, these workers lived in pleasant surroundings. Although wages were low, ranging in the 1920's from $70 a month for parlormaids to $130 for superintendents, room and board and medical care were included as part of their employment. Still, many of them had complaints, mostly about the lack of time to themselves. As one cook on J.P. Morgan's estate recalls, "Days off! In those days, you didn't have. Two days you were supposed to have a month. You didn't get vacations, but you were supposed to be allowed two days a month. You leave in the morning after breakfast and you come home the following night. Sometimes something turned up and you couldn't take your days off. They could have a party, or somebody was sick and you had to take their place."

Still, there were compensations. Many of the employers were generous and some workers attest to the fact that they were permitted the use of the family car and even the family sailboat for their free time. There was also a certain amount of pride in the important guests who were served. As Ellen Lowrie, housekeeper at Falaise in Sands Point recalls, "We had General Lindbergh, General Doolittle. Harriman was here. Mr. Frank Lloyd Wright."

Going Around The World In Five Months

Performers from Russia, The Netherlands, America and Israel will continue Hofstra University's spring Joseph G. Astman International Concert Series, dedicated to the memory of the founding Director of the Hofstra Cultural Center.

Derek Wieland from Long Island began his piano studies at age seven with Jeffrey Marcus. In 1983 he entered the pre-college division of The Juilliard School as a scholarship student where he studied piano with Richard Feber and composition with Andrew Thomas. He is currently attending Juilliard on scholarship and in the summer of 1991 was the invited soloist for the European tour of the Blue Lake Festival Orchestra. He performed Rachmaninoff's Concerto #2 in 15 cities of Germany, Belgium, Denmark, France and The Netherlands. On March 31 he will perform works by Bartok, Beethoven, Chopin, Listz, Schubert and Schumann at Hofstra.

On April 8, 22-year old violinist Dmitri Berlinsky, accompanied by pianist Svetlana Gorokhovich, will perform works by Brahms, Chausson, Paganini, Ravel and Vitali. Berlinsky opened the 11th Young Concert Artists Series at the Kennedy Center with his highly-acclaimed Washington, DC debut after winning 1989 Young Concert Artists International Auditions. He gave his first public performance at the age of 15 with the Leningrad Symphony in the Great Philharmonic Hall. His artistry has brought him performances with the Genoa Orchestra, the Montreal Symphony, the Quebec Symphony, the Moscow Symphony, the Moscow Chamber Orchestra and the Leningrad Symphony on their 1990 tour of Belgium. Berlinsky is currently studying at the Juilliard School on full scholarship.

The Netherlands:

The Groningen Guitar Duo, made up of Remco de Haan and Erick Westerhof, met in 1980 during their study of classical guitar at the Municipal Conservatory of Groningen. In their April 14 performance at Hofstra they will perform works by Debussy, Granados, Scarlatti, Sor and Veldhuis.

Long Island's own Elisa Dragotto, soprano, accompanied by pianist Vanessa Brown, performed with the Utah Symphony Orchestra as first place winner of the Utah State Music Teacher's Association in 1980.

She has starred in numerous local productions, most notably in the Hofstra Gray Wig's production of The Mystery of Edwin Drood. She will perform works by Ardit, Denza, Donizetti, Giordani, Martini, Mozart, Paisiello, Puccini, Scarlatti and Schubert on April 21 at Hofstra.

The Zavitan Trio, named after one of Israel's most beautiful rivers, is a classical music ensemble specializing in Jewish and Israeli music. The trio, made up of Rebecca Carmi, soprano; Irad Carmi, flute; and Joyce Rosenweig, piano, is known for its diverse repertoire ranges from works by Bach, Handel and Mozart to music by contemporary Israeli composers and arrangements of Yiddish and Ladino songs. Works by Bach, Delibes, Gershwin, Handel, Mozart, Roussel, Schoenberg and others will be featured in the April 28 performance at Hofstra.

All concerts will begin at 8 p.m. in the Cultural Center Lecture Hall. Tickets are free to the Hofstra community, $6 and $4 for senior citizens and non-Hofstra students. For more information call the Box Office at 463-6644.

SPORTS

Hicksville Lacrosse Hall of Famer

Richard Kowalchuk, a 1970 Hicksville High School graduate, was inducted into the National Lacrosse Hall of Fame on Feb. 8, at the Sheraton Towson Hotel, Towson, Maryland.

The Hicksville High School Alumni Association funded the trip for Mr. Kowalechuk's former coach and mentor, Will Meyer, to attend the ceremony. Mr. Meyer, current high school lacrosse coach, was pleased and honored to attend his protege's Hall of Fame induction.

Mr. Kowalchuk had an outstanding athletic career in Hicksville. He was a three year varsity player in three different sports. As a senior he was selected as the all-conference center in football. In wrestling, he was a Nassau County champion and state runner-up at 178 lbs. In lacrosse, he was all-conference and all-county and the team's most valuable player.

He went on to play lacrosse for Johns Hopkins University where he was selected as a first team all-American midfielder for three years. His strength and scoring ability made him one of the top offensive

PARTICIPANTS in the Volleyball Tournament to benefit the Cystinosis Foundation

HFD Volleyball Tournament

The Hicksville Fire Department and the Nassau County Police Department 2nd Precinct sponsored a volleyball tournament on Feb. 29 to benefit the Cystinosis Foundation.

Forty one teams participated in the event. Various fire departments, law enforcement teams, corporate teams, neighborhood teams, and family teams joined in on the fun. The final four teams were the HFD Co. No. 8 "Ball Breakers," Merrick "Cops and Firemen," NCPD 2nd Precinct "Brightfellows" and "Team Lilco." "Brightfellows" and "Team Lilco" squared off in the finals with the "Brightfellows" team winning in a very close best two out of three match.

A good time was had by all who played and even by those who helped out and organized the day's events. Prizes and raffles were donated by generous local businesses.

All proceeds from the day have been donated to the Cystinosis Foundation. Cystinosis is a rare genetic disease affecting less than 300 children in the United States. Six year old Laura Krummenacker of Hicksville was diagnosed with the disease in 1989. She is presently in a protocol at the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Maryland.
