Hicksville Weathers Hard Hitting Storm

By John W. Garger

Despite that it has been called the worst storm to hit Long Island in many years, Hicksville has seemed to weather Friday's winds and rains quite well.

Most services and business continued as usual on Friday. With the exception of downed wires and fallen trees, no serious destruction was reported.

During the afternoon, traffic in the center of Hicksville was brought to a crawl. A leaning telephone pole at the intersection of Railroad Ave. and East Old Country Rd. had traffic halted in both directions on Old Country Rd. All cars and trucks traveling west bound on Old Country Rd. had to be diverted north on Park Ave. and then west on Plainview Rd. to Broadway. LILCO crews were able to secure the pole in a few hours and allow traffic to continue as usual.

The Auxiliary Police were busier than usual, helping the Nassau County Police direct traffic. Downed wires at the intersection of Broadway and John St. caused an interruption in southbound traffic. Various traffic lights around town were out, causing dangerous intersections, but no major accidents.

The downed wires and fallen trees caused phone service in some sections of Hicksville to be cut off for all of Friday. Many homes also reported that their cable was lost for a few hours.

The Long Island Railroad service interruption past Hicksville, also caused increased traffic problems during the usual busy rush hour. Rail service on the mainline was terminated at Hicksville. All riders had to transfer to coach buses for stations farther east.

Downtown Hicksville along Broadway seemed to be hardest hit by the wind. Many of the holiday banners, put up by the Chamber of Commerce, were twisted and torn. One of the light posts, on the median, at Broadway and Marie St. was also knocked down.

The Hicksville School District did not report any serious damage to any of its buildings. Classes were conducted as usual on Friday, but all after school activities were canceled. The Tip Off Basketball Tournament, that was scheduled for Friday night and Saturday, was also canceled.

The Hicksville Fire Department responded to 20 calls in Hicksville during Friday's storm. It also provided mutual aid to the Bayville Fire Department. Bayville was hard hit by the storm, with

Red Cross Tackles A Crisis Of Its Own

By Margaret Whitley

The Nassau County Chapter of the American Red Cross, a non-profit organization in the business of taking care of crisis situations, is now in a crisis itself.

Three very major tragedies have impacted severely on this chapter; the Avianca plane crash and the two hurricanes; Andrew in South Florida and the one that hit New Orleans. This chapter jumped in to help out all three locations and now finds themselves in the rather unusual position of having not only funds depleted, but supplies such as blankets, cots, etc., as well. Naturally, they are working feverishly to replenish all resources because if another area tragedy should take place in the meantime it could result in diminished services by an organization that is totally service oriented.

Most of the funds for the chapter are given to them by United Way and from private donations as a result of fundraising events. However, these events are over for the year and when the Red Cross approaches either individuals or corporations they say, they've already donated, not realizing that this emergency fundraising is to put back the $600,000 that was sent to both Florida and New Orleans.

One-half of the disaster budget is spent on single family fires of Nassau residents. When such devastation occurs, the Red Cross is there with interim aid and help both to the family members and to the fire companies, by serving them hot coffee, food and doughnuts, during the time of the emergency.

This is all accomplished solely by the help of volunteers that the chapter is basically on 24-hour call. When called the members respond immediately and do a superlative job of helping out. The chapter itself only has a staff of 16 full-time workers and 16 part-timers.

This Nassau Chapter, located on 264 Old Country Road, just celebrated its 75th Anniversary. It had its beginning under the watchful eye of a dedicated and generous family-the Henry P. Davison family of Locust Valley, who started the chapter in 1917 when Mrs. Davison was named the first chairman.

At that time a portable building was given to the chapter by Mrs. Davison and the Red Cross nurses were placed in Nassau County schools. It was at that time that President Woodrow Wilson asked Mr. Davison to chair the War Fund.

In the 1920s free clinics were established at chapter headquarters for prenatal care, TB, eye and ear patients, along with mental patients. Plus a mobile dental unit went from school to school all over the county.

As the chapter began to expand a larger facility was needed so the friends of the H. P. Davison mobilized and donated the building that still houses the chapter.

The depression years began to take effect all throughout Nassau County, and the Red Cross distributed food, flour, cotton and clothing to the needy of the county and the newly formed Junior Red Cross visited hospitals distributing candy and cigarettes.

More than 50,000 county residents trained in First Aid and Life Saving and many did so by attending classes at the chapter building. The nurses taught home hygiene and care of the sick courses, because in the time of such poverty few people could afford a doctor. Plus braille was taught to hundreds of blind persons.

In the 1940s the first blood sessions were held at Meadowbrook Hospital, which is

NEWSBRIEFS

Door-To-Door Solicitations

Door-to-door solicitation is a common occurrence in suburbia. Local residents have all had experiences with people coming to their homes asking for a contribution for some cause or selling a product.

Oyster Bay Town Councilman Tom Clark said "While most times these people are on the level, there are those who use the guise of a door-to-door salesperson or solicitor to take advantage of others. It is these individuals for whom we must be on the alert." He said, as a resident of the Town of Oyster Bay, you should be aware that door-to-door vendors or those collecting money for profit-making organizations must obtain a permit from the Town Clerk's Office.

Before the Town issues such a permit, applicants must complete forms that ask the nature of their business as well as questions pertaining to any criminal history. A fingerprint check is done by the Nassau County Police Department and reviewed before any permit is issued. Once the Town Clerk's Office approves an application for a license, a photo identification badge is issued. The vendor is required to wear it when going door-to-door.

Residents are advised to check the I.D. badge before doing any business with a vendor or solicitor. Along with making sure the picture matches the person, see that the year on the badge is current. Should the photo I.D. not be readily visible, ask to see it.

If the person does not have one, do not transact any business and call the police immediately with their description.

While not-for-profit organizations, which include religious groups, are not required to have permits, the Town Clerk does request such groups to inform the Town about when and where their members are going to be soliciting. He requests a list of names of the solicitors, literature about the organization and proof that the New York State Department of State Charities Registration Bureau has a record of its operation. He then sends a letter to the group acknowledging the Town's awareness of its activities and outlining the correct procedure for soliciting as well as the advisability of issuing some form of identification to its members.

There are some general rules to remember when handling both door-to-door peddlers and solicitors. First, do not open your door fully until the individual has shown some sort of identification. If they can't produce any, call the police with their description. If you have any doubts about a person's intentions, don't open your door and don't let the person in. If you don't want to be bothered by peddlers or solicitors, post a "No Solicitors or Peddlers" or "No Trespassing," as a deterrent. A uniform is not always a guarantee someone is on the level.

Again, ask for proper identification. If they don't have that, call the police and report the incident. Under no circumstances let anyone into your home until you have verified the person's affiliation.

Cold Weather: Fire Activity Up

The Hicksville Fire Department had to respond to two separate fire calls for the Carvel store located on South Broadway in Hicksville.

On Sunday, Dec. 6 the Hicksville Fire Department responded to a fire at the Carvel Store at 447 South Broadway. Chief Patrick Scanlon directed 75 firefighters and nine units, who got the fire under control after 30 minutes.

The Hicksville dispatcher received numerous calls reporting the fire. The first one coming at 11:24 p.m. An alarm box in the area was also set off. The fire apparently started in the rear of the building and spread to the roof and ceiling areas.

After extinguishing the fire, several units remained at the scene for over two hours searching for hidden pockets of fire. The cause of the fire is unknown. The Nassau County Fire Marshal and Arson Squad are investigating.

Less than four hours later, at 5:17 a.m. on Monday, Dec. 7 firefighters were back at the Carvel on Broadway responding to a separate fire that broke out in the front of the building. Fire officials believed it to be unrelated to the first fire and are investigating it.

The month of December started busy as firefighters responded to a weather related fire. As a fast-moving electrical storm passed over the mid-island area on Wednesday, Dec. 2, a bolt of lightning struck a house on Burns Ave. in Hicksville.

Several alert neighbors made phone calls to the Hicksville Fire Department at 3:17 p.m. Quick response by firefighters confined the fire to the outside of the structure. It was extinguished in 10 minutes. Damage to the house and vinyl siding was estimated at $2,500.

An early morning truck fire on Powers St. in Hicksville brought firefighters out on Dec. 3. The truck was destroyed and several overhead utility wires were damaged.

On Friday, Dec. 4, seven units responded under Chief Scanlon to a fire at a Crescent St. home. Starting in a closet, the fire destroyed one bedroom on the second floor and seriously damaged another.

The cold weather is upon us and fire activity in Hicksville is on the rise, according to Hicksville Fire Department officials. Nationwide fire activity increases with the onset of winter. Heating systems are used for the first time in months because of the cold, increasing the chance of faulty systems causing fires.

Life Saving Tips At Open House

By John W. Garger

Several thousand Hicksville residents visited the Hicksville Firehouse to see Santa Claus and in the process learned many home fire safety tips.

The Annual Holiday Open House at the Hicksville Fire Department headquarters on Marie Street was organized by Assistant Chief Phil LaNasa, firefighter Dave Daley, and the Public Education Committee. Many residents took advantage of the safety drill and emergency procedures demonstrated by the department volunteers, and the home safety pamphlets that were made available.

A favorite among the children and an especially important exhibit at the Open House was Operation EDITH. EDITH is an acronym for Exit Drills In The Home. The Fire Service Academy instructs children on the proper procedures in the case of a house fire, using a mobile housing unit that can simulate fire conditions. The unit schedules stops at the various district schools during the year.

Once inside the mobile house unit, the children were instructed what to do in the case of a fire. Fire Service Academy Chief John L. Wolffe and instructor Doug Wood stressed that when sleeping, bedrooms doors should be closed, so smoke does not fill the room. In the case of a fire, the children were told to stay low and near a window in order to be rescued. Other suggestions were to have a trap door between a parent's room and the children's (possibly through a closet) to allow the family to escape in a group. After being briefed on what to do, a simulated fire was started and with the assistance of the volunteers the children escaped down special fire safety ladders and rope ladders that can hang out windows.

Past-chief Owen Magee stressed the importance of having a family plan on what to do and where to meet in the case of a house fire.

Other demonstrations included an electrical exhibit. Captain Bill Kelly and firefighters George Simon and Edwin Bird instructed residents on the do's and don'ts of home wiring and the proper use of extension cords. They talked about the proper use and display of Christmas lights and the importance of not using a lightbulb larger than the size recommended by a lamp manufacturer. During their demonstration they showed how a 60 watt bulb can heat up to a temperature of 140 degrees.

In another exhibit, Lt. Liz Flahavan and Lt. Bill Efinger of the Hicksville Rescue Squad demonstrated the latest in resuscitating devices. They showed how a CPR machine can automatically perform chest compressions and breathing ventilations on a victim, therefore freeing the technician to perform other life saving procedures. Demonstrations were also given on the treatment of burns and the proper use of burn packs; the use of a field phone between the technicians and the hospital; and on the proper procedures to stabilize victims with spinal injuries.

HICKSVILLE FIREFIGHTERS Steve Doucette, John Tolinsky, Al Hassan, and Ross Schiffman demonstrate the "Jaws of Life" at the Open House held on Dec. 6. Also called the Heart Tool, it is used to rescue accident victims trapped in crushed automobiles. They are shown creating a third-door to rescue a victim trapped in the back seat.

Madrigals Highlight Tree Lighting

The Hicksville High School Madrigals highlighted what has become an eagerly awaited annual tradition. They serenaded the crowd at the Spiegel Associates Christmas Tree lighting on Tuesday, Dec. 8 in front of Spiegel's headquarters at 375 North Broadway.

The festivities, which were attended by area workers, local residents and children, featured the Hicksville High School Madrigals singing Christmas Carols; Santa and his helpers Mr. Snowman and Mr. Reindeer, who arrived aboard a Jericho fire truck; and plenty of hot drinks and holiday treats supplied by Spiegel.

Town of Oyster Bay Supervisor Lewis J. Yevoli served as the official tree lighter, flipping the switch at about 4:45 p.m. Art Sanders, president of Spiegel Associates, and Santa Claus started a countdown accompanied by everyone in attendance, after which Yevoli threw the switch. Not only did the 25 foot tree light up, so did the faces of all the youngsters attending the fun-filled event.

Unfortunately, Mr. Snowman and Mr. Reindeer had to leave early to catch a ride aboard the Jericho cherrypicker, which had to leave early to respond to a fire whistle. A good time was had by all.

HICKSVILLE HIGH School Madrigals serenaded the crowds that gathered for the Spiegel Associates Christmas Tree Lighting last week. They performed numerous carols that pleased everyone in attendance.

HS Club Hosts FBLA Meeting

The Hicksville FBLA chapter recently hosted and ran the Nassau County FBLA Fall District Meeting at SUNY Farmingdale. It was attended by well over 170 students coming from a variety of schools such as Jericho, Sewanhaka, Elmont and H. Frank Carey. Presiding over this conference was Michael Chang, the New York State FBLA Vice President from District 1N. Michael, along with the help of his advisor Mr. Edward Sullivan, planned this conference for months before running it.

For the conference, numerous workshops were planned by Michael Chang and Mr. Sullivan for the benefit and enjoyment of the attendees. The workshops taught leadership, public speaking, fund raising, the college application process, and interviewing skills. Hicksville students, Joaquin Ezcurra and Michael Chang, ran the "Dressing for Success" workshop and the "Motivating through Speaking" workshop. Mr. Sullivan presented an exciting workshop on "Winning Competitive Events in FBLA." All chapter members moderated workshops and presented speakers.

Storybook Characters Come Alive

Reading a good book is important to the students of Our Lady of Mercy School. Therefore, their first speech contest brought many characters to our stage. The students heard and saw famous characters come alive by students who read about a particular character in a story this term.

Theresa Saccardi from class 7C portrayed Anne for a few minutes as she described her life at Green Gables. Kerin O'Reilly (7A) brought Bonnie Snyder to the stage. Her experience of befriending an awkward new girl and her unique mother got everyone's attention. Debra Sands of 7B introduced herself as Jo March from the all-time favorite Little Women. Tara Galvin (7A) let everyone in on the kidnapping of Johnny Dorset by Bill and Sam from O'Henry's short story The Ransom of Red Chief.

Other notable portrayals were presented by Merrideith BonTempi, representing class 8A, as Mrs. Van Hoot from the short

KIDS PLAY

Sending Messages To The Future's Kids

Recently, the Port Washington Library held a Time Capsule Contest and asked today's children to send messages to children of the future. We thought you might be interested in seeing what your friends are saying and invite all of our readers to send in messages of their own or to write an essay about what the future will be like.

Jane Tarica writes, "...I hope there will be peace in the world where it doesn't matter your color or your religion, but it matters about who you are inside only!"

Jean-Pierre deLespinois adds, "...today we have no cure for a disease called AIDS. More than 40,000 kids under 16 years old of age have it. I hope there is a cure for AIDS by the time you read this."

One young ambitious female named Jeannine Miranne aspired to be the first woman president of the United States, "...perhaps you might read about me in history books because I too would like to serve my country as President. I may even be the first woman president and if not I hope there will be a woman in the White House during my lifetime!"

Even foods of the 90s are rated, as John Rossette is quick to praise "...Dunkaroos. They're really cool with cookies on one side and frosting on the other. They taste great in a glass of milk."

Dara Silverstein could be considered a child economist as she speaks of "an economy that isn't too great, with thousands of men and women either losing their jobs quick as a wink." The young girl also aspires to be the first woman president "and that there will be black and Jewish presidents in the future as well."

One future rock star speaks of the importance of music in the 90s. Alexander Talcott says, "here in 1992 music is very popular, with talented musicians in the world who are highly noticed, respected and enjoyed by millions of their loyal fans. Long live music!"

Christopher Judge seems more concerned about those less fortunate in the world. "I hope the planet will not be as polluted as it is now and that there are no homeless and hungry people when you open this time capsule. Have a good life!"

Greg Eisenman, speaking like he is President-elect Bill Clinton's advisor, gives his predictions of Clinton's success in the White House during his upcoming presidential term in office. "I hope he lowers our national debt, creates more jobs, reduce the crime rate and help the environment. He should also try to solve our health problems and avoid war."

For the most part, children of the 90s shared the same feelings of their present-day existence: love of sports, television, Nintendo, school. And as sophisticated as their essays may be, the true child within clearly shows as indicated in one young girl's letter. "My fears seem very big. I'm still scared of the dark when I go to bed, so I have a little night light to keep me company."

At The Hicksville Jericho Rotary Meeting

By George W. Waters

The guest speaker at the weekly Hicksville-Jericho Rotary meeting at the Milleridge Inn was Gene Westmoreland of the Metropolitan Golf Association (MGA). Gene spoke about the history of the MGA, which was founded in 1897. The MGA strives to educate golfers through its magazine The Met Golfer, seminars, tapes, and dissemination of the positive effects that golf courses have on the environment. They also sponsor junior and boys championships and caddie training programs.

In other Rotary happenings the annual St. Mary's Orphanage Christmas Party is coming up on Dec. 20. St. Mary's Orphanage is in Syosset. This will be the only Christmas celebration these kids will have. The Rotary Christmas Party is being held at La Caravela on Thursday, Dec. 17. Anybody interested in the "Entertainment 93" books should contact George Waters at 249-3300 during business hours.

VFW Honors Pearl Harbor Veterans With Ceremony At Oyster Bay Pier

Monday, Dec. 7, 1992 was a cold day to commemorate "A day that will live in infamy" at Teddy Roosevelt Marine Basin East Pier. On the 51st anniversary of the December 7 bombing of Pearl Harbor the Oyster Bay Memorial Post 8033 and the Pearl Harbor Survivors Association Inc. Chapter 135 hosted a special memorial. Though the attendance was small, many dedicated veteran organizations turned out, no matter what the weather was like, so that our men and women in the armed forces will not be forgotten. God bless them.

The statistics of the attack by the Japanese on Pearl Harbor are: 21 US ships sunk or damaged; 328 aircraft lost or damaged; 2,403 military personnel killed and 1,178 wounded.

Maybe the Japanese can eliminate "Pearl Harbor" from their school books, but it will never be forgotten in the USA. To all those 12,000 remaining veterans out there, who survived this ordeal, we must remain vigilant. Keep America alert and "Remember Pearl Harbor."

John Haughey of Hicksville died at Hickham Field, Hawaii, that day. This December 7th Pearl Harbor Memorial Day marked the 51st anniversary of America's entry into World War II. President Roosevelt described Japan's bombing of Pearl Harbor on Sunday, Dec. 7, 1941 as "A day that will live in infamy." To commemorate this date many of us who have served in World War II, Korea, Vietnam, Lebanon, Grenada, Panama, Persian Gulf are keeping the tradition alive.

From the Town of Oyster Bay, Supervisor Lewis Yevoli was the guest speaker.

Many town councilmen also participated. Dennis Dune, director of Nassau County Veterans Administration, pinch hit for County Executive Thomas Gulotta.

The veteran's organizations participating were the Wm. M. Gause Jr. Post 3211 VFW, Levittown VFW Post 9295, Syosset VFW 6394, officers of the Nassau County Council VFW, Disabled American Veterans, Marine Corp. League, Vietnam Veterans of America, Jewish War Veterans, American Legions from Hicksville, Bayville, and Oyster Bay, and the Prisoner of War Association.

On Dec. 8 at the VFW, we had a different kind of Christmas party for our comrades from the Northport Veterans Hospital. They had complete turkey dinners, and Santa gave out presents to all the guys at the hospital.

The post had its annual Christmas party on Dec. 12 for members, their wives, lady friends, and the Ladies Auxiliary and their spouses or male companions.

Hicksville VFW Post 3211 held its annual Children's Christmas party on Dec. 13 at the VFW Hall in Hicksville. The officers, members, and the ladies auxiliary did an outstanding job. There were toys, soda, ice cream and cookies for all the children. Santa arrived at 2 p.m. and was given a grand welcoming by the children. Commander Dennis Ladislaw said that this is one of the favorite post functions for himself and the other members. Just watching the happy expressions on the children's faces is the reward. While waiting for Santa to arrive the children sang

The older youth told the younger one that he wanted a beeper that the younger boy was carrying. The older youth also said that if he did not get the beeper he would hurt the younger youth. Storybook Characters story The Legend of Sleepy Hollow by Washington Irving. Marion Vassallo took on her "boyish" charm and brought everyone on a trip to Murphy's Park. Everyone listened carefully for clues from Isidor's short story Rain, Rain Go Away. Lucien Veneziano of 8B took the listeners on an imaginary trip to meet the central character from Edgar Allan Poe's The Tell-Tale Heart. He tried to convince everyone that he was insane.

From class 7B, Andrew Cherry portrayed Red Chief or Johnny Dorset from Ransom of Red Chief by O'Henry. He was such a lovable child. Portraying Captain Nemo from 20,000 Leagues Under the Sea was Christopher Cisek of 8A.

He took the other students aboard a submarine, The Nautilus, and told them about his adventures.

The judges, Sister Maureen, Mrs. Brynes, and Mrs. Willet had a hard job picking the winners from such a marvelous group of characters. Sister Joanne, the principal, presented the following awards to the winners: first place - trophy and gold medal - Debra Sands (7B); second place - silver medal - Merrideh Bontempi (8A); and a third place tie - bronze medal - Marion Vassallo (8A) and Theresa Saccardi (7C).

It was an exciting speech contest which enticed the students to read the books about the characters portrayed for the audience.

Chanukah In The Year 5753 (1992)

On the evening of Dec. 19, Jewish people will light the first candle of Chanukah. The custom commemorates the event of two thousand years ago, when a small band of brothers, the Maccabees and their followers, swept down from the hills of Judea defeating the Syrians under Antiochus, who desecrated the Jewish temple and systematically undertook an effort to outlaw Judaism.

The struggle of 175-163 B.C. was not the first or last time a people had to fight religious persecution, sometimes to victory and other times to bitter defeat. It is a recurring and tragic historic theme.

This past week, hundreds have lost their lives in India because of the zealot Hindus' destruction of Muslim temple. Two weeks ago, the leaders of the Serbian Orthodox, Croatian Catholic and Muslim communities from the former nation of Yugoslavia met in Switzerland and issued this statement: "Crime in the name of religion is the greatest crime against religion."

The message has meaning around the world. We fervently hope that it carries to India and to Pakistan, to Bosnia and Herzegovina, to the Middle East, Northern Ireland, the Sudan and East Timor.

We fervently hope that it carries to Crown Heights and, yes, to Nassau County, where hate literature from the Ku Klux Klan and neo-Nazi organizations was found on many lawns recently.

In December 164 B.C., three years to the day since the Syrians had desecrated their temple, the Jewish rebels rededicated their holiest building. During the next eight days, crowds of Jews swarmed to the Temple to celebrate, but they had only one day's supply of oil for the Eternal Light. Eight days later, miraculously, the light still burned brightly.

So does the light still burn brightly today in menorahs in Jewish homes in a land where people of all faiths are free to worship as they wish. How brightly it would burn next year if somewhere else on earth religious conflict is extinguished and in our own backyard those who distributed the hate literature finally begin to understand what this country is all about.

Volunteer Educators Help Conserve Water

Water use has more than doubled in the United States since 1950. Fresh water will soon become the most valuable liquid on Earth. Maintaining optimum quality of our fresh water systems is a concern for water management companies. This means increased water and energy bills for consumers.

Individuals can join a Nassau County effort to lower water consumption and manage this precious resource by installing water-saving devices and modifying water-usage habits. They can learn how to handle and dispose of hazardous household products to keep our drinking water safe and clean.

Trained volunteer educators with Cornell Cooperative Extension are available to present free day or evening programs about water conservation to adult groups this fall and winter. The programs show methods to help preserve water. Demonstrations and active participation help individuals learn ways to detect leaks in the home, lower water consumption and modify water-usage habits. Free home water conservation kits are given to each participant.

Adult groups or organizations can schedule a free home water conservation program by calling Debbie Clift at 454-0900.

Counselors Available

There is a special phone number in Nassau County for abused, neglected or maltreated youth. The number for Runaway Hotline is 781-9800 and counselors are available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. If you've thought about running away from home because you can't take it anymore, get blamed for everything or are experiencing violence at home call the Runaway Hotline before you run. The call is free and confidential. We'll help you sort things out and provide emergency housing if needed.

Annual Christmas Visitation

The Long Island Friends of People With AIDS in conjunction with The Holiday Project, and the Nassau County Medical Center are happy to announce the annual Christmas visitation on Sunday, Dec. 20. Visiting pediatrics and people with AIDS. All welcome. For more information please call Karen at 454-6708.

Date: Sunday, the first visit is at Nassau County Medical Center, 2201 Hempstead Turnpike, East Meadow, 11th Floor - Day Room at 10 a.m. - noon. The second visit is at 875 Jerusalem Avenue, Uniondale, Main Floor - Recreation Room at 12:30 - 2:30 p.m.

Coping With Loneliness

Coping with loneliness is especially hard during holiday times. You can make a real difference in someone's life by volunteering as their companion. The Compeer Program matches caring, sensitive people with individuals who are emotionally ill and who feel more isolated and lonely at this time of year.

Give the gift of friendship. Spend one hour a week offering support and friendship. Matches are made on a one-to-one basis according to interests, age and geographic location. Reach Out! Call Compeer at the Mental Health Association of Nassau County - 489-2322.

Artists Network Meeting

Always on the lookout for different ways of interacting among fellow artists, the Artists Network of Great Neck will have a holiday swap at its next general meeting, which will be held at the Great Neck Library, Bayview Avenue, on Thursday, Dec. 17 at 6 p.m.

Members of the Artists Network will have an opportunity to swap art supplies from their studios that they no longer use, paints, tools, sketch pads, even ideas and creative ways of using all that material. They will also be able to swap sketches and small art works with each other.

The Artists Network First Annual Membership Exhibition will still be on display at the library. This will give the artists an opportunity to discuss the creative process in producing their work and will add another dimension to "Swap Night."

The meeting is open to the public and refreshments will be served. This will be an ideal chance for the guests to ask questions of the artists that go into play during the process of creating a work of art.

Children Need Families Who Care

Imagine looking forward to the holidays. Imagine trimming the tree, baking holiday treats, walking with your family down festive Fifth Avenue.

Now imagine a young brother and sister who have only each other to turn to, survive with and dare to dream with. For thousands of young New Yorkers, dreams of the future are all that keeps them going.

The Foster Care Network, a coalition of child welfare agencies in the New York metropolitan area, is dedicated to finding suitable foster homes for many of our area's youth.

Now more than ever, The Foster Care Network needs your help! New York's foster care system is in a state of emergency. In just over five years, the foster care population of New York has risen from 27,000 to over 62,000. And the number continues to rise at an unprecedented rate!

The holidays are approaching; most of these children have little hope of spending the night in a warm, comfortable home with a family that cares. Even dreams of Santa Claus are unlikely to enter their young minds.

If you would like to make a difference in a child's life (and your own!), consider becoming a foster parent. In return for sharing your home and love, foster parents receive on-going training and support and a monthly stipend. To learn more, please call the Foster Care Network Today at 212/643-0178.

Help For Abused Women

If your husband or boyfriend has repeatedly slapped, punched, hit or kicked you, you have been abused. It is estimated that two million women will experience abuse in 1992, so you need not feel alone. Help is offered through the Abused Spouses Counseling Program at Long Island Jewish Medical Center. All calls are strictly confidential. Group and individual counseling is available. For more information, call (718) 470-7540.

New York Philharmonic Concert

KURT MASUR, music director of the New York Philharmonic, will conduct the orchestra in the Jan. 23 concert at Tilles Center. Call 626-3100 for information.

The New York Philharmonic conducted by music director Kurt Masur appears with pianist Peter Serkin at Tilles Center on Saturday, Jan. 23, at 8 p.m. The program of works by Stravinsky, Bach and Tchaikovsky is highlighted by a premiere performance of David Stock's Kickoff, a work commissioned by the New York Philharmonic to commemorate its 1992 50th anniversary.

In addition to Kickoff, the New York Philharmonic performs Stravinsky's Concerto for Piano and Wind Instruments; Bach's Concerto for Piano and Orchestra; and Tchaikovsky's Symphony No. 4, F minor, Opus 36.

Founded in 1842, the New York Philharmonic is the nation's oldest, most prestigious orchestra. The orchestra performs 200 concerts each year, most of them at Lincoln Center's Avery Fisher Hall. The New York Philharmonic, which has performed in 348 cities in 50 countries, had its first United States tour in 1882 and its first European tour in 1920. Gustav Mahler, Arturo Toscanini, Leonard Bernstein and Zubin Mehta are among the Philharmonic's past music directors. The New York Philharmonic has a unique collaborative association with Tilles Center, having performed the center's inaugural concert in 1981 and having appeared in each consecutive Tilles Center season. A highlight of this association was 1991's Tillesfest, three summer weekends of orchestral and chamber music by the Philharmonic under the baton of two guest conductors as well as its incoming music director, Kurt Masur.

Kurt Masur, famed as music director of Leipzig's Gewandhaus Orchestra, became music director of the Philharmonic in September 1991. In his first season with the Philharmonic Masur conducted 60 concerts. A native of Silesia, he studied at the Music College of Leipzig and made his United States debut with the Cleveland Orchestra in 1974. That same year he led the Gewandhaus in its first tour of this country. Masur, with the Philharmonic, records exclusively on the Teldec label.

Earning Respect At Westbury Music Fair

Even though Rodney Dangerfield still claims to get "no respect," he remains in great demand as one of America's hottest comedians. With a stand-up routine that appeals to a younger generation than his own, he is sure to have Westbury Music Fair's audiences rolling in the aisles on Saturday, Dec. 19 at 8 p.m.

Tickets are $30 and are available at Westbury Music Fair's box office, or to charge tickets on VISA/Master Card, call 334-0800.

Rodney Dangerfield's special guest is Harry Basil, the self-professed "Tasmanian Devil of Comedy." Born Jack Ray in Babylon, Rodney Dangerfield re-examined his life when he turned 40 in 1961, found it unsatisfying and became a stand-up comedian...and the rest is history. Today, Rodney may claim he gets no respect, but his fans still think of him as the "coolest" comedian over 60.

Doctor on Trial, Henry Denker, William Morrow and Co., 352 pp., $20.

Henry Denker, whose classic Horowitz and Mrs. Washington was reissued last year, is an attorney and the author of 20 books. He is one of the earliest practitioners of the genre that has become so popular recently, the courtroom novel.

In Doctor on Trial he combines the medical and the legal novel and does so most successfully. The story will bring to mind to many readers an actual event in which the daughter of a well-known writer died in a New York hospital after having entered the institution with what seemed to be mild symptoms.

Denker's story takes place in the fictional City Hospital, which New Yorkers will be easily able to identify. On a busy Saturday night, young resident Kate Forrester is on duty in the emergency room when a young woman, Claudia Stuyvesant, is admitted complaining of stomach pains. Dr. Forrester is impeded in her examination of the patient by Mrs. Stuyvesant, her mother, who is at pains to impress Forrester with the importance of the girl's father, real estate tycoon Claude Stuyvesant.

The doctor administers regular tests to Claudia which come up negative but a few hours later Claudia is dead from an ectopic pregnancy and Kate Forrester is charged with malpractice and manslaughter in the death of the daughter of the most powerful man in New York City.

What makes Doctor on Trial such an interesting novel is its authors familiarity with both the medical and the legal professions. He takes the reader into the board room of City Hospital where its chief administrator, Dr. Harvey Cummins, tries to tread the labyrinth between loyalty to Kate Forrester as a fellow doctor who did nothing wrong, and to his hospital, with its reputation on the line. Kate is gradually left to "twist in the wind" by the medical establishment, but she is given legal representation by a young attorney, Scott Van Cleve, an associate at the firm that represents the hospital in malpractice suits.

Soon the hospital attempts to take that away from her as pressure from Claude Stuyvesant mounts. In disgust with his lawfirm, Van Cleve resigns to spend full time representing Kate Forrester. He is determined to destroy Kate Forrester and prevent her from ever practicing medicine again.

As the forces marshalled against Kate build, so does the mystery of Claudia Stuyvesant's death. Why did her pregnancy not show up in the tests that were administered to her? What, besides her pregnancy, was she trying to hide? The conclusion is satisfying and the entire novel stimulating.

For as long as I can remember, my family had a dog. My parents now have their third. But when I was growing up, our family dog was Lucky.

Lucky was probably six or seven by the time that I was born, so I remember her as full grown. She was medium sized, had long white hair with tan and black patches covering her head. She was a mutt. We don't know the full mixture, only that she was part terrier.

Lucky was part of the family. She had a definite personality. I heard stories about her antics as a puppy: chewing shoes and whatever she could get a hold of. But as she aged she mellowed. I remember her as being not very playful, she sometimes liked to be by herself. She would lay in the back yard on the side of the house that the rest of the family rarely went on. But she had that dog sense. She knew when something was wrong and would be there to comfort us. When it was holiday season, she would perk up in anticipation of Christmas and the presents that she would get.

Lucky was also independent. During the warmer months, when we only had the storm door shut, Lucky would let herself out by hitting the latch with her front paws. We couldn't teach her to let herself back in though. Or maybe she refused to learn because she knew that when we let her back in a biscuit would usually follow.

A good watchdog, she always barked when she heard a knock or saw someone she did not recognize. But she became introverted after returning from the barbershop. During the summer, we would get her shaved very short. She looked good to us, pink bow and all, but she didn't like being so well groomed and feminine. Instead she would let herself out and roll in a patch of dirt.

Lucky lived to a ripe old age of 17. Her last couple of years we had two dogs. My family adopted a stray dog. The two did not make very good sisters. The puppy always wanted to play. Lucky would just growl at her, but I will always remember Lucky as being good natured.

Did You Ever Wonder...

Have you been to your local Dairy Barn or local fast food place and noticed all those plastic crates piled in back of the building? Have you looked at them, maybe even decided to take one (or two) home and use it as a storage box, book case, or to file important papers?

Once you bring it safely home and you begin to place your valuables inside, a warning label jumps out at you, declaring you have broken the law. Let us explain...

The warning label we are referring to reads: "Unauthorized Use Is Illegal and Enforced by Health Department Department and Penal Codes?" Why the fuss?

To get the answer, David Feldman, author of Do Penguins Have Knees? contacted a member of the Dairyland Cooperative in New York.

He explained: For more years than he could remember, the milk dealers in New York (and other suburban areas) lost several millions dollars a year on purloined plastic milk cases.

Never in the history of man has anything been invented for which so many uses have been found: bookcases, sidewalk flower displays, tool chest, toy boxes, stepping stool, and much more. It finally got so bad that milk dealers petitioned their legislators to make possession of a dealer's milk case illegal, subject to a fine.

Today the dealer must have his name on the case, by law. Theft wasn't all the dealers were contending with.

Supermarkets, which daily received thousands of cases around New York, took the cases to build displays, cart trash, and carry things home.

Now, however, the New York State law requires that markets must account for all cases to their milk suppliers. They are required by law to pay $2 for every case unaccounted for. Consequently, there is now much stricter control over cases.

As a final note, it was discovered by some city milk dealers that shipments of new cases were being stolen, sent to plastic recyclers for some amount of money, to reappear as any one of a vast multitude of plastic products.

All in all, it was a very big rat hole through which a big piece of milk-generated money (ultimately from consumers) was being lost. The law has not eliminated all theft, but it has sharply reduced the problem.

(This is an excerpt by Mitch Hubbard, from David Feldman's book Do Penguins Have Knees?)

WESTBURY FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

341 POST AVENUE

WESTBURY, NEW YORK 11590

516-333-1700

Fax: 516-333-1978

December 14, 1992

Dear Friends:

On January 1, 1993, we are changing our name to Bank of Westbury (a Federal Savings Bank). The name is being changed to reflect the changes in the banking industry over the past several years. Historically, federal savings and loan associations were mutually owned by its depositors. That was the case for Westbury until December 1986, when in order to raise capital to position Westbury for the future, we converted to stock ownership.

As you are aware, the difference between the services offered by commercial banks and savings and loan associations have narrowed over the past several years. Both offer residential mortgage loans, consumer, personal, auto, and a variety of other types of loans. We believe the historical distinction between the institutions will be even less pronounced in the future.

- We are not merging with another financial institution or bank.
- Our service, our branch locations, and our commitment to our customers will not change.
- Your deposits will continue to be insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.
- Bank of Westbury will continue to exceed all regulatory capital requirements.

Westbury was converted to stock ownership in December of 1986 with the goal to provide personal service to all our customers. This continues to be our goal. We believe that personal service has been appealing here on Long Island. Since our conversion to stock ownership, our capital has almost tripled and deposits have almost doubled. We believe that our commitment to provide personal service will allow us to continue to grow in the future.

Bank of Westbury is here to serve our customers and the communities in which they live. We will provide the personal Banking services as we have for over 70 years.

If you have questions, please contact your branch representative. We wish you and your family a happy Holiday Season and a healthy and prosperous New Year.

Yours truly,

Vito D. Graziano

Hanukkah: Festival Of Lights, Dreidels

Hanukkah is a festive holiday marked by the lighting of the Menorah, beginning with one candle on the first night and adding one each of the eight day holiday.

It is a time to remember when Jews, after being forced out of Jerusalem, returned to Holy City showing they were free people. It is a time to remember when other cultures were enforcing their religious beliefs onto the Jewish culture, but the Jews remained faithful to their own beliefs.

Upon their return to Jerusalem, their joy turned to bitterness as they discovered the Scrolls of the Torah torn. Statues of Greek gods and goddesses had been placed in the Temple.

The Jews cleaned the Temple and on the 25th day in 165 B.C. the Temple was rededicated. With a little flask of oil, the only holy oil they could find amid the destruction, they re-lit the great Menorah.

Exceeding all expectations, the oil miraculously lasted for eight long days. And since that time, Jews have celebrated Hanukkah, which means, "dedication" for eight days each year, in commemoration of the Festival of Lights and the Triumph of Freedom.

While the Jews were held captive they were forbidden to study the Torah. So, in their cells, they secretly and by heart, studied the Torah in groups. If the soldiers approached the group scattered.

Another means they used to secretly study Judaism was in the form of a game—the dreidel game. The dreidel bears the letters Nun, Gimel, Hay, and Shin. These letters are the initials for "Nes Gadol Hayah Sham" which translates into "A Great Miracle Happened There."

When a soldier passed the cells, all they would see were Jews playing an innocent game. Thus the dreidel saved many lives.

Today, the dreidel is a favorite treasure during the Hanukkah season. Children, and adults alike, bring their Hanukkah "gelt" (money) and spin the dreidel. Many families use a favorite candy, like M&Ms, instead of money. All players receive the same amount of playing pieces. The person who collects all the gelt, or candy, wins.

Spin it, and the dreidel tells you how you've done. The Nun, and you take nothing from the pot. Gimel, and you take all. Hay means you get half. Shin tells you to put in half of what is already in the pot.

A CHRISTMAS STORY

(This week, we present the fourth part of our Christmas story and catch up with Billy and his family as they meet Santa Claus. Earlier, they found their way to an enchanted village way up north, met an enchanting man and were asked to go on an adventure. Today, they find out what the adventure is really about.)

He stood by his front door and said very quickly, "Welcome my friends. So nice of you to come - please come into my home - we have much to accomplish and much to fix."

We sat near the fire and Father told us how he had watched Father all these years and knew someday he would need him to help with a big, big problem. He explained to us that Father had raised his children to love all year long and how he knew the true meaning of Christmas: to share with everyone all year long. He said the world needed to learn a lesson and he felt it had to come this year and that if Father couldn't convince all people to love as he did then Christmas, as we knew it, would all but disappear.

Father said to Santa, "But how can I do all this in such a short time? There are only four months until Christmas."

"Open that package hidden under the tree," said Santa to Father, "and you can help me deliver my message all so clear to the many people who live far and near."

I was so excited I helped Father take off the wrapping. "What could Santa be giving you, Father?" I said in a too loud whisper. "It must be the best gift ever in the world."

When the paper was removed, we could see the box that read "V.C.R. Camera."

Dad said, "I don't understand."

Santa smiled and said, "You and your family have been chosen to deliver the message. I brought you here to videotape my message, my good man. No tricks were performed on you; it was you who truly believed in us and you who found us. Anyone who believes can help. Yes, it's magic to fly and it was I who guided your car. You understand that it is because you are a good man not only to your family but to all mankind. You passed the test and of all the people who visit, you were the best."

"Now help us to film this message to take back with you so you can try to convince everyone that Santa is very serious about being good to each other."

Father left with Mr. Below to set to work on the video and I stayed behind with Santa and Mrs. Claus. Santa explained to me how a lot of people who stop at the Inn make fun of the people who work there because they seem different. He said he gets so angry when people don't appreciate all God's creatures. At times, he wants to stop his elves from working so hard all year to bring pleasure to people who might laugh at them because they appear to be different.

"Would you laugh at the elves because they were different?" Santa asked me.

"No Santa," I shouted. Then, I added honestly, "Well, never again!"

"Your dad and Mr. Below will make a fine video and then everyone will understand that when you get along and work as a team, nothing is impossible," Santa recited.

"But Santa," I asked, "what is your message? What's going to be on the video? Will it have rock music? Lots of colored lights like MTV?"

"No, no, Billy," Santa said. "But there will be a bit of NPTV—North Pole television. You see, I'm going to have my reindeer and my nature friends tell my story. Talking animals should get the attention of your friends back home. But the important part is the story and that story is about cooperation, kindness and the spirit of Christmas morning all year long. It's about keeping that happy feeling you have when you wake up Christmas morning and you see the tree all lit up and the pretty presents beneath it in your heart every day of the year. And, it's about keeping that warm feeling of giving with you all the time, too."

Mrs. Claus brought in some hot chocolate which I drank very quickly and without my eyes were closed and I was fast asleep.

As I awoke the door burst open and Father and Mr. Below came in with camera in hand and many video tapes. Santa said, "Mr. Below rush that to the screening room and the elves will put it all together and then my good friends can pass it along to all of the world." Mr. Below ran from the room and Father asked Santa how such an important man got such a name?

Santa told us Mr. Below was an orphan who wandered around aimlessly for years and years. He was very unhappy because people made fun of him because he was small and had no home. As Santa told the story, a tear came to his eye. One Christmas Eve Santa found him curled up against a tree almost frozen to death. He brought him home to the Christmas Village where he and Mrs. Claus nursed him back to health physically but he was still very unhappy about his life that was until the whole village helped to build the inn. It was then that he found the true meaning of friendship and teamwork. The inn was a great success and he named himself Mr. Below to remember that he wasn't better than anyone else even though he was successful and that everyone had a place in his heart.

Mr. Below rushed in and said, "Santa if this doesn't convince everyone that kindness and friendship does work, then I GIVE UP."

Santa handed the tape to Father and said, "Good luck my good friends. Don't forget all that you've seen and convey that message to all those that can be mean - try to remember we can all be taught to love a neighbor even after we've fought. I love you both."

"Billy, that goes for family members too," he said with a wink.

Santa summoned for his sleigh. This bright red shiny sled pulled up with his eight powerful reindeer paused like soldiers and the ninth in the lead with a very bright red nose took off like a flash and my eyes began to close.

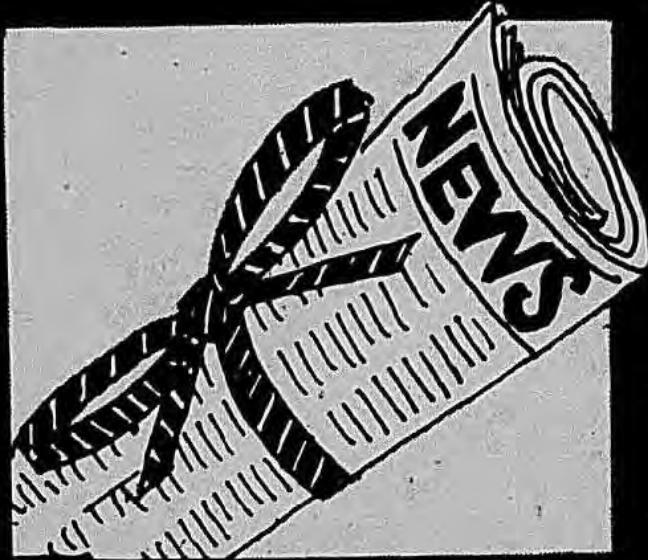

We flew back to the cottage and rejoined Mother and Tyler. Father explained all we had done in the past 24 hours.

When we arrived home, Dad began the long and difficult task of showing everyone the video. His only problem was he could only show it at the house on weekends to a very small group.

"How I am going to do this!" Father asked. "What if I don't get the message to everyone? What if Santa stays angry?"

Dutch Lane's Thanksgiving Celebration

DUTCH LANE students in Mrs. Masterson's third grade class focused on sharing as they each contributed to the feast. Students throughout Dutch Lane School celebrated Thanksgiving on the Wednesday before the holiday. Each class chose their own unique way to honor the occasion. Students feasted, parents visited, and a good time was had by all.

Fire Activity Up

came in at 5:18 a.m. on a fire at a Harkin La. home. The occupants of the house were alerted of the fire by a battery powered smoke detector. The fire was contained to the ceiling beams under a fireplace. Apparently loose mortar allowed hot ashes to fall through to the beams. The fire smoldered for several hours before igniting, according to fire officials.

During the month of November the Hicksville Fire Department responded to 45 fire calls, six hazardous material spills/leaks, and 57 rescue calls; for a total of 108 requests for aid.

now the site of Nassau County Medical Center. The Motor Corps was established with a fleet of 26 vehicles and more than 1,000 volunteers. The volunteers made hospital dressing for war casualties and 66,000 pints of blood were collected.

At this point Mrs. Davison was named Honorary Chairman. The chapter raised more than $23,000 for the War Fund and donated its building to Nassau County Boy Scouts, as a second building was built in Mineola right next door.

In 1950 train wrecks claimed more than 100 lives as the Red Cross responded with aid. The Home Service assisted servicemen and veterans with disability pensions, emergency furloughs and disaster assistance and a blood donor center that is run today by the Long Island Blood Services. The best event of all was that the Red Cross signed an agreement with United Way, and since that agreement the United Way has been the source of 25 percent of the Red Cross budget.

In the 1960s the third Nobel Peace Prize was awarded to the Red Cross and the first teen volunteers were trained to work as hospital aides. The Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Davison Award was established to honor an outstanding volunteer of the year and the Nassau County chapter provided volunteers to staff the Family Court building.

500 firemen battled a fire at the President Hotel in Long Beach and Red Cross volunteers assisted as more than 400 guests were evacuated from the hotel. In 1970 volunteers were called to assist victims of a plane crash at Kennedy Airport and more than 600 servicemen's families a month called the Red Cross for assistance during the final years of the Vietnam war.

In the 1970s a South Shore Service Center opened in Rockville Centre. And volunteers were sent to assist victims of Hurricane Belle and Agnes.

In 1980 Hurricane Gloria devastated Long Island resulting in the chapter house feeding thousands. Fourth Avenue in Mineola is renamed Red Cross Way. A propane truck explodes and 2,000 are forced to evacuate to Red Cross Shelters. AIDS education becomes a chapter priority. Hurricane Hugo and the Northern California Earthquake are disasters that receive immediate attention.

More than 250,000 residents are trained in First Aid and CPR, plus the chapter provides water survival instruction to lifeguards all over the county.

The 1990s arrived and so did the devastating Avianca crash. The chapter provided support to survivors, their families and gave great care. They provided shelter, clothing, transportation, disaster welfare inquiries, hospital visits, translation services, mental health assistance, skill bank and much care and love to all.

The Persian Gulf Crisis resulted in the chapter setting up Voices From Home, Family Support, Groups Skill Bank and emergency communication for families whose sons and daughters, mothers and fathers were called to service.

Holocaust tracing and information programs began in Nassau and more than 200 residents came forward to seek assistance. At the end of August, Hurricane Andrew, which was the worst national disaster to hit the United States since the 1920s resulted in donations being sent from the Nassau Chapter, and shortly after another hurricane hit in New Orleans, donations were also sent to that area, depleting the Nassau Red Cross budget.

The latest program that the Nassau Chapter has embarked upon is the HIV/AIDS Peer Education Program available to teenagers throughout the county. It is currently the only program in the New York/Metropolitan area where teenagers are teaching other teenagers about HIV and AIDS. It is available as an English or bi-lingual presentation. The program is financed through a grant from the AIDS Institute of the New York State Mental Health Department and has been well received by diverse agencies and organizations in Nassau County.

At this time, there are 15 teenagers, who are extensively trained in HIV/AIDS education and three field supervisors prepared to provide HIV/AIDS prevention workshops to groups of teens. All teen peer educators take a 30-hour intensive training course so that they may disseminate AIDS prevention information to other teenagers, one of the most effective forms of education.

Since World AIDS Day, which was held during the first week of December, the Nassau Chapter hopes there will be an increased awareness in the community about the disease. According to Gloria Kruse, Health Services Director, Nassau County Chapter of the Red Cross, "this terrible disease is seeing a sharp rise in cases among 20-year-olds and we are proud to have been working since 1989 with the County Department of Health to develop and deliver an interactive, high quality HIV/AIDS Peer Education program to Nassau teens."

Long Island has the largest number of AIDS cases of all suburban areas in the United States. Recent trends of AIDS diagnoses indicate many had been infected as teenagers. Young people need to receive the message that experimenting with drugs and sex may expose them to HIV infection. They need to develop the skills that will enable them to avoid "high-risk" behavior.

Although the Nassau County Red Cross started in 1917 it has certainly kept abreast of the times and is aware of the newest technologies in all phases of its operation, which at a time of need is a comforting fact to all residents of Nassau. It is comforting to know you can call on the expert services of the Red Cross and its many volunteers and be assured that they would be more than ready and most willing to help.

over 3/4 of the town under water. The Hicksville Fire Department was busy all weekend giving assistance to the Bayville Department with rescue missions.

In Bayville, on Friday, residents were evacuated from their homes and brought to the Bayville Primary School. At the beginning of the school week, families, many still without the use of their homes, were transported to St. Gertrude's Parish Hall. Local shops were providing food for the victims, and the Locust Valley Fire Department started an emergency clothing collection for residents of all ages. (An official report of the Hicksville Fire Department's involvement will be included in next week's edition.)

cashed the ace of spades, and led a low heart towards dummy.

Antunes followed low and dummy won with the king. Declarer now played a spade from dummy, winning the trick with the jack, and then led the five of hearts towards dummy's J-6.

It was at this point that Antunes stopped to ask himself what declarer was doing. By now it was clear that South had five spade tricks whenever he chose to take them, two diamond tricks and also two heart tricks if Antunes followed low on the second round of hearts. (It was virtually certain that South had the queen of hearts, judging from the bidding as well as his method of play.)

Accordingly, Antunes went up with the ace of hearts. He had concluded that the only conceivable way to beat the contract was to attack declarer's only possible weak spot, clubs. Moreover, Antunes also solved the problem of which club to lead by shifting to the jack!

This proved to be the killing play. It didn't matter whether declarer covered the jack with dummy's queen or ducked. Either way, East-West would score four club tricks in succession. But if Antunes had led either the king or five of clubs at trick six, South would have made the contract with correct play in the club suit.

The bidding:

Opening lead — four of diamonds.

You sometimes have to stop in the middle of the play and ask yourself: "What's going on here?" If you don't manifest this kind of curiosity from time to time, you will occasionally miss an opportunity to show everyone that you know what the game is all about.

Consider this deal which Manuel Antunes, Portuguese star, played in the European Championship. He led a diamond against three notrump. South won East's ten with the king,

Mercy League Golf Outing Big Success

The Glen Cove-Hicksville-Syosset League of Mercy Medical Center held another successful annual golf outing from October 5 through 8 at the Sunny Hill Resort.

The weather cooperated, providing for an exciting shot-gun tournament for over 50 golfers. First place honors were awarded to Marie Lustering, Tom Deacy, Marie Sullivan, Lou Detloff, Bunny Casey, and Jerry Connors. Second place was taken by Rita Atchison, Flo Charkowick, Rose Kulfan, Rita Hanifan, Don Buckley, and Jim O'Neill. Bringing up the rear, but nevertheless proud golfers, were Olga Marcin, Flo O'Neill, John Hanifan, Rita Buckley, and Emily Giersberg.

The golfing was fantastic, the food was great, and a good time was had by all.

The Glen Cove-Hicksville-Syosset League of Mercy Medical Center has worked tirelessly since 1941 to raise money for Mercy, a non-profit institution in Rockville Centre. Through fashion shows, cake sales, flea markets, theater and boat trips, and other activities; it has taken the burden of hospital expenses from the shoulders of the hospital and its patients.

LONGEST DRIVE awards go to Florence O'Neill and John Harty at the Mercy Golf Outing. Not pictured are Edith Barnes and Dan Carall, who took Closest To The Pin honors.

Rockets Take Championship

The Hicksville Rockets soccer team moved into Division I of the Long Island Junior Soccer League, boys under 12 red group, and took the championship title.

The Rockets maintained their winning ways from the previous two seasons - Division III first place, Division II first place, and Chase Cup Champions and State Cup semi-finalists - by earning an impressive seven win, one loss, and three tie season in the ever tough Division I.

Despite suffering numerous injuries during the season, this fabulous group of 13 boys played tenaciously throughout their tough schedule. Victories came over Plainview-Old Bethpage (3-1), Bohemia (1-0), Hewlett (3-1), Patchogue-Medford (2-1), Bayside, East Islip (3-0), and HBC (8-0). The Rockets tied Syosset, Bayport, and Deer Park, and had one loss to Hauppauge (4-2).

Rocket team members are goalie Danny Cocchi; defensemen Nick Alfano, John Fiorillo, Eddie Pettie, Adam Sobel, and Hank Zuckerman; midfielders Chris Musinski, Anton Berzins, Michael Tanelia, and Kevin Nolan; and forwards Andrew Berner, David Neves, and Mikey Camarinos. Their head coach is Roman Musinski and the assistant coach is Dean Camarinos.
