

Things, Thoughts and Theories
By Martin W. Littleton
Former District Attorney of Nassau County

DO NOT THINK THAT ANYTHING has brought as many smiles—yes, upon occasion, downright laughter, and as much wonderment and interest to the pedestrians of the City of New York as the terrifying assortment of the headgear which is being worn these days. Some have had creations which look like they were paying off a debt; but don't let that deceive you... they are on the level! If you don't believe it, just let them catch something or laughing and with a step quicken with excitement and content for your ignorance.

IT SEEMS THAT THEY WOULD have to be in a state of contemptuous to wear one of those things; any state of mind would destroy the necessary moral through with the operation successfully. A sad or of expression underneath or alongside of (depending on the model) one of these new hats looks like a genuine of humor and comedy. A happy, smiling expression makes the wearer look like the village idiot. Thus, the only way to wear one of these little numbers with a determined expression of defiance. Yes, that's the answer!

Another thing I notice is that the ladies don't look in a mirror or elevator mirrors as much as they formerly. I guess they are afraid they would burst out laughing or something.

ONLY LAST WEEK I SAW a determined young man walking up lower Broadway; she had a very fetching model shaped alongside of her head. It was in place by a wide velvet ribbon tied under her set. The hat was about as big as a teacup and made of a mesh of pantries, with a few hyacinths interwoven and there. About one foot above it, supported by a side wire, there floated a yellow canary. He had a red circle on his face, and swung back and forth and in circles as if he were looking for a place to light. Looking closer, you could see his mate sitting in the nest just below him. On the whole, it presented a touching picture of a canary's family life.

BIRDS AND FLOWERS ARE THE VOGUE. Canaries, being to what I have seen, would appear to have the most of our feathered friends—though I have seen a few woodpeckers and one or two other birds I cannot identify. I think they were synthetic... but one is certain: a fellow will have to catch up on his bird and botany if these hats are going to mean anything.

THE CANARY IS NO LONGER SAFE in the house, will be sacrificed to costume and convention, if you keep your eye on him. I have a friend who loved the canary, and one day he found him missing. The while he saw him, the canary was presiding over his hat. His cherry note had been stifled in a cotton-wool of cotton. His golden wings were stretched out in a semblance of flight, which during his lifetime he never been able to undertake; instead of the deep, black eyes with which he had been endowed by his creator, he gazed forth through a pair of slightly crossed eyes.

If you think a good job can be done with a canary, might to see what can be done with a pair of green tights, one agate door knob, and an old fig basket, you set and draped with mosquito netting, it will be your heart's content!

SOME OF THESE HATS ARE DANGEROUS to wear. They were very badly clawed up by a cat while she was lying alongside of a high board fence, from which the bird to grab the sparrow she had floating over her head.

Another lady was nearly drowned by some workmen wading across the sea passed by below; wearing one of these little cupid models. And yet, another lady bit with some B. B. shot because a couple of kids who were stalking a crow from behind a privet.

Yes, it is very risky, and may be the cause of making new law. Legally, I think the wearer assumes responsibility.

FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE LADIES, may I tell them that I have already had about everything said about this week's column that they can think of by any annoyed wife and two adult daughters.

To Honor Poet Lauds News Popularity Knapp As Poems Enter Competition Speaker

Thomas Guilfoyle, former postman at the Jones Institute at West John street, Hicksville, and now a private resident of Hicksville at 4 Charles street enjoying his old age security received a letter from the Caravan Publishing company of New York which reads:

"We would be pleased to welcome you as a contributor to our annual anthology, 'The Caravan of Verse,' which is being published in the month of May, 1938, which appeared in the Central News recently. Your poem has been considered for one of the prizes we are offering to poets in our volume of features. American poetry. Prizes will consist of $25 for first prize, $15 and $10 awarded to second and third winners respectively. We would likewise be pleased to review and consider for publication any original poetry you may like to submit."

"I am delighted," said Guilfoyle, "to know that the Centre Island News is such a popular newspaper. I have sent poems to them for the last 5 years. I am postman at the Jones Institute. My cherished recollection," he continued, "is that the late Andrew B. Heberer Sr. of Hicksville spent all Sunday afternoon wishing to meet me. He had the superintendent of the building in hand for my poetry and I was notified by the superintendent to be on hand the following Sunday. But in the meantime the jurist had passed away, peace to his ashes."

"Such is the public's value of verse through their local newspaper, the Centre Island News."

SPRING TIME IN HICKSVILLE

These smiling days, these cheerful days, these days of welcome Spring; The farm folks are all busy now In the fields and everything; The farm hands and the prancing team.

The farmers joyful stride All day long behind the plow Shows Hicksville's age-old pride: Life on the farm.

Boss Nostrand on the platter, Phil Lehart with the team; John Rugen cutting potatoes up In their chunks for seed. Everybody smiling, kept busy With rake and hoe; Jim Kane Sticks to the garden where the berries and currents grow.

I love to stroll around the Jones Institute farm To see farm work done fine; The farm hands there immigrated from Most every land and clime; each one Has his fad and fancy thing, Their foreign modes will do, 'til Boss Nostrand instructs Them in the American way there that farm.

They must persevere to work on that farm In Hicksville.

Tom Guilfoyle.

Town Beaches Getting Ready

Township Prepares for Biggest Season As Far as Attendances and Revenue Go At Key Waterfront Resorts on Sound and Ocean; New Comfort Stations Erected

Oyster Bay township is prepared for the biggest year in the history of its beaches this season as far as attendances and revenue for the town is concerned, it was disclosed today. Extensive development of beach property, including the erection of modern comfort stations and refreshment stands and the awarding of concessions on the big plan, mark the beachfront program of the town fathers this year.

To Speak Here

COL. E. M. PODEYEV, Nassau county assessor, will be guest speaker at a public meeting of the Hicksville Chamber of Commerce in the Hicksville high school on Wednesday night, May 4. It was announced today by Dr. Elwood A. Curtis, president of the Chamber and other organizations in the surrounding sections have been invited by the Chamber to attend the session and hear Col. Podyev.

Interest in Beach Property

Probably spurred to increased interest in beach property as a source of town revenue by the activities of the Non-Partisan Beach committee which has already filed a comprehensive nine-point program for beach management, the town board this year increased its appropriation for Beaches and pavilions in 1937 to budgeted from $5,000.00 to $10,000.00 this year. This is a gain of $5,000.00. Broken down this $10,000.00 appropriation amounts to $10,000.00 for salary of caretakers, life guards, etc., $1,000.00 for light, insurance, etc., and $3,000.00 for building, repairs, fence, etc.

Already the construction of new comfort stations and refreshment stands at Centre Island and Stables' beaches are nearing completion and work will probably be furnished by the time the swimming season opens.

At Tobay Beach the buildings are being repaired and the parking area marked to accommodate a larger number of cars.

Rooney Busy at Tobay

Frank Rooney caretaker at Tobay Beach police officer at Tobay Beach, is very busy these days preparing the town's oceanfront beach for the seasonal rush. Last year the revenue from this beach more than doubled that of previous years.

The town board is also preparing the 1938 edition of special "OB" stickers for windshields of town residents. These stickers entitle them to certain entrance and privileges at their own beaches.

The third sanctuary at Tobay beach, adjacent to Jones Beach State Park, is being prepared for the summer and fall months as conservationists and town civic league bulletins make changes. It appears to be in good condition a year by the Centre Island News reporter disclosed this week.

Builds Fire Trail

Mr. Rooney has constructed a private road through a sand dune ridge to the Tobay parking field which facilitates trips between the two spots and eases the feeding of many times necessary to cover his area as special officer. The road was built through swamp lands and thick brush and cut down the distance between the sanctuary and the beach by a full mile.

The road also allowed him to patrol a thickly brush infested tract of land and keep watch for fires and hunters. The entire area has been posted against trespassing and hunting.

Mr. Rooney also told the News that he had seen two birds at the sanctuary in conducted regularly.

Road Locates Beach 'Gypsies'

Frank Rooney Finds Quartet Who Lived for Three Years in Sand Dunes at Tobay

Four Manhattan dwellers who for the past three years have lived at various intervals, a gypsy existence in the heart of the Town of Oyster Bay's two miles of oceanfront property at Jones Beach are gone today, according to Frank Rooney, town beach caretaker and special police officer.

Ever in a road through nearly impassable swamp and brush thickets.

Mr. Rooney, utilizing an old cart with a home-constructed dump body, and sand cart, constructed a road from Tobay beach parking field to the edge of the town's bird sanctuary to save a mile distance in his daily patrols from the one place to the other.

Notifies Flames in Dunes

One night last week he was riding the road when he noticed flames of fire shooting skyward from behind a sand dune. Investigation disclosed four elderly men sitting in bathing trunks seated around a fire in wind-bolstered sand dune preparing supper. After notifying them that they were camping without permit on town property and that they were building a fire in a wooded area, he chased them from the scene with a warning not to return.

For the past three years, the quartet told Officer Rooney, they had been coming out to the campsite over weekends and during vacations and were a threat to the probable owners of the property. They made the trips to Jones Beach from New York by taxi cab and paid off the driver along Ocean boulevard with instructions to return on a certain day.

Hidden From Highway

In the wooded spot, hidden from view in all directions by high sand embankments and brush, they set up table, benches, clothes racks, fire place and even rigged up a pump for drinking water. Behind a small hill, Mr. Rooney uncovered a huge heap of discarded beer cans and liquor bottles.

"They certainly were roughin' it in style," he said today. "I would never have found their hide out if I hadn't built that road through the brush."

A Brief Meditation

Suggested by the Rev. L. S. Luisa, pastor of Holy Trinity Episcopal church, Hicksville.

THE JOY OF BELIEVING

Read I Thessalonians 1 — Our Gospel came not unto you in only, but also in power, and in the Holy Ghost, and in much assurance; as ye know what manner of man we were among you for your sake. (And ye became imitators of us, and of the Lord, because ye received the word in much affliction, with joy of the Holy Ghost.)

MANY think and say that religion is a dull thing. They say that, do not know the Kingdom. They are talking about something else.

It is true that to enter the Kingdom is like taking a step into the dark. But you have hold of your Father's hand. A step into the dark, and then a step of freedom out into the light! At once you know the difference. You say, "Why did I take this step long ago?" It is like learning to swim or jump to fly.

This new freedom, what is it? Freedom from your old, old, old self. You don't want your own obsolete way now. You want God's way. "His service is perfect freedom." The result is joy. Of course, it is always possible to slip back into the old life; but would you do that? "Your heart shall rejoice, and joy no man taketh from you."

Oyster Bay Driver Faces Grand Jury After Crash Here

Thomas I. Smith of 16 Irving place, Oyster Bay, is at the county detention cell at Mineola today awaiting action of the county Grand Jury on the charge of driving while intoxicated. Arraigned in Oyster Bay district court before Judge Albert C. Moore he pleaded not guilty to the charge. He was arrested on East Marie street, Hicksville, by Patrolman Edward Pitt the second, present en route at Syonest. Police say his car was involved in an accident with a parked car owned by John J. O'Brien of Oyster Bay. Smith was taken to Dr. Oscar E. Heller of East Marie street for examination. No one was injured in the collision.

PUZZLE FOR HISTORIANS

On the great Arch of Augustus at Rimini, Italy, is carved the date "B. C. 271." The only question is, how did the men of that time know that the birth of Christ would occur in exactly 271 years?

Now It's the "Thermos Bottle" House

PEOPLE in the building industry around New York are writhing in their brows over a new type of brick wall that has just been developed by the Brick Manufacturers Assn. of New York. The favored brows are caused by the simplicity of the construction and the ease with which it can be built. It is known as the "Thermos Bottle" house, and is a new type of building.

Briefly, as described in the Brick Association bulletin, it consists of two 4 inch walls of brick separated by a 2 inch air space and tied together with rigid steel ties. Unlike other hollow construction, this air space is complete and uninterrupted all around the house from top to bottom. The only contact between the two walls is formed by small steel ties. In reality it is a house with a house, and like a thermos bottle with an air space between the two shells.

But, better, it is a house of concrete floor, with the usual lack of painting and upkeep costs. This is not a new type of construction, but a new type of construction with the usual lack of painting and upkeep costs. This is not a new type of construction, but a new type of construction with the usual lack of painting and upkeep costs.

House Within a House Skeleton View of a Brick Cavity Wall house. Note the complete separation of the two walls. The thermos bottle method gives real protection against cold, hot sun, dampness and noise, and eliminates lathing so that cost is lower. Those interested may obtain a free illustrated folder, with specifications and illustrations, from the Brick Manufacturers Assn., 116 Grand Central Terminal, New York City.
