WHO WROTE IT?

"St. Louis Blues"
I had to see—
BORN in Florence, Alabama, son of a Methodist minister, he turned early to "wordy" music. While serving parole and while a fish frame earned money on the levee and the cotton fields.

But his ears were always open to music, and the tunes of the negro workers took form in his mind on a greater scale, but as a composer. Twenty-five years ago, he sat on a bale of cotton on a Mississippi bank and with a fish pencil wrote on a clear box the melody which has earned him unbridled fame. He published himself, and after a hard struggle sold a hundred thousand copies. Through compass did not first record the song, thinking it would die. He wrote among other hits, "Memphis Blues" and "Beale Street Blues."
He enjoys a dual membership in the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, as a composer and as a publisher.
His name is
William Christopher Handy

FRANCES CHANEY

Miss Chaney, pliant CBS actress who appears on the Columbia "Workshop," a "Merican at Work," "Gang Busters" and numerous other shows, is a veteran trouper, despite her youth. Born in Russia, she made a sensation at the tender age of three when she read a poem at an audition in the Children's Theatre at Odessa. She was 33 good the judges insisted on two more readings. Studies at an English school in Constantinople followed her "debut," and then Miss Chaney was brought over to America by her parents. After two years of work at dramatic school under Laura Elliott, teacher of Katharine Cornell, she appeared on the stage in "Marching Song," "Behind the Red Lights" and "Awake and Sing," and now the hills many acting roles in major road shows.

Saving Vegetables

By Arthur J. Pratt

Some vegetables may be kept in better condition and with less cost by storage than by canning. Certain other vegetables, however, do not keep well in common storage and should be canned. The following list gives the crops kept most economically by each method:

Canning: snap bean, beet, Brussels sprouts, cabbage, cauliflower, "Chinese" cabbage, corn-salad, onions, parsnips, potatoes, pumpkins, squash, green beans, green peas, green corn, and tomatoes.

Storage: dry bean, beet, Brussels sprouts, cabbage, cauliflower, corn, green beans, green peas, green corn, and tomatoes.

Canning: snap bean, beet, cabbage for kraut (usually made and kept in crocks or barrels), peas, spinach and leaf greens, sweet corn, and tomatoes.

The commonest and most convenient storage is especially appreciated when the snow is deep outside and the temperature below zero. The cellar with no furnace serves as an ideal winter storage place for vegetables that require cool and moist conditions. Crops that require dry storage can be kept in the attic or in the cellar equipped with a furnace providing a special storage room is built.

The barn basement is often a good substitute for the house cellar. Other types of storage basements and the storage of crops in the open air.

WORLD FAMOUS SOPRANO PREFERES SIMPLEST FOODS

By Millicent Hill

Little Lehmann, one of the greatest of living sopranos has found time to take a truly scientific interest in cooking. Like so many artists whose livelihood depends upon their health she has trained herself and her family to enjoy simple foods which provide the elements of nutrition necessary to keep them well and energetic.

Mrs. Lehmann's Cauliflower Soup and Milk Scrup with eggs are stand-bys and she can make them in almost no time at all. She is an enthusiastic cook and no novice in that art either. Of course she goes in for a glorified dessert on special occasions and produces a Chocolate Marshmallow Cream that is very popular.

Here are her recipes:

Cauliflower and Milk Soup
1 medium-size head cauliflower
2 glasses of water
2 glasses of milk
Reveal head of cauliflower into small pieces. Boil cauliflower in salt water until tender. Add milk and season with pepper to taste.

Milk Scrup With Egg Drops
Egg Drops 2 eggs
pinch of salt
cup water (scant)
flour (enough to make light mixture)

Disaster Call Nets $10,000 For Red Cross

"The spontaneous and generous response of the people of Nassau county to the disaster call of the Red Cross in eight days has brought more than $10,000 to the vital Red Cross program for relief and rehabilitation of hurricane sufferers and the end is not yet." So said Mrs. Henry P. Davidson, chairman of the Nassau County Chapter of the Red Cross, as she reported to the weekly meeting of the Red Cross on Monday night to relieve the desolate and endangered victims of the storm.

Reach Local Quota

Soon after the local chapter wired National Headquarters that it had reached its quota there came a reply from William H. Davis, national chairman, urging continued effort in the face of new problems as further relief needs are reported.

Mrs. Davidson expressed gratitude to the people of the county both as spokesmen for the nationwide campaign and as leaders of activities here for their aid in the emergency. "Especially in view of the fact that the regular annual Red Cross Campaign, of which all of the year-round program is dependent is scheduled to begin November 11," Mrs. Davidson said.

District Roll Call chairman met Wednesday at the Howard Johnson restaurant in Mineola to make first plans for the coming Roll Call which will be directed by Mrs. Frank E. Brown. Mrs. Davidson presided at the luncheon meeting which was attended by more than 60 women from all parts of the county.

RED CROSS SPEEDS AID FOR STORM SUFFERERS

Fresh liquid whey may be used in place of water of milk in making bread, rolls, biscuits, muffins or griddle cakes.

POPPER
Mix eggs with water and flour, salt and pepper. Drop mixture from spoon into boiling water. Boil for five minutes. Add 3 glasses milk.

Chocolate Marshmallow Cream
1 envelope plain unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
2 cups milk, scalded
1/2 cup sugar
4 teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks
1/2 cup cocoa
1/2 cup cream, whipped
2 egg whites
1 teaspoon vanilla
cup marshmallows, cut in 1/2 inch pieces.

Beat yolk, add sugar and salt. Add scalded milk and cocoa and stir until bubble until of custard consistency, stirring constantly. Soften gelatin in cold water and add to hot custard mixture. Stir until gelatin is thoroughly dissolved. Cool, and fold in whipped cream, stiffly beaten whites and the marshmallows. Turn into mold, cover tightly and pack in equal parts of ice and salt or turn into top of mechanical refrigerator. For the latter, stir several times during first part of freezing until mushy then freeze solid.

Express Thanks To Youth For Aid In Rehabilitation

"Village, town, county, and state park officials throughout Long Island have expressed their appreciation to the members of over 200 young men and women of the National Youth Administration assigned to rehabilitation work in the Nassau County district. Supervisor, announced Friday.

These out-of-school, unemployed youth, between the ages of 18 and 21, have been working up to 4 hours a day in Westhampton, Quogue, Sag Harbor, East Hampton, and Montauk Village. The young men have been clearing and burning wreckage, searching for bodies, recovering valuables and personal belongings, and salvaging furniture and lumber. In some areas, youths have assisted in the removal of large trees, so that power and telephone lines could be restored. Others installed and covered exposed cesspools and sewer lines.

A number of young women are assisting in food kitchens, doing repairs, and American Red Cross branch offices.

Monday, an additional $0 youth group have been cleared. Others installed and covered exposed cesspools and sewer lines.

During the period of the rehabilitation program, temporary headquarters have been established at Quogue, through the courtesy of the village officials.

THE HURRICANE

and your telephone service

A statement by James L. Kilpatrick, President of the New York Telephone Company

We wish to acknowledge the splendid cooperation and forbearance of the telephone-using public during the anxious days following the hurricane and flood. Your understanding of the difficulties that confronted us, at a time when you needed most the service that we could not give, has been an encouragement and an inspiration.

More than 50,000 telephones were put out of service in the territory served by the New York Telephone Company, about 18,000 in New Jersey and more than 300,000 in New England. To meet the extraordinary situation, an army of telephone men and women worked tirelessly to maintain such service as could be given with the facilities still operating, as the task of restoration was undertaken.

Extra repair crews from other telephone companies have been sent to the stricken areas. These crews, totaling more than 1,500 men, have come from as far south as Virginia and from as far west as Illinois, and have brought with them 425 fully equipped trucks. During the days of abnormally high traffic, the operating force also was augmented by operators sent in from other companies and by former operators who, in great numbers, volunteered their services.

The Western Electric Company has supplied and distributed the largest volume of emergency materials ever requested of it, but even with the materials at hand, restoration of service has been rendered extremely difficult, mainly because of interrupted rail transportation, washed-out highways and the necessity for clearing away fallen trees and other debris.

Rapid progress is being made, and it is expected that within a few days service will be normal, although it will take weeks, in some cases months, to replace quickly-made repairs and rebuild in permanent form.

To all subscribers whose service was interrupted, we express our sincere regret. As is our practice, we are arranging credit for the days the telephones were out of service. We appreciate fully the fact that the inconvenience experienced was more important than the amount to be credited.

The telephone men and women working in the devastated regions, to many of whose families the hurricane brought suffering, even fatal tragedy, have once again upheld the best traditions of the Bell System. We take this opportunity to express to them the appreciation and thanks of our whole organization.

FRANCE. The public finances of all nations have two things in common. These are: (1) steadily increasing expenditure on armaments, and (2) steadily increasing expenditure on social welfare. The growth of both of these purposes has been the outstanding fact in the financial history of every country in the last half-century. It is no exaggeration to say that every national budget is today loaded by the burden of armaments plus that of social welfare. And it is correct to say that in the welfare category a steadily increasing importance must be assigned to the measures for various kinds of relief and assistance to individuals and economic groups that only require no state help.

Our thinking about these two main categories (armaments and welfare) has been profoundly affected. We have usually judged each by itself apart from the other, and we have been slow to regard the expenditure as an indication of social advance. In fact, the more of the fitness of candidates for public office in their attitude toward larger public expenditures. They are "protective" only in so far as they are "liberal," and unfortunately the liberal has come to have almost exclusively a financial connotation. A man is liberal only if he favors free and lavish spending, only for relief purposes.

When the whole subject is considered without an underlying connection is perceived that a steady increase of wasteful armaments expenditure is an important factor in creating these conditions which make large relief expenditures necessary. It is not the mere cause, but its contributory influence is greater than is commonly supposed.

Any kind of wasteful activity would produce the same result, but war and the preparation for war are the outstanding case of conspicuous public waste. The present condition was produced, in great measure, first, by the pre-war armaments race; second, by the terrible destruction of wealth during the war; and third, by the massive international disputes are such as must be solved for social relief become more apparent and more urgent. Surely the connection is more than accidental.

Armament production ceases for the time an appearance of prosperity, but it is only temporary. Like every lesser form of waste the manufacture of wealth and of the productive forces. All such activity leads into a blind alley—it cannot add to the national capacity for the continuous production of a larger social income. On the contrary, it leads eventually to a smaller social income. It follows, therefore, that the greater the waste of the human and material resources a nation devotes to the creation of social income, the smaller will be the essential standard of living, and the lower its capacity for social advance.

The solution is obvious. The prevention of its recurrence is the work of great importance. It is the work of great importance. It is the work of great importance. It is the work of great importance.

Storm Cost Telephone Co. $900,000

About $900,000 will be the cost of restoring storm-damaged telephone plants throughout New York State, according to present estimates of the New York Telephone Company.

$650,000 for Nassau-Suffolk
 Of this amount, $650,000 is for damage in Nassau and Suffolk counties, the area most severely stricken. The cost for Brooklyn, Queens and Staten Island is estimated at around $75,000; for Westchester and Rockland counties, $100,000, and for upstate, $75,000.

New equipment for replacements throughout the State includes 900 telephone poles, 18 car lines and several carjacks of miscellaneous poleline hardware such as metal pole steps cable terminals, anchors and clamps for guy wires and cable rings. More than 30 miles of various sized cable together with over 200,000 feet of messenger wire and 100,000 feet of lead wire are to be supported between poles, will be required in Long Island alone. Indications of the great damage in the upstate areas are the 4,000,000 feet of the new drop wire for connections between pole lines and buildings.

About 50,000 telephones in the State went out of service because of the storm, and early this week there were many in Suffolk county, for which the service has been restored because of the tremendous job of restoring wires and poles.

Thomas Dewey to Press Fight Against Crime as Governor

down dressing for what is in part, at least, a thoroughly corrupt machine. The objectives of reform are being met, but the machine is being dismantled and before the people by an organization whose sole purpose was politics for profit.

Repeatedly enthusiastic delegates interrupted their candidate's remarks with cheers and yells of approval, as they expressed their gratification at finding Dewey in the fight they had always thought him to be. They seemed exceptionally pleased at hearing for themselves that he would pull no punches in his campaign and that he was losing no time in getting underway.

Teachers Mark 93rd Anniversary At Session Today

All the teachers of Nassau and Suffolk counties, about 4,000 in number, are expecting to assemble at Hempstead station, in celebration of the 93rd anniversary of the New York State Teachers' association. The association is divided into ten zones in the state and Nassau and Suffolk counties make up the Long Island zone. The president of the Long Island zone is Howard T. Herber, superintendent of schools, Malverne, who will have general charge of the meeting.

Our Readers Say

To the Editor:
 As one who has been especially intimate with every aspect of the political career of Mr. Harry Hall since its inception, I am naturally delighted with the enthusiastic unanimity expressed through the newspapers and otherwise favoring his nomination for Representative of the First New York Congressional District. I may go even a little farther and claim that strong support of his candidacy from the Democratic leadership will not be lacking on Election Day.

Quite properly, I think, strong journalistic emphasis has been laid on his peculiar fitness for this important position by reason of his fortuitous experiences in the preparation of school, Malverne, who will have general charge of the meeting.

Teachers to Stage Revolver Shoot Tomorrow

The regular Annual meet of the Nassau-Suffolk Teachers' Association, sponsored by the Nassau-Suffolk Teachers' Association, originally scheduled to be held Saturday, September 24, was postponed due to the numerous necessitated extensions of the shooting range.

The Shoot will be held at the "Troop 31" Outdoor Park located at Wyandanch, Suffolk county, Saturday, October 8, from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M.

All arrangements as previously scheduled will be followed in the Shoot. It is open only to members of Police Departments, Nassau and Suffolk counties, and a special event is included for members of the Shooting Teams of Nassau and Suffolk counties.

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY . . . 8 A. M. TO 9 P. M.

HOW DOES HE DO IT?

IT'S "SMALL CHANGE" THAT BUILT THE WOOLWORTH BUILDING!

WHY PAY MORE?

If you've got the idea that the pennies and nickels and dimes you save at King Kullen are just "Small Change" hardly worth the saving, think again! Some of America's greatest fortunes were built on nickels and dimes — and over a hundred thousand families right here in Long Island enjoy a better standard of living, a serene sense of security and a beautifully balanced budget—all due to the pennies and nickels and dimes saved through the famous King Kullen System—The System that practically guarantees the world's lowest prices—on EVERYTHING!
