THE MID-ISLAND TIMES

Thinking It Over

by Robert L Morgan

This is our last column before the school elections of this year.

We have very closely watched one of the hottest school board campaigns in years, shape up. We have heard charges and counter charges. But now have heard charges and counter charges. But now that it is time to vote, very little shapes up firmly. The incumbents have not done a very good job in many ways. They have continued the secret meetings in Hicksville, they take advice from minor employees on things they should be de-ciding themselves and they have come up with a budget that seems to be only palatable to the teachers of Hicksvilles

But in the other corners we see little hope. The two other shates in the election are running on group issues and whatever the leader of the group says is alright with them. Some of the contenders on these slates appear to be good potential school board members but it is still a shot in the dark to elect them on campaigns that are supervised

When it comes to selecting candidates, this col-umn can give no concrete advice. But regarding the school budget, it seems necessary to us that it be turned down this year. As much as three months ago this newspaper carried information about the overpadded budget carried information about the overpadded budget and as much as three months ago the present school board saw fit to ignore this information or write it off as the work of a member of the board who was out of grace with the other members. We do not feel that the budget should be chopped haphazardly, and even that all teachers increases should be eliminated, but we do believe that the school board should listen to suggestions and cut out excess spending from the budget. Since it did not do this the voters should do so on May 8 by turning down the budget.

My Opinion

By William A. Bruno, Jr., member Hicksville School Board

By william Bruno, ...

Member: Hicksville Board of Education

Our laws prohibit the creation, or maintenance, of a "conflict of interest" in positions held by government officials. This is for the basic protection of the public.

of the public. In this School District, the publisher of one of the local weeklies is the District Cle.k. He gets a salary for services performed as such. As publisher, he has also received, and anticipates continuing to re-cedve, extensive and highly renumerative payments for advertisements inserted in his paper by our District School and Library Boards. Because he is not a plaster snint, human nature being as it is, it is impossible for him as publisher - clerk, to view the problems facing our District objectively. Be-cause of his personal interest in the outcome of District elections, he cannot consider the qualificacause of his personal interest in the outcome of District elections, he cannot consider the qualifica-tions and capacities of candidates for District office EXCEPT in the light of his personal interests, and as such interests call for his re-appointment to the office of District Clerk, by Board Members who support him, so that he may reap a continuation of his past gains. In 1956-57 then School Attorney Harry H. Goebel ruled that the continued insertion of paid District advertisements in the District Clerk's newspaper, as long as he remained as such, was improper and illegal. That ruling has full validity and importance today.

The prohibition against the existence of a conflict The prohibition against the existence of a conflict of interest, in the case of a newspaper publisher acting as a District Clerk, is based upon the follow-ing reasoning: 1) It is to prevent the suppression of news. 2) It is to assure the dessemination to the public of news without slant. 3) So far as possible it is to preclude any personal interest in the out come of elections in which the identities of the in-dividual candidates can be the direct concern of the District Clerk, or made not to appear as such.

This District Clerk saw fit to contend that figures were deliberately distorted and mislead the public with regard to the 1963-64 District budget. Signifi-cantly, he omitted to analyze in any way the manner in which the various proposed budget decreases are unjustified, or cannot be accomplished. For in-stance, he says nothing about my attempt to have deleted from the budget a n item calling for the furnishing of a station wagon to the District Super-intendent for his use about the District. He made no reference to the fact that the Administration Build-ing is the Superintendent's primary place of operaing is the Superintendent's primary place of opera-tions, or that, when he infrequently rides his own car, on district business, he is entitled to be reimbursed therefor.

Imbursed therefor. Further, our Clerk, even though his office is supposed to be "non-political", sees fit to move into the political arena. He has arbitrarily endorsed the present members of the Board, up for re-election, without first having even attempted to analyze the respective candidates, their backgrounds, their cap-acitles, or their views. He does the District a dis-service when he attempts to "muddy" the stream of honest apuroach to the election. He does a disservice honest approach to the election. He does a disservice when he seeks to characterize one set of candidates as super-liberal and another as super-conservative.

"Labels", are poor excuses for intelligent and sin-cere analyses of whether one man may, or can, do a better job than another for the welfare of the District.

better job than another for the welfare of the District. It is more than a co-incidence that before be was District Clerk, he urged open critcism of the opera-tion of our local School System. Now as District Clerk - publisher, he closes his eyes to that criticism. This, he does, because the present Board has abdicated its duty, and obligation to review the administration of the system and ac-cepts on blind faith, the recommendations of the School Administrator without criticism. Thus the Clerk echoes their position so that he may be re-appointed as Clerk. re-appointed as Clerk

Before he was District Clerk, his editorials in-cluded the then and still pertinent question, the answer to which he then urged to be resolved in the affirmative:

"Shall we blindly accept the utterance of a small but well-organized group of professionals who feel that the more utterance of the magic word "educa-tion" is sufficient to warrant blind allegiance and servitude, regardless of how fantastic or impractical the proposal may be even upon minor study; or Shall we continue, as we have for more than half a century, the management of the school district in the hands of serious, public-spirited people, who can honestly appraise the problems of the school'sys-tem in terms of what is fair, just, equitable and reasonable?" "Shall we blindly accept the utterance of a small reasonable?"

reasonable?" In the same editorial (April 26, 1956) in then rec-commending certain candidates, he stated: "they know the value of a dollar and they know the importance of a good educational system. Let's cut out the nonsense and get down to business --the business of providing education for our boys and girls, remaining at all times aware of the re-sponsibility to home owners of the community." The present incumbents, by their failure to keep the School Budget from mounting at anoroximately

The present incumbents, by their failure to keep the School Budget from mounting at approximately $1,000,000, per year, have not fulfilled his conditions that good Board members seek to protect the in-terests of the taxpayers. The budget for 1956-57 was just a little over $5,000,000. The projected budget for 1963-64 is not quite $11,000,000. At this rate, what are we to expect in the next few years? Candidates HARRY WAGNER, FRANCIS HESTER, and GEORGE MARTIN are pledged to economy. Those who know them, know they wear no man's collar. They will not be rubber stamps for any-body or for any pressure group. I would like to work with them. I believe they will be able to help the District. I believe, further, that they will be able to safeguard the interests of education in the Dist-rict and at the same time, do so in the taxpayera' interests. interests.

Beware of any attempts between now and the election through the district clerk's paper to make further charges to which no opportunity to answer is afforded.

It is time that the conflict of interests be erased from our district.

No Ceiling Seen On Hicksville School Tax

By Edward J. Van Allen

llicksville taxpayers face the glum prospect of a Hicksville taxpayers face the glum prospect of a tax rise in 1964-65 on top of the proposed tax hike of 58 cents for 1963-64, to be voted on May 8. That the tax rate will continue to skyrocket was made abundantly clear at a PTA Council "meet the candidates" night Monday when incumbent Trustees Jerome Zettler and Neil McCormack in effect con-firmed a report in the April 25 Mid-Island Times that a $2 million classroom building program is in contemplation. contemplation.

But it appeared that tuil details of the program will be withheld until after the election since neither trustees would vouchsafe complete information on

During a meeting mark-ed by charges and countercharges, sparked by a bit of name-calling, the audience of about 500 heard what was probably the fullest discussion of campaign issues in any local School Durans.

Irving Lawrence, who said his children attend the St. Ignatius Confraternity, continued his campaign to link economy campaign to link economy candidates Harry Wag-ner, Frank Hester, and Martin with George Martin with School Trustee William A. Bruno, Jr. by calling the trio the "three Brunos."

Lawrence attacked Zettler and Trustee Herbert Johnson for failing to show "responsibility" and "leadership" in solv-ing the district's "overcrowding problem," as he put it.

But rather significantly, Lawrence did no. Mtack Nell McCormack, Zettler's and Johnson's running mate, on the same grounds, giving credence to reports that the TEACH group backing Lawrence also is secretly backing McCormack.

Herbert Johnsen attacked L'awrence and his running mate, TEACH can-didate Herbert Malamud, as belonging to an "ul-tra-liberal group." The economy slate, on the other hand, he tabbed "ultra-conservative."

Malamud in effect joined hands with the economy candidates in calling for something to be done to cut the drop-out rate in the district, which he said was about 11 percent last year. He proposed training some potential drop-outs in vocational schools in other districts in return for taking some of their students. (Clarke High School in East Meadow, a combination voca-tional-academic school accepts out-of-district students.) Calling for the return of a non-sectarian prayer, George Martin challenged the TEACH candidates to publicly announce where they stand on the issue. He also accused the incumbents of showing a "lack of backbone" in failing to appeal the Com-missioner of Education's decision outlawing a por-tion of the National Anthem as a substitute for the Regents Prayer in the Hicksville schools.

Condemning "unauthorlzed" psycholgoical test-ing of school children, Martin re-aired charges Martin re-aired charges heard last year that Hicksville school child-ren have been used as "guinea pigs." He cited a letter to School Super-intendent Donald A bt, quoted in the May-June Newsletter of the Nassau Developed cal A sep Psychological Assn., which said: "As you know we have used the Hicksville schools as a train-ing resource for our school psychology train-ees at Adelphi."

Martin said the overcrowding problem at the junior high school could be solved by moving more temporary classrooms to that school.

All three economy can-didates were critical of the 29.73 percent math-failure rate in the Hicksville High School last year. McCormack attri-buted the high failure rate to the fact that any student wanting to take the subject may take it even if the guidance department thinks he's not qualified. The incombent also said that the failure rate in the district is 10 percent below the state average. He said a news release on the subject will be forthcoming in the next "few days,"

(Superintendent Abt has tacitly refused to answer a letter written to him by this reporter asking for an explanation of the math failure rate, how many teachers without degrees teach in the district, and various other questions.)

The impression that an austerity budget looms if voters knock down the voters knock down the Sil million budget May 8 was again given wide cur-rency. But several of the candidates conceded that the budget could be resubmitted to the people in the same or in a pareddown form before any austerity budget is adopted.

In the question-andanswer period, Hester was asked how he would "augment the teaching of American patriotism already being practiced in school." He replied that of 45 history textbooks reviewed, only one makes mention of Nathan Hale's immortal quote: "I have but one life to give for my country." He said the books are similarly bar-ren of famous quotations by other American patri-ots, like Patrick Henry's, "Give me liberty or give me death," etc.

When Hester was asked when nestor was access what "qualifications" he has with respect to the "selection of textbooks," he answered that the law qualifies school board members to "prescribe" courses of study and textbooks.

During his talk, McCor-mack said: "Our delinquency in this area I think we are proud of. We don't have any. Well, we are practically nil, as far as that is concerned." Askthat is concerned." Ask-ed later to account for vandalism of school prop-erty, he answered:"...I didn't say we don't have any. I said we have very little, if I remember correctly." Wagner cited a report to show that in 1962 the district had 646 instruc-tors for 13.293 students tors for 13,293 students an average of about one an average of arout on teacher for every 20 stud-ents. He charged that the district is now hiring one new teacher for every nine additional students. In answer to a question on economy, Hester said he would cut "padded ex-penses" and "frills" out of the budget. Asked whether he would repudiate a newspaper story about proposed high and elementary school construction, McCormack said flatiy; "I'll refute it, it's a lie."

He said that after a public announcement is made on the proposed construction, school architects Knappe and Johnson will he asked "to get things tion, rolling."

Two documents in the possession of this newspaper, however, show that Knappe and Johnson have already submitted estimated cost figures on the construction to the tune of almost $2 million.

Just this week the Hicks-ville Committee for Honin Public Education esty esty in Proparation a code of ethics demanding more forthrightness on the part of the School Board among other things.

Library Board candi-dates Ernest McClain condemned book censor-ship. as "contemptible." Asked what he thinks about "The Last Temp-tation of Christ," a book under attack as "anti-Christian," McClain said when a book is attacked "I put my name on the waiting list for that waiting book.

The book contains a passage in which Christ is depicted as having rela-tions with Mary Magdalene.

Edward Bello, the other I Ibrary Board candidate, could not be present at the PTA forum.

Change Group Endorses Slate

The Time for a Change Committee has endorsed Francis Hester, George Martin and Harry Wag-ner for the Hicksville Board of Education and Edward Bollo for the Hicksville Library Board.

Committee Co - chairmen Henry Chapen and Ferd Bode said that these were the only candidates who offered any hope of improving the deteriorating) situation in both

They said that Hester, Martin and Wagner are apparently the only school of the fact, as docu-mented in the McCor-mick Report, that Dist. 17 already spends more per pupil than most oth-er school districts in the State in the same general wealth category. The Time for a Change Committee Co-Chairmon said that Hester, Martin and Wagner are the only candidates aware of the fact that, according to the Dun and Bradstreet Municipal Credit Report, the district's debt load is already above average.

Chapen and Bode claimed that the school board incumbents have pre-sided at the dissolution of economy in Hicksville. What was once recog-nized as the financially soundest of Nassau's five largest school districts is now easily the most extravagant, the Time for a Change Committee shid. Despite charges of overcrowded classrooms, the committee stated, the fact is that Hicksville is hiring new teachers at the ridiculous rate of one for every nin e additional pupils, according to sta-tistics from the New York State Education Department.

It said that a study spon-sored by the Nassau County School Superin-tendent's Association in-dicates that in many areas Hicksville is overstaffed and spends proportionfour other large districts. On a per pupil basis, the Committee said, Hicksville spends more than any other four for the salaries of teachers, supervisors and assistant principals, and for sum-mer school, adult educa-tion and plant maintenance.

Proportionately, it con-tinued, Hicksville citizens are taxed more than the other districts for guidance counselors, psy-chologists, physical train-ing, art and music teach-CTS.

The Time for a Change Committee sale that Wag-Hester, Martin and Wagner are prepared to answer the plea from the New York Joint Legisla-tive Committee on School Financing for significant economy at the local level.

Cancer Crusade Is Half Way

David Levine, American Cancer Society Crusade Chairman for Bethpage stated today that the Crustate took in progress has reached the half - way mark. The goal is $33,000 which is 10% dive than last year, in order to ex-pand the American Cancer Society's program of Research, Public and Professional Education, Professional Education, early detection at the Cancer Detection Center and Patient Service.

Hicksville's "economy" School Board slate, which has been focusing an in-quiring eye on district curriculum as well as budgetary matters, wants special "after-regularhours classes set up in the district to aid failing students and others needing help in various sub-

The demand for the "af-, ter-school schooling," as the three candidates put it, came in the wake of a letter the three candi-dates had written the Commissioner of Educa-tion asking a probe by a "team of experts" to de-"team of experts" to de-fermine the causes of the high rates of failures in the district, including the fact that 29.73 percent of Hicksville High School math students failed that subject last year.

the "economy" team, told a meeting of the Hicksville Committee for Hon-esty in Public Education: "Parents of public school children in this community are inclined to take too much for granted about the nature and quality of education in this. district.

"Not only do we under-stand that hundreds of letters went out in March telling many parents that their children have been 'recommended' for summer school long before final marks are in; we also understand that little is being done to avert the need for summer school in the first place. "To cite an example," Martin continued,"re-cently a teacher in this district said she could not heln a failing student after hours because she nau to catch a train. That is precisely the kind of at-titude we deplore in public education.

"Is it too much," he said, "to ask teachers to put in a full day's work for a full day's pay?"

To further bolster the economy slate's demand for "after school school-ing," Martin asked: "Can ing," a child taking a given subject for one hour a day at summer school master in six weeks that which he apparently could not mas-

"I invite the Hicksville School Board to adopt this school Board to acopt this after-school schooling program before the elec-tion to show that it is as sincercly interested in public education in the Hicksville School District as we are,"

Two Seniors Earn Merit Awards

Two of the top seniors at Hicksville High School have carned Merit Schol-arships in national competition. The proud win-ners are John Eugene Mann and Arne W. Yanof. The scholarships are awarded on the results of a National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test taken in the junior year when 596,241 students in 16,024 schools over the country competed for the honor. The examination is a 3 hour test of educational development, specially designed for the Merit Programs by Science Re-Programs by Science Re-scarch Associates of Chi-cago. The test covers five areas: English usage, social studies reading, natural science reading, mathematics usage and word usage. The top scor-crs in each state are named Semifinalists in September of the senior wear. year

Each Semifinalist, there are about 11,000 cach year, is asked to take year, is asked to take another examination - the three - hour Scholastic Aptitude Test of the Col-lege Entrance Examina-tion Board - and to file a record of extracurric-ular activities special ular activities, special achievements and inter-ests academic or other honors. Financial need is determined after the winners have been selected. In 1962, the average sti-pend paid to freshmen Merit Scholar was $845 or $3,380 for four years.
