Bethpage Legion News Note

The 1963-64 Member-ship Drive of Archie McCord Post #86 is off to a fast start. 40% of the membership has already paid their dues for the coming year, and it looks like the Post is on its way to winning the Gold Honor Ribbon for the fifth year in succession. We invite all eligible veterans to pay us a visit and to find out what The American Legion is doing to help all veterans. Meetings are held at the Legion Hall on Washington St., Bethpage on the second and fourth Thurs. of the month.

The Post has entered a team in the Nassau County Bowling League, for the first time, and it is hoped that the team will make a name for itself and the Post during the coming bowling season.

Gambling Problems

An organization, Gambler's Anonymous is offering its services locally for anyone who has a gambling problem. Anyone interested should write P.O. Box 286, Hempstead, N.Y. or phone 212 MU 9-7500.

At Bridgeport

Thomas Bosco of 18 Keswick Lane, Plainview, is currently attending summer session classes at the University of Bridgeport, Bridgeport, Connecticut.

Deans' List

Pierre Swick, a graduate of Hicksville High School, is on the Mass. Institute of Technology Dean's List, composed of the upper third of undergraduates in scholastic standing, for the 1963 spring term.

FRANK J. HYNES (left), Receiver of Taxes for the Town of Oyster Bay, receives Long Island Lighting Company's $595,000 check in payment for the second half of LILCO's 1963 town property taxes. Delivering the check for Nassau and Suffolk's largest taxpayer is Joseph Deegan, a LILCO Assistant Commercial District Manager.

EMILY BIENENFELD, co-owner of Art Forms Unlimited, discusses with artist Claire Shapiro (right), her oil, "Girl With Doll," which will be on display along with other paintings in a special one-man show at the gallery, 111 Levittown Parkway, Hicksville. Everybody is invited to come on Saturday and Sunday, August 17-18, between the hours of 1:00 and 5:00 p.m. At the same time the grassy strip of land behind the gallery will resemble a "Greenwich Village" open-air exhibit. Clothespins, cord and tacks will support original drawings, colorful paintings, designs and other imaginative work done by students at the summer workshops held at the gallery. (In case of rain the outdoor exhibit will be held downstairs at the gallery.)

Rebel GOP For Betting

The Republican Town Team for Better Government --

The three Republican insurgents candidates seeking councilman seats on the Oyster Bay Town Board today came out firmly in favor of a referendum on off-track betting.

In a joint statement, the three said: "There is no other moral or ethical solution than to let the people decide for themselves whether or not they want legalized betting as an aid to tax relief. It is almost incredible that one man can set himself as deity, protector of the people against themselves and as an omnipotent legislator who knows the desires of the community without consulting the people."

Assembly Speaker Joseph Carlini, who also is leader of Nassau's Republican Party, has publicly scored off-track betting and the need for a referendum. He has said he knows best what is good for the people.

"Whether or not off-track betting will solve the problem of rising taxes in Oyster Bay Town, we do not know -- but we will fight as hard as we can to give the people an opportunity to decide for themselves," the statement said.

The three candidates, seeking party designation in the Sept. 5 primary against three incumbent GOPers are Arthur Levy of Syosset, George E. Bailey Jr. of Hicksville and William Musso of Plainview.

They have attacked the incumbent councilmen as party hacks who take orders from political bosses and have vowed to return town government to the people.

Levy is an industrial real estate consultant in Garden City; Bailey is an executive with a surgical supply firm; and Musso is a real estate broker.

ELAINE MALBIN (Princess Acosta) and Fritz Weaver (Phileas Fogg) embrace in greeting as they continue the classical trip "Around the World in 80 Days". The Guy Lombardo production is playing nightly at the Jones Beach Marine Theatre.

Dean's List

Ronald D. Rothchild, a graduate of Bethpage High School, is on the Mass.

Keep your mind on the road, not on your troubles. Don't worry about business, the family, or what may happen tomorrow. Keep alert to what's happening now. Good driving's a full-time job requiring an alert mind and body. If you must worry, do it in your leisure time.

WHEN YOU DRIVE...

Think now, complain later. "Mad" at someone or something? Turn it off when you turn your ignition on. Anger, no matter who or what it's directed at, can color your whole driving attitude, making you a menace to other motorists on the road.

THINK

Think wise... think cagey... think careful. Good driving is the responsibility of every motorist. A cheerful attitude toward others on the road will get you to your destination more relaxed than if you find fault with every driver along the way. Think careful driving when you're behind the wheel. And, when you think of protection against the hazards of other not-so-careful drivers, think of State Farm, the careful driver's insurance company.

EDWARD P. BOLGER. airman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Bolger of 201 Lee Ave., Hicksville, recently reported for duty at the Naval Station, Argentia, located on the Southeast Coast of the Canadian island province of Newfoundland.

Argentia is of strategic importance as a base far out into the Atlantic which services fleet units.

In addition, patrol and radar barrier aircraft operate from the base, maintaining constant watch of the North Atlantic.

EDWARD A. GRAY. fireman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Gray, of 33 Spray Lane, Hicksville, recently returned from a six-week midshipmen training cruise aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Shangri-La in the North Atlantic off Newfoundland and down the St. Lawrence Seaway to Quebec, Canada.

Designed to prepare midshipmen for their future roles as Navy officers, the cruise provides practical training and experience in shipboard operations at sea.

The Shangri-La is an Atlantic Fleet unit operating out of Mayport, Fla.

Army Specialist Four,

MICHAEL SHAUGHNESSY. 21 and PFC Thomas Koehler, 18, of Levittown, are participating in Exercise Swift Strike III, a U.S. Strike Command exercise in Georgia and North and South Carolina, involving more than 75,000 armed forces personnel.

Swift Strike III pits two task forces against each other in a four-week mock war ending August 16, and includes airborne maneuvers, long-distance airlifts, air-ground support missions and counter-guerrilla operations.

The men are regularly assigned to the 101st Airborne Division at Fort Campbell, Ky.

PTA Country Folk Festival

The Parents Teachers Association of the Mid Island Hebrew Day School is presenting a "Country Folk Festival" and Splash Party on Saturday evening August 24th, 10 p.m. at the school 42 Locust Ave., Bethpage.

Thinking It Over

by Robert L. Morgan

The Hicksville School system's language department was given a special buildup in the county press this week. So often people in the district, who are close to the situation, lose sight of the fact that Hicksville has developed a good language department that begins in the elementary grades right through high school.

This is an important development for the students in Hicksville schools that cannot be found in other local school districts.

There are some lessons to be taken from this development. One is that we should appreciate the fact that in spite of any short comings that can be pointed out in the school district, and there are many, the school system is above average. A second important lesson is that class sizes unless they are extremely out of proportion, are not the main criteria of a good school system. There are many districts bordering Hicksville that have made a fetish of class sizes and are spending far more per pupil than in Hicksville. Yet they have not developed some of the outstanding programs available in Hicksville and the percentage of Regents Scholarship winners is much lower.

It is important to emphasize the latter fact when groups with only hypothetical theories fight for more school building. This building will run up the cost of educating children and could possibly deter money from the real business of education.

Neuralgia, Muscular Pain Affects Breast

By C. A. Dean, M.D.

(Q) "Recently I have been troubled with an ache below my left breast. At times it is acute and feels sore. Also my left shoulder and arm ache. Is this a muscle spasm?" Mrs. C. R.

(A) Pain below the left breast, if it is deep, could be due to gas in the colon or stomach, or to a neuralgia. A muscular pain is also a good possibility. There is no direct connection between this area and the shoulder unless the pain is under the breast. The muscle (pectoralis) in this location does go to the shoulder.

(Q) "I am to have a P.B.I. test. What does this mean?" A.M.S.

(A) P.B.I. means "protein bound iodine." It refers to the amount of iodine and its relationship to the thyroid gland. A high reading means an overactive gland.

Editorial: External otitis or external ear infection is more prevalent during the hot summer months. This is partly due to the fact that our ears are more moist during this time, both from sweating and swimming.

This type of infection involves only the ear canal. The ear drum or middle ear is not always affected, though it may be. The infection is caused generally by bacteria and rarely by a fungus. Moisture in the ear canals softens the skin and makes a good growth medium for the germs.

Treatment of this type of infection can be difficult at times. Use of various antibiotics, external heat, cleaning of debris in the ear and ear drops are helpful.

Keeping the ear canal dry is important in the prevention of this disease. If the canal gets wet, prompt drying is necessary. Patients who have had attacks of otitis are susceptible to repeated spells. The use of drops after swimming to dry the ears helps to prevent recurrent infections.

Conciliating The Communists

By Russell Kirk

The Representatives of these United States have been to Moscow to talk with the Soviet masters about atomic disarmament. It seems highly improbable that the Communists have made more concessions in their capital — feeling that they have compelled us to negotiate in their own parlor — than they did at Geneva.

Your servant repeatedly is lost in wonder at the fanciful hopes of gentlemen who seem to think that the Soviet leaders really desire peace through compromise and multilateral disarmament. When the naive democratic powers tried — catastrophically — that approach to the Nazis, it became known as "appeasement." It did not work with Hitler, and cannot work with Khrushchev.

Yet such "liberal" hopes spring eternal. Recently a college student asked me, after a lecture of mine on foreign policy, "but can the Soviet Russians really be so bad? After all, they've been indoctrinated only since 1918. They still have a Christian background."

"True," I replied. "And most of the Nazi leaders came from good Christian homes, and had been indoctrinated only five or ten years. And well-meaning gentlemen like Neville Chamberlain decided that Goering and his friends weren't really wicked, because they liked field-sports and appreciated good pictures. Could the Nazis really do horrid things, with their Christian backgrounds? Well, yes, they could — and they did."

For an accurate review of Soviet diplomacy, I commend to my readers a new book by Dr. Anthony Bouscaren, "Soviet Foreign Policy: A Pattern of Persistence." As Professor Bouscaren makes clear, Communist diplomacy has been successful, most of the time. Some forty-five years ago, the Bolsheviks possessed nothing but a room in Zurich. "Today they control one-third of the world's population and one-fourth of the land area of the world."

Just as it would have been possible to predict the Nazi foreign policy if only democratic leaders had taken the trouble to read and believe "Mein Kampf," so it is not difficult to foresee what Khrushchev and his associates mean to do in the Moscow nuclear-weapons conference — if one bothers to read such books as Dr. Bouscaren's. Soviet foreign policy is not highly imaginative, but it is nothing if not persistent.

The Soviets do not desire world peace; they desire world mastery, more than did Hitler. Talk of peace they employ only to gain time for military and diplomatic maneuvers. When the vacillating West makes one concession, the Soviet diplomats, with redoubled arrogance, demand two or three more. After all, this policy has brought them successes for forty-five years. When, two years ago, the Soviets brazenly exploded a sixty-megaton bomb during the Geneva negotiations, they simply were acting persistently. Did we have a right to expect them to be radically changed?

Yet the Soviets are not invincible ogres to whom fresh concessions must be made seasonally. First of all, it isn't possible to conciliate ogres: they keep on eating people, no matter how politely one treats them. Second, the Soviets aren't invincible: in weapons and in the economy, they are far weaker than we are. They respect only strength: armed strength, and strength in policy (even when it is displayed by so small a state as Finland). But conciliation whets their appetites.

Keeping Hand Dry

Most modern bowling centers have automatic hand dryers or you use resin or talcum powder or variety of other aids. This may help: Just before I insert fingers in ball, I cup my hand and tap it against my shoulder or leg. It's a method that works for me.

IT IS TO BE expected that admirers of Surrealism (or perhaps Anti-Art) will profane to understand this drawing above.

"What a striking likeness!" they may exclaim. "See how he walks with his eye always on the ground, his head full of illusions and elementary mathematics! Marvelous! If we met him in the street we should know him instantly."

The problem for the ordinary reader, however, is not to recognize the artist but to unravel his illusions.

In presenting this clever creation in Mazes and Labyrinths: A Book of Puzzles (pub. by Dover), Walter Shepherd stipulates that the viewer is on his honor to do the untangling by eye only, unaided by pencil or other pointer.

Pick up the thread at the arrow marked "O," and follow it through all the obstacles till you arrive at one of the numbers along the top of the picture.

THEY'RE IN THE BAG

HUBERT PHILLIPS included the following in his collection, My Best Puzzles in Logic and Reasoning (pub. by Dover), that is, posers which demand no mathematical knowledge, but call for clear thinking and an ability to establish the logical relationships which the data presented imply:

A bag contains twenty marbles. They are of three different colors. There are eight blue ones, seven red ones, and five green ones. You are invited to close your eyes and draw the maximum number of marbles consistent with your leaving in the bag: (1) at least four marbles of any color, and (2) at least three marbles of any second color. How many marbles should you draw?

Answer by Mr. Phillips: "To solve this puzzle, draw four marbles of the same color, leaving twelve marbles in the bag. Then draw three marbles of a second color, leaving fifteen marbles in the bag. Then draw one marble of a third color, leaving fifteen marbles in the bag. This satisfies both conditions."

SUPPOSE that on the day before yesterday, the weather forecaster broadcast, "Today's weather is different from yesterday's. If the weather is the same tomorrow as it was yesterday, the day after tomorrow will have the same weather as the day before yesterday. But if the weather is the same tomorrow as it is today, the day after tomorrow will have the same weather as yesterday."

Let's assume it is raining today, and it rained the day before yesterday. Also that the forecaster's prediction proved correct. What was the weather like yesterday?

Answers to these puzzles, the weather and more

It's in the Cards

SAM LOYD, who was to become one of the immortal names of puzzdom, attracted attention with his problems based on whist and the then novel game of auction bridge. Indeed, it has been claimed that Loyd's bridge puzzles did much to popularize the game in the United States, into which it was introduced from England in the 1890s. It was relatively little known in the United States until two decades later.

An Englishman, Hubert Phillips, who uses the pseudonym of "Caliban," is a modern composer of intriguing contract bridge brain-teasers. The following is from Caliban's Problem Book: Mathematical, Inferential and Cryptographic Puzzles (pub. by Dover).

In a hand dealt at contract bridge, the bidding went as follows:

				N	W	E	S
E	S	W	N
I ♠	double	2 ♦	3 ♣
No Bid	-3 ♠	No Bid	3 ♦
No Bid	5 ♠	No Bid	6 ♦
No Bid	6 No Trump	No Bid	7 No Trump

All pass.

West led the ♠ 8, North played the ♠ 9, and East the ♠ 5. North played the following cards to the remaining tricks, in the order given:

Trick 2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14
•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•
•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•
•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•
•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•
•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•

To the 13th trick, East played the ♦ 7. South took all thirteen tricks in his own hand.

Numberology

FIGURES can be tricky, of course. Here are some examples:

1—Write four nines so they will equal 100.

2—Make a cross consisting of the figures 1 to 9 so that the vertical column and the horizontal line will both total the same amount.

3—Write an even number, using only odd digits.

4—Express 24 with three equal figures other than 8.

5—Answer g and gg = 9, 99

6—Answer 1-6-6-6, 2-His-tonia

The question is, what were South's thirteen cards? How quickly can you deduce the answer?

Answers to these puzzles and more are given in the following article. Please note that the answers in this column are given in the order in which they appear in the book. Answers to the first four puzzles are given in the order in which they appear in the book. Answers to the last four puzzles are given in the order in which they appear in the book.

Shipping Problem

SUPPOSE you were on a ship bound for a vacation. If you were standing on starboard side facing the bow, would the nearest rail be on your right or your left?

Answers to these puzzles and more are given in the following article. Please note that the answers in this column are given in the order in which they appear in the book. Answers to the first four puzzles are given in the order in which they appear in the book. Answers to the last four puzzles are given in the order in which they appear in the book.

If You Please

By Peter Pettibone

A British Delegate to the U.N. went to a Met's baseball game recently. In the first inning each team scored a run and the two "I's" were posted on the scoreboard. From then on it was a tight game and two long strings of zeros (0's) went on the board. Along about the tenth inning, the Englishman had to leave for a committee meeting. On his way out a small boy asked him, "hey, what's the score now?" "Bless me," answered the Englishman "I lost all track, it's way up in the millions."....At a recent Nassau dog show a spectator asked an attendant to direct him to the Labradors. "All the way down this aisle," said the attendant, "and the first door to the right."....At the swank Country Club Restaurant, Lakeville Road; it was just like old times at Bradley's, with Dick (bass) and Bob (piano) Eschmann knocking themselves out to please the vast smart set of winers and diners...Harried wife, figuring at her desk, to husband and children: "Well, I worked out a budget. But one of us will have to go."....On the L.I. Railroad we overhead, one man to another: "We're a non-profit organization. We don't mean to be - but we are."....Here's this week's Harold Applegate: Seems the guard at the nudist camp halted a man at the gate. "I'm sorry, sir," he said "but you can't come in here wearing a blue suit." "Who's wearing a blue suit?" chattered the newcomer. "I'm cold!"....Don't let the actions of those five Nassau policemen, accused of burglary, cause you to think less of the other thousands of fine officers. I can't stop thinking about the families of those five cops. It's just a shame, that's all. There's no other explanation....Rudy Zani, to a pal: "Tell me, Tom, who is the boss in your house?" Tom answered thoughtfully, well, Margie assumes command of the children, the bank account, the dog and the parakeet. But I say pretty much what I please to the goldfish."....And we know a gentleman who after a physical checkup, was told by the doctor that he was in pretty bad shape, thusly: "Too little blood in your alcohol stream."....The Nassau Democratic Executive Committee, headed by John F. English, has designated Mr. Hilliard J. (Joe) Lenox to run for the District Court bench. Tip to the G.O.P. this gent Lenox is one of the most handsome and intelligent attorneys to be found anywhere. He and his happy family reside in Manhasset. One of his smaller credits includes three years on the Federal Bar Association's Committee on Uniform Laws for the United States. He's also an associate professor of law at C.W. Post College in Brookville. Joe Lenox told us of a father who found his small son sitting in front of a TV set slouching a suitcase. "He's running away from home," explained the boy's mother "as soon as the program's over."....Small boy to manager in gardening-equipment store: "My mommy wants a sprayer that will kill crab grass, beetles, weeds and spinach."....If You Please, Chuckie....
