MRS. BARBARA CANHAM, (Right) of 8 Clarissa Drive, Hicksville, exhibited her prize blue cream Persian, Balc's Tempest II, at the Garden State Cat Club show at Asbury Park's Convention Hall, Aug. 17-18. Kathi Norris, consultant to the Purina Cat Care Center of St. Louis and official hostess of the show, admires Balc's Tempest II, which competed with more than 300 other cats for national and international awards.

School Tax Rate Fixed For Year

The School Tax rate for 1963-64 has been set at $5.72 per $100 to which will be added 23.8 cents per $100 for the public library, making a total of $5.958 or a total increase of 34.6 cents over the current year. The rate was set at the Board of Education meeting, Friday night.

The total school budget is $10,913,869.25 with the net amount of $5,358,869.25 to be raised by local real estate taxes. The school district expects to receive $5,175,000 in state aid and $70,000 in federal aid. It is estimated that receipts from summer school, adult education, etc. will provide $60,000 and a quarter million dollars will come from excess cash balance or surplus.

The library tax levy is $223,274.81.

Juniors Stars Keep Busy

Sizzling 100 degree heat greeted Exalted Star Carolyn Gillespie of the Harriet M. Knoeckel Constellation of Junior Stars, as she traveled to Oriskany, New York on the weekend of July 28 and 29. Exalted Star Carolyn was a delegate to the Annual Eastern Star Pilgrimage at Oriskany. Carolyn and two of her officers, Star of Mercy, Marie Soldano, and Star of Music, Barbara Soldano, attended the Bazaar at the Eastern Star Home on Saturday and there presented a donation from their Constellation. Saturday afternoon they witnessed a processional of Eastern Star present and past grand officers. It was also a great thrill to be welcomed by the O. E. S. Grand Matron, Mrs. Olive R. Forstel, and the Grand Patron, Mr. John W. Grau. On Sunday, the Junior Stars attended the Eastern Star Chapel at the Home for morning worship service.

On a somewhat cooler occasion, August 7, the members of the Constellation and friends enjoyed a Moonlight Sail. At 7:00 p.m., all boarded the "Good Luck" at Salty Sam's Dock in Lindenhurst and set out in the waters of Great South Bay. Many thanks to Captain Leroy Pearsall; there were no seasick sailors!

Women Voters For Foreign Aid

It was reported by Mrs. Jack Weber of Syosset that the League of Women Voters of the Town of Oyster Bay is calling on all its members, and the community as a whole, to write immediately to their Congressmen in support of the Foreign Aid Bill.

The League of Women Voters has repeatedly affirmed their conviction that it is in the interest of the United States and the Free World to encourage and assist countries that are struggling to develop self-sufficient economies and to maintain their political independence. The League holds strongly to the view that the Administration's total request for economic aid for development grants, Alliance for Progress and international organizations is both necessary and appropriate.

The community is urged to write to Senators Jacob Javits and Kenneth Keating in support of Senate bill S.1276, and to their Congressmen in support of House bill H. R. 5490.

Information as to the name of the Representative in the House, as well as general information on the League of Women Voters' position on this issue may be gotten by calling Mrs. Gerald Roberts at WA 1-7858.

SPORTS

by HOWARD FINNEGAN

Concerned with the diminishing minor leagues and hometown baseball teams for boys after high school age the Major Leagues are ready to pour a little money into the forming of leagues in areas of high baseball potential.

Long Island of course is one of the spots and plans are being drawn for a loop next year. There is only one catch. It will be a night league and aid will only go to those communities and teams where there are lights for a diamond at night.

Levittown, Glen Cove, Huntington, East Meadow, Oceanside and Plainview are among those being considered. Hicksville would get quick approval but the lack of a lighted field nixes the youth of our community once again.

If a campaign to get a field were started we would get the same excuse "there isn't any land for it" although it sure can be found for those who live in Plainview, Syosset and Massapequa.

Hicksville High School Athletic Director, Chet Jaworski has announced that Wednesday, August 28, and Thursday the 29th will be the dates that prospective football candidates will have their physical examinations at Hicksville High School.

Boys wishing to compete on the teams must have their physicals before they will be allowed to attend tryouts and practices.

The examination begins at 9:00 a.m. and runs to 12:00 noon each day.

The Hicksville Post Office split a doubleheader with strong Long Island Lighting Company in the slow pitch Jones Beach League, Friday night. The scores were 8-7 and 5-4 with the PM men taking the first issue.

Art Samuelson pitched the first contest as well as the second. Dick DiLeo powered a home run in the victory. George Henishon struck a long blow in that first outing but had to settle for a triple when he pulled a muscle and turned up lame. He was missed in the second contest and Vince Hannigan Senior was pressed into emergency action behind homeplate.

Thinking It Over

by Robert L. Morgan

Gov. Rockefeller has come up with a valuable piece of material for school boards in presenting a series of nine plans for school buildings to be put up in local districts.

The important thing about the plans booklet is that it gives a good idea of what is important and what is not important in making a school building and how much it will cost. It is too bad that there was not some type of standard when the bulk of building was done in this district.

What has always annoyed us is the fact that so much state aid is given and wasted by school districts on school buildings of many types of architecture. And the prices have ranged all over the lot.

The plans by the state do not direct any school district to comply with their designs but they surely spell out approximately what a school building of such and such a capacity should cost.

Elbow Pain Is Related To Stomach Distress

By C. A. Dean, M.D.

(Q) "Would you say there is a connection between stomach distress and a hot burning pain in the left elbow? Whenever my stomach is distressed I feel a simultaneous pain in the left elbow." Mrs. H.B.

(A) Certainly, from your description it sounds like the elbow pain is related in some way to your stomach distress. This is not a far fetched conclusion since the nerve fibers which carry pain from the stomach area serve the same function for the arm. In this manner a pain starting in one area can spread (radiate) to another. A good example of this is the patient with a ruptured lumbar disc. Not only does the patient have pain in the back but also down one or the other leg due to the pressure of the disc on the sciatic nerve.

I think proof of the connection of these two pains would be the relief of the elbow pain with relief of the stomach discomfort.

(Q) "Is a nervous person more subject to an over-acid condition, heartburn and gas?" Mrs. R.J.

(A) Yes, although it does depend on the type of nervousness a person has.

(Q) "I hear so much about iron and its importance in our diets. Could you tell me exactly how much iron we require daily?" L.X.Z.

(A) The average adult male requires about 8 milligrams per day. For the female this figure is about 10. During pregnancy 20 milligrams or more are needed. The fast-growing adolescent also requires more iron, 10 milligrams per day usually being enough.

Do you have a medical question? Write Dr. C. A. Dean in care of this newspaper.

Does Ignorance Bring Freedom

By Russell Kirk

Some people applaud the recent decision of the Supreme Court to the effect that the Lord's Prayer and passages from the Bible may not be read in public schools. They consider this a victory for "religious freedom." Well, if the Supreme Court were to rule that the theory of biological evolution should not be taught, would they consider such a verdict a triumph of "scientific freedom"? I suspect that we have no right to be ignorant; and that ignorance of religion destroys true civic freedom.

The Communists know this. In every Soviet country, religious teaching in the schools either is prohibited, or rapidly is being crushed. And the slogans which the Communists employ in such campaigns are curiously similar to those of some of the people who would efface the remnants of religious instruction in American public schools.

In a recent careful book by Professor Richard Staar, "Poland, 1944-1962" (Louisiana State University Press), is a short but significant section on the Polish Communist campaigns against religious instruction of young people. One of their instruments has been a "Society of Children's Friends," avowedly dedicated to the development of individuals "whose character is soundly based upon thorough knowledge and upon the strong foundation of a scientific outlook on the world, free of all prejudice and superstition."

By "scientific," the Polish Marxists mean "Marxist"; by "superstition," they mean "religion." But their phrases are not dissimilar from those of well-meaning Americans, influenced by the educational notions of John Dewey, who look upon religious knowledge as somehow unscientific and superstitious. They forget that in a nation without religious understanding, true science has short shrift, and harsher new prejudices supplant old prejudices.

Another, and now more powerful, Polish Communist organization is the Secular School Society. It welcomes as members those who "abide by the constitutional principles of equality in privileges and freedom of conscience, as well as oppose intolerance and fanaticism." How liberal all this sounds! But when "freedom of conscience" is interpreted to mean, in fact, denial of religious knowledge to the rising generation -- then the totalitarian order borrows the clothing of nineteenth-century liberalism in order to gain its ends.

Despite the Polish Communist regime's heavy-handed support of these militant-atheist educational organizations, religious instruction has not yet been altogether eliminated from Polish public schools. Only 7,000 out of 27,000 Polish schools had been completely "secularized" by 1960. In America, our Supreme Court is doing a more efficient job of this "progressive" business.

Local Group On Radio

The Rivieras of Hicksville played for a dance at Hedges Lake, Cambridge, N. Y. last weekend, and were invited by disc jockeys of WSKI to play live on Saturday at 4:30 p.m. over their station. The disc jockeys also taped the songs and will play them periodically over their network. Some of the songs were in answer to special requests sent to the station after the Rivieras' playing date at the Lake.

The Rivieras include Mike Fallon, Dennis Dias, Teddy Robinson, Phil Storch and Ken Pohl. This group has been kept busy all summer playing Monday nights in the Hicksville High School for the Teen Recreation Program and have also played for a number of teen dances at local Country Clubs.

At Random

By Edward J. Van Allen

A Reader wants to know whether I write my "fiery" columns on asbestos paper.

Of course. As a matter of fact, the newsprint carrying my columns is specially treated so as not to be spontaneously combustible. Odds and Ends

BY HIS PLAN to establish a present day CCC (Civilian Conservation Corps) under the somewhat more palatable title, "Youth Conservation Corps," President Kennedy is tacitly admitting there is something grievously wrong with our economy.

The CCC was set up during the throes of the depression when millions of grownups were unemployable simply because there were no jobs for them. Taken in the context of the times, the CCC was worthwhile since this country's economy was in so fine a mess that it took a world war to put it back on its feet.

But today, though there is a host of unemployed (and I don't believe the publicity handouts from Washington tell the whole story), are we in such dire financial straits that we must set up a youth conservation corps to "employ" youths from 16 to 21 at a "magnificent" stipend of $60 a month? If we are, then the pilots of our ship of state have us on an economic collision course.

The blame for the failure to train youth for gainful employment (and the YCC certainly won't do that) must be shared equally by Federal, state, and local governments -- and even more particularly by our public school system.

These days, we need technicians; and they try to give us scholars. The emphasis is on college, college, college -- for which some 75 percent or so of the population is fitted neither by intellect nor disposition.

School programs not geared to the peculiar interests and abilities of individual students boom the school drop-out rate. Thus, when the mechanically inclined student clearly shows that he has no aptitude for or interest in the academe, as some hoity-toity educationists are wont to call it, he becomes a school failure and is forced into the streets by a school system at best poorly equipped to produce scholars, not to say mechanics or technicians.

Rather than shunt our untrained and improperly educated youngsters into youth concentration camps, as it were, far better would it be to set up a vast government's lending program to finance privately owned and operated industry to train youths for gainful employment which might last a lifetime. (Certainly the youth concentration camps would afford youths ample opportunity to concentrate on what to do for the rest of their lives. That much I will concede.)

A recent national magazine article pointed out that thousands of well-paying jobs -- a good many involving manual exertion -- are now going begging because there is simply nobody to fill them.

Why should that be in a nation which proudly boasts the highest standard of living on earth and an army on unemployed to match?

Surely, if we can GIVE our money away to foreigners, we can LEND it to Americans to provide a realistic youth training program aimed at equipping youth for gainful employment not for months or even years, but for the rest of their natural lives.

Here is one citizen who takes exception to this youth concentration camp idea.

If you will pardon the crudity, I think it stinks out loud.

Keep your mind on the road, not on your troubles. Don't worry about business, the family, or what may happen tomorrow. Keep alert to what's happening now. Good driving's a full-time job requiring an alert mind and body. If you must worry, do it in your leisure time.

WHEN YOU DRIVE...

Think now, complain later. "Mad" at someone or something? Turn it off when you turn your ignition on. Anger, no matter who or what it's directed at, can color your whole driving attitude, making you a menace to other motorists on the road.

THINK

Think wise... think cagey... think careful, cautious, cheerful, courteous driving. Good driving is the responsibility of every motorist. A cheerful attitude toward others on the road will get you to your destination more relaxed than if you find fault with every driver along the way. Think careful driving when you're behind the wheel. And, when you think of protection against the hazards of other not-so-careful drivers, think of State Farm, the careful driver's insurance company.

Mrs. Carter Attends Institute

Mrs. Lorraine Carter, District Clerk of the Bethpage School District was among the more than 150 School Board Clerks attending the Nineteenth Annual Institute for School Board Clerks at Syracuse University, August 11, 12 and 13. The institute, conducted annually by the School of Education, Syracuse University, in cooperation with the Division of School Business Management, State Education Department in Albany, is designed to help school board clerks keep abreast of the latest developments in maintenance of school records. Welcoming the participants to Syracuse University was Dr. Kenneth G. Bartlett, Vice-President and Dean of Public Affairs, Syracuse University; followed by Dr. Robert L. Lorette, Professor of Education, State University of New York, Albany, who lectured on

"Evaluation of the Search for Economy" and Kenneth L. Brook, senior Public Records Analyst, State Education Department, discussing "Preservation, Retention and Disposition of School Records."

Tuesday morning the first speaker was E. G. Burlingame, Associate in School Business Management, State Education Department, lecturing on "The Voter as Judge and Jury." The Assistant District Principal, Dr. Martin Davis, Cold Spring Harbor, followed addressing the topic of "Purchasing Efficiency."

"Interpreting 1963 Legislation" was presented by George B. Farrington, Division of Law, State Education Department. At the annual Institute Banquet, that evening, Dr. Grover Morehart, Professor Emeritus of the School of Education, Syracuse University delivered the principal address, "The Heirs of the American People".

SURE SIGN of Better Living All Over LONG ISLAND

All over Long Island home-owners are switching from ordinary heating fuels to clean Gas Heat. And with good reason. Gas burns completely, doesn't throw off tiny soot particles that cover walls, ceilings, furniture with a grimy film. And Gas Heat is dependable. A modern Gas unit has fewer moving parts than ordinary fuel units. Less chance of breakdowns, less chance of costly repair bills. Best of all, when you convert to Gas Heat, LILCO offers you a money-back guarantee plus a Free Service Policy that provides for inspection, adjustment and cleaning of your Gas heating unit whenever it becomes necessary. And without charge!

It's easy to convert to clean, dependable Gas. So take a tip from your neighbors and do it now. Just mail the coupon for a FREE Gas Heat Home Survey, or phone Mr. Kent at LILCO, PI 7-1000.

Day At The Beach

With the wind, humidity, sand and salt water... "What happened to my hair-do?" I can hear many ladies saying to their hairdressers. "My setting didn't last at all this week." This is an all too familiar tune.

Let's be realistic, and approach our problem head on. If you're going to the beach, or...put the top of your convertible down... cover your hair.

Sun bleach is drying and damaging and most harmful to people who dye and bleach their hair. Hair that has been colored, should not receive too much exposure to the sun.

Bleached hair is particularly vulnerable. Wear scarf or other head covering near salt water. Salt is a bleaching agent. Also wear bathing cap in chlorinated water. If some seeps through, rinse it off with clear water at once.

There are various methods to counteract the dryness from summer sun etc.

1. Shampoo your hair at least once a week.
2. Rub lanolin base hair conditioner into hair every three or four weeks. If done professionally a heat cap or steamer is used. If done at home, use a hot turkish towel or heating pad. Observe these rules and your hair will be healthy and lustrous looking.

Question: I have extremely oily skin, and perspire very much. How can I keep face powder on my face?

Answer: Use a liquid tinted base containing lanolin. The oily base will absorb the perspiration.

Nobody knew why, but for years Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne had laid an egg at Easthampton. It exasperated Lunt, and the night before they were to open in "The Taming of the Shrew" he took Larry Farrell, their company manager aside. "Larry, I don't mean to be critical," Lunt began. "but I think the reason we don't make a profit in this Easthampton theatre is that the company isn't managed properly." Farrell asked "Would you like to take over while we are here?" Lunt agreed to manage things. On Saturday night when they closed, Lunt was brimming with good news. "We made $4000," he told the manager proudly. "Here are the books". Farrell glanced over the ledger. "One thing, Mr. Lunt" he pointed out. "You forgot to pay Lunt and Fontanne, our stars." ".....Woman talk! "I'm miserable. I've got on my sitting-down shoes and my standing up girdle.".....TV gossip: "What this country needs is a good five-second commercial.".....The Pete Gaffney's due to become grandparents again in October, via the Jack Clouds... Wife, leaving movie, to husband: "I wish just once they'd have as good a picture this week as they're going to have next week!".....Chic Farmer (Who's he?) divides Long Island citizens into two categories: "Those who own swimming pools - and those who can't keep their heads above water.".....Celeste Holm tried on a startling gown in a Manhasset ship, but refused to buy it. "When I come into a room," she said, "I'd rather have people ask 'Who is she?' instead of 'Who does she think she is?'....My un-married 7 1/2 year old son Chuckie, to his Mommy Jane: "Mom, what happened to my new record - the one I played all last week?" (Crash, right in the kisser)...A stuffy Sands Pointer we know, he's very fussy too, was sitting in the swank Country Club Restaurant's cocktail lounge, on Lakeville Road, when a couple of men came in without neckties and sat down near him. This disturbed our crusty friend and he waited to see how soon the headwaiter would put them out. Nothing happened, however, so our haughty character caught the manager's eye and pointed to the tie-less pair. The manager nodded discreetly and went over to their table, when he whispered something to them. At this, much to the stuffy critics embarrassment, they both turned, looked at him, and smiled in friendly fashion. A couple of minutes later a waiter brought them drinks and came over to our fussy friend's table with the check. "They said they'd have two whiskey sours, and to thank you very much," he said....Jenie Miller's mother Mrs. Ethel Owens and her sister-in-law Ann Owens have returned to Bennettsville after showing the North Shore and NYC, some real Southern class and beauty. (Really!).....Note from a Doll: "Everything is just as I imagined it would be - soft breezes, nice moon, good music and no men!" Oh, Yeah! Well, who made the picture?...If You Please....

Fehrenbach Urges Marine Laws

Noting the U.S. Coast Guard cut-backs in manpower and equipment planned for the Long Island area, Assemblyman Edwin J. Fehrenbach today called upon local officials in Nassau and Suffolk to re-examine their opposition to the proposal to extend the State Navigation Law to Long Island waters. "We are heading for a storm of trouble on Long Island if we don't move quickly to establish uniform marine safety laws - and to enforce them," warned Fehrenbach, who is Chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Motor Boats.

At public Hearings of the Motor Boat Committee in Nassau and Suffolk during July, municipal officials were generally opposed to the extension of the State Navigation Law to Long Island waters, the only New York waters outside its jurisdiction. To counter this opposition, Fehrenbach is planning a series of meetings with local officials to acquaint them with the workings of the State Navigation Law. "I am sure we can work out some method of extending the safety benefits of the Law - and still allow the legitimate home-rule control that rightfully belongs with local government," said Fehrenbach. "However, we just can't drift along in the light of the latest development." The Bethpage Assemblyman described the marine accident rate as "grim and getting grimmer with every new boat that goes into the water."

The State Navigation Law establishes minimum standards of safety equipment for boats, the disposal of refuse, boat operation for minors, water skiing, uniform Summons and Complaint forms, and other marine safety measures. It is almost identical with current Coast Guard regulations. However, under the State Navigation Law local enforcement would be assumed by the County Police Departments.
