MONSIGNOR BITTERMAN, pastor of St. Ignatius Church, Hicksville, puts the first flag into place as the Knights of Columbus take over putting up the flags on Hicksville parking meters on Columbus Day. The project, which was sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, has a different group responsible for taking care of the flags on each holiday. Shown next to Monsignor Bitterman are James Cummings, Town Councilman Carl Grunewald, Deputy Grand Knight Tom Costa and two members of the Columbia Squires. Photo by P. Charbonnet.

ALL SET TO GO.....and (surprise!) it's not a shopping spree! Ladies above, all members of the Republican Women's Committee for the Election of Fred J. Sutter, receive supplies from the candidate himself. Committee members are visiting shopping centers in Town of Oyster Bay, giving out the handy shopping bags to all shoppers, and, not incidentally, urging them to vote for Fred J. Sutter, Democratic candidate for Oyster Bay Town Councilman. Above 1, to r., are Mrs. Marianne Kutner, Mrs. Barbara Cressman, Mrs. Rose Watson, and Fred J. Sutter. Photo by Frank Mallett

GUEST SPEAKER AT THE HICKSVILLE Republican Club this week, included Norman Wolf, running for Township Highway Supt., Judge Golding, candidate for Family Court, Judge Pantano, who is unopposed and has bi-partisan support, and Judge Dempsey. Bruce Pearsall, (not shown) was a surprise speaker, and charged the Democratic administration with character assassination of Tom Pynchon, running for Town Supervisor of Oyster Bay. As reported by Mr. Pearsall, Pynchon exonerated himself via the public hearing.

An interesting point was made by Mr. Pearsall, when he demanded that the County administration enact into law, a passage similar to Section 73 of the Civil Rights law, wherein an alleged accuser can be questioned by the accused. This to pertain to County and Town officials.

Hicksville High put an enamel finish on a speckled performance, Saturday, as Larry Welsko bolted for 31 and 42 yard touchdowns and Steve Schuster added a final flourish with an 85-yard jaunt: The Comets defeated MacArthur, 20-0.

Playing on a wind tormented field at Wantagh, the Comets broke Welsko free against the hosts nine man line twice in the second period. It remained for Bruce Cerone and Charlie Triolo to produce the one needed block in each case.

MacArthur contained much of the rest of the Hicksville attack. The Comets couldn't succeed with a pass the afternoon.

The losers were aggressive and controled much of the game with possession football. They consumed much of the first period before being stopped on the Hicksville 18 by a breakthrough by Cerone.

Leading 14-0 Hicksville reached the losers 2 in the third only to have three involved plays lose them 34 yards in three tries.

MacArthur took heart and used 10 plays to gain the Hicksville 6 yard stripe before Cerone again knocked down a fourth down pass. He and Al Lewis had an active and helpful day in the Secondary. Pete Martin and Joe Sarno were excellent on the line.

It was the first league outing for Hicksville in North Shore Athletic Association Play Section One.

Cleatmarks: Welsko gained 106 yards in 11 rushes. Damm had a net of 17 for 3. Lewis had 8 for 2, Frank Casolino 8 for 1, Schuster 109 for 4 and Triolo 75 for 10. Hicksville gained 333 yards on ground, McArthur 176.

Saturday, Hicksville travels to Clarke at South Westbury (just south of Old Country Road at the Salisbury Theatre) with a lot to make up. Clarke has beaten Hicksville 14-13 and 12-0 for the championship the past two years.

The title does not hinge on this one battle but Clarke has already bowed 13-12 to Plainedge and could block Hicksville again.

The Orange and Black needs a lift for this game and we believe, as do most, that the return of Vinec Hoosack will provide the spark.

DELMIREE has entertained all over the world and sings songs of many peoples in the tongue of that country. She excels in the singing of French songs and is in great demand by agents throughout the City of New York. She will appear on October 22 at the Democratic Benefit show at the Hicksville Theatre.

All Star Show Benefit For Dems At Hicksville Theatre

The Citizens Committee for the Election of Michael N. Pettito Candidate, for Town Supervisor of Oyster Bay, and the Democratic Campaign Committee are presenting a stage and screen show at the Hicksville Theatre on East Marie Street, Hicksville, Tuesday, October 22 at 8 p.m.

On the screen will be presented 'The Music Man' with Robert Preston and Shirley Jones and a star studded festival of stars in person, live on the theatre stage. These are headlined by 'The Panto Maniacs,' namely Lou Morelli and Jack Marino. These boys will be the Masters of Ceremony at the presentation. They will be appearing at the Palms Shore Club in Sheepshead Bay, B'klyn, October 17-27. They have worked at just about every reputable club on the eastern seaboard and are considered one of the better comedy teams in the business today. Also starring in this star festival are Delmiree, Edie Carda, Vince Carri and Joe and Sandy.

Delmiree entertained all over the world and sings songs of many peoples in the tongues of that country. She excels in the singing of French songs and is in great demand by agents throughout the city of New York.

Edie Carda has recently broken into show business and she has done a wonderful job in such clubs as Club 802 in Brooklyn, the Parakeet Club and will soon be appearing at the 500 Club and the Back Page on Atlantic Avenue in B'klyn.

Vince Carri has just returned from a tour of Russia, Japan and Hawaii and has played in many clubs throughout the country and starred in New York City Clubs cise number of which the Board and administration neglect to mention in the proposition.

Concreteness and conciseness are two attributes of good English composition that should be taught in English classes. But you'll never find those qualities in school building propositions.

Why is this so important? Because in voting for school building propositions, you are in effect contracting to spend X amount of your tax dollars in the future. You are bound by that contract if the proposition passes. And though the School Board and administration may tell you in sales literature mass-mailed to your home that 22 classrooms are to be built (actually it's supposed to be 24), unless what they say is merged in and made a part of the actual proposition, it's not binding on the Board or administration.

Example: Ten or so years ago, the voters of East Meadow were told before they voted on a proposition to build the Meadow Lawn school that the school would be so constructed that it would be readily converted into a junior high school by adding an upper story.

Not one word as to convertibility was contained in the proposition, which simply called upon the voters to authorize building a "school." Result: Several years later the voters were told that it was structurally impossible to convert Meadow Lane into a junior high school. Therefore the voters were asked to and did approve the building of an entirely new building at a different locale.

Thus, if you authorize the Hicksville School Board and administration to build a high school addition which will simply "contain classrooms" (the exact language of the propositions so far), you may get 22 or 24 classrooms or you may get a considerably lesser number. In either case, unless you demand linguistic precision in school building propositions, you won't have a leg to stand on if the sales blurbs say one thing and the propositions you actually vote on say something quite different.

The propositions and even the supporting sales literature, as drafted and redrafted by a School Board that can't seem to make up its mind, also neglect to mention the number of teachers that will be required to man the legally unannounced number of classrooms.

School Board Decisively Undecided On Expansion

By Edward J. Van Allen

Just what is the Hicksville School Board and administration asking you, the voters of Hicksville, to vote for in the November 23 building referendum?

That may sound like a startling question. But it's not quite so startling as you may think.

To begin with, plans have been underway since the summer of 1962 to have you commit your tax dollars to help pay off what is now tabbed at $2,276,862.50 school building undertaking.

Yet, the School Board has changed its mind so often -- even since August of this year -- on just precisely what its building plans are that it is fair to say that the Board is decisively undecided on the content of the Nov. 23 referendum.

First the Board was going to shove four propositions at the voters. They were to include (1) 22 classrooms and a combined gym and cafeteria, plus an administration and storage building; or (2) 22 classrooms and a gym-cafeteria; and (3) the demolition of farm buildings on the Lumm property; and (4) the acquisition of additional land at Willet Avenue.

The latest word is that the School Board has dropped proposition (2) completely to give the voters no alternative to proposition (1). The other propositions remain the same, tentatively, at least.

This newspaper has also learned that not 22 classrooms, but 24, are contemplated to be added to the senior high school. Why 24 classrooms? Because two present classrooms are to be demolished, according to an informed source, to accommodate the attachment of the new addition.

A word of caution: Remember that the School Board and administration bind you, the voters of the district, not by anything contained in sales pitches mass-mailed to your home, but by the language of the propositions that you vote upon.

To explain: In none of the sets of propositions drafted and redrafted since August of this year has there been one single, solitary word about the number of classrooms you'll be voting for or against on November 23.

Nor, for that matter, has there been any precise spelling out of what 'furnishings,' what 'equipment,' what 'machinery,' and what 'apparatus' will be provided to go with the classrooms, the pre-

Thinking It Over

by Robert L. Morgan

The current talk in Hicksville is about the road widening project in Hicksville's business district. As long ago as 1956 this writer reported that the stores along the west side of Broadway would be condemned and the road would cut through them. The area to be knocked out will run from the railroad crossing to Old Country Rd. After Old Country Rd. the widening will change sides at different places.

What will happen to Broadway is that it will become a six lane highway with a bunker in the middle. What will happen to Hicksville is that it will be just one big highway.

Six years ago when we made the announcement that Broadway shopping area would be eliminated the story was debunked. In fact even up until a year ago one writer gained widespread favor by saying he thought it would never happen. This statement was based on nothing but imagination and missed the boat a mile.

While the liberal minded philosophers will say, that this is all progress, we wonder whether it is not all one big waste of tax money. Presently there are many routes around Broadway and when the railroad overpass is completed traffic will flow more smoothly. The real bootleggers on Broadway (Route 107) are at Grumman's and the six lane highway is needed there, but this tie up starts at the aircraft plant and there isn't any need to rip down Hicksville's business district to alleviate that problem.

In earlier correspondence with the state about the widening project letters mentioned the great flow of traffic that would be generated by the Mid Island Shopping Plaza, but people from this area, rather than Albany are aware that no unmanageable amount of traffic as forecast has come about because of this center. It would also seem a strange solution to knock out a taxpaying business section of a community to provide for Mid Island which has recently been the subject of a court case to lower its own taxes.

While it is difficult to fight Albany we still hope that somehow word will get through that Hicksville doesn't need or want the Queens Blvd. that has been planned for it.

Bursitis Not Serious Responds To Treatment

By C. A. Dean, M.D.

MEDITORIAL: Bursitis can strike almost any body area, but most commonly involves the shoulder. I have spoken of this type before. Today I want to discuss another favorite spot for bursitis -- the elbow.

Bursa (bursitis is inflammation of one) are small, thin-walled cysts containing fluid. They are found at all points of friction, such as between bones muscles and tendons. They function as ball-bearing shock absorbers so moving parts may glide smoothly.

Because they are like ball bearings, bursa are subjected to much stress and strain. Their constant use naturally makes them targets for injury and inflammation. I see at least 3 or 4 cases almost every week.

Elbow bursitis, also known as tennis elbow, is as common in my practice as shoulder bursitis. This type involves the bursa between the bones in the lower and upper part of the arm. When inflamed, if grasping motions are performed, pain is the major symptom. Most of the time the pain is not severe and is more of a nuisance than anything else.

Any treatment depends on the severity, the mild cases requiring none. In the moderate ones, simple measures, such as hot packs, diathermy, guarded activities and exercises generally suffice. The most severe cases may need injections (cortisone, procaine) spiking anti-inflammatory drugs, medicine for pain, plus the medications used for the moderate cases.

Autumnal Fires

By Russell Kirk

Fall is my favorite season. And the scent of burning leaves is my favorite odor. When nature is in the sear and yellow leaf, and cider flows, and the wind turns chill, and All Souls' Eve approaches, your servant is in his element. Few human institutions seem more cheerful to me than the bonfires of the dying year.

But children ought not to light bonfires when the autumnal wind is blowing with unpredictable strength. And this autumn of the Year of Our Lord 1963, certain great national bonfires threaten to escape from control, whipped by the winds of change.

Our State Department is inordinately fond of that phrase "the winds of change." We American citizens are forever being lectured from on high as to how these winds of change are blowing throughout the world, and how we ought to bow before the storm -- or, rather, how we ought to light a few more military and diplomatic bonfires, in the teeth of these winds, with a view to disseminating democracy, progress, and prosperity in the most remote corners of the earth.

But bonfires are not merely illuminations; also they burn -- and may singe the fingers of the naive folk that set them. Whipped by a "wind of change," the flaming leaves of democracy, progress, and prosperity may destroy whole civilizations.

This autumn, the winds of change are blowing hardest in Angola, the Yemen, and the East Indies. Holden Roberto, Nasser and Sallal, and Soekarno are happily setting matches to the dry vegetation of their respective corners of the world. And very tardily, some American policy-makers have begun to realize that not every wind is beneficent, and every bonfire is not heart-warming.

Raiding Portuguese Angola from across the Congo frontier, the ferocious partisans of Moscow-trained Roberto will commit the atrocities for which they have become infamous -- in the name of liberty. Holden Roberto has been entertained and subsidized in the United States. At long last, Washington officials -- even Mr. Mennen Williams -- are beginning to say that it might be imprudent to destroy Portuguese authority in Angola: this particular wind of change is nasty.

In the Yemen, the troops of Nasser and Sallal, with Russian armaments, probably will continue to drop poison gas on Yemeni villages -- and U.N. officialdom will continue to ignore this barbarity. The United States promptly recognized and approved Sallal's mercurial "wind of change" in Arabia. Now State Department people, embarrassed, are experiencing second thoughts.

In Sarawak and Brunel, Soekarno will attempt to break the new union of Malaysia, menacing the border with a vast military establishment that could not be supported except for American foreign aid. Soekarno's imperialism, too, was a "wind of change" smiled upon by State Department ideologies, right through his driving the Dutch out of New Guinea. This wind of change, however, has blown Soekarno right to the verge of the Soviet camp. Now Washington wonders.

The autumn's bonfires, gentle reader, are unlikely to usher in sweetness and light -- not the national and international conflagrations. I hope that the State Department may not stoke them further.

AN INTERESTING THING HAPPENED ON THE WAY TO...
ROOSEVELT RACEWAY

DAN PATCH

One of the historic events in harness racing occurred on August 19, 1903 in Brooklyn. On that day Dan Patch paced a mile in the world record time of 1:59 at the Brighton Beach Race Track. About 10,000 fans witnessed the feat in a tense, colorful setting. The New York Times, in a page one story, described the occasion as "a scene rarely seen at a trotting course."

The Illustrated Sporting News observed: "The remarkable feature of Dan Patch's performance was that those in the grandstand and on the quarter stretch all caught the time from 1:58 1/2 to 1:59 1/4. As a rule, just the reverse is true of exhibitions against time. He showed that Dan Patch is the marvel of the age."

Dan Patch, a handsome brown stallion, accomplished his performance in a time test in which he had two running horses attached to sulkies as pace-setters. He broke the record of 1:59 1/5 which had been set six years earlier by Star Pointer, another great pacer. Dan, who cost his owner $60,000, was one of the most popular horses of his era. He retired undefeated at the age of 10.

Roosevelt Raceway will pay tribute to him next Monday, October 21, when it inaugurates the Dan Patch Pace, a race in which the nation's leading pacers will compete.

Keep your mind on the road, not on your troubles. Don't worry about business, the family, or what may happen tomorrow. Keep alert to what's happening now. Good driving's a full-time job requiring an alert mind and body. If you must worry, do it in your leisure time.

WHEN YOU DRIVE...

Think now, complain later. "Mad" at someone or something? Turn it off when you turn your ignition on. Anger, no matter who or what it's directed at, can color your whole driving attitude, making you a menace to other motorists on the road.

THINK

Think wise... think cagey... think careful, cautious, cheerful, courteous driving. Good driving is the responsibility of every motorist. A cheerful attitude toward others on the road will get you to your destination more relaxed than if you find fault with every driver along the way. Think careful driving when you're behind the wheel. And, when you think of protection against the hazards of other not-so-careful drivers, think of State Farm, the careful driver's insurance company.

BEAUTY SECRETS

By Victor of Vilu

So many of my patrons, both young and old, come to me with pictures cut out of the fashion magazines or the newspaper and say to me, "Victor, this is what I want you to do for me." More often than not, I look at the picture, take a good look at my customer and reply, "Are you sure?" This is about as diplomatic as I can be under the circumstances, because it's hard to tell a young lady that she won't look as good as Jackie or Ladybird, once she's got her mind set on copying their hair styles.

Nature has a wonderful way of making each of us individuals, endowed in a special way with certain facial characteristics and personality traits that make us different from the next person, if this were not so, we would all wear the same clothes, the same hair styles, spout the same ideas and look like everybody else without having a distinguishing characteristic of our own.

It's good to get ideas from people who set the pace in the world of fashion. But these ideas should be the beginning and not the end of our search for our own individuality. When you see something you like, make certain first of all, that it was meant for you. Next, decide how you can change it or adapt it to your own particular style. Finally, armed with this information, visit your favorite salon and let the specialist you find there decide how it will look best on you. Not only must the hair style be right for your face, it must conform as well to the little world in which you live. I hate to use the word "conform" because this is a word that makes fashion conscious women snigger. But we must all take into consideration that a hair style that is right for Washington D.C. society, may be out of place in Plainview, Syosset or Westbury.

We at Vilu don't know all the answers. But profit by our experience in working with thousands of women, each of whom has a special beauty problem to work out. We have the "know how" to make you as beautiful as you can be -- and you may turn out 100% prettier than you would have had you copied Mrs. Kennedy's coiffure. Adapt but don't adopt a hair style, if you want to look your very best!

Letters

On September 19, the school board was instructed to go out into the community, and hard sell the school building program regardless of their true feelings. Since several board members disagree, where is the principle of free speech, accorded all living in a democratic society?

At the October 11 school board meeting, once again I witnessed the flagrant disregard of democratic action, and principle.

Local papers had informed the public of an upcoming TEACH format, at which Mr. Jackson and Mr. Abt would be expected to answer questions concerning the inadequate school building program. Yet last night the school board saw fit to extend red carpet treatment to a spokesman for TEACH, and his two assistants.

This same courtesy was not extended to any other organization.

Upon the completion of the school board agenda, there is a half hour designated for the public. The participants rise from their seats, and join in an extemporaneous discussion. This group was accorded special seating arrangements, plus complete control of the meeting from 8:30 PM until they reluctantly yielded sometime after 10 PM.

Never has such a mass of statistically incorrect information been cited to clarify lofty sounding objectives. Never has a school board been so insulted, while being overwhelmed with impertinent demands. Never have I witnessed the nose thumbing directed to the so called "common" people of this community. All under the guise of true concern for the future of our children.

Yes, our high school is experiencing over crowding. Yes, our school board is made up of ordinary beings, who are subject to the same imperfections found in the human race. Still they do try to solve our problems realistically. They do not suffer delusions of grandeur. Lastly, if students are not being properly educated, the sole contributing factor is not that there are 28 children in a classroom.

I would suggest TEACH avail itself of a copy of "The Education of American Teachers" by James Conant, a true authority in the field of education. He and the 77 associates, who aided him in accumulating data, round too many teachers too poorly trained to do an adequate job. (Not all, thank God, but far too many).

Smaller classroom sizes will never correct this problem.

Since I favor good education for all, with consideration for all, I would caution the people to awaken from their apathetic stupor. "Power in Education" must be controlled for the common good.

you may think you moved to the suburbs to enjoy...

- watching your children grow up in a wholesome, open environment
- the green lawns and lovely trees
- having some 'elbow room' between you and your neighbors but that's because you're not acquainted with double-think... the mental process by which Democrat office holders now plan to bring the CITY OUT TO YOU!!!

(Since you and so many others have moved to Oyster Bay to get away from the crowded city... big-thinking Democrat planners have come up with a plan for an elevated railroad system through the middle of our residential communities. However, their scheme would break us with the deficits it would bring. So, the Democrat double-thinkers need more people here in the suburbs, to support the transit system... and big apartment house developments to house these people.

Of course, this ruins the suburbs for those of us... who came here in the first place to escape big-City apartment houses.

But then, big-City dwellers vote Democrat - so the planners are going right ahead anyway.)

My Opinion

By Hicksville School Trustee William A. Bruno, Jr. (Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writer and do not necessarily represent the opinion of this newspaper.)

Besides being asked to vote for a $1,570,250 senior high school addition on November 23, you'll be asked by the Hicksville School Board and administration to okay construction of a spanking new administration and storage building.

This new structure, with a planned administration area of 14,000 square feet and a storage area of 14,000 square feet, will cost you, the taxpayers of Hicksville, $495,000 in principal and $326,700 in interest over 30 years, making a total of $821,700.

In prior columns, I discussed the need for the 24 additional classrooms planned for the high school. This week I broach the need for the $821,000 administration and storage building.

Despite the lack of cooperation of the superintendent of schools and the six-man School Board majority, I rather thoroughly investigated the necessity for this $821,000 expenditure.

Right now, we have an administration building on Newbridge Road, near the high school. It is a wooden structure true; and it probably wouldn't win any architectural prizes. But it is a good, serviceable building which has met district needs in the past. In addition, we rent administrative quarters aggregating 5,000 square feet at West Marie Street and Broadway.

For storage, on the other hand, we rent quarters on Duffy Avenue, again aggregating 5,000 square feet.

One of the things that especially whetted my interest in recent weeks was the report that several third grade Hicksville school children were without math textbooks.

Here (at the Duffy Ave. storagehouse) I found about 1500 textbooks stored -- many of them in perfectly usable condition. But more important, I found an number of third-grade mathematics textbooks in excellent condition. Since they were from an edition issued about three years earlier than the one presently in use, I compared the "old" edition with the one now used by some third graders. I found the old one contained more text and more pictures -- even more pages, in fact. All in all it appeared to be as good as the edition now in use.

Right here at the Duffy Ave. storagehouse I found incontrovertible evidence of what writer Vance Packard has called "planned obsolescence" in action. The school administration, with the blessing of the Board, buys a textbook. Two or three years later, the publisher "updates" the book, making obsolete the one on hand in a school district. And the school district is "suckerized" into buying a new edition of substantially the same book.

Since the Hicksville school administration, therefore, apparently "burns" or retires textbooks long before their useful life is over, the fact that Hicksville spends about $140,000 a year for textbooks -- about $35,000 a year more than neighboring East Meadow, which has 5,000 more students, spends -- causes me wonder no more.

I now see why Superintendent of Schools Donald Abt "clams up" when I put to him simple questions like "Why are some third graders without textbooks?"

I now see, too, why Abt and the six-man Board majority would curb my right of free speech if they had any defensible basis for doing so.

Here are some of the things I saw gathering dust at the Duffy Ave. storagehouse: Seed and fertilizer, piled 10 feet high in a 10-foot-long stack, stored here since last year; desks and chairs, piled 12 feet high, 12 feet deep, and 30 feet wide; rolls of cooper for arts and crafts classes, including tie pins, ear rings, cuff-links, etc.; valve covers for radiators; tables and chairs, some in good condition, some not, stacked 20 feet high 5 feet deep, and 20 feet across.

Surprisingly, the amount of paper stored appears to cover a wall 98 feet long and 20 feet high. Another mountain of paper, I was told, "has been here for about a year."

Why all the paper on hand for a year? Is somebody realizing unwarranted profits on the sale of paper to the Hicksville School District?

According to an informant, I was the only School Board member, aside from former Board president Jerome Zettler, who visited some eight months ago, to take the trouble to inspect the Duffy Ave. storagehouse in the last couple of years.

To my mind, the wasting of taxpayers' moneys in the Hicksville School District is monumental in scope and magnitudinous in proportion.

But you, the taxpayers, need not take my word for it. Why not form a citizens committee to investigate waste first hand? Conduct your own right-on-the-spot probe by visiting the present administration buildings and the storagehouse. You will then, I am sure, see for yourselves why the superintendent and six-man Board majority don't want the people of Hicksville to know too much about fiscal management in this district. (To be continued).

Getting Late For Christmas

Deadlines are fast approaching for the mailing of Christmas packages overseas and at home, according to Hicksville Postmaster Irene L. Murphy. The period November 1 to November 20 has been designated for the mailing of parcels by surface transportation to members of the Armed Forces overseas. Air-mail parcels should be mailed December 1 to 10. It would be wise to send greeting cards to servicemen at the same time.

In addition to the articles normally prohibited in the mails matches of all kinds and lighter fluid may not be mailed to overseas military ad-resses. Other articles are prohibited to some military Post Offices. Please consult the Post Office for this information.

Overseas mail to other residents should be mailed as follows: By November 1 to the Middle East and Africa and by November 10 to Europe and South America.

Use of the ZIP Code on cards and parcels will be appreciated.

If You Please

By Peter Pettibone

CHEERFUL NOTHINGS: One of our favorite musicians trombinist Sonny Dunham, tells the following story without stuttering: It seems that Mama Skunk was worried because she could never keep track of her two children. They were named In and Out, and whenever In was in, Out was out; and if Out was in, In was out. One day she called Out in to her and told him to go out and bring in. So Out went out and in no time at all he brought in. "Wonderful!" said Mama Skunk. "How in all that great forest, could you find him in so short a time?" "It was easy," said Out. "In stinct."....(ouch)....Driving through Hicksville I came up behind a rattling Model-T Ford. The Top was folded back carelessly, and I could see the venerable driver. He wore a very sporty cap and waved jauntily to friends as he bounced happily along. On the rear of the car -- along with clanging tin cans -- hung a sign announcing: "Just Divorced."....(instinct)....Suzy: "I wonder if Jack loves me?" Mabel: "Of course he does, dearie. Why should he make you an exception?" Autumn is here. I know it is, because I saw a flock of Geese writing their change of address in the sky....Our spaniel had quinpuplets....At Olof's Midway: "I had a very stubborn horse. I wanted to go one way; he wanted to go another -- so he tossed me for it."... News item: "The jury came to the conclusion that the fire was caused by friction between the insurance policy and the mortgage."....Asked by a Mineola Judge how he got so drunk the night before the hand-overed defendant answered, "I had a quart of whiskey and my three buddies didn't drink, and I was afraid to take it home where my wife would take it away from me and drink it her-self."....Jericho Tnpk Bar and Grill sign: "Spending Room Only."....At the Country Club Restaurant, Lakeville Road, a beautiful doll summoned Mgr. Chic Farmer, "Isn't that Victor Mature at the bar?" she asked. He assured her that it was. "Well, he's annoying me," she complained. "Annoying you? Why, he hasn't even looked at you," said Chic. "That," said the young lady, "is what's annoying me!"....(instinct)....One of the funniest things I ever saw happened in Hicksville the other midnight. A drunk was trying to slam a swinging door....Overheard at Grank Union: "I feel as worn-out as a woodpecker in a petrified forest."....At Bernie Mann's Riviera: "For your indormation, let me ask you a question!"....Advice Corner: The great secret of successful marriage is to treat all disasters as incidents and none of the incidents as disasters....The Sonny Dunham-Bob & Dick Eschmann Combo at Joe Berger's Country Club Restaurant is The Greatest!!!...Gloria Swanson, refusing to be dismayed by her graying hair, said, "I keep in mind that a certain amount of gray is essential in sable to made it expensive."
