Judge Reverses Library Ruling

Mineola Supreme Court Justice Joseph A. Suozzi this week reversed a decision handed down last June in which he had ruled that the Hicksville Library Board had illegally used tax moneys in the purchase of a $24,000 house and lot next to the library on Jerusalem Avenue.

At that time the Judge had ordered the return to the district of so much of the down payment as came from tax moneys. The purchase was made last year without prior voter approval.

But in this past week's ruling, Judge Suozzi said that the Board could amortize the mortgage on the property with fines and fees collected after the purchase last February.

The Judge stuck to his original decision, however, that the purchase was illegal. He refused to allow the Library Board to use $2,256 of budget moneys to help pay off the mortgage. To do so, Judge Suozzi said, would be to "sanction the use of tax moneys for a purpose which the Court has heretofore held is illegal."

Noting that there was no "showing of fraud" or "evidence" that the trustees of the library had acted without the "best interests of the district in mind" in buying the property, the Justice ruled that the former owners of the property, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Christ, "need not refund" a portion of the down payment moneys as the Judge had previously ordered.

He also dismissed the complaint of the plaintiffs, George E. Martin and nine other Hicksville taxpayers. Their attorney, Harry Goebel, said there might be an appeal from Judge Suozzi's decision.

A $300,000 library addition referendum which would in effect have had the voters ratify the illegal $24,000 purchase was beaten down by the voters last December.

Children's Book Week At Library

This week, the Hicksville Public Library is celebrating National Children's Book Week. There is a display of the Newsberry and Caldecott award winning books, plus a selection of the most recently published children's books, in the library auditorium. There is also a similar exhibit in the lobby of the main room of the library featuring posters specifically designed for the occasion. During the week the library has been having special visits from some of the classes from the Hicksville public schools. The classes view the exhibit and hear a story told by the Children's Librarian. A highlight of the weeks is the children's author and illustrator, Esphyr Slobodkina, who will speak on "Children's Literature" at 8 p.m., November 14, in the auditorium.

Children's Book Week each year gives fresh emphasis to the new young people for good books as well as a regular period of their revaluation. It has inspired the publishers of children's books to upgrade the quality of their books as they compete for high sales.

One Of Best Punters In Ivy League From Bethpage

One of the Ivy League's finest punters is a tall, sturdy native of Bethpage whose football career is confined by injury but whose contributions to the Harvard football team are a vital ingredient each Saturday afternoon.

Harry Van Oudenallen, a sophomore and a left-footed kicker, is ruled out of contact sports at Harvard because of five severe concussions suffered in three years of football and lacrosse participation.

The Harvard doctors allow Van Oudenallen, to punt, however, because this aspect of football is legally devoid of contact. And the fact that Harry can kick for the Crimson is a welcome fact. A pre-season leg "strain" had sidelined the former Bethpage High School standout but he made his varsity debut against Cornell when the Crimson punter of the day was having his trouble with a strong wind in the Stadium. Van Oudenallen got off a pair of low kicks into the wind and he proved the job was his.

The following week against Columbia, Harry averaged 42.2 yards per punt. His kicking was one of the big reasons the Crimson held the Lions and Archie Roberts from scoring a touchdown for the only time this season.

Van Oudenallen also played a big role in Harvard's 17-13 upset victory against Dartmouth that ended the Indians 15-game undefeated streak two weeks ago. One of his punts travelled some 70 yards in the air.

At Harvard a great emphasis is placed on kicking. Crimson coach John Yovicsin rates this department as the second most important part of the game. The first is defense. The second kicking. The third the offense. Without the first two, Yovicsin maintains, the third is not very successful.

Van Oudenallen had a promising lacrosse career at Harvard until a fifth head injury last spring in a freshman game at Exeter. "Next to Grady Watts," says freshman lacrosse coach Jim Lentz, who also is defensive coach of varsity football, "Van Oudenallen is the best lacrosse player I've seen in seven years at Harvard."

But Van Oudenallen loved sports and he wanted to play football even if he couldn't have contact. And to Harry there were many memories of kicking a football.

As a child of four—taught by his soccer-playing father—he learned to boot a soccer ball around the lawn of his home. The lawn was by the water in Singapore, where the Straits of Malacca flow into the China

Sea. At five his dad, a Dutch airline official, was shifted to Buenos Aires. "In Argentina, all they do is play soccer. I kicked a ball around all the time. Father would take me to a game, and there would be a crowd of 120,000." When he moved again he was nine and his father was shifted to Idelwild. Harry played on a soccer team from the Island that played for the Midget championship of the United States. He later was to handle the punting for Bethpage High.

Author Speaks At Library

Miss Ephyra Slobodkina, well known author and illustrator of children's books will speak on "Children's Literature" at the Hicksville Public Library, at 8 p.m. on Nov. 14, in honor of National Children's Book Week. She has had several one-man shows and her work has been exhibited in many private collections and museums, among them the Whitney in New York, the Philadelphia Museum and the Corcoran Gallery.

As an author and illustrator of books for young people, Miss Slobodkina has been noted for her creativity and imagination. She frequently designs the whole books as well as writing the story and drawing the illustrations. Many of her more popular books make use of collage in illustration. Among them are "Pinky and the Petunias," "The Little Dinghy," "The Clock," "Little Dog Lost," "Little Dog Found".

Letters

To the Editor:

I have been observing the pro and cons concerning the school building program, and I feel that certain questions pertaining to the true need of such a costly building program, are still unanswered. Perhaps some one knows the answer to the following questions -

(1) Since new building could not be completed until September 1965 or later, and if overcrowding is at present a reality, why were not some of the temporaries moved to the high school during the summer?

(2) If we do not have seats for our taxpayer's children, why are we still enrolling out of district students? At present we enroll 10 to 15. Our enrollment is 2915 at the high school, 15 less would result in 2900 enrollment. 26 more than the projected peak in the McCormick report (2874).

(3) Do we not have 10 students in Vocational school in Westbury - thereby reducing the 2900 figure to 2890 - 16 more than the (2874) McCormick report? Doesn't make sense to increase the tax burden for such a small number. We still have the absentees to consider.

(4) If the need for rooms is acute why are we not having a separate referendum? Just for classrooms!

(5) In previous years we granted 90% state aid for construction of school rooms. Are we being given 62.8% because the administration building is included in the package? That 27.2% will be very costly to the taxpayers?

(6) Could not office space plus storage space be built of less expensive materials? School construction cost about $30 a foot.

(7) Although the new administration building costing $495,000 will save us $425.75 a year (less than 2 cents in reduced taxes) the new building program will increase our taxes from $1.08 to $1.89 for the next 30 years.

(8) Is not the acquisition of land at Willet Ave. for a new building program? The original asking price was $65,000. Why are we paying $70,000? Is that property still owned by Supreme Court Justice Gulotta's wife?

(9) Why do certain people repeatedly voice concern about the enrollment in 1980? Our community has borne the brunt of continuous building programs since 1950 - and what appears to be the years of 1960. Let those living here in 1980 provide for their own, as we have done. Our tax load is overwhelming. Mrs. Ed. Smith 19 Parc Lane Hicksville

Thinking It Over

by Robert L. Morgan

Since Oyster Bay is the home of Nassau Democratic Leader John English, we hope he is reading this column because what I have to say concerns him.

Quite often I have been asked why we have supported a two party system in the Township of Oyster Bay and other parts of Nassau County, but now during the recent campaign we did not support the Democratic candidates.

Well, the reason is one Mr. English ought to do some pondering over.

A good many people in this area have often sought a change from the one party system that has prevailed for many years. The reason they look for a change at times is because they feel that the local government is doing things that do not represent the will of the local people. This is often on zoning questions.

So, naturally they look to the other party, the Democrats, to right things.

But this is where the problem starts. While the Democratic party has some good people, it has too many jokers in the deck. They are people who have gone to the party and done some vote-getting work but haven't the slightest conception of what local government is all about. In fact they look to the county and New York City to give us the answers. We doubt if most people in Oyster Bay Township and Hicksville want this.

They want a local government that they can reach and speak to when necessary. While the Democratic Party under Mr. English plausibly will deny that any of its people are advocating centralization, a law case that is going on now in Mineola speaks for itself. While the subject of the case is involved, a major point being made by the attorney, Jerome Murray long active in the local Syosset-Jericho Democratic club and a former Democratic candidate for the Town Board who was defeated, is that all requests for changes in zoning should be placed in Newsday instead of local readership newspapers. While we are aware that Newsday has done a great service to the Democratic party in smearing Mr. Pynchon and helping Mr. Petito to get elected, we don't think that Mr. Murray's idea will help the people of this area who depend on local papers for zoning change information.

Mr. Murray, of course, is persistent in his fight to give the all-county newspaper these purely local issues. He cites such things as the high circulation of Newsday and the comparative low circulation of local newspapers. (He forgets that per square miles of the area this newspaper covers it far exceeds the out of town newspapers). And we further submit that Mr. Murray knows that people buy and expect to find local issues in local papers -- we say Mr. Murray knows this because when Mr. Murray ran for the Town Board he placed his political advertising to be re-elected in the very newspapers he is trying to tell the local authorities not to use.

So you see Mr. English we would like to see a two party system in Nassau County -- but not a second party that will give less local voice to the people and lump everything into one county-wide system. This might give us a so-called two party system but it will be run by a one party newspaper. -- We await your answer.

Morocco And The United Nations

By Russell Kirk

On the borders of Morocco and Algeria, a few men are dying, and troops are moving up. This is not "Moroccan imperialism," as the dictator or Algeria, Ahmed Ben Bella, would have the world believe. During the past fortnight, this columnist has visited all the principal cities of Morocco; and everywhere one finds evidence of restraint and moderation on the part of Moroccans, despite strong provocation.

Here in Tangier, where these lines are written, business goes as usual. The tourist season is just beginning. That is one reason, according to many Moroccans, why Ben Bella chose to raid the frontier posts just now: he envied the Moroccan tourist boom. (Next to no tourists visit Algeria today, partly because of the difficulty of getting visas, and partly because they can't be sure they'd emerge with a whole skin.) There is no fear or fury. Nevertheless, the surprisingly calm newspapers announce that Tangier troop-units are preparing to move toward defensive positions nearer the Algerian border.

Few newspapermen, at this writing, have been able to get to the amorphous front, on either Algerian or Moroccan sides; the fighting occurs in most remote and dangerous desert country. By commandeering the reporters' aircraft, the Algerian government has cloaked its military operations in secrecy. Only Communist or pro-Communist newspapers are published in Algeria now, and the leading correspondents of European and American newspapers have been expelled from that country.

Apparently the Algerians have much to conceal. On October 21, the Moroccans forced down an Algerian helicopter, over Moroccan territory. In it were four Egyptian officers, three of them colonels. A hot partisan of his fellow-dictator Ben Bella, Nasser of Egypt has commenced interfering in this fight as -- on a much larger scale -- he has been attempting to annex the Yemen by sending troops to prop up his puppet government there. (October 20 and 21 must have been bad days for Nasser, for he also lost 26 officers in a Russian transport plane which crashed en route to Yemen.)

A few days ago, the Algerians seized the frontier post of Ich, near the Algerian base of Colomb-Bechar. Ich, according to any map, clearly is in Moroccan territory. Yet the Moroccans have not retaliated, merely continuing to hold the more southerly posts of Hassi Beida and Hassi Tinjou which they retook earlier. What accounts for such wonderful Moroccan patience?

The Moroccans are not cowards, and the Moroccan army is at least as battle-ready as the Algerian. But King Hassan II is said to believe that if Morocco hits back strongly at the Algerians, the "Afro-Asian bloc" in the United Nations Organization will condemn Morocco. Thus the aggressor is smiled upon by the UN majority, and the injured state must be thankful that the UN does not go so far, yet, as to send a "Peace Force," a la Congo, to aid the aggressor.

In Egypt, Nasser could not last three months without American financial aid. (In mild tones, American authorities recently suggested to Nasser that really he ought to stop sending more troops to conquer Yemen if he wants more American money). Ben Bella, too, gets American aid. And the U.S. pays nearly 40 per cent of the UN's budget. How long will America continue to curry favor with the least responsible and most belligerent of the petty "new nations?"

ROOSEVELT RACEWAY

SPEEDY CLOTHES HORSES

It takes a heap of leather, metal, rubber and felt to dress a harness horse for the races at Roosevelt Raceway. The trotter or pacer with ideal balance may need only modest racing gear, but there are other horses—good ones, too—that go into action covered fore, aft and fellock with pounds of equipment. The wardrobe of a sulky steed even includes suspenders.

WHAT'S HE WEARIN' TO TH' RACE TONIGHT?

OH—HOPLIES, SUSPENDERS, CASINGS, HEAD POLE GUARDS.

How does a pacer maintain his shuffling stride from Phillips gate to finish? It's done with hopples, leather casings worn on each leg and attached by straps from front leg to hind leg on each side of the horse.

In rare instances, a trotter may need hopples, too. But the straps in this case go only to the animal's belly and are designed to keep the front legs moving in legal trotting fashion.

Boots and other leg protecting devices are worn front and rear by trotters and pacers alike. And that's where the suspenders come in. They keep the knee boots from slipping down.

Then there are bandages, several types of bridles and a countless variety of bits. To say nothing of head-poles, shadow rolls, Murphy blinds, running-horse hoods and blinkers, four-ring over-checks, Daphne head-straighteners, Raymond head-leverages, brace bandages, tongue straps and an et cetera or two.

Keep your mind on the road, not on your troubles. Don't worry about business, the family, or what may happen tomorrow. Keep alert to what's happening now. Good driving's a full-time job requiring an alert mind and body. If you must worry, do it in your leisure time.

WHEN YOU DRIVE...

Think now, complain later. "Mad" at someone or something? Turn it off when you turn your ignition on. Anger, no matter who or what it's directed at, can color your whole driving attitude, making you a menace to other motorists on the road.

THINK

Think wise... think cagey... think careful, cautious, cheerful, courteous driving. Good driving is the responsibility of every motorist. A cheerful attitude toward others on the road will get you to your destination more relaxed than if you find fault with every driver along the way. Think careful driving when you're behind the wheel. And, when you think of protection against the hazards of other not-so-careful drivers, think of State Farm, the careful driver's insurance company.

BEAUTY SECRETS

By Victor of Vilu

How To Achieve That Unmade-Up Make-Up Look

If you've come of age and have a mind to apply that woman's prerogative of not following the crowd, you can achieve amazing beauty results by the simple trick of breaking well-established make-up rules and following your more reliable female instincts.

It's easy and often safer to "follow the book" in applying your make-up. But too often you acquire that "made-up" look that detracts rather than adds to the overall impression you make. America's most famous beauties, however, never give you the impression that they've spent hours in front of a mirror, because they have learned how to achieve that natural, casual, unmade-up make-up look. Here are some of their tricks:

One of them never blots her lipstick because she feels that it dulls the color. Of course, her lipstick doesn't stay on as long, but while it's on, it is vibrant and rich in color. She pats a little powder on her eyebrows after she applies her eyebrow pencil, and contrary to the rules, she puts mascara on both her upper and lower lashes, both tricks designed to focus attention on her eyes which are the highlights of her lovely face.

Another young beauty uses an artist's brush to put on her lipstick and rouge to help give her the natural look that is the trademark of her loveliness. She brushes the rouge along the lower part of her cheekbone and then brushes it up to blend with her skin color, much as a portrait painter would do it. She uses an astringent for stimulation of her dry skin and once in a while she brushes her teeth with baking soda. It gives her teeth a whiteness that makes her smile even more radiant than it normally is.

Whatever your beauty trick, stick to it if it brings results. And don't be afraid to experiment. Achieving that unmade-up look with your make-up is a studied performance -- but it will make you a star! For free consultation by a licensed cosmetologist, stop in at Vilu. It would be our pleasure to discuss your needs.

My Opinion

BY Hicksville School Trustee William A. Bruno, Jr. (Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writer and do not necessarily represent the opinion of this newspaper.)

It appears that I have been a thorn in the side of the six-man Hicksville School Board majority.

Why? Simply because I have not flatly stated whether I am for or against the three tax-hiking propositions the Board is asking the voters to okay on November 23.

Although the Board majority likes to gang up on me and use me as its own private whipping boy (on the theory, presumably, that might makes right) when I voice dissenting opinions which they can't censor, much as they would like to, I will nevertheless venture an opinion on the three propositions.

I am definitely, unqualifiedly, and unreservedly against so much of Proposition One as asks you, the people, to allow the building of a $821,000 (interest included) administration and storage addition at the high school.

I am just as unqualifiedly against the building of a $185,000 (plus $77,000 interest) combination gym and cafeteria at the high school because no convincing need has been shown for the lunchroom-gym combo. Incidentally, one of the complaints of the school administration has been that lack of gym facilities has forced children into an extra study hall. Next thing you know, the administration will be objecting to using the schools for educational purposes.

Finally, I am definitely and unreservedly against buying more land at the Willet Ave. School ($116,200 interest included) because, while the expensive, two-color brochure you have just received says that the "Board of Education does not plan to expand the Willet Ave. School," my information from a reliable source is that an addition is planned for Willet Ave. in the future. This, mind you, in the face of a declining enrollment in the elementary schools!

If I am against these propositions to the extent I have noted, you may rightly ask: What is Bruno for?

I am for the conversion of the Nicholas Street School into an administration and storage building that will completely wipe out the need for the ornate rococo $821,000 administration and storage building, which one writer in town has already nicknamed "Abt's Palace."

Answering the present 360 regular third-graders and the 19 special students at Nicholas Street School to other schools in the district would be as simple as A-B-C. The other schools could easily absorb these children since elementary school enrollment has dropped in the past year by 331 students. Besides, transportation, if any additional be needed, is no problem as we hire buses by the day.

Now, as to the tremendous savings that could be effected by the use of Nicholas as an administrative-storage building: The need for the rented administrative quarters at West Marie St. and Broadway, which cost $8,400 a year, would be eliminated, as would the need for the Duffy Ave. storage facility, whose rental is $6,000 a year.

The total saving by using the Nicholas School as an administration-storage building: $14,400 a year in rentals.

Next, the salary of the staff at the Nicholas St. School presently comes to $157,527.50. The salary of the Nicholas principal alone is about $12,200, while that of the high school principal is $13,100. But the Nicholas principal is in charge of a school of 379 students, whereas Mr. Galloway at the high school is in charge of 2,915 students.

Were the Nicholas St. School phased out and used as an administration-storage building, much of this annual payroll of $157,000 could be saved because of the absorption of many of the children in the third grades at other district schools and because of the elimination of the need for an extra principal and extra administrative help.

All in all, rather than pay out $821,000 in principal and interest over 30 years for "Abt's Palace" or status symbol, you, the taxpayers of Hicksville, could see to it that the Nicholas St. School, apparently good enough for school children, but not good enough for school administrators, is converted to an administration-storage building. By using Nicholas as an administration-storage building, a purpose for which it is admirably suited, you, the taxpayers, could save as much as $171,000 a year, where the Administration offers a mere $425.92.

But, whoever heard of any governmental body taking overt steps to save the people money at the behest of the taxpayers? Rather, the governments' philosophy is buy, buy, buy, spend, spend, spend, and tax, tax, tax. And it is you, the voter, who must pay, pay, pay.

Should you, the people pay, pay, pay for a fancy $821,000 administration-storage addition which is demonstrably unnecessary?

Ask yourselves that question when you go to the polls Nov. 24. (To be continued)

'Modern Moses' Speaks in Bethpage

From Sunday, Nov. 17, through Wednesday, Nov. 20, Dwain Evans, preacher of the newly established Bayshore congregation of the Church of Christ, and founder and leader of the widely heralded 'Exodus-Bayshore' movement, will conduct a series of Gospel meetings at the Church of Christ in Bethpage, located at 65 Stewart Avenue.

Meetings will be held at 11:00 AM and 6 PM Sunday, other evenings at 8 PM. In addition to basic Gospel topics, Mr. Evans will discuss some of the reasons and expectations of the 'Exodus-Bayshore' movement.

Unlike the Moses of the Old Testament, who was an aging man when he led his people out of Egypt, Dwain Evans is quite young. He conceived, directed and carried out 'Exodus-Bayshore,' in which over 80 families from South and Southwest U.S. pulled up roots as one group to move and settle permanently in the Bayshore area of Long Island. Over 200 people are involved in this modern-day Exodus, whose purpose it is to strengthen and broaden the influence of the Church of Christ here. News of this remarkable movement was carried in all local newspapers and prominent national magazines.

The Bethpage Church of Christ invites all Long Island residents to meet and hear Mr. Evans during this Gospel effort.

SPORTS

by HOWARD FINNEGAN

At the last mixing of the Nog they will remember the Seven Who Recovered along with that 20-20 rally at Mineola, the first victory over Great Neck, the heartbreaking stand at Westbury in '38 and the memorable 9-9 deadlock at Chamenade.

For those illuminating chapters in Hicksville gridiron history must now share honors with the inspired Orange stand, Saturday, as the Comets scored their most important victory in two decades with a 13-7 triumph over previously undefeated Plainedge.

Playing before 3,000 on the losers muddy field, the Comets tackled solid and often to free the ball seven different times. It was covered each time by one or more stalking Orange shirts.

The seventh and final was jarred out of Plainedge grasp on the Hicksville four yard line with but 28 seconds remaining. End Vince Hoosack embraced it in mid-air and raced out to the 32.

Several hundred Comet fans hurdled the fence to wait on the sidelines for the victory that came on the next play.

The result is a triple tie for the Conference crown between Hicksville, Plainedge and Clarke. Each has one contest remaining. A defeat would have shoved the Orange and Black down to third place.

A pre game soaking made the field sloppy and the decided edge went to the crunching ground game of the hosts. In 49 rushes they powered for 228 yards on the ground compared to Hicksville's 91.

Coach Jim Grantham's explosive offense got one chance in the second period and it worked. Quarterback Bruce Damm rolled out to his right and tossed 12 yards to Bruce Cerone on the Plainedge 36. Cerone, who was behind the entire secondary, ran all the way to the end zone, escorted by Hoosack. A reverse play for the extra point was thrown for a six yard loss.

Plainedge took the kickoff and went 66 yards in nine plays for a score. Conversion from placement made it 7-6 at the half.

If Hicksville used the tackle as its main offense weapon, Plainedge stymied the Comet air game to advantage. Plainedge intercepted three times, threw Damm for 31 yard total loss while attempting and also blocked a quick kick.

Hicksville kept the pressure up in the fourth period. The break came after an interception on the Plainedge 2. A fumble ensued on the first play. Larry Welsko, Steve Schuster and Charlie Triolo rambled to the 8. In two plays Welsko was in and he came back the same old tackle slant for the EP. Hicksville 13, Plainedge 7.

With four minutes left the ball was torn out of Welsko's hands on the 40. Exulted by the packed home stands, the Red and White careened madly for the stripe that would have preserved the perfect season the outright championship.

With 36 seconds left the drive had reached the nine. In the midst of a five yard advance someone punched the ball loose and Hoosack became one the Seven Who Recovered.

This has been the typical building year at Farmingdale and the record is not good. This is the oldest grid foe that Hicksville has and the Comet 20-8-1 margin is not representative of the tempo of the games.

The game will be at Hicksville. HICKSVILLE 32 Farmingdale 19.

History VIPs At Nicholai

On October 25, 1963, the children of room 2 at Nicholai Street School, arrived for class dressed as famous men and women from the pages of American History. For United States Week the children did research and made reports on many of our country's most distinguished citizens of the past. As the unit progressed and reports were shared, the class became aware of their great heritage. Culminating the project was a "Parade of Great Americans."

Miss Janet Findlay, third grade teacher, awarded prizes and certificates for the best costumes and reports. Patt Schneider won for her costume depicting Mary Todd Lincoln. Brian Stevens won for his costume depicting Thomas Jefferson. Honorable mention went to Grace Ahlsen as Mrs. Teddy Roosevelt; to Florence Reimer as Florence Nightingale; to Jeffrey Karp as Abraham Lincoln; and to Dale Bernstein as Admiral George Dewey.

Allison Deutsch and Robert Quaresimo won awards for their reports on Benjamin Franklin and Alexander Graham Bell, respectively.

Miss Findlay felt that one student summed up the purpose of the unit most precisely when the child stated, "We learned a lot of history, and we learned it in a fun way."

Why Fathers Age Overnight

By Edward J. Van Allen

When the apparently driverless car careened down the street, sideswiping three other cars in its erratic journey, it appeared to be guided by a ghostly hand. Abruptly it came to a stop as it smashed into a brick building.

Passersby and a policeman rushed toward the vehicle, its driver slowly pushed open the front door and half fell and half jumped to the sidewalk.

Ordinarily, the reckless, if not exactly wreckless, driver very likely would have been taken into custody and charged with driving without a license, among other things. But not this one. As the policeman approached, he stopped in his tracks and just gaped.

Badly shaken and white with fright, the driver began to cry for his mother. For he was just two years old.

The news story didn't say whether the father turned prematurely gray because of the bashful experience of the toddler. But if all fathers don't age long before their time, it's not because their offspring haven't tried.

Sample the hair-whitening antics of my own son, Edward, during what parent magazines quaintly dub the growing-up process.

Virtually from birth, this boy has been utterly fascinated by automobiles. So much so, in fact, that between the ages of 3 and 5 he

1. Turned off the ignition key one day as we were riding along with a Mack truck coughing and wheezing like an asthmatic highway behemoth close aboard my car's tail lights.

2. Decided my black automobile looked far superior spattered with white paint. (I spent hours in removing the white paint and in trying to restore the black sheen.)

3. Put stones in the gas tank, causing the car's motor to cough, sputter and die smack in the middle of a heavily traveled intersection as I was going to work.

Nor was it cars alone that intrigued this youngster in his formative years. He formed great attachments for tools which he promptly caused to disappear. Over the years I lost no fewer than eight hammers, two or three nests of saws, innumerable screwdrivers, carpenter's rules, etc., etc., etc.

Concurrently during this period painting became Edward's forte. Thus, for a time our red-brick house sported white stripes and naturally finished knotty-pine paneling turned up a splotchy green.

Perhaps the funniest escape of Edward the younger, which still throws me into paroxysms of laughter (although I thought it very unfunny at the time), occurred when I was putting up some newly installed French windows in our porch.

Ed was an ambitious four-year-old then who liked to follow me around and do whatever I happened to be doing in regular "monkey sees, mokey does" fashion -- much to my discomfiture at times, I must admit.

After I finished putting about eight windows, I stepped back to survey my handiwork.

"Say, some of this putty looks as though it has sand in it," I said to the wife. "It's turning brown."

I soon found there wasn't any sand in the putty after all. Edward had followed me from window to window and had carefully knifed away the putty and repuffed the windows with peanut butter!

It was a good workmanlike job too. But I'm sure that if any of the neighbors heard what I said at that point, thenceforth they marked me as a highly unappreciative father, unfit to shepherd any child during the growing-up process.

Oddments and Endments

Oyster Bay Town Supervisor-elect Michael Petito has been closeting with County Executive Eugene Nickerson, according to the papers, ostensibly to plant Democratic strategy on the Board of Supervisors after January 1.

Such independence of judgment is starting to behold.

Maybe somebody ought to suggest to Petito that the people of Oyster Bay town elected him, not Nickerson or the Democratic Party --

That latest hassle in Levittown over the suggestion that school children tell their parents when teachers fail to observe daily patriotic exercises raises a question as to whether certain Levittown School District teachers are not complying with the law which mandates certain patriotic observances in the public schools.

If there is any evidence that they are not, then the Levittown School Board, as overseer of the curriculum and apparent defender of the State Education Law, should conduct a sweeping probe of patriotic-observance practices in the schools.

If there is non-compliance with the law (and that wouldn't be at all surprising in any school district), the Board should find out why and take action accordingly.

As to the business of spying on teachers, morally the practice smells to the heavens; but it's hardly worse than the practice, in vogue in many public schools, of spying on children and parents through quaint little devices like the autobiography, the interview, and snoop questionnaires and psychological tests.

So, rather understandingly, I can't suppress a bit of a belly laugh when I behold the spies being spied upon by counterparts who are, admittedly, much more amateurish than those on public school payrolls --

That case of the three Springfield Gardens mothers convicted of "child neglect" because they refuse to let the New York City Board of Education uproot their children from a neighborhood school just three blocks away and ship them to a school 15 blocks away is surprisingly interesting.

That "child neglect" conviction could have been averted, no doubt, if the mothers had withdrawn their children from the City schools completely since parents have the legal right to send their children to a school of their own choosing. Or to no school at all, if suitable tutoring is provided --

Most Industrial Expansion

Michael M. D'Auria, President of the Plainview Chamber of Commerce, today announced that the Community of Plainview is the leading Community in Nassau County for new industrial plants. Plainview, with 13 new plants, having moved into Plainview over the past 12 months, far exceeds second place Hicksville with only six plants. The statistics reported by President D'Auria are shown in the annual report released by the Long Island Association's Area Development Council.

The Long Island Association report shows that new plants are constantly being built in Nassau and Suffolk Counties, and 120 firms, representing 36 industrial groups, have moved into the Nassau-Suffolk County area in the 12 months period ending September 30, 1963.

In commenting on this report, President D'Auria stated: Plainview continues to lead the field in industrial growth, which of course will help the burdened home owners because of the increased assessed valuation in this area, without the addition of any school children. The Town of Oyster Bay is to be complimented for attracting these industrial plants to our Plainview Industrial complex, and we of the Chamber of Commerce welcome them to our fine community."

Junior H.S. PTA Meets

The film shows many kinds of jobs that are available in electronics and should prove to be most interesting and helpful.

If You Please

By Peter Pettibone

SEVERAL HIGH SCHOOL boys were discussing shaving. Most of them hadn't had that experience yet, but a few had made tentative experiments with a razor. "Why I've shaved for two years," one boy bragged heroically, then added in no such heroic tone— "and cut myself both times."....Now that the election is over, I'll quote Theodore Roosevelt: "It is difficult to make our material condition better by the best laws, but it is easy enough to ruin it by making bad laws."....Last Sunday Port Washington's Dick Eschmann was watching a tense football game. One of his guests bragged, "When I was in college I helped Harvard beat Yale three times in succession." Eschmann asked, "Is that so? Which team were you playing on?"....Gloria Swanson arrived at Garden City Hotel to attend a fashion-show luncheon. A stranger at her table whispered to Gloria: "I understand Gloria Swanson is here. I want to see her. She must be about 60 by now. Miss Swanson whispered back, "Yes, she's here. I saw her wheel chair in the hall. Presently, the celebrity was introduced and went to the stage to make a brief talk. When she returned to her table, the other woman had disappeared."....Sign in a Bayshore store window: "ALTERCATION SALE—PARTNERS SPLITTING UP."....That's nothing. My favorite Southampton restaurant host Herb McCarthy, has this sign near his bar: "Customers who consider our waitresses uncivil out to see the manager."....A woman trying to maneuver her sedan out of a Hockville parking space banged into the car ahead, then into the car behind and finally, pulling into the street, she struck a passing truck. A policeman who had been watching approached her. "Let's see your license," he demanded. "Don't be silly, officer," she said archly. "Who'd give me a license?"....This is one columnist who didn't make any political election predictions, though we like them all. We left it to other writers, who didn't know either!....I like Isabelle Penny's, "Just about the time you think you can make both ends meet, some bloke moves the ends."....A certain little boy upon viewing the ocean for the first time, exclaimed, "Look, Daddy, it just keeps flushing and flushing."....Headline announcing birth of triplets: "Three of a kind gives pair full house."....What this country needs is a good five-cent nickel....Girl to friend, "I let him kiss me once, and he's been trying to scrape up an acquaintance with me ever since."....And Anne tells us that her idea of a model husband is one who thinks his wife's headache is as important as his own rheumatism....(poor thing).... During a spelling bee at one Long Island public school every child in the third grade went down on the same word: does. They spelled it D U Z.... ## Mail Early At Local P.O.

Faced with the certainty that Christmas 1963 will set an all-time record for mailings of Christmas cards and gifts in the Hicksville-Plainview postal area, Postmaster Irene L. Murphy requests your cooperation in her annual "Mail Early For Christmas Campaign."

The Postmaster said - "Here are the things to watch to be sure that every Christmas card and gift package will be delivered before Christmas Eve."

First, check over your Christmas card and gift list very carefully - be certain each address is complete with full name, street and number, city, state and zone or ZIP Code number.

Second, stock up soon on sturdy packing materials for your gift packages, including heavy wrapping paper, corrugate cartons, strong cord and paper adhesive tape.

Third, buy your postage stamps now. Be sure to use the colorful new five cent Christmas Tree stamps on your cards. Fourth, procure free labels from your post office which read "All For Local Delivery" and "All For Out-of-Town Delivery" so that you can sort your Christmas cards into two groups, with addresses all facing one way, thus insuring fast delivery.

Fifth, be sure that your full name and address is on all of your Christmas card envelopes and shipping labels and be doubly sure to include your ZIP Code number in your return address.

The Postmaster especially requests that you schedule your Christmas mailings so that all of your cards and gift packages going to most distant points are mailed by Dec. 10th. Those for local destinations should be mailed at least a week before Christmas.
