School Board Fight Shapes Up

With the deadline of April 22 growing near the race for school board candidates in Hicksville appears to be shaping up as a fight between three people for one position.

There are two vacancies this year on the Hicksville School Board. One is the seat now held by incumbent school board president George Jackson and the other is a seat vacated by the resignation of Dominic Sabatella, who moved out of the district. Two women and a man have already started to circulate petitions to become candidates for the unfilled post and George Jackson has declared semi-publicly that he will run for reelection. But no one yet has decided to oppose him.

Any taxpayer who is eligible to vote in the district may become a candidate for election to the school board simply by getting a petition form from the district clerk and obtaining the signatures of 25 residents. The petitions must be turned into the district clerk by April 22.

Voting on the school budget which is at an all time high of $11,434,871 (one half million higher than last year) with an increase in taxes to $6.14 will take place on May 6 along with voting on candidates. Presently there are 6,185 registered voters in the school district and registration will be open for those who have not voted in this school year on Saturday, April 25 from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. and on Wednesday April 29 from noon until 9 p.m. at all schools in the district. School district registration is not the same as regular election registration which is now permanent in Nassau County.

Boys' Chorus To Perform

The Boys' Chorus of the Hicksville Junior High School, under the direction of Gerald Barker, has been invited to perform at Bedford Junior High School on May 14. Boys' choruses are unique because of the difficulty in developing changing adolescent voices. The Jr. High Chorus is composed of 80 boys.

Teachers Demand To Air Grievances

By Edward J. Van Allen

The mysterious "suppression" of a grievance petition signed by a group of English teachers, a number of whom have since resigned, came to light at the Hicksville School Board meeting last Friday night as Trustee William A. Bruno, Jr., demanded, and redemanded that he be furnished with the grievance and a letter which he claimed school attorney Joseph Catalano has been "suppressing."

The rejection of the group grievance by School Superintendent Donald Abt has triggered a Supreme Court action against him. One teacher, apparently acting for all the aggrieved teachers, is asking the court to order Abt to hear the group grievance "without coercion or implied threats of recrimination." The court action against Abt is to be heard April 30. Veritable verbal fireworks flared when the Board reached a teacher resignation item on the agenda. Strongly implying that there has been "coercion, discrimination, or reprisal" against English teachers, causing a number of them to resign, Bruno read a document which he said prohibits such practices. He said of the 18 teachers who originally signed the "suppressed" grievance, "six have now been terminated."

It was learned that the grievance was aimed at Dr. John J. Rouse, head of the senior high school English Department, who reportedly has been trying to "stiffen up" the English curriculum.

During the entire evening, School Board President George Jackson gavelled Bruno "out of order" with monotonous regularity. He tried to stop the minority trustee at the beginning of sentences, in the middle of half-articulated words, and at the end of sentences. But, with persistence, Bruno pursued the topic. He obviously wanted to know why so many English teachers are resigning from the district. And just as obviously, the majority members of the Board and Mr. Abt were not about to tell him.

He then charged that the Board was about to accept teacher resignations without knowing what their grievance was. He said Catalano was "suppressing the grievance", and the Board was being asked to vote on something it knew nothing about. Because the Board was keeping the whole teacher grievance affair "in the dark," Bruno charged, "this district is being sued."

He moved that a public hearing be held "next Friday" (tomorrow) on the resignation from the English Department. The

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Morgan

A new book authored by columnist for this newspaper, Edward Van Allen, "The Branded Child" is the opening shot in a smoldering battle between parents and school psychologists. The book covers in a no holds bar way psychological testing that goes on in many school systems and in many ways invades family privacy and passes on conclusions about school children that are half cocked and harmful.

The book is an opening shot. It is not the final way or answer to the problem. It leaves out that vast gray area of school life where the parent is not competent or not interested enough to be of help in situations where children are "unschoolable" because they do have real emotional problems that are unsettled. Some of these problems are apparent in Puerto Rican areas of New York City where some of the students do not even know their real parents. And no one can be consulted. But school psychologists in districts such as Hicksville can be a dangerous breed. Not licensed as psychiatrists, they can play around with the minds and measurements of capabilities of school children with such abominable playthings as "The Blacky Test" which is at the present time taking a beating as a pseudo-psychological sex test even by some psychologists. This sex test was in the Hicksville schools for many years. This problem is further enlarged by the lack of consultation with parents who do care and by the possible lack of ability of the school psychologist.

We have been an addict of psychology in college even to the extent of gaining a major in the subject (among other majors, an extravagance allowed those on the GI bill) but gradually disillusionment set in. It became apparent that psychologists and their students many times prefer to utter hot air in place of facts and that the psychology classes themselves attract many unstable students who are using the courses for self-diagnosis -- but who in turn will some day be tinkering with the minds of others.

"The Branded Child" is a short good book that has something in it to think about. It doesn't have the whole situation. But it is worth reading.

Hardening Of Arteries Not Always Serious

By C. A. Dean, M.D.

(Q) "My husband was recently in the hospital. The doctor says he has hardening of the arteries of his brain. Is this serious and what can we expect from now on?" Mrs. A.P.

(A) Hardening of the arteries of the brain is usually serious but not always so. It means the blood vessels are becoming smaller and therefore not supplying enough nourishment to all the brain cells. It may not get worse, however, for some time. I suggest following very closely whatever medication or diet the doctor recommends.

(Q) "What can be done for covering over white spots (loss of pigment) on the skin?" Mrs. T.A.

(A) Preparations can be purchased from your pharmacist directly or on advice from a skin specialist, to mask these areas.

MEDITORIAL: When pregnant women put on weight, the question is how much weight is due to the growing baby and how much is fat from over-eating. Recently, a study carried out at a maternity hospital in Scotland revealed the average weight gain for a first-time-pregnant woman to be 27 pounds. About 18 pounds was due to the weight of the baby, afterbirth and water, increase in size in womb, increase in amount of the mother's blood and the increase in breast size. The remaining 9 pounds was therefore thought to ordinary fat. This was shown by skin thickness studies and the mother's own statements of increase in fat around the thighs and lower abdomen.

Is It Anti-American To Criticize The Senate Department?

By Russell Kirk

THE JOHNSON ADMINISTRATION'S foreign policy, and Secretary of State Rusk, are being belabored from all sides. Senators Morse and Gruening have said in no uncertain terms that Mr. Rusk's services can be dispensed with. The immediate cause of their wrath was Secretary Rusk's recent speech to the Western Political Science Association meeting in Salt Lake City: Mr. Rusk declared that people who advocate "gutting" the foreign-aid program, and "abandoning the field" to America's adversaries, play into the hands of the Communists. His language was strong.

Now Senators Morse and Gruening, Democratic liberals, have been as critical of the foreign-aid program as have conservative Republicans like Senators Goldwater and Tower -- though not always for the same reason. And both Morse and Gruening think that American forces should be withdrawn from South Viet Nam. The two of them declared that Mr. Rusk's words implied that those who oppose State Department policies are only a little windward of treason.

Certainly senators in either party have reason to complain of the supercilious tone of many State Department pronouncements and personnel. This columnist has had similar experiences with various branches of the State Department -- though other offices of that department, and some of its leading lights, are civil and reasonably candid.

Although the State Department is at least one-third over-staffed, and encumbered with deadwood in the form of incompetent administrators whom it is virtually impossible to remove from office (these sad truths are affirmed by such eminent diplomats as Mr. George Kennan), still the Department is particularly touchy when anyone mentions the possibility of reducing its expenditures of its personnel. When this commentator discussed the vast over-staffing of most embassies, for instance, the propaganda-apparatus of the State Department set to work to try to discredit his criticisms, by evasion, innuendo, or outright false denial. When, similarly, I wrote of some instances of silliness in the United States Information Agency and allied programs, I encountered intemperate and arrogant -- and apparently frightened -- reactions from high-ranking administrators who ought to be responsible, but seem to be more interested in preventing anybody from upsetting the applecart.

So I feel more than a little sympathy with Senators Morse and Gruening. The foreign-aid budget recently proposed by President Johnson -- some 3.4 billion dollars -- can and should be reduced; much of such money still goes down the drain. It is not unpatriotic to say so.

As for South Viet Nam, the Senator from Oregon and the Senator from Alaska (whose views now seem to be shared by the Democratic Senate leader, Mr. Mansfield) are right enough, in a way. Either the State Department and the military must devise a new plan for resisting the Communist guerillas in southeast Asia, or we should make the best of a bad bargain, follow the example of General de Gaulle in trying to compromise with our adversaries in that part of the world, and withdraw our troops. As this columnist and other writers have pointed out recently, merely pouring in military and economic aid to continue the present unsuccessful scheme of resistance must lead to defeat.

So unless Secretary Rusk and his staff mend their policies and their utterances, they are going to have less and less cooperation from the leading senators of either party.

motion was not seconded.

In not producing the grievance papers and a letter, dated March 12 which Bruno likewise wanted to see, Catalano said he was acting in the "best interests of the district."

After a good deal of wrangling, Catalano promised to produce the papers within a week.

During the discussion the attorney admitted that a Board member is "entitled to see the grievance," but he didn't offer to produce the papers for inspection by the Board.

It was adapted by this master of the medium, Mr. Kurosawa, and is played superbly by the cast.

This movie well deserved the acclaim of Time magazine, "quite the most brilliant and original attempt to put Shakespeare in pictures."

As is usual all are invited and it is free at the library.

The young volunteer receptionist at a big Nassau hospital had noticed an old gentleman who had been sitting in the lobby for about an hour. Finally the gentleman came over to her desk and asked whether Mr. Charles F. Jones could receive visitors. The young receptionist consulted her card index and said, "No." The old gent asked, "How is Mr. Jones getting on?" He was told that Mr. Jones card showed he was progressing very nicely. "I'm glad to know that," said the gentleman. "I've been up in that room ten days and couldn't find out a darn thing from my doctor. I dressed and came down here to find out. I'm Charles F. # A PROGRESS REPORT: AN ATTEMPT BY A SCHOOL BOARD MEMBER TO CONTROL THE PRESS!

On Dec. 13 Mr. George W. Kunz, a trustee of the Hicksville Board of Education, attempted to control the editorial opinion of this newspaper. Mr. Kunz brought before the school board an editorial criticising it for having conducted a building expansion referendum on the Saturday of national mourning for the late President Kennedy. Because this editorial disagreed with the board, Mr. Kunz used his office to make a motion to deny any legal advertising to the Mid Island Times. . . But he invited the editor to come and publicly apologize for the editorial at the Board meeting of January 10.

This Was Our Answer

I have not come before this Board tonight to apologize for any opinions that I have written. I am here to demand the resignation of Mr. George W. Kunz from this School Board. Mr. Kunz has misused his office and committed an act which is in the nature of bribery. It is an act that cannot be condoned by anyone and will bring disgrace upon the Board of Education.

It was with shock and amazement that I read a letter from Board member Kunz suggesting that I might come to this Board meeting and apologize for editorial opinions I had written in the Mid Island Times. These opinions questioned the propriety of holding balloting on the school referendum on the Saturday after Pres. Kennedy was assassinated.

The shock was that I never suspected Mr. Kunz who has been elected to the Board of Education in Hicksville would take it upon himself to influence a newspaper and actually distort the contents of a newspaper editorial.

The shock was intensified when in listening to the recorded minutes of the meeting of December 13, that Mr. Kunz would dare to openly state that this was a reason for withdrawing legal advertising from the newspaper.

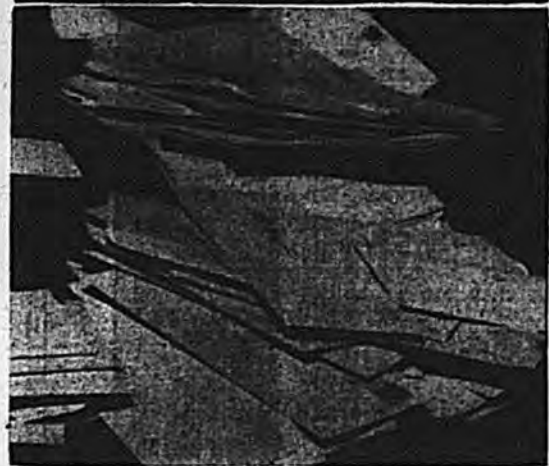

I want Mr. Kunz to know without reservation that it is not his place to direct the editorial policy of any newspaper and that if the position he was elected to on the School Board by a narrow margin, has so inflated his ego that he believes he has this power, he has much to learn. It is a breach of office for any member of a School Board to suggest that in addition to purchasing something—in this case advertising—that he is entitled to something extra. This is a misuse of public office. The School Board and Mr. Kunz have no reason to expect any special treatment by newspapers that they by law place advertising in. If this were the case there would be no criticism of any public office and no newspapers worth printing.

In the case of a Board of Education trying to establish this practice it is even worse. They are supposed to represent the highest goals of education which must of necessity be in accord with the Constitution of the United States. To blatantly attempt to control newspapers with tax money is incongruous.

The facts are clearcut in this case and beyond debate. Mr. Kunz even confirmed in letters to the newspaper that he was penalizing it for its editorial and that it would get what he calls "fair treatment"—that is the Board might buy the usual advertising space—if the editorials were friendly. There is no way that the Commissioner of Education can approve of this. It is wrong, disgraceful and a misuse of public office. If Mr. Kunz does not voluntarily resign, we are sure he will be ousted.

In order to divorce this issue from a monetary one, the Mid Island Times has decided not to accept any more legal advertising from the Hicksville School District for the remainder of this fiscal year, regardless of whether the action of the Board is reversed or not.

Let's Talk About a Unique Investment LIFE INSURANCE

Over and above its basic job of financial protection, life insurance has many other important values:

- It is a sound investment that keeps growing in value, like a savings account you add to regularly.
- It earns healthy dividends.
- It is your property. You can withdraw some or all of its built-up cash reserve at any time. Or you can borrow it. Or use it as collateral for a bank loan.
- It is a source of income. Later on, you can use it to give you a lifetime monthly retirement income.
- It is the one savings plan you are most likely to complete. Many people welcome life insurance as enforced savings.

And, of course, from the day it starts, this same life insurance policy also gives you the full financial protection your family needs . . . the money that guarantees your dreams will come true.

Keep your mind on the road, not on your troubles. Don't worry about business, the family, or what may happen tomorrow. Keep alert to what's happening now. Good driving's a full-time job requiring an alert mind and body. If you must worry, do it in your leisure time.

WHEN YOU DRIVE...

Think now, complain later. "Think" of someone or something? Turn it off when you turn your ignition on. Anger, no matter who or what it's directed at, can color your whole driving attitude, making you a menace to other motorists on the road.

THINK

Think wise... think easy... think careful, cautious, cheerful, courteous driving. Good driving is the responsibility of every motorist. A cheerful attitude toward others on the road will get you to your destination more relaxed than if you find fault with every driver along the way. Think careful driving when you're behind the wheel. And, when you think of protection against the hazards of other not-so-careful drivers, think of State Farm, the careful driver's insurance company.

Regis. Day At Lutheran Schl.

Prospective new enrollees at Trinity Lutheran School, Hicksville, will have opportunity to register for the 1964-65 school term on Thursday, April 23, according to an announcement received recently from Dr. Richard H. Engebrecht, the school's principal. Hours on Registration Day include a 10 - 12 Noon, 2 - 4 P.M. and 7 - 9 P.M. scheduled period at the school building, located at 40 West Nicholas Street in Hicksville.

Trinity Lutheran School, the largest Lutheran elementary school on the Eastern Seaboard, begets its twelfth academic term in September. With an initial registration of 60 youngsters in 1952, the school grew quickly to its record enrollment of 475 in 1959 when its classes still included 7th and 8th graders.

With the advent of Junior High School classes at the Long Island Lutheran High School, Brookville in 1960, Trinity discontinued its 7th and 8th grade classes. Accordingly, today it has an enrollment of approximately 430 students in Grades K-6, 16 teachers and an administrative and pastoral staff of 4 now serve the school's enrollment.

The Reverend Edward H. Stammel, pastor of the Trinity parish, recently stated that he regards the opportunity of full time parochial education which the school has provided to thousands of youngsters as one of the best contributions the Trinity parish has made to the Hicksville community during its 107 year history.

The Trinity school is highly respected in the Hicksville community by parochial and public school leaders alike. It received its provisional charter from the New York State Board of Regents in 1955 and was granted its absolute charter in 1960.

This odd-looking device is now cutting oil heat bills in thousands of U.S. homes

It is called the Shell Burner-Pak. Surveys of actual home installations show it saves an average of $17 on every $100 once spent for heating oil. It has earned the Good Housekeeping Consumers' Guaranty. Read this report and learn why an oil company is selling a device that cuts the amount of oil you need to heat your home!

THE Shell Burner-Pak is a compact device that can make old oil burners work as well as the best modern burners.

Since nationwide introduction, detailed records have been kept on hundreds of installations.

They show that—based on the typical $200 annual oil heat bill:

- Ten percent of the homes equipped with the Burner-Pak save between $56 and $78 in the first year alone.
- Thirty percent save between $35 and $55.
- Forty percent save between $18 and $34.
- Twenty percent save up to $17.

In most cases, the Shell Burner-Pak can pay for itself in its first heating season. And savings continue year after year.

The Burner-Pak also promotes quieter operation and cleaner heat—cleaner because it burns every drop of oil completely.

Why Shell helps customers reduce oil consumption

Shell invented a device that cuts oil consumption because it makes good business sense:

Some ten million homes in the United States have central oil heating systems. But most of these oil burners are over ten years old. Many don't work as well as they once did. The de-

How Burner-Pak cuts heat bills

All gun type burners burn a mixture of oil droplets and air. For maximum efficiency every drop of oil must produce all the heat it can.

The secret to the Burner-Pak's high burning efficiency lies in exactly matching the flow of both oil and air.

At start-up, the Burner-Pak holds the oil back until air and oil pressures have reached their maximums. Ignition is sharp and clean.

During operation, the oil is converted into a fine, conical spray, exactly matched by the air flow.

Combustion is complete. Maximum heat is produced at once. At shutdown, oil flow stops instantly. Cut off is sharp and clean.

Result: More heat from less oil.

Increased efficiency and economy of these older burners can lead to customer dissatisfaction.

Shell's solution is the Burner-Pak—a device that improves existing oil burners.

With the Burner-Pak, we sell less oil to each customer. But our old customers stay satisfied and we have a powerful means of attracting new customers.

Old burners work like new ones

The Burner-Pak was designed to make old units burn as efficiently as new ones. It can even make an old burner work better than a new one.

The Burner-Pak will fit the burners in nine out of ten homes that have central oil heating. A Shell serviceman can do the job in a short time.

What the Burner-Pak costs

The Burner-Pak unit itself costs about $17 plus state and local taxes.

Installation is additional but reasonable. Because installation costs vary, only a Shell Heating Oil Distributor can give you an accurate figure.

The Shell Burner-Pak is sold strictly under this guarantee:

"You must be completely satisfied with the Burner-Pak twelve months after installation or the Shell Oil Company will refund your money in full."

You are also protected by the Good Housekeeping Consumers' Guaranty:

"If product or performance is defective, Good Housekeeping guarantees replacement or refund to the consumer."

These guarantees are your assurance that you take no risk with the Shell Burner-Pak.

Your savings can be predicted

Only a heating efficiency test of a burner can determine whether or not a Burner-Pak can make a significant saving in oil bills. This test permits an accurate estimate of the amount of savings possible with the Burner-Pak.

If the test reveals that your burner does not need the Burner-Pak, we will tell you.

The heating efficiency test is free. To get one, without obligation, mail the coupon below.
