THURSDAY, JUNE 25, 1964

Hicksville Place High In Math

Out of 6310 schools and 225,000 students participating in the Fifteenth Annual High School Mathematics Contest sponsored by the Mathematics Association of America, Hicksville High School placed among the top 1.5%.

Because Hicksville placed in the first decile of the participating schools, Hicksville High School will receive an engraved Certificate of Merit.

This is the first time Hicksville has ever placed in this competition. Mr. J. Laucks is Mathematics Department Head.

Teachers Score Grievance Postponement

Eighteen High School English teachers who have a grievance against Supervisor Dr. John Rouse, scored the Hicksville School Board yesterday in a statement against the postponement of their hearing which was scheduled for last Thursday, but suddenly postponed.

The teachers said that the Board's vote to postpone the hearing is detrimental to their case because the resignation of 11 teachers becomes effective on June 30.

The Hicksville School Board said it postponed the hearing on petition of attorney Emile Zola Berman, nationally known counsel who has been retained at school district expense, to advise Dr. Rouse. Mr. Berman needed more time to study the case. He is known for his defense of a marine sergeant in Parris Island who was accused of poor leadership in the famous Parris Island Death March. He is also known as a past candidate for the post of district attorney of Nassau County.

The School Board said it will announce shortly when the hearing will be held.

High Tax Collection

Out of the Warrant of $40,106,444.04 issued for the 1963-64 School Tax Levy, over 98% was collected before the tax rolls were returned to the County Treasurer on June 1, 1964, according to figures announced by Frank J. Hynes, Receiver of Taxes of the Town of Oyster Bay.

Following is a summary of the local School District Collections:

SCHOOL DISTRICT	WARRANT	%
17 Hicksville	5,581,663.97	99.23
18 Plainedge	2,533,132.71	95.19
19 Plainview	4,243,452.14	93.53
20 Bethpage	770,141.46	99.53

Although final notices were sent out to that effect, Mr. Hynes wishes to point out that all unpaid 1963-64 School Taxes are now payable to the County Treasurer, at the County Office Building, Mineola.

Storm Drains

The contractor has been ordered to be prepared to proceed with stormwater drainage facilities in Miller Place, Hicksville, during mid-July it was announced by Highway Superintendent Norman T. Wolf.

Vinor Corporation of Huntington was awarded the contract at its bid price of $28,429, lowest among nine bids submitted. The drain line will extend from McCarthy's Lane, under the railroad tracks in the vicinity of Northern State Parkway

FIREWORKS OVER PEACE SYMBOL WILL STRESS UNIVERSAL HARMONY

(Graphic News Photo)

THE EYES OF AMERICA and the world around it, will be focused on Long Island this July Fourth, when fireworks explode in colorful profusion at the World's Fair, to accentuate the theme "Peace Through Understanding." Nightly fireworks at nine o'clock are preludes to the giant display planned for Independence Day. Special programs at the Fair will also mark the significant day.

Improve With Age:

SENIOR CITIZEN ARTISANS

TWO RESIDENTS of the A. Holly Patterson Home for the Aged and Infirm, in Hempstead, whose works of art were featured at the recent Senior Citizens Hobby Show, at Roosevelt Raceway, in which several hundred oldsters participated, are Mrs. Madeline Fisher (above) 75-year-old painter in oils, and Mrs. Regina Erickson (below) shown weaving a Turkish-knot rug. All of the 490 Patterson Home residents participate in hobbies, many of them for the first times in their lives. (Graphic News Photo)

A Woman's Place:

At Home Plate

AN ATTRACTIVE 31-year-old brunette, mother of three, Mrs. Charles (Helen) Kerr of Seaford is the lone distaff Little League manager on Long Island. Her team, the "Phils" of the Mayfair League in Seaford, had lacked a coach and was destined for disbandment when the youthful Ma adopted the young sluggers (aged 9-11) and whipped them into shape. Latest report: Infield, classy; outfield, outclassed.

CHARGING BATTERY: Mgr. Helen briefs pitcher Neal Riemenschneider and catcher Bruce Olin, on game strategy. She played on girls' softball team.

DO IT FOR MA: Plea for a victory is made by manager, as new recruit, from Orioles, listens in on pre-game pep talk. (Graphic News Photo)

Thinking It Over

by ROBERT L. MORGAN

There has been a great surge of activity in behalf of bettering economic conditions on Long Island.

The bare facts show that the economy of the Island is slipping badly. The large defense plants are faced with a shortage of contracts this year and will be felt down the line.

When the economy is threatened as it has been many times before on Long Island, a howl goes up. The Long Island Association, dominated by defense plant magnates, pushes politicians and politicians push others to get more contracts to help bolster the economy. And this is just what is going on now.

We think that through one form of badgering or another, the government will come through with some more gravy to keep the local plants running whether the government needs the products of these plants or not--and woe be unto any politician who questions this system.

But doesn't it seem logical for someone to ask the simple question: How long can this go on?

Long Island economy has been dominated for too long by the aircraft industry which plays politics and pushes for "fat cat" contracts that help keep many people employed, but are more help to the big time aircraft executives and their brothers-in-law who are busy milking sub contracts from the awards, than they are to the long term economy.

Long Island industry needs a push, but the push must be in phasing out at least half of the dependence on government aircraft contracts and phasing in of non-defense consumer items.

The federal government cannot let Long Island go down the drain economically, but its help should be extended to those industries that are making efforts to diversify and get off the defense contract gravy train.

We think it is pathetic that so much public opinion is swayed by the aircraft industry moguls on Long Island who are only looking to personally get their fingers on more government defense pie under the guise of everyone getting behind a big drive to stop unemployment.

Low Stomach Acid Doesn't Mean Cancer

By C. A. Dean, M.D.

(Q) "I was told several years ago that I had no stomach acid. I read where a lack of acid doesn't cause stomach cancer but low readings could be due to cancer. Please explain as I am worried as to whether I have cancer or not." Mrs. E.S.

(A) There are many persons who normally have little or no acid-producing cells in their stomach. This is not serious and doesn't lead to cancer. On the other hand, if a cancer develops in someone who has normal acid-secreting cells, the amount of acid will decrease as the cancer grows. If you have had no acid for "years" and don't have any stomach symptoms, then you can't have cancer. If you need further proof, have an upper G.I. series (stomach X-ray) performed.

MEDITORIAL: When we think of mental health, our thoughts immediately focus on adults. Let's not forget, though, that the adolescent develops emotional problems quite often too. Their mental health problems seem to be brushed aside as "due to their age," or "they're all like that," or "they will grow out of it."

Early signs of adolescent emotional problems include a significant drop in academic performance (especially in the 7th, 8th and 9th grades), a withdrawal from social activity, reluctance to attend school, moodiness, lack of confidence, sleeping and eating disturbances, depressions and conflict with authority. Stomach ulcers are a potential complication in this group.

The answer is proper help and guidance. This may be obtained through guidance counselors at school, the religious advisor or the family doctor. Several visits to the doctor may be necessary. In severe cases a psychiatrist should be consulted.

The Republican Platform

By Russell Kirk

GOVERNOR ROCKEFELLER'S FINAL ATTEMPT to do mischief to Senator Goldwater is this: to impose on the gentleman from Arizona a "liberal" platform that would be anathema to Presidential candidate Goldwater, and would lead to his certain defeat in November. In 1960, Mr. Rockefeller did precisely that disservice to Mr. Nixon -- and then failed to support Mr. Nixon actively. But this ploy won't work in 1964.

First of all, the new Republican platform is being written by a committee headed by Representative Laird, of Wisconsin, a conservatively minded Republican. It won't be a me-too pronouncement. Second, the nomination of Barry Goldwater is so certain that the platform committee will not venture to insert anything repugnant to their Presidential candidate. Third, the great majority of delegates to the Cow Palace convention will be so conservative that they would reject from the floor a "liberal" platform.

Mr. Rockefeller and a few others would like to outdo the Democrats in various matters -- promising a "medicare" program through Social Security, and advocating "civil rights" measures even more extreme than the bill now being debated in the Senate. But to make President Johnson look comparatively conservative, in this hour, would be to bestow upon the Republican party a defeat worse than that it suffered under London.

Senator Goldwater, like Mr. Eisenhower, would restrict the program to a succinct statement of general principles, rather than trying to promise the Earthly Paradise to all voters through a tremendous list of alleged legislative benefits. And probably Mr. Goldwater and his friends will try to focus the platform upon a few really important issues, chiefly matters in which the Democrats are, or may become, unpopular.

One big item in the platform will be a strong demand for a successful foreign policy. The failure of American policy in Southeast Asia and the Caribbean, and the feeble achievement of foreign-aid schemes and of the "alliance for Progress," have roused wide public discontent. The Johnson administration will have much more trouble, before election, in South Vietnam and Cuba. Here the Republican platform architects might strike the Achilles' heel of the Democrats.

Scarcely second to this issue is the burning controversy over political centralization and "civil rights." The platform committee certainly will not apologize for racial segregation; but it may well speak out against the use of force and unenforceable legislation, and against the invasion of long-established, genuine civil rights by radical "civil rights" proposals. Here the Republicans have a chance to deprive even Lyndon Johnson of the Southern states, and to obtain support from Polish, Italian, and many other Northern groups that feel themselves threatened by pressure from the colored organizations. Racial rioting this summer might make this plank more important even than the foreign-policy issue.

Among lesser questions, three may be emphasized. One of these is the Bobby Baker scandals -- if Senator John Williams and his small band of reformers can re-open that Pandora's box. Smaller scandals greatly damaged the Truman administration's reputation, and somewhat harmed the Eisenhower administration. So there may be a well-worded Republican plank demanding honesty and retrenchment in federal government.

Also the "prayer amendment" attracts more and more attention: if the Republicans endorse the Becker amendment to the Constitution in their platform, they will attract a good many Catholic and Protestant votes. And the immense spending of the Johnson administration will receive some attention; for, despite Johnsonian gestures of austerity, this year's budgetary deficit probably will come to 11 billion dollars, and the dollar itself may be in international trouble once more.

An imaginatively and vigorously conservative platform, in short -- combining with Senator Goldwater's strong and genial personality -- seems to be the Republicans' chief hope for triumph in November. "Me too" programs are in the sear and yellow leaf.

Bruno Still Fights

Attorney Harry H. Goebel has filed a letter in reply to a memorandum of opposition in the case of Trustee William Bruno Jr. against Superintendent Donald Abt of Hicksville, School District 17. The letter which further supports Bruno's claim that he should be given information on school district affairs by the Superintendent, consists of five typewritten pages and includes such points as, that while the memorandum of opposition denies some of Bruno's statements, the School Attorney defending Mr. Abt failed to call Bruno for testimony during the hearing in Albany although Bruno was present.

Other points in Goebel's letter refer to alleged conflicts of interest in the district. No decision has been announced by Commissioner of Education James E. Allen.

How To Be Literally Literal

Tom Swifities, as predicted, are passing out of the picture. Even the bookish have apparently forsaken them.

Not long should an abominable situation like that be allowed to obtain. Therefore, I nominate a new game called "Coining Literalities" to take the place of the Swifities. All it requires is a little headwork and you're a gamester. Here's how it works:

Sit down and cogitate. Or, if you find that too difficult, or onerous, pore through dictionaries, phrasebooks, etc. to pinpoint common sayings, idioms, proverbs, and so forth whose regularly understood meanings are far different from their literal denotations. Examples:

Harboring a grudge: Buy a boat. Call it "Grudge." Harbor it. Need I say more?

Splitting hares. Except when making hasenpfeffer, this can lead to trouble. Take Tom and Jack who wanted to divide three rabbits. Solomon aside, they couldn't bring themselves to splitting one down the middle. But Nature came through in the clutch, and out of the hutch there suddenly came 11 more rabbits. The boys were thus enabled to split hares, 7-7.

Missing the boat. My friend Sam grieved because he was missing the boat so much. It was his own fault. He gave it the slip.

Mining words: This one is easy? Just chop up an old lexicon. There'll be lots of funny words in it, so you can cut the comedy at the same time.

A hung jury: At 4 o'clock in the morning a court attache reported to the judge that the jury was "hung," six to six. The plaintiff, who had thought the jury was going to award him a bundle of the defendant's money, thereupon got up and said: "Judge, they ought to be hung. Hanging's too good for them!"

To wear one's heart upon one's sleeve: A manifest anatomical impossibility, although it is possible for a man, a rightist especially, to have his heart on the right side.

Luff: A word used by boat swains who are in luff with a particular craft.

Watching the clock: This one, too, is ridiculously easy. Buy two watches. Attach same to your clock. If the clock happens to be broken anyway, consider it fixed.

Unmentionables: In the olden days (whatever they are), pantaloons, breeches, trousers, and the like were known as unmentionables. These days, nothing is unmentionable, except possibly the word itself.

A white lie, a black lie: Through the judicious use of these terms, you can integrate your lies, except in golf.

In that game there are only two kinds of lies, good and bad.

Love me, love my dog: Cat lovers probably don't like this one. And bird lovers, who understandably hate cat lovers, would likely want it changed to "love me, love my canary."

Bet your bottom dollar: Here again you can carry out this literality literally with ease. Just carry your wallet in your back pocket. Then when you place a dollar on a horse's nose (no mean feat), it's dollars to doughnuts that you can justifiably and accurately contend that you've bet your bottom dollar.

Horselaugh: Even if you tickle a horse, the best you can get out of him is a very negative neigh. So you can do very little literally with this word, except to ride on of your neighbors by giving him the horselaugh.

Wigwag: I used to think a wigwag was an Indian tent until I saw a man give a wig-wearer a shot in the head.

Now, I don't know whether this proposed new game is absurdly simple or simply absurd. But those who like wordplay will glory in it. The logophobists (persons who fear words), on the other hand, would, if they had courage enough to say so, most probably have a special word for it; They would say it was too un to be mentionable.

Raymond St. To Be Ready

The target date for completion of permanent surfacing of the Raymond St. area in Hicksville where storm water drainage was installed previously has been set for July 2nd, it was announced by Highway Superintendent Norman T. Wolf.

The project was advocated on the Town Board by Councilman A. Carl Grunewald who urged early completion. The contract was won in competitive bidding by Lizza & Sons, Inc. of Oyster Bay at its bid price of $13,900.

Within the project limits are Raymond Street, Howard St., Park Place, Henry Street, Charles St., Karemer Street, Clinton Street and Cherry Street.

Accordion Group Gives Performance

The Fabacords of Hicksville, directed by F. Arden Burt, Jr. of the Burt School of Music, journeyed into Laurelton, Wed. night, June 17, and presented musical entertainment for the members, and guests, of Laurelton Temple #232, Pythian Sisters.

Among the selections played, by the accordian orchestra were Military Escort (a march), a swing arrangement of The Song of India, and a Pop Tune Medley (comprised of Dream, Cocktails for Two, Shine on Harvest Moon, Sentimental Journey, and Sunnyside of the Street). Members of the orchestra who played a duet were Pat Czeccil and Barbara Pound; and soloists were Susan Drake, Anne Gambino, Dianne Miceli and George R. Hicks, Jr.

Mrs. Gasser Pres. Confraternity

Mrs. Robert Gasser was installed as president of the Confraternity of Christian Mothers, St. Martin of Tours parish, Bethpage, on Tuesday evening. Mrs. Otto Hauck is the out-going president. Mrs. Gasser was previously chairman of the program committee for two years.

Rev. Valentine J. Stortz, Spiritual Director of the Confraternity, and pastor of St. Martin of Tours Church, officiated at the installation ceremonies which included Mrs. Philip Kurlowicz as vice president, Mrs. Jeremiah O'Sullivan as recording secretary, Mrs. Donald Gaynor as treasurer, and Mrs. Harry Smith as corresponding secretary.

FORD: AMERICA'S MOST POPULAR MOVEMENT

It's a bandwagon rush to Ford! Why? Mustang has the answer! So do Falcon, Fairlane, the Super Torque Ford and Thunderbird! 46 models in all. Each can show you a magic mix of strength, stamina, acceleration, precision handling and road-clinging suspension called total performance. Try it! You'll discover that the "Big Change" in Ford is not just a campaign promise!

Now, with reports in from all over, it looks like the "Big Change" to Ford is shifting into high. Listen: Mustang is the most successful new car ever introduced in America! And there's no doubt that Mustang is leading the stampede to Ford. But Mustang's only part of the Ford story. There are 5 lines of Fords . . . 46 models to choose from . . . and every one is a total performer! Look at the Super Torque Ford. It's been tested and proved in modified versions in open competition as well as on the test tracks. But don't take someone else's word. Take a test drive at your Ford Dealer's.

Premiere Showcase

The Prudential Hicks-ville Playhouse and the Meadowbrook Theatres are now Premiere Showcase theatres. The first showing of a Premiere Showcase picture will be "633 Squadron" playing this week.

"633 Squadron" was made and released by the same companies—Mirisch Corporation and United Artists—that gave you "Some Like It Hot," "The Apartment," "West Side Story," "The Great Escape."

Cliff Robertson and George Chakiris, two of the most exciting new stars of today, share the spotlight in "633 Squadron."

Senior Citizens Last Meeting

The Senior Citizens of Bethpage held their last meeting of the season, Thursday, June 18, at the American Legion Hall, on Washington St., Bethpage. Due to the lack of buses for the summer it was thought that members would not be able to get to meetings.

The ceramic painting has been finished, fired and returned.

Thursday, the 25th, the Club will attend a show at the Tinkers Pond Theatre, and dinner afterward at Matrano's, on Central Ave., Bethpage.

Meetings will be resumed after Labor Day, and new members will be cordially received. For information call Mrs. Weydener, president, at WE 8-0185 or Mrs. McLoughlin, director, at GE 3-4694.

Bethpage Dems Final Meeting

The regular Bethpage Democratic Club held their final meeting before going on vacation, June 16, at the Holiday Manor, Hicksville Rd., Bethpage.

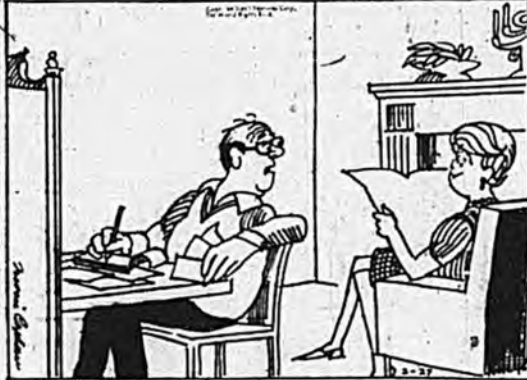

There was an overflow crowd of people at the meeting and the SRO sign was hung out. This huge crowd at the meeting can be credited to the hard work of it's new President, Mary Motta, who makes it her business to contact the members personally.

As the final social event of the season, Mrs. Motta is holding a barbecue at her own backyard on Sunday, June 28, from 4 p.m. to 12 p.m. All friends and members are invited and those wishing to attend should contact Mrs. Gerry Palancia at CH 9-6753 or Ray Nelson, PE 1-5281. At the barbecue there will be a four piece band, dancing, plenty of eats of all kinds and all the beer you can drink.

Donations for the barbecue are $2.00 per person. Many celebrities will attend.

Short Short Stories that I have collected through the years—and this week, for yuz: Charles W. Elliot, prexy of Harvard University for 40 years, grew steadily younger in the eyes of the under-graduates. Shortly before this distinguished friend's retirement, President Elliot said: "When I was elected president, I was only 35. Of course I was looked upon as very dignified, and I suppose a little frightening. As I walked about the campus, students pointed at me and said: 'There goes old man Elliot. But now that I am 75, they look at me and say, 'There goes Charlie.'...During my Stork Club exploiting days I escorted Tallulah Bankhead to the radio station where for a nervous half hour she was quizmaster for the then famous Quiz Kids. Afterwards a press agent approached Tallulah and said soothingly, "The Quiz Kids were thrilled to death to meet you, Miss Bankhead. They've been reading up on your life all week." Dahling Tallulah cried out, "What a thing for children to read!"...Hired-some widower James Schweeder, Sr., Jim (Village Tavern) Schweeder's dad, now we learn, married his school-day sweetheart Doris, in October. Junior and all the Schweeder clan delighted that Senior is happy again. They happily reside in Hicksville.. Sign on a newly seeded Syosset law: "Please! I want to be alwan."...Sure Cure: Many Irate Nassau citizens are complaining to their Better Business Bureau about having merchandise mailed to them that they have not ordered and do not want -- and then being billed for same. A Bethpage physician received such a package with the following letter: "We are taking the liberty of sending you three exceptionally fine neck ties. Because these ties have the approval of thousands of discriminating dressers, we know you will like them. Please send $5." My indignant doctor friend replied: "I am taking the liberty of sending you $5. worth of extra fine pills. These pills have helped thousands and I am sure you will appreciate my thoughtfulness in mailing them to you. Please accept them in payment of the ties you sent me recently." That was a month ago and "Doc" hasn't heard from those bums, since...Sudden thought: Tell the truth, do you really know one person who has ever though the Ritz Brothers funny? Just asking.. And don't forget, where there's smoke there's toast...It was late when I overheard, "They're looking at each other with the clear innocent eyes of a couple of used car salesman."...News item: "Long Island police could offer no reason for his suicide. The man was not married." (really)...Chic Farmer host at Carl Hoppl's plush plush Westbury Manor, getting every cooperation that a good host deserves.

including many Long Island party givers who had nearly given up entertaining outside their clubs and homes. Chic's boss Carl Hoppl renovated $600,000 worth with all French service and European trained Chefs. Westbury's Manor jammed nightly...If you Please, bring money.
