As groups of spectators gathered across the street, members of the Congress of Racial Equality last night picketed a Hicksville real estate company accused of breaking an anti-discrimination pact.

Lead by Lincoln Lynch, chairman of the Long Island branch of CORE, the pickets began their slow, methodical march shortly after 6 p.m. By 8:15, it was all over.

But, according to Lynch, the pickets will be back with their signs condemning 'White Bias that Breed Black Slums.'

'We will continue to give Vigilant our attention,' Lynch said. He did not elaborate. The firm, with three branch offices, is one of the largest real estate agencies in Nassau.

Lynch said he scheduled the demonstration Monday after Vigilant president Harold Garland failed to keep an appointment to talk with CORE leaders. Garland denied making an appointment.

Earlier this month, CORE said Garland agreed to a seven-point program to end bias in the showing and selling of homes to Negroes, but reneged just before the agreement was to be announced.

The agreement followed CORE charges that Vigilant showed a $16,500 home to a white CORE 'tester' after telling a Negro woman there were no homes for sale in that price range.

Garland last night denied the charge and announced that he and his partner will ask the state human rights commission to hold a hearing immediately. 'I resent the inference that Vigilant has ever discriminated,' he said, 'and a hearing is the only way to clear our name.'

Civic Pressure Stops Tower Work

The Hicksville Board of Water Commissioners met protestors Tuesday evening and pledged to hold up on permanent work at the site of a new 37 foot water tower until engineering studies could be made. The protest was made by the Hicksville Emergency Committee made up of Hicksville residents who believe the erection of the water tower on Stewart Avenue, between Levittown Parkway and Carman Avenue will lead to a general downzoning of the area. Mrs. Rhoda Golden is spokesman for the citizens committee. The three water commissioners William Cisler, Harry Borley and George A. Kunz, were present at the meeting, along with about 50 residents of the area.

The citizens committee, which had marched earlier this week in bathing suits, some suits of a vintage of former years, maintained that it is possible to put the tank underground and thereby preserve the residential setting of the area. It was pointed out that the area is residential with one exception, that of a nursery that had been in the area for many years, and that the tower would be an 'eye sore.' The Water Commission said that it would continue digging in the area but not put concrete until a final determination had been made as to whether the tank could be put underground.

Water Comm. Election

For the first time in many years the Hicksville Water Commission elections will have a contest. It was announced this week that Joseph Ferrandino of 11 Roma Street, Hicksville, will attempt to unseat George A. Kunz, as water commissioner. The election will take place on August 31 and all residents of the Water District can vote in the election under the same regulations governing all other elections.

BERLIN, West Germany -- Bricked in windows and the famous Berlin Wall, topped by barbed wire, provide the background for this photograph of Richard Krogmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. August B. Krogmann, 6 Centre St., Hicksville, as he visits the grave of an East German student, who was killed by East German guards while trying to escape to West Berlin in September, 1961. The Berlin Wall was erected shortly after Wittenberg University's Choir visited Berlin during its first European tour in 1961. Krogmann is making a nine-nation concert tour of Europe with Wittenberg's 65-voice choir. The group will return to the U.S. on Friday, July 24, and will present concerts July 25 and 26 at the New York World's Fair before disbanding.

LIBRARY NOTES

By Elizabeth Clawson

Every year more than 1 1/2 million young people enter the labor force, and an unknown number of men and women change from one kind of work to another. Before selecting a career or making a change of occupation, a visit to the public library will prove helpful. Here you can find out where jobs are located, how much training is required to enter each field, and whether the field is likely to offer good opportunities for employment.

There are many ways in which your public library can be helpful to you with the selection of a career. First of all, there are books for those who are not yet certain of what they want to do. With more than 26,000 job titles listed by the government, it is almost impossible to select one's field of work without assistance. "Selecting an Occupation" by Calvin S. Shaffer, may be an initial help; or, for women, "Occupational Planning for Women" by M. W. Zapoleon, or "Career Opportunities for Women in Business" by A. G. King. "What You Can Earn in 250 Different Careers" helps to answer one of the most important questions. But for basic consideration one might first consult the "Occupational Outlook Handbook," the official publication of the U.S. Department of Labor, published every other year. It summarizes in all fields of work, the training and qualifications needed for entering, the outlook for obtaining employment, and finally the earnings and working conditions to be expected. The "Handbook" is kept up-to-date by the quarterly "Occupational Outlook" and by "Bulletins" published at irregular intervals. The latter contains the most recent information.

When the choice of occupation has narrowed down, it may be the moment to read the more specific and less formal descriptions offered in books concerned with only one kind of career. To name just a few, there are books describing "Careers and Opportunities" in chemistry, electronics, engineering, fashion, medicine, music, nursing, physics, science, social sciences, aeronautics and rocketry, research sciences, and "in space." There is also a large file of pamphlets concerned with individual fields of work.

Of course, the library can also help you with the next step, which is the selection of a school or college where you can prepare for your chosen career.

THINKING IT OVER

by ROBERT L. MORGAN

The Hicksville Water District is 40 years old and we dare say in the time it has been established there have not been more than a half dozen election contests for the board of commissioners and most of the contests were in the early days of the district. So now this week we see an awakening interest in the water district by a group of homeowners that feels it does not want to live under the shadow of a water tower, at least not if there is another way of doing it.

We believe the main reason there never has been much interest in running for Water Commissioner is that many taxpayers never knew there was any such thing. In New York City and other purely urban areas there isn't any local voice in what happens regarding water supply so with the bulk of the population of this area having come from the city no one ever thought of it.

The Water District election is not held on the General Election Day. It is held at the Water Commission offices on August 31. Because this newspaper feels that local residents should at least decide whether they want to vote or not we will present as much information as possible about the two candidates running this year in coming weeks.

Among the reasons some may give that there ought to be a change in the governing of the Water District might be that the commissioners had not heard of the newer way of putting tanks underground as explained by the protesters at the meeting on Tuesday. Although water tanks in Westbury have been submerged the idea was new to the Board of Water Commissioners. But to their credit, they listened and learned.

Artificial Sweeteners Leave No Bad Effects

By C. S. Dean, M.D.

(Q) "Please discuss the effects of artificial sweetness if used daily. Is there a chance of cancer?"

Mrs. W.C.

(A) No harmful effects have been noticed even after many years of daily use of artificial sweeteners.

MEDITORIAL: Today I shall discuss the planing of the skin to remove scars. The original method consisted of abrading the top layer of the skin vigorously by rubbing sandpaper over the scarred areas. This was a fairly successful but a somewhat difficult and time-consuming operation. Later on an instrument with a rotating wheel, similar to the machine which the dentist uses to clean teeth, was developed. Various rotating heads are used including wire brushes but their effect is about the same, that is to abrade away to the part of the scar which protrudes above the normal skin level. The deeper the pits and scars, the more difficult it is to make the skin absolutely smooth.

Skin planing has been used mostly for old, healed acne scars. It is not used to treat an active condition but only to help remove the scars after the acne process has subsided. It can and has been used on scars caused by other conditions such as lacerations. Tattoos have been removed through skin planing.

The procedure consists of first preparing the skin with adequate cleansing and sterilization, and then freezing it to a certain degree with ice and a spray coolant. This latter preparation makes the skin insensitive to pain as well as making the skin solid and thus much easier to work with. After the top layer of the scar has been removed, a dressing is applied for a few days. Healing takes place rapidly. If the scar was deep, then the procedure can be repeated again over the same area for further improvement.

The results of skin planing may not be perfect in all cases but the amount of improvement is so much in most cases that it is well worth the effort and expense.

What's Wrong With School English Texts

By Russell Kirk

IF YOU WILL TAKE THE TROUBLE, gentle reader, to glance at the typical high-school textbook in English literature, you will discover that it is unimaginative, ill-organized, and generally depressing. Moreover, there isn't much true literature in it.

School administrators, teachers, school-board members, and parents now have available, however, a sound guide concerning the comparative merits and demerits of these textbooks. This is a book by two professors of English at the University of California at Berkeley, James J. Lynch and Bertrand Evans: High School English Textbooks: A Critical Examination (Atlantic-Little Brown). Writing and publication of this study was sponsored by the Council for Basic Education (725 Fifteenth Street NW, Washington, D.C.). This Council, incidentally -- which one can join for a few dollars a year -- is the best organization in our country working for the reform of American public education.

President Kennedy said once, very truly: 'If, in the effective use of language, style is the man, style is the nation, too; men, countries, and even entire civilizations have been tested and judged by their literary tone.' This being so, it is high time that the style of American students and the tone of their textbooks underwent elevation.

The average English-literature anthology editor seems to consider the average American student a congenital boob. Most school readers, from the second grade through the twelfth, emphasize 'socializing' the student -- not wakening his imagination and his reason. Professors Lynch and Evans go to the heart of the matter in their comments:

'Neither editors nor teachers should be afraid of giving students "what is good for them." If students knew what was good for them, they would need neither teachers nor textbooks. We must assume that the real basic of education is the assumption that those who know more can give of their knowledge to those who, temporarily, know less. The greatest gift that English teachers and editors of English books have to give is literature. The vapid theories that advocated teaching "the whole child," removing all difficulties from his path, and being permissive at every turn, cannot be allowed to put in jeopardy the literacy of a whole nation.'

Amen to that. American public schools, a generation ago, bravely undertook that high mission. But today many of them settle for dreary mediocrity: and nowhere is this truer than in the English textbooks. Julius Caesar, Huckleberry Finn, and A Tale of Two Cities are shamefully butchered and 'made easy' in many of these anthologies, on the theory that the darling young American never should really have to work to understand anything.

Understanding great literature is one of the ways by which you and I are made truly human. But the typical literature textbook nowadays seems designed to leave the rising generation quasi-literate and half-civilized.

Junior Olympics To Be Held In Plainview

The 1964 Junior Olympic Swimming Championships will be held at Plainview-Old Bethpage Community Pool on August 1., Councilman Edmund A. Ocker, announced today.

This year, the championships are being sponsored jointly by the Metropolitan A.A.U. Men's Swim Committee and the Town of Oyster Bay.

"We are certainly pleased that the Committee has honored the Plainview-Old Bethpage community by requesting use of its wonderful pool facilities," Councilman Ocker said.

The Junior Olympic Swimming Championships are organized yearly to promote interest and competition in the sport. They are generally regarded as the tops in swimming competition for children 17 and younger.

Last year, some 500 children entered competition in the New York Metropolitan area. Thus far this year 600 applicants have signed to compete. Competition is open to boys and girls of the New York Metropolitan area. Events will be run off in four age groupings: Midget, 10 and under; Junior 11 and 12; Intermediate, 13 and 14, and Senior 15 to 17.

The events will be staged in the morning and the evening, leaving pool facilities open to the public during the middle part of the day. Girls will compete at 9 a.m. and boys at 5 p.m.

Music Festival Stars Belafonte

Harry Belafonte will make his first appearance in the New York metropolitan area since Sept. 1962, with a three day engagement at The Forest Hills Music Festival Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 31, August 1 and August 2.

Belafonte will feature African songstress Miriam Makeba in his company. He will also bring the popular Belafonte Folk Singers and the folk instrumental team of Sonny Terry and Brownie McGhee. The Festival is under the direction of Don Friedman.

Letters

To the Editor:

Thank you for sending me a copy of your recent editorial with regard to a swimming pool for the use of Hicksville residents, but it wasn't necessary as I seldom miss reading your papers.

I can assure you that the Town of Oyster Bay is in accord with your views and has been trying to solve this problem for some time. Your suggestion that the County give the Town a portion of its large landholding on Cantiague Road for a Hicksville residential swimming pool is excellent and as a matter of fact in 1963 Supervisor Pynchon made this proposal to both Mr. Nickerson and Mr. Gibbons, both of whom reflected it.

Since then Councilman A. Carl Grunewald has devoted much time to trying to locate a suitable tract of land in the Hicksville area that we might obtain at somewhere near a reasonable price. He is still working on this project and I am sure would welcome any leads or suggestions you or any of your readers may have. Thank you again for your interest in this matter. Very truly yours,

/s/ Edward J. Poulos

Majority Leader

To the Editor:

Thank you for your letter of July 15th about the need for a swimming pool in Hicksville. In 1962 I proposed that the County include a swimming pool in the new County park at Hicksville, and I am glad to say that the plans for this facility-plus an indoor ice skating rink-are nearing completion. We hope that work on them can begin before the end of the year.

The County has plans for a swimming pool at Cantiague Park, as well as at the new park in Wantagh and at Christopher Morley Park in Roslyn. We hope that these first County pools will help to meet the needs of more of our County citizens. Sincerely yours,

/s/ Eugene H. Nickerson

Editor's Note: This newspaper was primarily interested in getting swimming facilities for Hicksville residents on an equal footing with residents of Plainview, Bethpage and Syosset, where pools are on a low cost self-sustaining basis. The County plans are good, but we fear will not fill the above need.

The Hicksville Police Boys Nautical Cadet Drum

& Bugle Corp. will appear at Shea Stadium, Tuesday evening, on behalf of the Police Benevolence Association. We are very pleased and proud that our boys were asked to perform and it is indeed a great honor.

In May, the Drum Major of the Corp., Vincent Giansante, was presented with the Cadet of the Year Award. Vincent who has been leading the Drums & Bugle Corp. for quite some time now, has worked very hard in the Hicksville Nautical Cadets and is well deserving of the award which was presented to him. We know he will continue to live up to the high standards of the club and that he will continue to help his fellow cadets reach the goal he has achieved. Our heartfelt congratulations and best wishes are extended to him.

THIS WAS THE G.O.P. WEEK THAT WARS

Long Island delegates (11 of New York's 92) played significant roles in the 1964 GOP Convention at San Francisco. Proponents of anti-extremism, in the platform, they listened intently as Former President Eisenhower called for unity or "drown in a whirlpool of factional strife."

Rep. Steven B. Derounian (right) of Roslyn Estates, one of the 5 Goldwater backers in the N.Y. delegation, tells a newsmen that Democratic newspapers "should not advise the G.O.P. on Republican candidates." He seconded the nomination of William Miller for Vice President.

Rep. Frank J. Becker of Lynbrook, another Goldwater supporter, predicted at the start of the convention that the Arizona Senator would get "more than 800 votes on the first ballot." He got 883 against Scranton's 214.

"HOW 'BOUT THAT?" asks Town of Oyster Bay GOP Leader C. Bruce Pearsall of Massapequa as North Hempstead's leader, Clinton U. Martin of New Hyde Park contemplates the answer.

Aaron B. Cohen, GOP Leader of Glen Cove, veteran Long Island politico, had the most perfect attendance record at the Convention.

Suffolk County Leader Arthur M. Cromarty of Lindenhurst, fresh from a meeting with Nassau's Joseph F. Carino and Queens Leader Frank Kenna just smiled when asked "what happened at the caucus."

TEMPERATURE REDUCING COURSE FOR NURSES

BESIDE MANNER to be used in approaching a bed fire is shown by student nurse Martha Baker of Farmingdale at Nassau County Meadowbrook Hospital as Fire Marshalls Richard Lehr (left) and Jack Montanez guide her. She was one of group of 16 Community College nursing students who learned ways of extinguishing various type fires.

OXYGEN CUTOFFS: Snuffing out the blaze by cutting off the oxygen supply Miss Baker uses a towel as Nassau County Fire Marshal Richard Lehr says "Don't pat—smooth it."

LONG ISLAND'S GIFT TO "AROUND THE WORLD"

St. Pius Tenth Reports Progress

St. Pius X parish in Plainview has made payments amounting to $55,517 on pledges of $223,255 to the High School building fund campaign recently completed in Nassau and Suffolk Counties.

The Very Rev. Msgr. Thomas R. Daly, coordinator of the drive for the Diocese of Rockville Centre, said that $7,127,131 had been paid throughout the diocese on pledges of $24,808,523.

Noting that this represents 28.7 per cent of the pledges, Msgr. Daly said the response was "excellent" in view of the fact that 24 months remain in the 30-month pledge payment period.

The Rev. George F. O'Mara is pastor of St. Pius X. Thomas H. Neagle was campaign chairman in the parish; Edward Robinson and Joseph W. Prunty were assistant chairmen; and Mary Ayers MacDonald was secretary.

Watch Your Language; It May Be Against the Lore!

I'm beginning to lose my faith in the inborn fogginess, not to say renowned foolishness, of humankind.

It used to be that when you rode New York City subways, you'd espy nice, comfortable signs like, "Expectoration Prohibited." Underneath would be a dire warning that perpetrators would be punished to the fullest extent of the law.

I liked signs like that, mainly because practically nobody knew what they meant. In those days, few people spat on the subways anyway, purely out of a sense of salivary decency, not because they feared momentary expectoration-triggered incarceration. (Sorry, dear reader, I just HAD to spit that phrase out.)

Nowadays, however, there must be a few accursed fog dispersers around. Just last week, for example, I saw a sign on a train remarkable for its clarity. It read: "Please don't spit; it's against the law."

No fancy verbiage; just a plain, simple, chummy request not to spit.

I was aghast. "Who's responsible for writing clear, understandable English like that?" I asked myself. "Aren't the educators getting their gobbledegook across lately?"

That beholding reminds me of the old story of the "Beware the Inundation" notices the Army engineers put up in a hillbilly area ravaged by floods. "All residents must evacuate this area immediately until the flood waters recede," the signs read.

Days went by, but not a soul left. Why? Nary a hillbilly knew what "evacuate" meant. A good many, in fact, couldn't read at all.

You may wonder why the Army didn't call in the Navy, which doubtlessly would have been more at home in an aqueous situation like that, as the Army engineers probably would have phrased it. For that I have no ready answer beyond possible inter-service jealousy.

Spoken words too can lead to signs of befuddlement. Take the case of the college professor who charged out of his house under a full head of steam yelling at the top of his lungs: "It's a conflagration! It's a conflagration!" A passerby who beheld the performance and also saw flames leaping from the roof of the professor's house was heard to remark: "I don't blame him a bit. I'd curse too if my house was on fire."

For a certainty, word signs can be dangerous. Once a reader buttonholed me on the street and accused me of having called a politician a "rotten criminal" in my last column.

I stoutly denied the charge, so we hied to the printing plant to get a copy of the column, which he promptly perused. "Here it is in black and white," he said, pointing to the accusative language.

"Mr. So-and-So," it read, "is a politician just too sluggishly for words."

"I'm surprised at you, an old baseball player, not knowing what the word means," I kidded as I hauled out the dictionary to show HIM in black and white.

Since then, I've evacuated that and a host of other words like "expectoration" from my vocabulary. After all, I wouldn't want anyone calling me a rotten criminal merely because I'm too sluggishly to use a spittoon which, like the dodo, has been evacuated from the subways.
