HICKSVILLE SCHOOL BOARD DOES TWIST

by ROBERT L. MORGAN

A new version of the declining dance the twist was given by the Hicksville School Board Friday. But it left 26 grieving teachers still seeing black spots through the whitewash on the wallpaper.

THE PROBLEM: Back in January, 25 teachers in the high school told their department head, Mrs. Viola Milligan, that they were unhappy with conditions under their new English Dept. supervisor Dr. John Rouse . . . but after several meetings the problem was bi-passed to High School Principal Leon Galloway, he complained back to the teachers that they were unable to accept constructive criticism. From there the teachers went on their merry way up the ladder to School Supt. Donald Abt. But, by this time the number had dwindled to 18. Mr. Abt found no reason to rule for the teachers and also advised them that the Board of Education would not entertain a group grievance and so Part I of the twist ended for a sort of intermission.

PART II: The 18 teachers, Albert Bevan, Alfonso Burrelli, John J. Clarke, Elizabeth Daley, Carl Danna, Karen Dubin, Hester Easer, Mary Farrar, John Fitzpatrick, Kay Fletcher Richard Halowitch, Martin Katz, Raymond Matienzo, Jeremy Palmer, Harriet Priest, Gerald Shanley, Gertrude Sheridan and James Wellon all of the English Dept. of the High School decided to take the case to court.

THE RULING: Judge Brennan never really ruled on the grievances but dismissed the case for several technical reasons. In the meantime the Board decided to get into the Twist and told the teachers they could come before it to air group grievances in spite of what they had been told by the superintendent. The Board even decided to shell out some big tax dollars to defend the English dept. supervisor by getting prominent attorney Emile Zola Berman to handle the case . . . and this made some unhealthy local taxpayers gape in amazement.

PART III: But only a week or so went by before the Board changed its mind. A statement was issued that the lawyer needed a month to prepare the case but anyway if the teachers would write out affidavits the board would make a decision without a big out in the open hearing . . . It was not apparent whether the legal fee was waived or not.

AN ANSWER: The teachers didn't think it was cricket and decided not to put in affidavits. The undismayed Board decided to go ahead and use the statements of the teachers even though they were not in the form of affidavits. And that is just what it did for its final twist number which brought down the curtain.

A DECISION: So no one was really startled when the Board on Friday dismissed the whole incident and said that it could not go along with the teachers' grievances. But there was still a twist in the decision. One Board member Irving Lawrence gave his own opinion. He more or less agreed with the teachers that they did have some thing to be grieved over, but true to the twist he voted along with the majority of the board.

THE DISSENT: The lone vote in favor of the teachers was William Bruno Jr. who has long been in disrepute by his fellow Board members for favoring such extreme things as cutting down waste in school, lowering the school budget and other outrageous ideas. Bruno voted in favor of the Board giving the teachers the promised hearing.

THE OUTCOME: After eight months of buck passing and stalling there are still 26 (well maybe some have already quit) disgruntled teachers in the Hicksville High School who have never really had a chance to tell their side of the story . . . except maybe to their classes as they prepare them to live in democracy through education.

Lions Host Paraguay Visitors

D.V. Kenneth de Jongh of 32 McAlester Avenue, Hicksville, newly elected District Governor of the 40 Lions Clubs comprising the Nassau County District of Lions International, had no sooner returned from the International Convention in Toronto, Canada, when he became engaged in one of the major activities of Lions Clubs - "Youth Exchange."

Sponsored by the Lions of Asuncion, Paraguay, the Misses Amparo Amalia Ortega and Maria Blanca Grenno, arrived at Kennedy Airport on Friday evening, July 24 for a visit in the New York area to learn of the customs and mores of the "Norteamericanos." The exchange was arranged by Dr. Howard Scherer of the Massapequa Park Lions Club, and included visits to Washington, New Orleans and Florida.

During their visit, the girls were the guests of District Governor and Mrs. de Jongh, and were entertained by visits to a miniature golf course, a penny arcade, bingo games, shopping in our regional shopping centers, trips to the World's Fair, and were introduced to bowling, a roller rink and the 28 flavors of Howard Johnson's ice cream which fascinated them. Swimming and barbecues were included in the agenda, and members of the Hicksville Lions Club assisted generously in making the girls welcome in our community.

Many interesting outings and sightseeing trips were also planned for the two visitors who are here under the Lions Youth Exchange Program instituted in 1961 by Lions International. Under this program, deserving young people, between the ages of 16 and 25, may enjoy a vacation in a country other than his own, sponsored by a Lions Club in his home community, and hosted by a Lions Club in the country visited.

Connie Mack In Semi-Final

Charlie Caronia batted in the winning run in the bottom of the ninth inning as Bethpage defeated Merrick 2-1 in the first round of the Nassau County Connie Mack playoffs.

Caronia, winning pitcher for Bethpage over Merrick's Jeff Giordano, allowed only 3 hits in going the nine inning route, while striking out 14, 5 of them looking at Caronia's third strike. Charlie walked seven, but twice pick-off throws, once by Caronia and once by Bethpage catcher Billy Nugent, helped to keep him out of trouble. Bethpage played errorless baseball, and after lead-off man Kulynch scored on a hit, a wild pitch and a hit by Starke, Caronia was invincible.

Bethpage tied the score in the 6th on a long homer by Pete Schaaf and the tie went into the ninth inning with Caronia retiring the Merrick batters in order in the 6th, 7th, 8th and ninth. In the bottom of the ninth, Giordano retired the first two batters in order before centerfielder Jimmie Smith shot a long drive to right for a stand-up triple. Caronia then won his own ballgame with a drive in the slot between right and center and the game was over.

Bethpage plays Massapequa Coast next Sunday for the Eastern Division "A" Championship. The winner meeting either Merrill or Floral Park in a best of three series.

Second baseman Starke got 2 of Merrick's three hits while Jim Smith had a single in addition to his triple for Bethpage. Al Mirande also had a double for Bethpage.

THINKING IT OVER

By Robert L. Morgan

We see that the Meadowbrook National Bank is going to start an opinion poll this year as sort of a weather-vane of how Long Island voters think on various issues including the Presidential candidates.

This newspaper will carry the results of this poll and we think readers will look forward with interest to its findings.

But through the years we have given up on polls as being the best way to judge who will be the next President. We have found a more accurate way. And what's more, it is simple to operate.

It is called the longest name method. To operate this system you do not have to go out into the highways and byways and ask questions. The only thing you have to know is who is running in the contest and count the number of letters in the names. The one with the longest name will be the winner. Since the time that George Washington swamped John Adams to be President of the U.S. there have only been three contests where the man with the shorter name beat out the leading contender.

But never in the Twentieth century has this happened. In fact, the theory can be expanded to even forecast the outcome of the election in percentages by using this method. Go back to 1920 when Harding swamped Cox. This could have easily been forecast. The outcome was 404 electoral votes to 127. Then look at Franklin D. Roosevelt's trouncing of shortnamers, Hoover, Landon, Wilkes and Dewey. They never were close. And Eisenhower beating out Stevenson could have been easily forecast.

But when there was only a two letter difference between names, as in the case of Kennedy and Nixon, the expected outcome happened. It was close.

So when we hear about opinion polls costing so much money and Dr. Gallup being so professional we say forget it. We can count the letters in Goldwater and the letters in Johnson and we don't need a survey to do it.

Letters

As President of the Hicksville Classroom Teacher's Association, I feel a professional opinion is necessary about the current controversy in our English Department and the disposition of this controversy by the Board of Education.

It is a fact that nearly half of our English Department in the High School has resigned. It is also a fact that in the same year of this mass resignation, a grievance was signed and processed by a majority of the High School English Department against their supervisor John Rouse, and was subsequently dismissed by the Board of Education and the Administration.

It is interesting to note the composition of the Board's decision. In the main, it is a running rehash of quotations from the Administration, and part of a court decision which is irrelevant to the merits of the grievances under question. It also contains innuendoes about the integrity of those teachers involved, and is concluded by an exhortation to 'professionalism' which rings hollow indeed.

Be this as it may, at this time the association will proceed no further in this matter. All the teachers who have resigned are working in other districts, and the Association is not about to request that they subject themselves to any more hardships because of this grievance.

As a result of our experience this year, the Association will demand a complete revision of grievance procedures, and a much clearer definition of the role of the supervisor in this school district. The Association will also be organized to play a more instrumental role in grievances. We will support them at the outset when in the professional opinion of our executive board they merit support. Our experience this year has forced us to prepare for the worst.

Our Wisest President

By Russell Kirk

TARDILY, HISTORIANS AND THE INTELLIGENT PUBLIC are coming to realize that the most intelligent, as well as the most learned, man ever to inhabit the White House was sardonic old John Adams. Unlike the "advanced thinkers" of his time, Adams knew that the future of civilization would not be all beer and skittles. Also he was a most astute diplomat — and so ought to be studied urgently today.

An admirable book about Adams' thought now is available in paperback: Haraszti's John Adams and the Prophets of Progress. This is a painstaking but very readable compilation of the notes which Adams wrote in the margins of the serious books in his library. It is full of hardheaded wisdom, and even of a biting humor. Adams assailed shrewdly the leading philosophers and men of letters of the eighteenth century — Rousseau, d'Alembert, Mably, Turgot, Condorcet, Priestley. And time has vindicated Adams' "pessimism," as opposed to the Utopianism of these intellectuals. The man from Massachusetts was, after all, a better judge of human nature and practical consequences.

The recent commendable two-volume biography of Adams by Dr. Page Smith, which even achieved mass distribution (which it richly deserved) by a book club, now makes it possible for everybody to understand a politician and political philosopher and diplomat formerly hidden by partisan abuse or cloaked in obscurity. But also we ought to read Adams himself — for he wrote, much of the time (if in sentences rather long-winded for modern taste) more cogently than newspaper columnists. Take this for a specimen of his style and substance:

"Amid all their exultations, Americans and Frenchmen should remember that the perfectibility of man is only human and terrestrial perfectibility. Cold will still freeze, and fire will never cease to burn; disease and vice will continue to disorder, and death to terrify mankind. Emulation next to self-preservation will forever be the great spring of human actions, and the balance of a well-ordered government will alone be able to prevent that emulation from degenerating into dangerous ambition, irregular rivalries, destructive factions, wasting seditions, and bloody civil wars."

Events since Adams wrote have borne him out with terrible accuracy: yet even today we suffer from the errors of people who still think that mere good-will, cheerfulness, and technical progress will alter radically the whole complexion of society and personality.

Governments built upon the abstract principle of "magnanimous disinterestedness," Adams commented on reading Mary Wollstonecraft, are the work of idiots or madmen. "Such pretensions are false and hollow, all hypocrisy, like Franklin's Will and his article in the Pennsylvania Bill of Rights." (Adams detested Benjamin Franklin.) It would be heartening to hear Adams' rough and fearless tongue in Washington today.

Star-spangled savings plan

Most of us think about the future in terms of our families—paying off the mortgage, educating the children, providing a retirement income.

But with the world the way it is today, it's almost impossible to make plans for your own future without considering the future of your country, too.

When you buy U. S. Savings Bonds, your money takes on both jobs. It begins to grow, surely and steadily, to help you reach your savings goals and build your financial strength.

At the same time, Uncle Sam uses these dollars to help reach our national goals of peace and security.

Why not give your savings dollars this double assignment? You'll be joining millions of American families who are investing in their country's future—and you'll probably find that you feel pretty good about the whole thing.

It's easy to buy Savings Bonds on the Payroll Plan where you work. A $50 Bond costs $37.50, a $25 Bond $18.75, and you can buy them in installments for only a few dollars a pay day. Or buy them outright at any bank. No charge for the service.

Buy Series E Bonds for growth,
Series H for current income.

Some nice things about Series H Bonds

- You get 33 1/3% more money when they mature
- Your Bonds are replaced free if lost, destroyed, or stolen
- You can get your money when you need it
- You can defer the tax on accumulated interest until the Bonds are cashed

Keep freedom in your future with

THEY'RE SIMPLY GREAT

DIZZY AS THE ARTIST?

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19

IT IS TO BE expected that admirers of Surrealism (or perhaps Anti-Art) will protest to understand this drawing above.

"What a striking likeness!" they may exclaim. "See how he walks with his eye always on the ground, his head full of illusions and elementary mathematical! Marvelous! If we met him in the street we should know him instantly."

The problem for the ordinary reader, however, is not to recognize the artist but to unravel his illusions.

In presenting this clever creation in Mazes and Labyrinths: A Book of Puzzles (pub. by Dover), Walter Shepherd stipulates that the viewer is on his honor to do the untangling by eye only, unaided by pencil or other pointer.

Pick up the thread at the arrow marked "O," and follow it through all the obstacles till you arrive at one of the numbers along the top of the picture.

THEY'RE IN THE BAG

HUBERT PHILLIPS included the following in his collection, My Best Puzzles in Logic and Reasoning (pub. by Dover), that is, posers which demand no mathematical knowledge, but call for clear thinking and an ability to establish the logical relationships which the data presented imply:

A bag contains twenty marbles. They are of three different colors. There are eight blue ones, seven red ones, and five green ones. You are invited to close your eyes and draw the maximum number of marbles consistent with your leaving in the bag: (1) at least four marbles of any color, (2) at least three marbles of any second color. How many marbles should you draw?

Answers to the puzzles, some of which are very subtle, follow page 26.

Exercise the Muscles of the Mind on These

By CLARK KINNAIRD

SUPPOSE that on the day before yesterday, the weather forecaster broadcast, "Today's weather is different from yesterday's. If the weather is the same tomorrow as it was yesterday, the day after tomorrow will have the same weather as the day before yesterday. But if the weather is the same tomorrow as it is today, the day after tomorrow will have the same weather as yesterday."

Let's assume it is raining today, and it rained the day before yesterday. Also that the forecaster's prediction proved correct. What was the weather like yesterday?

Answers on page 26.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, Galileo, Lord Byron, Edgar Allan Poe, George DuMaurier, George Ohm, C. L. Dodgson ("Lewis Carroll"), Francis Bacon, August Möbius, Leonard Euler and Lord Macaulay are among the notables in literature and science who have delighted in composing and solving puzzles.

They would have agreed with A. L. Barbauld, the English poet and author, that "Finding out puzzles is the same kind of exercise for the mind as running, leaping and wrestling are for the body. Just as the latter prepare the body and make it alert and active for anything it may be called upon to perform, so does the finding out of good puzzles give quickness of thought, and facility for turning a problem every way, and viewing it in every possible light."

Along with an expanding public interest today in science, puzzles and "brain teasers" based on mathematics, physics or logic have come to enjoy greater popularity than ever. Significantly, the Scientific American Magazine has a regular monthly department devoted to puzzles. Compilations of great posers of the past are in demand, and the creations of Sam Loyd, H. E. Dudeney, Hubert Phillips ("Caliban"), Gerald Kaufman, Jerome Meyer, M. Kraitchik and other master-makers of puzzles are available again in inexpensive paperbacks. Noteworthy new collections are coming out in hardcover editions.

A reader whose interest has been stimulated by examples given in this page can make himself or herself acquainted with the best in old and new puzzledom through the select books listed below.

The Canterbury Puzzles and Amusements in Mathematics, both by H. E. Dudeney (Dover: $1.25 each). . . Fun and Games, by Alexander Van Renesse (Crest: 35c). . . Mazes and Labyrinths, by Walter Shepherd (Dover: $1). . . Mathematics in Everyday Things, by W. C. Vergara (Signet: 75c). . . Magic Squares and Cubes, by W. S. Andrews (Dover: $1.85). . . My Best Puzzles in Logic and Reasoning, by Hubert Phillips (Dover: $1). . . The Modern Aspect of Mathematics, by Lucienne Félix (Science Editions: $1.85). . . Of Men and Numbers, by Jane Muir (Dell: 50c).

Johnson (Doubleday: $4.95), with some 500 puzzles and instructive problems. . . The Mathematical Magpie, by Clifton Fadiman (Simon & Schuster: $4.95), an entertaining anthology of diversions and excursions. . . Mathematics for Pleasure, by Oswald Jacoby, with W. H. Benson (McGraw-Hill: $4.95). . . The Family Book of Fun, by Shirley & Monroe Paxman (Prentice-Hall: $3.95). . . Word Games for Play and Power, by Joseph T. Shipley (Prentice-Hall: $3.95).

It's in the Cards

SAM LOYD, who was to become one of the immortal names of puzzldom, attracted attention with his problems based on whist and the then novel game of auction bridge. Indeed, it has been claimed that Loyd's bridge puzzles did much to popularize the game in the United States, into which it was introduced from England in the 1890s. It was relatively little known in the United States until two decades later.

An Englishman, Hubert Phillips, who uses the pseudonym of "Caliban," is a modern composer of intriguing contract bridge brain-teasers. The following is from Caliban's Problem Book: Mathematical, Inferential and Cryptographic Puzzles (pub. by Dover).

In a hand dealt at contract bridge, the bidding went as follows:

				N	W	E	S
E	S	W	N
I ♠	double	2 ♠	3 ♦
No Bid	3 ♠	No Bid	3 ♦
No Bid	5 ♦	No Bid	6 ♦
No Bid	6 No Trump	No Bid	7 No Trump

All pass.

West led the ♠ 8, North played the ♠ 9, and East the ♠ 5. North played the following cards to the remaining tricks, in the order given:

Trick 2	•	• ♠ J	Trick 8	•	• ♠ K
" 3	•	• ♠ 7	" 9	•	• ♠ A
" 4	•	• ♠ 9	" 10	•	• ♠ A
" 5	•	• ♠ J	" 11	•	• ♠ 10
" 6	•	• ♠ K	" 12	•	• ♠ 8
" 7	•	• ♠ Q	" 13	•	• ♠ K

To the 13th trick, East played the ♠ 7. South took all thirteen tricks in his own hand.

Numberology

FIGURES can be tricky, of course. Here are some examples:

1—Write four nines so they will equal 100.

2—Make a cross consisting of the figures 1 to 9 so that the vertical column and the horizontal line will both total the same amount.

3—Write an even number, using only odd digits.

4—Express 24 with three equal figures other than 8.

The question is, what were South's thirteen cards? How quickly can you deduce the answer?

Answers: 1. South takes all thirteen tricks in his own hand. He can play 10, 10, 10, 10, 10, 10, 10, 10, 10, 10, 10, 10, 10. 2. 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1. 3. 999. 4. 888.

Skipping Problem

SUPPOSE you were on a ship bound for a vacation. If you were standing on starboard side facing the bow, would the nearest rail be on your right or your left?

Answers: 1. South takes all thirteen tricks in his own hand. He can play 10, 10, 10, 10, 10, 10, 10, 10, 10, 10, 10, 10, 10. 2. 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1. 3. 999. 4. 888.

What's In A Name?

Just name it and you'll probably find whatever you denominate listed as somebody's surname in the Manhattan telephone directory.

Examples:

For the gregarious there are five individuals named Neighbors.

In the animal department there are one Catt (but no Doggs), Lions and Tigers, and a whole herd of Elephants.

For the time-watchers the listings show one Time and three Clocks.

For the flowers there are a bunch of Asters and over 40 Lillies, Lillies, and Lilleys.

For sleuth-fanciers over 300 Dicks are listed, some of whom may be detectives.

There's a flock of Peacocks and even a Strutt to strike the fancy of bird-watchers.

Four Doctors listed are apparently laymen. There is a medical doctor named Lawyer, but apparently no lawyers named Doctor.

Catalogued too is a whole passel of Picks along with number of Bones; and even three Boners can be pulled out of the book.

For the food-minded there is a Steak.

For the pecuniary there are two Monkeys, as well as a Coin, Coine, and Coines.

For the color-conscious the book abounds in Blacks and Blues, Whites and Greens, Oranges and Pinks, and even a Purple and a Violet.

Anthropologically speaking, the telephone directory directs attention to many a man named Mann and even a man named Lady.

Offerings for the sports-minded include scales of Fishes, some Worms, and three Runners.

Oddly enough, while there are many Bards listed, the Manhattan directory is devoid of the surname Shakespeare.

Last but not least, in the laugh-department there are many listings of the name Ho. Besides that, there are six Laffians, one Smile and lots of Smiley people.

And it's no wonder: For there are ten Kidders listed.

Oddments and Endments

PUBLIC REACTION has been highly gratifying to my recent appearance on the Vincent Tracy Show on Radio Station WOR. Mr. Tracy's "air-borne" review of my book, "The Branded Child," excited a lot of commentary. The Tracy Show, an interview-type program is aired nightly weekdays from 9:15 to 10 o'clock... The second printing of "The Branded Child," by the way is slated for release next month.

IS SOMEBODY BEING MUM about the fact that a bunch of New York State court stenographers recently beat electric recording machines in a man-versus-machine series of tests sponsored by the Judicial Conference? The tests involved the taking and transcribing of actual court trials in the Metropolitan Area.

The word I have is that the machine touts weren't able to produce a "daily copy" transcript of one actual court proceeding at all. ("Daily copy" means overnight production of a typewritten transcript, word for word, of court or other proceedings taken down the day before.) The stenographers, on the other hand, produced the word-for-word transcript on the same day as the trial.

Thus, the "mechanical man" has lost another round in his fight to put men out of gainful employment.

The big danger in automation is not that machines that throw men out of jobs are being produced. On the contrary, the real danger is in the human attitude that machines MUST be used in lieu of human talents in so many occupations.

If man is as disposable as the garbage in the kitchen, then a national law providing for a 20-hour workweek should be enacted as soon as possible. For without employment, the man of the future (and even of the present, to a good extent) won't be able to afford to buy the products that automation will produce; and available work will have to be spread so thinly that even a two-hour day may be necessary in the not-too-distant future.

"By the way—are you a Democrat or a Republican?"

If You Please

By Peter Pettibone

SOME OF THIS, SUMMER THAT: A MAN so desperate he was on the verge of suicide consulted Dr. Henry C. Link, the psychologist. He couldn't sleep; he had lost his grip. Dr. Link agreed "that suicide was the only way out, and suggested that the patient run himself to death." After dinner tonight, tell your loving family you are going for a walk...But don't walk. Run as hard as you can, you'll kill your self. You are middle-aged, probably your heart is bad, you'll just drop dead. No one will know. There will be no disgrace. "Dr. Link then bid the sick man, "Good bye!!!" The "suicider" thought the suggestion was perfect. That night he started to run, but self-preservation took control, and he stopped far short of running far enough to drop dead. He went home and for the first time in months slept like a baby. The next night he tried it again; the result was the same. By the third night, he was feeling so fine he mailed Dr. Link a check....A Port Washington lady who lost a purse containing $24, got it back with only $15, plus a note from the anonymous finder explaining that she herself had once lost a purse with $9 in it....When we ordered the $3 dinner in a Jericho Twpk. diner, the waitress asked: "On white or rye, sir?"....A Hicksville doll in the midst of divorce proceedings was complaining to a girl friend about the boring personal conferences she had to endure with her lawyers. "Oh, said her pal, "don't talk to me about lawyers! I've had so much trouble over my property and insurance that sometimes I wish my husband hadn't died."....Fashion note: "There will be little change in men's pockets next season."....Sign in a NYC cafeteria window: "Courteous and efficient self-service." (really)....Note to pianist Vin Roddie. Here's a song title for you, "It Is Better To Break One's Heart Than To Do Nothing With It."....Then there's the story about the professor who dreamed he was lecturing to his class, and woke up to find that it was true....On Johnnie Carson's TV show Henny Youngman cracked, "G.O.P., stands for Goldwater's Our Problem. Is he kidding?....Helen Hayes was very sweet to stop in from Mineola Playhouse to say Hello, etc. to host Chio Farmer at Carl Hoppi's Westbury Manor. Chio and Helen Hayes late husband Charles MacArthur, were very good friends....incidentally Carl Hoppi, Jr.'s, wedding reception at Westbury Manor this Sunday, the 16th, will be one of the swankiest social events of this summer season. Tom and Flor Barone will alternate their music with Herb Craegers great band for the happy event....Now that he's 90 we'll tell the story. In 1923, when Herbert Hoover was president of Better Homes In America, that organization offered a prize for the best definition of a "better home" to be written by a school child. Mr. Hoover gave the prize to a

Tennessee mountain lad who wrote this simple little story: "A 'better home' is a place my dad is proud to support, my mother loves to take care of, and we like to be in. It is a place to grow old in..." If You Please....

such a lottery I wonder if it might not be a partial answer to our school tax problems here on Long Island.

While cutting down on the money going to organized crime via illegal gambling, a National Lottery brings a great deal of money to the government. Why couldn't some or all of the proceeds go to help finance our schools? In Ireland the proceeds finance hospitals. I hadn't realized how many nations do have a national lottery: England, Ireland, France, Sweden, Austria, Switzerland, Greece, Mexico, Denmark and the Philippines.

Even if New York State increases its aid to education, we will still need to look elsewhere for help with spiraling education costs so why not consider such measures as a national lottery?

Sincerely yours,
Sylvia Fields
