Suburban Greens Softball Champs

Suburban Greens managed by Guy Amodio, sponsored by Brenner & Direct Plumbing & Heating won the Mid-Island Softball League Championship by beating Lakeville 9 to 3. This was the third game of the play-off, each team winning one.

First game was won by Lakeville 3 to 0. The second game was won by Suburban Greens 17 to 15. Lakeville was ahead 12 to 2 after the third inning. Manager Guy Amodio seeing his team come off the field distressed, and in a state of shock told them to forget the first three innings and with a fine stimulating pep talk the team seemed to come back to the field inspired. Suburban fought and scrambled cutting the lead with a few runs each inning and playing spectacularly on the field, finally overtaking Lakeville with a 2 run home in the bottom of the eighth by Walt Brem.

In the third game Lakeville had hopes to add another League Championship this year (winning Plainview Night League), but the Magic Carpet they were riding was pulled from under them the week before, and was repeated again this third and final week. Suburban jumped off to a 2 run lead in the first and added 2 more in the fourth. They built up to a 9 to 1 lead behind the superb pitching of Don Goldstein, and a fine defense that time and time again came up with spectacular plays. The hitting stars for Suburban Greens in this game were Mike Lipetri, Bernie Cohen and Pete Gambinoe.

Trophies will be awarded to each member of the Suburban club, and we understand that there will be a victory party for the Champs on November 28. All the other managers in the league pass along their congratulations to manager Guy Amodio and a fine Suburban Greens team.

Have you priced a tiger lately?

Take the GTO, for instance. Comes with 335 hp. Or 360 at extra cost. Plus bucket seats. Carpeting. Walnut dash. And like that. Yet it sells for less than a lot of pussycats with imitation stripes. Then there's the Le Mans. Same kind of pizzazz. Same kind of crackle. Same kind of low price. Slightly smaller teeth. So price a tiger.

THINKING IT OVER

WHAT WE OWE IN ADDITION TO TAXES

By James Morgan
(originally written November, 1957)

For reasons only too obvious the modern day observance of Thanksgiving has developed into an old homecoming day — a day on which old relatives and friends get together around an overloaded table. The observance has become more of a family reunion day than the day originally set apart by the Pilgrim fathers to thank God for His bounty and ask the guidance of our public leaders.

On the business scene Thanksgiving Day is usually the kick-off day for big business sport known as the "Christmas Shopping Season" and in many cities the day is highlighted by department store parades and the turning on of Christmas lights.

Only an old grouch or the black sheep of the family can object to the renewing of family ties around a dinner table because this is part of Thanksgiving and certainly festivities are in keeping with most holidays, but somehow these celebrations and these observances have come to sap the real meaning and need-for Thanksgiving.

Despite the twisting of words concerning the separation of church and state, the United States is still a country founded upon the Jewish and Christian teachings and God is the Supreme Being and that a government is good only when it acts in accordance with the will of God.

Our system of Justice and our ideas of the individual being the reason for the government rather than the Communistic dogma that the government is the reason for the individual are all outright declarations of a Godfearing people. Our Declaration of Independence makes clear our rights under God.

In fact there have been many people in recent years who have looked upon American foreign policy as a totally wrong approach to winning the peoples of the world merely because it stresses our material gains but fails to see people on our real things of value—our Democracy and our belief in God.

But how much are we really practicing true Democracy? Thanksgiving Day is a day on which our public leaders ask us to give thanks for our many gifts, a day on which they ask us to say a prayer for them to help them to govern as they should.

When we stop to think about it, this request by our public leaders places as much responsibility upon residents as voting or any other exercise of Democratic government. It is important for us as a country interested in the preservation of our moral strength to willingly comply.

This year before the house becomes mobbed with relations, or before you drive off for that family reunion, won't you take some time out to really observe Thanksgiving Day?

'Puffy' Appearance Should Be Investigated

By C. A. Dean, M.D.

(Q) "I am 53 years old and have been well most of my life except for pneumonia one year. Recently I awaken to find my hands, feet and face are quite puffy. It disappears after I'm up for an hour. Also, I've noticed that I urinate frequently. Could this be serious?"

Mrs. J.D.

(A) Yes! I suggest you see your doctor right away. A kidney infection is quite likely and should be cared for without delay. An undiagnosed thyroid condition is also a possible cause of your trouble.

(Q) "Is there any cure for hardening of the arteries?"

Mrs. R.P.

(A) No. This is an aging process. A vegetable diet may help.

Voices In The Wind

By Russell Kirk

One of the pleasanter phenomena of our decade is the revival of folk singing — particularly of the traditional ballad. I don't mean the affectations of socially conscious, self-conscious pseudo bohemians, which often are shallow and nasal; rather, I sing here the praise of the genuine article.

Best of all the ballad-singers, I fancy, is the beautiful Miss Mary O'Hara, from the old town of Sligo in Ireland, who occasionally visits these United States but is ordinarily to be encountered in Scotland or Ireland. She has consistently refused to cheapen her art by recording trivial modern songs. Tall, very graceful, and mercurial, she sings like an angel. "She's a wonderful woman!" a highly rational Scottish editor once exclaimed, almost ecstatic, after hearing her in my company. Suffused by what Burke called "the unbought grace of life," Mary O'Hara's loveliness of character swells out through her voice. Often we meet at the house of friends in Edinburgh, and her conversation is as entrancing as is her singing. Several albums of her records are available in this country. She is perfect at her Irish harp.

The most charming of American ballad-singers, I think, is Miss Orrie Smith, aged 18, who lives in Los Angeles. Miss Smith and I first met when I was telling ghostly tales to the Count Dracula Society, not long ago; a few days later, she was one of a party who entertained my wife and me at the wondrous Magic Castle, the magicians' club in Hollywood.

The delicious little Orrie has recorded a series of ballads with the general title "A Voice in the Wind." Also she has done much television work, and has appeared in motion pictures twice. She is modest, unspoiled, and a great charmer. My helpmate Annette says that Orrie would do admirably in the part of Mary MacArdle, the heroine of my Gothic romance "Old House of Fear" — which Mr. Artie Shaw proposes to make into a film.

Miss Smith sings gentle songs, gently and with great purity of voice. She eschews the post of social consciousness. As Mr. Joe Goldberg says of Orrie, "Today it may take a certain amount of courage for a folk singer not to sing about the Bomb and the Negro rights movement." Orrie possesses that shy and rare courage.

To sing folk-songs convincingly, one must retain a certain simplicity and innocence of character. Orrie, like Mary O'Hara, rejoices in fantasy, and has not lost that wonder which is the reward of generous and unsophisticated natures. She is awed by trees, thinking there may be people or spirits within them — like the wizard Merlin imprisoned in his oak by the enchantress — and gives full faith and credit to ghosts. Such Celtic imagination — for Orrie is half Irish, half French — seems to run in many of the better folk-singers.

At the Magic Castle, where Orrie and a select band of admirers of Count Dracula showed Annette and me the ghostly piano played by the invisible Irma and other mysteries, the melodious Miss Smith seemed such a one as drifts through dreams. The true folk-song, indeed, lifts us out of this rough and crass time into the eternal realm of wonder and pathos. From Morocco to the Shetlands, I have heard — always with delight — the surviving singers of old songs. One such chant from a porter, after nightfall in the almond groves of Sicily, is better than the entire "popular" cacaphony which pours raucously from our television sets and radios, day in and day out — the ultimate degradation of the musical art.

BEAUTY SECRETS

By Victor of Vilu

Does She or Doesn't She Wear a Wig?

This is the year that an old American custom is coming back for another fling with the ladies—the wearing of wigs. And if you think wigs are something new, just take another look at Martha Washington's picture, or Dolly Madison or Betsy Ross. Those fluffed up curls weren't manufactured with a home permanent.

Wigs are back and American women are taking to them like Grant took Richmond. So who are we to cast a dissenting vote? Wigs have a place in a woman's beauty wardrobe, together with curlers and hair dryers, but only if they are bought with care and discretion.

Don't think that buying a wig will solve all your hair problems. Buying the wrong one can give you problems you never had before. When it comes to buying a wig, there is no substitute for knowledge and reputation of the seller. This will assure you the service you expect from this flattering beauty accessory. So if you are planning to buy one, buy only from someone who stands behind their product. Working with a limited budget? All the more reason for being cautious.

Why this precaution? Because only a wig, made of top quality hair and manufactured by a reputable company with care and precision, will maintain its body and shape over a long period of wear. You can tell you've got a good one after you've cleaned it for the first time. If it cleans well and then returns to its original shape without too much fussing, you're on the right track.

Poorly made wigs can not take a good cleaning because when you comb it, you'll find that the hair will break and even disintegrate under the comb. Such a wig is doomed for the waste-basket in a short while, and so is the money you spent. That is, unless you bought the wig from a reputable store.

And that brings us to the third and final point. If you are planning to buy one, come on in and we'll size and fit you. Make sure when you purchase you do at a reputable concern where you can buy it with confidence. We'll also give you some important things to look for so that your money will buy an accessory than can play an important and a lasting role in your beauty make-up. Shop around and make comparisons. For questions or consultation call or see Mr. Victor at Vilu OV 1-8760, 534 So. Broadway, Hicksville.

Mercy League Fashion Show

Last Tuesday, November 17 was the occasion for the "Tres Gal" Luncheon and Fashion Show sponsored by the Syosset Mercy League.

As 250 lovely ladies gathered in the dining room of the North Hills Country Club, their first impression was the splendor of fall. On each of the tables was a colorful centerpiece of autumn flowers.

The decoration committee was headed by Mrs. Milton Ulrich.

The delicious chicken luncheon pleased the guests, followed by the fashion show which was the highlight of the afternoon.

The fashions were modeled by members of the league looking especially lovely with their coiffures by Mr. Lewis Martine, Huntington. Commentary was done by Miss Ruth Kurth.

The cherished prize of the day, a mink boar, was won by Mrs. Frank Bella.

League president, Mrs. George Hoffer, spoke briefly thanking everyone for their support today in making for a better Mercy Hospital tomorrow.

Reincitation pour un travail bien fait to Mrs. Edwin Kawaeki and staff.

If You Please

By Peter Pettibone

A taxi driver, weaving in and out of Old Country Road traffic at a fast pace, burst out laughing. "What's so amusing?" I asked. "Aw," he said. "I was thinking of the two preachers and the cab driver who went up to heaven at the same time. St. Peter asked the first minister, 'Who are you and what have you done?' He answered, 'I'm a Baptist minister and I've preached for 25 years.' St. Peter ordered, 'Well, stand over to one side.' He then put the same question to the second clergyman, who answered, 'I've been a Methodist pastor for 25 years.' St. Peter asked him to also stand aside. He then asked the third man what he had done on earth. 'I'm a taxi driver,' said the cabbie. 'Been one for 20 years.' St. Peter ordered him to, 'Pass through the gates.' The preachers protested, 'Why have you allowed that man to go before us?' St. Peter's answer amazed them: 'Because in 20 years he has scared more hell out of people than both of you in half a century.' ... A certain little boy to another: 'It was a swell party, Freddie. I'm sick as a dog.' Same kid: Mom! Dad! What happened to my new record - the one I played all day yesterday? (Crash)... I just love Wilson Mizner's line, 'I respect faith, but doubt is what gets you an education.' ... At Dick McKee's bar we overheard: 'She's the cut angle of that triangle.' ... And: 'Well, bless my wool,' said the ram as he plunged over the cliff. 'I didn't see that ewe turn.' ... (ugh)... 'Mr. Southampton' Herb McCarthy's son Mike, of Villanova, will wed Penn State beauty Marion Dorian of Garden City in June... Port poet Andrew Gallo in rhyme:

Mrs. Khruschev every day,
To Nikita has to say

Dearest and beloved spouse -
Why you hang around the house?

Note from that Syosset doll: 'Your column has such a variety of items and vignettes why don't you call it New England Boiled Dinner?' That's a good idea dear, pass the mustard... Last summer I visited Hannibal, Mo., the sleepy little river town where Mark Twain spent his boyhood. Stopping at a roadside stand one day, I asked the white-bearded old proprietor if he had known Samuel "Mark Twain" Clemens. His reply appeared a bit indignant, "Sure I did," he said, "and I know just as many stories as he did, only difference is he writ 'em down." ... Who said it? The true spirit of conversation consists in building on another man's observation, not overturning it. All the gobblers of turkey you can eat Thanksgiving Day at Carl Hoppl's plush Westbury Manor... A woman walked into a Plainview millinery shop and pointed out a hat in the window. "That red one with the feathers and berries," she said. "Would you take it out of the window for me?" The clerk replied, "Certainly madam, we'd be glad to." And as the woman moved toward the exit she stunned the clerk with, "Thank you very much, that horrible hat bothers me everytime I pass your store!" ... I'll go now, the birds are urging the morning to get up... If You Please.

KEYED TO SERVE METROPOLITAN NEW YORK AND LONG ISLAND

At Random

By Edward J. Van Allen

Kids More Broad-Minded Than Adults?
The mother of a fourth-grader was having a hard time teaching her son how to spell "board." Every time the boy spelled it, it came out "b-r-o-a-d."

Finally the mother said, "Sit down and write that word 100 times so you'll learn it once and for all."

"no, no, I wouldn't make him do that," her husband interposed. "For heaven's sake, don't penalize him when his mind's running in the right direction!"

Oddments and Endments

A reader jocularly asked my why I don't volunteer for the job of Nassau County Welfare Commissioner.

A bit unjocularly I replied: "First of all, I think jobs of that importance ought to be career jobs subject to open-competitive civil service examinations, not just political-plum handouts.

"Secondly, I wouldn't last six months as a welfare commissioner. Why? I would want all the able-bodied on welfare to be gainfully employed, even if the Welfare Department had to go out and find jobs for them.

"Next, I would want all able-bodied unwedded fathers to be brought to book and made to support children they bring into the world and then "bequeath" to relief authorities."

You can't stop promiscuity, but you can put a price on it.

On the other hand, I would want much more done for handicapped children in this county than is being done, especially for those who are victims of educational neglect.

As matters stand, if the handicapped child's disabilities don't fall precisely within the artificial set of standards prescribed by the Legislature, all public agencies or bodies can turn their back on him.

I haven't forgotten, for example, the deaf, cerebral palsied child from Levittown denied a chance to get a minimum of education and training in a special school in Brooklyn when the county refused to pay tuition at the Brooklyn school after all doors in Nassau had been closed on the boy.

I haven't forgotten the retarded child, a victim of four widely differing IQ reports by four different school psychologists, denied an education when the parents refused to dump the child in the Special Services School in Westbury on orders of the public school district which had ignored the then law requiring it to set up special classes for such unfortunate children.

Nor have I forgotten the plucky woman in a wheelchair, a multiple sclerosis victim who never knew whether she would ever see another tomorrow, who was being forced to close down her little candy store because she operated it out of her small house in a residential zone.

What was the Welfare Department's answer in her case? It would gladly shell out the taxpayer's money to keep her on the dole, but it wouldn't lift a finger to help her maintain self-respect and self-dignity by setting up her little business elsewhere.

Could anybody who believes in putting a price on promiscuity; offering jobs instead of a dole to potential welfare recipients; and helping those unquestionably in need, such as the halt and the blind or the otherwise handicapped victim of educational or other types of neglect, "qualify" to be welfare commissioner?

Hardy, I'm sure the bleeding hearts of whom J. Edgar Hoover recently venerated in another context would get him ere too long.

Who buys more Savings Bonds?

As statistical-minded as we are today, the Treasury Department can't answer that question.

The Treasury does know that U.S. Savings Bonds are owned by tens of millions of families. So it might be safe to assume that people in every walk of life belong to this "savings club."

This is a happy fact for the United States, and for the free peoples of the earth. For Savings Bond dollars are playing an important role today in the making of history.

This $46 billion reserve in the government's hands is working vigorously to day to help our country in the major struggle to defend freedom.

At the same time, Savings Bonds help build your personal purchasing power by paying good interest and providing a method of saving that's unconditionally safe and readily cashable. And the higher your purchasing power, the better it speaks for our system.

It all adds up to one of the best ways you can save money and at the same time help your country. Start buying Bonds next payday—through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or from any bank—and see if you don't feel pretty good about it.

Quick facts about U.S. Savings Bonds

- You get $4 for every $8 at maturity
- Your Bonds are replaced free if lost, stolen or destroyed
- You can get your money anytime
- You can save automatically on Payroll Savings

Plainview Gets Tournament Bid Over Hicksville on Schedule Basis

The above is conjecture but the failure of Hicksville to play a complete basketball schedule does hold the possibility that the Comets could be denied a tournament berth by reason of playing fewer games. Just why the biggest school in Nassau does not have a complete schedule has always been a mystery. Hicksville athletes are considerably short changed since so many are jammed into that assortment of cheeseboxes on Division Avenue.

If this were like the other towns of comparable size (Plainview, Levittown, Great Neck, East Meadow) we would have two high schools and as a result a much broader athletic program.

We also understand that a Farmingdale game will have to be put on during the day which reduces the chance for students, parents and friends to see the games.

Take the Junior Varsity schedule for instance. They do not take part in the two game Christmas tourney and now lose one game to Farmingdale via cancellation. That leaves those boys with only 13 games on the year.

The Christmas Tourney is to be greatly applauded. It is bound to attract much more interest than that boring two night stand of the last four years at Clarke. That tourney never caught fire but we are sure this one at Great Neck South will. At least Hicksville will not meet the same team in league play when the regular season starts.

It has been brought to our attention that the less risk in a short schedule could do the opposite of what we suggest and Hicksville could snuggle under for a tourney bid.

That kind of conniving is repugnant!

The contribution of Hicksville boys to the first all winning, undefeated season at St. Dominic's High in Oyster Bay was more than considerable.

Completing the season with a 7-0-1 record the Saints stormed over Wheatley in the finale.

A graduate of St. Ignatius Yellow Jacket ball, Charley Lang of Park Avenue was the main cog in coach Tom Capozzoli's fine team. He zeroed in with 50 completions in 100 passes for a neat 1,046 yards to attract the eyes of many colleges.

More than a dozen schools are after him and his excellent scholastic standing is as great a lure as his quarterbacking ability.

Other Hicksville impressions were made by line backer Ron Reilly and tackle Dennis Gallahue.

John Hanifan made his place on the team with prime executions of the place kick which produced the vital extra point. It took long and continuous practice but it was rewarded. Unfortunately he was hurt before the last game and waited in Syosset Hospital for the outcome of the season.

So many of his teammates, cheerleaders and friends made a bee line straight from the Oyster Bay field with the good news that the Hospital was shaken a bit but soon recovered.

He is now home again and has been placed in a walking cast to the great relief of his friends and that of his family.

St. Ignatius, riding the crest of its great victory over St. Anne's of Garden City, overwhelmed game but outmanned Holy Family to make it a clean sweep in the CYO Grammer School football league, 34-0.

Your times reporter enjoyed the capping of a banner season which was assured on long runs by Walter Lee and Ronnie Ruggiero. Both those lads will be in the All-Star line up this Saturday night at St. Raphael's field, East Meadow.

The game starts 8:00 P.M. The site can be reached by traveling straight south on Newbridge Road for about five miles. Five other Hicksville boys from the Yellow Jackets will also be selected to play in the game.

They are smiling broadly up at HHS since Mark Felman won honors as an All-County selection for Soccer this past season. The Hicksville High Senior worked very hard to achieve this recognition and coach Henry Renn is rightly very proud as is the school.

Human Rights To Show Film

Mr. Robert Schulman, a Plainview attorney will also recount his legal work this past summer in Mississippi.

McBride, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William McBride, 29 Sunset Ave., is a senior in the College of Letters and Science, majoring in history and political science. Now editor-in-chief of "The Racquet", the university newspaper, McBride has earlier been circulation manager and assistant editor of the paper. You can put $50 into someone's future with U.S. Savings Bonds—and the cost is only $37.50.

Something else. You give more than money with U.S. Savings Bonds. In a small—but vital—way you give freedom, too. Because Bond dollars do a lot to help Uncle Sam stand tall in this troubled world of ours.

Prices start at just $18.75 for the $25 size.

Why not give Bonds to all the special people on your list this year? Yourself included.

THE LONG ISLAND STATE PARKWAY PBS installed its officers for 1965-66 at a dinner dance at the Club House of the Bethpage State Park, Bethpage. Over 250 persons attended. Sidney Siben, of Bay Shore, counsel to the group for 18 years installed the officers. Here they take the oath of office, left to right: Sidney R. Siben, Bay Shore, giving the oath to President Barney L. Aversano, of 6 Spruce St., Hicksville, center and Vice President George J. Koch, 70 Linden Avenue, Bethpage. This is Aversano's fourth term. Koch was also re-elected. James Hallinan of Deer Park was re-elected secretary and Richard Borchers of Babylon was re-elected treasurer.

The Parkway Police patrol the state parks and parkways in both Nassau and Suffolk counties. Representatives from many police organizations were present at the affair.

THE FIRST PERFORMANCE by a Long Island Church Choir of Menotti's opera, "Amahl and the Night Visitors" will be presented by St. Stephen's Church, Hicksville, on Friday, December 11 at 8:30 p.m. and Sunday, December 13 at 7:30 p.m. Rehearsals from left to right Dorothea Szczesniak, Leslie Hopkins, Michael Szczesniak and George Wabon.

The Director will be Leslie Hopkins, organist and choir director at St. Stephen's. An Oklahoman by birth, Hopkins conducted the first Long Island performance of the opera three years ago in Port Washington. This past summer he studied conducting at the Berkshire Music Festival, Tanglewood under Max Rudolf, Erich Leinsdorf, Lukas Foss and Richard Burgin. He is a graduate of the Westminster Choir College with a Master's degree and has been active as a conductor and church musician on Long Island for several years. As the music director of the choral group called "Musicfriends," he has also conducted performances of Mozart's "Requiem," Haydn's "Creation," "The Messiah" by Handel and other works.

The title role of Amahl will be sung by Michael Szczesniak who sings in the church choir and is a piano student of the F. Arden Burt School of Music, Hicksville. He also sang the title role in the children's operetta, "The Emperor's Nightingale."

The leading parts will be sung by professionals, including Mrs. Dorothy Szczesniak in the role of the mother, and George Watson as the Page. Mrs. Szczesniak had voice instruction and training both here and in Europe. She and Mr. Watson are members of the church choir. The roles of the Three Kings will be very capably handled by: Hollister Cox, Port Washington; Joseph Maimone, Roslyn; and Richard Wier, New York City.

A donation to the church will be accepted at the performances in lieu of admission.
