THINKING IT OVER

By Robert L. Morgan

One of the greatest political-gimmicks ever to be put over on the voting public is the theme "One person one vote." This pious theme is the basis for doing away with all of the established voting district lines and starting a new round of gerrymandering.

What is clever about the idea is that reapportionment represents gerrymandering (redrawing political lines for political advantage) with the blessing of the public, which is led to believe it will now have a greater voice in government.

In the Northern areas of the country the Democratic party will benefit overwhelmingly by reapportionment and in the South the Democrats will lose a little.

Politically reapportionment has advantages but not to the public, only to the politician. When politicians recite the refrain "one man one vote," and some of our very politically oriented school teachers chime in the chorus, they know they are hypocrites. They are not interested in giving the one man his vote, they are interested in getting control of it.

Anyone who knows how Congress, the Senate and State Legislatures work, knows that "one man one vote" will never have anything to do with what type of legislation is passed or even gets to the floor of Congress. The decisions on what is good or not good for the country (and sometimes mainly what is good for the politicians) is made in committees. And these committees sometimes are as small as five people.

Try the "one man one vote" hat on for size with the case of the prayer amendment to the U.S. Constitution. The head of the committee controlling this vote in Congress, Emanuel Celler made no secret about the fact that he thought the majority of the voters would pass the amendment if it were put to them, but that he thought it would be a dangerous precedent to start amending the Constitution, so the bill never got out of committee. We don't know whether the Congressman was right or not in his thinking, but we do know that he was not thinking of the millions of people he disenfranchised, who could have decided the matter for themselves.

This is but one example of the way things actually operate and we are not saying it is wrong or right. From a practical standpoint committees might have to do all of the work and make the decisions in governing bodies. But why tell the people that by gerrymandering district lines that they will now have more voice in government? They won't and the politicians and school teachers and a lot of other people know better.

Eight-Months Pregnant, X-ray Won't Do Harm

By C.A. Dean, M.D.

(Q) "If a mother is X-rayed during the last month of pregnancy, will the baby be affected later on in childhood - the nervous system for example?"
Mrs. E.F.

(A) No! The important period in the development of the fetus (unborn child) is during the first three months of pregnancy. This is the time when medicines taken by the mother and diseases (virus, German measles, etc.) that she may develop could damage the fetus, especially the nervous system. These effects show up at birth and do not develop later on in life. Strong X-rays could damage any person at any age, but one or two X-rays (which give out an extremely small amount of radiation) would not be harmful to an unborn child even in the vital first three months.

The New Republican Leader

By Russell Kirk

Having defeated Representative Halleck in the Republican House caucus, Congressman Gerald Ford is now minority leader of the House -- and, quite possibly, the coming leader of the troubled Republican party. As this commentator suggested immediately after November's Presidential election, Mr. Ford is perhaps the likeliest man to unify and reinvigorate Republican ranks.

His victory was no triumph of Republican "liberalism," a la Governor Rockefeller or Representative Lindsay. Mr. Ford is conservative -- but soundly and imaginatively conservative. He and his supporters objected to Mr. Halleck's leadership in the House not because the gentleman from Indiana was old-fangled, but because Mr. Halleck seemed unable to oppose the Democrats effectively, or to develop alternatives to liberal proposals.

Coming from Grand Rapids, the most consistently Republican city in the United States, Mr. Ford represents his party's "mainstream" as well as may any single spokesman. Especially acquainted with military and foreign affairs, he may be expected to challenge the foreign policies of the Democratic Administration more searchingly than they have been criticized for a great while.

Mr. Ford tends to win public confidence more readily than does nearly any other leader of his party. A calm, careful speaker, he is almost never caught in even a slight error of fact.

He is at once among the better parliamentary tacticians of the House, and one of the most studious and reflective Republican politicians. Though he has no personal fortune behind him, he is recognized in both parties as untouched by any accusation of self-seeking, susceptibility to lobbies, or questionable association. Big, athletic, good-looking, and well educated, Mr. Ford seems a better Presidential prospect for 1968 than do the somewhat tarnished or controversial Republican governors whose names are frequently advanced by my journalistic colleagues. Probably he will play a large part in the Congressional campaigns of 1966 -- and if he brings into the House many new Republican colleagues, with that election, the Republican state and county chairman will pay more attention to him than ever before.

What with the Republican leader in the Senate being a man of yesterday, the new House leader will bear the brunt of resistance to the Johnson Administration; also there is a better chance of checking Democratic proposals in the House than in the Senate. Despite Mr. Halleck's frequent verbal vehemence against Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, his Republican colleagues felt several times that Halleck settled for less than he might have won -- most notably in the House version of the most recent Civil Rights bill. Ford may be quieter, but more resolute and convincing in opposition.

Ordinarily the minority leadership of the House carries with it no great intellectual or strategic ascendancy in party councils. But in the present dog days of the Republican party, Gerald Ford must be reckoned the most powerful and promising champion of the national opposition.

Public Speaking Contest By K Of P

"The Prospects for my Generation" will be the subject of the 20th annual Knights of Pythias Public Speaking Contest, according to announcement of the Youth Commission of the Supreme Lodge, made public by Levittown Lodge this week. National finalists will be drawn from winners of six sectional contests, who in turn will be drawn from Domain and Initial elimination contests held in the spring and early summer. Traveling expenses will be provided for those moving on to sectional and national competition.

In interests of fairness, a uniform system of rating has been devised with charts to be used by judges to evaluate research, language, clarity, voice and effectiveness through a point system without reference to identity of speaker. The contest has been placed on the Approved List of National Contests and Activities for 1964-1965 by the National Association of Secondary School Principals. Those desiring to enter the contest may make application in person to Levittown Lodge.

BEAUTY SECRETS

By Victor of Vilu

What About Your Attitude?

By Victor of Vilu

It may seem far-fetched in your mind to associate beauty with a mental attitude, but nevertheless there is a close relationship between your attitude and your appearance. How you feel has a great deal to do with how you look, and if you are sulky, tense and are in conflict with your family and the rest of the world, better give up trying to set the world on fire -- first set fire to your personality.

How often you have heard it said that "She isn't pretty but she makes up for it by being vivacious and in love with the world." It's true. Just as your mirror reflects your face, your face in turn reflects your inner joy. And if you are young and at peace with the world, you have much to make you happy, for youth carries with it an inner glow that is difficult to imitate with even the best of beauty care. Unfortunately, this inner glow can easily be snuffed out by a poor attitude toward humanity.

Learn how to live with people. Be relaxed in their company without making a constant effort to outshine everybody else with your intelligence and talent. Let them discover that hidden reservoir within you for themselves without waving it as a red flag in their eyes. Learn how to like people. It's easy to retire within the safe confines of your close friends and relatives who know you and understand you -- but your true personality can only be developed by meeting people, listening to them and learning to like them.

Learn to be yourself without trying to imitate somebody else. "Putting on an act" may work for a while, but you will be playing a part that doesn't suit you and sooner or later the masquerade will be discovered, to your discredit.

True beauty is something that must be worked on in order to be achieved, and even the best applied make-up, the handsomest wardrobe and constant care by your hair stylist cannot hide an attitude that is at odds with the world.

For questions or consultation call or see Mr. Victor at Vilu, OV 1-8760, 534 So. Broadway, Hicksville.

Bouse Leads Dimes Drive

Plans for the 1965 March of Dimes Drive were speeded up today as Southeastern Nassau Campaign Director, Benjamin M. Barnes, announced the appointment of Rudolf A. Bouse as Hicksville Community Chairman, for the third straight year.

Mr. Bouse in accepting his appointment said "The March of Dimes is doing more than any other private organization has ever done to fight two of the nation's greatest cripples -- birth defects and arthritis. The American people have come to expect success from the March of Dimes. Their continued support in 1965 will make possible even greater victories over disease and disability."

Mr. Bouse is the owner of the Hicksville Catering

by HOWARD FINNEGAN

Hicksville upset Plainedge, 55-51 in its last outing and took over sole possession of second place in the NSAA Section One race.

Winging on the opening passes of Jim Berholtz and the backboard work of Bill Corrigan the Comets got off sharply. John Walker cleared the rim with four one handers in the first half and the combination shot the Orange and Black to a 35-16 halftime lead. Playing before a small but active hometown crowd the Comets made the growing mistakes in the last two periods and the favored Plainedge players were quick to seize upon them.

Coach Ed Petro had to remove Bill Corrigan due to an injured knee in the fourth period and while he was attended and resting for five and a half minutes the visitors came up within four points.

Two key rebounds by Greg Hoberock and three foul drops held the edge and Hicksville had the margin until the buzzer.

In a series that has always provided plenty of excitement Island Tress visits Hicksville's court this Friday night. The IT scouts were out in force watching the Comets defeat Farmingdale 42-39 earlier last week. The Bulldogs want this one and hope to capitalize on the mistakes that a team with a sophomore and two juniors must make from time to time. Our choice HICKSVILLE 67, Island Trees 62.

With the basketball campaign one third gone the facts and figures are always of interest to the buff so here a clinical analysis are the numbers for the first six Hicksville High games.

| Player | Shots | Made | FA | FM | Re bounds | Points |

....According to our schedule the Jackass performance last Friday night was scheduled for the Junior High gym....

It was held in front of the Senior High School. Parents, taxpayers and just plain supporters arriving early for the Hicksville-Plainedge game got an immediate sharp quizz when parking in the general public area, as to their intent for the night.

If they stated the basketball game they got a horrifying rejoinder that there was a Board of Education meeting and that basketball people just had to get off the property and park on the street.

Because of their long and late efforts we could see reserved spaces (which there are) for the members of the Board and the school official family.

Dr. Bryan At St. Martin's

Dr. Charles H. Bryan, Superintendent of Bethpage Schools, will be the guest speaker at the meeting of the Confraternity of Christian Mothers, St. Martin of Tours Parish, on Monday, Jan. 25 at 8:45 p.m. in the parochial school cafeteria. His topic will be: Preparing Your Child for High School.

College Notes

R. ALLYN LEWIS of 53 Sleepy Lane, Hicksville, a freshman at Norwich University, has been elected secretary of his class for the current academic year.

A graduate of Hicksville Senior high school, Allyn is majoring in civil engineering at the military college. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Lewis.

but to sort out those with the basketball stigma for those who attend the board meetings is pure pomposity.

It has been our misfortune to attend more Board meetings as a silent observer than basketball games in our 28 year history at Hicksville High and we see no valid reason for the board to court one group over the other.

On behaviour the spectators at the basketball games have far more points in their favor.

We do not know who issues orders but they are really sad for they miss the whole intent of extracurricular activities. The school is for the students in all respects and anyone interested in education should understand this.

But when it comes to chasing members of the faculty charged with the responsibility of the safety, conduct, health and welfare of some 1,2000 students in the gym we fear it is far from understood.

This school board has a long history of tolerating the suppressing, blocking and discouraging of interscholastic athletics (and if they want the list they can have it) in the biggest school on Long Island.

The Jackass hoofprints in the front of the Senior High last Friday night were just another example

 JEWISH HOSPITAL ON SEVEN DAY BASIS

"Diversional therapy" is ministered to young pediatric patients in the seven-days-a-week playrooms of the Long Island Jewish Hospital through games, toys and arts and crafts programs supervised by a corps of volunteers called "Ladies-in-Yellow." Now in its third year of operation, the program cares for ambulatory children, up to 14 years, in a playroom; for bedridden tots; and for out-patients receiving clinical care. (Graphic News Photos.)

BEAR UP! Deirdre Davis, of Jamaica, orders an overgrown and overstuffed Teddy Bear to "sit up" in the large Pediatric Playroom.

OUT-PATIENTS: Theresa and Tom Miklitsch, of Elmont, waiting for clinical care, receive brief arts and crafts projects, in lapboards, as effective diversions.

AMBULATORY children in a well-stocked playroom have their thoughts of ailments diverted by the dedicated volunteers.

Letters

To the Editor:
The Mid-Land Civic Association, through its Civic Affairs Chairman, Kurt H. Pohl, has called on the Town Board of Oyster Bay to reject the application of Jerry Spiegel, a local builder, for the downzoning of the Davis Farm property which straddles the Hicksville-Jericho border at Bethpage Road and Broadway. Spiegel has announced plans to construct garden apartments on this property and is seeking to have the present Residence D classification downzoned to Business G and Apartment House E-1.

At a public hearing in Oyster Bay on December 15th, Spiegel's representatives claimed that this apartment project was being designed for "senior citizen" occupancy by arranging to install skid-proof bath tubs in each apartment unit. Kurt Pohl of the Mid-Land Civics brushed off this evidence of planning for senior citizens as "rather ridiculous". "If the only thing our elderly people need in the way of housing requirements is skid-proof bathtubs, we're all spending a lot of needless time worrying about them. Those of us who are fortunate, to have our parents, alive and in good health, know that their main concern is the cost of trying to maintain their own home or apartment on the retirement pensions they receive. How many of our retired elders could possibly afford to pay the $40 or more per room that Mr. Spiegel says he will rent these apartments for?"

The civic association was represented at the hearing by Herman Kanfer, a Hicksville attorney and presented petitions against the downzoning signed by 503 residents. One person spoke from the audience, in favor of granting the downzoning and was identified by the newspaper accounts as being the President of the Hicksville Senior Citizen Club. Subsequent investigation disclosed that this person was a paid employee of the Hicksville School District who was assigned as a leader to one of several senior citizen groups in Hicksville, and who was not even a resident of Hicksville or Jericho. The Mid-land Civic Association has sent a strong protest to the Hicksville Board of Education concerning this interference in local affairs by a non-resident employee of the School District.
The Town Board reserved decision at the conclusion of the hearing and no date was set for a decision to be announced. The civics have been rounding up support for their position and have called on each member of the Town Board to "act in the best interests of their constituents rather than the economic interests of a profit-seeking builder, by voting NO on the application to downzone the property in question."

If You Please

By Peter Pettibone

A mysterious man has recently been waiting on the doorstep of the Metropolitan Museum every morning when it opens. He is well dressed but unshaven, looking as if he just got out of bed and made a dash for the Museum. Once inside all he does is sit on a bench, unfold the "Herald Tribune" and read for an hour or so. Recently he noticed a guard looking at him, and said testily, "I suppose you're wondering why I come here. I'm trying to stop smoking and I have to be some place where they won't let me smoke, see?" He brooded for a while, then amplified his explanation. "On Sunday mornings when you are closed, I go to church...Memo from Port Washington Reporter's Dorothy Grant Ford: "Wish you would help me find the beautiful Viola (Mrs. Spencer) Eddy. I am anxious to contact her. "Dorothy and Viola great friends for many years. If you know the whereabouts of Mrs. Eddy tell her to contact Dorothy Ford at once - PO 7-0114...One of Kansas State College's top athletes is handsome Richard Boehringer. Holds 5 school records at Elmont High... Carl Conraddi sold the, now burned down, Bradley's property to Port Washington the nursing home owner Boss Ross who's offering it for long lease... Deduction: An Oyster Bay lady reports that a Macy's driver wanted to know if she had any Brazilian postage stamps that he might have for his son's philatelic collection. She just happened to have some and gave them to the fellow. "What made you think of asking me for them? she asked. "Well," the driver told her. "I read in the paper you had been entertaining some people from Brazil, and was pretty sure they'd write you a bread-and-butter letter"...In a Roslyn late spot: "Did you notice that doll over there? Well, as the evening wears on her face wears off." And: "He's strong in the courage of his connections"...At Carl Hoppie's elegant Westbury Manor lovely star Vanessa Brown, was asked if brains handicap a girl. She answered us with, "Not if she keeps them well hidden - behind a low neckline." I might get a couple of miles out of them." My favorite pun is about the Scotchman who found a box of cough drops and then purposely slept in a draft all night...Note to an East Hampton stuff shirt: Harmodius, descended from a long line of noble families. He once reviled Iphicrates, a shoemaker's son who had become a general, for his mean birth. Iphicrates replied politely: "My nobility begins with me. Yours ends with you."...A lady speaks: Helen Rowland: "From the day on which she tips the scales at 140 the chief excitement of a woman's life consists in spotting women who are fatter than she is"...I must agree with the Duke of Manchester, who once said. "A social climber in one year expends enough energy to lift Buckingham Palace 9 1/4 inches off the ground 43 seconds...Jericho Bar Sign: "Please limit your abuse to five minutes"... (I stop off in such joints, now and then to see how the other nine-tenths live...Set 'em up Joe..... If you please.....

Two Get Honor Awards

Miss Mary Holbrook Russell, dean of the Cathedral School of St. Mary, has announced that Academic and Citizenship honors have been awarded to two Hicksville sisters, students at St. Mary's.

Miss Kathleen Ciancella, daughters of the Reverend and Mrs. Dominic Ciancella, 124 Jerusalem Ave., Hicksville, have been named to both the Academic Honor Roll and the Citizenship Honor Roll. Kathleen received honors with distinction.

Rotary Hears Adult Ed. Talk

Mr. John Ash, Director of Adult Education for the Hicksville Public Schools in a recent talk before the Hicksville Rotary Club, made the following comments on "Adult Education". People in all levels of economic life need to go on learning new things as adults. Adult Education must be an enterprise of such variety that it will meet the needs which people feel keenly for personal competence, while it also makes people aware of their need for civic competence. It must help people do better in society. - while at the same time they are making a better society. Instruction ends in the school room...but education ends with life - a continuing process.

Mr. Ash suggested that the public avail themselves of the registration period for Adult Education classes on Monday, Jan. 18th, through Thursday, January 21st, at the Hicksville High School Cafeteria, Division Avenue, between 7 p.m. and 9 p.m.

TEACH Gives Board Criteria

The Hicksville Board of Education is composed of seven members elected to the office of Trustee by qualified voters. Their function and duties are defined by the State Education Law. Each School Board Trustee serves for a period of three years, taking office on July 1st following elections in May of each year.

This year the term of office of two School Board members is up. With this in mind Taxpayer's Educational Assn. for the Children of Hicksville, has drawn up standards of candidacy, non-partisan in nature, to be used in determining the caliber of individuals seeking office.

Criteria Pertaining to the Educational Philosophy of the Potential Candidate:

I. A candidate should be devoted to the idea of public education.

II. She should acknowledge the School Board's responsibility to the community in ascertaining its educational needs, and assuming a leadership role in proposing and promoting the programs which will best meet those needs.

III. He must support full-time education, working toward the elimination of both double and staggered sessions.

IV. He should be aware of the limits of a classroom size within which a teacher can work effectively.

V. His attitude regarding teachers' salaries should include:

A. Understand the need for a stable faculty, bringing in competent experienced teachers.

B. Awareness of a general need for salaries high enough to attract and keep the best possible people in the teaching field.

VI. He should support the establishment of Citizen Advisory Committees.

Criteria Pertaining to the Personal Qualifications of the Potential Candidate:

I. As a School Board member, the candidate should:

A. Be conversant with current educational trends and understand the nature and complexities of modern education.

B. Place educational goals foremost, recognizing that careful management of funds is a means towards these goals, rather than an end in itself.

C. Indicate a willingness to turn - in a spirit of trust and respect

- to educators as reliable sources of information.

D. Be able to distinguish between the POLICY-MAKING function of a lay board and the PROFESSIONAL PREROGATIVES of the Superintendent, principals, and teachers.

E. Be willing to devote the time and effort necessary for the completion of School District business.

II. As a member of the community, the candidate should:

A. Have an ability to work well with others, as a necessary prerequisite to the successful promotion of the candidate's educational goals.

B. Be able to give a clear statement of his stand in the past on educational issues in the community.

C. Have no conflict of interests, business or financial.

T.E.A.C.H. is in the process of interviewing citizens of Hicksville who meet the above standards and are interested in serving the community. If you are or know of an individual who would like to be a candidate, please contact David Trabich, President of T.E.A.C.H. at ED 4-3157.
