Library Budget To Be Re-voted

The Hicksville Public Library budget will be resubmitted to the voters at a special election on June 16. The decision to resubmit the same budget was made by the Library Board of Trustees after a careful analysis of the recent voting at which time the budget was defeated by only four votes while Board President Elerey H. Bean was re-elected to his third five year term as a trustee by overwhelming approval. The budget was approved in 5 election districts, but defeated in 2 others where local opposition to the bookmobile was said to be a deciding factor. Almost one-quarter of the books borrowed from the library are handled by the single bookmobile which reaches many young children, many invalids, and many homes handicapped by transportation problems. The wide popularity of the bookmobile and relatively modest operating cost, amounting approximately 14% of the total budget, more than justifies its continuance, in the opinion of the Library Trustees.

A number of factors contributed to the slight increase in the library tax this year. The new addition nearly double the size of the library and will require some increase in heating and operating costs and additional part time personnel to staff it. In spite of the very great increase in facilities, the tax increase from his and all other sources combined total only 2 cents and the total library tax figure of 29 cents per hundred dollars of assessed valuation means that the average family is paying only $12 to $20 per year for library facilities.

Many community leaders and civic groups, noting that attention during the recent election had been focused on school matters and candidates, have pledged their support to gain approval for the proposed library budget.

Registration for those who did not register on May 5th will be held on Wednesday, June 9th from 12 noon to 10 p.m.

Hicksville Hosts Legion Convention

FRED TURNER grand marshal...

The 47th Nassau County American Legion Convention will be held in Hicksville on June 3, 4, & 5, with the Charles Wagner Post No. 421 acting host.

Not since July 18, 1928, when the late Dr. Elwood Curtis welcomed the American Legionnaires of Nassau County to the 10th convention has Hicksville played host. That convention was held in the present day Junior High School and was concluded with a parade from the school to the now gone Odd Fellows Hall for a dinner. It was a one day convention thirty seven years ago, and today, it requires three days to handle the convention business.

The business sessions, which start on Thursday evening, June 3, will be held in the modern, air conditioned Victory Room at the Charles Wagner Post No. 421 at 24 E. Nicholas St. The delegates, more than 500 in number, plus their alternates, will be welcomed to Hicksville by Post Commander Arthur Rutz.

The list of distinguished guests include Senators Robert Kennedy and Jacob Javits, Congressman Lester Wolf and John Wyder, Nassau County Executive Eugene Nickerson, T.O.B. Supervisor Michael Petito, T.O.H. Supervisor Palmer Farrington, Past National Commander Martin McKnealy, Past

Department Commanders John Keenan and J. Arthur Petty, and Maurice Stember, Dept. Adjutant.

The keynote address will be delivered on Thursday evening by Dr. Clifford Lord, President of Hofstra University. Past National President of the American Legion Auxiliary, Mrs. Doris Corwith, will be the recipient of the 1965 Citizen of the Year Award which will be made to Nassau County Commander Michael Caidella.

The big convention parade will assemble in Parking Field No. 11 on Friday evening, June 4, at 7:30 p.m. and the parade will commence promptly at 8 p.m. sharp. The line of march is Bay Avenue north to Nevada Street, then west to Broadway, then South on Broadway to East Nicholas Street where the parade will disband in the parking fields adjoining the Charles Wagner Post. More than 100 units in five divisions will make this one of the largest parades ever held in Hicksville. Members of the Nassau County Fire Department judges team will score the various units as they compete for the parade trophies. Trophies are being awarded for the Best Appearing Legion Post; Auxiliary Unit; Sons of The American Legion Squadron; Junior Auxiliary Unit; Senior Musical Unit; Junior Musical Unit; Out-

The parade will be led by the St. Ignatius Cadets M & M Corps and the Color Guard of the 1st Marine Corps. The famous Amityville Piper Band and the Sunrivers M & M Corps are just two of the well known musical units that will appear. Others are the Commanche Raiders, Schuyler Lancers, Lindenaires, Valiants, Gen. Douglas MacArthur High School Band, Division Avenue High School Band, Sewanaka High School Band, Hicksville Senior High and Junior High School Bands and many others.

The Grand Marshall will be Fred Turner of 10 Sterling Place, Hicksville. Legionnaire Turner was one of fifteen World War I veterans who signed the petition asking the American Legion to issue a charter for a post in Hicksville. That was on Sept. 5, 1919 and he is the only Petition Member on the Post rolls today.

Refreshments will be available and served at the Post following the conclusion of the parade. A business session involving the Time & Place, Finance, Resolutions and Delegates Committees will take place after the conclusion of the parade.

On Saturday morning, June 5, the annual competitions will take place at the athletic field of the

THINKING IT OVER

By Robert L. Morgan

The Ferral-Speno-Mangano textbook bill will be before Gov. Rockefeller to sign soon. There is much unnecessary apprehension over the effect of this bill on local school districts.

While it authorizes school districts to share with the state in the cost of textbooks for children in non-public schools it does not make it mandatory for any school district to pay for textbooks unless the district itself wants to do so.

We have heard many arguments for and against issuing textbooks to children who do not attend public schools and we believe that these arguments will persist for years to come.

Often the basic reasoning behind giving textbooks to all school children is hidden behind a basic premise. That is, whether it is an inalienable right or not for all children to have equal opportunities to pursue an education. If this is an inalienable right it cannot be voted in or out at the whim of the majority. Similar to civil rights the majority probably wouldn't want to share the privileges it has up until this time reserved for itself. In other words those who are now directly sharing the fruits of the tax dollar given to the public schools generally wouldn't vote to give part of the fruits away to some other group. And privileged whites probably wouldn't vote the Negro part of its privileges if a referendum came. But the question in not one to be voted on if it is a basic right.

If the textbook bill becomes law each school district can judge its ability to provide the textbooks. While it would seem that this will entail an added expense on school districts, the facts are that private schools are expanding in this area and as each new school opens on Long Island new many less public school places are needed and the public school system is saved the full cost of education. If the taxpayer could simply for the price of textbooks dispense with his obligation to educate all children he would be far ahead of the game and taxes would surely decrease.

The only true argument against the issuing of textbooks to children in all schools is whether it violates the Constitution on the separation of church and state. Those who favor the bill think that the fact that the books are issued directly to the child makes the difference. Those who do not favor it believe that the issuing of textbooks helps the schools directly. This will have to be solved by the courts in the future. But aside from this somewhat basic argument on the Constitution many of the complaints about hurting the public schools cannot hold water.

Whooping Cough Easily Caught, Prevented

By C. A. DEAN, M. D.

(Q): "All six of my children had whooping cough earlier this year. The youngest one is still coughing after three months. I was told he would have this for a long time and that after 21 days it isn't catching. Is this true? Mrs. G.M.

(A): Whooping cough (pertussis) is a disease which can vary greatly in its manifestation and duration.

It is due to a bacteria, hemophilus pertussis, which spreads from active cases during the infective period. The contagious stage lasts for about four weeks, two weeks before symptoms develop (incubation period) and two weeks after the onset of symptoms. Pertussis is highly contagious and it is estimated that 90 per cent of those exposed will develop the disease.

The usual attack lasts only six weeks but it is possible or the cough to persist several weeks beyond this.

Although most cases are found in children, whooping cough may occur in adults. Usually the younger the patient the more severe the illness. In fact, most fatalities occur in children during the first year of life.

Once a child has suffered an attack of pertussis he is protected against recurrences by permanent immunity. Of course, the same kind of protection can be had by proper immunization. You made no mention, in your letter, about shots for your children and I presume that they had none. Perhaps if they had received the pertussis vaccine you would not have your problem today.

Maybe others will profit from your experience and not neglect their children.

The first stop took them to one of the oldest cemeteries in Bethpage. This cemetery is located on Hempstead Turnpike just of Stewart Avenue. Old headstones were looked for and Mr. Eichhorn who worked on the badge with the Troop explained how Bethpage got started and who brought all the land.

The next stop made was to the oldest house in Bethpage, and that of course was the Powell House.

The Future Of Southwest Africa

By RUSSELL KIRK

At the Hague, the International Court of Justice (World Court) is now engaged in lengthy hearings about Southwest Africa. Ethiopia and Liberia have brought suit in the Court to deprive the Republic of South Africa of its trusteeship over Southwest Africa. Ever since the end of the First World War, the South Africans have governed this vast area, mostly desert, sparsely inhabited by black tribes.

Now the two African states with the longest history of independence (Ethiopia for more than 2,000 years, Liberia for more than 100) accuse the white government of South Africa of misruling Southwest Africa (formerly a German colony). Ethiopia and Liberia make two chief complaints: that the native peoples of Southwest Africa are not given democratic representation; and that the Bantu tribes and other groups are economically "exploited."

But these are curious charges, considering their source. For neither Ethiopia nor Liberia is a genuine "democracy," and in both countries the government rules dissident minorities with an iron hand.

Although Ethiopia has a thin facade of constitutional government, in effect it is an absolute monarchy; the will of Haile Selassie, King of Kings, a ruler of high intelligence and courage, can be disputed by no one with impunity. As for Liberia, this nominal republic actually is the domination of a small governing class, English-speaking and descended from the American colored freedmen sent to Africa in the early nineteenth century, by American philanthropists.

The Kru tribes and other native peoples are treated with great harshness by the colored "aristocracy" of Monrovia, whenever they venture to dissent. In general, the Liberian government is a dismal caricature of American and European institutions, biting described in a recent book by a young French traveller, "Night of the Tall Trees."

To support the charge of "exploitation," Ethiopia and Liberia allege that the wages paid to Bantu laborers in Southwest Africa are low. If one compares such wages with American wage rates, of course this is true. But in comparison with the wages paid in other African lands, the workers of Southwest Africa are very well off. Only in Zambia (formerly called Northern Rhodesia) are wages possibly a little higher.

The average monthly cash wage (excluding salaried employees) in Southwest Africa is about $37. But in Ethiopia (for which few detailed statistics are available) the average wage appears to be only $14, at best; while in Liberia, the average wage is about $15.50. So if low wages mean "exploitation," obviously Ethiopia and Liberia are worse exploiters than is South Africa.

Incidentally the salaries paid to white employees in Ethiopia and Liberia are immensely greater than those paid to natives - which, for similar reasons, is also in Southwest Africa.

In short, the very best which might be said for Ethiopia and Liberia's case before the World Court is this: the pot calls the kettle black. Since these two African states offer no coherent alternative to South Africa's trusteeship in Southwest Africa, and since clearly neither Ethiopia nor Liberia could assume that trusteeship, it is difficult to discern what they expect the World Court to do,

This is now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Klesch who are presently renovating it so that it will be just as it was in the olden days. The girls were met by Mr. Klesch and he explained all about the house and invited Troop 4 back as soon as it is finished. This the girls are eagerly looking forward to.

Troop 4 then went to see the Restoration of houses in progress now at Plainview - Old Bethpage. They walked on the grounds and saw some of the hold homes that are being restored. This site will not be finished for at least another year or two.

Last stop was to Bethpage State Park where hot chocolate and lunch were enjoyed. The leader, Mrs. Toomey, Bad instructor Mr. Eichhorn, Mrs. Nelson and Mr. Price provided the transportation and Jr. Girl Scouts participating from Troop 3 were: Peggy Adams, Margaret Amodio, Dolores Day, Camille De Lucia, Lynn Eichhorn, Christine Gamber, Mary Lang, Barbara Musial, Pamela Nelson, Carol Price, Christine Story, Deborah Taylor, Carolyn Talmadge and Peggy Toomey.

Now when someone asks these girls about Bethpage, they can tell them something that is personally known - thanks to Mr. Eichhorn and their field trip.

Bethpage Girl Scouts will as always, be participating in the Memorial Day Parade on May 31. It is hoped that all those who are connected with the movement will be in the line of march. Troops will line up by number. The assembly area will be on Seaman Avenue at 9:30 a.m. The newly dedicated Bethpage Community Park will be the location for the formal ceremonies. Let's try to make this the biggest Memorial Day Parade ever seen locally; as we pay tribute to the men who gave their lives for American in the three wars of this century.

Indian Night For Girl Scout

Friday, 800 Girl Scouts of the Hicksville Neighborhood had an "Indian Night" at the Hicksville Senior High School Auditorium. Eight hundred girls, as well as parents and guests were conducted on an imaginary tour of India by Tiru Irani.

First, a film of Jacqueline Kennedy's trip to India was shown to the enthusiastic audience. Then dancers garbed in exotic native dress demonstrated some of the country's dances, explaining how each has a story to tell.

The sari, the traditional dress was modeled by one of the Cadette Scouts who demonstrated how it is put on.

After several Indian songs were sung, the height of the evening was reached when thirty troops presented hand made gifts to be given to their Indian neighbors.

This impressive show of International Friendship was arranged and organized by Mrs. Lee Bruno and Mrs. Ruth Aronoff.

Others who helped make the event such a success included Mark Paternoster, and Jim Genobese who handled the lights and projector and the seventeen Senior Scouts who contributed their time and assistance of Troop 17.

Thanks to the Recreation Dept., all the equipment was provided.

Teens Collect For Memorial

Chairman Bruce H. Glatt of the John F. Kennedy Memorial Scholarship Fund announced this week that teenage volunteers will collect donations along the Memorial Day parade route in Hicksville. All volunteers will have special collection containers, official I.D. Cards and letters of introduction. Gatt announced that Co-chairman Joe Rohan will be acting Chairman of Memorial Activities.

The Kennedy Scholarship Fund is composed completely of teenagers who will collect donations for awarding scholarships to students at the Hicksville High School who will major in political science at college. Chairman Glatt reminds the citizens of Hicksville that this is their scholarship fund and is a worthwhile tribute to the late President Kennedy. All donations will be matched by Hofstra University.

All residents of Hicksville are asked to give generously on a day when we remember leaders who died in war. We can also help, on this day, our future leaders to gain the education which will enable them to help preserve what these Americans fought and died for.

BEAUTY SECRETS

By Victor of Vilu /

HOW O ACHIEVE THA UNMADE UP MAKE-UP LOOK

If you've come of age and have a mind to apply that woman's prerogative of not following the crowd, you can achieve amazing beauty results by the simple trick of breaking well-established make-up rules and following your more reliable female instincts.

It's easy and often safer to 'follow the book' in applying your make-up. But too often you acquire that 'made-up' look that detracts rather than adds to the overall impression you make. America's most famous beauties, however, never give you the impression that they've spent hours in front of a mirror, because they have learned how to achieve that natural casual, unmade-up make-up look. Here are some of their tricks:

One of them never blots her lipstick because she feels that it dulls the color. Of course, her lipstick doesn't stay on as long, but while it's on, it is vibrant and rich in color. She pats a little powder on her eyebrows after she applies her eyebrow pencil and contrary to the rules, she puts mascara on both her upper and lower lashes, both tricks designed to focus attention on her eyes which are the highlights of her lovely face.

Another young beauty uses an artist's brush to put on her lipstick and rouge to help give her the natural look that is the trademark of her loveliness. She brushes the rouge along the lower part of her cheekbone and then brushes it up to blend with her skin color, much as a portrait painter would do it. She uses an astringent for stimulation of her dry skin and once in a while she brushes her teeth with baking soda. It gives her teeth a whiteness that makes her smile even more radiant than it normally is.

Whatever your beauty trick, stick to it if it brings results. And don't be afraid to experiment. Achieving that unmade-up look with your make-up is a studied performance but it will make you a star! For questions or consultations call or see Mr. Victor at 'Vilu-Ov-1-5760-534 So. Broadway, Hicksville.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Muller & family of 27 Acre Lane, Hicksville, are shown here in front of one of the nine life size dinosaur models at Sinclair's Dinoland exhibit, New York World's Fair. A reenactment of life on earth as it was some 60 million to 180 million years ago, the Sinclair exhibit displays realistic reproductions of dinosaurs ranging in size from the 6-foot-long Ornitholestes to the giant 70-foot Brontasaurus, corporate symbol of Sinclair Refining Co.

SPORTS

by HOWARD MINNEGAN

The Hicksville Alumni Association will honor the Varsity athletes of Hicksville High at a dinner in the Old Country Manor, next Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m.

All boys and girls who were awarded their Letter by the school have been invited to attend. Parents and friends may purchase tickets at the Hicksville Sweet Shop in advance.

This is the third time the Alumni has undertaken this affair. The past two have been well received.

As the final week of the baseball season started, pitcher Frank Mulligan got Hicksville past Plainedge, 4-2, to maintain a triple tie for the Section One Baseball championship.

It is astonishing that the Orange and Black is in contention this year but coach Dick Hogan came up with another surprise in getting Mulligan trained for the campaign.

The latter's pitching (8 won, 1 lost) has been responsible for the grab on the top spot. Hicksville, Farmingdale and Clarke all have 11 won and 5 lost marks with just two games to go.

Each has played the other three times and the remaining schedule favors the Dalers.

The Comets, however will take the issue down to the last out and hope yet to be celebrating a title at the Alumni Dinner, Wednesday.

Letter winners as announced to the Times by coach Dick Hogan for baseball are: Robert Baranaski, Joseph Carrera, Nicholas Carrera, Thomas Colling, Robert Fink, Joseph Grant, Gregory Hoberock, Andrew Kohler, Robert Kondzelaski, Frank Mairer, Frank Mulligan, Glen Olsen, Robert Reinacher, Peter Rice, Pall Roth, Thomas Thogode and Michael Toomey.

On top of an incompleting basketball schedule Hicksville High School, the biggest school under one roof in Nassau, announces only a seven game schedule for football next season.

All excuses considered it is just another wooden peg in the coffin of disinterest that governs the underprivileged Hicksville High athlete. Failure to play a full schedule is just unbelievable.

We were at Plainview the other day when the Gulls affirmed that this was their year in Lacrosse. Beaten once, 3-2, by Hicksville the home team won decisively 12-6 before a big crowd to nail down the championship.

Despite the soundness of the beating, coach Bill Meyer's Hicksville crew dug in all the way with a tough performance. It was a first period assault by the Gulls Dennis Naughton that lead to an 8-1 Plainview edge. Hicksville just could not overcome that bulge.

Hicksville will be in the county championship playoffs as the 2nd place representative from Section One. A 10 won, 3 lost and 1 tied record assures that. That is a very fine standing for only the third year of the sport at the school.

"Why do you love MEENAN?"

"MEENAN makes me feel so important"

"Honestly, Ethel, I feel so pampered. Meenan has a way with women. They cater to us completely. I can pick up the phone any time—day or night—call them... and the next thing I know there's the Meenan man ringing my door bell. He's a real life saver when I need him. FAST! Their radio dispatched trucks must fly them there. EFFICIENT! The job is done in no time—and I know it's done right. COURTEOUS! They couldn't be nicer or more concerned. ECONOMICAL! Their low cost Comprehensive Service Contract fits our budget to a T! Why don't you try them, Ethel? You'll see why Meenan and I have been going steady for over 15 years."

PBC Holding Parents Night

On Friday, May 14th, the Hicksville unit of the Police Boys Club Nautical Cadets held their annual Parent's Night. It was a most exciting and enjoyable evening. The boys, looking fine in their uniforms paraded in review for such honored guests as Lt. Esposito, United States Coast Guard; Jerome Zet-ler, President of Nassau County P.N.C.; Chief Inspector Andrew Kirk, who is the Commanding Officer of the Nassau County Police Boys Clubs; Patrolman Director Frank Darcy and Bob Williams, President of the Hicksville unit P.B.C. Mens' Club. Also present were all the cadet officers who train and work with the boys every week. Members of the Hicksville Ladies Auxiliary, headed by President Dolores Morehouse, were also on hand to applaud the boys on a job well done. The grand stands were filled to capacity with many proud parents and friends.

During the course of the evening we saw the boys exhibit the things they have learned during the year. Several of the boys demonstrated knot tying techniques. The medic and communication boys put on a very amusing skit while the communication boys sent a message via walkie talkies, radio, signal light and lag code. This was ably narrated by radio man, Morehouse. The drill team went through its paces under the command of Master Chief Petty Officer, Wayne Martin. The very fine cadet band played some very good music and honored the different branches of the Armed Forces with their service songs. While playing, they formed the letters A, N, and M. It was very impressive. They also played a fine jazz version of "The Saints Go Marching In" and did a terrific job on a Rock and Roll number called "Wipeout."

Band Master Lt. Robert Windhorst can be very proud of "his" boys! under the direction of Ensigns Arthur Musselman and Vincent Giannante.

One of the main events of a Parent's night program is the presentation of the sought after "Cadet of the Year Award." A great many things must be taken into consideration when selecting a boy for this most treasured award. He must show loyalty to the corps, have good attendance and appearance, and in many ways prove himself worthy of receiving this honor. After much suspense and anticipation Commander Henry McVicker asked Master Chief Petty Officer Wayne Martin, "outstanding cadet of the year," to step forward. A very happy Wayne walked up to receive his beautiful fifteen inch trophy. The look on Wayne's face made it clear to all watching how thrilled he was to be the receiver of this award. A hearty congratulations to Wayne for doing a fine job. Wayne has been in the cadets for five and a half years. He started out as a boot, worked his way through the ranks, and was in charge of the color guard for two years. He has been a Chief Petty Officer for two years, and now his special interest is working with the drill team, and a half year, and Made "Master C.P.O. a year ago, making him the leading chief of the Battalion. He has participated in over 30 parades starting in September, for the 1965-66 tour, he plans on devoting all his efforts to the drill team, working with the Battalion Drill Instructor, Ensign Collins.

After a few words of praise from each of the honored guests, the whole Battalion took part in the closing ceremonies. This ended another tour. The Battalion will assemble again in early September.
