Petito Wants Large Scale Recreation Program

Year-round swimming facilities, community social centers, increased gyms and athletic fields, a cultural center and historical preserves highlighted a recreation program proposed today for the Town of Oyster Bay by Supervisor Michael N. Petito. The program was drawn up by the Supervisor in the wake of report rendered by his Citizens Committee on Recreation, one of six divisions of Petito's "Citizens Cabinet." The report, issued recently by Joseph F. Madden of Hicksville, committee chairman, states that the Town of Oyster Bay should possess each of the five major facilities or give added support to any local facility having natural geographical or topographical attributes. Supervisor Petito said the report is the most complete study of its kind rendered to the Town and represents 'the best thinking of the recreation movement and conditions as they now exist in the Town.' The proposed development would be coordinated with any planned or existing national, state, county or school district recreation site located in or near the Town.

In the wake of his recreation proposals, Petito said he will ask for immediate Town Board action to employ a Town Recreation Coordinator who will establish town-wide programs for youth, adults and senior citizens. The Supervisor also called for consolidation of the Town Beach and Town Parks Departments and demanded a crash program for immediate recreation improvements in Hicksville, adding that additional facilities are urgently needed in Farmingdale.

More State Money Through Census Totals

Councilman J. J. Pollos, board majority leader, disclosed that the Town of Oyster Bay will receive $63,911 more state aid during the next five years based on the preliminary figures of the now concluding special federal census.

"I am gratified that the Town Board saw fit to request the special census this year," commented Councilman Peotone, "in cooperation with the other two towns and the city of Glen Cove. This grant has produced the maximum aid under the state's complicated formula for the benefit of town taxpayers. The formula will be revised upon the next regular general census in 1970, when it is intended the annual aid funds will again increase."

Mr. Pollos pointed out that the flat aid reduces the local tax cost for beaches, incineration, highways, building, zoning and town administration. He said that all property owners who pay town taxes inside or outside villages will benefit from the increased state aid payments to the Town. There is no reason to believe that state aid based on the preliminary report will increase as residents uncouned on April 26, 1965 file the required statement with the Federal Census Bureau. The Oyster Bay Office will remain open for this purpose at 219 Park Avenue.

The Town Board estimated that state aid for 1965 would have been $1,722,889 without the special census. The head count added $17,659 in estimated receipts from state aid of $1,080,320 for next year. In each of the four ensuing years the census will add about $16,612 to the budget totaling $1,970,512.

The special census appropriation was $65,000 and was made payable over a period of three years.

Then again on Saturday, June 5, members will parade in Mineola, along Jericho Turnpike. Hicksville will join forces with every single Nassau County Police Boys Club unit. THINKING IT OVER

By Robert L. Morgan

"All play and no work" is what has political tempers flaring locally. The play is that each party wants to be the one that will provide the most in recreation for you the taxpayer, and hand you the bill. Such statements as an impudent "crash program for Hicksville to keep the children off the streets" (they wish to disregard the fact that the taxpayers already were told this several years ago when they set up the local recreation program) abound in the reports handed down by the Town's recreation committee.

And the other political party doesn't say much better. They just set up a howl: "You stole our idea."

But the idea of increasing taxes is not a new one and the Democrats didn't steal it from the Republicans. The only thing that has been stolen is the method.

Now the Supervisor's report is ripe with phrases like the youth can "abandon the all night laundromats and shopping center parking lots" and come to the new giant recreation center he proposes.

But who is fooling. The kids in the all night laundromats and the parking lots are not going to abandon them. They want to be there and their parents don't seem to give a damn where they are. Until you change that you can waste all the tax money you want on recreation programs.

But if you forget all of this baloney about putting up the recreation centers to give the laundromat kids some place to go and tell the truth, then the taxpayers can at least get a fair shake. The truth is that a recreation program including an all year round swimming pool has a great deal of appeal. It is like bringing a resort to the community and there is nothing wrong with that.

But what must be examined is, should this be paid or by all the taxpayers - that is the older one who have no need for it and the younger ones who have other means of recreation and activity? Why should they have to pay for your fun as well as their own? Why shouldn't recreation programs be self supporting - maybe non-profit?

When they talk about things being unconstitutional and unfair how can you justify taking money from those taxpayers who can't afford it so that you will be entertained? The idea of tax supported things is that they are necessary and can be financed in no other way. If you cut through the weasel words about recreation you must in honesty know that it can be supported by those who use it and this is the way it should be.

Healthful Hints For European Trip

By C. A. DEAN, M. D.

(Q): "My husband and I are planning a boat trip to Europe next summer. Is there anything I should do to protect our health? What medical supplies should I take?" Mrs. T. T. L.

(A): The most important thing you can do is to get proper immunizations. Smallpox vaccination within three years of the return date is required. Tetanus, typhoid and polio immunizations are not required but I urge you to get them.

A simple medical kit should include the following: thermometer, aspirin or the like, anti-seasick pills, antihistamine and nasal decongestant pills, soap, toilet paper and tissue paper, insecticide, something for diarrhea such as paregoric, bismuth or kaolin-pectate.

and an antibiotic your physician will prescribe. It's also wise to include the telephone number of your physician. If any major problem arises you can always call him or have him called for advice.

(Q): "Would you please describe the condition known as chronic cystic mastitis for me. I have been bothered with it and wonder if it is a serious thing." Mrs. N.E.

(A): This is the name given to the persistent engorgement and enlargement of the milk glands in the breast tissue. It is usually the result of stimulation by the female hormone and is not due to infection or inflammation as the name mastitis might suggest. This condition is not serious but can be bothersome.

Anti-Discrimination Can Be Indiscriminate

By RUSSELL KIRK

We Americans, according to John Randolph of Roanoke are "a fustical and judicial" nation, given to passing statutes which we cannot enforce, and don't really mean to enforce. The present vogue of "fair employment practices" legislation gives substance to Randolph's criticism.

Everyone is in favor of fair employment practices. But how far can government effectively act against "discrimination"? Some legislation may produce infinite bother and litigation, without really helping anybody who deserves help.

Take, for instance, the recently passed Indiana "Age Discrimination Act." This statute prohibits any employer or labor union from discharging, or denying membership to, any person solely because he is between 40 and 65 years of age. Employers are permitted by the act, however, to establish compulsory retirement limits at ages less than 65.

Now this commentator believes that useful work is positive good, and that employers and unions are imprudent if they turn off a competent man merely because of his age. The cult of youth is fallacious. Other things being equal, I should prefer to employ a man past 40, or past 65; experience counts for much, and such people often are more dependable than restless young men.

Yet why attempt to regulate all this by a cumbersome act of legislature? Employers, in these times, are most unlikely to discharge experienced men still fully competent at their work. (Tool-and-die men for instance, have little trouble holding their jobs until they are 75, their skill being in demand. Many railroad engineers are past 65, though they can retire voluntarily, with pension.) If some other men are no longer fully competent to do their work because of advancing years, is it fair to their employers and fellow workers - or, for that matter, safe - to keep them on despite their diminished efficiency?

A statute must encourage the unfit to persist in their jobs, because employers will dread investigation and litigation under the act, and so will be inclined to yield to any employee, however unsatisfactory, who happens to be past 40 and pretends that he is discriminated against because of his age. This may actually work against the advancement of men approaching 40, for employers will hesitate to engage people with whom they will be stuck later. And able younger people will be disheartened, since promotion is difficult when the senior posts are filled by smug mediocrities who feel entrenched merely because they have passed the magical age of 40.

The able worker, in short, does not need this legislative protection; the incompetent worker does not deserve it. And how can anybody really prove, before a commissioner or a court of law that an employee was, or was not, discharged solely because of his age? Besides, elasticity of policy ought to remain for different occupations. Few bank tellers will be fired because they are past 40, but few airline stewardesses will come under the cognizance of the act.

Indiscriminate "anti-discrimination" acts, I venture to suggest, are usually unenforceable, and sometimes create more injustice than they rectify.

To the Editor:

Our illustrious school board appears hell bent on spending every tax dollar allocated in the recent school budget vote, before Anderson and Goldberg even have a chance to put in their requisition for their favorite charities.

I sincerely hope you all enjoyed the Memorial Day parade. You should. Nine Band Directors were paid $75 for marching, one assistant was paid $50, and the Vocal Director was also paid $50. A grand total of $775. This if, of course, in addition to the salary increases that these teachers have received since last September.

While Americans throughout the country were honoring the honored who made the supreme sacrifice in defense of Freedom and Peace, here in Hicksville it has become a matter of dollars and cents. If everyone else can march in thanks for the privilege of doing so in a free country, what is wrong with our teachers and what is wrong with the Hicksville School Board?

As part of the Friday night school board give away they also allocated - above and beyond salary:

Football band director $500; Asst. football band director $300; Musical variety director $200; Orchestra director for musical comedy $500; Vocal director $200.

It was also admitted that we also pay teachers to attend the football and basketball games. They are paid for "Supervisory" duty out of the Internal Fund. How much? $10 dollars an hour?

My advice to one and all, if there

"THEY SAY..."

By PAUL HARVEY

"They say the world is coming to an end!" I was ten years old; that startling statement made an indelible impression.

Even today I recall how many otherwise sensible people of my hometown sought hilltops on the predicted doomsday expecting to be swept away in the clouds merely because of what "they say..."

Subsequent years of newshandling have increased my resentment of any declaration prefaced with the phrase, "They say...."

Still you will hear it often: "They say the President is not well," "They say new cars are made to wear out fast," "They say the AMA is hiding a cure for cancer."

Americans, "They" are not a creditable authority for anything. Further, many "authorities" often talk through their hats.

We must learn to evaluate public utterances. As politicians seek more and more to brain wash us with their present points of view, we must learn to distinguish between good and bad advice.

October 23, 1962, Britain's renowned philosopher, Bertrand Russell, referring to President Kennedy's stand on Cuba, announced "within a week we shall all be dead." We weren't. Previously, Bertrand Russell, who presumes to know everything about everything, had announced, on February 23, 1959, that he was "going to die June 1, 1962." He didn't.

Now let's remember how much credibility to attach to his next public utterance.

November 27, 1964, the London Times predicted that "the United States will go to war with Red China by the end of the year..."

I hope you didn't bet on that.

November 20, 1964, Newsweek Magazine predicted, "J. Edgar Hoover is on his way out..."

President Truman's economic advisor, Leon Keyserling, September 15, 1960, predicted a nationwide economic recession in 1961. There was none.

February 6, 1961, economist Roger Babson predicted a stock market decline "this year." "This thing" he said, "cannot go on."

It went on.

Senator Paul Douglas, December 11, 1960, predicted that President Kennedy would face "an economic recession - unemployment seven percent - by mid January."

Senator Douglas had it backward, but he continued as Chairman of the House - Senate Economic Committee - which office lends much credence to his guesstimates.

In Detroit, "Prophet Jones," on whose word thousands of followers depend for guidance, September 29, 1960 announced, "God has told me Mr. Nixon will win."

September 2, 1960, UN Under Secretary Ralph Bunche said, "The war is over in the Congo." It isn't yet.

Our CIA Director, Allen Dulles, was supposed to know what was going on inside Russia on September 20, 1957, when he said Marshal Zhukov had become "the decisive element" in Soviet political decisions.

Five weeks later, Marshal Zhukov was fired.

Let's be glad "they" are not always right.

As when Khrushchev said he would bury us and now it appears we will bury him.

It is to our enlightened self-interest to remember that "they" are not always right.

And to learn which "they" hardly ever are.

Who buys more Savings Bonds?

As statistical-minded as we are today, the Treasury Department can't answer that question.

The Treasury does know that U.S. Savings Bonds are owned by tens of millions of families. So it might be safe to assume that people in every walk of life belong to this "savings club."

This is a happy fact for the United States, and for the free peoples of the earth. For Savings Bond dollars are playing an important role today in the making of history.

This $46 billion reserve in the government's hands is working vigorously today to help our country in the major struggle to defend freedom.

At the same time, Savings Bonds help build your personal purchasing power by paying good interest and providing a method of saving that's unconditionally safe and readily cashable. And the higher your purchasing power, the better it speaks for our system.

It all adds up to one of the best ways you can save money and at the same time help your country. Start buying Bonds next payday—through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or from any bank—and see if you don't feel pretty good about it.

Quick facts about U.S. Savings Bonds

- You get $4 for every $3 at maturity
- Your Bonds are replaced free if lost, stolen or destroyed
- You can get your money anytime
- You can save automatically on Payroll Savings

Mother's Aux. Has New Slate

The St. Ignatius Loyola Mother's Auxiliary elected a new slate of officers at their May meeting. Kathleen Hecker was chosen President for the 65-66 school year. She has an able group of ladies to assist her in the complicated task of running the organization. They are: Vice-President, Kathleen Kraje; Treasurer, Jean Solaski; Corresponding Sec'y Margaret Rupp and Recording Secretary, Theresa Hess.

The President, Madelyn Gough, announced the Adelaide Lynch Memorial Cake Sale will be held on Sunday, June 6, after all the Masses. Helen Miller and Agnes Flynn are co-chairladies of the affair. The 1963 graduates are to have a day at the World's Fair on June 3 as a gift from the Mother's Auxiliary. Saturday, June 5, marks the Silver Jubilee of Sister Margaret Claire as a Sister of St. Dominic.

Tips on how touring by automobile can be made more enjoyable and comfortable and still be kept economical were outlined to the Mother's Auxiliary by Carol Lane, Women's Travel Director of Shell Oil Co. She discussed her many travel tested ideas, demonstrating a number of them by packing a two-week wardrobe into a single 26 inch suitcase.

The dark Horse Prize of $5 was won by Mrs. George Goger. Sister Mary Faith won a gift certificate.

The final meeting of the school season will take place on June 14. It promises to be an enjoyable evening, featuring the production, "Mad, Mad Whirl" with many of the mothers appearing in the cast.

Letters

To the Editor:

I feel the school board deserves a word of praise. To the many who may have come to the conclusion I am "anti-everything", this may come as a surprise.

The first week in October has been set aside as "Support your local police week." Mr. Kunz was especially convincing in pointing out the good that could result. The comparison of the benefits of having firemen speak on "fire-prevention" and policemen speak on "crime prevention" was well taken. Fire does physical damage. Crime does both physical and moral damage.

Again gentlemen, congratulations.

Sincerely yours,

Mrs. Theresa Tisdell

and the Massapequas.

In speaking for the five major points for his program, Petito said the design of each should be "specifically tailored to meet the divergent needs of our various local communities". He continued: "If this program is properly handled and operates on a year-round basis, our youth will be brought off the streets and into the midst of an active program of public participation in recreation. They can abandon the all-night laundromats and skipping center parking lots as make-shift sites for spending their leisure time. Also predict that our adults and senior citizens will finally have a place to schedule their activities in the community centers."

The Supervisor emphasized that his proposals would be keyed in with existing or proposed facilities and would be planned in such a way as to avoid duplication with the various school districts within the Township. It was pointed out that with the establishment of a full-time Recreation Coordinator, the Town Parks and Beach Departments could soon be merged to provide Town Residents with greater efficiency at substantial savings. Petito said the one of the main weaknesses of the Town in recreation in the past was the lack of a coordinated program and he said the Recreation Director would have the responsibility of implementing the new proposals.

In the program outlined by Petito, each community in the Town of Oyster Bay should possess the following facilities:

1. A Social Center particularly designed to meet the needs of Senior Citizens and the youth of the area with the individual design prepared at the local level.

"I've taken up cake-baking as a hobby. I gave my first one to the boys in maintenance."

2. A year-round swimming facility suitable for instructional as well as recreational purposes. The selected location should be such as to provide access to the local school district students if possible.

3. A cultural center that would provide opportunities for music, drama, dance and the fine arts. The design should consider activities that are workshops as well as exhibit in nature and construction should be compatible with existing auditoriums.

4. Gymnasias and fields for all sports that are fundamental to the Town's culture. In general, these facilities exist within school district properties. Arrangements for community use should be standard and the Town should bear its obligations in terms of special maintenance, design and equipment. Baseball diamonds are particularly notable in this consideration with summer care and night lighting definite factors.

5. Preserves dedicated to the protection of any natural or historical phenomena which could not and should not be artificially provided.

Supervisor Petito placed special emphasis on youth recreation needs and stated that the proposed program must be of extremely high quality to handle the problems of discontent, boredom and delinquent behavior which often beset students of high school age. The Youth sub-committee reported that it should be the duty of each community recreation representative to see that he attracts these teenagers through special programs appealing directly to their interests and to involve as many teenagers as possible.

"I pledge myself to this program," Petito concluded, "and I am certain that our recreation proposals will meet with overwhelming support from all the residents of the Township of Oyster Bay."
