Dunne Backs Bill Against Acid Rain

State Senator John R. Dunne of Garden City is the sponsor of legislation that would make New York the first state in the nation to act against acid rain. The legislation has been approved by the state legislature and is awaiting the governor's approval.

If signed into law, it will require substantial reductions in sulfur dioxide and nitrogen oxide emissions over the next decade from utilities and industries that burn fossil fuel in the state. The emissions have been identified as the principal cause of acid rain in New York and throughout the Northeast and Canada.

Senator Dunne who is chairman of the Senate Environmental Conservation and Recreation Committee, said that the Governor's signature on the acid rain legislation would signal New York's intention to take the lead in calling for federal legislation and a national program to address the acid rain problem.

"No longer will New York be accused of negligence or inaction with regard to controlling its own pollutant emissions," Senator Dunne stressed. "No longer will the Ohio River Valley say to New York 'clean up your own backyard before you ask us to clean up ours.'"

"By enacting stringent acid rain controls, New York has met the challenge and proven that it is prepared to swallow some tough medicine in order to curb the acid rain problem. By signing the bill, the Governor will help us put New York in a position to demand that other states and regions do likewise."

Senator Dunne said New York's acid rain bill is predicated on pending federal legislation that would reduce sulfur dioxide emissions in the 31 eastern states by ten million tons. New York's share under such a proposal would be about 245,000 tons, or approximate total emissions reduction of 30 percent.

"We would achieve a 30 percent reduction in two stages," Senator Dunne stated. "The first stage calls for a 12 percent, 100,000 ton reduction by 1988 with the remainder occurring in the early 1990's." Dunne said the state Department of Environmental Conservation would be required to develop comprehensive plans to implement the emissions reductions.

Acid rain has caused severe ecological damage in the Adirondack region and other areas of New York State. Over 200 lakes and ponds no longer support fish populations and an additional 400 are at a critical stage. Acid rain is believed to be contributing to the decline in forest products and the deterioration of buildings and structures. Scientists and state officials believe acid rain also poses a threat to public water supplies as copper and lead pipes that carry acidified drinking water slowly dissolve.

"A program to reduce sulfur dioxide emissions whether it be in New York or in the 31 eastern states will be costly," Dunne noted. "However, the benefits that can be derived from controlling the scourge of acid rain and its effects on our sensitive areas will be significant and will, in the long run, outweigh the costs."

Town Denies Oil Co. Request

The Oyster Bay Town Board has denied a request by Deuco Fuel Oil, Inc. of Hicksville for a special use permit to allow overnight parking of fuel oil trucks on its premises, according to Town Councilman Thomas L. Clark.

"Deuco was seeking a special use permit to allow overnight parking of two fuel oil trucks on its property, which is located in a G-1 (general business) zone at 25 Richard Street, Hicksville," Clark stated. "The Board denied the request because of the property's close proximity to residences and a school and the possible, fire safety and pollution hazards."

The Board also cited as a reason for denying the application the constant presence of fumes, and obnoxious odors, which would have a detrimental effect on the health and welfare of the surrounding neighborhood.

A public hearing on the request was held on Tuesday, May 22.

School Dist. Attorney Jos. Campanella Dies

The Hicksville School District mourned the death last week of Joseph Campanella who had been school district attorney for the past 15 years.

Campanella, 59, was a partner in the Plainview law firm of Campanella and Guericco and the attorney for several school, library and water district boards. He died suddenly Wednesday at St. Francis Hospital, Roslyn.

Born and raised in New York's Lower East Side, Mr. Campanella lived in Plainview for 20 years before moving to Brookline in 1968.

Mr. Campanella, who received his law degree from St. John's University Law School, had been a practicing attorney for 33 years. For the last 15 years, he served as school board attorney for Hicksville, Plainview, Huntington and Farmingdale, as well as attorney for the Lindenhurst Library Board and the Plainview Water District. For the past year, he was a member of the board of directors of the Guide Dog Foundation for the Blind in Smithtown.

Survivors include his wife, Anita, a daughter, Susan Ivy of Austin, Texas, three sons, Peter and Paul Campanella, both of Calif., and Alan Farber, of Lansing, Mich., and four grandchildren.

A memorial service was held Sunday at Gutterman's Funeral Home. The family requests that donations be sent to the Guide Dog Foundation for the Blind Inc., 371 Jericho Tpke., Smithtown.

Oyster Bay Town Councilman Thomas L. Clark straightens daughter Claudette's hat before she joins the New Image Drum & Bugle Corps for their Hicksville debut. The group hosted the annual "Pageantry in Brass" contest on July 14 at the Hicksville High School athletic field. Chaperone Ganet Graziose of Hicksville and Corps member Ruben Ariola await the signal for the band to perform.

Special Hearing For Aluminum Co.

The Oyster Bay Town Board has scheduled a public hearing for Tuesday, September 11, on a request by Remington Aluminum of Hicksville for a special use permit to store storm doors and windows in trailers, according to Town Councilman John Venditto.

"The applicant is seeking permission to store aluminum storm doors and windows on their premises in a maximum of 200 trailers," Venditto stated. "The 11,5804 acre parcel, which is zoned industrial 'H' (light industry), is located at 100 Andrews Road in Hicksville."

The hearing is scheduled for September 11 at 10 a.m. in the Hearing Room of Town Hall East, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay.

Two Gunmen Rob Gas Station

The Eighth Squad is investigating a gas station robbery at the Gulf Station, Old Country Road in Hicksville which occurred at 6:35 p.m. on July 10.

Thomas Fletcher, 20 years, was working in the office area of the station, when two unknown male whites entered. The two men asked Mr. Fletcher for change. When he went to the cash register, one of the men displayed a handgun and took $150 from the cash register. The thieves fled the station on foot. Mr. Fletcher was not hurt during the robbery.

The suspects were described as two male whites; #1 25-29 years, 6', 175 lbs., brown hair, mustache wearing a checkered sports jacket and blue jeans; #2 25-29 years, 5'11", 200 lbs., brown hair, wearing a blue shirt and blue jeans.

The investigation is continuing.

Cleanup Leader Meets EPA

William Steinmetz

A local resident who has been active in community campaigns for cleanup of environmental problem sites in the Bethpage, Hicksville and Farmingdale area took part in an 80 minute meeting with William Ruckelshaus, Administrator of the federal Environment Protection Agency (EPA), in his Washington office on July 9.

New York Community Action Network (New York CAN) member William Steinmetz of Bethpage, who chairs the group's Toxics Action Project, was part of a 15 person national delegation of citizens living near hazardous waste sites. The group met with the EPA director in an effort to win prompt cleanup of sites on Long Island and around the country and to urge the EPA to support the HR-5640 federal Superfund reauthorization bill sponsored by Rep. Norman F. Lent (R-E Rockaway).

"Our delegation implored Mr. Ruckelshaus to become more actively involved in the cleanup of local priority sites, and I urged him to provide our community with a cleanup timetable for several local problem areas; including the Old Bethpage landfill, the Hooker site in Hicksville and the Liberty Industrial site in Farmingdale," said Mr. Steinmetz upon his return from Washington.

"We asked the EPA to support the Lent Superfund bill, which collects $9 billion for site cleanup and contains a mandatory cleanup timetable," Mr. Steinmetz stated. "Delegation members indicated that EPA studies have shown that between eight and sixteen billion dollars will be required to cleanup the nation's worst sites."

"Mr. Ruckelshaus responded that EPA needs to conduct more studies before it supports a particular Superfund reauthorization bill," the New York CAN leader said. "Mr. Ruckelshaus said he didn't want to 'bring a halt to the momentum' he has established since he's been in Washington."

Although the Bethpage resident noted that Mr. Ruckelshaus was "very sympathetic" to the delegation's concerns, Mr. Steinmetz expressed disappointment over the failure of the EPA administrator to endorse the Lent Superfund bill.

"I can only assume that 'momentum' viewed from Mr. Ruckelshaus' EPA office overlooking the Potomac River is different from momentum viewed from the Old Bethpage landfill," Mr. Steinmetz said.

The New York CAN representative presented Mr. Ruckelshaus with a list of requests to which the EPA official is expected to respond by mid-August. Among the requests are cleanup timetables for several local hazard sites and a request for the administrator to conduct an EPA field hearing on Long Island in October.

New York CAN members report that they are moving ahead with their campaign to win passage of the Superfund bill, and invite local citizens who are concerned about community cleanup to write letters of Senator Daniel P. Moynihan, US Senate, Washington, D.C. 20510 to urge his leadership in the Senate effort to pass its version of the Lent Superfund bill.

The community group has sample letters, petitions and other educational information about the Superfund campaign available at no charge to interested residents. New York Community Action Network, which is a non-profit and non-partisan membership-based organization, may be reached by contacting 741-1400.

New Service—

Existing Facilities: If a customer is moving to or from a house with an existing gas and/or electric service, the customer should contact the nearest Customer Relations office to initiate or terminate service.

Installation Required: New Business offices will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. to provide assistance to customers and builders for installation of electric and gas service that is currently under application. For other new service requests, the customer or builder should make an application in person at LILCO's Marketing offices in Hauppauge or Garden City where LILCO will discuss general requirements and provide cost estimates for the job.

Contractors—Individuals responsible for excavations on public or private property should continue to comply with the "One call procedure" mandated by New York State law and advise LILCO. LILCO will continue to identify and mark underground electric and gas facilities.

Energy Audits—The loan applications already filed under the Energy Audit Program and State Energy Conservation Bank Program will be completed. No new applications will be accepted during this period.

The LILCO employees on the job will do all they can to minimize inconvenience to customers. We appreciate your understanding and cooperation.

June Building Totals $15 M

Oyster Bay Town Councilman Kenneth S. Diamond announced that the value for building permits issued during the month of June, 1984 totaled $14,998,841, showing a substantial increase over June 1983 totals.

Diamond said that "the permits issued for two industrial buildings and seven permits for industrial additions totaling $11,599,016, accounted for a major portion of the increase.

"Once again, construction of one-family homes played a major part in building permits values during June," Diamond stated. Sixteen permits were issued for the construction of new homes, valuing $921,555 and one hundred and thirty seven permits amounting to $731,005 were issued for home additions, showing a total of $1,652,555 for residential dwellings.

"June's total valuation indicated an increase of $9.9 million over June, 1983 permit values," Diamond added. "The June totals are evidence once again of the continued, balanced growth in construction in the Town of Oyster Bay."

Gregory Museum Gets Fed. Grant

The board of Trustees of the Hicksville Gregory Museum are pleased to announce that the Museum has received a $10,000 general operations support grant from the Institute of Museum Services, a quality assessment and funding agency of the U.S. Department of Education. This is the third recognition in 1984 by governmental bodies of the worthy services and contributions of the Gregory Museum to the general public.

The Museum, Long Island's Earth Science Center and a center of Long Island and local history studies and preservation, was previously assigned a $100,000 of Community Development Historical Preservation Funds by the Town Board of Oyster Bay with Nassau County and State approval for a projected 1984 renovation and preservation of the Gregory building, the Town-owned Heitz Place Courthouse, a Hicksville landmark structure in the National Register of Historic Places.

In addition to these official acknowledgements and encouragement of the Gregory collections, exhibits, and outreach programs in mineralogy and paleontology, the Museum's Historical Committee under the leadership of Richard Evers has been granted $5,000 from the N.Y. State Legislature through the efforts of Senator Ralph Marino and Assemblyman Fred Parola, Jr. for the specific continuance and development of the Gregory facilities for assisting teachers to instruct in the emerging studies of Long Island and local community social studies.

The Gregory Museum's capacity for strong self support and its ability, periodically, to obtain governmental grant funding, plus its wide range of services to the village of Hicksville and its schools, it is believed, were strong factors in the recent decision of the Hicksville Board of Education to grant the Museum Trustees' request for a $10,000 increase in the cost of the service contract the School Board has maintained with the Gregory Museum since 1981.

In the weeks ahead, this summer, the Museum will be releasing specific information to the public, via the press, as regards the Town courthouse preservation work, the Gregory exhibits which are being enhanced and enlarged, the outreach and historical programs being planned, and the development of the museum's staff for administrative and fund raising efforts.

Navy Ensign Michael E. Walsh son of Edward W. and Margaret M. Walsh of 22 Brooks Street, Hicksville, was commissioned in his present rank upon graduation from University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, Pa.

The commission was received through completion of the school's Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps (NROTC) Program.

During each undergraduate semester, NROTC midshipmen complete naval science courses in addition to the full academic schedule that lead to their degree. These courses, combined with annual summer training aboard ships and shore installations, served to prepare midshipment for the duties and responsibilities of a commissioned officer.

Air National Guard Airman Kevin Guerra, son of Frank and M. Guerra of 24 Woodway Road, Plainview, has been assigned to Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas, after completing Air Force basic training.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the Civil engineering field.

'Gandhi' Film At Library

The Hicksville Public Library will show the film "Gandhi" on Friday, July 20, at 8 p.m. in the Community Room of the library.

The movie covers 55 years of Gandhi's life - his days as a British trained barrister in South Africa, the long struggle against the British, the growing Muslim-Hindu rivalry. Gandhi lived long enough to see both the triumph and the defeat of his ideals. This film convinces you that he was a genuinely great man and that his ideals are worth reviving. Stars include: Ben Kingsley, Candice Bergen, John Gielgud, and Martin Sheen. Among other numerous awards, "Gandhi" received the Academy Award for: Best Picture, Best Actor (Ben Kingsley), Direction (Richard Attenborough), Original Screenplay, Cinematography, Editing, Art Direction and Costume Design. Adults.

Tell us why you can't come to college.

We'll tell you how you can.

Many of our adult graduates have had great reasons not to come to college.

Like Jan F., Class of '82, whose family commitments and full-time job seemed to take all of her time. She told us about it and we told her about our once-a-week schedule that she could easily fit into hers.

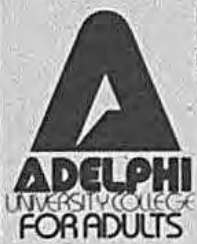

Or Bill D., '80, who didn't see how he could come to college and still make ends meet. At Adelphi, he qualified for a financial aid package and earned prior learning credits that allowed him to finish his education.

Or Mark K., '82, whose schedule didn't permit him to take the credits he wanted. At Adelphi, he took 6 courses (24 credits) at home using the TV, radio and self-paced at-home courses. The Extended Learning Program at Adelphi made access to education even more accessible to him.

Or even Sandy S., '81, who worried that her previous credits wouldn't be accepted. We not only accepted her credits, but she completed her degree in a year's time.

If you'd like to come to college, but don't see how you can, talk to one of our counselors. The first thing you'll learn at Adelphi is how to solve your problem. And, you can do that at Adelphi's Manhattan, Nassau, and Suffolk locations. And that's free.

Our Children

Mom gives up on unpunctual daughter

By Willard Abraham, Ph.D.

Q. When, if ever, do children get a sense of time? I've waited so long, hoping that by the time adolescence came my daughter would understand what it means to keep an appointment, be punctual, be on time, not to keep people waiting. Now I know it's hopeless.

Maybe the problem is that I have always been sure I didn't inconvenience others, and she couldn't care less whether she does. She is so inconsiderate, and I have to admit that I get very impatient with her.

I know that neither you nor I can change her personality, but I just feel better letting my feelings out. Thank you for listening to me.

A. You seem to be at a point that a lot of us reach as parents, the realization that we have just so much control over the personality development of our children. They have certain genetic tendencies, and besides, other people also influence their behavior.

Some of us appear to have a "built in" sense of time, while others seem deliberately to ignore factors related to punctuality or the inconveniences their neglectful attitude imposes on those for whom they show so little consideration.

With some people these attitudes seem to be part of a pattern: Being late ("it's not important"); scribbling handwriting ("who cares?"); lack of precision in conversation ("it's their fault for not understanding").

As parents we can do just so much in molding the personalities of our children. Although our influence is tremendous, it isn't total. At least that realization may help us spread around some of the upbringing responsibilities.

Q. During the past few years my husband has become a tennis enthusiast. I guess there's nothing particularly wrong with that except for the fact that he goes to such extremes. Let me give you a few examples.

It is a rare time during weekends that I see him because he's always on the tennis court. Even at night and in bad weather he goes to one that is indoors and has lights.

But the main problem is what he is doing to our children in connection with this obsession of his. He insists that all three of them take lessons (even the 4-year-old), and practice for several hours every day. I wish he would nag only me about it (which he does plenty) so that the load would be taken off their young backs.

We have no home life anymore, and not much left in the rest of my relationship with him, if you know what I mean.

So what to do to turn him off? Any ideas?

A. If you feel that you've done as much as you can in trying to convince him that there's a need for balance in your children's lives (and your life too), and also a need for respecting diversity in the kids of activities each member of the family might enjoy, one other course is still open to you.

You and he could possibly benefit by sharing this issue with a family counselor, someone with psychological or psychiatric competencies. As a result of discussions with that type of professional you might arrive at a compromise that would at least partially satisfy both of you — and especially reach your objective of taking the pressure off your children.

Q. To get my wife to write thank-you notes when we receive a gift is like pulling teeth, and I'm now facing the same problem with my two daughters. Their response is usually something like, "I'll thank them when I see them."

I've just about given up on my wife, but I wonder if there's any way to save the girls. It's pretty embarrassing, and I don't know what to do about it. Obviously they're not embarrassed by their poor manners.

A. When the gifts are for you and your wife, you might as well write the notes yourself, if they are from people you know and care about. It'll save a lot of possible conflict if you do.

When they are for the girls your handling of the thank-you notes may be somewhat awkward, so another approach may be possible.

Do they have any friends whose manners are better than theirs? You might want to share your concern with them; their suggestions to your daughters could perhaps be more effective than your pressure. It may work if our girls have some respect for the friends you contact.

Your Social Security

File promptly for death payment

Q. My wife passed away in July of 1971. I sent back her last Social Security check to the Social Security office at the time of her death. I never collected the $255 due me as her surviving spouse. Can I get it? — M.M.

A. No, I'm afraid you waited too long. An application for the lump sum death payment must be filed within two years of the individual's death.

The lump sum payment is only payable to a surviving spouse or an entitled child.

Q. I retired two years ago and am now 64 years old. For the past two years I've done a little consulting work out of my home.

In 1982 my gross profit was $1,800 with a net profit of $570. In 1983 my gross profit was $1,730 with a net profit of $1,109.

How does this affect my Social Security? — J.L.

A. Additional earnings after you start getting checks may result in higher benefits. Social Security will automatically refigure your benefits after the additional earnings are credited to your record.

This year you can have net earnings up to $5,160 and still be entitled to all of your benefits. The dollar amount for individuals 65 years or older is $6,960.

Q. I plan to retire in July 1984 at age 63. I understand that I can earn $5,160 without my benefits being affected and that benefits would be withheld for one-half of the earnings exceeding that amount. Is the amount earned prior to retirement date in the year of retirement counted? — J.E.A.

A. There is a special monthly rule which applies only in the year of retirement. Any month in that year that your earnings are less than the allowable exempt amount ($580 if 65 and over, $430 if under age 65), you would be entitled to your full monthly benefits regardless of your earnings prior to retirement.

This is a special one-time test. Benefits in all other years will be based on total yearly earnings.

In 1984 the yearly figures are $5,160 for those under age 65 and $6,960 for those between 65 and 70.

Let's get away from all this. All what? This plastic civilization with its congestion, pollution, and oppressive materialism that's choking us to death.

What do you have in mind? We can go deep into the forest and live off nature with our bare hands and a few simple tools.

That's all we'd have? Sure. Can't make it. Why not? I just couldn't face life without Kleenex and dental floss.

You can, with a Greater "Open Door" Credit Account.

This low cost, variable rate line of credit, secured by the equity you've built up in your house or condominium, gives you access to the tremendous financial power of your home, without having to sell or take out a second mortgage for a fixed amount.

Borrow by check. Pay interest only on what you borrow.

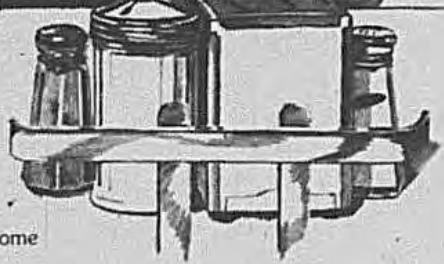

You can use this line of credit whenever you

Funds you repay during this five year period automatically become available for your use again. At the end of the five year term, you will be given a 15 year loan, also secured by the equity in your home, to repay the unpaid principal on all loans made to your account, at a variable interest rate. Or you may reapply for a new five year "Open Door" loan, assuming The Greater is offering such loans at that time.

THE QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Do you think that the selection of Geraldine Ferraro has strengthened or weakened the Democratic ticket?

Call 931-0027 24 Hrs. a Day

Ground Rules

You are not limited to the above

but may talk on any subject of interest to readers.

•One subject to a caller per week•

Simply dial 931-0027-24 Hours a Day and follow these simple rules:

1. Wait for the beep.
2. Confine your INPUT to one subject.
3. Limit your opinion to five minutes (make notes before calling)
4. Leave your name and telephone, or simply use a pen name. (your message can be anonymous)
5. Publishers reserve the right to edit, modify or omit any and all material.

Input Callers Do Not Favor Illegal Aliens

Most callers to Input do not believe that aliens should be allowed to become citizens if they have entered the country illegally in answer to this question: "Should aliens who have jobs be allowed to become citizens even though they have entered the country illegally?" Here are some of the answers:

NEW CONTROL

No. If someone has entered the country illegally we should not allow them to stay here even though they have a job. If we make exceptions then it will simply open the flood gates for everyone to walk in and stay here. We have to have some control over immigration or our people will not have work to do. K.Y.

STATE RULES

We should let aliens become citizens even though they have entered the country illegally if they can prove their background and prove that they will not be on welfare. In certain types of work from farming to hotel work there are not enough American citizens who want to do that type of work so every day these jobs are unfilled. People who want to come over and do that type of work should also have the opportunity to become citizens. What we should do is to state the rules clearly in advance and then have better control of the borders. L.Y.

UNEMPLOYMENT

There is no reason to keep having people from other countries come in when we have so many people on unemployment. We should work harder to fill the jobs with citizens we already have. Some of the jobs would have to pay a little more but that is something that will adjust by supply and demand. Take care of our own first and then help the others if there is something left to give out. F.W.

IF HERE OKAY

We should let the thousands of people who have come to the country already be citizens if they choose. But we should also close the borders to limit immigration to those who come here legally and want to be citizens. We should make it easier for all nations to apply for citizenship and not just have certain favored nations. The worker seeking employment is needed in this country particularly for the starting jobs on farms and factories. D.R.

ANY SALARY

No. We cannot continue to let everyone in who wants to come in and work at any salary offered. We have to look out for our own unions and the people under the minimum wage. Many of these workers who cross the border hurt the U.S. working person because they do not fight for a high enough wage for their work. G.W.

ALL IMMIGRANTS

We definitely should remember that this is a country of immigrants and that all of our ancestors came here. If they were excluded then we would not be here to keep others out. We should have more equal opportunity laws to allow people from all over to come here if they have work. We cannot afford to take in any more welfare cases but workers won't hurt us at all. M.H.

POOR PAY

We should let the people who are already here become citizens if they wish. But we have to have more difficult rules for allowing new workers to come in. Some employers get around the minimum wage with the illegal worker because he has no one to appeal to because of his status so the employer pays him whatever he wants. This is not a good system and must be controlled better. L.E.

TIGHTEN BORDERS

Actually, the question almost seems to answer itself. If any alien enters the country without formal proceedings, that person is guilty of breaking the law compounding the breach in the case mentioned by taking a job away from a native American or one who did enter legally both of whom are citizens of record and taxpayers. Of course, there is more to it than just that as obviously we also have an obligation either to make sure that no aliens enter illegally or that, having gained entrance, to see to it that they are deported as soon as possible. There are those who decry any "harsh" treatment of such immigrants but every other country, as far as I know, has this policy otherwise this globe of ours would be a shambles with the "Cubans" of the world emptying their jails of every one of their problem prisoners plus utilizing this easy access for espionage. How quickly we forget that those ancestors of ours who we recall with pride, had to come in the hard way and at this moment when we are planning to celebrate the centennial of the Statue of Liberty, we find nothing wrong with the idea that these forebears in all cases had to declare their intent to become American citizens going through all the rigorous formalities at Ellis Island before they were permitted to enter and then only under resident sponsorship. And, there were millions of them at the turn of the century. If an illegal alien is found, I believe that every reasonable effort should be made to examine the case toward a formal application for legal entry and ultimate approval which is granted to all other declared and recognized immigrants according to the rules. In the interim, they should not be permitted to continue their jobs or to seek employment and, if they fail to stand up under scrutiny, they should be deported. In any case, whatever the cost, we should tighten up our borders and Congress should stop playing footsie with the legislation to come to grips with the problem. P.G.S.

DISCOVERY

Remember The Funnies?

When actresses and actors pass on to the Big Silver Screen in the Sky, we can still see their movies, perfectly preserved on celluloid. When record artists spin off the turntable of life into the Big Hit Parade, we can still conjure memories of them by listening to their records. But how can we remember the great comic strips of the past except by yellowing, sepia toned newspapers we may find in an old trunk in the attic? Do you remember...

Happy Hooligan, he of the long skinny body, who wore an open can on his head instead of a hat....The Nut Brothers, Ches and Wal Captain and the Kids and The Katzenjammer Kids. They were drawn by two different artists, one named Klerks, the other escapes me. They constantly feuded over trademarks, copyrights, and so forth as Mama, Der Inspector and the Captain and his kids, Hans and Fritz, frolicked through such newspapers as the New York Journal.

Remember, The Wet Blanket? She was married to a man who always heard the greatest joke and when he would shoot the punchline at his missus, she would ask a dumb question and never laugh. Then there was Casper Milquetoast, the Timid Soul who was much maligned by life.

One of my favorites was Smilin' Jack and the characters in his life, Downwind, the happy native whose shirt buttons kept popping off into the waiting open mouth of a chicken who ate them. And who can forget Harold Teen who often set style standards for teens with his wide trousers, twice-around-and-over tie, and upturned brim hats. Pop Jenks owned The Sugar Bowl, where the gang hung out and Harold's best pal was Shadow and Lillums. He used to refer to her as "Lamb's Lettuce."

We all loved Moon Mullins and little Kayo who made his bed in the drawer of a cabinet. For Rocky fans there was always Joe Palooka and his friend and manager, Knobby Walsh. If you loved flying and adventure you eagerly scanned Terry and the Pirates or Tallspin Tommy. The latter was made into a movie serial and Tommy's sidekick, Skeeter, was played by actor Noah Beery Jr. who is currently in TV's "Yellow Rose" series, and who played Jim Rockford's father, Rocky.

Who can forget Skeetz, Gasoline Alley and The Gumps? Andy Gump and his wife Min and Chester, their son, were the typical American family. And so was the Winkles, with their daughter Winnie Winkle and son, Perry Winkle.

I used to enjoy a strip on Sundays in the Journal, called Red Barry. Red was a cop and his beat was Chinatown and there was all sorts of excitement in the dark alleys and such. But for fun we always had Fritzie Ritz, or Ella Cinders. Ella had her hands full with her brother, Blackie. Remember?

For a really clever idea there was Ed Whelan's Minute Movies which appeared in the Daily Mirror in the thirties. Ed started out with a drawing of his hand, a pen in it, and dipped into an India Ink bottle. Then he drew his hand drawing the strip and it began on a stage with a closed curtain which opened to a drama (which went about a week) until the new story.

Rube Goldberg's crazy inventions gave America real belly laughs. During World War II, he tried to make fun of the Dictators and in one strip he showed Benito Mussolini on a balcony, his jaw thrust forward in that familiar pose with his hands on his hips. Nearby, news cameras ground out pictures of Benito and Rube write: "Benito on the newsreel took an awful bow. Benito on the newsreel said, 'Boy, I'll show them how.' Benito on the newsreel would have had a different look, if Benito on the newsreel knew his face was being took."

Occult fans enjoyed Mandrake the Magician and his big Black assistant, Lothar, but those who loved a cry stuck to Little Orphan Annie and her Daddy Warbucks. Radio comic Fred Allen once said of an enemy, "He's so mean, he laughs at Little Orphan Annie". No one laughed at her widely listened to radio show sponsored by Cocacola and kids sent for her chocolate drink shaker and the other things offered on the program, just as they did to the Straight Shooter Show starring Tom Mix. The actor who took the role of Mix had all sorts of premium offers for his fans: secret decoder rings, compasses and what-have-you.

Of all the strips, Mutt and Jeff by Bud Fisher, had the biggest following for a while. The boys were sort of like Laurel and Hardy and bumbled through many adventures. Maggie and Jiggs of Bringing Up Father were also funny. Maggie because she continually tried to keep up with the Joneses, and Jiggs because of his addiction for Dinty Moore's corned beef and cabbage.

I enjoyed Our Boarding House and Stainless Steel, the super guy who appeared in The Long Island Press. And remember, Maudie, the mule? And Popeye keeps popping back!

For thrills we had Kerry Drake the private eye and for broad comedy, the brick tossing cat, Krazy Kat, or Mickey Finn's funny family.

I think that today's so called Comics are really not funny, clever or even intelligent, with a few exceptions, Peanuts being the top one. Doonsbury, a clever strip which dealt with all sorts of social issues including homosexuality, and dealing of services in government, should have been on the editorial pages, instead of right out there where younger readers could see it. In a way, I am happy it has taken temporary leave of us.

Comic strips have forgotten how to be funny, just like TV "comedians" have forgotten what is humorous. Where are the Red Skeltons, Sid Caesars and Ben Blues? Today's "comics" rely upon X-rated shock and schlock to find fame. Today's comic strips rely on mainly stupid set-up situations and the characters are always trying to be real. Who cares about reality in the World of Funnies? Lord and Lady Plushbottom of Moon Mullins domain were funny without being too tightly based on real life. Emmy, at times was just like the boss lady next door, but other times she flew off into fantasy. Downwind Jaxon of Smilin' Jack was a mystery type glamor boy and the only time you saw him he was drawn with his back partially to you. Zack Movel, the strip's creator, wanted to leave Downwind's looks to your imagination. Terry and the Pirates creator, Milt Caniff, often left things to your imagination. Also, how could someone like Terry and Pat get into so many situations of international intrigue? But who cared? They were thrilling and so was a character like the luscious Dragon Lady...reality? Who needs it? Today's strips strive for it but they bomb out almost always, again only with a few exceptions like Beetle Bailey and Peanuts. Bailey takes flights of fancy too, away from typical Army Post life and characters when they feature Otto the dog, togged out in his G.I. uniform. Often the strip is funnier when Otto is in it. Reality wasn't in the picture when Buck Rogers was first drawn along with his girl friend, Wilma Deering and the Professor and Mongo. The funniest part is that part of that strip that seemed the most far-fetched is now accepted as fact, the outer space aspect.

They are all there somewhere resting on yellowed paper in their sepia world. The light never shines on their part of the attic and they see no one peering down at them or laughing at their antics. Many of them think we still wear bowler hats, spats and gingham gowns. They think we call dogs, Spot and Rover. They remember respect for family and country. They only allow married girls the gift of pregnancy. They live in the past. These echoes of the laughter that fed them are now hollow, swept away by the winds of changing times. They are the comic people living on Funny Sheet Street. Remember them?

Fine Meal
 Last week we went to the LaCisterna restaurant in Mineola and were delighted with the meal. The LaCisterna is a beautifully decorated restaurant with a fine large dining room set in a restful and inviting style. The service is good and the food is well worth a return visit.
 We had veal marsala for one dinner and bass for the other. The veal was fresh and tender and the marsala sauce was exceptionally well done. The bass was fresh and flavorful. Starting off the meal we had salad and soup which also rated high. We were very satisfied with the visit and want to recommend it to your readers.

Another couple often goes with us to restaurants. They are about our age and I wonder what is the proper way for the women to be seated. What happens when we are dining with a couple that is very much older? J.C.

When two young couples seat themselves at a table, the women take chairs opposite each other. If one man is the host, he tries to seat himself so the women to be honored is at his right even if it is his wife - for example, on her birthday or their anniversary. No great point, however, need be made these days over the seating at a banquet (built-in wall seats). If a younger couple is dining with a much older one, the older couple is offered the wall seats and the younger couple sits together on the aisle so that the younger man is opposite the older woman. When two women are seated together opposite the two men, they sit opposite their own escorts-husbands or not.

Most Attractive
 Last week we went to Remsen's restaurant in Greenvale. This restaurant is located at the Wheatley Plaza Shopping Center. It is truly one of the most attractive restaurants we have ever been in. It is designed in a turn of the century style with all of the modern embellishments to make it a comfortable relaxing place to go.
 The food is very good at Remsen's. The menu ranges from sandwiches to a full meal. We had a wonderful beef dinner and found it to be exceptional.
 The service was good and attentive. We had no delays between courses and everything was done in good style. We highly recommend this restaurant to your readers. H.G.

READER RATINGS

If you have questions about etiquette or dining out you may call them into WE 1-0027 and we will find the answer.

Q. When you take guests to a restaurant, how do you seat them when there's a banquet involved?
T.J.

A. You, the host should give your guests the banquet seats (which are the best ones, since they view the restaurant and the other diners). Anyone from out of town should have priority on these seats. If you are a foursome of old friends, the polite thing to do is to let the two women sit on the banquettes, with the men opposite.

If it's a business dinner of men and women, you would seat men and women next to each other on the banquette (your clients and customers or your potential clients and customers). You and your spouse or associates in the business would take the facing seats. You would arrange the seating so that men and women have alternating seats - or across from each other.

Q. Does the man order for his woman companion?

A. He asks her what she wants, and he orders for her if it makes the ordering more efficient. He should never order anything for her without her expressly having requested it.

Men today who are increasingly aware of the women in their business who wish to be treated like colleagues instead of helpless creatures, allow the women at the table to order for themselves.

When two couples or more have dinner out, is the bill afterwards to be split evenly or is each couple to pay for what they ordered? For instance, if one couple orders hamburgers and the other sirloin steak, one couple does not order drinks and the other does, when the check comes do even the drinks have to be paid for by the non-drinker? This has caused hard feelings. My husband feels that if he orders less he should not be expected to pay a split bill at the end of the evening. S.L.

If there is a large discrepancy between the amounts spent by the two couples, it is perfectly acceptable for the man of the couple which spent less to say, "Let me figure out what we owe on this." Where there is very little difference it might be considered niggardly to be meticulous about the division of the cost.

Steak, Lobster
Barrister's in Mineola is a new clean restaurant that always seems to be a nice place to go. We have been there several times and always found that the Barrister took care of us well. On Thursday we had the surf and turf dinner which gives you just enough steak and a half of a lobster so that you can enjoy the best of two worlds. In addition to the main entree they have a nice salad bar at the Barrister which allows you to eat as much of that fare as you wish. And the main course is served with potato and vegetable. We think that a $10 price for a meal like we had is one of the best buys on L.I. and it is at a nice restaurant to boot. G.R.

Bread pudding a sweet tradition

By Toni Griffin

Anticipation is one of the finest things in life.

Fulfilled anticipation is the best. — New Orleans saying

Dipping a spoon into a bowl of steamy bread pudding is like preparing to dive into a cool lake on a hot afternoon. The closer you get, the more the anticipation mounts.

Crusty bread puddings are a New Orleans specialty, served heaped in a bowl, soaked with heady whiskey sauce, or laced with raisins and rum or molded like an elegant cake and baked to a velvety custard interior.

An all-time "comfort food," bread pudding can evoke another time — perhaps Depression days or childhood suppers, or it can remind the eater of people who have shared or prepared the homey dessert. Or it can be a simple sensual experience as the sweet beige bread baked to a mahogany crust hits the tongue with its eggy vanilla custard and potent sauce.

During a recent visit to New Orleans, home of the 1984 World's Fair, I tasted every bread pudding along the way — and there was not a loser in the bunch. Some were extra rich with nuts, fruits or coconut. Others were spiked with whiskey or flavored liqueurs.

One of my favorites was the most simple to make. Its creation was demonstrated by Joe Cahn, a Louisiana native and self-proclaimed "King of the Muffolata Festival," a celebration of the delights of the local Muffolata Sandwich (a combination of ham, provolone cheese, salami, olive salad and garlic "slapped on a big round Italian roll"), which was created about 1910 in this Mardi Gras city.

Cahn, an ebullient character who sports a fringe of salt-and-pepper hair at the nape of his otherwise bald head, explained that "one of the beauties of eating in New Orleans is that you can eat very well anywhere here."

According to Cahn, one of the true delights of the area is bread pudding.

I get more excited about bread pudding than anything else in the world. And I like to do bread pudding variations," the New Orleansian noted. "Like Pina Colada Bread Pudding, Or M&M Bread Pudding, Or Amaretto Bread Pudding — yeah, that one's terrific!" Here is his recipe for the basic crusty family-style dessert as well as other bread pudding variations from around New Orleans — all of which can be served to family and friends with the anticipation of a memorable eating treat.

JOE CAHN'S BREAD PUDDING

- 1 (10 oz.) loaf stale French bread, crumbled (or 6-8 cups any type bread, including glazed doughnuts)
- 2 cups cream
- 2 cups milk
- 2 cups sugar
- 4 tbsps. butter, melted
- 3 eggs
- 2 tbsps. vanilla
- 1 cup raisins
- 1 cup coconut
- 1 cup chopped pecans
- 1 tsp. cinnamon
- 1 tsp. nutmeg

Combine all ingredients; mixture should be very moist but not soupy. Pour into buttered 9x9-inch baking dish. Place in cold oven. Heat oven to 350 F and bake approximately 1 hour and 15 minutes, until top is golden brown. Serve warm with Whiskey Sauce.

Whiskey Sauce:

- ½ cup butter (1 stick, ¼ lb.)
- 1½ cups powdered sugar
- 1 egg, yolk or whole
- ½ cup bourbon (or to taste)

Cream, butter and sugar over medium heat until all butter is absorbed. Remove from heat and blend in egg. Pour in bourbon gradually to your own taste, stirring constantly. Sauce will thicken as it cools. Serve warm over warm bread pudding.

Note: For a variety of sauces, just substitute your favorite fruit juice or liqueur to complement the bread pudding.

Variations

— Pina Colada Bread Pudding — Use 1 can coconut cream and enough milk to measure 4 cups liquid. Add pineapple chunks, nuts.

— Chocolate Bread Pudding — Substitute chocolate milk, add chocolate chips and nuts.

— Amaretto Bread Pudding — add almond extract and some Amaretto to milk; add almonds. Use Amaretto in sauce instead of Bourbon.

This meringue-crowned bread pudding comes from an 83-year-old contributor to "La Bonne Cuisine" — Cooking New Orleans Style, a quality collection of recipes from New Orleansians and some of the area's most noteworthy restaurants. To order a copy of the book, send $11.45 (book and $1.50 postage) to: La Bonne Cuisine, P.O. Box 23065, Harahan, LA 70183.

TOP HAT BREAD PUDDING

- 12 eggs

- 3 (13 oz.) cans evaporated milk
- 1 qt. skim milk
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 tbsps. vanilla
- 1 cup raisins
- 12 slices stale sandwich bread (firm-style)
- ¼ cup confectioners' sugar
- 1 tsp. cream of tartar

In two large bowls, separate yolks and whites of 9 of the eggs. Add remaining 3 whole eggs to 9 yolks. With electric mixer, beat yolks until creamy. Gradually add evaporated milk, beating continuously until well blended. Stir in skim milk, sugar, vanilla and raisins. Break bread into small pieces and stir into custard. Let stand 30 minutes. Pour into 10x14-inch baking pan. Bake in 350 F oven 1½ hours, stirring occasionally.

Meringue: Beat 9 egg whites to soft peaks. Combine sugar and cream of tartar and beat until stiff. Spread on top of bread pudding which has baked 1½ hours.

Bake another 15 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 14 servings.

CHOCOLATE BREAD PUDDING

- 1 cup evaporated milk
- 1 cup water
- 2 ozs. unsweetened chocolate
- ¼ cup butter
- ½ cup sugar
- ¼ tsp. salt
- ½ tsp. cinnamon or instant coffee
- 4 cups broken dry bread or toast
- 2 eggs, beaten

Combine milk, water, chocolate, butter, sugar and salt in saucepan. Place over low heat and stir until chocolate melts. Remove from heat and stir in cinnamon, then bread. Gradually add eggs, stirring constantly. Pour into well-greased 1-quart baking dish. Bake in 350 F oven 40 minutes or until knife comes out clean. Serve warm with whipped cream or ice cream.

FROM OUR KITCHEN

OLIVIA & PAUL BENSEN

Chicken is one of the very favorite foods in China, and the traditional cuisines of the Chinese provinces include a great variety of delicious chicken dishes.

Traditionally, Chinese chefs would keep a chicken confined in a dark cage for months before it was to be killed and cooked, feeding it as much corn and rice as it would eat. Earlier in this century, the old practice of prolonged confinement died out, as people discovered that chickens allowed to forage outside grew faster and were healthier than the cage-bound ones.

MANY-SPICED CHICKEN

- 1 frying chicken, about 1½ lbs.
- 2 tbsps. minced scallion (for garnish)
- 1½ tbsps. minced parsley (for garnish)
- 1 large cucumber, sliced

MARINADE

- 7 tbsps. soy sauce
- 2 tbsps. minced fresh ginger root
- 2 large cloves garlic, minced
- 3 tbsps. crunchy peanut butter
- 1½ tbsps. hot red pepper oil (available at Oriental food stores)
- 1½ tbsps. freshly ground black pepper
- 3 tbsps. vinegar
- 1½ tbsps. sugar
- ½ tsp. salt
- 1½ tbsps. sesame oil (available at Oriental food stores)

Place chicken in large pot, with enough water to cover. Bring water to boil, reduce heat and simmer 35 minutes.

Remove chicken, set aside and allow to cool.

While chicken is cooling, mix all marinade ingredients in large bowl, using whisk or fork. Taste marinade mixture and adjust to your taste. Flavor of marinade should be quite strong, since it will be absorbed by chicken and cucumber.

When chicken is cool enough to handle, strip meat from bones and shred finely.

Arrange cucumber slices on platter and cover with shredded chicken. Pour marinade evenly over chicken, garnish with scallions and parsley and serve. Serves 6 as first course.

KUNG PAO CHICKEN

- 1 whole (2 halves) chicken breast, shredded
- 1 egg white
- 2 tbsps. cornstarch
- 2 tbsps. peanut oil
- 1½ cup raw peanuts
- 1 tsp. crushed red pepper
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 tbsps. black bean sauce (available at Oriental food stores)
- 1 tbsps. hoisin sauce (available at Oriental food stores)
- 1 tbsps. rice vinegar
- 2 tbsps. sherry
- 1 tsp. sugar
- 2 tbsps. water

Marinate chicken in egg white and cornstarch 15 minutes. Heat oil in wok until very hot and fry peanuts and crushed red pepper. When peanuts begin to brown, remove them with slotted spoon.

Add shredded chicken to oil and stir-fry until just cooked through. Return peanuts to wok and add garlic, black bean sauce, hoisin sauce, vinegar, sherry, sugar and water. Stir-fry all ingredients together until heated through. Serve with rice. Serves 2.

Refinishing wooden salad bowls

Q. I am interested in refinishing my wooden salad bowls, but have been unable to find instructions.

Years ago I did refinish some and had fine results, but only remember that I used fine sandpaper or steel wool first and then it took a lot of rubbing with some kind of oil. Some kind of finish was also used, but I just can't remember which came first and what was used.

I am sure others would like this information. — Mrs. A.L.E.

A. Steel wool or sand off the balance of the present finish.

To remove any oil stains, coat with dry corn meal or any absorbent material to draw up the oil. When this becomes saturated, brush off and place fresh material on any stains.

Quickly wash the bowls in warm, mild soapsuds, rinse in clear water and wipe dry.

When the wood is completely dry, I recommend an oil finish. Apply a couple of soaking coats of pure, clean raw linseed oil, which is available in sealed containers. Allow the oil to soak for an hour, then wipe off excess.

Apply a second coat a week later, repeating the process.

Q. There is a leak in our garden hose. It is made of rubber, not plastic. How can it be repaired or can it? — John K.E.

A. If it is a tiny, almost invisible opening that is causing the leak, wait until the damaged area is thoroughly dry, then coat it generously with rubber-based cement. Apply a second coat about 15 minutes later.

Wind rubber, plastic or electrical tape around the section and do not use the hose for at least 24 hours.

There is also a special paste that hardens into rubber. It can be used in place of the rubber-based cement.

If the opening is more than just a crack or pinhole, the damaged portion must be cut away with a sharp knife. The two ends can then be joined together with a metal splicer or mending tube with a flexible clamp.

In buying the splicer or mending tube, be sure to specify that you are using it on a rubber hose. There is a different type for plastic.

Q. The paper across the back of an old framed print is brittle and torn. Is there any special technique to replace the paper back? — C.A.D.

A. Completely remove the present paper back. Then cut a piece of heavy brown wrapping paper, slightly larger than the frame, and moisten with water until limp. Blot off any surplus water.

Apply a liquid glue to the back of the picture frame and lay the paper smoothly across.

In drying, the paper will shrink and become very tight-fitting. Trim off excess paper with razor blade.

Q. The glass in our windows has some scratches on it. Is there anything to help cover them? — A.W.

A. Sorry to say, but there is no way to cover scratches in glass panes or to remove the scratches. Sometimes, to fill small holes in window glass, clear nail polish can be used. Replacement of the panes is the only solution for eliminating the scratched glass, if you don't want to live with it.

Dear John: I must pass this along to you and your readers.

A few years ago a urologist who had retired and moved to Florida was called up for advice in emergency cases that were very critical. He even opened an office for special cases and helped at the hospital where I nursed for years.

I had a painful knee and ankle and limped a bit. He said, "Young lady, now let's see what is wrong with that knee."

He had been personal physician for a very well-known man of America. He advised me to start lemon juice each morning the first thing, juice of one lemon in water — no honey, no sugar or the effect will not be accomplished. One lemon morning and night, and if you are very bad, one at noon.

I was faithful with my lemon juice. He stated that it dissolves the calcium and phosphate crystals around the joint — and that it does. I can vouch for.

I started lemon juice and within 10 days my hands opened and closed without stiffness. Within two weeks my knee was getting better and I no longer have this trouble. If I feel this coming on I start my lemon juice, in fact I have kept it up for about 15 years — makes one feel all clean inside. I felt it might have kept my weight down also. — Gertrude L.

Dear Gertrude: You have a fascinating story.

TWEEN 12 & 20

like her father.

Now I'm on restriction for two whole weeks. That means I can't go out of the house for any reason, not even church. I am not permitted to watch television, listen to the radio or use the telephone.

I think I have been treated unfairly, don't you? My mother keeps quiet because my dad is the lord and master of our house — Rhonda.

Rhonda: It's difficult for me to assess your situation. I don't know all the details, but wise and successful parents do not "overrule" one another when dealing with their teens.

Dr. Wallace: I have been going with Peggy for two years and we love each other very, very much.

In the time we have been going steady, I went out with another girl once. That was about a year ago. I told Peggy I had to go out of town; instead, I took this girl to a movie I've never "cheated" before or since.

About two weeks ago I decided to tell Peggy about that date and asked for her forgiveness. Instead of forgiving me, she gave me back my ring and broke up with me.

I'm stunned and shocked. Please tell me what to do to get her back — Tom.

Tom: You made two mistakes. First you dated another girl and next you told Peggy a year after the fact.

The forgiveness should have been asked for at the time of the "crime."

Give Peggy time to think about what has taken place. Flowers and a nice card might make her feel a little bit better about you but don't call her and beg her to come back.

She will let you know when and if she is ready to return.

Tom: My friend, I hope you have learned a lesson in love.

Dr. Wallace: I live with my father and my nosy old grandmother, and every day she bothers me more.

I am 14 and would like to get my ears pierced but dear old Grandmother keeps telling me that it will hurt and it is very dangerous to get one's ears pierced. She also says that it is a sin and I'll go to the devil if I do.

My father says that I can get my ears pierced if I want. What do you say? — Deloris Deloris: Piercing the ears is relatively simple and painless but in some cases the ear lobe becomes irritated and infected.

Since your father will allow you to get your ears pierced — do it.

Dr. Wallace: My dad keeps calling me a loser. He says that he would give me $10,000 if I could turn around and be a winner.

Dad keeps telling me that winning is the most important thing on Earth, that I should do everything possible to win. His favorite words are, "Everyone knows the world champion, nobody knows who came in second."

Dr. Wallace: do you believe that winning is important? — Bobby Bobby: Yes, I believe winning is very important but how you win is more important than being a winner.

Dr. Wallace: I'm excited. I was introduced to a marvelous organization. In the past six months with their help and guidance I have lost 42 miserable pounds.

This organization has no dues or fees. It's called Overeaters Anonymous. Please let all your overweight teens know about O.A.

I thought I was hopelessly fat forever. If I can trim down, any teen can. I was a true eat-everything-abolic.

Please ask your readers to look in the white pages of their telephone book for the local address or have them write for information to Overeaters Anonymous, World Service Office, 3730 Motor Ave., Los Angeles, Calif. 90034. — Marla.

Marla: I have received many favorable comments on this professional organization. Thanks for taking the time to help your peers.

Dr. Wallace: I like to chew gum. But I can't chew it at school (school rules), my parents frown when I chew gum at home and my boyfriend asks me not to chew gum when I'm with him. Oh, yes, I hear it also bad manners to chew gum in church.

What's the big deal? People act like chewing gum is a crime. Do people who chew gum bother you? — Rich.

Rich: People who chew gum never bother me. It's those who deposit their spent gum on the sidewalks that cause me great concern.

Invariably, on hot summer days, I step on every sticky, gooey blob.

Dr. Wallace: I asked my mother if I could go over to my girlfriend's house for a few hours and she said yes because I helped her clean the house all day.

When I got home at 10:30 my father was real mad that I was at this girl's house because he does not

Mainly For Seniors

By John T. Watts

Dear John: I am not a senior citizen and neither do I have arthritis yet, but my mother who is 65 has had about 25 years with arthritis. I see how she complains and cries due to her arthritis pain in her elbow and legs.

I saw the article in the local newspaper about the vinegar and honey and started giving it to my mother and she already says that she feels better. She has taken it for two weeks now.

I am sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope so you can send me the leaflet on arthritis and also about Certo.

Thank you and God bless you. — Paula D.

Dear Paula: Thank you, Paula. This about the nicest note I have received in a long time. You will pardon me for changing your salutation. I am not called "Dear Mainly" very often.

I never did believe that the younger generation was thoughtless and didn't care about the older folks. Your note sure proves I'm right.

You should have your leaflet before now and we all hope it will do your mother a lot of good. Any woman who can raise as thoughtful a daughter as you certainly should get a break.

Now I must repeat the rules of the "game" because this column has so many new readers all the time. Send stamped, self-adressed envelope, like you did, Paula. No postcards, notes without envelopes, etc. And donations are always welcome to help with the handling of the big volume of requests and the printing of leaflets.

Dear John: I am in hope that you can help me. I have been to two dermatologists with my problem of sensitive and dry skin itch, but the medications they gave me do not help.

Hoping that you can come up with something. Also send me your arthritis leaflet. — Mrs. Catherine K.

Dear Catherine: You're asking a lot when the experts haven't helped, but here is a suggestion for what it's worth.

Have you tried vitamin E cream? It should soothe the itch. You might have to use it for an extended period. It is inexpensive and does not require a doctor's prescription. Which might be the reason the skin experts didn't tell you about it.

You will just have to experiment. The skin is an organ all to itself. You might have a rash or an itch in one place and chase it away with medication, only to find it somewhere else.

Many, if not most, rashes and itches, are caused by nervous tension, so you might have to look further than your skin for the real solution.

Quality Or Quantity?

When you advertise in a subscription newspaper you get quality readership. You know that EVERY copy of the newspaper has been invited into the home and three to four people will most likely read it.

When you buy quantity the only thing you might be sure of is that it has been hung on door knobs or thrown on lawns all over the neighborhood.

With our newspapers YOU ONLY PAY
FOR COPIES that will be read. It is this quality that produces results. Do not waste money on wasted copies. Advertise here and get results.

Our (not so secret) ingredient
Readers = Results is the reason we are preferred over the largest metropolitan newspapers and the many throwaways.

Minton 'Mikado' pattern registered in 1884

By James G. McCollam
Member, Antique
Appraisers Association of America

Q. Enclosed is a picture of a pitcher which is marked "Minton," "Mikado" and "RN 4175." Can you tell me its value, maker and vintage?

A. Your pitcher was made by a company founded in Stoke-on-Trent, England, by Thomas Minton in 1793. According to the British Registry Mark, RN 4175, the pattern, Mikado, was registered in 1884. It would sell in the $125 to $135 range.

Q. Enclosed is a picture of an Oriental vase purchased in Oakland, Calif., over 70 years ago. Can you identify it and tell me how much it might be worth?

A. This is a Satsuma vase made in Japan during the Meiji period (1868-1912) and would sell in the $500 to $600 range. Satsuma is a type of ceramics made in Japan and does not identify the maker or the province in which it was made.

Q. I recently saw some Hummel Annual Plates at a dealer's shop. The 1971 was priced at $800; the 1972 was only $100. Why the huge difference for only one year?

A. 1971 was the first year for Hummel Annual Plates; a relatively small number were made and the molds were then destroyed. The sales were unexpectedly good, so in 1972 the number was increased several fold. 1971 plates are scarce; 1972 plates are plentiful.

BOOK REVIEW: "American Sheet Music With Prices" by Daniel B. Priest; Wallace-Homestead Book Co.; 1501 42nd St.; West Des Moines, IA 50265; $7.95 plus $1.25 postage, or at your local bookstore.

This book provides a listing of hundreds of items of sheet music from the Civil War to the present.

Q. Enclosed is a sketch of the mark on my Haviland china. Can you tell me when it was made? According to my family, it is about 100 years old.

A. This mark was first used in 1893 and was used well into the 20th century. Your china is probably between 80 and 90 years old.

Send your questions about antiques with picture(s), a detailed description, a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1 per item to James G. McCollam.

WIN A BIG PRIZE!

DRAW A LINE TO CONNECT EACH PAIR OF THINGS THAT GO TOGETHER. THEN COLOR THIS CONTEST PICTURE.

Aunt Tilly's Corner

This week I received a large envelope with photos of a young relative who lives in California. It was almost a year since he came to visit us, so he is now almost a year and a half.

When we last saw Matthew he had no teeth, not much hair, and he was unable to walk. Now he smiles showing his lovely teeth. He has a thick head of blonde hair and he is not only walking, he is running and climbing. What a pleasure it will be to see him when he comes east with his parents in the fall.

But meanwhile the pictures almost seem like a visit from a dearly loved little boy!

Your friend,
Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are Barbara Willson and George Mazarakis. Barbara and George will hear from me soon.

BOYS AND GIRLS:

Distemper in cats

Q. Our children's cat recently died of distemper.

Our neighbors told us that we should not get another cat for a long time. Is it true that a new cat would most likely pick the disease up from our home?

Our children really want another cat!

A. Distemper in cats is a highly contagious viral disease characterized by sudden onset, depression, dehydration and often death.

The disease is often called feline panleukopenia. Panleukopenia simply means a decrease in the number of white blood cells in the blood. Whenever cats are suspected of having distemper, most veterinarians obtain a blood sample for a white blood cell count.

Usually, the first sign of feline panleukopenia is a fever that may persist for 24 hours. With the onset of fever, the cat stops eating, vomits, and becomes depressed and weak. Diarrhea may occur 2 to 4 days after the initial temperature rise. Although affected cats seem to desire water, extreme dehydration occurs rapidly. The skin becomes dry and leathery.

Affected cats often have a mournful meow, especially when handled due to pain in the abdomen. Although the disease can occur in cats of all ages, it is most often seen in kittens. A kitten with distemper may be found dead after having been seen healthy and active just a few hours previously. Because of the suddenness of the death, it may appear that the cat was poisoned.

Infection of kittens while they are still in the uterus prior to birth can cause abnormalities of the brain. The result is incoordination, and this is usually noticed at 2 to 3 weeks of age. Treatment of cats with panleukopenia is often unsuccessful. The chance for recovery for kittens less than 8 weeks old is generally poor, but is usually favorable for cats more than 16 weeks of age if adequate treatment is provided early in the course of the disease.

Specific antiviral agents are not available to treat this disease. Panleukopenia can easily be prevented by proper vaccination. Panleukopenia vaccines are very effective, inexpensive and produce long-term protection.

If you get another kitten to replace the one that died, you should consult a veterinarian about vac-inations prior to getting the cat. You should also clean and disinfect the areas which the previous kitten contacted.
