Zoning Change Turned Down

The Oyster Bay Town Board has denied a request for a change of zone from "D" residence district to "F" business district (neighborhood business) in Hicksville, according to Town Councilman Kenneth S. Diamond.

"The petitioner, Rockwell Realty Co., was seeking the zone change in order to construct a three-story office building on the north side of West John Street, east of Myers Street in Hicksville. Diamond stated. "At a public hearing held on Tuesday, June 26, residents expressed concern about lack of adequate parking and potentially hazardous traffic conditions."

Diamond noted that the Town Board's denial of this application was in keeping with past actions of the Board in refusing to allow the encroachment of a business into a primarily residential area.

Bldg. Permits $7.8 Million In July Town Avows Plans To Go Ahead On Resource Plant

Oyster Bay Town Councilman Douglas J. Hynes announces that the value for building permits issued during the month of July, 1984 totaled $7,717,141 showing a substantial increase over July 1983 totals.

Douglas J. Hynes said, "three permits for condominiums, and thirteen permits for commercial buildings, commercial additions and industrial additions accounted for a major portion of the increase.

"Permits for the construction of and additions to one family homes also rose during July," Hynes stated. Six permits were issued for the construction of new homes with a value of $498,904. One hundred and twenty-one permits amounting to $729,683 were issued for home additions for a combined total of $1,228,587 for residential dwellings.

July's total valuation indicated an increase of $3.6 million over July, 1983 permit values. The increased total number of permits issued during the month of July is evidence once again of the continued, balanced growth in construction in the Town of Oyster Bay.

Presenting evidence of progress being made toward implementing a resource recovery system that will permit the closing of the Town landfill, Oyster Bay Town Supervisor Joseph Colby assured the State Commissioner of Environmental Conservation that the Town was, continuing to move ahead.

"We cannot and will not allow the blocking of technical legislation in the State Assembly to end our efforts to institute an environmentally sound and economically feasible system for disposal of the refuse generated by our residents," Colby said.

At a meeting held in Albany with State Environmental Commissioner Henry Williams, Colby assured the Commissioner that every effort was being made to persuade the Assembly to approve the financing legislation that would allow private funding to be utilized for the resource recovery project. "In addition I assured the Commissioner and his staff that the environmental impact study concerning the waste-to-energy project was proceeding and was nearing completion," Colby said.

The meeting was requested by Colby following the failure of the State Assembly to approve the technical financing authority. "While the passage of the legislation in the Senate was significant, we had learned that the State DEC staff was concerned as to whether we planned to proceed in view of the Assembly's failure to pass the bill," Colby explained.

The State has allocated $5 million in Environmental Quality Bond Act Funds to Oyster Bay for use on the project. An additional $14 million had been allocated to the Town of Huntington and can be used for the project when agreement is finalized with Huntington concerning use of the plant.

"The State DEC is in the process of examining the funds that it has reserved for the two Towns and we felt it was necessary that we assure them that the project was proceeding," according to Colby.

In addition to providing the State Commissioner with evidence of the Town's progress, the Town also presented the Long Island Regional Office of the State DEC with facts that demonstrate that by the end of this year the Town should be three years ahead of the DEC guidelines concerning implementation of resource recovery.

"Under the State Law requiring the 1990 closing of landfills and the implementation of resource recovery throughout Long Island, certain actions are required by the State at particular times as the 1990 date approaches," Colby explained. "The steps we have taken will put us ahead of the State schedule by three years."

It is on the basis of the progress made to date that the State law permits the Town's landfill in Old Bethpage to be temporarily extended until the planned waste-to-energy plant is on line. "Because the Assembly failed to pass the technical legislation, the State was concerned that it could not act on the Town's application for the temporary extension that we will need to dispose of refuse from the end of this year until the plant begins operations," Colby said. The application for the extension and the necessary environmental study related to that extension has already been submitted to the DEC for processing.

Driving Course Planned At Library

Developed by the American Association of Retired Persons, the course provides participants with driving record point reduction and 10% reduction on auto liability insurance premiums. ## 'Tootsie' To Be Shown At Library

Friday evening at 8 p.m. on August 17, at the Hicksville Library, the film "Tootsie" will be shown in the Community Room.

The film is about an intractable and largely unemployed New York actor, played by Dustin Hoffman, who wins a major role on a soap opera by dressing as an actress. He becomes the person he is impersonating and his personality is refashioned by the role. The imposture grows wilder, more complex, and more heart wrenching as the film goes on. Stars Dustin Hoffman and Jessica Lange. There is no admission charged and everyone is invited. Since this film is on the Adult Program, children must be accompanied by a parent.

Special Use Permit For U Haul Co.

Oyster Bay Town Councilman Salvatore R. Mosca announced that the Oyster Bay Town Board has approved a special use permit for U-Haul Co. of Long Island and Brooklyn Avenue Associates in Hicksville, subject to sixteen restrictive covenants.

Mosca said that "the petitioner had requested permission to use the property located on the south-westerly side of Broadway at Lauman Lane, for the rental and storage of U-Haul trucks, trailers and recreational vehicles and accessories. The applicant had also requested permission to store and dispense petroleum products from underground storage tanks."

After a public hearing on the application, the Board has granted the special use permit, subject to sixteen covenants and restrictions. Mosca noted that the restrictions include the placement of an eight foot high stockade fence along the southern and northern borders of the property, with screen plantings of eight foot high hemlocks behind the fences and along other fenced areas of the property. The south side of the property is restricted to employee parking and for display of rental vehicles under six feet in height and the underground storage facilities are to be used solely for the fueling of stored vehicles. "In addition," Mosca said, "the hours of operation will be limited to 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday and Sunday hours of operation are restricted to 9 a.m. to 2 p.m."

Mosca also noted that no building permit or certificate of occupancy shall be issued until a site plan has been approved by the Town Board.

Quality Or Quantity?

When you advertise in a subscription newspaper, you get quality readership. You know that EVERY copy of the newspaper has been invited into the home and three to four people will most likely read it.

When you buy quantity the only thing you might be sure of is that it has been hung on door knobs or thrown on lawns all over the neighborhood.

With our newspapers YOU ONLY PAY FOR COPIES that will be read. It is this quality that produces results. Do not waste money on wasted copies. Advertise here and get results.

Our (not so secret) ingredient
Readers = Results is the reason we are preferred over the largest metropolitan newspapers and the many throwaways.

After a long absence during which it received repairs and refurbishing, the Hicksville Public Library Bookmobile is on the road again, ready to serve its patrons. Those who have used the Bookmobile regularly know what great services to expect. That is why they missed it so much. For anyone who is not familiar with Bookmobile services, the following facts will provide some useful information.

The Bookmobile carries a very comprehensive collection of books - the latest novels on the Best Seller Lists and other popular fiction; a timely selection of non-fiction (if you don't find what you need, books can be requested and obtained from the collection at the library); current copies of popular magazines; large type books for the visually impaired and an excellent collection of books for children and young adults (regular stops are scheduled at many schools). The Bookmobile also delivers books for Homebound visits (anyone who can't get to the library because of poor health or handicap) and Talking Books for the blind. Call the library to make arrangements for the latter services. Besides the school stops, the Bookmobile also visits the Senior Housing complex on Newbridge Road. If there is anything else you would like to know about the Bookmobile, ask Mildred McLaughlin when you get on and she will be happy to help you. A schedule is available at the library and on the Bookmobile. You can also call the Library at 931-1417 to find out when the Bookmobile will be in your area. A great way to introduce the pre-school crowd to the fun and value of books is to let them use the Bookmobile regularly. Our regular patrons of the Bookmobile will be sure to welcome it back. Let's see some new faces on the Bookmobile too.

Local Resident On Army Tour

Twenty six educators including Joel Chase of Plainview, returned recently from a three day tour of Fort Carson, Colorado. The teachers, principals and guidance counselors were guests of the Army's Long Island Recruiting Battalion, commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Lamar Tooke.

"This kind of effort will go a long way to help the Army improve its image and give a more accurate picture to high school students," said Mr. Chase, a teacher in Bayside, Queens.

In particular many of the educators were impressed with the drug and alcohol rehabilitation program at Fort Carson, and the use of dogs trained to sniff out drugs. The program features core concepts including the "psycho-social foundations for substance abuse and what a teacher can do to prevent abuse; and the "wellness" of a teacher as a role model in helping to turn young people away from drugs.

Also explained was the so-called Expectation Factor, in which children do about as well in school as the teacher expects; and how teachers can move the norm toward success; or, in this instance, away from drugs. The program was developed and presented by Dr. Carl Bauer of Colorado Springs.

Other facilities visited and inspected by the educators included the classrooms and workshops, the rifle range and the housing areas.

The Long Island Recruiting Battalion is planning an educator tour to Fort Bragg, North Carolina in November. Those interested, who have not been on a similar tour within the past 24 months, should contact their local Army Recruiter.

Diet may alleviate gallbladder trouble

Q. I have been having trouble with my gallbladder and my doctor has me on a special diet.

Could you tell me what the gallbladder does in the body? How are gallstones formed? Should I be concerned if this doesn't clear up? — C.D.

A. The gallbladder is a small muscular bag which sits under the liver and stores bile which the liver secretes. When a meal is eaten, the gallbladder contracts and discharges its stored bile into the main bile duct.

Bile flows down the main bile duct into the small intestine and mixes with food, as well as with enzymes from the pancreas. Bile is a concentrated detergent solution and is similar to concentrated detergent used for washing dishes. Bile contains bile salts whose function is to aid in the digestion and absorption of dietary fat. It also contains a brown substance called bilirubin which is formed from the hemoglobin in old cells.

Bile also contains cholesterol, and the major way that cholesterol is eliminated from the body is by secretion into the intestine in bile. The cholesterol is poorly absorbed from the intestine, and is eventually excreted in the stool.

Sometimes bile contains an excess of cholesterol and this excess may form crystals. These crystals may stick together and form a stone, called a gallstone. Gallstones are detected by sound waves (ultrasound) or by a gallbladder X-ray.

Sometimes gallstones irritate the gallbladder causing "gallbladder trouble." If the stone(s) blocks the tube that leads from the gallbladder, it causes intense pain (a gallbladder attack). If the stone remains impacted in the tube, surgery is usually necessary.

Since the gallbladder contracts when fat is eaten, physicians prescribe low-fat diets, which may give some benefit. Most patients who have gallbladder trouble will eventually require removal of their gallbladder. This is a safe operation and removal of the gallbladder does not impair health, since bile can also be stored in the small intestine between meals.

Last year, a drug which can dissolve gallstones in selected patients was released on the market. This drug can be used in patients where there is relatively little gallbladder inflammation, that is, patients with "young" gallstones. However, the drug dissolves gallstones extremely slowly (1 to 2 years), and the chances that the patient may require surgery do not diminish for several months.

Patients with gallbladder trouble should be thoroughly evaluated by an internist or gastroterologist, so that the best choice can be made among the various ways of treating patients with this common disease.

Backyard Gardener

Dry flowers now for winter bouquets

By Patrick Denton

I remember well the year I grew a mixture of ornamental grasses for indoor winter arrangements. Dried, they made attractive displays to greet visitors just inside the front door of our house.

Another very successful drying adventure was a small patch of wheat which, when dried, made a pleasing arrangement for the house. I know people who, when traveling in grain-growing parts of the country, make it a point to gather wheat and other grains to bring home for winter arrangements.

Many, too, are the flowers both in our gardens and in the wild that can be dried just by hanging them; others need to be buried in a chemical desiccant.

Needing the more complicated chemical treatment are the rather fleshy flowered blossoms such as zinnias and marigolds, asters, calendulas, dahlias and pinks. The drying agent is usually silica gel, which contains absorbents to draw moisture out of the flowers.

A shallow layer of the silica gel is placed at the bottom of a covered container — a box or a cake tin. The blossoms are removed from their stems and placed, flattest side down, on the silica gel. Then more silica gel is gently sprinkled around and over the flowers until they are completely covered.

The container, carefully sealed, is left for at least four days, longer for thicker flowers like zinnias. They are ready when the petals feel crisp. Then, the silica gel is carefully poured off, or the flowers lifted out. Wire stems are inserted into the dried blossoms, and wrapped with green florists' tape.

I am sure that there will come a time in my life when I will be delving into this drying procedure. But for now, like most busy backyard gardeners, I'll be content with those many types of flowers that suit the simpler hand-and-dry method.

Among these are baby's breath, astilbe, statice, blue salvia, yarrow, globe amaranth (gomphrena), strawflowers, both created and plumed celosia, and honesty (money plant, Lunaria). The home gardener on the lookout will find many others.

Last year I noticed at the corner of our herb garden that several stalks of marjoram had formed seed heads which were rather attractive. These added a graceful touch to a dried arrangement last winter.

Other interesting potential dried material can be found in the mature seed pods of some common weeds, gathered when the stems are turning brown but before frost. Some good prospects are the pencil-thin spikes of common plantain, Queen Anne's lace, peony everlasting and goldenrod.

Interesting accent material can be found in bare branches of red-twigged dogwood and wild roses with their red hips, in wild asparagus with berries, field grasses and corn tassels.

Many of these can be gathered on a dry day in late summer, or when they have naturally dried on the plant. However, those garden flowers suitable for hand drying should be picked before their prime, when the blossoms are just half opened.

Flowers for drying should be picked in the middle of a dry day, when there will be the least amount of moisture in them. The leaves are removed and flowers of the same type are bound in small bunches with an elastic band about their stems. I've found elastic to be more practical than string because it contracts as the stems dry. Stems bound with string will sometimes slip through as they shrivel, shattering the blooms on the ground.

The bundles are hung upside down in a dark, dry place such as a closet or attic. For the sake of good air circulation, the bundles should not be allowed to touch.

Our Children

An acceptance form of homicide

By Willard Abraham
Ph.D.

Dear Readers: I recently received a special letter, part of which I'd like to share with you. Your interest and concern may help save lives, including those of children, maybe even your own.

"I'm writing you today not just to tell you what happened to us, but to tell you what continues to happen to thousands of other innocent victims.

"But let me start at the beginning.

"On a beautiful spring afternoon in 1980, I drove home after a shopping trip and found my father and ex-husband waiting for me, their faces ashen and tears in their eyes.

"Steve, my ex-husband, said, 'We've lost Cari.'"

"I patted him on the back and replied, 'It's OK, we'll find her.'"

"You don't understand," he said.

"A man came along with a car, and killed her — and left her to die!"

"I couldn't believe him!"

"Just the evening before, I had dropped Cari off at a friend's house to spend the night. We had had a minor quarrel in the car over her unannounced change of plans. But then before she got out of the car, she told one of her jokes, and I replied, 'I love you, you know.'"

"Cari responded, 'Oh, Mother, don't be so mushy!' It was our last conversation.

"At about 1:30 the next day Cari was walking with a friend to a church carnival when a drunk swerved off the road and hit her with such sickening force that she was hurled 120 feet through the air.

"She died an hour later."

This is part of a letter from Candy Lightner of MADD, Mothers Against Drunk Drivers. Other important parts of this letter include these statements:

"... In the last 10 years, more than 250,000 people have been killed in alcohol-related crashes ..."

"... The great majority of drunks who are arrested are quickly put back on the road ..."

"... Drunk driving manslaughter is the only acceptable form of homicide in our society ..."

Are you interested in getting more information or helping MADD in some way? Their address is Mothers Against Drunk Drivers, P.O. Box 18200, Fort Worth, TX 76118.

Q. Want to settle an argument? This is one my wife and I got into the other evening, starting calmly but ending up in quite a hassle.

It all revolves around the times that are toughest to live through with children.

She said it's those first few years, with the interrupted nights' sleep, toilet training, and no chance of reasoning or logic. I maintained that the adolescent years are the toughest. We all know how hard they can be!

So what do you think?

A. Coming through with a Solomon-type opinion is relatively easy on this one. It's like asking, "What is the toughest school-age youngster to teach?"

It all depends on the preferences of the parents, the age level with which they can be most patient and understanding, the physical health and emotional condition of the children, and many other factors.

A lovable 2-year-old can become an adolescent hellion and vice versa, and a difficult young child can sometimes be hard to cope with all the way through.

The emotional and physical status of the parents is also a factor to consider. The child who seems so adjustable and adaptable may become a heavy burden when a parent is ill, on the verge of divorce, in a bad job situation or facing some other crisis.

Your question is one that doesn't have a clear-cut answer. If it did parents might be tempted to make decisions regarding adoption, child care or school placement away from home for those specific years to escape that "exact" difficult time.

Children aren't controllable test tube products, nor are their parents. Uncertainties regarding the development of the youngsters and the attitudes and condition of their parents will continue to be with us.

Q. The person who wrote about the need for seat belts described personal injuries. He or she wrote that "the doctor says loss of memory is only temporary."

Please advise her to consult a neurosurgeon. Six months is the time it may take to have symptoms from a brain hematoma, a subdural hematoma.

Your address should say Ph.D., not just "doctor."

A. This short letter just signed "A Physician" gave me no chance to send a personal reply. So here's a twofold one through my column.

No, I'm not a physician, and that's why I never answer medical questions, always referring readers to their doctors.

The heading of this column identifies me as having a Ph.D. for which its aspirants work very hard and of which they are very proud. Many parts of our society, especially in academic circles, refer to those who have a Ph.D. (the "D." standing for "Doctor") by that title. It is earned and accurate. The Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary I use supports this point of view.

Your Social Security

Medicare foots bill for second opinion

Q. My physician has recommended surgery to treat a medical problem I have. I was wondering whether or not Medicare would pay for a second opinion? — Anonymous.

A. Yes, Medicare will help pay for a second opinion, in the same way it pays for other services by doctors.

If you wish, you can call Medicare's second opinion referral center for the names and phone numbers of doctors in your area who provide second opinions. The toll-free number is 1-800-636-6833.

Q. Recently I heard about someone filing for the lump sum death benefit of $255. Was not the benefit dissolved sometime in 1982 or 1983? I would appreciate the latest information on this issue. — J.P.

A. The law was changed in 1981, effective for deaths after August 1981. Under prior law, the lump sum of $255 was paid to the surviving spouse living with the worker at the time of death. If there was no such spouse, it was paid either to the funeral home or to the person who paid the burial expenses.

Under current law the lump sum payment can be made only to an eligible surviving widow, widower or entitled child.

Q. The government could save a great deal of money if it didn't pay benefits to people in jail.

It doesn't seem fair that they should be housed and fed and still get a check every month. Why hasn't something been done about this? — R.B.

A. Benefits are suspended for any month an individual is confined in a jail, prison or correctional facility due to the conviction of a felony. This has been effective since October 1980.

Q. My husband has been receiving Social Security disability benefits for two years. Now he has been asked to make an appointment with a doctor for an examination and special tests.

Why is this necessary? I thought that once it was determined that you were disabled, benefit continued indefinitely. — C.D.

A. Disability checks are paid for as long as an individual cannot work because of a severe disability condition. However, to ensure that all requirements for disability checks are met, all disability cases are reviewed every three years unless the Social Security Administration determines a shorter or longer review period is appropriate.

You sound like a bigot.

What's your definition of a bigot?

Someone who blindly dislikes certain classes of people.

If I told you that I treat all classes of people—exactly the same, would you still call me a bigot? No.

Well, relax, because—regardless of race, color, creed, national origin, ancestry, sex, age, handicap or marital status—I hate everyone.

You sound like a misanthrope.

All things considered, it's more socially acceptable to be a misanthrope than a bigot.

A true-false quiz on nutrition

By Shirley Bright Boody
 Registered Dietitian

Weight loss diets continue to proliferate in our national consciousness and many of them range from out and out absurdity to real endangerment of health. How are you going to know which ones can help you and which can cause you to become ill? Most people are apt to believe anything that is highly publicized, and diets and weight reduction schemes are no exception.

If you are considering going on some kind of crash diet, in the hopes of suddenly losing enough weight to look good in your bathing suit this summer, here are some tips that will help you avoid disappointment. Remember it's fat you want to lose, not money. If you are gullible enough, you can lose a bundle if you fall for a lot of false promises. Take this little true or false quiz, and see if you are right or wrong about losing weight:

1. Counting carbohydrates is more effective than counting calories.
2. Everybody on a diet needs vitamins and minerals in big doses.
3. Exercise while dieting increases weight loss as much as 5 times.
4. The word "dietetic" means low calorie.
5. Exercise increases your appetite and makes you eat more.
6. Grapefruit and grapefruit juice can cause fat to burn away and can be taken in unlimited amounts.
7. Lean muscle tissue uses more calories than fat tissue.
8. Eating four servings of breads and cereals every day will cause a weight gain.
9. Skipping breakfast is the easiest way to eat less calories.
10. Special combinations of foods burn up calories fast.

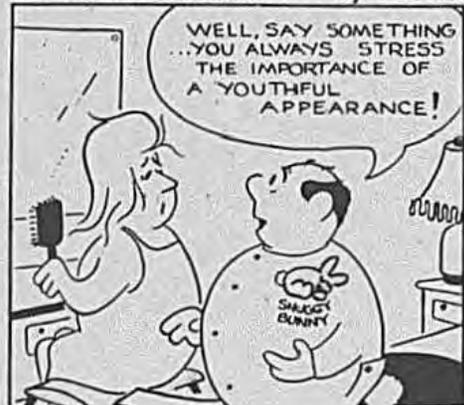

- Answers to the weight loss quiz:
1. False. Fat contains 9 calories per gram, and carbohydrate contains 4. You must also consider protein's 4 calories per gram. It's the total calories that count, not just carbohydrates. Limiting carbohydrates too much can cause severe problems.
  2. False. Megadoses of some vitamins are dangerous. A simple one multi-vitamin-mineral supplement is recommended.
  3. True. Exercising 30 minutes to 1 hour vigorously, at least three times a week, is very helpful in weight reduction.
  4. False. "Dietetic" can mean low sugar, low salt or that it contains a sweetener other than sugar. It may not mean lower calories.

5. False. Regular exercise does not increase appetite specifically, if it is a daily routine.
6. False. It contains calories like all other foods. It has no magic properties that burn fat.
7. True. Body fat needs fewer calories to sustain itself than lean muscle tissue. Pound for pound, obese people need one-third to one-half fewer calories than average people, to maintain weight.
8. False. It's the added butter, cream, sugars, jams and jellies that increase calories. Breads and cereals should be included in a good diet, because of the high quality nutrients, fiber and satiety they provide.
9. False. Skipping breakfast leads to overweight and low energy because the body is deprived of food when it needs it and the hunger persists until food is taken. Many people take in more calories in several snacks than in a good breakfast.
10. False. All food contains combinations of protein, carbohydrates and fat. They contain consistent numbers of calories, and combining them has no effect on how fast they are burned up.

Your weight reduction diet should contain all the necessary nutrients from the four food groups: meats, fish and poultry, fruits and vegetables, breads and cereals, and milk and dairy products.

The amounts of food are vitally important. Take smaller quantities of the necessary foods, rather than omitting a whole food category such as protein or carbohydrate, or all fat. You need some of each of them for your body to function properly and keep you well.

A Majority of One

BY ASSEMBLYMAN LEWIS J. YEVOLI

"They said it, I didn't!"

Last June, you and 330,000 other Town residents received the "Town of Oyster Bay News", which was printed and mailed at taxpayers expense. Last month you received a similar four-page letter from Supervisor Colby. In both instances the Town Supervisor chose to personally attack me because I disagree with his plan to construct a one half billion dollar plus so-called waste-to-energy facility at the Town's Old Bethpage Landfill.

I do not have the means to mail to every Town resident, and I cannot compete with the Town's printing presses or unlimited mailing privileges. I had hoped the Town Supervisor would state our differences on this matter in a factual, non-partisan manner. Unfortunately, the patently false and misleading information contained in both the "T.O.B. News" and his four-page letter does a disservice to every Town resident. Distorting the critical environmental and economic issues involved in this project is irresponsible. I will not engage in the personal attacks or the childish name called employed by the Supervisor. Nevertheless, as an elected official, I have an obligation to bring all aspects of this important issue to the public's attention. The decisions on the Old Bethpage Landfill and the waste-to-energy plant will ultimately affect all of us and the water we drink. This issue is far too significant to be determined by personal or political considerations. The following information is provided for your benefit. Please take a moment to read it. Copies of all the reports cited herein will gladly be made available to you upon request.

Town Claims False & Misleading

Town Officials have consistently maintained that the chemicals in the Old Bethpage Landfill do not pose a threat to any public drinking water supply. However, the New York State Attorney General, The Nassau County District Attorney, and the United States Environmental Protection Agency do not share those views.

In a suit filed by State Attorney General Robert Abrams against the Town of Oyster Bay in the United States District Court, Index No. 83CV5357CPS, December, 1983, the Attorney General's Office charged: "Testing, sampling, and investigation has revealed that at the Old Bethpage Landfill and its environs: there is groundwater contamination in contravention of the water quality standards...for at least the following substances: vinyl chloride, benzene, chloride, iron, manganese and zinc. There are significant levels of other hazardous substances and hazardous wastes in the groundwater including toluene, xylenes, and aluminum. Dangerously high levels of methane gas are shown to exist...."

The chemical contamination (at the Old Bethpage Landfill) and migration of that contamination...are causing harm and threatening greater harm to the health and safety of the people of the State of New York, particularly those living in the Town of Oyster Bay and neighboring communities and causing harm and threatens greater harm to the environment....

Defendants TOB (and other industries) have received notice of the ongoing leaching and migration of these hazardous substances at the Old Bethpage Landfill and have failed to fully and adequately investigate, monitor and evaluate the contamination at the site and its environs, to remove the hazardous substances and wastes from the soil, groundwater, and air and/or to take appropriate action to confine and prevent the migration of these hazardous substances and wastes....the defendant, TOB, has failed to provide all data, information, reports, and conclusions in its New York State Part 360 Permit and has supplied misleading, incomplete and inadequate reports with respect to such chemical contamination."

Town Cover-Up Exposed

In May of 1982, I received information alleging the Town of Oyster Bay and its consulting engineering firm, Lockwood, Kessler and Bartlett, revised a report to the State Department of Environmental Conservation, which documented the presence of groundwater contamination at the Old Bethpage Landfill and replaced it with a subsequent report which deleted much of this pertinent documentation. I turned this information over to Nassau County Denis Dillon, for investigation. The Nassau County District Attorney's Office, in a report dated June 8, 1981, stated, "...The Town of Oyster Bay and its consulting engineering firm of Lockwood, Kessler and Bartlett, sought to conceal information exposing contamination to the groundwater in the area of the Old Bethpage Landfill....Among the findings in the Executive Summary (the first report) were the following: Groundwater deterioration was observed at all eight monitoring well sites...at some of the wells, vinyl chloride was detected...The first report had discussions of organic contamination, including vinyl chloride, a known carcinogen, found in water samples taken from wells installed at the site...identified certain well sites as having a greater concentration of groundwater contaminants...."

The revised report (second report)...references to the deterioration of the groundwater were omitted....In general, the initial report is very detailed and thorough, whereas the revised report omits pertinent findings. The revised report failed to make many relevant observations and neglects to draw conclusions based on engineering and scientific knowledge. The District Attorney's investigation has revealed a course of conduct by the Town of Oyster Bay and its consultants, Lockwood, Kessler and Bartlett, which attempted to minimize the contamination found in the groundwater at the landfill site...."

Potential Health Hazard Exists

The contents of the first report indicate that a potential health hazard may exist in the landfill area which, if not remedied, could have an impact on the area's groundwater system. The revised report is devoid of conclusions which indicate that there is deterioration of the groundwater. The public has a right to be informed as to information concerning the impact on the groundwater. The action by the Town of Oyster Bay and its consultants clearly is obstructing the people's right to know."

Similar information regarding the threat to contamination at the Old Bethpage Landfill is also contained in a report issued by the United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA contract No. 68-01-6449) January 11, 1983, titled "Old Bethpage Remedial Action Master Plan". This R.A.M.P. study states: "The Old Bethpage Landfill has been designated an uncontrolled hazardous waste site and is listed on the United States Environmental Protection Agency's Interim list of 115 top priority disposal sites. Preliminary groundwater monitoring results indicate that, in the immediate vicinity of the facility, the unconfined Upper Glacial Aquifer has been contaminated by landfill leachate."

Colby Deceives Public

The main reason for concern over conditions at the Old Bethpage Landfill is that it is located in the heart of Long Island's Critical Deep-Flow Recharge Area--the prime area where the underground aquifers, which provide our drinking water, are located. The Deep-Flow Recharge Area encompasses almost every community in our Township, from Hempstead Turnpike to Oyster Bay's North Shore. I co-sponsored the new State Law banning landfilling in Long Island's Deep-Flow Recharge Area to protect our underground aquifers from contamination. While Supervisor Colby likes to deceive the public by saying I am opposed to the Old Bethpage Landfill only because it is in my backyard and my home is the closest to it, nothing could be further from the truth! My home is more than a mile from the landfill and my rear yard abuts the historic Old Bethpage Restoration Village.

On numerous occasions, I have publicly stated my unalterable opposition to any proposal that would seek to locate a resource recovery system/landfill anywhere in the Deep-Flow Recharge Area, because to do so would create a potential danger to the underground water supplies. For any Town Official to suggest the Syosset Landfill, which is also on the United States Environmental Protection Agency's list of worst hazardous waste sites nationally, or the Plainville property adjacent to the Long Island Expressway, which is located directly above a major aquifer, identified as one of the last pristine water sources in Nassau County, or the defunct sand pits in East Norwich, which are in an environmentally fragile area, is absolutely ludicrous! Additionally, all of these sites are in the Deep-Flow Recharge Area, and as I stated, I would do all in my power to prevent such a project from being built at these highly unlikely locations. In my opinion, this is another underhanded maneuver by the Town to deceive other communities into believing that if the resource recovery system is not built at the Old Bethpage Landfill, it will be built in their area. Unfortunately, while they do not choose to talk about it, our Town Officials are acutely aware of several other sites, like the 540 acre Republic Airport, which my be perfectly suitable for the project. The Town has spent millions of taxpayer's dollars on consultant's fees and reports that are patently slanted towards portraying the Old Bethpage Landfill as a problem free and totally acceptable location. If some of those funds had been used to examine environmentally sound sites and proven systems, they would not have encountered any opposition.

Danger to Drinking Water

For years, I have said chemicals (disposed of at the Town's Old Bethpage Landfill) pose a potential threat to the public water supplies of many communities in our Township. I have repeatedly requested that the Town embark on a comprehensive testing program to determine the extent of the contamination and take whatever action is necessary to prevent this contamination from entering public water supplies. The New York State Attorney General, The Nassau County District Attorney, and the United States Environmental Protection Agency agree, our Town Officials are the only ones who have consistently disagreed. Now after years of refusing to act responsibly, they have been forced by the Attorney General's lawsuit to sign an order to take the kinds of tests needed to determine the extent of the contamination at the landfill. According to the Attorney General's Office, it will take four to six months to complete these comprehensive tests if the Town cooperates fully. Common sense dictates that a multi-million dollar project should not begin without the benefit of all the essential information relating to the project. In private enterprises such an undertaking would be foolhardy. In a taxpayer supported municipality such an undertaking is unforfeivable.

Town Enters No-Bid Deal

Lastly, numerous questions have also been raised over the Town's selection of Blount Inc., an Alabama based firm whose principal officer, Winton "Red" Blount, served as former President Nixon's Postmaster General. This firm has never built this type of waste-to-energy plant anywhere. There was no public bid on the project. The initial cost of construction is estimated between $112 and $130 million financed by a 30 year bond issue, which will cost a minimum of $545 million to repay. The bulk of this repayment will be borne by the taxpayer.

I must reiterate, all of the information in this letter can be fully documented. All the rhetoric, the distortions emanating from Oyster Bay Town Hall cannot change these facts. Remember, water contamination knows no political or geographic boundaries. If you have any questions or need any additional information, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Two Pianists Perform At Library

By Kenneth Lovett

To have one superior pianist to perform for you is like finding a million dollars. To have two superior pianists perform for you at the same time is like finding the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

The Plainville Old Bethpage Library is honored to announce the four hands piano playing of Avraham Sternklar and Louis Alcuri on Saturday, September 22 at 8 p.m. Included in this program are selections from Mozart, Dvorak, and even a composition by Sternklar himself.

Avraham Sternklar began his career in Israel, and came to America when Leonard Bernstein and then U.S. Ambassador to Israel James McDonald, urged him to continue his studies in the United States. He received scholarships for study at the Juillard School of Music for five consecutive years.

Besides being an accomplished pianist, Mr. Sternklar is a composer and lecturer. He has received many awards, with three "best of the year's" among them.

Mr. Sternklar's partner that night will be Louis Alcuri. Mr. Alcuri is a resident of Bethpage for the past 29 years. He has taught choral music and theory for public schools on Long Island, including in the Plainville district.

Professionally, Mr. Alcuri has been a pianist, educator, conductor, and accompanist. He holds two degrees from the Juillard School of Music, where he studied piano.

September 22, is not just another program at the Library, it is a cultural event which, as any classical music lover will tell you, will thrill you as well as move you.

The Library is located at 999 Old Country Road in Plainville, opposite the Morton Village Shopping Center. (938-0077)

Hicksville P.O. Recalls The Past

Postal history is really a study of American history; one cannot be separated from the other. The development and growth of the post office in Hicksville mirrors the development and growth of the community.

About 130 years ago (1855) our mail was delivered to Jericho by stagecoach. Seventy years later (1926), as the number of people living in Hicksville grew, carrier service began with three carriers. As Hicksville became larger, so did our post office. Today we are the largest post office in Nassau and Suffolk. "Our Hicksville office employs 1800 people who work 24 hours a day, 7 days a week to process over 1 billion pieces of mail a year. We have over 1800 trucks, trailers and jeeps moving your mail and we serve 1 million 750 thousand people in an area that covers 784 square miles," reports Hicksville Postmaster Anthony M. Murello.

In an effort to preserve a record of Hicksville's unique postal history, the Gregory Museum and the Hicksville Post Office are sponsoring a Hicksville Postal History Photo Contest. Photos relating to postal history, taken before 1965 may be submitted to: Public Affairs Office, 185 West John Street, Hicksville, N.Y. 11802-9304. All entries must be received by Sept. 15. Each entry must be marked with contestant's name and mailing address. Photos will be returned if requested. Top prize will be a 1983 Commemorative Mint Set. Additional prizes of souvenir stamp collecting albums will also be awarded. Winners will be announced and prizes will be awarded at our Safety Fair-Open House on October 7.

In the early 1900s this dapper young letter carrier swiftly completed his appointed rounds on a motorized two-wheeler called a Flying Merkel. The notice on the pole indicates that sanitation was an ecological concern of the day.

This quaint scene depicts a typical collection box run by one of our earlier postal vehicle drivers.

YOU CAN BE A RESTAURANT CRITIC - If you visit any of the restaurants selected for inclusion in this section - call WE 1-0027 at any hour and tell your ideas. We want you, the reader, to be our critic. Your message then can be printed in this space.

Oyster Bay Town Receiver of Taxes Gary F. Musello presents a plaque to John Gerweck, co-owner of Unique Racquetball in Bethpage, in appreciation of the free sessions Gerweck and his partner, Seyd Khayam have sponsored for members of the Town's Group Activities Program (GAP) for the handicapped. The plaque was given by the Group Activities Program Parents Association (GAPPA), represented here by Arlene Halper of Hicksville. Also on hand for the presentation were Joe Lamia of Hicksville and Laurie Nimmo of Syosset, who were there with other GAP members to play racquetball.

OVER 20 YEARS EXPERIENCE

It's up to us.

New York State is a great state in which to live, work and raise a family. We can be proud of our place in world commerce, industry and in the quality of our lives. But one of our greatest sources of pride is often overlooked, that being our huge forest preserves, wetland and marsh areas, and abundant fish and wildlife.

Now New Yorkers have an opportunity to help protect this unique heritage of wildlife so vital to the quality of life we all enjoy. "Return a Gift to Wildlife" is a program into which you may voluntarily contribute when you complete your state tax form. By checking off Line 18 on the long form or Line 12 on the short form, you can make a contribution to the New York State Conservation Fund. Monies collected have been dedicated by the State Finance Law to the protection, management and extension of wildlife in our great state.

Return a Gift to Wildlife

The Need Has Never Been Greater

Hard economic times dictate hard financial decisions. This year, the federal government has already eliminated endangered species aid, jeopardizing the restoration of a number of birds and animals native to New York. In addition, thousands of acres of grassland, wetland, marshland and forest that are critical to the survival or extension of New York's wildlife are eliminated or disrupted each year. The New York State "Return a Gift to Wildlife" program is an important step towards a lasting solution to these problems and an investment in the future of our wildlife.

An Effective Program

Like the environment which only thrives when the whole ecosystem is addressed, the areas of work to be addressed through tax contributions are broad and comprehensive. The largest single element is earmarked for habitat protection so critical to wildlife perpetuation. A species management program will be strengthened to help maintain all species of fish and wildlife at desirable population levels for outdoor enjoyment. A third element is the public use program which will provide increased opportunities for enjoying fish and wildlife. Lastly, the plan calls for greater awareness development of fish and wildlife values through the creation of better educational resources and information services.

Consider the added dimension wildlife brings to your life. Won't you return a gift through a contribution on Line 18 of the long form or Line 12 of the short form of your State tax return. Your gift is tax deductible on your 1983 tax return.

Most Callers To Input Do Not Like 'Junk' Mail

Most callers to Input are not keen on receiving junk mail or other unsolicited material in answer to this question: "If the only mail you received was junk mail would you rather receive no mail at all?" Here are some of the answers:

BAGS OF MAIL

Not only is junk mail a pain to me but those so called bags of mail that are tied on the door knob or thrown on the porch are a waste of my time and help to keep the place littered. Some of the junk mail is written for people who do not have all of their marbles. It consists of solicitations from things that are obviously not charities. I wish they would go away. M.R.

SIGNAL

The problem with junk mail for me is not receiving it. It is that it fills up the mail box if I am only away a day or two and it can be seen sticking out of the box. If I am home I just throw it out and there is no problem with it. But when it sticks up and you are away I feel that it is a signal for someone to break in. K.E.

SUSPICIONS

Some things are not actually junk mail even though they are not regular mail. They are not junk because they tell about things that can be purchased that I might want. I cannot feel a little suspicious though about some of these offerings as though they may have been rejected by regular established magazines and they they have to resort to these methods of solicitation. K.E.

NO EXTRAS

I look over most everything that comes in. Naturally if it is a regular letter I actually read it. The junk mail is handled so rapidly and thrown out that I cannot say that it matters one way or the other. I certainly do not like the Newsday extra thrown on my lawn, though. I have to go out and pick it up to throw it away. J.W.

NEEDS CUSTOMERS

One man's junk is another man's gold mine. I have used direct mail solicitation for my business and I hope that people will read my message. This is free enterprise and it is the way I choose to find new customers. Do not be knocking it. I have to find new customers to make a living. L.E.

NO CLUTTER

The problem with junk mail is that I fear it is being put out quickly by the postoffice to get it out of their way and that it makes my regular mail late. I have notices that when I get a lot of this type of mail that I don't usually get regular letters. I think the mailman wants to get rid of the junk mail so that it won't clutter up his bag. The next day he delivers my letters. F.E.

COUPONS

I have had some so called junk mail turn into coupons that I could redeem and make money from so I do have to keep an eye on all of that kind of mail. I would rather get the coupons in the Sunday paper though so that I could keep my mail box uncluttered each day until I come home. K.W.

BILLS, LETTERS

I guess if it were a toss up I would go for junk mail rather than being ignored. But presently I do not have that option. It is either bills or letters that I get in my mail. I throw out the big heavy circulars and other things as they come in.

MISS IT

As much as I may rail about the increasing amount of junk mail I receive, I believe I would miss it if it were to cease altogether. Frankly, I think it is ridiculous the way special interest groups spend time and money in the belief that the public from selected mailing lists will concur with their philosophy without question and back it with cash contributions. Furthermore, the wave of pleas for political donations which is reaching a crescendo at this time makes me wonder just what kind of a well-heeled simple soul they think I am. If all that is needed to win an election is limitless cash, there's something wrong with the system and perhaps we are not attracting the kind of dedicated and brilliant leaders we need in government. Furthermore, as the money is ultimately spent on newsprint and TV, the big winners are the media and not the public who are exposed to the millions of carefully structured messages. But, getting back to the mail, another big winner in the junk mail activity is the postal service. Often the return address on the envelope is sufficient for unopened and unread consignment to the waste-paper basket. But, on balance, one can learn from junk mail just what kind of a civilization we are living in and besides, there is no consolation at all in peering into an empty mail box. P.G.S.

UNWRAPPED CIRCULARS

Some of the unsolicited mail I get comes in regular first class envelopes. It is generally a solicitation from some charity or group. The charities I can see need to make an appeal and I am not at all against receiving this type of letter. Therefore I do not include these under the heading of junk mail. The kind that I dislike are the unwrapped circulars and mailing pieces that clog up my mail box and tell everyone when we are not home. L.E.

What Will The State Think Of Next?

By Ed Silver

I know something was wrong when I woke to find a red light flashing above my toothbrush holder. I had been working hard the night before and the combination of exhaustion and mental fatigue conspired to put me to sleep without having brushed my teeth.

Before my eyes had a chance to open completely there was a knock at the door. I opened it to find two official-looking gentlemen standing poker-faced on my doorstep.

"Can I help you?" I asked, sheepishly.

"You neglected to brush your teeth last night," one said in righteous indignation.

"I'm really sorry," I said. "It won't happen again. I promise."

"Sir," the other chimed in. "We're going to have to take you in for a hearing."

"A hearing?" I asked in disbelief. I had known there was some pretty outrageous laws passed since the Seatbelt Law was put into effect in 1984, but a law that made it a crime to forego one's oral responsibilities seemed a little picayune.

No matter, though. I figured the penalty couldn't be that bad recalling the time I had neglected to wear my seatbelt while rushing to work one day. The punishment, in addition to a $50 fine, was being forced to attend a 20 hour class with other scowflaws in which we buckled and unbuckled seatbelts for two hours at a stretch.

The officials led me to a small car, its doors emblazoned with "Ministry To Prevent Dental Decay" next to what appeared to be a drawing of a wisdom tooth.

"Where's the hearing?" I asked as they guided me into the back seat.

"Downtown at the Ministry office," said the driver. "This is your first offense, so it shouldn't be that bad."

"Besides," added the other. "You might come out of there with a nicer smile than the one you came in with."

The two of them chuckled heartily. Sensing that I wasn't amused, they calmed down and remained blissfully silent the rest of the way. The car pulled into what repeat offenders call "Ministry Row", a long concrete expanse of bureaucratic offices set up during the late 1980's to handle breaches of personal care and safety.

They helped me out of the car and walked me past the Ministry of Personal Hygiene, which reprimands those who fail to take showers at least once-a-day, the Ministry of Ungracious Hosts, notorious for its rigid course in remedial friendliness and attended mostly by employees of stuffy New York restaurants, the Ministry of Loud-Radio-Playing and on down the line past the father of them all: the Ministry of Seatbelts.

Each offense had been given its own office ever since the Ministry of Law and Order declared it could no longer handle the overwhelming caseload arising from the state's campaign to clamp down on volition. Amazingly, New York became safer and aesthetically pleasing with only minor consequences accompanying the new laws: People were smelling nicer but getting to work later since showering in the morning was mandatory; waiters and waitresses smiled more often, rarely talked back to obnoxious patrons but bickered loudly among themselves; and radios were played loud enough for only their owners to hear as break dancing became obsolete and the price of headphones skyrocketed.

Occasionally, though, one felt the compulsion to defy authority just to satisfy a primal, rebellious urge. Driving without a seatbelt was one way to exercise freedom of expression, an act that held almost as much enjoyment as riding a crowded subway after not showering for a day or so. But ever since the Ministry of Technology had developed devices to monitor personal hygiene and safety, the masses were left with no other recourse but to kick their walls every once in a while as wall-kicking had not yet been declared illegal.

The officials escorted me into the Ministry Office and led me to a small room where 12 members of the Ministry's Dental Board sat with somber expressions. They sized me up and down with looks that suggested a strong desire to put me through a sadistic session of root canal work. One of the members sat me in a modified dentist's chair while another switched on the Muzak.

"Do you understand the charges being brought against you?" asked me man who acted as prosecutor.

"I think so," I said.

"You failed to brush your teeth last night," he said. "Do you have any idea how much excess money the government pays out in dental health benefits because people like you don't have enough sense to brush twice a day consistently?"

"I used to know, sir, but it seems to have slipped my mind."

"Above all, these laws exist to protect you," he continued forcefully. "This country was not built on bad teeth. You need them your whole life lest you enjoy gumming your meals. Do you enjoy gumming your meals?"

"No sir. Not at all."

"Then don't ever forget to brush your teeth before you retire!"

"Oh I won't sir, I promise."

The board convened in whispers momentarily then turned their eyes my way again.

"How do you plead?" the prosecutor asked.

"Guilty," I said, not wanting to drag the process out longer than my humiliation level could stand.

As I had expected, the sentence was tolerable. In addition to a $50 fine, I was required to attend a 20 hour class with other scowflaws in which we brushed our teeth for two hours at a stretch.

Looking back, the experience wasn't all that bad. Just like the Ministry official had said, my teeth are a lot whiter and I guess that's something to smile about. Now if I could only find someone to fix the hole in my wall.....

CAN'T COMPARE

As I read all of the endorsements of restaurants I must say that I still believe that the George Washington Manor is so far above the rest that it is hard to compare.

Here is this restaurant set in the colonial tradition with fine food, great service in an easily accessible location across from the clock tower in Roslyn.

We went to the George Washington Manor last week, had two sumptuous meals, roast beef prime rib. We had a complete dinner including shrimp cocktails for an appetizer. It was an event that we will remember for many months. George Washington Manor is a place to relax, enjoy and eat fine food. We recommend it. H.E.

FINE MEAL

Last week we went to the LaCisterna restaurant in Mineola and were delighted with the meal.

The LaCisterna is a beautifully decorated restaurant with a fine large dining room set in a restful and inviting style. The service is good and the food is well worth a return visit.

We had veal marsala for one dinner and bass for the other. The veal was fresh and tender and the marsala sauce was exceptionally well done. The bass was fresh and flavorful. Starting off the meal we had salad and soup which also rated high. We were very satisfied with the visit and want to recommend it to your readers.
H.G.

PLENTY TO EAT

The Steer Barn in Roslyn is wonderful and your readers should know about it. They have a complete salad bar which includes, in addition to regular soup and salad, fresh shrimp.

Last Monday we went there and enjoyed the special which was sliced steak, beef barley soup and all of the salad we could cram on to our plates.

The service and atmosphere is nice at the Steer Barn. It appears to be a converted house with ample tables in the front and rear. We recommend it highly.

READER RATINGS

If you have questions about etiquette or dining out you may call them into WE 1-0027 and we will find the answer.

Q. Last night we had fish and the host ordered a burgundy wine for the table. Isn't this use of a red wine in poor taste?

A. If it is in poor taste it would be up to the people consuming it to determine that it was not to their liking. The old fashioned etiquette about red wines being for meat and white for fish were a tradition but no one has to honor a tradition that is not to their particular liking. Get red wine with fish if you like.

Q. Whenever I go to a restaurant that has a salad bar I see people taking two plates and some coming up several times. Aren't these people just acting like pigs?

A. They may be acting like pigs but the management ought to be the one to do the complaining if the dinner cost doesn't cover it. We are told by restaurant owners, though, that it evens out and that except in restaurants that specifically say the dinner includes "one trip to the salad bar" that they will not appear to notice how many trips are made and it appears that if they are "pigs" to you, the management still views them as customers.

Q. If I have a party of about 30 guests is it best to go to a restaurant or a regular caterer?

A. Generally you can find a restaurant that would be more interested in that size party than a caterer although some caterers do have mid-week and off-season rates. But in general, restaurants have rooms that they can close off and give you special service. Often the price is no higher than the menu rates.

The Ming Garden is not an ordinary Chinese restaurant. If you take just one look at the menu you will see why. Listed is every type of Chinese food you can imagine in all of the different types of Chinese cooking. Szechuan, Cantonese, Hunan and Mandarin.

We had the house dinner at Mings and found it to be a wonderful way to enjoy all of the different good foods of this fine restaurant.

The setting is a fine one and it is accessible at 200 Garden City Plaza. It is a small, clean, modern, well appointed restaurant with very good service. This is a restaurant we do recommend. G. & S. K.

READER RATINGS

YOU CAN BE A RESTAURANT CRITIC - If you visit any of the restaurants selected for inclusion in this section - call WE 1-0027 at any hour and tell your ideas. We want you, the reader, to be our critic: Your message then can be printed in this space.

Q. After finishing a meal at a good restaurant I had an experience that could have been avoided by the restaurant. When I offered a particular credit card the waiter said that they did not honor that card and did I have another. I did not have another and barely had enough money to pay in cash. Shouldn't the restaurant have told us in advance which credit cards they accept?

A. Not exactly. You should have inquired in advance if you did not see a decal of the card you had on display. They really have no way of knowing what card you have and it is an accommodation to you that the cards are accepted so you should have borne the responsibility.

Q. When, if ever, is it permissible to smoke at table? G.J.
A. Smoking at table is tolerated by some hostesses at the end of the meal. Ash trays at the table indicate only that smoking after the dessert course is permissible. It is downright bad manners to go to any dinner table with a lighted cigarette or to smoke during or between courses.

Burgermania

By Verne Palmer

They stand in line for them in Indonesia. They're all the rage in Paris. The object of all this adulation is that most quintessential of American foods, the hamburger.

Appropriately enough, like the citizenry that produced it, the hamburger had its roots in foreign soil.

The Hamburg Steak, a mixture of minced beef, onion, egg, originated in Germany, but was introduced into America during the 19th century by a group of Hamburg sailors.

Americans took the chopped beef patty and made it their very own by wedging it between two halves of a bun and surrounding it with crisp green lettuce, tangy sweet onion and ripe red tomato.

The combination has proved amazingly enduring and the possibilities are almost endless, not only as to what, but how.

For instance, you can fiddle with the meat itself — ground turkey and pork make excellent "hamburgers" as well as beef; you can vary what's used to season the mix, what goes on top and, perhaps best of all, what goes inside.

A few suggestions follow:

Top burgers with: a combination of sour cream, avocado and bacon; chili con carne, Swiss cheese and bacon; pizza sauce, chopped olives and mozzarella cheese; Monterey Jack cheese and diced Ortega chilies; grilled pineapple, or sauteed mushrooms and blue cheese.

Stuff burgers with: Monterey Jack cheese and jalapeno peppers; American, cheddar, Monterey Jack, mozzarella or blue cheese, capers and diced bacon; grilled onions; sliced kosher pickles; grilled pineapple, or sauteed mushrooms.

Season burgers with: barbecue sauce, mustard, Worcestershire sauce, liquid smoke, chopped onion, fresh herbs and spices, chopped green peppers, etc.

Serve burgers on: hamburger buns, sesame seed or poppy seed buns, Kaiser rolls, onion rolls, English muffins, sourdough bread or french rolls.

If your inclination still runs to the "classical" hamburger, why not serve it in a different way — as one giant hamburger — and make your own bun to boot, or, if adventure has you by the hand, consider Stuffed Pork Burgers, Reuben Burgers or Burgundy-Spinach Burgers.

GIANT BURGER

- 2 lbs. lean ground beef
- 1/4 cup ketchup
- 3 tbsps. spicy brown mustard
- 1/4 tsp. pepper
- 2 ozs. Swiss cheese, cut into 1/4-inch strips

- 1 medium onion, thinly sliced, separated into rings
- 1 large tomato, thinly sliced
- Giant Bun (recipe follows)

In large bowl, combine ground beef, ketchup, mustard and pepper, mixing lightly but thoroughly. Shape into one 9-inch patty. Place patty on lightly greased grill 4 to 6 inches above hot coals. Grill 5 to 6 minutes.

To turn, slide flat baking sheet under burger. Hold flat plate over burger, flip over and carefully slide uncooked side back onto grill. Cook 5 to 6 minutes for rare, longer if desired. Remove from grill with flat baking sheet.

Toast cut sides of bun on grill 1 minute. Place burger on bottom half of bun; arrange cheese, onion rings and tomato slices on top; cover with top of bun. Cut into wedges.

Makes 8 servings.

GIANT BUN

- 1 loaf (1 lb.) honey crack wheat or white frozen bread dough
- 2 tbsps. butter, softened

Thaw bread dough as directed on package. Shape into round, flat loaf to fit greased 9-inch round baking pan; let rise in warm place until doubled in volume (approximately 4 to 6 hours).

Bake at 350 F 30 to 35 minutes; cool. Slice loaf crosswise in half; spread cut sides with butter.

Makes one 9-inch bun.

STUFFED PORK BURGERS

- 1 tbsp. butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup coarsely chopped fresh mushrooms
- 1/4 cup sliced green onion
- 1/4 tsp. garlic powder
- 1 1/2 lbs. lean ground pork
- 2 tbsps. Worcestershire sauce
- 1 tsp. dry mustard
- 1/2 tsp. pepper
- 4 Kaiser rolls
- Leaf lettuce
- Bermuda onion slices
- Tomato slices
- Prepared mustard

Melt butter in small skillet. Add mushrooms and green onion; sprinkle with garlic powder. Saute until mushrooms are tender. Set aside.

Combine ground pork, Worcestershire, dry mustard and pepper; mix well. Shape into 8 patties, about 4 inches in diameter. Spoon mushroom mixture onto center of 4 patties. Spread to within 1/4 inch of edge. Top with remaining 4 patties; seal edges.

Place patties on grill about 6 inches over medium coals. Grill 15 to 20 minutes on each side or until done.

Split rolls. Place lettuce, onion and tomato slices on bottom of rolls. Top with burgers and spread with mustard. Place top on rolls.

Makes 4 servings.

To broil: Place patties on broiler pan. Broil about 8 inches from heat for 10 to 15 minutes on each side or until done.

REUBEN BURGERS

- 1 1/2 lbs. ground beef
- 4 tbsps. Worcestershire sauce
- 1 1/4 cups shredded Swiss cheese
- 6 slices bacon, cooked and crumbed
- 1/2 cup Thousand Island dressing
- 6 hamburger rolls, split and toasted
- 1 (8 oz.) can sauerkraut, heated and drained

Combine ground beef and 3 tablespoons of Worcestershire sauce; shape into 12 large thin patties.

Combine cheese and bacon; place 1/6 in center of each of 6 patties. Top with remaining patties and press edges with fork to seal. Grill or pan fry.

Combine dressing with remaining 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Serve burgers on rolls topped with sauerkraut and dressing.

Makes 6 servings.

BURGUNDY-SPINACH BURGERS

- 1 (10 oz.) pkg. frozen chopped spinach, thawed
- 1 1/2 lbs. ground beef
- 1/4 cup red wine
- 1/4 cup (1/2 oz.) grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. pepper

Preheat broiler. Squeeze spinach to remove excess liquid.

In large bowl, combine all ingredients until well blended. Form into 6 patties. Broil, 6 inches from heat, about 5 minutes on each side for medium-rare or to desired doneness.

Makes 6 servings.

OLIVIA &
PAUL BENSON

A dining adventure from Aloha Land

By Olivia and Paul Benson

The cuisine of Hawaii is as diverse as the many nationalities that make up its population.

When the first settlers arrived in their high-prowed canoes, about 1,000 years ago, they brought with them from their South Pacific island homes the plants and animals they would need to feed themselves on the new islands that their explorers had discovered. Taro, coconut palms, breadfruit, sweet potatoes and bananas were all carefully prepared to survive the long sea voyage for planting in the new land. Breeding stocks of pigs and chickens were placed in cages built into the hulls of the canoes. For the next several hundred years these plants and animals, along with the abundant fish and shellfish of the Hawaiian reefs, were the only foods of the settlers and their descendants.

The British explorer Capt. James Cook's "discovery" of the Hawaiian chain of islands in 1778 ended the islanders' cultural and culinary isolation forever.

The first American missionaries arrived in 1820 — a group of young evangelical Protestants from New England. Along with a determination to save the Hawaiians from their "heathen ways" the missionaries brought corn, beans, tea, coffee, goats and many of the staples of mainland cooking.

By the 1840s, groups of Chinese migrated to the islands and leased farmland. To the stockpot of Hawaii's cuisine they added water chestnuts, lychee nuts, mandarin oranges and many more plants that thrived in the islands' rich volcanic soil.

Over the next decades, successive waves of immigrants recruited to work the huge sugar plantations brought with them the foods of their native lands — Japan, Korea, Portugal and the Philippines. The visitor to Hawaii today will find the foods of all of these nations blended into the cuisine of the islands — often with subtle adaptations that make the resulting dishes uniquely Hawaiian.

In today's recipe for Kabobs Kauai, the fresh pineapple should be arranged next to the chicken pieces on the skewers, so that the pineapple juice permeates the meat. When you skewer the water chestnuts, exert even pressure around the circumference of the chestnuts, so that they don't split.

Mahimahi with Leek is adapted from a dish served at the Mauna Kea Beach Hotel in Kamuela, Hawaii. Mahimahi, also called dolphin fish, is a large, open-ocean fish with firm, delicate white meat. Any firm, mild-tasting fish may be substituted in the recipe.

Pele's Bananas is a flaming desert named for the Hawaiian goddess of fires and volcanoes. It is a favorite in many of the islands' restaurants.

KABOBS KAUAI

- 3 whole chicken breasts, halved
 1/2 cup soy sauce
 6 ozs. unsweetened pineapple juice
 2 tbsps. white vinegar
 1 tbsp. honey
 1 tbsp. chopped fresh ginger
 1/2 cup chopped scallion
 1/4 cup dry white wine
 12 small, white boiling onions
 12 1-inch chunks fresh pineapple
 12 whole water chestnuts (canned)
 12 1-inch chunks green pepper
 12 cherry tomatoes
 2 tbsps. tomato paste

Skin chicken breast halves and remove meat from bone in one piece. Flatten meat slightly with wooden mallet or back of wooden spoon. Cut each piece of chicken in half lengthwise. In bowl, mix 1/4 cup soy sauce, pineapple juice, vinegar, honey, ginger, scallion and wine. Add chicken and marinate at least 2 hours.

Peel and trim onions and boil them in water 15 to 20 minutes, or until tender. Drain and cool.

Skewer kabob ingredients in following order: onion, chicken (folded over), pineapple, water chestnut, green pepper, cherry tomato.

Add remaining 1/4 cup soy sauce and tomato paste to chicken marinade and use as basting sauce for kabobs.

Barbecue skewers over hot coals, basting and turning frequently, until all ingredients are nicely browned and cooked through.

MAHIMAH WITH LEEK

- 2 1/2 lbs. mahimahi fillets
 1 cup flour
 4 eggs, beaten
 1/2 cup butter
 1/2 cup vegetable oil
 3 shallots, minced
 3 cloves garlic, minced
 1 leek, chopped
 1 tsp. salt
 1/2 tsp. freshly ground black pepper
 2 1/2 tbsps. fresh lemon juice
 1/2 cup fish stock
 Parsley (for garnish)
 Lemon wedges (for garnish)

Cut fillets into 3-ounce medallions. Dip in flour, then in beaten egg. In large frying pan, heat all but 1 tablespoon each of butter and vegetable oil over medium-high heat. Sauté medallions of fish, a few at a time, 2 minutes on each side, until nicely browned. As each batch is cooked, remove to serving dish in warm oven.

In medium skillet, heat reserved butter and oil over medium heat. Sauté shallots and garlic until they just begin to soften. Add leek and sauté 3 minutes more. Add salt, pepper, lemon juice and fish stock. Heat, stirring, until fish stock is well heated and reduced slightly. Spoon sauce over fish, garnish with parsley and lemon wedges and serve.

Serves 6-8.

PELE'S BANANAS

- 4 tbsps. butter
 6 tbsps. brown sugar
 1 tsp. cinnamon
 4 bananas, halved lengthwise

- 1/2 cup banana liqueur
 1/4 cup rum (light or dark)
 4 scoops vanilla ice cream

In large skillet or flambe pan, melt butter over low heat. Add sugar and cinnamon, stirring until well mixed. Increase heat to medium-low, add bananas and sauté until they begin to soften. Add banana liqueur and half of rum and simmer.

Put scoop of vanilla ice cream on each of four dessert plates.

In small saucepan, bring rest of rum to boil quickly. Add to other ingredients and ignite carefully. When flame dies down, serve two slices of banana on each plate, spoon remaining sauce over ice cream and serve.

Note: A dramatic touch is to ignite rum at table — but be careful to remove any flammable materials that might be set on fire by burning rum.

Serves 4.

MICROWAVE*POLYNESIAN SHRIMP CURRY

- 6 tbsps. butter or margarine
 6 tbsps. flour
 2 tbsps. curry powder
 1 tsp. powdered ginger
 1/2 tsp. salt
 1 cup milk
 2 cups coconut milk
 1 1/2 lbs. frozen, shelled, deveined shrimp
 2 tbsps. lemon juice
 1/4 cup sliced green onion

Microwave butter in 3-quart glass casserole until melted, about 2 minutes. Stir in flour, curry powder, ginger and salt. Slowly blend in milk, stirring constantly, then stir in coconut milk. Cover and microwave until mixture comes to a boil, 7 to 9 minutes, stirring every 3 minutes. Set aside.

Next, spread shrimp loosely in single layer in flat glass baking dish. Microwave at Defrost setting 5 minutes. Rearrange shrimp and microwave at Defrost 5 minutes longer. Stir lemon juice and shrimp into curry sauce. Replace cover and microwave, stirring every 2 minutes, until sauce is simmering and shrimp bright pink and tender, 5 to 7 minutes. Serve over hot, cooked rice and garnish with sliced green onion.

Serves 6.

COCO-DATE NIBBLES

- 1 egg
 6 tbsps. sugar
 3/4 cup pitted dates, chopped
 1 1/2 cups crispy rice cereal
 1/2 tsp. vanilla
 1 cup flaked coconut

Crack egg into 1 1/2-quart glass casserole. Beat egg slightly, then stir in sugar until dissolved. Add dates. Microwave 2 to 3 minutes, stirring every minute, until dates are softened. Stir mixture with wooden spoon until it forms paste, then add rice cereal and vanilla. Place coconut on large sheet of waxed paper. Form date mixture into 1-inch balls and roll each in coconut to coat all sides. Place nibbles on plates lined with waxed paper and set in cool place for one-half hour, until firm.

Makes 2 dozen nibbles.

Recipes in this column are tested in 625- to 700-watt microwave ovens. Foods are cooked on HIGH (100 percent power) and uncovered unless otherwise specified.

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Tuck pointing

Q. The brick in front of our house needs tuck pointing, or so a bricklayer tells me. How is this done? — Y.P.T.

A. Rake out defective mortar between bricks to a depth of at least 1/2 inch, then brush out all loose particles and wet interior surfaces with clear water. Fill the joints with a fairly stiff but workable mixture of ready-mixed patching mortar, or one part portland cement, five parts of clean, coarse sand and one part of hydrated lime.

If color is to be added, use only limeproof cement color sold by dealers in masonry materials and add no more than 10 pounds of color to each bag of portland cement. All ingredients should be mixed thoroughly when dry, before water is added.

To determine the amount of color needed for your particular purpose, make a few small trial batches before mixing the full batch for the tuck pointing.

Q. The glass door of my shower gets a white film buildup from our water over a period of time despite our water filter.

A. What is an easy method to remove this film and how can the buildup be further minimized? Is there something like a silicone-based wax that would slow it down or make cleaning easier? — Neil McG

A. This is caused by the alkali in the water in your area. I suggest you try scrubbing the glass surface with hot white vinegar. There is also a product on the market (one trade name is Lime-Away) available at most supermarkets.

A water softener unit would help remedy this condition.

Q. I am interested in finding someone who re-silvers mirrors. Could you put me in touch with someone? — Cecil A. S.

A. This column is carried in many places throughout the nation, so I am not able to recommend mirror re-silvering specialists in your area or other areas. I suggest you check the Yellow Pages in the telephone directory for companies or stores that specialize in glass and mirrors.

Q. I have an old cabinetmaker's bench in my home hobby shop that has a frame assembled with lag screws.

In attempting to tighten the screws, I stripped the threads several times. I cannot conveniently use larger screws. Is there a way to make the old holes smaller? — Fred E. O.

A. One way is to back the screws out and place a fair amount of quick-setting glue — any white glue — in the holes, spreading it as uniformly as possible on the walls of the holes. When the glue has set initially but has not fully hardened, turn the screws back in, seating each lightly. After the glue has set and cured, tighten the screws moderately. Ordinarily, screws re-tightened this way will hold secure.

Q. Can regular latex house paint be used on stucco and concrete? — Sam H. F.

A. Most types of latex exterior paints are excellent for use on stucco and concrete surfaces. Just read the directions for each brand of paint thoroughly. Note that when working in dry, hot weather, you may have to dampen the surface with water before applying the paint to keep the paint from drying too fast.

same trouble.

Dear John: Do you have a formula for controlling rash? If so, send it along. Thanks. — A.N.

Dear A.N.: As to the rash, none of the dermatologists I have talked to are as smart about rash as they think they are.

They will give you a prescription for a little tube of ointment (cost $12 or $14), maybe give you a shot in the hip and put you under a lamp, and tell you it's a nervous rash.

Well, maybe it is. But you can get just as good results probably by buying a small jar of vitamin E ointment, or the liquid, for less than $4. And no prescription.

Dear John: My husband has emphysema and chronic bronchitis that limits his activities severely. He is otherwise quite healthy and wants to do as many things around the house, but because of the lung disease, he can't.

Have you heard of any home remedy that may enable him to breathe better? — Doris F.

Dear Doris: I do not know of any home remedy. Maybe some readers will. I would suggest that you live in as dry a climate as possible. And you probably need an oxygen tank for him to use two or three times a day.

TWEEN 12 & 20

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D

Dr. Wallace: Do you believe that teens, who are too young to be employed, should get an allowance? I do but my parents don't. I never have any money even though I am 12 years old. — Mike.

Mike: Yes, I believe allowances are beneficial in helping kids learn how to budget their funds. But sometimes families just don't have the extra money for this learning experience.

There are many ways a 12-year-old boy can earn a few dollars if that boy has desire and ingenuity. You know what I'm talking about.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 15-year-old girl and I've got a lot of hair on my legs. I'd like to shave it off but my parents won't allow me to put a razor near my body.

They are not the ones who bear the taunts of my classmates.

Do you think I should be able to shave my legs? — Barb

Barb: I think you should be permitted to remove the unwanted hair from your legs. Your parents seem to lack understanding and are not aware of teen pressure.

Teens: Many recording artists would be thrilled to collaborate on a song with rock superstar Michael Jackson. But, according to Seventeen magazine, up-and-coming singer Rockwell says he would rather have done his own background singing on his recent hit, "Somebody's Watching Me."

"One day (Jackson) wanted to hear what I had been doing," Rockwell said. Rockwell played the song for Jackson, who asked if he had someone to sing background vocals.

"When I said I didn't, he said, 'I'll do it,'" Rockwell reveals. "He's great, though I'd rather have done it myself," he admits. "But when Michael says he wants to sing your song, you don't say no."

The son of Motown founder Berry Gordy, who launched such top artists as Diana Ross, Marvin Gaye and Smokey Robinson, Rockwell says he invented his own name to show the world he can make it as a successful singer on his own.

"I don't want to be just Berry Gordy's son," he explains. "There are benefits, but it's very difficult to live under somebody else's fame and stardom. I'm too ambitious to live under the roof of a man with money."

Signed to a recording contract by a division of Motown two years ago, the 21-year-old singer says the road to musical success has been a rocky one.

"Most people at Motown didn't want to take my music seriously," he recalls. "Motown has very high standards. They didn't think I had anything to say — feeling that I've been given everything in my life, that I don't have any problems, so what am I talking about?" I had to keep trying to prove myself.

Prove himself he did, and now with a smash hit record to his credit, Rockwell admits that what others think still bothers him.

"Friends tell me of remarks made about me, like, 'Well, we know why he got where he is! I still have insecurities about that.'"

But, Rockwell concludes, he's ready to keep on fighting to make it on his own. "This is now," he says. "This is my turn."

Dr. Wallace: I read your column regularly and I know there have been many letters for and against teens drinking once they reach 18.

My letter is not about the drinking age but rather driving under the influence of alcohol.

I am 18 and have consumed alcohol regularly since I was 14. I had no problem getting booze because an assortment of adults purchased it for me.

About six months ago, I went to a party and got so drunk I could hardly stand up. But that didn't stop me from getting behind the wheel and driving home. I didn't make it.

Thank God I didn't kill anyone. My car hit a tree and my car was demolished. After spending three weeks in a coma and two months in a wheelchair, a rehabilitation hospital was my home as I learned to walk once again.

As I write this letter, I have learned to walk and I also can feed myself. I still have a lot of physical problems (double vision for one) but I know with time and a lot of hard work I will recover.

But all of this was caused because I drove while drunk — what a waste. I'm not saying I'll never have a drink again but I'll never drive if I ever do. Experience was a cruel teacher but I did learn a lot. — Rose Rose: Thanks for thinking of your fellow teens. Your message is loud and clear.

Mainly For Seniors

By John T. Watts

To move or not to move

Dear John: My husband is going to retire at the end of this year and already we are discussing the problem of whether to move or not to move to one of those retirement communities in a better climate.

It certainly is nothing to brag about here. We have suffered the cold winters and hot summers for 40 years.

On the other hand, we have a few relatives and many friends in this area. And aside from the climate it is a nice place to live and we own our home.

We are only confused by the advice and opinions of others. — Jessie H.

Dear Jessie: One of my cardinal rules is, when in doubt, don't. But I don't mean to give you a short answer. What I am saying is that maybe you should look before you leap (to use an old cliché).

You can probably suffer through one more winter, or, better still, try out one of those retirement communities to which the "snowbirds" flock, without burning your bridges behind you.

This piece seems to be full of clichés, but I guess you get the drift.

At any rate, it's sound advice to wait and see how things would work out. This is a big step, one with which everyone is not happy.

You didn't say anything about your economic situation, but that also must be taken into consideration.

Dear John: Please tell Millie W. to join the club.

I am 80 and had the same things. (Millie wrote that she was suffering from a burning, swollen tongue and burning, peeling lips.)

This is my own home remedy. Dissolve four or five aspirin in a tall glass of hot water. Rinse your mouth until you use all the water.

I believe in about an hour she will notice the swelling going down. Please let me know if it helps because this is a terrible feeling. — Vera R.

Dear Vera: We'll let you know if Millie will tell us. We'll put it in the column because a number of readers have come up with the

Q. Enclosed is a picture of a porcelain figurine and the mark that is on the bottom.

Can you tell me when it was made, where and by whom? I would also like to know the value.

A. This mark was first used by Kursurstrliche Porzellan Manufaktur in Hochst, Germany, during the 18th century. One hundred years later, copies were made in Damm, Germany, using the same molds and marked in the same way.

If this is an original, the value would be $880 to $900. If it is a later copy, it would be $200 to $300.

I suggest that you take this to a museum so an expert actually can examine it.

Q. This mark is on my set of china that I inherited from my grandmother. Can you tell me when it was made?

A. Your china was made between 1903 and 1925 by the brother of Charles Haviland who made china marked "Haviland & Co." In 1925 this mark was changed slightly. "Theodore Haviland," which appeared in script in this mark, was changed to printed letters.

Q. In answering questions about bronze figurines, you have mentioned the "lost wax process." Please explain.

A. The "lost wax process" is as follows: A two-piece plaster mold is made of the original sculpture. Melted wax is poured into the two-piece mold. The wax figurine is removed from the mold and the mold marks are cleaned up and the details refined.

The wax figurine is encased in a one-piece plaster mold. The mold is heated until the wax melts and drains out. Molten bronze is poured in the one-piece mold. When the bronze has cooled the plaster is broken away leaving a seamless bronze figurine.

BOOK REVIEW: "Hummel Art II:" by John F. Hotchkiss; Wallace-Homestead Book Co., 1501 42nd St.; West Des Moines, IA 50265; $24.95, plus $2 postage, or at your local bookstore.

This is the most complete book available on Hummel figurines. All Hummels ever made are listed, illustrated and priced. The information on the six trademarks used on Hummels is a valuable guide to dating and evaluating these delightful little figurines.

JUNIOR EDITION

Aunt Tilly's Corner

It is hard to believe we are now in the middle of August. Where has the summer gone? Soon it will be September. It will be autumn and the leaves will begin to fall.

Even now the stores are selling "back to school" items. There are notebooks, pens and pencils, erasers and rulers, all on display. There is also a big variety of school clothes for boys and girls. These are also reminders that vacation is almost over, that the serious business of books and study is about to begin again.

Your friend,
Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are Mary Casey and George Mazarakis.

BOYS AND GIRLS:

Here is your chance to win One Dollar ($1.00) - to spend or to save.

Here's all you have to do:

1. Contest is open to children 4 to 12 years of age.
2. Entries must be received by Friday, August 24, 1984
3. Paint, watercolors and crayons must be used on the above.
4. Decision of the judges will be final.

Mail your entry (just clip out cartoon) to this newspaper at:
105 Hillside Avenue
Williston Park, N.Y. 11596

Points On Pets

Some dogs aren't swimmers

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q. Can all dogs swim?

We have a 3-year-old male greyhound that apparently cannot swim. He is not interested in water. If we put him into deep water, our dog simply lets himself sink without any struggling.

Is there any hope that he will ever learn to swim?

A. Although most dogs apparently enjoy swimming, a small minority either cannot swim or do not enjoy water. These dogs usually behave as you have described - allowing themselves to sink without any struggling.

Swimming is an excellent exercise for dogs that enjoy it. Learning to swim comes naturally for most dogs, they just splash around in a stream or pond, venture into deep water and naturally swim.

Dogs that naturally retrieve will usually go into water to fetch objects thrown by their masters.

Young dogs should not be forced into deep water too rapidly but can usually be taught to swim in a shallow lake, stream or seashore with a gently shelving beach.

If the dog happily retrieves objects, increase the distance you throw objects until he is actually swimming. Additional time, patience and effort are often required to teach non-retriever breeds to swim.

One way to encourage timid dogs to swim is to go in the water yourself and call the dog to you. Another method is to take an experienced dog with you. The novice will usually follow the experienced dog into the water.

Never toss the dog into the water or frighten him in any way. Negative experiences are often remembered for a lifetime!

It should also be remembered that dogs can tire quite quickly while swimming. Contrary to popular belief, all dogs do not swim or enjoy water!

WHY WE SAY

WHICH FLOOR: No western drama would be complete without a stagecoach. The original name came from the old French word "stage" which meant a floor or platform. The old-time coaches used to literally take travelers from one platform to another on the journey.

Putterin' Pete

WHEN LIGHTNING COMES, USE COMMON SENSE. AVOID HIGH PLACES, METAL AND WATER. GET INTO A LARGE BUILDING OR YOUR CAR. SHUT WINDOWS. NEVER STAND UNDER A TALL TREE. RUBBER SOLES WON'T HELP. OUTDOORS, STOOP BUT DON'T LIE DOWN - MAINTAIN MINIMUM GROUND CONTACT. LIGHTNING DOES STRIKE TWICE OR MORE, IN THE SAME PLACE. STAY AWAY FROM IT!
