Residents Invited To Join School Dist. Committees

The following letter is addressed to residents of the Hicksville School District.

I wish to invite each and every one of you to participate in the newly formed Board of Education committees. These committees have specifically been made up to assist the Board of Education in determining policies and legislative decisions in maintaining a high level of quality education and conservative fiscal decisions concerning you, the taxpayers and parents of Hicksville. This is a unique practice where you, the members of the community, can make an impact on matters that concern you and our children. In no other government agency would you have an opportunity such as this.

Many of our citizens generally react to what legislators and government agencies decide on, but this is your opportunity to make an imprint on that decision. Your decisions may very well affect curriculum, use of our buildings and facilities, planning for the future in our Long-Range Planning Committee, participating in our policy-making structures and also becoming knowledgeable in the budget and fiscal matters of the district before they are firmed up for community action in the voting booth.

I urge you to join our Board of Education committees, and I would like to personally welcome each and every one of you.

Many thanks for giving this matter your serious consideration.

Sincerely yours,

William P. Bennett
President
Board of Education

Robbery Ends In Death

The Eighth Squad reports a store robbery at the Plainview Pharmacy at 589 Old Country Road in Plainview, which occurred at 7:55 p.m. on August 20.

Michael McElhone, 33 years, the owner was inside the premises when a male white with black grease paint on his face, wearing a white bandanna around his head and carrying a shotgun entered his store. The man pointed the gun at Mr. McElhone and ordered "Let's go!" as he now pointed at the cash register. There were two unidentified young girls inside the store. Mr. McElhone asked the suspect to let the girls leave the store. The suspect agreed and the girls ran out. Mr. McElhone told the suspect there wasn't any money in the cash register. The suspect demanded that Mr. McElhone give him drugs. Mr. McElhone tried to talk the suspect into changing his mind about robbing him. The suspect ejected a shotgun shell from his weapon onto the floor. Mr. McElhone ran from the store and into the Plainview Manor Mobile Gas Station, nearby. From the gas station, Mr. McElhone observed the suspect enter a small U-Haul pickup truck and travel eastbound on Old Country Road. Upon the arrival of Eighth Precinct officers, a police radio broadcast was made of the suspect and his vehicle. A short time later, Police Officer James Magness of the Nassau Police Highway Patrol Bureau observed the suspect's truck on Woodbury Road in Woodbury. The officer followed the vehicle eastbound on Jericho Turnpike into Suffolk County.

The suspect's vehicle was now being pursued by both Nassau Police and Suffolk Police units. On West 11th Street and 8th Avenue in Huntington Station, the suspect was attempting to move the shotgun while he was operating the truck and the weapon discharged. The suspect was struck in the head and was pronounced dead at the scene. He was identified as Stephen McDonald of Locust Valley.

Nancy Grever Wins First Place

Nancy Grever of Laurel Hollow took home the women's first place trophy in the Long Beach Summer Series Grand Prix. The trophy was awarded after the conclusion of the last of four 5 Kilometer races in the series last Thursday evening, August 23. All four races were held on the Long Beach boardwalk.

Nancy, who runs for the Plainview Old Bethpage Road Runners Club and its "Fast Feet" Women's Racing Team, earned first place honors by winning the 30-39 age group in all four races and by being the first woman finisher overall in two of the four races.

It was a real "family affair" for the Grevers, as Nancy's daughter Pam was the 10th place winner in the Grand Prix. Nancy's husband John didn't place in the overall men's Grand Prix standings, but he did take home the third place trophy in the men's 30-39 age group for the August 23 race.

Other POBRRers winning Grand Prix trophies were Cathy Corsitto of Old Brookville (3rd), Liz Flahavan of Hicksville (5th) and Julie Shapiro of Jericho (6th).

Also winning individual race trophies in the August 23 run were POBRR's Robyn Ornstein and Bert Jablon. Ray Wise took 2nd place overall in the one mile run that preceded the 5K.

Town Awards Monitoring Contract

Oyster Bay Town Supervisor Joseph Colby announced that the Town Board has awarded a construction contract for the installation of a series of groundwater monitoring wells off the site of the Old Bethpage Solid Waste Disposal Complex in Old Bethpage.

Colby said that "the construction of these groundwater monitoring wells is an expansion of the current groundwater monitoring network which the Town initiated in 1980. Since 1980," Colby said, "monitoring wells have been installed on the Town-owned property at the landfill in order to test the groundwater that lies directly below the actual landfill or on the perimeter of sections previously used for disposal."

Under the program which has been designed by the Town's hydrogeological consultants, Geraghty & Miller, in-cooperation with State experts, monitoring wells will be constructed to the south and southeast of the site beyond the boundaries of the landfill. "A sufficient number of wells will be constructed to obtain a picture of a plume of leachate, if any, that might be emanating from the landfill property," according to Colby.

The off-site wells will become part of a permanent monitoring network so that continued monitoring of the quality of groundwater both below and downstream from the disposal site will be assured.

The construction award for the well installation has been made to the low bidder, Hydro Group, Inc., of Smithtown in the amount of $297,320. Initial test borings will be made at three to six locations and based upon test results at those locations, as many as 18 permanent monitoring wells will be installed in clusters. The construction of the wells is anticipated to be completed by late December of this year.

Diet for the heart attack victim

By Shirley
Bright Boody
Registered Dietitian

Dear Shirley: My husband just came home from the hospital after having a quite serious heart attack.

I am so nervous about his diet that I am almost a basket case when I have to fix his food. I am so afraid that he will eat something that might give him another heart attack. Is that possible?

What foods are important to avoid? Can you give me some help with this thing?

His doctor gave me a low cholesterol diet, but I am still confused and worried. Thank you for helping me. — Mrs. G.H.T.

Dear Mrs. G.H.T.: I hope you will try to relax because your husband will be able to recover faster in a happy, positive atmosphere. Your fears and tension will be transmitted to him, and that can be more destructive than almost anything. Be happy and thankful he is home with you, and show him love and confidence in his recovery.

Changes in how foods are prepared are actually more important than specific diet changes. There is no one food that is going to cause another heart attack.

The most important changes you should make are those that involve the hard, saturated fats and high cholesterol foods. Egg yolks, fat on meats, butter, fatty cheeses, whole milk and cream of any kind are the foods to beware of in recipes and food preparation.

Remove all fat from meats, skins from poultry, use soft polyunsaturated margarines instead of butter, and safflower or corn oils in salad dressings and cooking.

Avoid fatty, salty foods and stick to fresh vegetables and fruits, lean meats, chicken and turkey, whole grain breads and cereals and skim milk products.

Serve these kinds of foods to your whole family for better health and don't make your husband feel like a dietary cripple by worrying about special foods for him. These simple changes in food preparation are the most important aspects of his diet.

Dear Shirley: I have to be on a gluten-free diet for the rest of my life. I am a celiac, and I can't eat anything gluten. Sometimes I get quite discouraged because I feel like I am the only person in the world with this problem.

I am afraid to eat ordinary things in restaurants because I might get something that has gluten in it. Do you know how I can find foods that are gluten free? Do you have any recipes that I could use?

I would really appreciate any help you could give me. What causes some people to be affected this way? — C.H.H.

Dear C.H.H.: Celiac-sprue problems are genetic, and I know the dietary restrictions are difficult, but you are not alone. There are many people who cannot tolerate gluten.

I suggest that you contact a fine organization called the National Celiac-Sprue Society, 5 Jeffrey Road, Wayland, MA 01778. Their phone number is (617) 358-5150. They will tell you where to get gluten-free products locally and nationally, including brand names of foods and over-the-counter drugs.

There is even a newsletter with helpful hints, recipes and group support information. They will be very helpful to you, and you will feel better knowing that you can share your problems with others who understand.

Dear Shirley: I have a close friend who suffers from asthma. While visiting us recently, she had an attack and scared me half to death because she didn't have any medicine with her. I didn't know what to do, but I remembered my grandmother always gave my grandfather very strong coffee to help his asthma, so that's what I gave her. It seemed to do the trick because she was soon breathing easier.

I thought your readers might like to know this because it might help somebody, but I don't know why it works.

Can you tell me why strong coffee helps asthma, or is it my imagination? — Mrs. F.B.

Dear Mrs. F.B.: No, it's not your imagination; you did the right thing. The caffeine in coffee acts as a bronchodilator, and it is an old-time common remedy. It takes about two cups of strongly brewed coffee to be effective.

While caffeine is not recommended for regular use as a bronchodilator, it is a good substitute when prescribed anti-asthma medications are not available.

Strong tea and caffeine-laced soft drinks also may help.

Backyard Gardener

Houseplant how-to

By Patrick Denton

As you begin staking out prospective indoor sites for houseplants you are bringing indoors, plan also to give these sites a good cleaning first so that any pests lurking in the corners will be eliminated.

And for the same reason, avoid placing vases of cut garden flowers near these locations. Lovely as they are, these arrangements inevitably harbor at least an aphid or two which would very much like to take up residence in your houseplants, there to multiply at a truly unbelievable rate.

In spots away from windows, or at windows with low light exposures, plan to place your more shade-tolerant plants. Most foliage plants fit into this category — ivies, philodendrons, pothos, jade plant, umbrella plant, fatsia, rape ivy and baby's tears among them.

Though these attractive decorator plants will tolerate low light for the winter, they'll say perky looking longer if you can give them a reasonable amount of light, as at a fully exposed large north window. Even moving them in rotation during the winter to a bright spot with indirect light for intervals of a week or two will help keep them in top shape.

Among the foliage plants, ones with variegated leaves will require the most light to retain their distinctive coloring. So to keep the bright coloring on the leaves of your prayer plants and wandering Jews vines, try to give them a fairly bright location.

And though philodendrons are shade-tolerant, the split-leaved kind in poor light will also tend to lose their distinctive leaf shaping. Spider plants too grow best in bright but indirect sunlight.

If you have any cyclamen houseplants indoors, leave them as long as possible to set buds, and bring them indoors to open their flowers. They won't stand frost though, so if cold weather threatens bring the pots in to a bright, cool location.

To help keep cyclamen houseplants cool, moist and humid, I set their pots in larger containers and fill the space between with dampened peat moss. I've found these not difficult to start from seed. This year I seeded miniature florist cyclamen (Persicum) and have several pretty little bushy plants now.

After it flowers, your cyclamen will begin to die down. This is natural. At this time slowly withdraw water, and keep the pot in a cool spot. Repot the tuber in spring, planting it shallowly, and set the pot outside in a cool, shaded spot where it will be kept moist.

When you bring in your other houseplants during the course of September, you'll be bringing in along with them your amaryllis plants. They've been kept watered and fertilized during the summer, and the new flower embryo should have formed within the bulb.

Now it's time to rest the bulb, in its pot, for about two months before you start it up again for another round of bloom. You can either cut off the leaves when you bring the pot indoors, or you can let the leaves die down naturally. I usually let them wither.

I have several potted amaryllis, so I set them in cardboard boxes in a dark cupboard, removing the foliage once it has dried. After that, I'll give the pots a mere smidgeon of water now and then, just enough to keep the roots from drying out.

Given a summer outdoors with lots of fresh air, water and fertilizer, your amaryllis plants will bloom beautifully for you once again after its rest period.

A few people I know have held back from trying their hand at some of these glamorous houseplants because they fear their care is too complicated and demanding. But once you understand their requirements, these plants more than repay your ministrations in the beauty they add to the decor of your home.

Improvising with buttons

By Betty W. Kinser

When you buy a shirt for one of the men in your life, do you ever consider what the buttons look like? Neither do I. But we should.

Recently a button popped off one of our son's shirts and disappeared forever. Nowhere in all my button drawers do I have one like it. So I had to improvise.

First I stole the bottom button from the tail of the shirt and sewed it where the lost one had been. Then I replaced the stolen button with a simple white one. Since the shirt is worn tucked in — for the most part — no one will ever know.

Some shirts come with an extra button or two sewn to the inside of the front facing near the tail. Handy.

There is something peculiar about a shirt on which the yoke facing shrinks more than the yoke piece, causing the yoke to buckle. Because these two pieces are made from the same fabric, I have never understood this.

In any case, there is a way to cure the problem. Remove the topstitching along the front or back edge of the yoke. Press the seam allowance out. Turn under this edge to a smooth fit. Press again. Topstitch in place. This removes the buckling. However, do not do this until the shirt has been washed two or three times so you can be sure it has shrunk all it is going to.

For our second son's wedding I have been asked to wear a "tea length" dress. Do you know what a "tea length" is? I'm not as sure as I used to be.

Hems seem to go up and down and the terms change. What I will look for is a pattern showing a nice dress in a length well below the knees. Then I will adjust the hemline to what I feel is a respectable length, yet proportioned for me. Hems should not be dictated so much by fashion and terms as by how our bodies are put together.

(Do you think my new daughter-in-law will buy that?)

Our Children

Getting through the teen years

By Willard Abraham
Ph.D.

Q. Do you think it's possible to get a kind of "togetherness" going with a teenager? I know it's a hard age to live with, but if we could only communicate once in a while.

Our daughter is 15, and until just a year or two ago she was a joy to have around the house. Now she seems like a different person — moody and argumentative.

I'd be so grateful if you could provide some guidelines for helping us get through all of this.

A. What a "Pandora's box" you've opened — and what a large part of our population you've joined!

All teenagers are obviously not the same, and what will "work" with one may merely create more friction with another.

Among the approaches that may help you survive through these years are the following: patience; trying to avoid topics of obvious conflict; compliments and other kinds of positive reinforcement, but only when they are honest and deserved; providing a parental model of friendliness within the family as well as outside; an effort on your part to control a tendency to be critical of clothing, language and attitudes.

The libraries and bookstores are plentifully supplied with books and other reading materials on this topic.

A comforting thought is the one often quoted: "And this, too, shall pass." It usually does, but it sometimes seems to take so long.

Q. I'm 10 years old, and my parents asked me to write to you for your opinion about my problem.

There is a boy in my class whom I really like very much. He's a very nice person, except for one thing that bothers me. Whenever we are by ourselves at school or on the way home he wants to touch me.

I'm embarrassed about this and don't really like it. Because I don't want to hurt his feelings I can't decide what to do about it.

Can you please give me some ideas?

A. Honesty about feelings is usually the best way to go. Telling him that you like him and enjoy spending time with him, and then adding what you wrote to me ("I'm embarrassed... and don't really like it") is perhaps a good starting point of a conversation with him.

Try this idea out on your parents and see how they feel about it.

Your Social Security

Aliens can draw benefits

Q. I am recently widowed, and I will reach retirement age in approximately 13 years. I have worked in this country for 14 years.

I am not a U.S. citizen although my late husband was a citizen. As a resident legal alien, am I entitled to draw Social Security benefits when I reach retirement age? Also, if I would decide to return to England, am I still entitled? — B.J.S.

A. Citizenship is not a factor in determining your eligibility for Social Security retirement benefits.

Monthly benefits may be paid despite an alien's absence from the United States if certain exceptions are met. Contact your local Social Security office for more information.

Q. Since my husband's death I have received some doctor's bills. Must I pay them before I can file a claim? — C.D.

A. You can claim the medical insurance payment either before or after paying the bill. The Medicare carrier or any Social Security office can provide additional information about how to claim a medical insurance payment after a patient dies.

Q. I plan to retire in June 1985. I will be 63 at that time. I am a widow. My question is, will I be able to draw on my husband's account or will it be on mine?

I know his will be larger as I did not work for many years. — J.C.

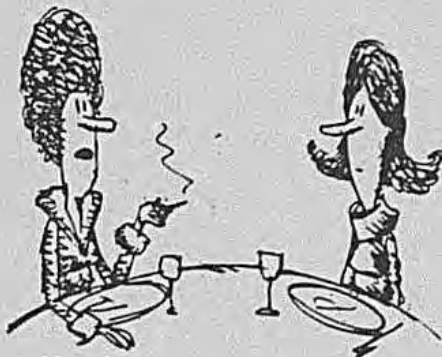

A. If you qualify for checks on your own work and that of your husband's, as well, you will get an amount equal to the larger of the two amounts.

Q. I recently lost my Social Security card. What must I do to have it replaced? — A.T.

A. You must present evidence of your identity. Only an original or certified document can be submitted as evidence. If you are foreign born you also must submit evidence of your current U.S. citizenship or alien status.

Contact your local Social Security office regarding the kinds of evidence you should submit.

News From Road Runners

The Fast Feet Women's Racing Team of the Plainview/Old Bethpage Road Runners Club has been invited to represent Long Island in the Sept. 22 Quinipiac Women's Invitational 5 Kilometer Cross Country Run, to be held on roads and trails adjacent to Quinipiac College in Hamden, Connecticut. A 12 noon starting time has been scheduled.

Fairfield University and Albertus Magnus College of New Haven have also accepted bids to send teams to the Run and host Quinipiac College will be fielding a team as well.

Fast Feet Coach David Canner expressed confidence in the prospects of his team in their first competition away from Long Island. "Our women have been training hard, and are both mentally and physically ready for some top performances this fall," Canner observed. "They're looking forward to a chance to really show what they can do on Sept. 22"

The Fast Feet team has come a long way since it was launched by POBRR less than a year ago. It has won trophies in team competitions in a slew of road races from Valley Stream to Half Hollow Hills, including a first place finish in the February Sunken Meadow InterClub Relay Championships sponsored by the Northport Running Club and a third place finish in the Long Island Summer 5 Kilometer Women's Championship Run on the 4th of July against top women's teams from all over the Northeast.

Individual team members have shown dramatic improvement in their performances. Top team members like Nancy Grever, Margaret Santoli Bertram, Kim Odell, Teresa Gregory, Maura McLaughlin, and Liz Flahavan are establishing themselves on the list of Long Island's top women road racers. Team members Julie Shapiro (40 to 49) and Jeanne Ofenloch (50 to 59) are each among the top two or three Long Island women in their age groups, with Jeanne having taken an easy age group first place trophy in this year's Long Island Marathon. Other Fast Feet members like Doreen Pettus, Amanda Scola, Erica Gassen, Gail Carr, Nancy Ackley and Sue Wolf have also come a long way under the direction of Coach Canner and his assistant coaches Larry Davidson and Howie Greenberg.

"I'm amazed at the progress of our team so far," concluded Canner. "and it looks like our women will continue to get even stronger in the months ahead. The Quinipiac Run will be an excellent test of their abilities."

It's up to us.

New York State is a great state in which to live, work and raise a family. We can be proud of our place in world commerce, industry and in the quality of our lives. But one of our greatest sources of pride is often overlooked, that being our huge forest preserves, wetland and marsh areas, and abundant fish and wildlife.

Now New Yorkers have an opportunity to help protect this unique heritage of wildlife so vital to the quality of life we all enjoy. "Return a Gift to Wildlife" is a program into which you may voluntarily contribute when you complete your state tax form. By checking off Line 18 on the long form or Line 12 on the short form, you can make a contribution to the New York State Conservation Fund. Monies collected have been dedicated by the State Finance Law to the protection, management and extension of wildlife in our great state.

Return a Gift to Wildlife

The Need Has Never Been Greater

Hard economic times dictate hard financial decisions. This year, the federal government has already eliminated endangered species aid, jeopardizing the restoration of a number of birds and animals native to New York. In addition, thousands of acres of grassland, wetland, marshland and forest that are critical to the survival or extension of New York's wildlife are eliminated or disrupted each year. The New York State "Return a Gift to Wildlife" program is an important step towards a lasting solution to these problems and an investment in the future of our wildlife.

An Effective Program

Like the environment which only thrives when the whole ecosystem is addressed, the areas of work to be addressed through tax contributions are broad and comprehensive. The largest single element is earmarked for habitat protection so critical to wildlife perpetuation. A species management program will be strengthened to help maintain all species of fish and wildlife at desirable population levels for human enjoyment. A third element is the public use program which will provide increased opportunities for enjoying fish and wildlife. Lastly, the plan calls for greater awareness development of fish and wildlife values through the creation of better educational resources and information services.

Consider the added dimension wildlife brings to your life. Won't you return a gift through a contribution on Line 18 of the long form or Line 12 of the short form of your State tax return? Your gift is tax deductible on your 1983 tax return.

Taste Extra!

New True Laser-Cut "Flavor Chamber" Filter Shatters (Low Tar = Low Taste) Theory!

Only True Has It. The New Laser-Cut "Flavor Chamber" Filter. A remarkable filtration discovery that delivers a flavor-rich tobacco experience at only 5 mg. tar.

Test True Against Your Higher Tar Brand. One taste and you'll discover low tar doesn't mean low taste anymore. In fact, New True's fuller, richer flavor delivers a taste satisfaction we believe challenges cigarettes containing twice as much tar. Yet True is still only 5 mg. tar!

Longer Lasting Smoking Enjoyment. What smoker wouldn't like a cigarette that lasted longer? That's another New True bonus. True's quality tobacco blend is packed with extra tobacco so you can enjoy each cigarette longer. Noticeably longer.

New Breakthrough True. Why not test it against the only taste that counts? Yours!

It tastes too good to be True.

THE QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Do you give preference to purchasing products made in America? How about with the union label?

Call 931-0027 24 Hrs. a Day

Ground Rules

You are not limited to the above

but may talk on any subject of interest to readers.

•One subject to a caller per week•

Simply dial 931-0027-24 Hours a Day and follow these simple rules:

1. Wait for the beep.
2. Confine your INPUT to one subject.
3. Limit your opinion to five minutes (make notes before calling)
4. Leave your name and telephone, or simply use a pen name. (your message can be anonymous)
5. Publishers reserve the right to edit, modify or omit any and all material.

Most Input Callers Want Reduction In Tobacco Aid

Most callers to Input believe that the subsidy to tobacco growers should be cut in answer to this question: "Do you think the government should continue subsidizing tobacco crops in line with the current statements from the office of the surgeon general?" Here are some of the answers:

NOT LOGICAL

Yes. It is time to cut out subsidies to tobacco growers. The surgeon general says that cigarette smoking is injurious to health so there can be no justification at all to keep subsidies going so that the growers will continue to raise tobacco. It just doesn't seem logical. J.E.

PHASE OUT

I am not in favor of just dumping all of the farmers who grow tobacco and telling them that it is all over. I think we should phase them out and phase them into growing other crops that would help feed the country and the world. Then we could keep the subsidies but make them worthwhile. K.W.

NO QUICK CUT OFF

There is a great deal of talk in Congress about cutting off the tobacco subsidies but that is just plain talk. When the votes are counted the tobacco states always swing it. There cannot therefore be a quick cutoff but a scheduled phasing out of the subsidy. This would then just let the farmers growing it have an independent market. If it means that the price of cigarettes goes up so be it. L.R.

JUST TALK

Most people just talk big about this idea of cutting off the subsidy for tobacco. The fact is that the government is not being taken for a ride on the tobacco subsidy because the cigarette smoker pays in taxes more than the government pays back to the farmer in the form of a subsidy. If the people against the subsidy think that it will economically benefit the government by doing away with the subsidy then they are wrong. If cigarettes are not sold much anymore then there will be less tax revenue coming in. Then there will be less money for the government even after the subsidy is paid. The main thing I believe is that if something is sold legally then let it alone. J.T.

ALWAYS TAXES

The government subsidizing the tobacco farmer by paying for crops not grown is another case of the government talking out of both sides of its mouth. Cigarettes are important to the economy of the south and they provide tax revenue to the states and the Federal government. People do not mind taxing things even if the surgeon general says they may kill you. L.W.

OTHER USE

Tobacco farmers and the entire industry in the south would suffer badly if the subsidy is just cut off. The best thing that the government can do is to try to phase out the tobacco farms that are no longer needed and try to convert them to some other use. L.E.

TIME WILL SOLVE IT

As a reformed smoker, perhaps I am more sensitive to the issue than I might have been before I quit. Nevertheless, in the light of the conclusive and mounting evidence definitely tying cancer and heart problems to the smoking habit, it seems clear that there will be an increasing tendency for enlightened people not to take up the habit and for habitual users to give it up. So, obviously the demand will shrink and tobacco growers will be faced with a constantly decreasing market. On that basis, time alone should solve the problem. But, perhaps the most compelling argument in support of a discontinuance of tobacco subsidies is that it just doesn't make sense indefinitely to prop up an industry whose product has been labeled as dangerous to your health by the government which also provides the financial supports to perpetuate the danger. In fairness to an industry of long standing and the people it employs, I would recommend that legislation be enacted to phase out the subsidies over a period of five years terminable at that time without recourse. P.G.S.

You do not have enough endorsements in your paper for Iannone's in Hicksville. This restaurant is superb in its Italian food. I have gone there for many years and I can tell you that it always meets top quality standards. Last evening we had a wonderful veal parmigiana dinner complete with a cheese cake dessert and coffee.

I will tell you truthfully that the food served in Iannone's is as good as I have ever had even in my own mother's home. She was a real Italian cook who started in the morning and worked all day to give us a fine dinner. Tell more people about Iannone's and you will be doing them a favor. R.T.

ORIGINALITY

I am a newcomer to TR's in Williston Park. In fact, last week we went there simply on impulse. I was not terribly impressed when I first went into this little restaurant. It was decorated in a very odd style. A piece of furniture here or there but as I stayed a little while I began to see how nice this could be.

The people are friendly and the real thing is that the food is really good and interesting. They make their salads different from other places with added embellishments and the entrees were just a little bit better than any other place with variations that make it worthwhile to go out to eat. There are too many run of the mill restaurants. TR's gives you a wonderful tasty meal but it also has originality. S.P.

READER RATINGS

If you have questions about etiquette or dining out you may call them into WE 1-0027 and we will find the answer.

Q. Recently when four of us were dining out, two married couples, one of the husbands left the table for a few minutes. The remaining husband, left with his wife and the wife of the other, lit the cigarette first of his friend's wife, then of his own. His wife felt that as her escort he should have lit her cigarette first. Which is correct?
R.T.
A. As one woman was left alone, the husband and wife remaining are, in effect, her host and hostess for the moment. Therefore, it was correct for the remaining husband to light the guest's cigarette first, then his wife's.

Q. Recently I was a guest at a club luncheon in a restaurant. Accidentally, I overturned my tomato juice. What was the right thing to do? The waiter didn't see the accident immediately.
A. A waiter seeing such an accident would immediately change the cloth, or if that was impossible at a long table, would spread a clean napkin over the spilled food. As the waiter did not do this because he was busy elsewhere, at a large luncheon you could have spread a napkin over the spot yourself, without undue discussion of the incident. Everyone occasionally has things like this happen.

Q. What do you do with the wrapper on a lump of sugar when you are dining out in a restaurant? Do you put it on the tablecloth, in the saucer of your cup, or in the ash tray?
A.M.
A. This is one of those things for which there is no real rule. You just use common sense. I would say put it on the tablecloth, for if you put it in the ash tray it may start a fire, and if you put it in your saucer it may cause the cup to tip over when you put it back in the saucer.

ONE OF THE BEST

If most of your readers are like we are, that is they enjoy a trip into the past and still want great food, they will enjoy Koening's in Floral Park. This restaurant has been there for about a half a century and from the outside you would never guess what great food and service is inside.

Koenig's has the greatest German food we have ever tasted but in addition to that it has a complete menu of all other types of meat and fish so that in a party of six we were able to keep everyone enthusiastic on everything from prime ribs to sauerbraten.

Koenig's does a big business both in catering and in the restaurant but unlike many places where they do a good business you still get good service. We have to rate Koening's as one of the best. L.T.

Fine Restaurant
 Last Saturday we had the pleasure of dining at San Remo, a very fine restaurant on Old Country Rd. in Westbury.

The cuisine which is Northern Italian, is certainly up to the standards of the very fine restaurants on Glen Cove Road, but there is less hassle here. We were very pleased to find that our reservations were honored on time, the staff treated us very graciously, and the ambience was very sophisticated.

The food was presented beautifully, each plate was a work of art. We started with salads, and both the house salad and three color salad were prepared with unusual dressings. For our second course, we shared an angel hair pasta prepared with a light tomato sauce, onions and prosciutto. It was subtly seasoned.

Our party of four each ordered a different entree. The portions were generous, and the grey sole, chicken, and veal dishes each received a superb review.

The hostess at San Remo is very gracious and was very concerned about making us comfortable. She encouraged us to take home anything that we couldn't finish. The service was impeccable, and nobody gave us the feeling that we were being rushed.

The desserts were luscious, but we only had enough room left for sampling one with four forks, but we did appreciate the fine brewed coffee. They even brew decaffeinated coffee.

I strongly recommend San Remo to all your readers, but suggest that they make a reservation, since I saw a party turned away because the restaurant was filled. T.R.W

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY

We had a delightful Japanese luncheon at The New Asahi Tokyo Japanese Restaurant in Glen Cove, and felt we had made an important discovery.

Our luncheon consisted of a warm, rich miso soup, salad, shrimp Tempura, which was coated with the lightest coating, fresh vegetables also batter coated, rice and a pot of team.

This was a first experience with Japanese food and my companion and I enjoyed it so much we are looking forward to a repeat performance real soon. M.D.

ALWAYS GOOD

Lauraine Murphy's is a restaurant that we have gone to form many years and it never lets us down.

Last Saturday we had a short wait for a table but found that it was once again worth it. The fine, friendly service was still there. The popover was warm when served and the food, a prime ribs entree and an entree of scallops, was deliciously cooked and was fresh. The atmosphere in Lauraine Murphy's is enhanced by the strolling singers who serenade tables on various nights. Your readers should like this one as we do. Thank you for giving us the chance to be a "critic". J.T.

Cooking Corner

Meals kids can prepare

By Toni Griffin

They claimed they were cooking. During the hot summer afternoon, the two sixth-grade "best buddies" huddled at the kitchen counter, with a tape of Michael Jackson's newest hit playing in the family room.

They planned their meal carefully, methodically making a list of ingredients needed. With the lights off and the curtains drawn to hold the final hints of last night's coolness, the school buddies peered into the illuminated chill of the refrigerator and removed elements of their lunch creation.

"Lettuce."
"Check."
"Mayonnaise."
"Check."

"Milk."
"Right."

"Bread. Where does your family keep the bread?"

"Oh, it's in the freezer. We take out just what we need, and that way my sister won't eat half a loaf in one sitting when her boyfriend doesn't call."

The bread, thawed in seconds, was soon slathered with mayonnaise and topped with layers of cool, crisp lettuce leaves. The boys arranged the mayonnaise sandwiches, cut into triangled quarters, on three paper plates. They poured the milk into three glasses.

"Mom!" called the brunet. "We cooked lunch! Want to join us?"

Go for it, kids! Preparing food is one of the most creative things you can learn to do, and it is an art that will last a lifetime.

Sure, the image of kid-prepared meals is anything but fancy. And that is probably accurate, considering the limited "dishes" most kids will list when asked what foods they like to prepare. Root beer floats. Macaroni and cheese. Hot dogs. Here are a few recipes that can make cooking fun, no matter what your age.

Sometimes cooking in a different place makes the activity more fun for cooks of all ages. If you're going camping or just cooking on the backyard grill, here's a super-easy recipe for biscuits that relies on the heat of the coals to bake the little bread rounds.

SKILLET BISCUITS

1/4 cup margarine or butter
Onion powder
Garlic powder
Paprika
2 cups biscuit baking mix
1/2 cup water

In 9- or 10-inch skillet, melt margarine or butter over campfire grill. Sprinkle pan with onion powder, garlic powder and paprika. Mix baking mix and water until soft dough forms. Turn onto surface lightly dusted with baking mix. Gently roll in baking mix to coat; shape into ball. Knead 10 times. Roll dough 1/2-inch thick. Cut with 2-inch cutter or drinking glass dipped in baking mix. Arrange in skillet, turning biscuits to coat both sides with margarine mixture in pan. Cover skillet with heavy-duty aluminum foil. Grill about 4 inches from hot coals 10 minutes (checking under foil to be sure biscuits are not burning). Cover and grill until done, about 5 minutes longer. Invert biscuits on serving plate.

Makes 10-12 biscuits.

"Better Homes and Gardens Step-by-Step Kids' Cook Book" (Meredith Corp., $5.95) gives kids the how-to skills to find their way around the kitchen while preparing snacks and meals. Each recipe is accompanied by three or more photos of children's hands preparing food. The following lasagna recipe from the book answers the question, "But what if I don't have the time to cook the pasta — will the lasagna still be OK?"

Try the recipe, or make your own variation — and see for yourself.

NO-COOK NOODLES LASAGNA

1 lb. ground beef
1 (15 1/2 oz.) jar spaghetti sauce
2 eggs
1 1/2 cups cream-style cottage cheese
1/4 cup Parmesan cheese, grated
1 1/2 cups (6 ozs.) mozzarella cheese, shredded
1 tsp. dried oregano
9 lasagna noodles
1/4 cup hot water

Preheat oven to 350 F. Over medium heat, cook ground beef in skillet until no pink color is left. Remove pan from burner, turn off burner. Push ground beef to one side of pan and drain fat. Stir spaghetti sauce into skillet with beef, mixing well.

Break eggs into bowl. Beat lightly with fork until well mixed. Add cottage cheese, Parmesan cheese, oregano and 1 cup of the shredded mozzarella. Add to eggs and mix well.

Place three uncooked lasagna noodles in 12x7x2-inch baking dish. Measure 1 1/2 cups of meat mixture and spread over noodles. Use spoon to spread about half egg-cheese mixture over meat mixture. Top with three more uncooked noodles. Measure another 1 1/2 cups of meat mixture. Spread over noodles. Spread remaining egg-cheese mixture over meat. Top with three more uncooked noodles and remaining meat mixture.

Measure hot water. Pour into baking dish, into all four edges of dish. Cover baking dish with foil, pressing tight to sides of baking dish. Bake 1 1/4 hours. Remove from oven and take off foil. Sprinkle with remaining 1/2 cup shredded cheese and let stand 10 minutes before serving.

Makes 6-8 servings.

Another book with easy, practical recipes for kids is "SNACKS — Speedy, Nutritious and Cheap Kids' Snacks," by Jan Brink and Melinda Ramm

(New American Library, $6.95, paper). The book presents more than 250 recipes for quick lunchbox meals and treats, with no sugar or salt. This refreshing dessert is from that collection.

PINEAPPLE SHERBET

The secret of this surprisingly easy and undeniably delicious goody is to always keep a can (20-ounce size is good) of unsweetened pineapple chunks in the freezer. When the urge for something creamy, cool and rich strikes, you can literally whip up this recipe.

Blend slightly thawed pineapple chunks in blender or food processor until smooth, thick and creamy, about 2 minutes. Serve immediately.

FROM OUR KITCHEN

OLIVIA & PAUL BENSEN

CLAMS OR OYSTERS CASINO

1 small onion, diced
1 small green pepper, diced
Juice of 1/2 lemon (about 1 tbsp.)
1/4 tsp. hot red pepper powder
1 doz. raw clams or oysters on the half shell (use large or half of shell)
1 small tomato diced
2 strips bacon, cut in 1/4- to 1/2-inch pieces
1/4 cup fresh, finely grated Parmesan cheese

Mix onion, green pepper, lemon juice and hot red pepper powder in small bowl. Place heaping teaspoon of this mixture on each clam or oyster — enough to cover clam or oyster. On top of mixture place 3 to 4 pieces of tomato, 3 to 4 pieces of bacon and sprinkling of grated Parmesan.

Place clams or oysters on cooking sheet or in broiling pan and broil few inches from heat source for 4 to 5 minutes, or until bacon is done and mixture is bubbling.

Serves 4 for appetizers

OYSTERS ROCKEFELLER

24 oysters on the half shell
1 cup butter
1/2 cup parsley, finely chopped
1/4 cup celery, finely chopped
1/4 cup scallions or shallots, finely chopped
1/2 small clove garlic, finely minced
2 cups chopped watercress
1/2 cup chopped fennel (optional)
1/2 cup fine, soft bread crumbs
1/4 cup anisette or Pernod (optional)
Salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste
2 to 4 tbsps. dry white wine
1/2 cup buttered bread crumbs

Steam clams until open. Remove meat from shells (discard tough "neck" if you're using steamers) and reserve shells. Chop clams finely. Sauté mushrooms in butter for 1 minute. Mix clams, mushrooms, bread crumbs, shallots (or scallions), chives and parsley. Add sherry and enough dry white wine to moisten. Fill reserved shells with mixture, sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs and bake in moderate oven (350 F) until golden brown.

Serves 6 as appetizers (see comments in text).

Note: In the following instructions, we have followed the most nearly authentic preparation procedure, using a bed of rock salt for the oysters. This is optional, and also may be used with the other two recipes. The anisette or Pernod is traditional in New Orleans, but many recipes omit this ingredient. The following recipe allows six Oysters Rockefeller per person, following tradition, but this may be too many if the accompanying dinner is a substantial one.

Preheat oven to 450 F. Fill four tin pie plates with rock salt and arrange six oysters on each. In skillet, heat butter. Add parsley, celery, shallots (or scallions) and garlic, and cook 3 minutes. Add watercress and fennel (optional), and cook until watercress wilts (about 1 minute).

Pour mixture into electric blender and add remaining ingredients. Puree thoroughly (about 1 minute).

Place 1 tablespoon of sauce on each oyster and spread to edge of shell. Bake oysters until sauce just begins to bubble — usually about 4 minutes.

STUFFED CLAMS A LA NORMANDE

18 large clams, scrubbed
3 tbsps. fresh mushrooms, finely chopped
1 1/2 tbsps. butter
2 tbsps. bread crumbs
2 tbsps. shallots or scallions, finely chopped
1 1/2 tbsps. minced chives
1 tsp. minced parsley
1 tsp. sherry

A. Cradles like this were made during the third quarter of the 19th century and would be classified as Country Sheraton. In good condition it should sell in the $265 to $325 range.

Q Several years ago I purchased a Royal Doulton "Falstaff" (picture enclosed) for $95. Recently I saw one in an antique show priced at $800.
Did I really get that good a bargain or has the value increased that much in a few years?

A. I doubt it. "Falstaff" HN-2054
is still in production and not worth any more than the list price. An earlier version, HN-638, was discontinued in 1938 and sells for at least $700.
If you check the number on your
"Falstaff" you'll probably find it numbered HN-2054. The value of all Royal Doulton figurines is based on the HN numbers, not the subject.

Q This mark is on the bottom of an 11-inch vase decorated with a tavern scene. I would like to know

A. Your vase was made in the 1920s and should be worth from $100 to $125.

The three companies were privileged by the reigning monarch to use the term "Royal" — Bayreuth in 1794; Doulton in 1901; Bonn in 1755. In the case of Royal Rudolstadt, it was simply a decision made by the importer to add the word "Royal."

In no case does it make the items more or less valuable.

Q. The enclosed marks are on the bottom of a small vase decorated with maple leaves. I would like to know what these marks mean and the value of the vase.

A. This vase was produced by Rookwood Pottery in Cincinnati.
The initials "C.S." is the signature of Caoline Steinle, the decorator.

In 1886 this mark was introduced; in 1886 a flame mark was added. In 1901 the Roman numeral
I was placed underneath and each year the Roman numeral was increased.

Your vase was made in 1901.

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Use water-repellent preservative on deck

Q. We have a deck attached to our house that is made of treated pine. The sun has dried the top of the deck. We are considering using a bleaching oil that we have used on cedar. Will this be compatible and prevent rotting?

A. Is creosote the best to use on wood beams that are support for a dock in a lake? The water level is being lowered and I would like to coat the beams to prevent rot. — W.B.V.

A. A water-repellent preservative is most frequently recommended for a natural finish and to preserve the wood. It penetrates and continues for some time to spread into the wood. It makes the surface repellent to water and also adds mildew and decay resistance to the wood. This is available under several brand names.

Boiled or raw linseed oil may be used, although this does not give the lasting protection of a water repellent and is more susceptible to mildew.

Creosote is a good protection for wood subjected to water or where the appearance is not of concern.

Q. Interior walls of our 16-year-old house have been painted twice with latex flat paint. I would now like to paint them with enamel or semigloss oil-base paint.

A. I know that latex-painted walls should be covered first with something before the oil-base paint will adhere but don't know what it is that I should use. Can you help?

A. And what is the best applicator to use with oil-base paint? — S.W.W.

A. Putting oil-base paint over latex is not recommended. Oil-base paints also are rapidly being phased out because of ecological reasons. Latex paints come in a satin finish as well as a flat finish.

A roller is the best way to apply this paint in large areas, such as walls. You will need a brush for small areas and trim. Nylon-bristle brushes must be used for latex paints, while regular, hair-bristle brushes are used to apply oil-base paints.

If you still wish to use an oil-base paint if available, consult your local paint dealer on the advisability of first applying some kind of primer over the latex surface.

Q. I had a slab of concrete poured in front of my garage in three sections. Due to a poor grade of cement, the center section is pitted badly. This is the area that seldom has cars standing on it.

A. What can I do to stop this pitting or, better still, to repair the fault?

A. Some of the surface has eroded to the depth of 1 inch. It is a reinforced concrete slab. — C.M.I.

A. A thin surface of new concrete can be put over the old thick surface if a bonding material is applied to the old finish or, in some cases, if a binder is added to the new mixture.

In repairing concrete, the cracks or gaps — in your case, the pits — should be cleared of all loose chips or debris and soaked with water before applying the patching material.

For large jobs, buy concrete by the cubic yard and have it delivered to the site, or make your own from portland cement, water and sand.

For small jobs, I suggest you use one of the pre-mixes that requires only the addition of water.

Get a concrete mix that includes the coarse aggregate when the patch is large and may have to bear heavy weight. Get a sand mix for smaller patches and cracks on ordinary surfaces.

To protect the concrete after the repairs, mix equal parts of mineral spirits and boiled linseed oil and apply with a paint roller. It is best to apply two coats.

TWEEN 12 & 20

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

Dr. Wallace: My mother and father have blue eyes but my eyes are brown. My friend told me that two blue-eyed parents cannot give birth to a brown-eyed child so, therefore, I must be adopted or my father really isn't my father biologically.

Is this true? She sounds so convincing that I believe her. — Constance Constance: It's obvious your friend is a bit of a rascal and that she knows little about genetics.

It is possible for two blue-eyed parents to give birth to a brown-eyed child and it is not a rare happening.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 18 and do not go steady. I enjoy dating a lot of different guys.

One of the guys I date is Ken. I enjoy his company but I could never get "serious" with him.

My mother really likes Ken and she wants me to go steady with him. When I date another guy, my mother makes a fool of herself by telling him, "If Ken finds out you're dating Karen, he is going to beat you up."

I'm always embarrassed and the guys think my mother has "emotional" problems. Help! — Karen Karen: Both you and I know that Mom is wrong when she talks to your dates.

Don't give her the opportunity. Keep your dates as far away from Mom as possible — until you are convinced she will display better manners.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 12 years old and have a very good friend named Alice. I also have a good friend named Paula.

Paula and Alice had a big fight and they both despise each other. Last night Paula told me that if I continued to talk to Alice that she would stop being my friend.

I really like both girls and I want to keep their friendship. Please tell me what to do. — Connie Connie: Continue seeing both girls. If Paula decides she doesn't want your friendship — that's her loss.

Dr. Wallace: I have a problem that might sound minor to you but it means a good deal to me.

I have my ears pierced but would like to have them pierced again. That would give me two holes in each ear. Even though I am 16, my mother objects because she thinks it would make me look cheap. I feel that since they are my ears, having them pierced twice is my choice. I would be appreciative of your comments. My mother said she would take your answer into consideration. — Suzy Suzy: As long as you live at home, abide by your mother's wishes.

Once you are on your own, do your thing — if you still feel the way you do now.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 14-year-old girl and for the last year I have been living with my aunt. She is a super-lady and has gone out of her way to make me feel like I'm a part of the family. Not only that, she spends a lot of money on me for food and clothes and nobody says her back.

My problem is that I don't know how to tell her that I appreciate all the things she is doing for me. Somehow the words "thank you" just don't seem good enough. — Patty Patty: Put your arm around your dear aunt and say, "I love you." Make it a regular habit.

Dr. Wallace: I have a most unusual problem and I need your help. I am 18 and my girlfriend is 17 and we have a 6-month-old son.

Both my girlfriend and my son are living together in a foster home. My problem is that my girlfriend's caseworker told her she was going to have our son placed for adoption.

Dr. Wallace: I love my girlfriend and my son and I would go crazy if he were adopted. I have a job and my girlfriend and I plan to get married on her 18th birthday if the judge gives his permission. Please answer my letter. — Bob

Bob: You need legal advice, and fast. Go to any lawyer in Goshen and explain your situation and also your financial means. If you can't afford the legal fees, the attorney can put you in touch with free legal counsel.

I did talk to my attorney and he feels your son cannot be removed from his mother unless there are unusual circumstances. Don't allow this to guide you — contact that Goshen attorney!

Mainly For Seniors

By John T. Watts

Dear John: I love my family. I was a widow until a couple of years ago when I remarried. One of my sons and his family were living with me in the old family home.

They agreed to stay there and pay rent as I went to live with my new husband in his condo. The rent was to be nominal, really, just enough to keep the old place up, pay the taxes, etc. They did give me $20 or so once in a while.

Then my second son, who was working in the Midwest, lost his job and he and his wife and two boys came back home. They were broke and moved in with the first son.

What could I do? I said they could live there and nobody pay any rent until they got on their feet. That's been a couple of months. It makes me sick every time I go by the house. No one is doing anything. There's two couples, four small children, dogs and cats.

My husband says to get rid of the place, divide the money among the three children if I want to (there is a married girl also out of state). He says it is making a nervous wreck of me.

I just don't know what to do. — B.D.

Dear B.D.: You better listen to your husband, that is, if you are sure he doesn't have any designs on the property. It sounds to me like those sons are living in the past, when they grew up in that old home and didn't have to pay rent.

They need a shocker to bring them back to reality. And what about the daughter? Her interests are certainly being neglected with the two sons hogging the home.

Dear John: In regard to Mellie W.'s complaint of a burning swollen tongue and peeling lips, I would suggest M.W. see a dermatologist right away.

Years ago I acquired a black fuzzy tongue. Neither my family nor surgeon nor dentist could help me at all. However, my surgeon did recommend a dermatologist and he cured my tongue by a series of shots in the hip (weekly).

When I left him he said, "Watch it, it can recur." I've never had any problems and that's 16 years ago. — Elizabeth B.

Dear John: This is a message for Mellie W., the lady who wrote about the burning mouth and tongue.

Since I had this problem off and on for several years, I finally decided to keep close track of what I had eaten before it got really bad.

One time I drank a lot of fresh orange juice (which I love) and had it terribly for a long time, then the last time I had taken large amounts of vitamin C and again had a bad case.

The way I got rid of it was starting on vitamin B-2. Take it daily or take B-50 complex and stay away from foods that bring it on or make it worse. — A.R.

Dear John: Just what is the age that one becomes a senior citizen? Some organizations state 55 and over, others don't specify.

Would the name golden age imply 50 and up? And what about senior citizen discounts — what age group does that apply to? — Puzzled.

Dear Puzzled: I guess you can take your pick. Maybe it depends on how you feel. And as for discounts, that would be up to the various organizations offering them.

Dear John: Would appreciate your sending me a leaflet on the Certo and grape juice formula. I have a dog that has arthritis and I am going to try it on him. If it works I'll let you know.

Enclosed is a self-addressed, stamped envelope and a small check to help offset the cost. — John B.

Dear John B.: No comment.

Q. I am 68 and in excellent health. I eat well, exercise regularly and try to avoid harmful food.

However, I just read that peanut butter has been linked with cancer. Although I eat a lot of peanut butter, I have lost several family members to cancer and would be willing to give up peanut butter if necessary.

Have you ever heard of this connection? — H.R.

A. There is no evidence whatsoever that peanut butter is "linked" to cancer, in man or in animals.

You have probably heard of the contamination of peanuts and other protein foods kept under humid conditions by a mold, Aspergillus flavus, that elaborates an active cancer-producing chemical, Aflatoxin. Peanut products are rigorously checked for such contamination.

Don't give up peanut butter, if you can afford it! — Dr. Michael Shimkin, professor of community medicine, at the University of California, San Diego School of Medicine.

Q. I have been diagnosed as having hypoglycemia and my doctor has me on a diet of six small meals a day.

After each meal, I find I get very cold, especially my hands and feet. I also occasionally have dizzy spells which end if I drink a glass of orange juice. I feel weak after each spell.

Can you explain these symptoms? — D.A.

A. The symptoms you describe could represent hypoglycemia occurring after meals. This is called reactive or alimentary hypoglycemia. It is due to a sudden decrease in the blood sugar level after you eat. This decrease is set off by a sudden surge of sugar into the blood from the digestive tract just after eating, which stimulates excessive insulin secretion by the pancreas. The insulin causes blood sugar to fall rapidly. If it falls fast enough and low enough, you may have symptoms of hypoglycemia.

Symptoms of hypoglycemia include weakness, shakiness, sweating, and rapid heart beat. One may feel cold and clammy.

The symptoms are relieved in a few minutes by orange juice, candy or other foods containing sugar. There are usually no after-effects once the sugar level is restored to normal.

Your doctor was correct in advising six small meals a day. This helps to avoid the wide swings in blood sugar that may be causing your symptoms.

In addition to the size and frequency of meals, the kinds of food eaten are important in preventing reactive hypoglycemia. You should avoid foods containing refined or simple sugars and emphasize foods rich in protein and fiber or "roughage." These include cheese, nuts, meat, vegetables (raw and cooked) and whole-grain foods. Eating foods like these helps to smooth out the "peaks and valleys" in your blood sugar level.

It must be remembered that your symptoms may be due to causes other than hypoglycemia. If they continue to occur, you should see your physician again. — Dr. Richard Gross, assistant clinical professor at the University of California, San Diego School of Medicine.

Q. My daughter must have velopharyngeal flap surgery, to correct a speech problem, which doctors describe as nasality and dysphonia.

How effective is this surgery, and what does it involve? T.P.

A. No one must have surgery. The decision to be operated on is made by the patient or his or her parents.

Speech defects like nasality and dysphonia are generally treated by a speech therapist. If a significant anatomical defect exists the therapist may recommend surgery. In this case a highly experienced surgeon should be found, even if this means traveling to a university or children's hospital center.

Surgery to correct these kinds of problems are effective for most serious defects. All surgery incurs the risks of dying, infection or failure to correct the problem. The problem can even be made worse. Cleft palate patients with severe hypernasality usually benefit from velopharyngeal flap surgery. Speech therapy following surgery is necessary to learn new speech patterns.

If it had a child with severe hypernasality from nasopharyngeal incompetence, and if my speech therapist and pediatrician recommended surgery, I would find a surgeon experienced in this operation. Pending his concurrence, I would have it done. — Dr. Terry Davidson, assistant professor of surgery at the University of California, San Diego School of Medicine.

Aunt Tilly's Corner

Recently a young couple I know and their two little sons took a trip to an unusual place: Iceland. They returned with a few interesting impressions of the country:

Everyone in Iceland is blond and blue eyed. Anyone with different coloring is a tourist.

The weather (at least when my friends were there) is extremely misty.

People in the stores are not always friendly. They are not unfriendly either. It's just that they don't go in for "small talk". They seem to stick to business.

One of the strange foods Icelandic folks like is something made of dried fish called hard fiskur. People carry it around with them and chew it, in the way we chew gum.

There are no coin operated laundromats to be found.

All of these comments are about small things, but I suppose these are what we have our impressions on when we are visiting a strange place: little details instead of the overall picture.

Your friend,

Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are Justin Copertino and Jennifer Brohman. The two "J's" (Justin and Jennifer) will be hearing from me soon.

How old for breeding?

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q. We recently purchased a female dachshund from a pet store.

We wish to raise and sell registered puppies but we are confused about when to breed her. How old should she be prior to her first breeding? On which day of her cycle should she be bred?

We are really looking forward to selling dachshund puppies.

A. The age at which dogs have their first heat cycles is variable. Heat cycles in many dogs begin occurring soon after the age of 6 months. However, it is not unusual for some bitches to be 12 months or older before they have their first heat cycles.

Once a dog has been in heat, she usually comes into heat every five to seven months. However, some female dogs come into heat only once every nine to 12 months.

Most authorities recommend breeding bitches for the first time at the age of 14 to 16 months or at the time of their second heat period. The time to breed for the first time should depend more upon the development of the particular dog than solely upon the chronological age.

Your veterinarian can help you decide the most optimum time for first breeding your dog. The entire heat cycle of the dog usually lasts from 18 to 21 days.

The first half of this period is called preheat or proestrus. The first signs are a swollen vulva, changes in appetite, restlessness and breaking of house training rules. Bleeding from the vulva is seen during this time.

Male dogs are attracted to the bitch during this period. However, the bitch usually is not interested in breeding at this period.

The second half of heat is called estrus. Estrus begins around the ninth day of the heat and continues for the following seven to 10 days. During this period the vulvar discharge decreases and eventually stops altogether. Estrus is the period of receptivity and most bitches will allow males to breed during this time. Ovulation (release of the eggs from the ovaries) occurs early during the estrus period. Therefore it is recommended that the bitch be bred in the first
