State Senator John Dummo (R-Garden City) is congratulated by Governor Mario Cuomo and other state officials at a bill signing ceremony marking the enactment of the nation's first acid rain control law. Senator Dummo is the author and chief sponsor of the new law which will require major reductions in air pollutants in New York to curb the problem of acid rain.

Trailer Site Request Considered By Board

The Town Board heard a request of Reynolds Aluminum Co. 100 Andrews Rd., Hicksville for permission to store 200 trailers on its property. The request, although presented this week, could have been presented 11 years ago because that is how long the company has been using the trailers as storage for its storm windows and doors according to residents of the area.

The Remington Co. said if it is not given a special use permit to store its products in the trailers it may have to leave the area. Neighbors have complained to the Town that the noise and fumes from the trucks are becoming unbearable. Town Building inspectors have visited the site recently and issued summonses for the violations spurring the company to apply for the special use permit. The Town Board did not announce its decision in the case but Supervisor Joseph Colby said that it might be difficult to give approval at the Andrews Road location and suggested that the Town might help the company find an alternate site.

Postponement For Ital. Students

Hicksville will be the host community for 15 Italian students and two chaperones, but difficulties in arranging visas and travel plans have forced the postponement from the original arrival date of September 17. The expected arrival date is now projected to be January 2, 1985.

The local American Field Service chapter in Hicksville is still seeking host families for the youngsters and their chaperones. Residents interested in having an Italian student as a temporary member of the family during their three week stay are asked to call Dr. Robert Couillard at 933-6591 or Alayne Shoenfeld at 933-6589 at the Hicksville Public Schools.

This short term exchange will be a marvelous opportunity for the entire community. The arrangements also provide for the chance for 15 Hicksville students to go to Rome in the spring, continuing the relationship established with their Italian counterparts.

If you are interested in being a host family, or if you have questions about the program plans, please call Dr. Couillard or Ms. Shoenfeld during regular business hours.

AHRC Wants Walkers, Joggers

Myra Giansante, a local resident who is chairing Hicksville's participation in the Fifth Annual AHRC Walk-Or-Jog-Athon, has put out a call for walkers and joggers of all ages.

The rain or shine event, which benefits the Nassau Association for the help of Retarded Children, is set for Sunday, October 14, at four different locations: The Long Beach Boardwalk, Eisenhower Park, Cedar Creek Park in Sea-ford and Christopher Morley Park in Roslyn. Prizes will be awarded to top producers, and participants who bring in at least fifty dollars in sponsorships will receive their choice of an AHRC tee shirt or sun visor cap.

This year's Walk-O-Jog-Athon, which has a balloon motif, helps to support the AHRC programs which everyday provide service to about 1200 mentally retarded children and adults. Sponsor sheets are available from many local schools and libraries or can be obtained by calling 731-8596.

Enrollment Figures Released By Hicksville

September enrollment figures released this week by school officials show a total of 5,465 students attending the ten public schools in Hicksville S.D.

In the elementary schools, Lee Avenue lists the highest enrollment of 499 with Woodland Avenue the lowest, 230 students attending. All schools and figures are listed as follows:

School	No. Students
Burns Avenue	313
Dutch Lane	259
East Street	350
Fork Lane	269
Lee Avenue	499
Old Country Road	315
Willet Avenue	238
Woodland Avenue	230
Junior H.S.	1394
Senior H.S.	1598
Total	5465

According to school officials, all schools in the district opened on Wednesday, September 5 with little or no difficulty. Dr. Catherine Fenton, Superintendent of Schools, remarked that the first day at the senior high was "too easy" since everything ran so smoothly.

There were many disgruntled parents of Junior High School students who might have disagreed with Dr. Fenton, however. Prepared for a half-day orientation session, students went to school to find a full day of classes had been scheduled. Many hurried phone calls to parents brought rescue missions to the building with lunches and funds for food in the cafeteria. The orientation plan had been used last year and was quite successful. Apparently even staff members in the building had not been informed of the last minute change.

Arrest Man At Sears

A 19 year old Hempstead man is under arrest in the Eighth Precinct and charged with Forgery 2nd degree, Criminal Possession of Stolen Property, Grand Larceny 3rd degree, and Unlawful Possession of Marijuana (Violation).

Sylmar Rookwood, 19, 132 McDonald Street, Hempstead, made three purchases at the Sears in Hicksville that totaled almost $400. Store Security became suspicious of the subject and notified police. P.O. Paul Valaro of the Eighth Precinct responded and arrested the subject at 7:30 p.m. for possession of what was found to be a stolen credit card. While the subject was being searched, a small quantity of marijuana was found in his possession, hence the additional charge.

Above is the new logo of the Nassau Farmer's Market. The new logo, which replaces the old-fashioned lettering under a "Big Top" Tent, gives "a greater sense of permanence", says Phillip Sanders, president of Spiegel Associates, owners of the market. "We're an official Long Island landmark, a place where families have been coming for 30 years."

Salvatore R. Mosca adjusts the crown of Miss New York United Teenager Laura Louise Pirola of Woodbury. Miss Pirola, 18, will be competing for the national title in December. Contestants are judged on scholastic achievement and community service as well as poise. In addition, each contestant will be required to create a costume symbolic of her state.

Exploring L.I. At Hicks Library

The Hicksville Public Library will present a program, "Exploring Long Island", on Thursday, September 20 at 8 p.m. in the Community Room of the library.

Pat Santora will present a Slide/Talk using breathtaking slides by John Olson PSA. Her program will cover arboretums, passive recreation parks, nature preserves and wildlife refuges, historic houses, castles, beaches, restorations, museums, annual festivals and fairs. This program should be of interest to anyone who likes to travel or cares about local history. There is no admission charged and everyone is invited.

Adult Ed. Still Has Openings

Hicksville residents who received a delayed or incomplete Continuing Education brochure for the fall semester due to difficulties with the printer of the booklet should note that although classes have already begun, there are many classes still open and those interested may call the Continuing Education Office to register with the instructor at the beginning of the class period.

An important, and very popular part of the program has been the cultural trip program in which more than 850 people participated last year. More than 530 residents have already signed up for this year's programs, but there are seats available on the Thanksgiving weekend trips to Florida and Vermont, the February trip to Hawaii, and the Easter week trip to London and Italy. Those interested in the Thanksgiving in Vermont excursion should call the Continuing Education Office between 6 and 9 p.m. at 933-6671 as soon as possible. Those interested in Florida, Hawaii, London or Italy should contact Trails West Travel at 482-6868 immediately to reserve a place.

Whaley-Rudowsky Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Rudowsky

Carol Whaley, daughter of Dep. Inspector James K. Whaley, N.Y.P.D., and Mrs. Whaley was recently wed to Sheldon Rudowsky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rudowsky, both of Hicksville, at Dowling College. An open air religious ceremony was performed. Guests were greeted in the main dining hall. Susan Banker, maid of honor and the bride's sisters were in attendance. John Predgardio was best man.

The bride wore a victorian style chameuse gown and full length veil.

The bride and groom will reside in Bayville.

Conservative Club Meets

The Mid Island Conservative Club will meet on Thursday, September 20 at the William M. Gouse, Jr. Post No. 3211, 320 South Broadway, Hicksville. Republican Candidate for the Third Congressional District, Robert Quinn will be our guest speaker. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. All are invited to attend.

AARP Meets

The regular meeting of the A.A.R.P. Chapter 1592, was held on Tuesday, Sept. 4, at the Levittown Hall.

After the meeting, refreshments were served and the Raffle was held. Slides were shown of Ireland, taken by Chapter members, Mr. and Mrs. Freeman.

The meeting adjourned at 3 p.m.

Named Employee Of The Month

Jo (Miriam) Steel, R.N., of Hicksville has been named Employee of the Month for September at Nassau Hospital in Mineola. She was nominated by her colleagues, who say, "Jo's concern, compassion, and patience go beyond the call of duty."

Mrs. Steel's bedside care of critical patients is described as outstanding. Her pre and post operative patient teaching is excellent. The nomination concludes with "Great sense of humor - beautiful lady."

Receiving a five year pin for service to Nassau Hospital this month, Mrs. Steel was hired on June 4, 1979.

Property Sales (Tax Trap)

Selling property will require more care than ever under the 1984 Tax Act.

The interest rate must meet new requirements or the IRS will impute (assign) an interest rate. Prior law had a fixed 9% simple interest rate that had to be charged or the IRS would impute interest at a 10% compounded rate. Now the interest rate will fluctuate with government obligations.

Sales of business property where both gains and losses are involved will now be subject to a complicated five-year netting procedure. Congress was concerned that sales of property could be alternated year-by-year to create nothing but losses in one year, and have those losses treated as ordinary loss, and nothing but gains in another year, with those gains treated as capital gains.

Gary Konecky, CPA,
16 Moore St., New Hyde Park
741-0076 Adv.

Using the installment sale method to sell depreciated property may leave you paying more income tax in the year of sale than you actually receive as down payment. In tax law there is "depreciation recapture" when property is sold. Depending on the type of property sold, the seller generally is required to treat some or all of the sales proceeds as ordinary income rather than capital gain. In the past when property was sold on the installment basis, the seller did not have to report as ordinary income more dollars than he actually received during the year. The seller must now recognize all depreciation recapture as ordinary income in the year of sale, regardless of the dollar amount actually received. You may want a larger down payment in order to fund your taxes due in the year of sale. Check with your tax advisor before selling property.

“At the rate I was going, in ten years I’d have about $2000 saved.”

I have a pretty good job. I’ve never been out of work. I’ve received regular promotions. The only thing I’ve never been able to do is save money.

One day I overheard my secretary talking about how much she’d saved buying U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan. I was astounded.

Then I looked at my bankbook. I figured out how much my average yearly savings had been since I’d been working. And I almost cried. At the rate I was going, in ten years I’d have about $2000 saved.

Oh, some years I’d save three or four hundred (nine hundred one year), but it didn’t last long. Something would always come up and I’d take it out and spend it. I always figured one of these days I’d bear down and build up a nest egg.

Since nothing else seemed to work, I decided to give the Payroll Savings Plan a try. I should be able to save as much as my secretary. If it worked for her it should work for me.

It turned out to be very easy. They take a little out of each paycheck toward Bonds, so that’s a portion of your pay you’re not tempted to spend. Not only is it easy but it’s safe. The Bonds are piling up and so is the interest. And, by the way, the interest is guaranteed.

I never thought much about Bonds before but it’s hard to find a better return on such a small, initial outlay.

When I get enough saved I may look into other things. But as for right now, it’s the best, easiest way I know of to save. Actually, it’s the only way that works for me.

I started late, but better late than never.

St. Ignatius Sponsors Circus

As part of its 125th anniversary, St. Ignatius Church, 129 Broadway, Hicksville, will sponsor a special performance by the Royal Lichtenstein 1/4 Ring Circus Sunday, Sept. 23, at 2 p.m. It will be this year's only appearance on Long Island of the "world's smallest circus," which is based in San Jose, Cal., and directed by Jesuit Fr. Nick Weber.

The circus is a fast-moving potpourri of narrated mime fairytales, magic, circus skills and animal acts to provide entertainment for all members of the family.

The mime fables are chosen and invited for the values they espouse; juggling is accompanied by uplifting poetic recitative and a magician's patter may well be tangent to some topical issue.

Everything is presented in one-fourth of a circus ring by clowns whose first considerations is a lighthearted invitation to play.

Tickets are $5 for adults $2.50 for children of all ages.

To Loan Films

School is back in session and organizations are resuming their regular schedule of activities. Hicksville Postmaster Anthony M. Murello wants to let groups know about films on stamp collecting available on a free loan basis from the Postal Service.

"The films are part of our Benjamin Franklin Stamp Club Program but I know many groups are looking for interesting material to show at their meetings," said Mr. Murello. Right now there are six films:

Stamps - A Nation's Calling Cards - Twenty-seven billion stamps are printed each year in the U.S. Stamps are a means by which a nation pays homage to those events and people they wish to honor - great explorers, presidents, personalities, events, inventions, organizations, and even animals.

"Images of America" - A history of Commemorative stamps - the people and events which contributed to the history and heritage of our country. It explains the procedure in the selection of stamp subjects.

"The Game of Covers" - This film traces the growth of interest in collecting first day covers and captures the fun and excitement of several first day ceremonies.

"America the Beautiful" - This colorful film relates recent stamp design to the natural beauty and scenic wonders of America.

"Timbronia" - A lively story about the history of stamp collecting including current activities of the philatelic community and the U.S. Postal Service.

"Stamp Clubs are Fun" - This film follows two new Benjamin Franklin Stamp Club members as they learn about stamps while visiting their local post office.

The films can be obtained by writing Audience Planners, Inc., 5107 Douglas Fir Road, Calabasa, Ca. 91302-1472. Please list the name of the film and the date you request to see it.

Anyone interested in starting a stamp club in their school or group can contact the Hicksville Post Office at 933-2406 for information.

Local Input

I am a senior citizen and my license will expire in December. There are an inadequate number of local offices for the Dept. of Motor Vehicles in Nassau and Suffolk. I will first have to stand in the photo license line then later it will be mailed to me. Other licenses are filled out, mailed and returned. Why can't a driver's license be done the same until more offices are opened. L.C.

Two Rob Bedding Store

The Second Squad is investigating a robbery that occurred at Sleepy's Bedding 265 N. Broadway, Hicksville, at 6:58 p.m. September 5.

Two male blacks, one armed with a handgun, took $45 and a calculator from a salesman and fled the store. The subjects are described as 30-35 years, 6'0", 160 lbs.

Hicksville Shamrocks Win At Cantiague

By A. Bliker

The Hicksville Shamrocks 1974 traveling soccer team, led by three goals from left wing Jared Jacobs, opened the fall season with a 5-1 victory over the Levittown Tigers. The Shamrocks completely controlled the game from start to finish. Levittown scored its goal, with about two minutes to go, on its only shot on goal. Goaltending for the Shamrocks was shared by Eddie Jacobsen and Brian Pine, both of whom had outstanding games in the field as well as at halfback position.

Fullbacks Chris Doyle and Gregg Gruosso, as well as sweeper Brian Harkins, completely controlled the play. They utilized their goalie on numerous back passes, as well as on-the-dime passes up front and booming kicks against the opposition, which led our offense into the offensive area. Joe Flanagan and Jason Kingsley had outstanding games at stopped. Halfbacks Gregg Furst, Brian Pine and Eddie Jacobsen had strong games and interchanged with their wings on numerous moves. Center half Todd Meringoff dominated the field, always moving to the ball. Wings Jared Jacobs, Ted Knoop and Matthew Pordum, as well as strikers Eric Bliker and David Lovato, were unstoppable. Their numerous charges, crosses and shots on goal kept constant pressure on the Tigers. The team showed its true strength as 14 interchangeable parts, with goalies, fullbacks, halfbacks, and wings all alternating positions.

Jared Jacobs scored the first two goals on assists from Brian Pine and David Lovato. Eddie Jacobsen scored the third on an assist by Jacobs. Eric Bliker scored the fourth on an assist by Ted Knoop. Jacobs continued his domination, getting a "hat trick" on an assist by Matthew Pordum, after moving to the striker position.

Congratulations, Shamrocks, for a successful season opener. Kudos, as well, to Coach John Flanagan and his hard working assistants, Patrick Harkins and Peter Knoop.

Fall Storytime Registration

Beginning on Wednesday, September 12, the children's librarians at the Bethpage Public Library will be registering youngsters for Pre-School Storytime and Tiny Tots Time.

Weekly Pre-School Storytime sessions will begin on Thursday, October 4, and Friday, October 5, for children aged 3½ to five years, who are not yet in kindergarten and who have had their third birthday before April 30. The programs will include stories, songs, puppets, films and games, and will be held from 10:30 to 11:15 a.m.

The first session of Tiny Tots Time, a series of four Wednesday morning programs of stories, finger plays, songs and films for the very young (ages 2½ to 3½) will be held on Wednesday, October 3 from 10:30 to 11 a.m. Children should have had their second birthdays before April 30, and a parent must be in attendance at all times. Tiny Tots will be held at various times throughout the school year.

Saturday storytime for youngsters in grades K through three will begin on Saturday, October 13, at 10:30 a.m. This program will include stories, songs, films, games and fun. No registration is required.

Participation in all the Storytime programs is limited to residents of District 21.

For further information, please call 931-3907.

Our Children

The middle child

By Willard Abraham
Ph.D.

The middle child, the boy or girl "caught" between an older and younger brother or sister — do you have any of them? Do you have any concerns about him or her? As a matter of fact, were you yourself in that situation growing up?

As recent letters indicate, some parents are increasingly aware of the needs of these children. Here is a typical one.

Q. Our middle child is very special to us, just as the other two are. However, you wouldn't think so, judging by his personality.

Although he is the biggest, huskiest and best-looking, he has an inferiority complex that you could cut with a knife. His school grades are excellent, he is a fine athlete and people like him a lot.

But still he has that feeling of being "less good" than his older and younger brothers.

It's all a mystery to us, so your comments would be welcome.

A. You're not alone with your concerns. Other parents have recently shared these thoughts with me on this subject.

"Our middle child is aggressive, angry, a fighter, caught between an older sister and younger brother."

"She's withdrawn and reserved; our older and younger ones seem to occupy the center of the stage."

"Free as a bird, maybe because we had so many restraints on our first born and smother the baby with love."

Such, aggressive, withdrawn and free-flying traits may, of course, be partly because of the spot a child occupies in the family, but they may relate to inherited personality items, too.

Another factor concerns parents who aren't always the same, differing in health, income and attitudes toward each other when different children in the family were the same age.

For example, all may have been smooth and easy when the first child was 2, but fell apart by the time the second became that age. The tense atmosphere in the second case cannot help but affect how that youngster acts and matures.

And yet, a child can be influenced to some extent by his or her position in the family. A middle child seldom has the opportunity for the uninterrupted attention that your first child often received, or the babying that your younger one might get. So he or she may have to struggle a little harder for recognition.

Relationships also depend partly on the sex of the second child. If the same as the first, he or she may seem to be an "also-ran," perhaps not quite as eagerly received as one of the other sex might have been.

The older one is sometimes held up as an example, by parents as well as by others. How many times did you hear a teacher say something like this: "So your Mary's little sister? I hope you're as good a student as she was!"

Your younger one may seem to be a threat without even trying. Just being there, displacing the next older child, might be enough to build up resentment on the part of the one who came along earlier.

Parents who are aware of the "nutcracker" possibility of the one caught in the middle sometimes give special attention and show favorites to help compensate for what they feel is a kind of squeezed position in the family.

Or they might ignore the matter, continuing their tendency to cherish the first and last born, leaving the middle one to shift for himself or herself.

Your middle child may have advantages as well as disadvantages. He or she might escape the anxious restraints and high expectations imposed on your first born. There may have been an older brother or sister to "break in" your parental skills and anxieties. And he or she might avoid the overbearing love and maybe even overcautious concern you give the third one, the baby.

A second-born child may sometimes act as though it's necessary to make up for lost time, striking out for both the rights of the elder and privileges of the younger.

One child development expert wrote that "unless he succeeds in pushing himself ahead of his two competitors, he will likely, the rest of his life, hold the conviction that people are unfair to him, that he has no place in the group."

They're all different. They all need encouragement and attention. And parents who fully understand the necessity for fair play recognize that family placement really may not matter in the long run.

There usually seems to be enough love for all of the children.

No cure for patchy hair loss

Q. What is alopecia areata? Is there any special treatment that helps to restore hair? Is there a cure? — O.B.

A. Alopecia areata is a relatively common, but psychologically distressing condition. It results in loss of hair in patchy areas, primarily on the scalp, but it can involve other areas of the body.

The term alopecia derives via Latin from the Greek word for fox (alopek), an animal that commonly suffers a disease which causes hair loss. The term areata refers to the patchy nature of the hair loss.

The condition affects both sexes equally and can occur in all age groups. However, it seems to be more common in children and young adults. In 10 to 20 percent of cases, there is a history of other family members having had the same condition.

Alopecia areata usually causes the hair to fall out in round to oval patches primarily on the scalp. The areas of hair loss can be less than 1 inch in diameter, but in most cases are several inches in size.

In a few cases the loss can involve the entire scalp, and this condition is called alopecia totalis. The most severe form of the condition involves loss of all body hair and is called alopecia universalis.

Research indicates that the growing hairs, called anagen, are arrested in their normal growth cycle. This results in a hair shaft that is more narrow at the base and can be easily broken.

The loss of hair can be very rapid, and in some instances seems to occur overnight. The resulting stubble left on the scalp often has the appearance of a tiny exclamation point, and dermatologists use this finding to help make the diagnosis of alopecia areata.

Occasionally, alopecia areata can be associated with changes in the nails manifested by tiny pits in the nail surface, brittleness and splitting of the nails.

The cause of alopecia areata is not known, but there is increasing information that the body's immune system may play a role. There is evidence that small proteins, called antibodies, are formed by the body and directed against some part of the hair follicle.

Other diseases that show this "autoimmune phenomenon," such as thyroid disease, diabetes, pernicious anemia and vitiligo (white spots on the skin), occasionally can be associated with alopecia areata. In some persons, there is evidence that severe emotional stress may precipitate alopecia areata.

Unfortunately, at the present time there is no specific cure for alopecia areata. Fortunately, the great majority of patients with this condition will regrow their hair without any treatment.

In other cases, when the condition is more persistent, dermatologists usually will inject a small amount of cortisone medication into the areas of hair loss to help stimulate regrowth of the hair.

In severe cases, cortisone taken by mouth has helped some people, but the side effects of this medication must be considered before this therapy is attempted.

There are other methods of therapy being used at the present time that are experimental, and you might consult a dermatologist about these or write to the National Alopecia Areata Foundation at P.O. Box 5027, Mill Valley, CA 94941, for more information. Dr. Robert B. Sigafos, assistant clinical professor of medicine, University of California, San Diego School of Medicine.

Crayon Paintings At Hicks Library

During the month of September the Hicksville Public Library will exhibit paintings by Michael Lehmann (Mikel). Mikel uses Conte crayons to produce the paintings. This technique was developed by Mikel while he was in college.

Mr. Lehmann is a lifetime resident of Hicksville. He is a recent graduate of the School of Visual Arts and holds a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree.

Mikel was commissioned by the New York Yankees to do the commemorative issue of "Yankees Magazine" (August, 1984). This is currently on display at the library. Also in the display is a lithograph, "The Artful Dodgers" which is on permanent display in the Brooklyn Dodgers Hall of Fame in Brooklyn, N.Y.

During his school years in Hicksville, Mikel received the Advertising Art Award, an award for a Bicentennial poster, an art award at Woodland Ave. School and was voted class artist in Hicksville High School.

Mikel has started his own business, Major League Masterpieces.

The start of the Hicksville Rotary Club's Gift of Life Fund Raising project is symbolized above with chairman Augie Cassella, right, receiving a collection canister from club president Harry Peltz. The canister is one of a hundred or more which will be placed in businesses and stores throughout the area. The Gift of Life program is an ongoing project of the Hicksville Rotary Club and is dedicated to saving the lives of needy children the world over through heart surgery and the attendant hospital and medical services toward complete recovery. Weight gain during pregnancy

By Shirley Bright Boody
Registered Dietitian

New knowledge of infant and maternal nutrition in the past few years has brought about some significant and major changes in medical recommendations during this vital time of life.

Gone are some old ideas, and good riddance. One, for example, is the admonition to keep the maternal weight down during pregnancy in the hope of having an easier delivery, or to avoid toxemia. The practice of allowing a pregnant woman to gain only 10 or 15 pounds was prevalent in the '50s (I remember it well, during my own pregnancies), and is still practiced in some areas. Today, however, the more aware physicians are recommending weight gains of 22 to 27 pounds, depending, of course, on the pre-pregnancy weight. Underweight women may need to gain more than this recommended range. Overweight women and even grossly overweight women are advised to gain between 15 and 20 pounds.

Pre-pregnancy weight and maternal weight gain during pregnancy are now known to have very strong correlations to the birth weight of the infant. Inadequate maternal weight gain during pregnancy may even result in some degree of fetal growth retardation, according to the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

They also note that there is apparently no cause-and-effect relationship between excessive weight gain during pregnancy and the development of pre-eclampsia. In addition, they are now saying the salt intake should not be restricted, and the use of diuretics during pregnancy is not advised. Instead, calcium deficiency may be a factor in the development of pre-eclampsia, but all the facts are not in yet.

The nutritional requirements during pregnancy are increased, and an additional 300 calories per day are needed. They should be provided by high-quality nutrition foods — milk and dairy products, bread and cereals, fruits and vegetables, meats, fish and poultry. Women who are breast-feeding need an extra 500 calories per day, using these foods.

The nutrients that are the most difficult to get in sufficient quantities during pregnancy are calcium, iron and zinc. Iron supplements of 30 to 60 milligrams per day are recommended for pregnant and breast-feeding women. Folic acid is a vitamin that is needed in greater amounts during the last half of pregnancy, because the baby needs more of it, and some is lost in urine excretion.

Vegetarian women who exclude all animal products from their diet probably need vitamin B-12 supplements, to prevent megaloblastic anemia. The importance of folic acid and vitamin B-12 during pregnancy shows up in their interaction in the division of cells. Other vitamin, mineral supplementation may be recommended by the individual physician, but it should not be regarded as a substitute for an inadequate diet.

Drugs of all kinds must be avoided during pregnancy because the fetus is sensitive to them within the first three months. During this time, fetal cells, tissues and organs are being developed rapidly. Babies of cigarette-smoking mothers are usually shorter and lighter than those of non-smokers, due to the effect of nicotine and carbon monoxide. Increasing the weight gain during pregnancy may help overcome the growth-retardation effects in infants born to women who smoke.

Consumption of alcohol during pregnancy can produce severe problems known as fetal alcohol syndrome, among others. It is not known how much alcohol, and at what stage of fetal development, involves the biggest risk, but there is no known safe level. It should be avoided completely throughout pregnancy. Similarly, the Food and Drug Administration is advising women to avoid all foods, drugs and beverages that contain caffeine. Coffee, tea, some soft drinks and over-the-counter drugs, as well as prescriptive kinds.

Infant nutrition also has undergone some new recommendations, and it is now felt that babies do not benefit from the early introduction of solid or semisolid foods before 4 to 6 months of age. By the time the child has developed enough and is ready for semisolid foods, he/she will be able to suck voluntarily, and sit up with some support. Breast milk or formula is all that is needed prior to that time, although some physicians also will prescribe vitamin, mineral supplements according to individual needs.

Women who are pregnant or are anticipating pregnancy can do a great deal toward assuring their own health, and the health of their babies, by adopting these new recommendations of current research. If you want super kids, you must have a super diet, and that means good food, not megavitamins.

Your Social Security

Couple may receive separate checks

Q. My wife has never worked. When I applied for Social Security I was told she was entitled as my wife. She filed and since then we have been getting one check made out to both of us.

A. Can this be changed so that we each get a separate check? — R.G.

A. Yes. A separate checks can be issued to each of you. Contact your local Social Security office for information.

Q. With all this talk about Social Security going broke it would seem that Social Security would do something about getting back all the checks paid out incorrectly. Why isn't something being done? — I.C.T.

A. Collection of overpayments has been given a high priority. The Social Security Administration is conducting an aggressive campaign to collect overpayments efficiently and quickly. Most of the overpayments occurred because beneficiaries failed to notify the administration of changes that affected their checks, especially wages that exceeded the annual exempt amount.

Q. I recently remarried. My children and I were getting checks on my deceased husband's account. Will this stop our checks? — M.B.

A. Generally, marriage terminates your entitlement to mothers' benefits. However, the children's benefits are not affected by your remarriage.

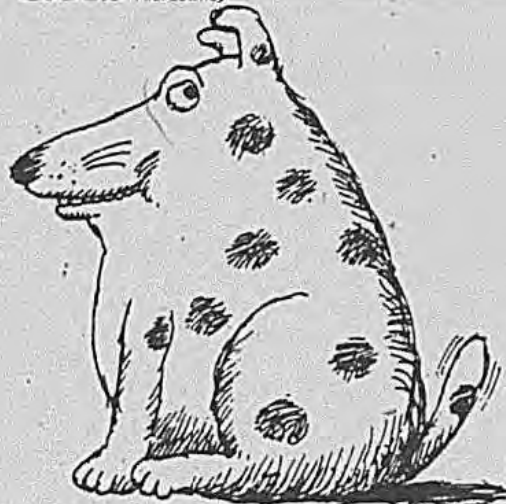

It is important that you notify the Social Security Administration of this marriage and other changes.

Q. My youngest child, who is 16 months old, has a birth deformity. Can a child this young get SSI disability benefits? — N.E.

A. Yes, it is possible for a young child to receive Supplemental Security Income because of disability. One of the basic eligibility requirements is limited income and resources. The parents' income and resources would be considered.

Your local Social Security office can fully explain the requirements.

Backyard Gardener

Build garden around compost

By Patrick Denton

Sometimes an obvious solution can stare us in the face for years before we recognize it. For example, I remember my wife's unfavorable reaction when I first suggested we start a compost pile in the middle of our big vegetable plot.

After a considerable number of years lugging compost hither and yon, I reasoned that placing a compost enclosure in the middle of a garden bed is just about the optimum in home gardening convenience. My wife soon reached the same conclusion.

This past winter I made several wire enclosures in some of the garden beds. Already they are nicely filling up with leaves, retired plants, some grass clippings, and other horticultural flotsam and jetsam.

The cages have an opening so that we can get in and turn the pile, around the outer edges of the wire will be planted runner beans and tall dahlias for the ones in sun, climbing nasturtiums and sweet peas around those located in the light shade.

These strategically located compost heaps are the moveable feasts of the home gardener's world. In the fall, as the beds are cleared, the wire can be removed, the finished or even partly finished compost raked over the bed and roughly dug under, for a boost to the spring garden.

Where they are located in perennial beds, the compost can be allowed to finish before it is placed as a spring mulch around the plants. Perfectionists may well wish to screen it first.

Placing the piles in areas where you want to spread compost saves a whole lot of heavy lugging around, lifting, shoveling and manning the wheelbarrow. As we get older, we tend to think more about these things.

Somebody in Minnesota has designed an entire garden around this central-compost idea. The Ringer Corp., of Eden Prairie, Minn., developed a planting system which is really just a garden planned around a central wire ring 4 feet high and 3 feet across.

An 18-inch opening is left on the wire enclosure, and a path is left unplanted leading to the opening. The enclosure is used as a regular compost pile, and it is kept watered as a matter of course as the circle garden is watered.

Against the wire can be grown vining crops like tomatoes and cucumbers, beans, peas or annual vining flowers. Actually, several of these ring gardens can be set up wherever you might have a bit of space, so that you would have more than one wire ring for supporting different vining plants.

Depending on the size of your circle area, you can grow any number of circular "rows" of vegetables and flowers around that inner circle of climbing plants. Next to the climbers would be placed some of the taller growing specimens like Swiss chard, dill, broccoli, celery and peppers followed by an outer row or crops.

An attractive edging of low growers around the outer rim of the circle garden might be alternate plantings of leaf lettuce, dwarf marigolds and herbs. At the sides of the path to the compost pile might be planted winter squash vines and zucchini.

In gardens where there is no one main sunny patch for the vegetable garden, this system could be used to plant several small areas around the yard, each within its own central compost core and wire support for climbers.

You might consider too, if you have no main vegetable garden, growing some vegetables in amongst the perennial and annual flowers. Asparagus makes a feathery background for flowers, and rhubarb is quite exotic looking, perhaps a plant at either side of a driveway.

Parsley, herbs and leaf lettuce all look attractive with flowers and can be used as edging plants. Curly kale fits well with flowers, even indoors in arrangements, and Swiss chard has decorative value, especially the red-stemmed Burgundy or Ruby chard.

Taste Extra!

New True Laser-Cut
"Flavor Chamber" Filter Shatters
(Low Tar = Low Taste) Theory!

Only True Has It. The New Laser-Cut
"Flavor Chamber" Filter. A remarkable filtration discovery that delivers a flavor-rich tobacco experience at only 5 mg. tar.

Test True Against Your Higher Tar Brand.
One taste and you'll discover low tar doesn't mean low taste anymore. In fact, New True's fuller, richer flavor delivers a taste satisfaction we believe challenges cigarettes containing twice as much tar.

Yet True is still only 5 mg. tar!

Longer Lasting Smoking Enjoyment.
What smoker wouldn't like a cigarette that lasted longer? That's another New True bonus.
True's quality tobacco blend is packed with extra tobacco so you can enjoy each cigarette longer.
Noticeably longer.

New Breakthrough True. Why not test it against the only taste that counts? Yours!

It tastes too good to be True.

Mixed Answers In Input Calls On Liberalism

There was a mixed reaction to the Input question of the week: "Do you think that liberalism has run its course in America". Here are some of the answers:

SURVEYS SHOW ANSWER

Liberalism appears to have run its course because most of the surveys show that conservative and generally less liberal candidates are doing better than the ones who advocate liberal ideas. But this is not because liberalism is dead. Those who study politics know that the pendulum swings back and forth. Presently we are on the conservative side of the swing. J.T.

RAN ITS COURSE

Yes liberalism has run its course and it is good to get rid of it. One only has to think back to the sixties when college presidents were locked in their offices and students were out of classes more than they were in them. The country came to a standstill until things got so bad that the popular sentiment was for a change back. We are now a long way from the sixties. K.T.

NEVER DEAD

No liberalism is never dead. It lives in the hearts and minds of the thinkers. Those who treasure an ideal. But in the present climate liberal thinking will be crushed and will not get far outwardly. All things that are worthwhile are accomplished with liberal ideas. Conservative, reactionary thinking is never a forerunner of progress. K.W.

A FARCE

The present Presidential race is a farce because Mondale knows that he is a true liberal but that it will cost him some votes if he comes out too strong in the direction so he goes around trying to nit pick the policies of the Reagan administration when in truth and sincerity he ought to lay it on the table. Will it be a return to liberalism or a continuation of the conservative policies of Reagan? Apparently the liberal people think they would lose if they put it to the people. Therefore I think liberalism is dead. J.W.

WHICH LIBERALS

The terms liberalism and conservatism are flexible and sometimes interchangeable so therefore it is silly to say that liberalism is dead or alive. Many things the liberal people say they are for are reactionary and were the main stays of conservatives such as a balanced budget. Now the conservatives are saying the budget need not be balanced and the liberals are saying the opposite. So it is hard to know which liberalism and which conservatism we are talking about. W.R.

MUST BE DEAD

Yes the people who used to go around calling themselves liberals seldom do so anymore therefore liberalism must be dead. And it is about time. F.R.

NEED LIBERALS

No liberalism has not run its course. It must continue or the poor and people who need help will starve to death. If the needs of the world were left up to the people who fight liberals there would be hard times ahead for everyone except the very wealthy. Y.L.

ON THE INCREASE!

Not a bit. If anything, liberalism is on the increase and the conservatives will have a difficult time holding the line. At the risk of being considered callous, I just can't accept many of the arguments currently being advanced in an atmosphere of political rhetoric seeking a more liberal approach, as a basic example, to the needs of the poor, the unemployed, the disabled, the minorities and even illegal aliens. One is considered to be completely lacking in understanding of the problem and without a grain of human kindness if he or she is not ready to endorse the kind of blank check it takes to make everyone happy despite the fact that all of us have at least a gut feeling that the woods are full of liars and cheats ready to take advantage of the handouts. What is overlooked is the question of who pays the piper. The public enjoys being told that all these needs must be taken care of but never question the source of the funds. As an example, only about 25 cents of every dollar already being spent on welfare would be needed to totally eliminate poverty whereas it takes the other 75 cents to pay for welfare case workers, supervisors, consultants, overhead, etc. The entire dollar of course, comes from the taxpayer and that's why it's so hard to understand why the public press for spending programs which presumably benefit them whereas in fact the cost is actually coming out of their own pockets and then some. The same is true of every other handout which constituent pressure on Congress brings about for programs which simply couldn't stand up under national scrutiny. It's great to think about the social freedom and equality of the individual and the need to back this philosophy with government financial support, but it just doesn't make sense in a practical world nor is it consistent with mounting pleas for a balanced budget. P.G.S.

DISCOVERY

Never Too Late - A Procrastinator's Story

By Gail R. Parker

I found it somewhat amusing the other day calling my alma mater to request a transcript for my application to college. After all, there had been a procrastinated absence of some twenty years...

As I reflect on the past, it seems incredulous that so much time has elapsed so quickly. I often realize how my life today would have been dramatically improved and favorably altered by just having tackled that additional four years of higher education, whose importance was not emphasized at the time...

I was always an achiever, an industrious student who tackled assignments with enthusiasm, precision and dedication. My downfall was realizing a superior penchant for stenography and typing. I was encouraged to pursue a secretarial "career". Direct entry into the business world, receiving a paycheck besides without any additional education, did not seem totally unattractive at the time...just think, no more tedious hours preparing for tests and a certain amount of financial independence. Good skills would open doors to advancement opportunities...

In all the years of employment, I could count on one hand the competent secretaries I had known who were promoted to responsible non-clerical positions. When you got down to the nitty gritty, it was the college degree that served as a negotiating tool and carried any weight in being considered for any promotions.

Today, even though the secretarial curriculum has been upgraded, due to the advancement in technology over the years, there still has been no professionalism or status elevation delegated for this work. Specialized two year programs are available today in junior colleges that were virtually non-existent 15-20 years ago. Yet, the salaries do not reflect any substantial improvement in line with escalating economic trends.

My post high school employment served as a stop gap until the time I married. My ambition was to raise children. There were no compelling career aspirations, then. Family obligations took priority. As the years passed, there were always other pressing reasons and circumstances occurring why it just wasn't the right opportunity to return to school.

There seemed to be an abundance of time on my side. Children didn't grow up overnight; all the phases of development couldn't go by this quickly! Having mastered the art of procrastination, there was no impetus toward planning anything. I was well insulated from opportunities and options. Too many years elapsed before I realized my erroneous judgment. How could I not have planned to improve myself scholastically and neglect to make a place for myself in some professional capacity? The potential and ability were there, but I should have been more selfish.

It was a major hassle and challenge to re-enter the work force. Here I was back where I had started 20 years earlier! The jobs were just as unrewarding, routine and boring. The salaries were still substandard and could barely sustain a sole support of a family above poverty level.

The future looked unpromising and bleak. A drastic change was necessary in my life. There was great difficulty in getting mobilized towards positive action. I had to grasp procrastination firmly and crush its tenacious hold. A superfluity of time no longer existed along with laments on what could have been...

Yes, I am the Queen of the procrastinators but, perhaps, it's "never too late". My college application is filed for the September 1984 term. It has been submitted three months ahead of the deadline! My daughter will be applying concurrently with me. Future plans include laminating my diploma in a bamboo frame, fitting in prominently amongst the livingroom oriental wall decor, if I am too aged to be employable by graduation.

My primary reward would be in finally seeing a long term dream realized and possessing solid evidence that it is "never too late". Honestly, the hardest part was just getting started....

THE BEST - LaCoquille Restaurant in Manhasset is a place that is unequalled by any other restaurant. It is a small restaurant that is run in a very efficient way so far as service goes. It is in a well appointed setting for dining. But the most important part about any restaurant is the food. We have been there three times and have had such varied dishes as beef, veal, scallops and lobster and each a treat in itself. The food is also attractively served with vegetables cooked to a crisp tenderness. For such great cooking and service in a French restaurant it is well to note that the prices are within an average range for a fine evening out. We recommend it. J.T.

HIGH RATING

We have been to a number of Japanese restaurants on L.I. and several of them are very good including the Benihana. Last week we went to the Umal restaurant on Merrick Road in Merrick. The four of us had sukiyaki and we found it to be a delicious treat along with the special attention of having it cooked right at the table. We were impressed with the decor and found the service to be exceptionally good. It did not have that obtrusive attitude that sometime creeps into service even at the very best restaurants. We think Umal deserves a very high rating. Thanks for printing this.

READER RATINGS

If you have questions about etiquette or dining out you may call them into WE 1-0027 and we will find the answer.

Q. Recently I was a guest at a club luncheon in a restaurant. Accidentally, I overturned my tomato juice. What was the right thing to do? The waiter didn't see the accident immediately. T.L. A. A waiter seeing such an accident would immediately change the cloth, or if that was impossible at a long table, would spread a clean napkin over the spilled food. As the waiter did not do this because he was busy elsewhere, at a large luncheon you could have spread a napkin over the spot yourself, without undue discussion of the incident. Everyone occasionally has things like this happen.

Q. What do you do with the wrapper on a lump of sugar when you are dining out in a restaurant? Do you put it on the tablecloth, in the saucer of your cup, or in the ash tray? A.M. A. This is one of those things for which there is no real rule. You just use common sense. I would say put it on the tablecloth, for if you put it in the ash tray it may start a fire, and if you put it in your saucer it may cause the cup to tip over when you put it back in the saucer.

Q. Recently I called one of the larger catering places to arrange to hold a small luncheon six months from now. I was told that they would never consider anything that near at hand unless there was a cancellation and that I ought to give at least a year's notice. Is this true all over? B.H. A. Probably a year's reservation at the large catering places is about right but that might not be your only option. You mentioned that it was a luncheon and it may not have needed a great deal of space. For something like that you ought to contact a restaurant that you like and see if they have an off day and whether they could accommodate you with a room. Many restaurants do this and you are better off then having gone to a large caterer. They don't need a year's notice either.

Q. Restaurants nowadays do not know a thing about etiquette. Last night at a dinner they served salad. Isn't there still a special salad fork that is supposed to be used in restaurants? M.H. A. Yes. The salad fork has a special cutting edge on one side of it and is usually shorter than a regular fork. Most restaurants are so busy getting cutlery together if they have a big crowd at dinner that they do not set out forks or knives right.

TRIP INTO PAST

We always feel that we have a fine time and wonderful food when we visit George Washington Manor in Roslyn. It is like a trip into the past with modern food and service to visit the Manor.

They have a good menu of American food that is cooked just right. Last week we had a party of four people who visited the G.W. Manor and had entrees which included fish, beef, and veal. Every person in our group said that they thought this restaurant is one of the finest they had ever been to. We decided then that we should spread the word around and decided to make this call. J.H.

LANDMARK MEAL
 If you want to have a good meal go to the Maine Maid. This restaurant that is a landmark is situated in Jericho. It was the former Valentine Hicks House built nearly 200 years ago in 1789 according to the menu.

We went there last week and had a fine meal from the menu including prime ribs of beef and fresh bay scallops. It is a fine place to go and to entertain. The prices are moderate for a restaurant of this calibre. E.R.

ENJOYABLE DINNER
 Pappas Restaurant is a very good one. It is located in Williston Park off of Willis Ave. We went there last week and had an enjoyable dinner.

The scrod is the freshest we have ever tasted and it was well prepared by cooks who truly must be experts.

We liked the Greek salad which is part of the entree price. You can have a tossed salad if you like, but we elected the Greek salad and thought it was great along with the freshly baked potato.

Pappas is a beautiful nautical decorated restaurant that brings in people from all over. We want to recommend it to your readers. G.R.

MEXICAN FOOD

We have not had much Mexican food since coming back after a vacation in California. For that reason we were attracted to the ad for the LaCorrida restaurant in Great Neck. We tried beef ranchero and found it to be a really great dish and shrimp a la corrida was the other selection. It was made from the tastiest full flavored shrimp we have ever eaten. A trip to the LaCorrida was like a quick trip South of the Border to Mexico or Southern California. The decor and the general feeling of the restaurant completes the trip. We recommend it to all of your readers. G.E.

Cooking Corner

Making ice cream churns up delicious fun

By Toni Griffin

Why let homemade ice cream melt into a fond memory of the old days? Sure, it's more work than picking up a half gallon at the grocery store. But making ice cream is a popular treat and is not that much work, whether churned by hand or with a top-of-the-line electric ice cream freezer.

Americans today consume more ice cream than ever. Eating an average of more than 15 quarts of it per year, folks seem to have special relationships with certain ice cream flavors. In spite of the fact that there are more options available for the average ice cream cone than there are for gadgets in a modern kitchen, vanilla remains the top seller among commercial ice creams.

Home-churned ice cream falls into two categories: the custard style to which the ingredients are cooked before being frozen, and the uncooked kind in which the ingredients are simply blended and chilled before being turned into an ice cream freezer.

There are only a few simple steps to follow, according to Raymond Binkley, manager of Pennsylvania State University's milk plant. He recommends using finely shaved ice in the ice cream freezer. "Many people make the mistake of using cubes or coarsely cracked ice in their ice cream machines. Cubes don't take the heat away from the mix fast enough. Experience has taught the smaller the pieces of ice, the better the final ice cream."

And Philip Keeney, professor of food science at the same university and one of the country's leading ice cream experts, has said that the secret to good homemade ice cream is basic: Use lots of cream. "Cream contains butterfat and that's what separates good ice cream from great ice cream."

Want to know what makes a great ice cream? The basic ingredients:

— Cream — This provides the butterfat. It may be from heavy cream, whipping cream or half-and-half. Federal regulations insist that commercial ice creams be at least 10 percent butterfat; gourmet brands usually approach 16 percent. Too much butterfat, however, makes the mixture taste thick and greasy. Some recipes also call for evaporated milk or sweetened condensed milk, which provides sugar for the mix.

— Sugar — In addition to providing the sweetness, sugar slows the freezing process, reducing crystallization as the ice cream becomes firm.

— Eggs — Whether separated, with whites beaten and folded into the creamy mix or added as whole eggs, ice cream is enhanced by additional flavor and a binding element when eggs are in the recipe.

— Flavorings — Almost anything can act as a flavorant. When using extracts, get the pure ones; the imitation flavors will show up in the finished ice cream.

— Air — But not too much! It's true that some air is needed in ice cream or it won't collapse readily in the mouth. But too much air can insulate the slow meltdown from the interior and give the ice cream a "fake whipped cream" consistency. Commercial manufacturers must not exceed the legal limit of 50 percent air. By federal law, a half gallon of ice cream must weigh at least 2 pounds, 4 ounces.

HOMESTYLE VANILLA CUSTARD ICE CREAM

3 cups milk
1 tbsp. vanilla
6 egg yolks
1 cup sugar
1 cup heavy cream
4 egg whites

Scald milk and vanilla in heavy saucepan. Beat yolks and sugar together until light; stir in small amount (approximately ¼ cup) scalded milk. Combine with remaining milk and return to heat. Cook over medium heat just to boiling, remove from heat and let cool. Whip cream to soft peaks and set aside. Beat egg whites to stiff peaks and fold into whipped cream. Blend cream mixture and custard together gently. Freeze in ice cream maker according to directions.

Makes 1¾ quarts.

This recipe requires no ice cream maker and uses sweetened condensed milk as a base.

CHOCOLATE BUTTER PECAN ICE CREAM

½ cup coarsely chopped pecans
1 tbsp. butter
½ cup powdered cocoa
¾ cup water
1 (14 oz.) can sweetened condensed milk
2 tsps. vanilla
2 cups heavy cream

Saute pecans in butter in small saucepan over medium heat for 2 minutes. Cool. Combine cocoa and water in small saucepan; bring to boil stirring constantly. Remove from heat; stir in condensed milk and vanilla. Pour in 8-inch-square pan; freeze until mushy. Whip heavy cream until stiff. Whip chocolate mixture in small chilled bowl; fold in cream. Blend in pecans. Pour into pan and return to freezer; freeze until firm. Stir occasionally during first hour. Mound in serving bowl.

By binding the cream and milk with cornstarch no eggs are needed for this recipe. Can be served with warm sauce.

BANANA-WALNUT ICE CREAM

1 cup sugar
1 tbsp. cornstarch
1 cup light cream (half-and-half)
1 cup milk
3 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup whipping cream
1 tsp. vanilla extract
2 medium bananas, mashed
1 tbsp. lemon juice

¼ cup walnuts, finely chopped

In medium saucepan, combine sugar and cornstarch. Stir in light cream. Cook and stir over low heat until mixture thickens slightly. Simmer 1 minute longer to cook cornstarch. Stir 1 cup hot cornstarch mixture into beaten eggs. Stir egg mixture into remaining cornstarch mixture. Cook and stir 2 minutes until smooth and thickened. Stir in whipping cream, vanilla, mashed bananas, lemon juice and walnuts. Cool to room temperature. Pour into ice cream canister. Freeze according to manufacturer's directions.

Makes 2 quarts.

Banana Rum Sauce: Combine ½ cup brown sugar, 6 tablespoons butter and ½ teaspoon cinnamon in saucepan over medium heat. Cook and stir until smooth. Add ½ cup rum and 2 sliced bananas and cook 2 minutes. Flame if desired. Serve warm.

Makes 1½ cups.

FROM OUR KITCHEN

OLIVIA & PAUL BENSEN

Nothing dull about dill

By Olivia and Paul Bensen

If "dill" appeared in a word association test, most people probably would respond by saying "pickle." Dill's uses in the kitchen, however, go far beyond the pickling of cucumbers.

Anethum graveolens is an aromatic herb native to the Mediterranean region — but now grown in herb gardens around the world. Both the seeds and the leaves are used as seasonings.

DILLY BEANS

4 lbs. string beans
5 cups white vinegar (5 percent acidity)
5 cups water
2 tsps. salt (or to taste)

In each of 10 (approximately) sterilized 1-pint canning jars, put:

¼ tsp. crushed red pepper
½ tsp. whole mustard seed
2 cloves garlic, cut in quarters
½ tsp. dill seeds

Wash and trim beans — use whole if they are small enough to fit in jars. Pack beans fairly tightly in jars. In large saucepan combine vinegar, water and salt. Bring to boil and pour liquid over beans, leaving ½-inch space at top of jar. Place inner (circular) part of lids on jars and place in boiling water bath for 5 minutes. When liquid has cooled, screw on outer rim of jar lids.

Makes approximately 10 pints.

DILL BREAD

1 cup small curd cottage cheese
3 tsps. butter
2 tsps. minced onion

1 egg
1 pkg. (1 oz.) yeast, dissolved in ¼ cup warm water

In medium skillet, melt butter over medium-low heat. Add cottage cheese, onion, sugar, water, dill and salt and simmer, stirring constantly, until all ingredients are heated through and onion has started to turn translucent.

Remove to large bowl and beat in 1 cup of flour until mixture is smooth. Beat in egg, yeast and remaining 2 cups of flour until smooth.

Knead dough well; let rise until doubled in bulk, punch down and knead again. Place dough in 2-quart round casserole, let rise 1 hour and bake 40-45 minutes in 350 F oven.

DILL BUTTER SAUCE FOR SEAFOOD

¼ cup freshly snipped dill leaves
2 tsps. shallots, minced
2 sticks (½ lb.) unsalted butter
1 tbsp. white wine vinegar
1 tbsp. freshly squeezed lemon juice
3 tsps. dry white wine
Freshly ground white pepper to taste

In heavy saucepan, melt butter over medium heat until it just begins to sizzle. Add shallots and cook, stirring, 30 seconds.

Add all remaining ingredients and cook, stirring, another minute. Serve hot over fish or other seafood.

Makes enough sauce for about 6 servings.

Art Deco is all the rage

By James G. McCollam
Member, Antique
Appraisers Association of America

Can you tell me who made them, where, when and their value?

Q. This nude bronze figure holding an ashtray probably isn't an antique, but I have been told that things like this are collectible.
What is your opinion?

A. These were made by the Van
Briggle Pottery in Colorado
Springs, Colo., during the early 20th century. The company was founded by Artus Van Briggle in 1901. After his death in 1904, the company continued under the management of his wife, Anne.
Your little figurines should be worth about $50 to $60.

Q. I have a 20-inch fish platter decorated with swimming fish. On the bottom is the enclosed mark. I would appreciate anything you can tell me about it.

A. Your platter was made by Carl Tilsch in Waldenburg, Germany, during the late 19th century. It should be worth from $125 to $175. Waldenburg is now part of Poland and called Walbrzych.

A. This is the Richelieu model made during the 1880s. It is quite rare and should be worth at least $500 to $600.

Q. I have three small figurines of turquoise ceramics. They are of a dog, an elephant and a donkey.
On the bottom of each is the enclosed mark.

Moisture corrodes aluminum

By Gene Garv

Q. I live in a stucco house which has an aluminum-framed sliding back porch door. The bottom of the aluminum door frame seems to be corroding away. Additionally, the stucco below the door frame is flaking off.

What cause the problems and what can I do to solve them? — K.W.

A. This problem is caused by moisture which makes the aluminum react to the concrete or stucco.

Here is how to clean and treat unpainted or painted aluminum. Mix equal amounts of motor oil and kerosene. Take a piece of fine bronze wool and clean the entire aluminum surface well with this mixture, then wipe dry with a clean cloth.

This should remove oxidation, dirt, grease or oil.

After the surface is clean, apply a thin coat of motor oil and kerosene fluid very sparingly over the entire surface. This mixture is not combustible, and it should protect the metal from future oxidation, which causes the corrosion.

Repeat the treatment every six months. If aluminum is around saltwater, repeat the process every 90 days.

Next repair the stucco, first brushing off all loose material. Use a stucco patching material. When the stucco is repaired, give it a coat of Thompson's Water Seal.

In the future, keep the area as dry as possible.

Q. I recently bought a second-hand cedar chest, four feet long and in good shape. It has two copper bands coming across the lid and down the front.

I used a copper polish and with a toothbrush and the polish, I managed to get the dark finish off those bands. But they still do not look right, and maybe I'll try again.

The cedar finish looks very dull. Is there anything like a polish, oil or wax I could use on it? I do not want to try any polish until I'm sure I know what I'm doing. Any suggestions? — Lorraine M.S., San Diego, Calif.

A. For polishing your copper bands, first mask off the cedar next to the bands. Then apply warm white vinegar and sprinkle with salt. Let set a short time and wash off with soft cloth and warm water. When dry, polish the copper with rottenstone and olive oil or sewing machine oil. A light coating of lacquer will help preserve the copper finish.

For the wood, polish these surfaces with equal parts of lemon oil and turpentine or go over the wood with Liquid Gold, a finish manufactured especially for wood paneling and other wood surfaces.

Q. I would like to know how to refinish the chrome legs on my dinette table which have become quite rusted. I would like to paint them black, either enamel or flat finish.

Would it be advisable to put a coat of aluminum on the metal and then the black paint? Also should the chrome be rubbed down first with steel wool or sandpaper? — Jim K.

A. First remove the rust and dull the gloss of the chrome by rubbing with sandpaper. Then clean the metal with turpentine and steel wool.

To reduce the possibility of further rusting, coat the metal with a rust-inhibitive paint that has a zinc or red-lead base.

When thoroughly dry, apply the flat black paint or enamel, whichever is preferred.

Dear John: What my neighbors do is to fill white plastic bleach bottles with water, cap them and put them on the lawn.

Seems to keep the dogs off, at least they never find any evidence, left! — Lois R.

Dear Lois: Some dogs are smarter than people — or at least more suspicious.

Dear John: After suffering from shingles for two years, I tried acupuncture.

Most of my pain was at night, only being able to lie on my right side.

The doctor said I had waited too long before getting the treatment. I took six treatments (his recommendation as to how many). The treatment did not stop the pain, but it is not as severe as it was before treatment.

I could have tried another series of treatment, but due to the cost ($600) I decided to stop and live with the remaining pain. It is now four years. I still have pain every night, but not as severe as before the treatment. — F.L.

Dear F.L.: Seems to me I would have gone for the second series. There's nothing as terrible as pain at night when you are trying to sleep.

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

Dr. Wallace: My parents have told me that I cannot date until my 16th birthday and I can accept that.

Last night a boy called me and asked me to attend church with him and that his parents would pick me up in their car. I was thrilled to be asked and I wanted to go.

When I told my parents I was going, they said I was not permitted to date and to contact the boy and tell him so.

I told my parents that going to church with a boy did not constitute a date but they disagreed. I know your answer will not help me one way or the other but I'd like to know what you would call a date.

Margaret

Margaret: To me, a date is two people sharing an outing together. If there is no romance involved, one or both hope there will be a little romance soon.

In your case, attending church with this boy would not be considered a date.

But what I say is not really important. Your parents set the rules for you. — Dr. Wallace

Dr. Wallace: I've got hair growing on my chin and my mom won't let me shave it off because she says that it will grow back a lot thicker.

I really don't care how thick it grows back because I need to shave. Some of my friends laugh and call me billy goat.

Please help. — Richard.

Richard: Ask Mom to have a chat with a dermatologist. He will explain that shaving does not increase the thickness or density of hair. If it did we would have a lot fewer bald people on this planet.

Dr. Wallace: Can you please tell me the difference between anorexia and bulimia?

I know they are eating disorders and I think that I'm bulimic but I might be anorexic.

Also, can boys have these problems? — Georgia.

Georgia: I've devoted several columns recently to both anorexia nervosa (extreme weight loss due to self-starvation diets) and bulimia (eating binges followed by self-induced vomiting that could or could not result in weight loss).

Boys can be afflicted with these eating disorders but over 75 percent of all victims are female.

Please go to your local library and read up on eating disorders. Also, see your family doctor for a checkup and some good advice.

Dr. Wallace: I would like to comment on teenage drinking and laws that want to raise the drinking age nationally to 21.

It wouldn't make any difference if the minimum drinking age were raised to 50, teenagers would still drink and drive.

I'm 18 and I haven't touched a drop of alcohol since I was 16. You see, my boyfriend and I went to a party and he had a "few too many." On the way home, he missed a curve and slammed into a tree. He was killed instantly and I was in a hospital for two months.

What difference did it make what the minimum drinking age was? We were 16 and drunk. Some kids at the party were 15 and maybe 14 but they were having their booze.

Dr. Wallace, I learned the hard way. I do not date guys who drink and will never ride in a car with a person who has been drinking, even if it is only one beer.

It would be wonderful if our national drinking age were 21 and everyone abided by the law but that is just wishful thinking. — Jill Jill: A higher minimum drinking age will stop some underage persons from drinking. Sure, there are always those who will ignore the law and drink (it's admitted that any person who wants alcohol will have little trouble getting it).

Just because these law-breakers do their thing, we can't sit back and say, "What the heck — why fight it?" or "It's no use."

Any law, rule or regulation that prohibits a human being from drinking alcohol is good.

Dr. Wallace, I'm not going to drink again. I know sipping the beer was a stupid thing to do. Should I tell my dad that I had some beer at the party and lose his trust or should I just keep quiet and as they say, "Let sleeping dogs lie?" — Mary Ann

Mary Ann: Follow your conscience and tell your father exactly what happened. Tell him you sipped a little beer to be sociable but you now realize that it was not the thing to do. Reassure him that your "drinking days" are over and let him know that you are sorry you lied to him.

Don't volunteer that your girlfriend was also a "sipper" but tell him the truth if Dad should ask you

Mainly For Seniors

By John T. Watts

Credit help for older citizens

Dear John: Although such laws as the Equal Credit Opportunity Act now prohibit credit discrimination against older adults, especially those on Social Security or other forms of public assistance, many senior citizens who would benefit most from credit cards do not apply for them.

The reasons are varied: some older adults grew up with the idea that indebtedness of any sort was a reflection of poor character, and that the only people who asked for credit were the indigent and the desperate.

Others — especially widowed and divorced women — are unaware that they are eligible for credit cards even if they have no credit history "on their own." Still others believe that being on Social Security automatically makes them ineligible.

Many older adults who do receive credit do not know how to effectively manage their account and are not familiar with laws designed to protect them from being overcharged and limit their liability when a credit card is lost or stolen.

Unlike most banks and lending institutions, Timesaver Inc., the nation's largest marketer of Visa and MasterCard credit cards, conducts credit checks only to ensure the veracity of statements made on applications and to confirm that applicants have no previous history of credit fraud.

Lack of credit history of minimum income does not disqualify senior citizens from consideration for major bank credit cards. — Nancy F.

Dear Nancy: I know you are perfectly right in what you say, but this whole question of credit cards for seniors (or almost anybody, for that matter) leaves me with an upset stomach.

If everybody used a card as a mere convenience, buying only what he knows he can afford on his income and paying for it when the bill comes in, there would be little problem.

But at the risk of bringing down on me the wrath of millions of seniors, I must point out that as we grow older our judgment seems to lose some of its sharpness. We are more liable to make quick, unwise

GRANDPARENTS....

HERE IS YOUR CHANCE!

You have been telling everyone you meet that you have the 'World's Greatest Grandchildren'
You've been carrying pictures around with you and finding people to look at them. We have a better answer!

Each week we will run photos of the World's "Most Beautiful Grandchildren" (in the eyes of the grandparents) and for each photo selected, we will send, as a prize, a permanent version of the way it appeared in the newspaper for you to keep.

To enter the contest, simply send a small (preferred) photo to:
Discovery Magazine, 81 East
Barclay St., Hicksville, NY 11801
If you want your photo returned you must print your name and address on the back.

GRANDCHILDREN MOTHERS - FATHERS

You've heard Grandma and Grandpa bragging about their wonderful grandchildren, and it is now time to give credit where it is due. Send in their photos - and nominate them to be the 'World's Greatest Grandparent or Grandparents'

We will, as space allows, print the pictures as part of our magazine feature - and as a reward, we will send you the printed clipping, in permanent form, for you to keep. To enter the contest, simply send a small (preferred) photo to: Discovery
Magazine, 81 East Barclay St.,
Hicksville, NY 11801
A few words about Grandpa and/or Grandma will help the judges. Remember, if you want the photo returned, please write the name and address on the back.

Quality Or Quantity?

When you advertise in a subscription newspaper you get quality readership. You know that EVERY copy of the newspaper has been invited into the home and three to four people will most likely read it.

When you buy quantity the only thing you might be sure of is that it has been hung on door knobs or thrown on lawns all over the neighborhood.

With our newspapers YOU ONLY PAY
FOR COPIES that will be read. It is this quality that produces results. Do not waste money on wasted copies. Advertise here and get results.

Our (not so secret) ingredient Readers = Results is the reason we are preferred over the largest metropolitan newspapers and the many throwaways.

To Prospective Advertisers

All advertisers appearing on these pages have to subscribe to the basic concept of building
"Consumer Confidence" by performing services and supplying products that meet basic standards.

The advertising is only open to businesses that can perform to most quality standards. If your business qualifies please call 931-0012 • 746-0240 or

JUNIOR EDITION

Aunt Tilly's Corner

Although it is almost fall the weather is warm and sunny. It is what is called "Indian Summer".

Last weekend I went to the country. It was pleasant walking outdoors and I enjoyed sailing in a little boat on a nearby lake. Soon the cold weather will arrive, but until then it is nice to enjoy the last remnants of summer!

Your friend,
Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are Nicole Ganro and Kathy Mazarakis.

Flea control a scratchy problem

R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q. Every summer our dog has a lot of problems with fleas.

We have tried the collars made to prevent fleas. They do not seem to be effective on our dog. In fact, our dog seems to be allergic to them.

What can we do to protect our dog from fleas this year?

A. Control of fleas can be very difficult. Both the animal and its environment must be treated.

Many of the shampoos, dips, powders, sprays, etc. will remove fleas from the dog's body, but other fleas will return unless they too are killed in the bedding and other places the dog frequents. Adult fleas can live for weeks to months and are able to survive for long periods without food.

For individual animals, weekly medicated shampoos or dips may be required. Dips are insecticides which are applied to the dog's coat as a liquid and then allowed to dry. If you use a dip, be sure the dip is recommended for dogs and use it exactly according to directions. If a dip is administered following a bath, it is best not to use a flea shampoo. You do not want to mix insecticides.

No one should play with the dog while he is still drying following dipping. If you have small children, you may not want to use dips because of the residual insecticide left in the dog's hair coat.

Weekly baths with flea shampoos are an alternative. However, baths are not as effective in controlling the fleas.

Flea sprays and powders may be used instead of dips or baths.

Because fleas become resistant to insecticides, the most effective ones may change with time. Always follow package directions exactly when using these products.

Although your dog is apparently allergic to flea collars or medalions, many dogs can wear them without problems. They are usually effective in mild cases or as a preventative measure. Animals wearing such devices should be examined periodically for skin reactions near the neck.

In addition to treating the individual dog, environmental control involving discarding or treating bedding, vigorous vacuuming, spraying, fogging, or the use of professional exterminators may be required. The source of the fleas should be removed from the environment. Preventative measures for all dogs and cats within the family should be taken.

Your veterinarian can give you advice regarding which control methods you should use.

Need a food dryer? MAKE ONE FROM AN OLD REFRIGERATOR

In older models, remove icebox which will leave a ventilation hole in back wall. Cover the hole with a screen. Put a portable light inside the bottom of refrigerator to provide heat. You can also put in a small portable fan for air flow. Make wood frames so they fit on original shelf supporters. Stretch cheese cloth over each frame.

TO USE: Cut your fruits and vegetables thin and place on cheese cloth shelves. Close door and turn on the light. The drying takes 2 to 3 days.
