Hearing Set On Zone Change

The Oyster Bay Town Board has scheduled a public hearing for Tuesday, December 18, on a request for a change of zone in Plainview, according to Town Councilman Howard T. Hogan, Jr.

"The applicant, Wulfken Associates, is seeking a change of zone from 'D' residence to 'F' neighborhood business in order to construct a two-story retail-office complex," Hogan stated. "The property is located on the north side of Sunnyside Boulevard 300 feet west of the intersection of Summit Street."

The hearing has been scheduled for 10 a.m. in the hearing room of Town Hall East, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay.

Three Arrested For School Burglary

Three juveniles were arrested November 11, at 11 a.m. at the Boces School, Richard Court, Plainview, and are charged with burglarizing the school the night before.

The youths allegedly took some $900 in computer parts in the original occurrence, and returned to the scene in the morning. They were apprehended by Second Pct. Officers James Kane, and Douglas Worthington.

The three were released in the custody of their parents, and will appear in Family Court at a later date. There was a complete recovery of the items taken in the Burglary.

Nassau Community College Hotel/Restaurant Technology students, left to right, Renee Gannon of Hicksville, Rachel Feldan of Plainview, Patricia Trainor of Hicksville, and Elissa Lewis of Levittown, get a look at the College's new kitchen facilities with Prof. Arthur A. Lebow of Commack. The new restaurant laboratory was opened while they were away taking part in field training in one of the Dan Hotels of Israel. Renee and Pat were at the Dan Lagonna in Eilat, Rachel was in Herzlia and Elissa in Caesarea. The special 3 month overseas course (Marketing 142) which was coordinated by Prof. Lebow, is in its second year at the College. The students were among a dozen who took part in a variety of course related learning activities while in the Israeli hotels, from manning the front desk and reception area to working in the kitchen, dining room and in housekeeping.

Museum Schedules Mt. St. Helens Film

"Mount St. Helens, Lady of Fire" is scheduled to erupt again this coming Sunday, Nov. 25th, at the Hicksville Gregory Museum. The latest in the museum's Sunday natural history films will review the history of the newsworthy Washington State mountain called, until recently, "North America's Fujiyama", for the symmetry and beauty of its snow-covered peak.

The defacement of the peak and the enormous explosion which rent the mountain, sending volcanic ash around the world in air currents, and creating great physical and much human loss in May, 1980, will be recalled in awesome motion pictures. A discussion of the film will follow, led by Museum Curator, Thomas Daut.

Showtime will be 2:30, and the public is invited to be present. The Hicksville Gregory Museum is located at Heitz Place, Hicksville. Please call 822-7505 for further information.

Town To Fix Community Pools

A resolution for the improvement and reconstruction of the swimming pool complex in the Plainview-Old Bethpage Community Park District was approved by the Oyster Bay Town Board according to Oyster Bay Town Councilman John Venditto.

Venditto said, "the swimming pool complex, which has a yearly membership of 378 families and an average of 1500 daily admissions in the summer, has been scheduled for major renovations. The three pools, the pool administration building and the accompanying pool facilities will undergo extensive rehabilitation."

The main pool, kiddie and diving pools will have structural work done as well as tiling, deck work and the replacement of the filtering system. "The pool administration building, which is used year round, will be renovated" and Venditto noted that, "a new machine room is being built to house the upgraded filtering system."

After a public hearing held on November 13, the Board approved a bond authorization for the entire rehabilitation project at a cost not to exceed $1,750,000.

Venditto added that it is anticipated that the reconstruction will be completed in time for the opening of the 1985 summer pool season.

Nassau Community College President Dr. Sean A. Fanelli and Federation of Teachers' Treasurer Professor Aaron Seligman congratulate Guy J. LeVallant of Hicksville, one of the 12 students who were each awarded the teachers union's coveted $600 Joseph F. Carlino, Jr. Entering Freshmen Scholarship. The scholarship is a memorial to the son of the former speaker of the New York State Assembly, Joseph Carlino, Jr. who was a member of the College Math Department and active in union affairs. He and his wife died in a private plane crash in 1977.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The holidays are traditionally a time when members of our community generously open their hearts and their pocketbooks to insure that those less fortunate are remembered during this special time.

But for many elderly, both in and out of long term care facilities, this generosity may sometimes never touch their lives.

Age should be no barrier to the excitement and deeply rooted traditions that surround the magic of Christmas and Hanukkah. An old age is no reason to stop sharing these experiences with others.

On behalf of the board of directors, staff, residents and volunteers at United Presbyterian Home, we wish to extend an open invitation to everyone in our community to "Visit an Old Friend", with a phone call, card or personal visit over the next few weeks.

It is hard to imagine being lonely during this happy season, but for many of our older citizens it is hard to imagine not being lonely. We can change that by remembering to "Visit an Old Friend."

Sincerely,
Alfred S. Heim
President

The following letter is printed by request.
Gov. Mario Cuomo:

The election campaigns are over. As usual, the people were bombarded with political rhetoric delivered by mail, electronic media and door-to-door volunteers.

The candidates, through committees, their political parties friends, and special interest groups raise the funds necessary to pay for whatever delivery system they use to carry their messages to the electorate. It is an accepted and expected occurrence every year and everywhere an election takes place whether it be for the local school board or the presidency of the United States.

This year, in the Town of Oyster Bay, a new method for financing a campaign directed against an incumbent Assemblyman was introduced. Town Supervisor Joe Colby, with the full approval of the Town Board, used public funds to pay for several Town wide mailings, as well as radio commercials in an unprecedented personal and vitriolic attack against Assemblyman Lewis J. Yevoli, who represents the 13th Assembly District.

Joe Colby did not stop there. He became so obsessed with the defeat of Lew Yevoli that he used a weapon, unprecedented in political campaigns and if left unchallenged, will establish a new political tactic against anyone choosing to run against the entrenched office holders. Mr. Colby has employed the Town's taxing power in an attempt to intimidate the voters in the 13th Assembly District to vote against Mr. Yevoli.

Briefly, one week before the election, Mr. Colby announced that he was adding $20 million to the Town's General Fund in order to ship garbage to Pennsylvania. He said he was compelled to do this because Mr. Yevoli has blocked the Assembly Bill that would permit Mr. Colby to build a resource recovery plant in Old Bethpage on a site designated as the No. 1 toxic hazard in New York State. In addition, the bill would permit Mr. Colby to use a hand picked contractor, Blount & Co., who has never build the type of plant proposed because under the legislation the Town would be exempt from putting the contract up for public bid.

That Mr. Colby grossly abused the Town's taxing powers can be demonstrated by considering the following two points:

1. There is no immediate garbage crisis that would require an announcement one week before the election that because of Mr. Yevoli, he is adding $20 million to the General Fund thereby tripling the General Fund tax rate. And, in fact, what if the resource recovery bill had passed the Assembly? The construction of the plant was scheduled to begin in October, 1984 to be completed in 1988. Did Colby have a plan to take care of the garbage in the interim?

2. Let's assume there is a crisis requiring the shipment of garbage to Pennsylvania. Mr. Colby did not have to raise the General Fund by $20 million because, according to my projection, details attached, he built a surplus of $14.2 million in the 1985 General Fund. In addition, he dispersed $4 million of sales tax money the Town will receive in 1985, among other funds in order to build additional surpluses, he has enough surplus built into 1985 to cover his phony plan.

In summary, there are two points which demand the attention of the State Authorities if the people of the Town of Oyster Bay are to be protected from the odious actions of Supervisor Joe Colby and the Town Board.

1. The use of taxpayers monies for the unquestionably partisan political campaign to defeat Assemblyman Lewis J. Yevoli.

2. The use of the Town's taxing powers are a weapon of intimidation directed at the voters in the 13th Assembly District.

I also urge the State Comptroller to institute an immediate audit. There is something wrong with a fiscal policy that continuously produces surpluses that equal or exceeds the tax levy - I have been criticizing the Town since 1971 for building large surpluses in its budgets. State Comptroller Regan, and his predecessor have criticized the Town for the same reason in every audit since 1971. >

Up until 1979, I kept a close watch on the Town budget and Colby was holding the surpluses at 20 to 25 percent of expenditures. When he pulled his $20 million scam, I decided to take a closer look at his budgets beginning with 1980 and was stunned to find the following ratio of surpluses to expenditures and tax levy.

	Percentage of Actual Expenditures	Percentage of Tax Levy
1980	30.1	89.7
1981	29.3	96.7
1982	33.0	112.2
1983	39.1	135.6
Projected
1984	40.7	155.3
1985	43.5	176.0

See attached details of 6 years analysis of the General Fund budgets.

The Town has paid approximately $4 million in consultant and legal fees in connection with the resource recovery plant. As part of the Comptroller's audit, the people of Oyster Bay would like to know where this money was budgeted, and if not budgeted, to what fund or funds was it charged.

The actions of Joe Colby and the Town Board in this past election cannot go unchallenged. The people of Oyster Bay must be assured that the use of the Town's taxing power as a partisan political weapon will not be tolerated. That their tax money will not be used to finance a partisan political campaign.

That Joe Colby and the Town Board stop their practice of unnecessarily taxing the people to finance their inordinate surpluses.

We need your help to expose an arrogant Town Government whose contempt for the people they purport to represent is obvious by their actions.

Those of us who give of our time and expertise cannot do it alone. We would like to know that someone is listening and all our efforts and time are not for nothing.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Mario V. Colleluori

Analysis of the Town of Oyster Bay General Fund Budgets 1/1/80 to 12/31/85

When Supervisor Joe Colby and the Town Board announced their $20 million scam one week before the election as a means to intimidate the voters in the 13th Assembly District into voting against Assemblyman Lewis J. Yevoli, I decided to take a close look at his budget, something I have not done since 1979.

To arrive at the projected General Fund Surplus of $14.2 million built into the 1985 budget I proceeded as follows:

The Town's Annual Reports for the years 1980, 81, 82, and 83 filed with the State Comptroller were examined. For each year the budgeted revenue and expenditures were then listed for the purpose of comparison. When actual revenues are compared to those budgeted, a pattern of understatement is noted that goes to build large surpluses. The actual surplus grew from $6.2 million in 1980 to $10.7 million in 1983 for a three year increase of 72.5 percent. The projected surpluses for 1984 and 1985 was accomplished as follows:

For each category of revenues the three year average ratio of the actual to the understated budget was computed. This average percentage was applied to the budgeted figures for 1984 and 1985 in order to compute the actuals for those years.

Example: The three year total of state aid budgeted was understated an average of 11.9 percent. The actual for state aid for 1984 and 1985 was computed to be 11.9 percent higher than budgeted. This method was used to project all categories of revenues for 1984-85.

Woman's Club Honors 2 Members

Groundbreaking

Trinity Lutheran Church and School, 40 W. Nicholas Street, Hicksville, recently broke ground for a multipurpose addition to its facility.

Mr. Carl Probst, Church Council President for the past year, digs in.

Miss Liz Wicks, long time member and Sunday School teacher, broke ground in 1953 for the original school building and also for the new addition slated to begin construction in the spring.

Valerie Crispell, youth representative, breaks ground. A youth room, multipurpose room, and two classrooms will add to the total youth outreach of the church and school.

The Reverend Dr. John H. Krahn completes the ceremony. He commented, "The new facility will benefit the church and community, by providing space for programs which will help meet the spiritual, mental, physical and emotional needs of people." Members of the community are invited to stop by the church and school to view the plans. Trinity is located north of Old Country Road between Broadway and Jerusalem Avenue in Hicksville. Call 931-2225 for more information.

Mosca noted that all Town offices will be closed on Thanksgiving but all park facilities, except skating rinks, will be open.

Hicksville Vamps continued a busy schedule with a house fire, a false alarm spree and 8 mutual aid assistance calls to local departments in Jericho, Westbury, Plainview and Levittown.

The Haz Mat Team responded to a call for assistance in Westbury when a fire in a graphic arts firm involved storage of nitric acid. Team members neutralized the acid. The alarm took place on September 25 at 3:48 a.m.

On October 1 a fire on the front porch at 112 W. Marie Street caused moderate damage. The alarm came in at 2:12 a.m. and was quickly brought under control by Hicksville firefighters. October 3rd found Hicksville assisting Westbury at a 4 a.m. factory fire on Brooklyn Avenue. On October 7 and early evening spree of malicious false alarms (seven in all) kept vamps busy. It is situations such as these that have caused the phase-out of Fire Alarm Call Box systems.

On October 19 at 3:26 a.m. Hicksville Firefighters assisted Plainview at the Galaxie Catering House on Round Swamp Road. One tower ladder, heavy rescue, floodlight, and an ambulance responded with Asst. Chief Schuckmann to the scene.

Our Children

By Willard Abraham
Ph.D.

Q. I wonder whether other fathers face the same kind of problem I do? My wife and son gang up on me. Perhaps I'd understand it a little better if it were a daughter involved, but having a 10-year-old boy and his mother use demands, ridicule and ignoring is a pretty hard thing to live with.

Part of this pattern existed even before he was born, and there were many times when I'd decided not to tolerate it anymore. Then he came along, and for a while things were less unpleasant.

Now it's worse than ever. He joins her in accusing me of being a tightwad, finding fault with what I wear and say, and sometimes just acting as though I'm not even around.

Your advice would be so welcome.

A. Before your son came on the scene a marriage counselor might have been helpful. Now it seems like the role of a family counselor — with all three of you involved — might be the way to go.

The psychologist or counselor at your son's school or friends who have utilized this kind of professional assistance might be able to direct you toward one who is competent.

Q. My husband's "solution" to the biting problem is to bite back. "That'll cure her," he says. It's all because our 4-year-old daughter gets so angry that she apparently can't think of anything else to do but bite.

I think he's wrong, but I can't think of a substitute solution. Can you help me?

A. The first approach might be to reduce her frustration level. (I'll admit that isn't always easy with 4-year-olds!) If you think about some of the things that upset her, and make a list of them, it might be possible to come with some ideas for avoiding or reducing the number of times they occur.

For example, is it a matter of being hurried in the morning, decisions regarding what clothes to put on or foods she doesn't like? In such instances, a little more time, fewer decisions and diet changes might be appropriate.

I'm not suggesting pampering her, but if there are ways to reduce tension or pressure, they could be tried.

But biting back? Why imitate a 4-year-old in behavior?

Q. When I was a college student I saw some education films about the "terrible 2's," "trusting 3's," "frustrating 4's" and "fascinating 5's." I'm not sure those exact words were in the titles, but they're probably pretty close.

Do you have any idea what the source is?

By the way, I accepted them then, but now realize that such labels aren't always accurate. As the book "Pygmalion in the Classroom" says, if you have realistic expectations, children (and others) may live up to them.

A. I think those films were part of a child development series produced by McGraw Hill Book Co.

Fiftieth Anniversary For Mazzara-Millevolte

Fifty Years ago on November 29, 1934, two well-known families merged with the advent of the marriage of Rose Mazzara of Bethpage and Louis Millevolte of Hicksville.

Rose and Lou were married by Father Hartigan of St. Martin of Tours in the newly built church on Central Avenue. They have lived in Hicksville ever since their marriage and Lou was a teacher and well-known coach until his retirement from Hicksville High School as Athletic Director. Many of the "old-timers" will remember his winning football teams. They are proud parents of three children, Louis, Kathy, and Patricia.

Louis lives in Watertown, Wisconsin with his wife and three sons and a granddaughter.

Their older daughter, Kathy Hanitz also has three sons and lives in Green Bay, Wisconsin.

The younger daughter Patricia Caroleo live in Waldorf, Maryland with her husband, Bob and two daughters and a son.

Family and friends of Rose and Lou are honoring them with a dinner party Saturday, November 24.

Congratulations from all of your friends!

American Legion Auxiliary News

The next regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary of the Charles Wagner Post Unit #421 Hicksville Department of New York will be held on Friday, December 7, at 8:30 p.m. Our County officers will be making their usual visit. County Chairman is Julia Duffy from the Glenwood Landing Unit. Past County Chairmen have also been invited. This will be our Christmas meeting and a grab bag (value of $3) should be brought along by all who wish to participate. Let's make a good showing and make this a nice evening for our guests. During this past month our Child Welfare Chairman, Mae Sheppard, also, Ruth Leger, Marie Gamble, Ethel Habenicht and Gerry Seitz attended a party celebrating Halloween at the Long Island Developmental Center for our adopted cottage #45. There are now 18 girls there. The cottages are being refurbished and our next visit will be on December 15, and will be a Christmas party.

Past President's parley was held at the Malverne Unit on October 30, and eight members from Hicksville were present.

Our volunteers to Northport V.A. Hospital continue under Chairman Lillian Molinari.

Gift Shop at Northport is Wednesday, December 5, and help is needed for this program.

Let us also remember the sick members, Ellen Tietjen and Anna Brengel and try to stop in to see them during this holiday season. I know they would appreciate it.

And Happy Birthday to our Gold Star Mother, Leela Gunther, who was 92 years old on November 15.

Remember our next meeting on Friday, December 7, and try to attend.

Input Callers Agree Tax Reforms Hard To Come By

Most callers to Input believe that the income tax deduction plan should be changed but there was little agreement beyond that point in answer to this question: There is a plan to make a single rate income tax with very few special deductions. Do you think this plan will be approved?

THREE PLANS

In answer to your question, there are three plans now under consideration. But in fact none of them will be approved in a complete form. What is happening is that the taxpaying public is becoming tired of such complicated methods of computing taxes and the whole thing needs a revamping. I don't think, however, that most deductions will be done away with. Nor should they. N.G.

NO NEW PLAN

I don't think that a new plan will be adopted but it is long overdue. There are just too many people who have shelters and ways to pay no tax. The burden then falls on the shoulders of those who have less and more need to keep their income to pay for necessities. Let us hope that Congress makes some drastic changes. L.T.

SHUFFLE FIGURES

I think this is just another plan whereby they can shuffle the figures around and tell us that we will be paying less taxes when in fact we will be paying more because the taxation bases will be changed. They will exclude one deduction or another but then the tax rates will be just as high so that we will end up by paying more although we will be told differently. J.E.

SIMPLIFIED TAX

Yes, I think we will finally get a simplified tax form. The reason is that so many tax shelters are being sold that it has become a way of life for so many people that there are not enough people left to pay the tax to keep the government running. K.T.

TOO COMPLICATED

It is pretty bad when you have to pay people to interpret the tax forms because government people have made them so complicated. The whole think has created a new industry that is living off the taxpayer. Tax rates and forms should be easy enough for the wage earner to understand and there has been no real reason why they have been made so complicated with deductions going only to the people who scheme ways of avoiding taxes. F.R.

GRADUATED TAX

There will never be great justice in income taxes but the graduated tax scale has to be maintained because with low incomes and many dependents spend more of their earnings for the necessities of life. The other people are spending money on luxuries. It has to be fair that money spent on luxury items is the money to be taxed. The graduated income tax with deductions for dependents and medical expenses takes all of that into account. We have to have it that way. D.T.

VESTED INTERESTS

Forget it. There is not going to be a big change in the income tax this year or any year. There are too many vested interests involved and each is lobbying to keep a special deduction. This system evolved because of special interests and it will take a complete change from an income tax to a sales tax to do away with it. But then a new group will come along and lobby for a vested interest in that system. S.E.

SINGLE RATE

We can no longer avoid a confrontation with our critical national debt situation and perhaps an immediate start in that direction is a revision of our income tax system. In my opinion, the most equitable recommendation advanced so far is the single rate plan. The two most seriously considered versions are the Kemp-Kasten FAST proposal and the Bradley-Gephardt "Fair" proposition. Other plans along similar lines have also been introduced. In both the FAST and the "Fair" proposals, exemptions are increased but the plans vary with respect to other deductions such as interest, state and local income taxes; indexing; retirement incomes and several other areas. A major problem in reaching agreement will be the inevitable modifications in social security and Medicare and this problem will not go away. There will also be plenty of flak from special interest lobbies as each time-honored sacred tax exemption is readied for oblivion or drastic change including among other things probable taxation of fringe benefits as income. Nevertheless, the great need for additional revenue, simplification and elimination of privileged loopholes should, and I firmly believe will, prevail. P.G.S.

OTHER ISSUES

QUIET ISSUES

I'm calling about a subject other than the question of the week. My concern is the recent stand taken by the Catholic Church on the poor and various aid being withheld from the economically poor public. Why did they wait till after the election to make this stand public? Their silence prior to the election meant a lot to the outcome of the election. Were they quiet because of the abortion issue & R.W.P.

DISCOVERY

Is There A Way To Contain Medical Costs?

By Jerome J. Niosi, Ph.D.

Most people appreciate that attaining 65 years of age means entering the age of probable infirmities, so they prepare for it. To Medicare, they add various supplemental health insurance packages sold in the medical supermarket. Nevertheless, after years of annual physicals and preventive medicine, it is a shock to many when they become aware of the voracious appetite of spiraling medical costs exhausting their benefits and devouring their savings.

Hospital 'horror' stories fill the periodicals. On Long Island, for example, a 67 year old female was charged for a pregnancy test. In Maryland, a woman being treated for painful bunions was charged $75 for 'traction' -- a small pillow placed under the legs. In Florida, seven hours of emergency care resulted in a bill for $22,526.23.

Medical supplies rival defense department stories of expensive 'coffee pots' and 'electric light bulbs': $110 for a few dollars worth of staples; $1,276 for a $25 'cross-match' blood test; 60 cents for a single Tylenol pill. The distressing list is endless.

Greying America is further chagrined to learn that Medicare distinguishes between 'reasonable' and 'unreasonable' charges when evaluating a reimbursable bill. Once the $75 'deductible' is met, Medicare will pay 80% of the 'reasonable' charge. The excess must be assumed by the patient or his health insurance company. This payment is likewise subject to a 'deductible' after which the company will pay 80%. The unpaid portion must be paid by the patient.

The conclusion is inevitable: doctors are 'unreasonable' since their fees invariably exceed those charges Medicare is willing to pay. As these non-reimbursable expenses increase, a wide variety of insurance programs saturate the media with scare urging everyone to protect himself with additional coverage, for additional premiums, of course.

Indeed, the medical profession has joined the educational institutions in 'feeding at the public trough'. In the postwar years, colleges did exceptionally well, financially, in educating the veterans. The cost of their education quickly equalled the money available. In medicine as in education, why should the individual be concerned. 'He does not pay; the government does'.

But individuals are concerned. Demands are insistent that medical costs be contained. The medical establishment, understandably, remonstrates: Equipment is sophisticated, complex and expensive and the patient is entitled to the best possible care. Moreover, physicians invest enormous sums preparing themselves for a lifetime of service and should be fairly compensated. There is one other important consideration.

Americans are among the most litigious people on earth. Doctors appreciate that should the possibility exist of error in judgment, or that possibly a test may have been omitted, they will be sued for malpractice. Juries have been known to make staggering judgments. Prudence, therefore, dictates the purchase of expensive, protective malpractice insurance, the costs of which are passed on to the patients through higher fees.

Despite the remonstrations, many patients question the propriety of most 'creative' charges developed by innovative hospitals and physicians. For example, one doctor admonishes his patient for calling him at his office. "You're in the hospital, please don't call me, he declared. Yet, the same doctor visits the hospital daily, exchanges pleasantries, makes it look official, and submits a hefty bill for services rendered. One annoyed patient pointedly told his doctor that since 'he was in good hands', he did not need supervisory visits.

Or, in one case, a physician conversed at length with the patient's wife and sent a bill for 'consultation'. The husband rejected the charge in writing. Another, incensed by the size of his bill, simply doubled the 'reasonable' charge paid by Medicare and sent a check with the notation 'paid in full'. He also changed doctors.

Patients have expressed astonishment when they see considerable sums spent on 'disposable, plastic kits' available for a few dollars in a supply shop; or assessing parking fees against visitors. Many have mused over the fact that a TV is part of the most modest motel rooms, but in a hospital room shared with five others, a $350 bed provides a TV with a daily charge of $4.75.

Hospitals do not enhance the image of medical service, when they insist on charging a frail, paralyzed 88 year old woman for telephone service, she cannot possibly use. Nor does it help when patients hear technicians grumbling under their breath over the plethora of tests ordered for so many patients. Many are superfluous. They are puzzled when the gastro-enterologist performs a sigmoidoscopy for $500, while, in the next office, the operating surgeon repeats the same examination for $225.

These 'creative' charges appear to have been developed to generate income and they do, but they also increase the cost of medical care without additional benefit to the patient. Indeed, such 'creativity' may be the underlying reason for the reluctance of the hospital cashier to volunteer an accounting to the patient for the hospital costs incurred.

Since such 'creativity' increases the income with which the institution can expand its facilities, it can be rationalized. Not so, with fraud. One flagrant example came to light as the result of a personal annual physical examination. The medical report suggested the follow-up of a danger signal in the kidney. An IVP, with an injection of iodine and X-ray was scheduled to determine whether an infection existed.

Having transferred, in the interim, from Pennsylvania to Florida, I made arrangements for the examination to be given in a spanning, new hospital in Hialeah. The receptionist was extremely friendly and cooperative. They would be 'happy' to take care of the paperwork. After taking a personal health history, and checking three medical cards, she informed me that the examination would cost $135; the urologist's fee would be $65. The examination took less than two hours. The results were negative and a blizzard of paper from agencies in New York, Delaware and Florida took care of most of the expenses as expected.

The shocker came in the spring when the insurance company sent its annual report of benefits received: $1,463.90. According to the report, I had been given special services by the hospital staff from December 17 - 31. This was remarkable. I had never seen the doctors listed, nor had I been anywhere near the hospital. At that time, I was in New York enjoying the Christmas Holidays. This was not 'creativity'; it was fraud.

Only somewhat less irritating was the incident of a bill sent to a 'non-person'. In this case the bill had been made out to the wrong name. This was finally corrected, processed and paid. But no one had corrected the computer, so the original bill was sent monthly. Finally, after a year, someone sent it to Medicare 'accepting assignment'. Medicare paid the 'reasonable' charge of $54 for the original $115. The remainder continues to be sent monthly. So, the hospital received an additional sum for service never rendered to a person who does exist.

Cost containment will not be achieved until 'creative charges' are reduced and fraud eliminated. Patients agree and are ready to cooperate. The government has already imposed a temporary freemaking physicians' fees fit the 'reasonable' formula. Lists of physicians who voluntarily accept 'assignment' are available in social security offices. Seeking out these physicians is an important preliminary step.

A second step is to change medical emphasis from curative to preventive medicine. The American Cancer Society has had some considerable success in reducing the incidence of smoking. The dental profession has also had success in reducing the incidence of cavities. The insurance companies can well help by encouraging annual physical examination to detect incipient illness which is easier to cure rather than denying reimbursement in favor of the more expensive curative approach.

Once such preventive approaches are in place, we will no longer accept the facetious conclusion that it is 'cheaper to drop dead than be cured'.

IRISH ATMOSPHERE

I think that many of your readers are Irish or of Irish descent as I am but it doesn't really matter. There is a nice cafe in Bethpage called Kenny's Cafe that has just great food and a lot more.

It has good service and entertainment, folk songs and ballads on Friday and Saturday nights. We went there last week and found the food to be very good and the entertainment to be something special. I think that many of your readers would like to go to this fine place and I bring it to your attention. It is located at 729 South Oyster Bay Road, Bethpage. M.O'D

"One thing I'm sure of, you're going to like the way DEVINS looks, the owners' goal was to achieve the feel of Edwardian England, but it is sufficiently eclectic to include echoes of New Orleans and Paris.... The fish here is properly fresh and the meat is properly aged, and great care is taken in their presentations. Here, I must pause to compliment the service. No matter how good the main dishes..... the desserts are better."

EXCELLENT FISH

The Surfside Restaurant is a new one to me. We passed it last week along Hillside Avenue and then remembered we had seen it advertised so we popped in. The service was great but the fish menu is just excellent.

One in our party had filet of sole which was the freshest and most delicious ever. Another had scrod and it also was first rate. We also understand that there are many early specials served each week and that you can get a full dinner at a reasonable price. We think that New Hyde Park can well be proud of this new restaurant and recommend it highly to your readers. J.K.

Q. It seems Europeans usually toast their guests at the beginning of a meal, and the Americans at dessert time. Which is better?
 A. Either is fine. It's nice of the hosts, at the beginning of the meal, to greet the guests with a short word of welcome. The host or hostess could rise, raise the wineglass, and say to the guests, "Welcome to our house. Your being here makes this a very special night for us." This is our version of the Scandinavian "Skål", the French "A votre sante", and the Italian "Cin cin". Then it's nice if one of the guests at dessert time lifts his or her glass and says, "To our hostess - the cook. Thank you for a perfectly beautiful dinner!"

Q. Last week we went to a well known restaurant with a party of four people. Each person ordered something different and the result was that the waitress brought the orders out at different times. What happened was that some people had to sit there and let their food get cold while waiting for the others. Some in the party said "go ahead and eat!" but no one wanted to do that because it didn't seem right. What should have been done? GH.
 A. What should have been done is that you should have complained to the management. You have mentioned a good restaurant and we are going to send the complaint on to them. The food should all be served at once or as nearly as possible. Otherwise no one is dining together and you might as well have all gone alone. That restaurant will have to get on the ball.

FINE MEAL

Last week we went to the LaCisterna restaurant in Mineola. We were delighted with the meal.

The LaCisterna is a beautifully decorated restaurant with a fine large dining room set in a restful and inviting style. The service is good and the food is well worth a return visit.

We had veal marsala for one dinner and bass for the other. The veal was fresh and tender and the marsala sauce was exceptionally well done. The bass was fresh and flavorful. Starting off the meal we had salad and soup which also rated high. We were very satisfied with the visit and want to recommend it to your readers. H.G.

MAGNIFICENT DINNERS

We had two magnificent dinners at the LaCoquille Restaurant in Manhasset last Saturday. This small French restaurant is really tops. The service is perfect and the food delicious. One entree was Chicken Beau Sejour, which was a wonderfully delicious dish of zestfully tasty chicken. The other entree was Chateaubriand prepared with a sauce of herbs that gave it an exquisite taste. It was one of the many specials of the day. Vegetables, which are included with the entree, are prepared in a crisp way so that they must really be filled with vitamins. But the crunchy style is also a delicious style so that makes it even better. LaCoquille seems to be a new restaurant but it is run efficiently and the prices are within reason for top rated food. We would recommend this restaurant to anyone. H.F.

HATS OFF

I am glad to see the Milleridge Inn in your paper. Now I can phone in my rating of that restaurant. I think it is by far the best restaurant in this entire area. Everything at the Milleridge Inn is done in great style. To go there is really an event. We had a dinner party for eight people there last night and really feel that the good is wonderful and the service is a credit to everyone.

Out of the eight people every one told us that it was a wonderful event. Our hats are off to Milleridge Inn. D.F.

YOU CAN BE A RESTAURANT CRITIC

If you visit any of the restaurants selected for inclusion in this section, call 931-0027 at any hour and tell your ideas. We want you, the reader, to be our critic. Your message then can be printed in this space.

If you have Questions about etiquette or dining-out you may call them in to 931-0027 and we will find the answer.

Q. Whenever I go to a restaurant that has a salad bar I see people taking two plates and some coming up several times. Aren't these people just acting like pigs?

A. They may be acting like pigs but the management ought to be the one to do the complaining if the dinner cost doesn't cover it. We are told by restaurant owners, though, that it events out and that except in restaurants that specifically say the dinner includes "one trip to the salad bar" that they will not appear to notice how many trips are made and it appears that if they are "pigs" to you, the management still views them as customers.

Q. If I have a party of about 30 guests, is it best to go to a restaurant or a regular caterer?

A. Generally you can find a restaurant that would be more interested in that size party than a caterer although some caterers do have mid-week and off-season rates. But, in general restaurants have rooms that they can close off and give you special service. Often the price is no higher than the menu rates.

A. If you're giving a party in a restaurant, should you await your guests in the entrance of the restaurant, or should you go to the table?

A. If the entrance is tiny, there really isn't room for you to congregate all your guests there. It's better in this case to go straight to your table.

Q. However, remember to arrive before your guests do. It's extremely rude for the hosts to arrive after their guests!

Q. If I'm awaiting my host in the restaurant and he or she is very late, is it all right for me to order my own drink at the bar and pay for it?

A. It's far nicer to wait for your host to arrive before ordering a drink.

Q. How many people does a bottle of champagne serve at dessert time?

A. Normally four. If you're at a wedding-rehearsal dinner or an anniversary party, the toasting might go on for quite a while, so you have to supply twice as much champagne for your guests as you would for a regular dinner party.

NICE PLACE
 Bomont's Cafe is one of those small restaurants that makes me glad there are such places away from the larger crowds. For your readers who do not know of this place, it is located in Williston Park on Hillside Avenue and is just a small but elegantly decorated restaurant. The menu is a pretty good sized one and we have always found it to be an enjoyable place whether we were having a late night snack or a luncheon special. We recommend it to your readers. J.F. A FAVORITE

The Marmite Restaurant has been my favorite for years. We went there last Thursday and had a delicious fish special for one and a beautiful steak for the other person in our party.

At Marmite everything is first rate from the fully decked tables to the service of food. But this would not be enough. The food is really good and the menu is varied. It is a place to go for special occasions.

We have been going to Marmite for a number of years now and want to heartily recommend it to all your readers. G.F.

Cooking Corner

ROSARITO VEGETABLE SKILLET

- 4 tbsps. olive oil
- 2 medium zucchini, sliced in rounds or, julienne strips
- 1 green pepper, cored and cut into thin strips
- 1/4 medium eggplant, sliced and cut into 1-inch pieces
- 1 onion, peeled and sliced
- 1 bunch green onions, sliced (include green tops)
- 1-2 cloves garlic (optional)
- 1/4 lb. cheese (goat cheese, cream cheese or herb/garlic cheese)
- 1 tbsps. butter
- 1 bolillo (or four 3/4-inch slices sourdough bread)

Heat olive oil in 10-inch skillet. Add zucchini, green pepper, eggplant and onion and saute until vegetables are slightly limp. Add green onions and garlic, if desired. Cover pan and let vegetables cook about 5 minutes. Remove lid and crumble cheese on top. Stir all ingredients together, replace lid and cook another 7 minutes.

Meanwhile, cut bolillo into 4 slices. Using spoon, move cooked vegetables to one side of pan. Add butter and let melt. Place bread on bottom of pan in butter. Top bread with cooked vegetables and let cook until heated through.

Note: Can add cooked meat, poultry or fish.

SALSA VERDE

- 10 or so fresh tomatillos or 1 (12 oz.) can tomatillos, drained
- 1 or 2 serrano or jalapeno chilies, fresh or canned, seeded
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 1 clove garlic

- 6 sprigs fresh cilantro or parsley, chopped
- 2 tbsps. oil
- Salt and pepper to taste

If fresh tomatillos are used, remove dry outer husk and wash and boil in little water until just tender. In blender container, blend all ingredients (except oil) about 5 seconds. Heat oil in skillet and cook mixture, stirring constantly, 2 or 3 minutes. Serve hot or cold. This is an excellent sauce for tacos, burritos, or can be used as dip.

Makes about 1 1/2 cups.

This recipe is very similar to many served under the more appealing name of machaca. This is an excellent filling for burritos.

ROPA VIEJA

- 1 lb. beef chuck
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 2 tbsps. oil
- 3 tomatoes, chopped
- 3 serrano or jalapeno chilies, fresh or canned, seeded and chopped
- Salt
- 3 eggs, beaten

Cook meat in salted water until tender. Drain and shred meat after it cools. Saute onion in oil until tender. Add tomatoes and chilies and continue to cook. Mix in shredded meat and salt to taste. Lower heat and add beaten eggs. Stir sufficiently to keep eggs from forming omelet. Serve with hot tortillas.

Makes 4 servings as stew, 8 to 10 as filling for tacos or burritos.

rosemary has figured in many legends of that area. In myth, Circe cast a spell over Sicily, making volcanoes erupt and plants wither. One young woman resisted Circe's domination, and was turned into the rosemary plant so that she could exist eternally as a reminder that good can triumph over evil.

The Romans introduced rosemary to England, where the natives quickly made it part of the national cuisine. Throughout the Middle Ages and the Renaissance, almost every English garden included at least one rosemary bush. The English also credited the herb with the power to restore and strengthen memory and sharpen the senses.

In France, rosemary is called encens, because churches often used it as an incense. French folk medicine prescribed rosemary to prevent nightmares, ward off evil spirits and cure the aches and pains of rheumatism. The French also used rosemary to cleanse the mouth, and put some leaves in the bathwater to make it fragrant.

Rosemary's uses in cooking are even more numerous than the legendary qualities attached to it. There is no substitute for rosemary with lamb of almost every type, and today's recipe for Rosemary Lamb Marinade can be used with everything from lamb chops to leg of lamb.

Less known, perhaps, is rosemary's special affinity for fish and shellfish. Trout, swordfish and shrimp are especially good candidates for cooking with rosemary. Other uses are with vegetables, pizza, game of all types, eggs, soups and poultry.

Rosemary should be used judiciously. Its pungent taste and aroma, reminiscent of balsam or pine, can be too strong for some dishes, but used in moderation, rosemary imparts a delightful richness and spiciness. Dried rosemary should be crushed between the fingers before it is added to other ingredients, because the whole leaves have a consistency very much like pine needles.

Rosemary grows very well in any region that does not have heavy, frequent frosts, and thrives both indoors and out. The plants grow to 6 feet in height, though it generally takes almost 30 years for them to reach this size.

The best way to grow your own rosemary is to start from a cutting, since the seeds are very slow to germinate. A cutting should be planted in a small pot filled with moist, sandy soil. Plenty of sunlight and good drainage will help the plant to thrive. Rosemary grows fairly slowly, but a single plant, once it has reached a foot or two in height, will provide you with fresh rosemary for the rest of your life.

In addition to a generous helping of sunlight, rosemary needs only regular watering, misting and feeding for optimum growth.

ROSEMARY MARINADE FOR LAMB

- 2 tps. dried rosemary, crumbled
- 2 cloves garlic, finely minced
- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 1/2 cup soy sauce
- Juice of 1 lemon
- 1/4 tsp. freshly ground black pepper
- 2 tbsps. Dijon mustard (optional)

Mix all ingredients together well, and marinate lamb at least 2 hours. May also be used as basting sauce while lamb is cooking.

VEGETARIAN VIEW Nuts for you

By Diane Savage

● The peanut, a food buried with Peruvian mummies, is not really a nut. It is a legume, just like a lentil or a bean.

● Because of the walnut's resemblance to the human brain, its consumption was recommended by medieval physicians for treating the mentally ill.

● Over a hundred varieties of tropical palm produce edible nuts — the coconut is just one of them.

If such tidbits of nut trivia intrigue you, you'll enjoy cozying up with the recently published "Book of Edible Nuts." Written by Frederic Rosengarten Jr., internationally known economic botanist and experienced nut grower, "Nuts" is billed as "the definitive work on the subject."

Discussed at length are the 12 major edible nuts: almonds, Brazil nuts, cashews, chestnuts, coconuts, filberts, macadamia nuts, peanuts, pecans, pistachios, sunflower seeds and walnuts. The history, folklore, economic and nutritional importance as well as growing and harvesting techniques of these nuts make for fascinating reading.

Thirty other edible nuts, including such exotic entries as quandong, pilli, tiger and paradise nuts, also are described.

Because vegetarians as a group consume more nuts than do other people, "The Book of Edible Nuts" would be a useful addition to the vegetarian kitchen library, or a thoughtful holiday gift for a nut-loving friend. With over 370 photographs and illustrations (including a number of rare historical drawings) and many recipes suitable for vegetarians, "Nuts" is a readable and informative guide to this important food source.

Today's recipes are from "The Book of Edible Nuts" by Frederic Rosengarten Jr., Walker and Co., 720 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10019, 384 pages, $35 (hardback).

Olivia and Paul Bensen

Rosemary — for remembrance and recipes

By Olivia and Paul Bensen

"There's rosemary, that's for remembrance; pray you, love, remember..." So spoke the distraught Ophelia after the violent events in the Danish court had seriously loosened her grip on reality. For over 2,000 years, Rosmarinus officinalis has captured the fancy of cooks, romantics and writers alike.

In addition to Shakespeare's mention of the herb in "Hamlet," rosemary also appears as a symbol of fidelity in the works of Ben Jonson and Sir Thomas More. Since the days of the Roman Empire, rosemary has symbolized the lasting quality of love. Romans wove a bit of it into bridal wreaths and placed a sprig in marriage beds to ensure a spouse's faithfulness and — more prosaically — to keep away mildew and insects. Students in ancient Greece would weave a bit of rosemary in their hair, believing it improved mental acuity.

A native of Southern Europe,

- 1 cup finely ground carrots
- 3 eggs, well beaten
- ½ cup cream or vegetable broth
- 3 tbsps. minced parsley
- Herb seasoning and salt to taste

Mix together all ingredients; place in well-oiled loaf pan and bake in moderate oven (350 F) 45 minutes to 1 hour, or until nicely browned. Serve with a mushroom or tomato sauce.

CREAM CHEESE CHRISTMAS TREE

- 1 (16 oz.) pkg. cream cheese
- 6 ozs. blue cheese
- ¼ tsp. garlic salt
- 2 tbsps. chopped green pepper
- 2 tbsps. chopped pimiento
- Pecan halves

Blend cheeses. Stir in garlic salt, green pepper and pimiento. Place mixture on sheet of aluminum foil and flatten to ¾-inch thickness; cut in shape of tree. Move tree, on foil, to serving platter and trim away foil even with tree shape. Arrange pecan halves in rows across surface. At serving time, arrange parsley or endive around edge of tree. Serve with assorted crackers.

Makes 15 to 20 servings.

PISTACHIO AND SPINACH QUICHE

- 1 10-inch unbaked pie shell
- 6 eggs
- 1 cup ricotta cheese
- 2 cups whipping cream
- 1 cup grated Swiss cheese
- 2 tbsps. grated Parmesan cheese
- 1½ cups chopped cooked spinach, loosely packed
- ½ cup shelled, chopped pistachio nuts
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1½ tbsps. chopped fresh dill or 1 tsp. dried dill
- ½ tsp. white pepper
- ½ tsp. sugar
- Grated Swiss and cheddar cheese, about 1 cup, for topping
- Paprika (optional)

Preheat oven to 400 F. To prevent shrinking, prick sides of pie shell with fork. Bake 7 minutes and remove from oven. Reduce temperature to 350 F. In large mixing bowl combine ingredients, except cheese topping, in order given. Mix well after each addition. Pour into partially baked pie shell and bake 45 to 55 minutes or until firm. Top with grated cheeses and sprinkle with paprika. Return to oven until cheese melts.

CHEESY HERB OMELET

- 6 eggs
- 3 tbsps. butter or margarine
- 2 tbsps. finely chopped fresh parsley
- 2 tbsps. finely chopped chives
- ½ tsp. salt
- Dash black pepper
- Dash thyme
- 1 brimming tsp. water
- 1 cup shredded cheddar cheese

Beat the eggs well, until light and frothy; set aside. Melt butter or margarine over low heat in a large skillet. When just melted, sprinkle in the parsley and chives; stir. Add salt, pepper, thyme and water to eggs; mix well. Pour into skillet and cook over low heat until omelet begins to set. With spatula, lift the edges of the omelet and let the uncooked egg run underneath until all is evenly cooked. Sprinkle cheese over one-half of the omelet, fold in half, and serve at once. Serves 4.

EGG AND TOMATO BAKE

- 4 tomatoes
- 4 eggs
- 2 tbsps. butter or margarine
- 4 tbsps. soft bread crumbs
- ¼ cup finely chopped fresh parsley
- ½ tsp. salt
- ¼ tsp. pepper
- Parmesan cheese
- Sour cream
- 4 ripe olives
- Parsley for garnish

Choose firm ripe tomatoes, about 2½ inches in diameter. Cut tops of tomatoes off about ¼ of the way down. Carefully scoop out the stem portion of the tomato, leaving most of the seed sections intact.

Break each egg into a saucer and carefully slip egg into dug-out part of tomato. Place a portion of the butter or margarine on top of each egg. Sprinkle top of each egg with 1 tablespoon of the bread crumbs. Add the parsley. Top each with a portion of the salt and pepper and sprinkle with Parmesan.

Place tomatoes on a greased baking dish and bake in a 350 F oven for 15 minutes or until egg is set but not hard cooked. Top each tomato with a dab of sour cream, a black olive and a sprig of parsley. Serve piping hot. Serves 4.

FANCY FRENCH TOAST

- 2 eggs
- ¼ cup milk
- 2 tbsps. molasses
- Dash salt
- Butter, margarine or vegetable oil
- 4 tbsps. sesame seeds
- 4 tbsps. wheat germ
- 6 slices whole wheat bread

In a shallow bowl, beat together eggs, milk and molasses. In a large skillet heat butter, margarine or vegetable oil. Combine sesame seeds and wheat germ on a plate. Dip bread slices into egg mixture, turning to coat both sides. Then dip in sesame seeds and wheat germ mixture, again coating both sides.

Place bread slices in skillet and cook on each side until golden brown. Serve with your favorite fruit syrup, jam or with sour cream and applesauce.

MICROWAVE

Combination oven might be perfect gift

By Desiree Vivea

Today's cook uses the microwave for just about everything — except cookies. Some cookies just don't brown and crisp properly unless baked in a conventional oven.

A combination convection/microwave oven might be the perfect answer for microwave-lovers who also love to bake. Convection ovens, known to professional chefs for over 30 years, use a high-speed fan to circulate hot air throughout the oven's interior. Because of this circulation, the entire oven may be used (not just one shelf). And foods cook with lower temperatures in less time.

Nancy Boyle, manager of product development and training at Sharp Electronics, calls the combination of microwave and convection cooking "the best of both worlds. The convection feature allows foods to brown and crisp, while the microwave feature keeps foods more moist while cooking them faster."

Bread dough will rise an hour faster than it would conventionally and will bake — and brown — quickly in a convection/microwave oven. And because of the convection feature, you can bake two sheets of cookies at a time, a real boon to busy holiday bakers.

If you do purchase a combination convection/microwave oven, you may want to attend classes such as those given by many microwave dealers. You will be instructed when it is best to use microwave only, convection only or combination settings for perfect results.

A convection/microwave oven would make a much-appreciated gift for the baker on your holiday list. Or play Santa to yourself and get one for your own kitchen. Baking was never easier!

Today's recipes were furnished by Sharp Electronics for use in convection/microwave ovens.

White marks on furniture

Q. Recently we set a plant for several days on a maple coffee table in the living room. When we moved it, we found that moisture had leaked out of the container onto the table, leaving a large white spot and lifting some of the varnish finish.

Please advise the best way to restore the table surface. — W.E.M.

A. Rub the spot with camphorated oil or turpentine, following the grain of the wood. The rubbing can be done with a piece of felt or the ball of the thumb.

If the spot is stubborn, add a little finely powdered rottenstone, or cigar ash. Patience is required, rather than "elbow grease."

If the varnish is badly damaged this method will not completely restore the finish and you may have to refinish the table top.

Q. Please send me information on how to put an inch of concrete over a pitted walk that also has some cracks. I want to hide these defects and restore the surface. — R.M.A.

Use concrete patching materials and concrete glue. (Red-E-Crete topping material and Red-E-Crete concrete glue are some brand names.) Use this same type of material to apply a thin surface of new concrete over the old, after the major cracks have been cleaned and filled.

Be sure to follow manufacturer instructions carefully.

Q. My husband recently coated his silver trophies with banana oil. They look awful. How can I remove this oil and restore the silver to its original luster? Thanks for any suggestions you can give. — S. Bateman.

A. Use an artist's camel's hair brush to apply a cleaning solution of half-and-half mixture of alcohol and ammonia to the entire surface. Allow the solution to remain a few minutes to soften the grime and oil. Then remove with clear water. Wipe dry with a soft cloth.

Another method you can try is to use naphtha applied with a soft cloth.

After cleaning by either method

you can use a good silver polish on the surface to restore the luster and protect the finish.

Q. Could you tell me how to remove Teflon from the bottom of a skillet?

Also, what can I do to remove the roughness from the bottom of the bathtub? It was like that when we moved here. — V.E.

A. There is no way I know of to remove Teflon from the bottom of a skillet.

The roughness of your bathtub is most likely caused by use. The original finish wore off. You can have your bathtub resurfaced, but this is a job for a professional, not an amateur. Consult plumbing repairs in the Yellow Pages of your telephone directory.

Q. Can you please let me know what I can use to clean the underside of an aluminum patio roof? We have washed it many times with various liquids, but the mildew comes back every year.

I read somewhere that bleach can be used mixed with another product. But I don't remember what the other product was. — L.C.M.

A. You can wash the aluminum with a solution of two-thirds cup of trisodium phosphate, combined with one-third cup of detergent and 1 quart of household bleach in 3 quarts warm water. This will help clean the surface.

However, moisture is causing your problem and nothing will keep the mildew from reoccurring unless you can stop the moisture from collecting. Painting with a mildew-resistant paint will help some to maintain the surface.

has any effect on arthritis or on arthritis pain. The best advice for people with arthritis is to follow a treatment program that's proven effective and prescribed by a physician.

Let's hope this will be a real study and not just a "snow job." Meanwhile, many of our readers are using Certo or honey and apple cider vinegar and say they are getting relief.

Some say any fruit pectin does the same job. We don't know about that, but we do know this: I had arthritis in my neck, according to my doctor. I took Certo in orange juice for a couple of days and the pain left. That was months ago. It hasn't returned. If it does I'll take some more Certo, but I'm not going to wait for the results of this "study."

Because arthritis affects so many millions of people, particularly older persons, many remedies are being developed. Among these is exercise, like swimming. Dvera Berson, 71, has written a book, "Pain-Free Arthritis." It involves exercise in water.

Berson says that from the age of 54 to 60 she suffered terribly from rheumatoid arthritis, osteoarthritis and osteoporosis. She wore a neck brace and a back support and did traction three times a day. She says that today she is free of arthritis pain, disability and deformity. She exercises in the water up to two hours a day, five days a week.

admit it for fear Certo would come under scrutiny from the Food and Drug Administration bureaucrats.

Following is a complete statement issued on the matter by the Arthritis Foundation:

"Studies are currently under way in New York to determine if there is any evidence to support claims that a product which is used to make jams and jellies reduces arthritis pain. For several years General Foods Corp., the manufacturer of Certo brand liquid fruit pectin, has been receiving unsolicited testimonials and claims that its product reduces arthritis pain.

"Individuals have written letters to the company explaining how Certo has helped or 'cured' their arthritis. General Foods, working with the New York chapter of the Arthritis Foundation, is investigating the validity of these reports. The current preliminary study is expected to last about a year. If enough evidence is found to support these claims, carefully controlled clinical research will follow.

"However, at this time, there is no evidence to indicate that Certo

Certo maker probes arthritis link

Dear John: You have been plugging the use of Certo to relieve arthritis pain. Now I understand that the makers of Certo do not make any such claims for Certo. What about this? — Elizabeth S.

Dear Elizabeth: You are partially right, but to bring you up to date, General Foods finally is making a study of the claimed therapeutic value of Certo.

And I'm not "plugging" Certo — or vinegar or anything else. These are home remedies that have been brought to my attention by readers.

When readers, many of them, say something eliminates the pain in their arthritis, I'm going to report it. You can make up your own mind, which is the reason I have printed leaflets covering all the bases. These are available by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to this column. We also appreciate donations as we pay all the costs involved.

I was told by a reader several years ago that he had contacted General Foods and asked about Certo. He was told that the company unofficially knew about the arthritis help, but was not going to

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

Jr. Wallace: I'm writing in response to the advice you gave to the 13-year-old girl who was deeply in love with a 24-year-old guy. You told the girl to stop seeing the guy and had the audacity to say she was "jail bait" and he was "robbing the cradle."

I have been reared to believe that love cannot be categorized or restricted to any segment of society. I happen to be 19 and my boyfriend is 37 and we have very few problems due to our age difference.

Who do you think you are to be condemning love? When people are happy they are happy and it doesn't mean one darn thing how old they are, what color they are or what they look like.

Perhaps you should re-evaluate your thinking and obtain a broader scope of the situation before you blurt out unjustified, blatant generalizations. When two people are in love and they are not hurting anyone, then there is nothing whatsoever wrong with it. Love has no bounds; it's ageless and it's blind. — Penny.

Penny: My rule of thumb on age differences in dating is simply: "Stay close to your own age until you graduate." After that, everything is fair. I respect your viewpoint but I don't buy it entirely. Most 13-year-old girls are infatuated, not in love. Twenty-four-year-old guys who "fall in love" with 13-year-old girls have serious psychological problems.

Dr. Wallace: I know many families will be going away for the Christmas holidays. Recently at a Boy Scout meeting a fellow Scout shared a vacation protection checklist with us and my parents thought you might like to share it with your teen readers. Actually, the list was published by the Shell Oil Co. — Mike

Mike: Thanks for taking the time to inform our teen readers. The rules are easy to follow and the safety well worth the effort.

Anytime you'll be away from the house for several days or more:

1. Notify trusted neighbors that you'll be gone. Ask them to watch your house.
2. Have a friend mow your lawn.
3. Have the post office hold your mail.
4. Stop newspaper delivery.
5. Ask a trusted neighbor to pick up anything that is delivered to your house.
6. Use timer switches or ask a neighbor to turn lights and radio on and off at appropriate times, day and night. Use photosensitive switches to turn outside lights on at sunset, off at dawn.

7. Notify police that you'll be out of town. They'll pay special attention to your home while they're on patrol.

8. Leave a key with a trusted neighbor who can look inside your house daily. Rearrange drapes or blinds, anything to give the home a lived-in look.

9. Remove anything of extreme value from the house and put in a safe place while you are gone.

Dr. Wallace: I read in your column where you told a girl to ignore a "flirt" and the flirt would get the hint and go away.

Well, I have tried your method and it just doesn't work. There is a particular boy at school and he has been "eyeing" me for over three years and he continues to bother me.

I completely ignore him. In fact, I rarely look at him and the truth is I detest him. Still, he continues to ride by my house every night, calls me twice a week (I never admit that I'm home) and sends me cards for all special occasions (Christmas, Easter, Halloween, Valentine Day, my birthday, Groundhog Day — you name it).

I'm really tired of this dude but I can't seem to shake him. I don't know how to get him to stop chasing me, but ignoring him hasn't been the answer. — Debby

Debby: This guy isn't a flirt, he's a bothersome pest.

Talk to your parents about the problem. Between the school authorities and the police department a solution should be presented.

Don't allow this creep to continue harassing you.

Dr. Wallace: Will you please tell me what happens to the human body when one takes an average dose of cocaine? Also, if one continues to use it, what can happen to the body over a certain period of time? — Randy

Randy: Once cocaine enters the system the user's pulse quickens and his temperature rises. Within 10 minutes the user's eyes are dilated and he has a slight case of the "shakes" and is breathing rapidly and deeply.

Consistent use of cocaine can cause dizziness and mental confusion, nervous exhaustion, convulsions and, in some cases, death.

Randy, all illegal drugs are dangerous in some form to the body. Never get involved. In no case is it ever worth it.

Q. Can you tell me anything about the vintage, value and maker of this plaque?

On the back is the following:
"Mettlach - Geschutz - Gegen
- Machbildung 1376."

A. Your plaque was made by Villeroy and Boch in Mettlach, Germany, during the late 19th century.

"Geschutz gegen machbildung" is the German equivalent of "patented". 1376 is the model number.

The going price for this plaque is in the $200 to $300 range.

Q. This small table was given to us by my husband's grandparents. Can you tell me anything about its period and value?

A. This is an Empire work table (sewing) made of solid mahogany and crotch mahogany. It was made in the early 19th century and would sell in the $800 to $900 range.

Q. I have a beautiful footed porcelain bowl decorated with various kinds of fruit. I have enclosed a sketch of the mark on the bottom.

What can you tell me about its maker, vintage and value?

A. Your bowl was made by Carl Thieme in Potschapel, Germany, during the late 19th century. It should sell in the $225 to $275 range.

Q. You recently priced an early Coca-Cola tray at $400. It was made by the Vienna Art Co. in 1905. Are all Coca-Cola collectibles so expensive or are there some modestly priced items suitable for a novice collector?

A. The Vienna Art trays are among the most expensive. There are dozens of more recent trays under $100; there are hundreds of post-World War II items less than $10.

For a beginner, trays are ideal. The lowest priced ones are about $10. As you become more knowledgeable, you can graduate to older and more valuable trays.

Booklets, records and advice

By MONICA HUNTER

There is a wealth of health information available at a nominal cost to the consumer. Following is a listing of some recent publications, along with addresses for obtaining the material.

AEROBIC DANCE

An aerobics program is a perfect accompaniment to a diet. Aerobic exercise burns calories, decreases hunger pangs and helps shed inches and pounds.

Your skin also benefits from the stimulation of blood flow at the skin's surface.

If you don't have time or the inclination to attend regular classes, why not make your own aerobic dance program at home? For only 25 cents and wrappers from three bars of Caress, you can have your own exercise record.

Send wrappers and 25 cents to: Caress Aerobics Record, P.O. Box 903, Young America, Minn. 55399.

SPORTS INJURIES

You can prevent them. Several sports organizations have joined with the makers of Bufferin pain relievers to compile a 27-page illustrated booklet called, Sports Injuries: An Aid to Prevention and Treatment. The booklet includes stretching exercises and a chart to help determine exercise heart rates.

For a copy of the booklet, send $1 (American currency) to: Bufferin Sports Injuries Booklet, Box 537-D, Coventry, Conn. 06238.

HEALTHY SNACKS

Snacks can be nutritious and delicious, with a little forethought. From beverages to breads, cakes and cookies, there is a way to replace empty calories with nutritious, good-for-you ingredients.

Two nutritionists from Villanova University have written an illustrated, 62-page booklet of snacks for healthy folks. Entitled, Nutritious Snacks for Children of All Ages, the booklet includes information on substituting other ingredients to replace sugar and has a variety of creative recipes such as Peanut Butter Shake, Milkless-Eggless Applesauce Cake, Carb Cookies, People Bird Food and variations on traditional recipes.

Send $4, plus 50 cents for postage and handling, to: Rose O'Driscoll, 51 Sonia Lane, Broomall, Penn. 19008. Ask for the Nutritious Snacks cookbook.

FAMILY HEALTH

You can now keep a handy home reference guide to common diseases and disorders, along with a description of symptoms, risks and recommended treatment.

The American Medical Association's "Family Medical Guide" includes guidance for self-diagnosis, self-treatment and tips on avoiding needless, expensive visits to the doctor, when to seek medical help instead of self-treatment, how to cope with terminal illness, how to administer effective first aid, how to choose a doctor, etc.

More than 1,300 drawings, photographs and charts illustrate the 832-page book which sells for about $30.

For more information, contact Cheryl Merser, Random House, 201 E. 50th St., New York, N.Y. 10022.

SUGARLESS SWEETS

Fructose is simple "fruit sugar" which occurs naturally in most fruits and many vegetables. Fructose is metabolized differently than ordinary sugar and does not cause the high and low blood sugar levels that table sugar, sucrose, causes.

Many diabetics can eat fructose in place of sugar for sweetening their food. Of course, a physician should be consulted in all cases where a medical condition exists.

More information and delicious recipes using fructose are available for $3.95 from: The Fructose Cookbook Offer, P.O. Box 308, Redbank, N.J. 07701.

JUNIOR EDITION

Aunt Tilly's Corner

As you read this column the Thanksgiving holiday has come. I hope you have enjoyed a wonderful time with your family and friends.

Thanksgiving, of course, reminds us of the coming of the Pilgrims to America in the year 1620. The settlers came to a place called Plymouth after a town in England. However, I found out something interesting last year when I visited Cape Cod.

It seems the Pilgrims first landed on the Cape, near what is now Provincetown, before coming to Plymouth. Perhaps they just did not like Provincetown, or did not consider it a suitable place in which to build their homes. The soil is sandy on Cape Cod, so maybe the Pilgrims did not think it would be good for growing food. In any case, they set sail again, went to Plymouth, and there they decided to stay.

Your friend,
Aunt Tilly

Q. We recently bought a 2-year-old male Arabian horse. After getting the horse home we noticed that he had only one testicle.

We have heard varying opinions regarding whether the horse will be fertile. We really like the horse's conformation and have been told that he is from very good blood lines.

We do not want to return the horse to the original owners. Our children have already become attached to him. What is your advice?

A. Whenever one or both testicles fail to descend into the scrotum, the condition is called "cryptorchidism," commonly seen in all species of animals, including horses.

Whenever one testicle descends and one does not, the condition is called "unilateral cryptorchidism" or "monorchidism." Horses with either condition are commonly called "rigs," "ridglings" or "originals."

Most foals are born with the testicles already descended into the scrotum. If one or both testicles have not descended into the scrotum and are not detectable by feeling deep into the groin by the time the foal reaches 2 years of age, it is unlikely that they will descend naturally. The undescended testicle may be inside of the abdomen, in the canal between the abdomen and the scrotum, or beneath the skin on the posterior abdominal wall.

When both testicles are retained, the horse is sterile. The reason for this is that the body temperature is too high for normal development of sperm. Whenever the testicles are in the scrotum, they are actually cooler than the rest of the body.

In unilateral cryptorchidism, one testicle is normal. While the concentration of sperm from these animals is usually less than from normal stallions, horses with unilateral cryptorchidism are usually fertile. However, horses with unilateral cryptorchidism should not be allowed to breed as the cause for cryptorchidism is heredity.

Although some have advocated hormonal treatment or surgical treatment to encourage descent of undescended testicles, these practices should be strongly discouraged because of the hereditary nature of the disease. All cryptorchid animals should be castrated. Both testicles should be surgically removed.

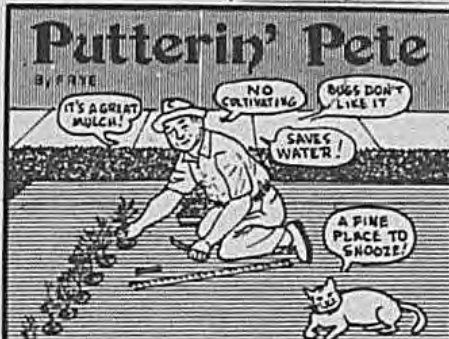

Surgery for cryptorchidism is often quite involved and complicated. In unilateral cryptorchids the descended testicle should not be removed without removing the undescended one, as well. Testicles retained in the abdominal cavity are much more prone to become cancerous than are normally descended testicles.

Whether you should return your horse to the original owners is dependent on your purchase agreements and the intended use of the horse. You should not use the animal as a sire.

In the future, you should have a veterinarian conduct a "prepurchase" examination prior to purchase of any horse. By doing this you will have a much better idea of exactly what you are purchasing. Any seller refusing to allow you to have the horse examined by a veterinarian prior to purchase should be avoided.

Library Offers Adoption Info

National Adoption Week is the week of Thanksgiving. Many children in New York State could have a lot more to be thankful for next Thanksgiving if caring individuals began adoption proceedings now on behalf of the more than 1,000 boys and girls who are waiting to become the adopted sons and daughters of loving parents.

"To take the first step in initiating the adoption process, you need go no farther than your local library," explained Kenneth Barnes, director of the Hicksville Public Library. In cooperation with the New York State Department of Social Services and the Nassau County Department of Social Services, the Hicksville Public Library is among several on Long Island who have in their reference collection the "Adoption Blue Books"—officially entitled New York State's Waiting Children. Updated regularly, these blue, loose-leaf binders contain photographic listings and brief biographies of children who are eligible for adoption.

After an individual or a family decides upon a child, that person or family may then telephone the listed number, state an interest in the child, and indicate the child's Blue Book number to the staff person. If the child is still available for adoption, the caller will be advised how to proceed.

The "Adoption Blue Books" may be seen at the Hicksville Public Library during regular library hours: Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday, 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

A "Fall Festival Day" was celebrated by kindergartners and first graders at Old Country Road School in Hicksville on November 2. The school's lobby and hallways were transformed by the students into a fall harvest delight, with scarecrows, pumpkins, and bouquets of Indian corn and corn husks. Youngsters in each class gathered dried leaves to stuff scarecrows, painted colorful faces on pumpkins and dipped candy apples. There were also square dances, a song fest, and corn husking, followed by a delicious picnic lunch. Thanks to Miss Musynake, Miss Kerrigan, Mrs. Mones, and Miss Rosenberg and all the class mothers who helped to make "Fall Festival Day" a special one.

Dems Demand Tax Cut

A demand that Nassau County property taxes be cut was made yesterday by Martin L. Mellman, Chairman of the Nassau Democratic County Committee, who said that the proposed 1985 "hold the line" budget released today by County Executive Francis Purcell was "totally insufficient."

"We demand that the members of the Board of Supervisors, who have the final say on this proposed budget, make the necessary cuts to produce a tax cut for county taxpayers. Pointing with pride to a 'hold the line on taxes' budget is simply not enough. We demand a tax cut," Mellman said.

Mellman said that the proposed budget is another increase in spending budget and yet another disappointment for overburdened county taxpayers.

Mellman pointed out that the increase in spending for 1985 continues the pattern of a 10% per year increase or 5 1/2% in the past five years.

"Mr. Purcell, on the eve of a re-election year is now attempting to take credit for not increasing property taxes in 1985," Mellman added. "His budgets ignore fiscal prudence and instead reflect a big spending, public be damned attitude with yet another record budget for 1985."

"While steadily increasing spending, the County Executive has also been picking the taxpayers' pockets with a one cent sales tax increase plus increases in the real property tax. The harsh fact is that with this proposed 1985 budget, Nassau County will maintain its dubious distinction of being the highest taxed county in the nation and the only county in the State of New York, outside of New York City, with an 8 1/2% sales tax."

Town Continues Assn. Funding

The Oyster Bay Town Board approved continued funding for the Bethpage Adolescent Development Association programs in the Bethpage School District.

Oyster Bay Town Councilman Douglas J. Hynes indicated that "the Town Board has approved funding in the amount of $25,000 for the support of the programs, which began in cooperation with the Bethpage School District. Over the past four years this program has been successful in addressing such problems as drug and alcohol abuse, vandalism and delinquency through early intervention approaches and supportive counseling services."

The Federal Community Development funds are allocated for such public service programs through the Town's Department of Intergovernmental Affairs' participation in the Nassau County Consortium.

Hynes added that, "based on the marked success of BADA's programs, the Town is pleased to provide support for this service for the 1985 program year."

On Tuesday, November 7, Lee Avenue PTA sponsored a "Lee on Wheels Night" at the Levittown Roller Rink. There was a good turnout with teachers, students and families having a wonderful time.

Winners of the drawings were: Nicole Brown, Laura De Angelis, Barbara Lewis, Charissa Maisonet, Kevin McGinnis, Mary Russell, Lisa Smith and Sylvia Theiss.

On Thursday the 9th, students viewed the play "Star Blast" performed by the Producers Association Theatre Company. The PTA and school district co-sponsored the show which was designed to make students aware of outer space land computers in a musical fantasy setting. It was both entertaining and educational for the children.

Lee Avenue was represented at the 87th Convention of the New York State PTA in Syracuse by Mrs. Joan Lane and Mrs. Kerry Miles. They attended workshops, legislative sessions and conferences exchanging ideas with many people from all over the state. Guest speaker at the convention was John Walsh, real father of "Adam" of the TV movie, who delivered a powerful speech in support of stronger legislation and cooperation in protecting our children from kidnapping and abuse.

Healey Visits Bethpage GOP

Club President Kevin Galloway welcomed New York State Assemblyman Philip B. Healey (R-C, 12 A.D.) and Family Court Judge Elect Burton Joseph as honored guests at the most recent meeting of the Theodore Roosevelt Republican Club of Bethpage, on November 12.

Assemblyman Healey and Judge Joseph each visited the Club in order to thank the membership for its support during their election campaigns and for their ensuing victories on Election Day.

George F. Yochmann, Executive Leader of the Bethpage GOP organization, commented that "It was indeed thoughtful of Assemblyman Healey and Judge Joseph to take the time to visit with us and express their thanks, after completing a long and hard-working campaign. Their victory on Election Day is, in our view, certainly well-deserved."

A Nomination Committee, consisting of Raymond Galloway, Paul Danna, and Corey Comerford, recommended that the Club's current officers continue to serve for 1985. The incumbent officers include Kevin Galloway, President, who will be serving a fourth consecutive term; Thomas McCarthy, First-Vice President; Eleanor Read, Second-Vice President; Marie Lustenring, Recording Secretary; Robert Jacoppi, Corresponding Secretary; Buddy Mazzara, Treasurer; Mary Comerford, Financial Secretary; and Craig Comerford and Michael Viscue as Sergeants-at-Arms.

Plans for the Club's Christmas Party, coming in December, were also discussed.

A Hypertension Screening Session will be held at the Plainview Old-Bethpage Library on Tuesday, December 4 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in cooperation with the Plainview Health Center.

Someone can have hypertension (also called High Blood Pressure) for years and never know. There are no real symptoms. Therefore, people should be tested frequently.

The screening will be done by Marian Collins, a Registered and Public Health Nurse.

Each person will be tested individually. Their readings will be discussed with them.

Where there is a family history of hypertension, a tendency towards being overweight, a high salt intake, or stress, it becomes important to have your blood pressure checked regularly.

This is a free service to our community.

How to Select a Computer for Purchase

IBM? A business machine, with a good reputation—but it's too complicated for me. ATARI? All they make is games, right? COMMODORE? I read a good review of it, but I don't know that much.

"I don't know". "I don't know" is the first words indicating a possible mistake in computer purchasing. But, "I don't know" can also be a question that leads people to discover which computer is right for them. If "I don't know" are your words, "How to Select a Computer for Purchase" is a library program you must attend.

"How to Select a Computer for Purchase" is a lecture presented by Gene Pizzola at the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library on December 5, from 8-10 p.m. Although it is free, each participant must register in the library's AV Center prior to the date.

Gene Pizzola has given this lecture before and will be able to help you decide which computer is right for you. He has been teaching computer courses to adults and to children for several years.

This program can help you decide on a perfect holiday gift.

Microwave cooking

The Modern Kitchen

Microwave cooking is the way for the future, today. Many people have bought microwaves but do not know the marvelous foods that can be prepared in the microwave oven. It is important to realize that there are many differences when cooking with a microwave rather than a conventional oven.

On Thursday, December 6, at 8 p.m., the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library will present Judith Knorr demonstrating different recipes and answering questions about purchasing and using microwave ovens.

Mrs. Knorr teaches microwave cooking and is involved in recipe and equipment development. She has worked with manufacturers of microwave ovens and for the United States Department of Agriculture.

Mrs. Knorr will distribute recipes and she will demonstrate microwave cooking. Samples of food cooked in the microwave will be available.

Insights Into Current Issues

Washington! Moscow! Lebanon! New York City! The Old-Bethpage Landfill!—Total Confusion!

Today, media news can be read, heard, or seen twentyfour hours every day. At any time, right now, news stories break and can be reported within a half an hour after they occurred. However, can all of this information be digested and understood?

Barbara Krupit's "Insights Into Current Issues" helps clarify points of turmoil throughout the world. This discussion takes place at the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library on Friday, December 7, at 1 p.m.

"Insights Into Current Issues" will give everyone the opportunity to voice their opinions. The many different opinions voiced will help to make this session very stimulating. This discussion should be particularly interesting because it takes place right after the U.S. Presidential Election.

The library is located at 999 Old Country Road in Plainview, opposite the Morton Village Shopping Center (938-0077).

Sweetsir

"Sweetsir" is the complicated and moving bestseller by Helen Yglesias. This novel will be the topic of discussion on Monday, December 10, at the Plainview Old-Bethpage Library. Barbara Krupit will lead the book review/discussion from 1 to 3 p.m.

"Sweetsir" has been hailed by all critics for meaningfulness and soberness concerning its central character. Sally Sweetsir's stabbing of her husband in her kitchen is by accident. Yet, she assumes an inordinate amount of blame for the man to whom she was bound by marriage and brutality.

This book has raised many timely questions.

Be sure to attend this book discussion for possible answers.

The library is located at 999 Old Country Road in Plainview, opposite the Morton Village Shopping Center (938-0077).

Animal Farm

"Animal Farm" is the classic political satire by George Orwell, author of the ominous "1984". Although seemingly a fable about farm animals who revolt against their cruel farmer, it is really much more. In order to better comprehend "Animal Farm", Barbara Krupit will lead the discussion of the book at the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library on Tuesday, December 11, at 8 p.m.

Barbara Krupit is experienced in making the ambiguities of classic novels understood through the give and take of her group. Many people come to the library having read the book. However, people who have not read the book are also invited. After a short introduction, people give their impressions of the book which sometimes can be surprisingly different.

Recently, Barbara Krupit has discussed Toole's "Confederacy of Dunces". Larry McMurtry's

"Terms of Endearment", Cormier's "I Am The Cheese", and Alice Walker's "The Color Purple."

This intellectually stimulating experience is enjoyable and should be shared by everyone.

Gregory Museum Being Evaluated

The Hicksville Gregory Museum, a member of the American Museum Association, was evaluated this past week through the Association's prestigious Museum Assessment Program. Dr. Robert West, Director of the Carnegie Museum of Natural History in Pittsburgh undertook a day-long tour of the Gregory Museum as part of his study and analysis of the Hicksville earth science institution's quality as a collection and its effectiveness as a museum.

The Museum Assessment Program is undertaken voluntarily by an institution desirous of improving its organization, funding, exhibition techniques and its in-museum and outreach services to the public. Dr. West will present a constructive critique of the Gregory Museum in the near future. His services as a professional paleontologist and Director of a nationally known museum with a staff of over forty persons were defrayed by a grant from the Museum Assessment Program.

On hand for the Museum's inspection and for day-long conferences were: the Gregory Board of Trustees President, Douglas Uszakewicz; Executive Director Harry Chandler; Assistant Director-Historian Richard Evers, and Curator Thomas Daunt. In addition to an opportunity to meet the Museum's staff, Dr. West was able to witness two school groups being given guided tours of the museum and slide lecture instruction, by curator Daunt and long-time museum volunteer, Elizabeth Pearce.

Among the aspects of the Museum being observed and evaluated by the Museum Assessment Program representative were: the museum's scope and purpose; its formal governing structure; the size and nature of the paid staff and volunteers; the museum financial base and its funding methods; the size, facilities and condition of the building and grounds; the significance of the collections and the acquisition, cataloging and storage policies; the conservation and care of the museum's collections; the nature of the museum exhibits and of display space; the relevance of the Gregory's in-house and outreach programs and the type of audiences served; the size of the museum's membership and the degree of community support.

Dr. West appeared impressed by the wide-range of efforts the Gregory Museum undertakes to provide to Long Island and by the strong support of the Hicksville community. The limited building space and the extremely modest paid staff of the museum were not lost on the Carnegie Museum assessor. In the museum's favor, it seemed, were the trustees' and staff's realistic awareness of the museum's problems and long-range needs.

All information provided by the museum and the recommendations made by the surveyor are confidential. The final report is released only to the authorized official of the museum.
