Auxiliary Police Unit Gets Citation

The President of the United States of America Award the Private Sector Initiative Commendation to Nassau County Auxiliary Police
In Recognition of Exemplary Community Service in the Private Sector Tradition

The White House
Washington, D. C.

Ronald Reagan

Presidential Citation

One of Unit 312's Patrol Cars.

The Chief of the Nassau County Auxiliary Police, Hicksville Unit 312, Thomas Schneider, was honored to receive a Presidential Commendation on behalf of his unit. Chief Schneider was presented the award by Nassau County Police Deputy Inspector John Blankenhorn at a recent headquarters meeting. The award was presented as a "Private Sector Initiative Commendation in Recognition of Exemplary Community Service." Chief Schneider stated that he and the men and women of Auxiliary Police Unit 312 felt very honored to be recognized as a volunteer organization serving the community of Hicksville.

Schneider remarked that it is not very often that the Auxiliary Police are recognized for their community service. He said that due to the fact that they wear the same uniform as a Nassau County Police Officer, except for their arm patch which is triangular in shape, the people in the community usually do not realize when it was an Auxiliary that was directing traffic during a parade, assisting at a traffic accident, crossing them at a place of worship, or assisting a disabled motorist. Chief Schneider stated that these are only a few of the many functions of the Auxiliary Police which also include neighborhood patrols utilizing the units two marked patrol cars that are equipped with a direct radio link with the regular police.

At this time the Chief of Hicksville Auxiliary Police Unit 312 would like to remind the residents and businesses of Hicksville that you are the ones that make it possible for us to assist you by continuing to support our annual fund drive which will be mailed out to all businesses and residences in Hicksville within the next week. Your tax deductible contributions are utilized for the purchasing of patrol cars, insurance, maintenance, and equipping the patrol cars with the modern equipment used to serve your needs. Chief Schneider also stated that the volunteer Auxiliary Police are currently accepting applications for membership. If you are interested in aiding the community in this unique form of service, have a clean record, in good health, and able to attend training classes at Mineola Police Headquarters, to contact his unit at 422-2309 or Auxiliary Police Headquarters in Mineola at 535-7521, or by returning your name, address, and telephone number in the envelope provided with their annual fund drive.

Lee Ave. School Fire Destroys One Classroom

A fire of undetermined origin destroyed one second floor classroom at the Lee Avenue School on Monday, November 26. The alarm was turned in by custodians on duty in the school. The fire caused smoke and water damage but did not cause the school to be shut down. Hicksville Firefighters under Chief Owen Magee responded to the alarm at 3:43 p.m. shortly after school let out. There were no injuries. The Jericho Fire Department sent one unit to assist at the scene. The Plainview Fire Department stood by at Fire Headquarters and responded to a false fire alarm. County fire officials are conducting the investigation. Damage was estimated at $15,000.

Hicksville residents attending the Barry Manilow concerts at Radio City Music Hall earlier in November would have seen some familiar faces among the back-up singers during the finale. The Hicksville High School Madrigal Singers joined youngsters from Garden City High School to perform as the chorus accompanying Mr. Manilow in his hit single "One Voice." "It was a great opportunity for our singers," said Madrigal Singers director Charles Arnold. "They acquitted themselves most professionally, and Hicksville should be very proud." The Madrigal Singers shown here in rehearsal with Mr. Arnold are (left to right) Lisa Dahse, Joe DeNicola, Lora Cusumano, Bob Senn, Tricia Losciale, Robert Hawhurst, Linda Strack, James Anglin, Dana Tarone, Sue Clancy, Joseph Zeoli, and Tina Sachs. Frank Walker, not pictured here, is also a member of the group.

Runner Honored On 60th Birthday

Sam takes the place of honor at the head of the run!

Sam Zinn reached his 60th Birthday this October, and a couple of dozen of his friends from the Plainview-Old Bethpage Road Runners Club joined with him in a special "Sam's 60th Birthday Celebration Fun Run" to help make the occasion a memorable one.

The group met in the parking lot adjacent to the Bethpage Police Boys club on Saturday morning, October 20 and ran an 8 mile course through the streets of Bethpage. When they returned to the lot they were greeted with a terrific bagels, juice and coffee breakfast spread, courtesy of Sam's wife Sylvia. Sam was presented with a number of gifts by his friends, along with a special commemorative plaque stating "You are 1st place in every category."

Happy 60th Birthday Sam, and many more!

Holiday Mailing Postal Tips

In addition to shopping and mailing early, customers are urged to properly address cards and packages with the name, house number and street (or post office box) number, and the city, state and ZIP Code reserved for the last line. Use of apartment numbers is encouraged.

It is also a good idea to put a slip of paper with the recipient's name and address and your return address inside parcels, and be sure the addressing on the outside of the parcel includes your return address and ZIP Code," Postmaster Murelló says.

Customers are also reminded to check the size of their envelopes before mailing Christmas and other holiday cards. Letter size standards require that envelopes be at least 3 1/2" high and 5" long to be accepted for mailing.

Parcels will arrive at their intended destination in good shape if you follow a few simple suggestions: Cushion - Make sure contents are well cushioned on all sides, top and bottom. Crumpled newspaper, commercially available foam shells or air-pocket padding and popped unbuttered popcorn are good cushioning materials.

Don't Overwrap - Just use your carton. Paper can rip and twine can become entangled in mail processing equipment.

Seal Properly - Close your packages with either pressure sensitive, nylon-reinforced kraft paper or glass-reinforced pressure sensitive tape. Put a slip with the address and return address inside the parcel.

Avoid Smudges - Use smudge-proof ink for your addressing.

Position Addresses Properly - Put recipient's address on lower right portion and your return address in upper left corner of only one side of package. Remove all other labels.

Use Zip codes - Include the Zip Code in the recipients and your address. Wrong Zip Codes can delay the mail.

Apartment Numbers - Using apartment numbers helps us deliver mail in large buildings.

Time It Right - Mail early in the month and early in the day.

Use The Right Service - Irreplaceable items should be sent by Registered Mail.

If You Run Out Of Time - Priority Mail affords First-Class handling for packages weighing up to 70 pounds. It can be sent from any post office to any address in the U.S. and is delivered in two or three days. We know just how important it is for your cards and packages to arrive on time. We want to make sure they do. So please mail early this year. Don't miss the joy.

Art Society Meets Monday

At the Independent Art Society meeting on Monday, December 3, at 7:30 p.m. in the Hicksville Library, 169 Jerusalem Avenue, Joseph Occipinti will demonstrate his expertise in oil painting. A gala refreshment hour will follow to ring in the holiday season. Everyone is cordially invited to join us. A dollar donation to help defray special expenses will be appreciated.

Our Children

By Willard Abraham
Ph.D.

Q. We have identical twin daughters who are just starting school, and my husband and I differ on how they should be handled.

I like dressing them alike and feel they should stay together in school, with the same teacher. They are the best of friends, and it seems cruel to me to separate them.

My husband feels exactly the opposite. He says they have to get used to living their own lives, and not to depend on each other too much.

What do you think? We value your judgment greatly.

A. I think it's a better part of diplomacy in a situation like this to excuse myself. It's not often that I hesitate about expressing my opinion, but this is a Solomon-like question.

However, I can't resist cautiously and carefully telling you that I tend toward your husband's attitude because your daughters will have a lot of time together anyway. If they are in different classrooms they will have even more to share with each other.

How do you other parents of twins feel about this matter? And you identical twins — what's your opinion? I'll share your reactions with this mother and also with other interested readers.

Q. Is it normal for a 4-year-old boy not to stay with a task more than a few minutes? I don't expect him to stick with a toy or game for an hour or anything like that, but 10 to 15 minutes would at least give me chance to get something done around the house.

See what I mean?

A "Normal" for many 4-year-olds is to move from activity to activity more frequently than some parents would like them to. If the activities are challenging to him (not too easy, but not so difficult that they might be frustrating), they may hold his attention longer than some currently in use.

I've sent you an article of mine which describes characteristics of most 4-year-olds. Another one on its way to you is called "You Can Select a Good Preschool" because it sounds as though your youngster (and you) might benefit from one.

Others can obtain copies of either or both if they send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with their request.

Q. I know that habits are hard to break, but isn't it true that the longer they last, the tougher it is to get rid of them?

Our 7-year-old girl has habits of hair twisting and gum chewing.

Some hints, please, on how to handle her.

A. Usually "Yes" to your question on habits (the longer they last the harder they are to break), and these suggestions: Compliments when she doesn't twist or chew; a hair arrangement that makes twisting less easy; helping her become aware of how pretty that new arrangement looks; substitut-

Bethpage H.S. Offers Two Books

The fall 1984 issues of "On Your Own," for seniors only, and "Sourcebook," just for juniors, are now being distributed at Bethpage High School.

Teenagers are fascinated with, and sometimes influenced by, the lives of their peers. In these issues of "On Your Own," for seniors only, and "Sourcebook," just for juniors, teenagers can read about young people who have discovered ways of enjoying life at an age that is often difficult.

In "On Your Own," seniors follow the adventures and experiences of an 18 year old body-building champion, a young woman who traveled to Borneo to study wild apes, and a talented Colorado senior who is turning his passion for woodworking into his profession. In another story, four college freshmen tell why they chose the schools they now attend and help seniors look at the college options available.

"Sourcebook" covers the special needs of juniors in articles that often relate the experiences of other students in coping with problems and challenges. Juniors can read about teenage entrepreneurs, and about students who've used early high school learning experiences to help them decide what to do after graduation.

"On Your Own," for seniors only, and "Sourcebook," just for juniors, are published and distributed free of charge by the U.S. Army.

'National Velvet' At Bethpage Library

On Saturday, December 22, the Bethpage Public Library will show the film classic "National Velvet" (Color - 123 minutes) for young people.

Here is heart-catching excitement galore as Elizabeth Taylor gallops her way to stardom in this famous, thrilling horse story. As Velvet Brown, a gifted young rider of fourteen, she spurs her beloved piebald horse to unforgettable victory in the greatest race in the world - England's Grand National.

Packed with enchantment and enjoyment at every turn, the famous MGM Production also features Mickey Rooney and Angela Lansbury.

Showtime is 2 p.m. and tickets are available now in the Bethpage Children's Room. All school age youngsters residing in District #21 are invited to attend. For information, please call 931-3907.

College Notes

Patty Bohman, a native of Bethpage, was a member of a 4-woman relay team that set a new school record for Utica College last Tuesday, November 13. Bohman, along with Fran Dobbins, Lauri Smith and Sue Schwerzler set the record in the 200 yard free relay with a time of 1:50.30 during a meet against Hartwick College. The old record was set in a time of 1:51.51.

Bohman, a senior, is majoring in Occupational Therapy. She is a 1981 graduate of Bethpage High School. She is the daughter of Mrs. Margaret Bohman of 65 Cypress Avenue, Bethpage.

Gilbert, Sullivan Comes To Bethpage

Bob Tartell (Pirate King) and Bill Boyle (Frederic)

The Gilbert and Sullivan Light Opera Company of Long Island, one of Long Island's oldest and best-loved theatrical companies, has begun a series of Gilbert and Sullivan operas in Bethpage. Its current production of "The Pirates of Penzance" will be presented at Bethpage High School Friday-Saturday, November 30-December 1, and will return for two performances Friday-Saturday, December 14-15.

Founded thirty-one years ago, the Company has a fine reputation for quality family entertainment, touring Long Island and New York with a repertoire of ten different G & S operas. Its members are drawn from all walks of life - doctors, lawyers, teachers, students and more, united by a love for Gilbert and Sullivan. The Company is sponsoring a series of productions at Bethpage High School, with two productions a year scheduled: the first, last June's "Ruddigore", was very well received, and after the current "Pirates of Penzance" the Company will bring "Patience" to Bethpage May 17-18 and May 31-June 1. Beyond then, the Company hopes that community response will be sufficient to motivate a continuation of the present series into the future as a vital part of Bethpage's cultural scene.

The "Pirates of Penzance" may be Gilbert and Sullivan's best-loved show, a musical comedy which has been a success on the Broadway stage, the television screen and the movie theater alike. It is the story of Frederic, a young man apprenticed as a child to a band of pirates through a nursemaid's error, who falls in love with Mabel, daughter of Major-General Stanley. Pirates blends comedy, excitement and beauty - its almost never-ending stream of classic songs includes "I Am the Very Model of a Modern Major-General," "A Policeman's Lot Is Not a Happy One," "Poor Wandering One," "I Am a Pirate King," "A Paradox, a Paradox" and many others - and is suitable for any audience. Children and adults alike delight in the witty patter of the Major-General, the boisterous swagger of the pirates, the lyric romanticism of Frederic and Mabel and the buffoonish antics of the slapstick policemen. Featuring two casts of the Company's finest singers and actors, this production promises an evening of exciting musical theater for the whole family.

The "Pirates of Penzance" will play at Bethpage High School on Stewart Avenue Friday-Saturday, November 30-December 1 and again December 14-15; all performances will begin at 8 p.m. Tickets are $5, $4 for children and senior citizens. Seating is limited, so reservations are advised - call IV3-0464.

Hicksville Schools Share Thanksgiving

Fork Lane School's kindergartners are always on the go! Last month, they toured a pumpkin farm and enjoyed a hayride. Recently, they had an even better treat! The kindergarten classes at Burns Avenue School, encouraged by Mrs. Grumo, issued an invitation to Mrs. Davan at Fork Lane and Miss Callahan at Woodland Avenue School. Burns Avenue was preparing to host a Thanksgiving feast and the other two schools were invited to join the festivities. When the big day arrived, Fork Laners, dressed as pilgrims, boarded their "Mayflower" bus for the voyage to Burns Avenue. Cranberry muffins were baked as their Thanksgiving offering. Woodland youngsters brought cakes and a big card designed for the event.

Upon arriving at their destination, they saw tables laden with bagels, cheese, mountains of fresh fruit, apple juice...and cupcakes reserved for dessert! Burns Avenue youngsters from Mrs. Grumo's and Mrs. Rosoff's class entertained their guests with several Thanksgiving-oriented songs. Then, Fork Lane pilgrims and Woodland/Burns Avenue Indians, sat down and devoured the feast in no time flat! Fork Lane principal Richard Jennett, as well as Drs. Burke and Clancy, principals from Burns Avenue and Woodland Avenue respectively, delighted in the event, as did Elayne Kabakoff and Beverly Brown, coordinators for the elementary enrichment gifted and talented program in Hicksville.

With bellies full, Mrs. Davan's class now looks forward to this week's trip to a circus performance at Nassau Coliseum. Can't wait to see what December brings at Fork Lane!

Christmas Sale At Flea Market

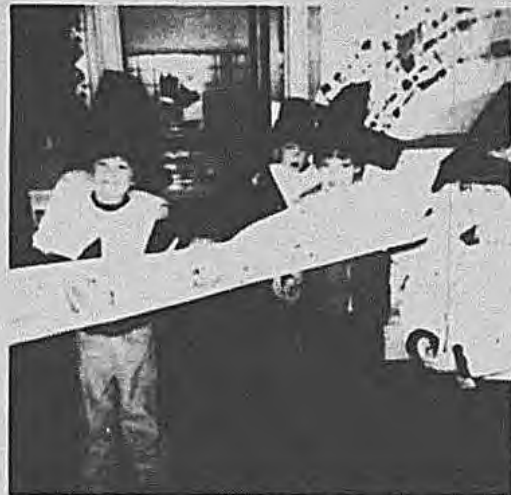

The Catholic Daughters Christmas sale and flea market will be held Saturday, December 8 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the St. Ignatius new school cafeteria, East Cherry Street, Hicksville. With Christmas in mind, there will be many hand crafted items for sale, holiday necessities of all kinds, home made cakes and candies, and best of all, in flea market style, all sorts of bric-a-brac, where you're bound to find something you can use. All are moderately priced and even the children can shop for little things. It is a sale or fair for all ages. Refreshments will be sold too.

Fork Lane kindergarten class saw Burns Ave. "Indians" sing "Ten Little Indians" in Thanksgiving gala.

Fork Lane pilgrims brave chilly wind as they board "Mayflower" for a trek to Burns Ave. where kindergarten classes enjoyed Thanksgiving feast. Woodland Ave. School also attended.

Are you sure the pilgrims started this way? Fork Lane kindergartners, complete with computerized Mayflower sign, prepare to embark on journey to Burns Ave. School of feast.

Mrs. Grumo's Burns Ave. class, prepare to dine.

Your Social Security

Q. I read something about Social Security benefits being taxed. I never heard of this before. Is it something new? — G.P.

A. Yes, this was one of the recent changes in Social Security.

Starting with the tax year 1984, if you have substantial income in addition to your Social Security benefit, up to one-half of your annual benefits may be subject to federal income tax.

No one will pay taxes on any more than half the Social Security benefits he or she receives.

Q. Social Security benefits have never been taxed before, why now? — G.W.

A. Congress, through the enactment of the 1983 Social Security amendments, decided that Social Security benefits should receive treatment similar to that given benefits from other retirement systems, public or private.

Furthermore, by taxing Social Security benefits and appropriating these revenues to the appropriate trust funds, the financial solvency of the Social Security trust funds is strengthened.

Q. How much of my benefit will be taxed? — J.S.

A. The amount of your benefits subject to the tax will be the smaller of one-half of your benefits, or one-half of the amount by which your adjusted gross income, plus tax-exempt interest, plus one-half of your Social Security benefits exceeds:

— $25,000, if you file as a single taxpayer.

— $32,000, if you are married and you file a joint return.

If you are married and live with your spouse at any time during the year and file separate returns, your base amount is zero.

Q. I am currently receiving Social Security benefits and have been since age 62. I am now age 66. Last year I had extensive surgery for cancer. Would I be entitled to disability Social Security? — L.B.

A. Even though you might meet the disability requirements you do not meet the age requirement. Disability benefits are paid only to disabled workers under age 65.

Q. I am now 69 years old. I married my husband Jan. 13, 1952, and divorced him in 1983. He hasn't retired yet, but has remarried. Can I get his Social Security whenever he does retire? — M.A.I.

A. Yes, however under a recent change in the law you may become entitled before he retires. Effective January 1985, a divorced spouse of a worker, who hasn't filed but who has reached age 62 and has the necessary quarters of coverage, can become entitled on the worker's record. The divorced spouse must be age 62, unmarried and have been divorced from the worker not less than two years.

Q. I understand that part of my Social Security benefits may be taxable income for 1984 and that I will receive a statement.

Will the Social Security benefit statement (Form 1099) come in the mail with my January check? — B.S.V.

A. No, the Social Security benefit statement (Form 1099) will be mailed separately to you sometime during the month of January. You should receive it by Jan. 31, 1985.

Q. I do not use medical facilities or a doctor. Do I have to pay the medical insurance premium? I no longer wish the premium deducted from my monthly Social Security check. — C.H.

A. You must submit a signed statement unequivocally requesting termination. However, before doing so, you should consider the consequences. You won't be able to re-enroll until the next general enrollment period (January through March of each year). In addition, there will be a gap in your coverage and the subsequent premium might be higher.

It would be well to discuss the matter in detail at your local Social Security office before taking any action.

Gleeb Paul Lowney

According to an ancient mystical belief, if you have absolute faith and go into a meditative trance, you can free your body from gravity and levitate high above the treetops.

Have you ever tried?

Once.

Were you successful?

No, I was a total failure.

What happened?

I only levitated about a foot-and-a-half.

Eat Yourself Slim

Fast-food choices — help for diabetics

By Shirley Bright Boody
Registered Dietitian

Dear Shirley: I am a 32-year-old man with diabetes. I can usually take care of myself pretty well, but lately I have been so busy at my job, I have had to eat nearly all my meals at fast-food restaurants, and I am having a problem using my exchange lists.

How can I find out more about the foods I am eating? Don't tell me to go to better restaurants, because I can't afford them.

Do you have any information that you could either send to me or put in your column? — F.G.

Dear F.G.: I don't have any material to send you, but I can tell you where to get it.

The International Diabetes Center, 4959 Excelsior Blvd., Minneapolis, MN 55416, has a very informative 31-page booklet that is intended to help diabetic people make proper food selections from 21 fast-food restaurants. It gives nutrition information on calories, carbohydrate, protein, fat and sodium content of their foods, and also lists exchange values. The cost is only $2.50, plus postage.

They also have a booklet to help diabetic people decide how some alcohol may fit into their diet, if desired. It lists the alcohol and nutrient content of most alcoholic beverages, and covers the effects of alcohol and blood glucose levels. The cost is $1, plus postage.

Dear Shirley: My husband took sick three years ago, and I was a wreck in the process. I lost a great deal of weight. He died in July, and now I have lost more. I am down to 80 pounds, and I have to gain it back.

I have been eating pies, cakes, ice cream and all the wrong things, but everyone keeps telling me to eat this stuff, including my doctor.

Could you help point me in the right direction and tell me what to eat so I can gain some weight? Please, please can you help me, Shirley? — V.Y.

Dear V.Y.: Yes, and my heart goes out to you. Many people lose weight severely when they are in the throes of worry and anxiety. You can (and must) regain your normal weight, and health. Here are some ways you can help yourself:

1. Get some daily exercise to help you sleep better and to increase appetite.

2. Avoid the sweets. They fill you up too fast and take away your appetite for better, more nutritious foods.

3. Eat three meals, but use dairy products, meats, fish, poultry, breads and cereals, and fruits and vegetables. If you're not hungry, try smaller servings. Add calories with margarine, butter, mayonnaise, dressings, gravies, etc.

4. Take several snacks during the day. Yogurt with fruit is excellent, and high in calories. Ask your pharmacist for a 'high-potency powder to mix with liquids, for a high-calorie, high-nutrition addition to your diet. Sustagen is one brand you might try, but there are many others.

5. Get some relaxation and enjoyment into your life. It doesn't help anyone for you to be miserable all the time.

6. Get as much rest as you can. Take an afternoon nap, especially after lunch.

7. Take a multivitamin, mineral supplement. Ask your pharmacist for one that has more thiamin. It may help stimulate your appetite.

8. Take a couple of glasses of wine, or cocktails, before your dinner. They will add calories, and offer a little relaxation.

9. Some people take a glass of wine before bed, to make them sleep better. You might try that. It's better than sleeping pills.

Quality Or Quantity?

When you advertise in a subscription newspaper you get quality readership. You know that EVERY copy of the newspaper has been invited into the home and three to four people will most likely read it.

When you buy quantity the only thing you might be sure of is that it has been hung on door knobs or thrown on lawns all over the neighborhood.

With our newspapers YOU ONLY PAY FOR COPIES that will be read. It is this quality that produces results. Do not waste money on wasted copies. Advertise here and get results.

Our (not so secret) ingredient
Readers = Results is the reason we are preferred over the largest metropolitan newspapers and the many throwaways.

In Memoriam

William L. Pearce
William L. Pearce, 69, a lifelong resident of Hicksville and a retired captain of the volunteer fire department, died November 23, at Smithtown General Hospital of a heart ailment.

Mr. Pearce, a house painter, had retired about 10 years ago, according to his wife, Lillian. Other survivors include two sons, Herbert of Centereach and William Jr. of Tucson, Ariz.; a daughter, Pamela Fuerst of Bethpage; and six grandchildren.

Fire department and religious services were conducted at the Vernon C. Wagner Funeral Home, Hicksville; burial, Pinelawn Memorial Park, Pinelawn.

The Plainview-Old Bethpage Road Runners Club is well known for holding highly innovative and unusual events, and the November 24, 105 mile "Point to View" Relay from Montauk Point to Plainview High School once again showed why.

Twenty-nine POBRRC members participated in the event, completing it in a total elapsed time of 14 hours, nine minutes. Jim McDougall, Tom Horan and John Loscalzo started the first of twenty-one 5 mile legs at the Montauk lighthouse at 3:30 a.m. and all twenty eight runners completed the last leg (including a lap around the Plainview High School track) at 5:39 p.m. There were a total of 21 five mile legs (the first four of them in complete darkness), with each runner doing at least three legs. Larry Davidson covered the most distance--40 miles, and Nancy Ackley did almost the entire course on her bicycle.

Congratulations to everyone who participated: Larry Davidson, Jim McDougall, Tom Horan, John Loscalzo, Harry Irwin, Julie Shapiro, Sue Wolf, Doreen Castellucci, Liz Flahavan, Roger Loberto, Bob Sherman, Gina Gelman, Shelly Horowitz, Don Weinstein, David Birdoff, Diane Dellasala, Robyn Ornstein, David Ornstein, Al End, Joe Rottino, Stan Wunderlich, Howie Ebert, Mike Polansky, Howie Greenberg, Andy Mulrain, Ira Eskow, Rich Cazakoff, Norman Lison and Nancy Ackley.

Roger Loberto, Shelly Horowitz and Bryan Mutnick provided the support vehicles. Sue Polansky hosted a great post-run party. Larry Davidson provided the inspiration and planning, and 29 athletes had the drive and determination to complete one of the most exciting events of the year.

Tree Trimming Contest At P.O.

The holiday season is upon us and the Hicksville Post Office reminds you to mail your cards and packages early.

To help get this message across the Hicksville Post Office is inviting all students in grade kindergarten through 6th grade to participate in our "Mail Early-Tree Trimming Contest". Students may make ornaments out of old Christmas cards or design their own Christmas card ornament or a Christmas stamp ornament. Stamp collecting kits will be awarded to the winner in each grade for the most attractive ornament.

The tree will be decorated on December 11 in the Hicksville Post Office lobby between 9:30 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. Santa will be on hand to help the children decorate the tree and to remind customers to mail early so that all the care and thought that you put into your cards and gifts will reach your favorite people in plenty of time for the holidays.

To help spread the joy of this season, students in 5th grade through high school are being asked to help the many shut-ins, disabled, elderly persons and others who are unable or find it difficult to address cards or wrap packages correctly.

"With a little bit of care, holiday cards and packages can arrive on time and in good shape," says Hicksville Postmaster Anthony M. Murillo.

Nassau County District Attorney Denis Dillon congratulates Ann Rogan of Hicksville upon her retirement from the District Attorney's office. Dillon commended Rogan for her years of dedicated service to the people of Nassau County. Rogan worked in the Appeals Bureau of the District Attorney's office in Mineola.

A reception was held at fire headquarters on November 18 for contest winner and parents, hosted by Chief Owen Magee, Program Chief Asst. Chief G. O'Brien, Chairman Lt. A. Wiggzinski, Vice Chairman of Building Fire Commissioners M. Krumenacker.

Fire officials were disappointed by the lack of participation from the Fork Lane, Lee Avenue, Old Country Road and Dutch Lane School. The contest is held to promote Fire Safety among the children of the area.

Congratulations to the winners and all others, who took part. The posters were outstanding. Certificates and smoke detectors were presented to the winners. Thanks go to Sears of Hicksville for the donation of the smoke detectors. (Photos by HFD Photo Unit)

Most Callers To Input Against Baboon Implant

Most callers to Input do not believe that doctors should continue to transplant organs from animals in humans in answer to this question: "Do you believe that the use of a baboon's heart as a transplant in a human can be justified? Here are some of the answers:

DIFFERENT ORGANS

When the original baboon heart transplant was attempted doctors thought that there might be a chance this form of transplant would work on Baby Fae, but as most people expected, it did not. There does not seem to be any reason to go on and on. Human organs, although appearing similar to animals, are different and it seems that this cannot be changed by doctors. N.T.

NO MORE

The answer is that it was worth a chance. We already believe that animals are here for the use of mankind as food and we kill animals every minute of the day so there could be little to condemn the experiment because it took the life of an animal. But the experiment did not succeed and few medical people think it will at least with the amount of knowledge presently at our command. Under the present circumstances, having tried, no further transplants should take place. V.E.

WORTH THE TRY

While I did not think that the transplanting of a baboon's heart would work, it seemed to me that it should have been tried because a human life is superior to that of an animal and should the experiment have succeeded it would have opened up a whole new facet of medical science. It failed badly and therefore I do not think it should be tried again. K.E.

UNETHICAL

It is too bad that the baboon's heart had to be tried on an infant who could not say whether she wanted this experiment or not. But given the size of the animal's heart it probably had to be implanted into a baby. I think the experiment lacked a great deal of wisdom and should be ruled unethical at this time. J.R.

SOME LEARNING

There is no real reason why the baboon's heart could not have functioned. Implants from other animals have been made successfully. In this case the infant was all but lost and it was a last ditch effort. Science may have learned what happened so that the implants will continue and work. B.W.

OUT OF BOUNDS

It is gruesome to believe that we are now killing animals, using real live people to make experiments on and failing so poorly. The whole world of medical science has gotten out of bounds and is going overboard to do the spectacular thing and yet medicine cannot cure the common cold. K.E.

WE KNOW ANSWER

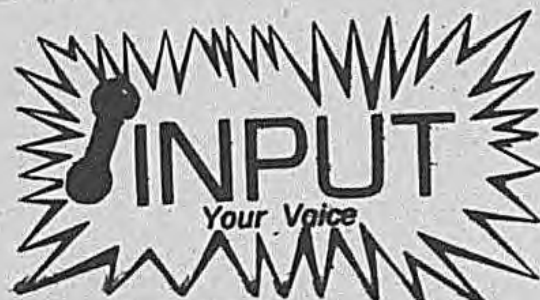

We are now the Monday morning quarterbacks and we know the answer. The implant failed, the baby died so the doctors must be wrong. If it had gone the other way the same people would be blowing kisses to the doctor. I cannot personally condemn the implant. It may result in some new valuable knowledge in time. G.R.

DON'T CONTINUE

I guess I've been preparing myself for this question ever since the news broke that Baby Fae had received a transplant of a baboon's heart. My initial reaction was negative and as the infant fought to stay alive, I began to add up the pluses and minuses with the latter category increasingly overriding the former as the days wore on. The human being has been endowed with a special dignity and a niche all his and her own since the first recorded history of mankind. Along with this heritage, we have been blessed with an intelligence which separates us from the rest of the animal kingdom in ways in which comparisons can not be made to justify a commonality. Part of this intelligence, aside from our many and increasing accomplishments, is our pride, a feeling which is an ingrained sense of individuality, personality and place in human society. To dilute this even in extreme cases by a non-human heart transplant would, in my view, create a psychological block in the mind and ego of the recipient as well as among his peers. The odds are that the transplant will be rejected but medical science insists upon the opportunity to challenge those odds. I find no overwhelming reason to support a continuance of such transplants especially in infants who do not have the power of denial and, if it were to be put to a test of public opinion, I believe that the vast majority of thinking human beings would reject it without qualification. P.G.S.

UNKNOWN FACTOR

It seems to me that we are now tampering with an unknown factor when we begin implanting animal organs into human bodies. There seems also to be a little discrepancy over the Baby Fay issue and whether all the necessary procedures were followed according to prior medical knowledge. Something about the whole operation did not sit right with me. I really don't know what, I just know that I was not in favor of it.

DISCOVERY

Jury Duty: Obligation Or Inconvenience?

By Joan T. Behan

Recently after returning from a three week vacation I was confronted with an abundance of mail which included bills, letters, periodicals, political flyers and last but not least, a subpoena to serve as a trial juror. For some strange reason I had never gotten one of these notices before and I was quite disturbed by the fact that I could not request a postponement for employment reasons. My employer was less than happy since this additional absence from the office would have adverse affect on the work load and there was no replacement for me during my absence.

Upon arriving at the Central Jury at 8:30 a.m. on the Tuesday following a holiday, I was instructed to proceed to the auditorium which held 21 rows of seats with 18 seats in each row. The boredom which ensued was one of the reasons I resorted to counting chairs during the next few days.

When the room was filled, a court officer entered and showed a film describing the duties and advantages of serving as a trial juror. After the film a judge, properly attired in courtroom garb addressed the audience of about 500 persons, personally thanking them for volunteering their services. This brought a round of laughter, since almost everyone was here at a command performance and not as a volunteer.

Anxiety was amiss as names began to be announced over the microphone for individuals to proceed to the clerk's desk and then on to the jury room. After sitting in an uncomfortable seat for 6 hours, my name was finally called. The group of jurors in which I was included was ushered into a bus and transported about 1/8 of a mile to criminal court. Upon arriving we were escorted to a room comparable to a subway car and waited another 1/2 hour before entering the courtroom. When the judge on the bench recognized me as a former co-worker, I was immediately dismissed and told to return to the auditorium again. Since the bus that brought me over was not available, I walked back to the central jury where I sat for the remainder of the day.

The following morning the scenario was the same, i.e. report to the auditorium, the 20 minute film, the address by the same judge and then the waiting game. Conversation among the jurors was mostly about how much each of us wished we could have gotten out of this burdensome obligation. I even heard people say they would do almost anything including feigning illness if necessary so as to be excused.

As the week continued and I sat in the auditorium listening to hear my name, I was glad I was there as a juror and not a defendant because I realized the method of selecting a juror who must decide the guilt or innocence of an individual is pre-empted by so much aggravation, it would be difficult to find a juror with any interest in any case after sitting and waiting and waiting and waiting....

In my judgment most jurors would say almost anything the attorneys wanted to hear just to get dismissed from Jury Duty.

Finally, at 4 p.m. on Friday, the court officer announced that all those jurors not assigned to a case would be dismissed. Before he finished speaking he was greeted with a round of applause and a standing ovation. Needless to say all of us who survived this horrendous ordeal hope that we are never called again for jury duty.

READER RATINGS

UNANIMOUS

Being Italian myself, I am sometimes hard to please at the many Italian Restaurants that have sprung up all over.

Last week we went to the LaCisterna Restaurant in Mineola. Our party tried out many things and I can truthfully say everyone was complimentary about the food, which included tender veal, fettucine, matricana and excellent pasta. The salads were also fine with very fresh ingredients. There were six of us for dinner last week and it was unanimous that they told me to call and recommend LaCisterna. A.P.

RATED HIGH

There is a truly wonderful Italian restaurant in New Hyde Park. It has not been there a long time but it rates high with me. It is called the Fianona. This great Italian restaurant has some of the best Italian food around and that is saying plenty because Long Island has many good Italian restaurants.

We went to the Fianona last week and had wonderful veal in one dish which was made marsala and another in our party had shrimp parmigiana and said that it was truly the best recipe he had ever eaten.

The service at the Fianona is very good and friendly. The restaurant does get crowded as we found out but it did not interfere with the service. We vote for Fianona as really tops. N.B.

"One thing I'm sure of, you're going to like the way DEVINS looks, the owners' goal was to achieve the feel of Edwardian England, but it is sufficiently eclectic to include echoes of New Orleans and Paris....The fish here is properly fresh and the meat is properly aged, and great care is taken in their presentations. Here, I must pause to compliment the service. No matter how good the main dishes..... the desserts are better."

VIEW PLUS FOOD

Usually when you go to a restaurant that has spent much to provide an elegant atmosphere you are disappointed in the food. That is not true at the Coral House in Baldwin. In the new Victorian era dining room you feel wonderful in the surroundings of trees, plants and displays.

We were glad to see that the lakeside view was not the only thing good about the Coral House. We went there last week and enjoyed a great roast beef dinner and all of the accompanying vegetables and salad. The Coral House is really a wonderful and different place to visit. It should be highly recommended to your readers.

SPANISH CASTLE

Last week four of us tried a restaurant listed in your newspaper. It was actually the first time that we had been to a genuine Spanish restaurant. I must say that it was one of the best experiences in restaurants that we have had. We visited the Zarzuela Restaurant in Rockville Centre.

The decor reminds you of a visit to a Moorish castle where the service is friendly and fine.

We had excellent food at the Zarzuela and would recommend it to anyone. It has wonderful fish and meat dishes. In our party of four everyone had a different entree and everyone was well pleased.

READER RATINGS

Q. The other day I went to a restaurant and the waitress said to me, "What are you drinking?" And I said coffee. She and other people smiled because she meant an alcoholic beverage when in fact I do not drink. Shouldn't she ask the question differently? T.W.

A. The answer is Yes. And you need not have felt sheepish about your answer, it was perfectly correct. To not be a drinker is surely nothing to be ashamed of. In fact the other side might have more to hide.

Q. On one or more time I have called your Reader Ratings to say that I disagreed with someone's assessment of a restaurant, but I never saw the call printed. Aren't you interested in any criticism? F.H.

A. We certainly do want to hear all sides about restaurants that are featured here. We carefully look over all points of view. When something involves service or food we send the criticism on to the restaurant. If criticisms mount, we spot visit the restaurant and on several occasions we have discontinued a restaurant. But not all complaints mean that the place is bad, it could mean that they had an off day and do better most of the time. We try to distinguish.

Q. The other night we noticed two acquaintances having dinner at a nearby table. My husband wanted to go over and say hello but I told him to wait till they were finished eating. Unfortunately they left before we did and we thought perhaps they thought we ignored them. What should we have done? H.T.

A. It was right to wait for them to finish eating and it would not have been very gracious to interrupt. But you might have sent a card or message to the table via the waiter if you really wanted to chat with them or just say "hello".

Q. When you're eating in a coffee shop or at a drugstore counter, what are you supposed to do with the paper containers you use for mustard, sugar and things like that? C.B.

A. It's nice to fold them neatly and deposit them in the ashtray, if it's not being used. Otherwise, one may deposit them on the saucer of the coffee cup or under the rim of a plate.

Q. I was always taught that when a man who is not "loaded" takes a woman to a restaurant, his date should order very lightly. Is this true today?

A. Yes, and it's equally true if a woman is footing the bill for a male guest. It's just basic good manners when you're someone's guest to order modestly. If your host insists you have something grander, and says he or she is "going to have the fillet of beef" this evening, you as the guest may certainly follow suit.

If the guest orders first, it's nice to go easy, if one doesn't know the personal situation of the host.

A person in business is severely called to task if the expense accounts are too high, so don't think that just because there is one the sky is the limit.

FINE PLACE
A fine new restaurant has opened on Hillside Avenue in Williston Park. It is called Your Place or Mine and it is a really fine place to eat. One caution, though, don't go there without reservations. The premises are small and every table seems to be accounted for at mealtime.

The decorations are what might be called eclectic and the food is great. Each day they have a different menu we are told, and the specials of the day are read by one of the owners named Philis. We had fine prime rib on the Thursday night we were there, and enjoyed the added dip vegetables given before the meal, and the delicious salad which showed imagination. Everyone we have talked to thinks Your Place or Mine is one of the greatest. E.R.

Olive oil — a gift from the gods

According to the Greeks, it all started with a power struggle on Mount Olympus. There, according to the annals of Greek mythology, Athena and Poseidon had a fight about who should govern Greece. A jury of gods agreed to decide in favor of the one who presented them with the most useful gift for mankind.

Neptune gave a horse. Athena gave a twig that, she stated, would become a staunch tree capable of living for centuries, whose fruit would be edible and "from which an extraordinary liquid would be extracted for the preparation of man's food and the alleviation of his wounds."

Athena won. And so did the food lovers of the world.

Olive oil has been imparting its full rich flavor, its distinctive fragrance and its beautiful sheen to cooking ever since.

To consumers just getting acquainted with the glories of olive oil, the modern-day array of oils and their specific designations is mind-boggling.

— Extra virgin olive oil, the best the marketplace has to offer, has less than 1 percent oleic acid (the higher the acidity the sharper the taste), is free of impurities and possesses perfect flavor, odor and color. It is made from the highest grade of small, hand-picked olives, in a totally or almost totally by-hand process.

— Virgin olive oil complies with all the conditions for extra virgin olive oil except that it has between 1 percent and 1½ percent acidity.

— Pure olive oil consists of the pressed oils that do not qualify as either extra virgin or virgin, and are refined by steam and caustic soda. After the refining process, small amounts of extra virgin oil are blended into these pale, fluid, almost tasteless oils to restore some flavor and color. Ninety percent of all the olive oil available in the United States today is pure. Pure olive oils like Progresso, Berio, Bertolli and Pompeian are mild in flavor and reasonably priced.

Consumers are wise to purchase olive oil from a known and reliable source who will be familiar with the oils' producers, and to read the labels carefully. If there is no grade on the label, it is safe to assume that it is pure.

Authorities say that olive oil never should be stored in plastic bottles, as the oil picks up the plastic flavor.

Though there remains some debate on the merits of storing olive oil in the refrigerator; most experts say such a practice should be avoided. Olive oil is said to have the longest shelf life of any cooking oil. Nevertheless, for optimum taste and aroma, it should be used within 18 months of opening.

CAESAR SALAD

- 4 breadsticks, broken into bite-size pieces
- ½ cup olive oil
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 head romaine lettuce, washed and dried
- 1 tsp. salt
- ¼ tsp. freshly ground black pepper
- 1 egg
- 3 tbsps. wine vinegar
- 6 anchovies, chopped
- 1 tbsp. capers, chopped
- ¼ cup grated Romano or Parmesan cheese

Soak breadsticks in mixture of ¼ cup oil and garlic.

Tear lettuce into bowl. Season with salt and pepper; pour remaining oil over it and toss to coat lettuce. Break raw egg into bowl and toss again. Add vinegar, anchovies and capers. Toss again. Finally add cheese and breadsticks. Toss and served.

Serves 2 to 4.

From "Pleasures of Italian Cooking" by Romeo Salta. MacMillan Publishing Co.

GRILLED SCAMPI

- 2 lbs. raw shrimp
- ¾ cup olive oil
- ¾ tsp. salt
- ½ tsp. freshly ground black pepper
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 3 tbsps. minced parsley
- Lemon wedges

Wash shrimp; shell and devein. Drain well.

Mix together oil, salt, pepper, garlic and parsley. Marinate shrimp in mixture 1 hour, basting and turning frequently. Remove shrimp and thread on four or six wooden skewers or long toothpicks. Arrange on baking sheet. Broil 10 minutes, turning skewers and basting with marinade several times. Serve immediately with lemon wedges.

Serves 4 to 6.

SPAGHETTI AGLIO E OLIO

- (Spaghetti with oil, garlic and parsley)
- ¼ cups olive oil
 - 4 whole cloves garlic
 - 1 lb. spaghetti (thin spaghetti), cooked and drained
 - ¼ cup minced parsley

Heat oil in skillet; brown garlic and discard. Pour oil over hot drained spaghetti, sprinkle with parsley and toss lightly.

Serves 4.

SPAGHETTINI WITH FRESH BASIL AND TOMATO SAUCE

- 1 large bunch fresh basil, preferably with smallest possible leaves
- 2 cups canned Italian plum tomatoes, seeded, drained and coarsely chopped
- 5 large cloves garlic, peeled and chopped fine
- 1/2 cup olive oil, more if desired
- Salt
- Freshly ground pepper, about 6 twists of the mill
- 1 lb. spaghetti (thin spaghetti)

Pull off all basil leaves from stalks, rinse briefly in cold water and roughly chop. Yield should be about 1 1/2 to 2 cups. Put chopped basil, tomatoes, garlic, olive oil, 1 teaspoon salt and pepper in uncovered saucepan and cook over medium-high heat for 15 minutes. Taste and correct for salt.

Drop spaghetti in 4 quarts boiling salted water. Spaghetti should be truly al dente, very firm to the bite.

Drain spaghetti in large colander, giving colander two or three vigorous upward jerks to make all water run off, and transfer quickly to large hot bowl. Add sauce, mixing it thoroughly into spaghetti. You may add few drops of raw olive oil. Serve immediately.

Serves 4.

BISTECCA ALLA FIORENTINA (Beefsteak, Florentine Style)

- 2 (1 lb.) shell steaks (strip sirloin, T-bone)

- 2 tbsps. lemon juice
- 2 tbsps. minced parsley

Buy steak with bone left in. Trim most of fat. Let stand in mixture of oil, 2 tablespoons melted butter and pepper 30 minutes, turning steak over once or twice to coat.

Steaks are customarily broiled over charcoal fire, but very hot broiler will do. Broil steaks 5 minutes on each side, or to desired degree of rareness, turning only once. Salt to taste.

While steaks are broiling, melt 4 tablespoons butter. Stir in lemon juice and parsley. Pour over steaks.

Serves 2 to 4.

Chinese vegetarian cooking

By Olivia and Paul Bensen

Vegetarian cooking has a long history in China. As early as the third century B.C. Buddhists and Taoists in China shunned the eating of meat for religious reasons. The Buddhists believed that the killing of animals for any reason was wrong, and the Taoists believed that eating meat prevented one from experiencing and joining the natural harmony of the universe.

Though their reasons for abstaining from meat differed, Chinese Buddhists and Taoists developed quite similar cuisines over the centuries. The only real point of divergence was that Buddhists avoided garlic, leeks, scallions and onions, believing that they inflamed the passions, while Taoists valued these plants for both culinary and medical purposes.

Over time, Chinese vegetarian cuisine became very refined and sophisticated. Since the ingredients in the diet of a religious community were relatively limited, chefs used textures, colors and seasonings to produce a wide variety of delicious vegetarian dishes.

Buddhist and Taoist monasteries offered hospitality to wayfarers, and travelers were invited to join the monks for meals. "Temple food," as the vegetarian cuisine became known, grew so popular that restaurants specializing in it appeared in several Chinese provinces.

Oriental chefs also became proficient in preparing meatless dishes that imitated the textures and tastes of poultry, seafoods and meat, and which provided the protein and often is lacking in meatless diets. Bean curd, with its high protein content and versatile texture, is ideal for such recipes. Today's recipe for Spicy Szechuan Bean Curd is a good example.

Seasonings such as the hot peppercorns of Szechuan Province, which are included in some of our recipes for today, add a piquant touch to vegetable dishes.

Though meat has been a status food in China for much of this century, vegetarian cooking is now

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Q. Accidentally, a plastic bag caught on fire and was dropped on my new kitchen carpet (indoor/outdoor). I got some of the melted plastic off, but some is still melted on top of the rug.

Please advise what chemical I can use or action I can take to repair the damage. The rug is new and I love it. — E.J.A.

A. Unfortunately, the carpet is probably damaged by heat as well as the melted plastic of the bag. This type of carpeting has a tendency to "melt" when exposed to high heat. So, the fibers are damaged and your best method of repairing the damage is to replace the small section of carpet.

Hopefully, since the carpet is new you may have some small remnants you can use. The damaged area should be cut out and replaced with an inset of the new carpet. You can do this, or call on a professional carpet installer.

Q. I did not put an undercoat of paint on the front door, which is made of wood. It has warped. Can I straighten it? — G.R.S.

A. The warping may or may not be attributed to lack of an undercoat of paint. Warping is often due to the entrance of moisture into the wood, causing the wood fibers to expand. There is probably an unsealed edge on the door.

Take the warped door off and place it, concave side up, across wooden horses, or chair backs, after removing the present finish down to the bare wood. The door must remain undisturbed for about a week, in a dry, well-ventilated area. Place heavy weights (large books, large rocks or heavy bricks) on the ends, to gradually straighten the door.

When straightened, sand the surface smooth, wipe off any dust and be sure there is no trace of grease, wax, soot, etc. Then finish with shellac, varnish or enamel, as desired, being sure to finish and seal all edges as well as both surfaces, to prevent entrance of moisture.

Q. I look forward to your most helpful ideas and thank you so much. Some time ago you ran an article on how to remove wax buildup on furniture and then re-wax and polish the surface.

I have misplaced the information and wonder if you can print these details again? — Mrs. R.H.F.

A. To clean away the heavy buildup you'll need several soft clean cloths and a supply of mineral spirits (paint thinner).

Saturate a cloth with mineral spirits and rub briskly in the direction of the wood grain. Work on a small area at a time. Dry with a clean cloth before moving to the next area.

Soil left behind by the mineral spirits often can be removed with a clean cloth dampened in sudsy water. Rinse with a fresh cloth dampened in clear water and wipe dry immediately.

Finally, apply wax or oil-base polish.

It is important when you use mineral spirits, a highly flammable solvent, that you use great care. Keep windows open as you work. Follow all of the safety precautions listed on the label.

Q. Our house is covered with white vinyl siding. The spiders have it covered with black marks.

Is there anything that will remove these marks and is there anything I could spray with to keep them away? We've been using Fantastic. This removes the black marks, but leaves brown marks underneath.

Our house is really covered with these marks. I would certainly appreciate any help. — R.L.P., Maryland

A. First, you should have a professional exterminator spray your yard and all the surrounding area of the house to eliminate the spiders.

Then wash the vinyl siding with a solution of two-thirds cup trisodium phosphate, one-third cup detergent, 1 quart household bleach in 3 quarts of warm water. Rinse well, and if the stains remain your only solution is to paint the siding.

Mainly For Seniors

By John T. Watts

Dear John: I would have written sooner, but I just noticed the advice you gave in your article printed in June 1984.

You agreed with a writer who touted the virtues of vinegar and honey as a cure, or help, for arthritis. I am really surprised that you accepted this theory because vinegar and honey are an unproved remedy for arthritis. No research findings ever have found any curative powers in such a concoction.

I enclose one of our pamphlets for your interest. The best thing for arthritis is to get to a doctor (preferably a rheumatologist) — for diagnosis and treatment. Therapies include drug therapy, physical and occupational therapy and exercise, plus the development of the right mental attitude. There is no cure for arthritis, but doctors all over the country are working toward one.

We'd appreciate your efforts to educate the elderly. It is important to keep our senior Americans informed about issues of importance to them. — William Hockensmith, associate director, Arthritis Foundation

Dear Bill: I do appreciate your polite letter. Notes from foundation officials haven't been so restrained since I quit distributing their booklets about 12 years ago.

I do not say there is any cure for arthritis. I do say that people have a right to tell their experiences. Otherwise what are we living in; a dictatorship?

Now I want you to read the following letter, which is typical of many I have received:

Dear John: First a few lines to say thank you for the information you sent me about Certo and grape juice. I am using it now. Results have been very good. My arthritis was so bad I had trouble walking before. Now I hardly feel it at all.

Here is a small donation. I am not trying to pay you. I would like to say again thank you many times. — Horace Fultz

P.S. It's better than the doctor's prescriptions for me.

Dear Horace: I took the liberty of using your full name because your letter might have been considered phony by some. With your permission, I will also give out your address to people legitimately requesting it.

I want to thank you, too, for your note and for the $5 donation accompanying it. I sent out so many thousands of the arthritis leaflets when they were printed that I became ashamed of myself.

So I undertook the expense myself, asking readers to send a little donation. I thought, that would cut down on the requests, but they only accelerated. Readers clipped out the column and sent it to their relatives and friends. Believe it or not, one was from Paris.

So I hope Mr. Hockensmith will understand that I am not trying to "doctor" through this column. I am just trying to give people back their right of free speech and offer them a chance to exchange their views about many things.

I do not necessarily approve of any of their ideas, but I think they have a right to state them. For a long time I held back on writing anything about vinegar and honey, but I kept getting so many letters on it that I had to include it in the leaflet.

Mr. Hockensmith also probably wouldn't approve of the arthritis diet in the leaflet, as the Arthritis Foundation maintains that what we eat has nothing to do with arthritis.

Dear John: I read your column on psoriasis and treating it with aloe vera gel and Vaseline. I tried to purchase aloe gel at the drugstore, but nobody seems to stock it. — Bill

Dear Bill: Keep trying. Many druggists are now stocking aloe vera, or if you inquired you can locate an agent.

Notice: Due to lack of interest, we are discontinuing the pen pal lists. We have on hand enough unpublished names for a new list. If you desire this final list please send a self-addressed envelope and $1 to this column.

TWEEN 12 & 20

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 16-year-old girl and my problem concerns, what else, a guy. About a month ago I met a super guy and we hit it off real well. He called me every day, but said we couldn't date yet because he was trying to break up with his girlfriend and it was going to take time. He told me to wait and it wouldn't be long.

Well, last week we did go out secretly and we both had a super time. He told me he really cared for me, and that made me feel like I was in heaven. The next day when I came home from school he called and said that he still cared for his girlfriend. I cried and "pitched a fit."

Dr. Wallace, I'm really confused how he can possibly care for this girl. He kept telling me she treated him horribly. I really care for this guy. Should I fight to keep this guy or should I let his girlfriend have him back? — Tish

Tish: It's obvious that this boy prefers his girlfriend rather than you. If you are wise you will wait for this guy to break up with this girl before you go out with him again.

While you're waiting (just so you won't be bored), you can be dating Bob or Dale or Richard or Billy or all of them!

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 17-year-old girl and during this summer I took a class at the local college. Well, during the semester I met a young man who is 27 years old and we've been great friends ever since. Both my parents met him and had a chance to talk to him, and they both agree that he is a really terrific guy of high moral standards and approved of our friendship. My mother even complimented me on my judgment of character and found him to be a perfect gentleman.

The class has ended and now my mother's attitude has changed completely. She keeps telling me that she "just can't imagine what a 27-year-old man would want with a 17-year-old girl."

Dr. Wallace, all my teachers consider me mature for my age and the majority of my friends are older than I. I also am a Christian and so is he. We have no intention of getting "involved"; we just enjoy each other's company. Besides, it would be nice to have someone who has already gone through the problems of growing up to be able to turn to when I need to talk to somebody.

Please help me, this relationship means a lot to me and I'd hate to lose it over a misunderstanding and overprotectiveness. — Diana

Diana: Assure your parents that you have no thought of dating this young man and that he is still the terrific guy with high moral standards whom they approved of not so long ago. You must convince your parents that no romance is involved. They saw no harm when you both were students — but now, class is over.

Dr. Wallace: I am 16 and have never been permitted to date or have any of my friends come to my house. Recently, my mother and I had a horrible fight and I moved in with my grandmother.

My grandmother allows girls to visit me but says my mother does not want a boy to visit me even though my grandmother is home. Do you see anything wrong for a boy to visit a girl at her house? — Mary

Mary: I can't think of a better place for a boy to visit a girl than in her home. That's what the home should be for — a haven for good friends.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 19-year-old guy and I'm in love with a beautiful girl with a marvelous personality. Everyone tells us we are a perfect couple. Our problem is that we are second cousins. Is it legal for us to get married? — Thomas

Thomas: This seems to be the season for second cousins (kissing cousins?) to be falling in love.

Even though we have answered this question several times, we still receive many letters about second cousins marrying. The answer is — yes, they can and do marry — legally!

Dr. Wallace: I've got a real problem. I am 14 and so is my best friend, Nancy, who happens to be a very beautiful girl. Maybe gorgeous and stunning are better words. Of course, I'm not in her category but I'm also no "Bride of Frankenstein" either.

Whenever we go somewhere together she attracts all the boys, and I mean every last one. Well, I'm getting tired of being left out in the cold all the time. Please tell me what to do. — Jo Ann Jo Ann: We know how Nancy gets the guys — her beauty. Use wit, charm, humor and the slightest bit of aggressiveness. You won't win them all but it will keep you from being left out in the cold all the time.

Genuine Delft made in Holland

Q. This porcelain plaque (hand painted) is 6 1/2 by 9 1/2 inches. On the back is the mark "KPM" with a "W" below and a scepter above. I would like to know its origin and value.

A. The mark you described was used by the Konigliche Porzellan Manufaktur in Berlin from 1830 to 1840. The "W" stands for William Wegeley, manager of KPM. A piece like this could bring several thousand dollars, so I suggest you have it examined by a local expert for authentication.

Elephant Collector's Society, 89
Massachusetts Ave., Box 7, Boston,
MA 02115.

Q. Enclosed is a picture of my Delft plate. The back is marked "Delft, RXC" under a crown and "Germany." What can you tell me about it?

A. Your plate is Delft type, genuine Delft is made in Holland. This was made by Rosenthal China in Selb, Germany, and would be worth $40 to $50. It was made around the turn of the century.

Antiques Collectibles

Q. I have always been fascinated by elephants. Is there a field of collectibles that would cover them? Are the prices very high? Is there a club devoted to this field?

A. You picked a good category, all kinds of elephants are collected. Some people concentrate on figurines, either ivory or bronze. The prices range from $5 for a small glass elephant to an antique carved wood one for $4,500. The collectors' club is The National

Q. The enclosed mark is on the bottom of my Hummel figurine No. 82. It is a small boy with a knapsack on his back. How old is it and how much is it worth?

A. Your Hummel "School Boy" was made between 1958 and 1960. It should be worth at least $250.

Doctor's Forum

Gout sufferers an elite group

Q: I have gout in my big toe. What exactly causes gout and why is uric acid significant?

A: Are there any cures or preventive measures that can be taken? — H.C.

A: Congratulations! By suffering an acute attack of gouty arthritis, you have passed through the initiation rites for admission to the world's most illustrious fraternity. The number of social and political leaders of past ages who have been afflicted with gouty arthritis is far greater than the incidence of gout in the general population.

A better reason for rejoicing is that you have a form of arthritis that is now well understood and readily treated. Even though we have a single one-time treatment or "cure," you can lead an essentially normal life as a result of progress in medical research, providing you see your family doctor or a rheumatologist and follow his or her advice faithfully for the rest of your life.

You have gout because the concentration of a waste end-product of purine metabolism, uric acid, is too high in your serum. It exceeds the solubility limit of its sodium salt, so sodium urate deposits develop as needle-shaped crystals in and about the joints and tendons.

From time to time, the body decides to do housecleaning and mounts an inflammatory reaction directed against the crystals, in which white cells engulf the crystals and treat them as they would during combat with an invading microorganism. This gives rise to the acute attack of gout which, as you well know, is exquisitely painful.

If untreated, the acute attacks eventually subside over a period of days to a week or so with complete recovery. However, the attacks usually recur at increasingly frequent intervals over the years and can lead to a chronic and disabling inflammation, usually associated with more dense accumulations of crystalline deposits or nodules, called tophi, about the joints and tendons. The pressure of such accumulations within the joint can lead to erosion of cartilage and bone, producing a permanent type of joint damage.

Q: I have colitis, but after the birth of my baby my colitis seems to have disappeared.

Can the disease be inherited? Is it possible that I will have problems with it again? S.M.

A: There are several types of chronic colitis.

The least harmful type ("spastic colitis," "mucous colitis," "spastic bowel") is bothersome but usually not injurious to health.

The more serious types ("ulcerative colitis," "granulomatous colitis," or simply "inflammatory bowel disease") may cause bleeding, fever, weight loss, and debilitating diarrhea, although, fortunately, they are usually not this severe.

Although we do not know what causes these severe types of colitis, we do know how they behave. At times symptoms are severe and require vigorous treatment, sometimes even surgery. At other times, for reasons we do not understand, symptoms become mild or disappear.

We cannot predict how long serious symptoms will continue nor how long remissions will last. In some patients symptoms disappear for years or even for life. In others, remissions may last for months or years, but eventually severe symptoms will recur.

We believe that patients with severe types of chronic colitis whose symptoms disappear still have the underlying disease and require periodic examinations by their physicians. It is possible that you may have problems with your colitis again, so you should continue to see your physician periodically and notify him or her should your symptoms begin again.

The severe types of colitis are not inherited in the same direct way as, for instance, hair color or eye color. There is, however, a tendency for them to occur more often in members of families in which one member already has colitis than in members of families in which no member has had colitis. The tendency is not strong.

Your baby has a higher chance of having colitis than if no one in the family had had colitis, but because the disease is so unusual, it is more likely that your child will never have colitis.

Dr. William Hardison, professor of medicine, University of California, San Diego, School of Medicine.

Points on Pets

Q. My 12-year-old poodle has been diagnosed by my veterinarian as having chronic congestive heart failure. The medicine that I am giving her seems to help.

I am wondering why dogs with heart disease cough a lot.

A. With chronic congestive heart failure, the heart is not able to pump blood efficiently. This is usually due to a change in the valve between the chambers of the heart. The valves are no longer able to close adequately.

When this happens, the heart tries to compensate by enlarging and pumping faster. The rest of the body also tries to compensate by retaining fluids. This is related to salt retention, which increases the amount of fluid in the body.

When the body retains salt, this creates an excess of fluid throughout the body, including the lungs. This makes the dog cough. The fluid is deep in the lungs and cannot be easily coughed up.

Treatment of heart failure in dogs involves drugs to strengthen the heart's contractions, diuretics to reduce the amount of fluid in the dog's body, salt-free diets and limited exercise. Usually a short time after beginning these treatment steps, the bouts of coughing will decrease.

With careful veterinary supervision, dogs with heart disease can live almost normal lives.

Q. Our 1-year-old Lhasa Apso recently got bred by our neighbor's mongrel. I saw the breeding occur.

What should I have done? Does it do any good to try to knock the male dog off the female?

A. I went to get a broom. However, by the time I got back into the yard, the mongrel was gone. This whole thing really upsets me.

A. At the time of the tie or breeding there is really nothing you can or should do. You should wait for the dogs to release.

If you try to separate the dogs by using physical abuse or by dousing the pair with water, you will accomplish nothing and may actually cause severe injury to your dog.

Following the breeding you should take your female to your veterinarian. Your veterinarian can treat the dog with hormonal therapy to prevent pregnancy. This therapy is most effective if begun within 48 hours following breeding. Dousing is completely ineffective in trying to prevent pregnancy following breeding.

If you do not desire any puppies in the future, you should have your dog spayed. Spaying is a routine surgery during which the dog's ovaries and uterus are removed. Following spaying the dog will not ever exhibit external signs of heat or of being in season. The incidence of complications following spaying is very low.

If you do not have your dog spayed and desire puppies from your dog by a particular male, then you will have to be very observant and carefully confine your dog while she is in season to avoid breeding by the wrong male.

The entire breeding cycle for most dogs takes approximately six months. The female is in season for approximately 21 days at the beginning of the cycle. Most dogs begin to cycle for the first time at approximately 12 months of age.

Each time the female is in season she has a swollen vulva and a bloody discharge. The bloody discharge is normal and is of no health concern. However, it is very messy and does attract male dogs. Male dogs often congregate around the female's house during this time.

Many females are quite restless at this time and are quite clever at escaping confinement. If you do not want puppies you need to confine your dog indoors or in a very secure kennel facility for three weeks beginning whenever you first notice the first tinges of the bloody vulvar discharge.

Although it is easy to be angry with the neighbors and with their male dog, the responsibility for unwanted puppies really is with you, the female dog's owner. The dogs are only doing what is very natural and instinctive to them.
