Couple Robbed At Parking Lot

A Patchogue couple was robbed December 11, while entering an auto at the Holiday Inn parking field, Sunnyside Blvd. Plainview.

Admond and Carol Martin were confronted by two male blacks, both armed with handguns. They turned over $700 and assorted jewelry. The subjects fled the scene leaving the victims unharmed. The second squad is investigating.

Church Plans Soup Kitchen

Plans for the possible establishment of a Hicksville I.N.N. (Interfaith Nutrition Network) are proceeding. The committee is seeking a location suitable for a local Soup Kitchen, which could provide at least one good meal a day to those less fortunate than most of us.

According to church members, "One has but to spend some time at the Chapel of the Open Door at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Hicksville, to confront people who seek help from the Rev. Theodore S. Grant, its Pastor. His church provides a fund in their budget to handle just such emergencies. Hungry people right here in Hicksville are very real and could be helped in a more organized way by the establishment of the system of a Soup Kitchen."

"Much is needed in the way of volunteer help and financial donations. For further information contact The Rev. Grant at 516-938-8693, or Effie Krogmann at 367-4835; or donations may be directed to Hicksville I.N.N. at 17 New South Road in Hicksville."

Yevoli Sues Town Bd. On $20 Million Increase

Assemblyman Lewis J. Yevoli, filed a lawsuit today against Oyster Bay Town officials to block a recently approved $20 million tax increase. Yevoli charged "The tax increase and the method Supervisor Colby used to ram it through is blatantly illegal - the taxpayers should not be forced to pay for his irresponsible actions." The tax hike, the biggest in the Town's history, raised the General Fund from $8.87 to $3.02 per $100 of assessed valuation, a move that would add $150 more to the average homeowner's tax bill next year.

When they passed the budget on October 30, Supervisor Colby claimed the Town was running out of space to bury the Town's garbage and that $20 million would be used to cover the possible cost to transport some of the Town's garbage to another state. Yevoli said, "He has been the Town Supervisor for eight years, suddenly he wakes up one day, claims he has a garbage crisis, pulls a $20 million cost to pay for the alleged crisis out of thin air, forces the illegal adoption of the tax hike at the last minute, and expects the taxpayers to foot the bill! The entire situation is outrageous. Fortunately, we have a legal system where we can overcome these unconscionable actions."

In his lawsuit, Yevoli cited several violations of law regarding the imposition of the $20 million tax increase. Some of the major points are: 1) A Town tax for the collection and disposal of solid waste can only be levied through a special refuse and garbage district. The General Fund cannot be used for this purpose; and, in fact, there is no statutory authority to do so. Sections 190 and 221 of the Law are explicit as to the required procedure, as is the Nassau County Charter and the Nassau County Civil Division Act. The imposition of a garbage disposal tax in the Town's General Fund is clearly in violation of Sections 190 and 221 of the Town Law, as well as the Nassau County Charter and Civil Division Act.

2) The Notice of Public Hearing regarding the Amendment to the Town's Preliminary Budget, which increased the General Fund Tax, is in violation of Sections 107 and 108 of the Town Law. These sections specify mandatory duties and obligations concerning the Publication and Posting of the Notice for Public Hearing. It specifies that at least five days shall have elapsed between the date of the first publication of said notice and the date for the specified date for the hearing. Actual notice for the Public Hearing scheduled for October 30, 1984, appeared officially in Newsday on October 25. However, only 4 days elapsed from the date of the publication, and the day of the hearing. Neither October 25 or October 30 can be computed in the time elapsed or even construed as being part of the 5 day notification period.

3) There are other violations of Law covered, such as: Illegal Appropriation in the Town Budget of Revenues received from the one-quarter of one cent of the Nassau County use and sales tax; failure to allocate surplus tax to decrease the $20 million tax increase; the validity of the amount ($20 million) of tax increase; etc., etc.

In conclusion, Assemblyman Yevoli said, "The Town Supervisor and his cohorts on the Oyster Bay Town Board intentionally violated numerous sections of law and imposed an illegal tax on the unsuspecting taxpayers. I am seeking judgement declaring the adoption of the Amendment Town Budget for 1985 that provides for the imposition of a $20 million tax in the General Fund, for the purpose of transporting garbage, null and void. I am extremely optimistic that Supervisor Colby's ill-conceived tax increase will have set aside before January 1, so that Town taxpayers will not have to suffer the financial burden illegally imposed upon them by irresponsible Town officials."

Robbery Victim Breaks Leg

The victim in the fall, suffered a fractured leg and was taken to Central General Hospital, Plainview, where she was admitted. The pocketbook contained $6 dollars and assorted credit cards. No further description of the suspect.

Local Artists Plan Library Exhibit

The Hicksville Public Library is proud to have an exhibit of paintings by two local artists during the month of January.

Henry (Hank) Dircks will display his watercolors and David Dircks will exhibit his oils and acrylics.

Henry Dircks has been a resident of Hicksville for the past 25 years. He started painting watercolors in 1979, reawakening an artistic talent put aside years before to pursue a career in electronics and computer science. He works for Grumman and has won several watercolor and graphic awards in their annual show. Hank has studied with A.W.S. artists Edgar Whitney, Frank Webb and Cecile Johnson and locally with Liz Horning and Jane Reckner.

David Dircks is in his Senior year at The School of Visual Arts, studying Illustration. He has studied privately with portrait artist John Foote. David has won various awards in school competitions and Juried Art Exhibits, most recently, the Ralley Motors Competition. This work will be on exhibit in February in midtown Manhattan. David Dircks wishes to pursue a career as a freelance illustrator.

These paintings will be shown in the Community Room of the Hicksville Public Library during the month of January and may be seen from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Sundays.

Yuletide Safety Tips From F.D.

By Chief Magee

Fire losses during the holiday season are especially heartrending. Most of the holiday fires are preventable.

Lights.

*Use only lights that have been tested for safety. They should carry a U.L. or F.M. label.

*Before use, check for frayed wire, broken sockets. Discard any unsafe equipment.

*Check labels of lights to be used outside. Not all lights are suitable for outside use. Fasten them securely for firm support to protect against wind damage.

*Use no more than three sets of lights on a single electrical circuit. Requirements may vary. Read the label. Don't overload extension cords.

*Never leave lights on when you retire or leave your home. A short circuit can cause a fire.

*Don't use lights on a metallic tree. Damaged insulation could energize the entire tree. Use colored flood lights above or beside a metallic tree. Protect the flood light from combustibles.

Paper

*Dispose of wrappings immediately after opening. Don't burn in the fire place, they may ignite suddenly and cause a flash fire.

Trees

*Artificial trees should have a U.L. or F.M. (Factory Mutual) label. Some unlabeled plastic trees burn with extreme vigor.

*Don't rely on chemical sprays to make live trees fire resistant.

*Buy a fresh tree only - a fresh tree is deep green in color and has a strong scent of pine.

*Make a fresh cut in the tree trunk to help absorb water. Trees will use up to 2 quarts of water a day. Use tree stands with water reservoir.

*Keep your tree away from all paths of exit, and away from stairways. Keep tree away from fireplaces, radiators and other heat sources.

Trimming

*If youngsters are a part of your family avoid any decorations that tend to break easily or have sharp edges.

*Keep tree trimmings that are small, or have removable parts, out of reach of small children. These pieces may be swallowed.

*Don't purchase ornaments that resemble candy or foods. A child may try to eat them.

Party Clean Up

*Don't empty ash trays in trash containers following a party. Let ash trays sit in one place overnight. Empty the following day or douse all ash trays in water before you empty.

*Keep holiday trash away from your home. Stow in metal containers a safe distance from any building in case of flare up.

*Before you retire make a check of seat cushions for possible smoldering cigars or cigarettes. The leading cause of holiday fires have been traced to fires smoldering in chairs and couches.

Following these simple rules will greatly reduce tragic residential fires and loss of life.

Students Visit United Nations

Children viewed flags of the nations which are U.N. members.

Tour guide explains exhibit of U.N. goals to the students.

Even our lunch break was exciting when we were joined by hungry pigeons.

An example of Grecian Architecture on display at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

On November 27, the sixth grade classes of Mrs. Ruth Silverman (Burns Avenue) and Mrs. Marion Starnes (Woodland Avenue) went to the United Nations and the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

At the United Nations the students viewed the three major chambers; the General Assembly, the Security Council, and the Secretariat. The tour guide showed them the gifts of tapestries, sculpture and art donated by member nations. The most touching exhibit was the one on the atomic bombing of Japan in World War II. The students viewed partially melted artifacts retrieved from the bomb site.

The museum trip was the highlight of our unit on Greece. At the Metropolitan Museum of Art the students viewed classical Grecian sculpture, architecture, mosaics, frescoes and pottery. The guide traced the evolution of these art forms. All were inspired by the grandeur that was ancient Greece.

Our Children

By Williard Abraham
Ph.D.

Q. We have a 13-year-old daughter, and I just can't figure out why she has no friends at school or with other things in which she is involved. She is very nice looking, dresses well and has a pleasant personality, but maybe I don't know what she's like when she's not around me.

She has a brother (22) and sister (23), so she has been like an only child. She and I are very close, but I am getting so I don't think it is good for me to be her best friend. She never has anyone to call and go places with. She expects me to entertain her on weekends and take her shopping or to a show.

I never have any time to myself; it is really getting to me.

She goes to a private school and gets along well academically. We moved into a neighborhood with no kids around us. Since she doesn't go to a school around here she hasn't become acquainted with anyone.

A. As you know, it is very difficult for parents to be completely objective about their children. So it may be worthwhile for you to discuss the matter with her teacher. You might bring up to him or her the idea of doing a "sociogram" in the class to find out if there are any relationships with other children that may be the foundation on which to begin developing some friendships.

You also may want to talk about this matter with the school counselor, and perhaps get his or her advice on counseling with your daughter. The counselor might have some recommendations related to teenage groups, organizations or agencies which may be helpful to your girl.

Making yourself less available by involving yourself and your time with others might help cut down your daughter's expectations. If you're not so readily available, perhaps she will be encouraged to seek companionship elsewhere.

Q. I have such a good time every morning shaving with my 3-year-old son, talking, laughing, just enjoying this precious time together. But my wife thinks it's a dangerous practice, that he'll cut himself. His razor doesn't have a blade in it, of course. (I'm not that stupid!)

Do you think I should end this daily fun?

A. There is little enough parent-child comradeship in many families, so whatever "precious time together" we can share should be carefully retained.

However, just as carefully guarded should be all the safety factors in a young child's environment. Sharp implements, electric outlets and other elements, hot items on the stove, and dangerous toys and playground equipment are among the sources of children's cuts, bruises and breaks.

In your specific situation it may be necessary to differentiate repeatedly between his "razor" and "Daddy's."

Second Graders Nature Lesson

Second graders at Fork Lane School recently had an opportunity to observe seasonal changes in the great outdoors at Muttontown Preserve. Students had a chance to interview Park Ranger Henry as part of the Career Awareness Program currently being studied by the children. In addition to offering a job description, the Ranger told the youngsters that Happy, his horse, was a donation to the Preserve from Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller, widow of the former Governor.

A nature trail guide then took the students on a tour of the Indian Burial Grounds, located on the highest part of the Preserve. He explained that lowlands are generally too rainy to be used for this purpose. In the past, relics have been located at the site and the children avidly searched for relics of their own! Also discussed was the use of leaves and berries for food during emergencies. With so many points of interest at our fingertips on Long Island the children were thrilled to observe nature's wonders, close up.

Nature Lesson: Park Ranger discusses merits of the great outdoors with Fork Lane youngsters at Muttontown Preserve.

Woodland Ave. Celebrates Holidays

Holiday time is a special time of the year, and some very special things have been going on to celebrate at Woodland Avenue School.

One November 14 the Woodland Ave. PTA treated the entire school to entertainment by a magician and a full turkey dinner to celebrate Thanksgiving. The entire school staff and students sat down together for this special occasion. A special thank you to Nancy Hoosack who co-ordinated this day and to all who helped make this such a memorable occasion.

The fun didn't stop here. Woodland Ave. started their December Holiday celebrations on December 1 with their annual Holiday Carnival. Children enjoyed games, food, cotton candy while parents started their holiday shopping at our crafts tables and took chances on a lovely assortment of raffle prizes. This day was also enjoyed by Dr. Fenton, her daughter, Mr. Jay Schwartz and his family and Ms. Arlene Rudin from the Hicksville School Board.

Still to come are Woodland's Lunch Hour Boutique for our children to do their holiday shopping and "Snack with Santa."

First woman, Jane Prescott, to join William M. Gouse Jr. Post 3211 is being congratulated by Commander Tony Chepak after her installation.

Road Runners Plan January Run

January's cold weather shouldn't put a damper on local runners, as the Plainview-Old Bethpage Road Runners Club will be joining forces with the Massapequa Road Runners for a "Winter Fun Run" on Sunday morning, January 13.

Everyone is invited to show up at the Woodbury Mall (intersection of South Woods Road and Jericho Turnpike in Woodbury) at 7:45 on the morning of the 13th. At 8 a.m. the runners will start on their choice of premeasured and marked 3.1, 5.8 and 9.0 mile courses. When they get back to the Mall they will find bagels, hot chocolate and all the trimmings waiting for them at Woodbury Super Star Sneakers and Sports. There is no charge to participate. Call Sam Zinn at 938-3549 for more information.

The Tuesday, January 15 meeting of POBRR will feature the first local showing of two running films: "Survival Run" and "Born to Run". Club Officers for 1985 will also be elected at the meeting, which will be held at the Plainview-Old Bethpage Public Library, 999 Old Country Road in Plainview, starting promptly at 8 p.m. The general public is most welcome to attend.

The January 19 "Snowflake Four Mile Run" is the first road race on the Long Island calendar for 1985. Sponsored by Finish Line Promotions, this Run will be held on the Boardwalk in Long Beach, starting at 11 a.m. on the morning of the 19th. Entry blanks for this and other 1985 Long Island races can be picked up at the January 15 POBRR meeting, or call Club President Mike Polansky at 433-0919.

POBRRC presents "Long Island's only Racing Centipede."

The annual appearance of the Plainview-Old Bethpage Road Runners Club "Centipede" was once again the highlight of the annual Seaford Hot Chocolate Run last Saturday, December 1.

The "Centipede" consists of a number of runners running together joined in a colorful centipede costume (with matching pipe cleaner antennae). Coordination is the key to a successful centipede, and lead runner Larry Davidson once again kept the POBRRC centipede on a steady 8 minute mile pace as it weaved through the pack of more than 1100 runners who completed the 5 Kilometer Seaford Run. This year, "Long Island's only racing centipede" completed the course in 25 minutes, 20 seconds, only 8 seconds off its "Personal" record of 25:12 established last year.

power the centipede.

Top POBRRC finisher in the Seaford Run was Ed Gonsalves, who surged to a strong 15:53 finish, good for the 10th place overall and 2nd place in the tough 25 to 29 age group. Nancy Grever (19:19) and Margaret Bertram (19:25) were the Club's top women finishers, with Nancy taking 1st place in the 30-34 age group and Margaret taking 2nd place in the 19-24 age group.

Other POBRRC trophy winners in Seaford included first place age group trophies by Geza Feld (17:23), Gladys Simonsen (26:49), Alexandra Finger (25:23), and Joanne Gallo (20:01), 2nd place trophies by Pam Grever (19:59), Mal Bertram (17:40) and Carolyn Langford (22:02), 3rd place trophies by Doris Jacobs (30:50) and Holly Jonas (19:54), 4th place trophies by Erica Gassen (22:26), Bert Jablon (19:39), Julie Shapiro (25:24), and Barbara Bertram (31:05), and a 5th place trophy by Connie Snyder (31:27). In all, POBRRC members took home seventeen individual trophies from Seaford (as compared to only four trophies last year) as well as bragging honors for "Long Island's only racing centipede!"

Lt. Tom Joyce, left, instructs the plane captain before takeoff. Joyce is a 1974 graduate of Holy Trinity High School and a five year Navy veteran.

By Jeff Harstedt

Since the age of biplanes, fighter pilots have been modern-day gladiators, dueling in the three-dimensional arena of the sky.

And today, despite computerized weapons systems and supersonic speeds, it's still man versus man, machine versus machine.

Tom Joyce of Old Bethpage is a radar intercept officer (RIO) in the Navy's sleek F-14 Tomcat.

"I sit behind the pilot and handle navigation, communications and the complex radar and weapons systems," says Joyce. "And in a simulated wartime environment, the more planes we're fighting—the better. That really taxes my capabilities, the pilot's and the plane's. I enjoy the challenge."

"I grew up in the shadow of the Grumman plant where the Tomcat is built," says Joyce, the 28 year old son of James and Dolores Joyce, 12 Robert St., Old Bethpage.

"Back when I was going to Holy Trinity High School in Hicksville," he says, "I visited that plant, and I'd often see the Tomcats in flight, as they were test flown some 30 miles away. Now I'm flying them and couldn't imagine doing anything more challenging or exciting."

The F-14 Tomcat is a twin-engine, two-man, variable-sweep wing fighter designed for fleet air defense and air superiority. Capable of flying twice the speed of sound, it combines advanced aerodynamic performance with a powerful and versatile weapons system to dominate the tactical air-to-air picture.

"When I pick up a contact on my radar, I get a radar lock on him," says Joyce. "Then with the aid of computers, I run the intercept, communicating with the pilot and getting us into the best possible position, in the least amount of time, to employ our weapons and down the threat."

The aircraft's powerful radar can detect fighter-size targets more than 100 miles away. The computerized weapons control system can launch missiles simultaneously at six targets while tracking 18 others.

Armed with a formidable mix of long-range Phoenix, medium-range Sparrow and short-range Sidewinder missiles, the Tomcat can down a threat from sea level to over 80,000 feet, from dogfight range to more than 100 miles.

"In a dogfight, I'm looking at my scopes, talking with the pilot, looking over my shoulder," says Joyce. "We're a team and I'm an extra set of eyes. And two of the three types of missiles we carry. I fire from the back seat."

Upon graduation from high school in 1974, Joyce chose to shoot for the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., for several reasons.

"I not only wanted a free college education, but a good one," he says. "The extensive, competitive sports program at the academy was also appealing. And I wanted to fly fighters, the F-14 in particular."

Joyce received his bachelor's degree in management and his commission as an ensign upon graduating from the Naval Academy in 1979. Then, after extensive flight training, he earned his wings and reported to his first squadron.

"There's nothing more challenging, competitive or exciting than carrier aviation," says Joyce, who now has 1,100 flight hours and 320 carrier landings under his belt.

"When you're launched from the carrier's catapult for the first time, you're just not ready for that kick in the pants," he says. "You go from zero to 140 miles per hour in about one and a half seconds. It's such a rush you don't know whether to laugh or cry."

"Landing is just the opposite. When you catch that arresting cable, you go from 140 to zero in about two seconds. There's nothing quite like it."

Joyce, a lieutenant, currently serves with Fighter Squadron Two (VF-2), headquartered at the naval air station here. And besides flying, he's kept busy with a number of other duties.

"As the squadron's RIO training officer," says Joyce, "I schedule additional training on the F-14 systems and tactics and make sure the aircrews keep up-to-date on various qualifications."

"As the electronic warfare officer, I coordinate a training program dealing with electronic warfare—how to counter the enemy's efforts to electronically jam our radios and radars."

"And as the photo intelligence officer, I train new aircrews in low level navigation and how to use a special camera system we can mount on the Tomcat for reconnaissance and intelligence work."

A veteran of two western Pacific carrier deployments, Joyce has visited such places as Korea, the Philippines, Singapore and Australia.

"I enjoy the travel," he says. "It's interesting to see places so different from the States. I like to get out and meet the people, shop, soak up the experience. The only drawback is the family separation."

Joyce is married to the former Deshua Aherns of Pearl River. They currently reside here with their infant son, Ryan.

As for his future, Joyce says, "My wife and I both enjoy the Navy, and I'll probably make it a career. I'm slated for F-14 instructor duty in the near future and look forward to that. At any rate, I'm more confident than I've ever been and enjoy what I'm doing."

Christmas morning in 1912 at Westbury House was then, as it still is all over the country, the most exciting day in the whole year for the children. Rules could be broken; parents could be awakened at the crack of dawn; breakfast, instead of being served in the big dining room downstairs, was brought up to the master bedroom for the whole family. Stockings were hung on the mantle the night before and were filled to the brim with treasures and surprises awaiting the squeals of excitement and pleasure that preceded the onrush of the children as they burst through the door. The whole house was permeated with that magical anticipation only Christmas morning can bring. All this you will see recreated in Mrs. Philip's bedroom on the second floor when you visit Westbury House for the Christmas Festival.

Old Westbury Gardens not only presents this wonderful exhibit, but there will be a host of other activities, including Santa Claus, popular Canadian folk singer, Oscar Brand, choir groups from East Woods School and St. Mary's Church; the cast of Cinderella performing excerpts from the musical; a beautifully decorated Christmas tree, a Holiday Gift Shop and a raffle for a homemade gingerbread house or dried flower wreath; refreshments and much, much more for your enjoyment on December 8 and 9 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Contributions are $5 adult non-members, $3.50 adult members, $2 children and senior citizens.

The Gardens is listed on the National Register of Historic Places and located on Old Westbury Road between Jericho Tpke., and the L.I. Expressway. Tel: 333-0048.

Sting Operation

Nassau County District Attorney Denis Dillon and Police Commissioner Samuel J. Rozzi today announced a series of arrests resulting from a "sting" operation in the Hicksville-Levittown area. The undercover operation, which lasted 7 months, concentrated on burglaries and the fencing of stolen property in the area.

According to Dillon and Rozzi, the investigation commenced when two undercover members of the Burglary Squad, Detective Robert Steinmann and Police Officer Kevin McPadden established themselves as buyers of second hand merchandise. Officer McPadden rented and lived in an apartment in Hicksville, which was equipped with video and audio equipment to record transactions. The officer also obtained a job in a game room in a shopping center in the area.

As a result of his contacts with teenagers and young adults, more than $25,000 in stolen merchandise was recovered. In several instances the undercover officer made the purchase of the stolen goods before the burglary was reported. Detective Steinmann pose as Officer McPadden's rich uncle who supplied him with the money to buy the stolen goods. Some of the property recovered in the undercover operation included assorted jewelry, VCR's, cameras, computers, guns, credit cards, office equipment and a snowblower.

Many of the items purchased during the "sting" were not only taken in residential burglaries, but burglaries at local schools and government buildings. During the "sting" operation the apartment of the undercover officer was also broken into.

The investigation was led by Detective Lt. William Guttersloh Commanding Officer of the Burglary Squad and Assistant District Attorney Harvey Melniker, Chief of the DA's Burglary and Narcotic unit and ADA James DiPietro.

Most of those charged are accused of a felony. A third of the defendants are juveniles, under the age of 16, and must be prosecuted in the Family Court. The remaining defendants will be prosecuted by the Nassau DA's Office in the County Court.

Both Dillon and Rozzi said they would continue "sting" operations in Nassau County in an effort to bring down the rate of burglaries. Other similar operations have proven successful, with a high rate of conviction and appropriate sentences.

THE QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Because of the holidays the Question of the week will be carried over for two weeks. Answers will be printed as received each week.

If you had but one wish for the world for the year 1985 what would it be?

interest to readers.

2. Confine your INPUT to one subject.

Input Callers Divided On Religious Schools Displays

Callers to Input had mixed answers on whether schools should use Christmas and Chanukah decorations in answer to this question: "In your opinion should the public schools use any decorations to commemorate Christmas, Chanukah and other religious holidays?" Here are some of the answers:

ALL BELONG

Public schools should use decorations to commemorate any holidays. This practice lets all children get the feeling of belonging no matter what their own individual religion might be.

ESPECIALLY AT CHRISTMAS

By all means the public schools should decorate to commemorate Christmas, Chanukah and other religious holidays. This brings the holiday spirit into the classroom as well as outside and in the children's homes, especially at Christmas and Chanukah when stores and streets are decorated. It helps to put us all in a mellow, joyous holiday spirit. I remember my own days in elementary school when we would make posters as an art project and they would be used to decorate the rooms for the holiday season. This is a tradition that I feel should not be given up. Isn't it nice to walk into a school lobby and see all the decorations made by the students? Keep decorating for all holidays and we will have happier children who will have wonderful memories when they get older like me. M.D.D.

BROTHERLY LOVE

I think, in my opinion, public schools should use decorations to commemorate holidays of religious significance. These holidays are not only of religious significance but also they remind us how it is better to give than receive. They demonstrate the spirit of brotherly love for all mankind and I think that's very positive. It shows us that even though we are from different backgrounds we can learn to live and love another in harmony. S.T.

DIFFERENT FAITHS

I believe schools should be decorated for important religious holidays. Schools are to educate and by allowing decorations children are aware that there are different faiths than their own. Hopefully tolerance and understanding are the results. Also, it's important to the children's religious freedom that God not be totally removed from Schools. N.S.

AGAINST DECORATING

No, public schools should not commemorate any religious holy days. Public schools are an excellent place to discuss the various religious symbols and cultural practices, but are the wrong place to commemorate the specific religious practices of any religion.

I realize that there are many parts of the country where the students are of the same religious persuasion, and in these communities there never was or is a problem with the public schools celebrating specific religious holy days in addition to public holidays. However, this part of the U.S.A. is not very homogenous as to one religious practice, and it causes many problems when the public schools celebrate or advocate any religious custom.

Each religious group views its symbols differently than a non-believer in that religion would. Forcing anyone's religious practices or customs on anyone else is not appropriate for a public institution, 100% supported by tax monies.

It is as inappropriate to require a Jewish student to commemorate Christmas as it would be to require a Christian student to commemorate Tisha B'Av. W.G.

BUILDS TOLERANCE

As an educational experience it would not be out of order for public schools to have religious symbols commemorating religious holidays. It would build a tolerance for varying customs and ideas. There have been too many people who see Christmas ornaments and Chanukah symbols as things that divide people. In fact the one single force that can bring people together is a tolerance of other people's religion. That is not to say that public schools should decorate in an elaborate way for religious holidays but some decorations with an appropriate note that people wish each other happy holidays would be a really democratic thing to instill in the students. J.G.

EDUCATIONAL PURPOSE

Why not?! That is, if the question relates to the permissive use of such decorations rather than a mandate. While we started out as a Christian nation, we rapidly became more diversified as immigrants of other ethnic origins began to respond to the refuge we offered. Understandably then, while Christmas predominated with its "first in" heritage, certainly our various "freedoms" guaranty the right for other religious celebrations to become part of the public view. On the other hand, public schools should not be expected to go overboard on this and the rules of reason and fair play should govern the degree to which religious holiday decorations are displayed. It might also serve as a useful educational purpose in drawing attention to the origin and meaning of such holidays. P.G.S.

PAST ISSUES

AGAINST SEAT BELTS

I don't think there should be a law requiring installation and use of seat belts. What if there was a fire? On a school bus, who would help all the students take their belts off? We want to save our students, not kill them.

NEED SEAT BELTS

In answer to your question: "should school buses in Nassau County have seat belts", my answer is definitely, YES. Many drivers do not observe the regular traffic laws. Many drivers even take turns on two wheels, endangering the children they should be protecting. I say yes. If cars should have them then certainly school buses should.

DISCOVERY

A Christmas Story Two Little Lost Lambs

By Lydia Sarll Duffy

Cold was the winter's night. The dark sky was studded with gleaming stars.

On a brownish hill slope, that only a few months before was covered with lush, green turf, a flock of sheep lay huddled together in an effort to keep warm. A little way from the flock, father and mother Woolikins were deep in sleep as were their two little lambs, Cinders and Curlybangs, both nestled so close to their mother that they could hardly be seen.

Cinders was a plump, black lamb, smaller in size than his brother, Curlybangs, the latter possessing a tuft of white curls over his forehead.

The still night passed into the earliest of dawn when just the faintest glimmer of light appeared on the eastern horizon.

Curlybangs stirred as did Cinders - they opened, closed, then opened their eyes and yawned. They slowly rose to their feet. Seconds later they were frolicing about. Then gnawing pains of hunger forced them to set out to look for something to eat.

Father and mother Woolikins and the rest of the flock were still asleep and none saw the two little lambs as they descended the slope and disappeared into the valley.

They wandered helter-skelter, here and there, up and down. It seemed as though they traveled a long distance - and so they had - for the sun was high in the sky.

Suddenly they happened upon a grassy knoll in a shady grove near a stream.

They were overjoyed with their good fortune. They wasted no time in devouring the blades of grass which were not tender and juicy as in the springtime but were most satisfying to their hungry stomachs.

Little did they know how long they stayed in that grove.

When they had eaten and drank all that they could hold, they lifted their heads and were seized with fear.

The sun had disappeared behind the hill. Darkness was falling fast. They could hear the cries of the wolves nearby.

Trembling, they did not know what to do. Panic overcame them. They started to go one way - halted - turned in another direction - stopped - this continued until they were going about in circles.

Exhausted, they laid themselves down, still trembling with fear. As they rested, they looked about them - and then up to the sky.

They blinked their eyes as they stared at the brightest star they had ever seen. As they watched it, they were spellbound for it was moving very slowly.

Rising to their feet, they began to follow the movement of the star. They hoped it would bring them back to their dear mother and father. Father and mother Woolikins were beside themselves with worry over their two little lost lambs. They searched everywhere for them.

Whenever they saw baby lambs, their hopes were awakened that they would be Cinders and Curlybangs, until they took a closer look and then their hopes diminished.

They were tired and ever so sad and heartbroken as they ambled along with the rest of the flock.

A short while after they had joined the flock again, there had been a magnificent light in the sky and the whole hillside was filled with music. Still, the Woolikins could think only of their two little lost lambs.

As the flock rounded a bend, they followed a path which led to a stable.

The Woolikins made their way ahead of the flock - and what they saw made them fall to their knees.

The purest and brightest of lights shone from the stable.

From the manger laden with straw, a halo of heavenly light glowed about a tiny Babe - the Divine Christ-child.

And - on either side of that manger - lay Cinders and Curlybangs! What a glorious night!

The Savior was born and two little lost lambs were found!

"GOOD OLD DAYS"
All of the good places are not gone. For many years we have been going to Lauraine Murphy's in Manhasset. And it appeared that last Saturday several hundred other people had the same idea. But after surprisingly short wait, considering the number of people who appeared to be waiting, we were seated in the inner dining room at Lauraine Murphy's. The place had not changed. They still serve the warm popovers at each meal. The food was great. Most in our party had roast beef with one holdout for scallops but everything came out wonderful and considering the number of people that must have been served that night it is nothing short of a miracle. We surely recommend Lauraine Murphy's to your readers. H.J.

MIKE MCGRADY - NEWSDAY - DEC. 23, 1983
"One thing I'm sure of, you're going to like the way DEVINS looks, the owners' goal was to achieve the feel of Edwardian England, but it is sufficiently eclectic to include echoes of New Orleans and Paris....The fish here is properly fresh and the meat is properly aged, and great care is taken in their presentations. Here, I must pause to compliment the service. No matter how good the main dishes... the desserts are better."

New and Good
 We have always been hesitant about going to a new restaurant because it takes a while for a new place to be really good. That, at least is what we thought before we went to the new Caracalla on Jericho Turnpike in Syosset. We took the step because we heard the chef is the same one that had done wonders at another restaurant. I will say that the food and atmosphere at the Caracalla are really great. The fine pasta, wonderful salad and tender veal all made the visit a great one. We are happy that we decided to go there and hope that many people will read this and give it a try. It is really good.

Q. In a restaurant last week the hostess escorted us to a table right next to the door. When we said that this was not a suitable table she seemed quite annoyed. Is it not correct to ask for a table to your liking?
 T.H. A. The hostess should not have looked annoyed. Evidently she was more interested in her own problems of keeping tables and waitresses busy than serving the patrons. You were quite right. In fact if you had a preference in advance it would not have been out of order to request a particular table although you might have had to wait for it to become available.

Originality, Inspiration
The other night we decided to go to a new restaurant and we hit upon the ad for the restaurant with the novel name. Your Place-Or Mine in Williston Park. While we had never been there before it appears that many other people had heard of it before us. The small restaurant was filled to overflowing. But we were treated courteously and well.
The food at this restaurant is exceptionally good and prepared in a different modern style. It has wonderful vegetables and the entree of beef that we had was cooked with originality and inspiration. In other words this is not just an ordinary restaurant, we think it is the best. Your Place-Or Mine is located in Williston Park on Hillside Ave. M.J.

Cooking Corner

Great food and rum under the sun

By Diane Buckles

PUERTO RICO — Puerto Rican cookery is nothing if not eclectic and blends elements of Spanish, African, French, Dutch, British and American traditions. The basic ingredients gathered from the island's rich soil and warm turquoise waters are combined into such dishes as paella, arroz con pollo, sancocho (a thick meat and vegetable stew) and cheese-stuffed plantains.

Plantains are an important fruit here and find their way into a number of distinctly Caribbean dishes. A variety of banana quite unlike the one you slice onto your breakfast cereal, plantains are never eaten raw, but are fried, baked roasted or boiled. Not even the leaves of the plantain are wasted — they are used to wrap certain foods before cooking.

Two popular dishes prepared with plantains are tostones and mofongo. The first is simply fried plantain slices lightly salted and sometimes served with a dip, much the way you would serve potato chips. Mofongo consists of fried plantains mashed with garlic, olive oil and pork cracklings (chicharrones). The mixture is shaped into small balls or cones before serving and is a tasty (if fattening) accompaniment to a main dish.

Plantains are available in many well-stocked American markets and while they look similar to regular bananas, you'll find them to be surprisingly different.

Fresh fish is always on the menu in Puerto Rico. Whether you fancy lobster, snapper, shrimp, oysters or crab, you won't have far to look to find your choice. Stroll through a coastal town and you may discover open-air stands selling freshly cooked oysters and clams. The island's many fine seafood restaurants offer a variety of simple to fancy dishes. Seafood here is often prepared with tomatoes, bell peppers and wine — a pleasing combination.

Adobo and sofrito are two flavoring blends that form an integral part of many Puerto Rican dishes.

Adobo combines peppercorns, garlic, leaf oregano, olive oil and lime juice and is used to impart a characteristic Caribbean flavor to chicken. The mixture is crushed in a mortar and rubbed into the meat, which is set aside in the refrigerator to soak up the tangy seasoning.

Sofrito, basic to many native dishes, blends onions, garlic, peppers, ham, salt pork, and lard or oil.

The recipe for sancocho was graciously presented to me by Chef Norbert Bomm of Puerto Rico's Hilton International Mayaguez. You'll have to decide for yourself whether it is a soup or a stew.

The yautia, one of the ingredients in sancocho and a staple in many Puerto Rican recipes, may be unfamiliar to you. It is a starchy root, similar to the Idaho potato in flavor and texture and if you can't find it in your market, simply substitute potatoes.

Recipes for Caribbean Chicken Adobo, Tostones and Mofongo adapted from Carmen Aboy Valdejuar's "Puerto Rican Cookery," Pelican Publishing Co. 1101 Monroe St. Gretna, LA 70053

- 1 lb. lean pork, cut in bite-size pieces
- 1 lb. lean beef, cut in bite-size pieces
- 2 qts. beef stock
- 1 small onion, peeled and chopped fine
- 3 fresh tomatoes, peeled and diced small
- 1 green pepper, chopped fine
- 2 cloves garlic, peeled and minced
- 1 lb. potatoes, peeled and cut into 1/2-inch cubes
- 1 lb. yautia, peeled and cut into 1/2-inch slices
- 1 green plantain, peeled and cut into 1/2-inch slices
- 2 ears fresh corn, cut into 1/2-inch slices
- 1/2 lb. pumpkin, cut into 1/2-inch cubes
- 1/2 lb. sweet potatoes, cut into 1/2-inch cubes

Cook pork and beef with stock and slowly bring to boil. Add onion, tomatoes, green pepper and garlic. Simmer gently until meat is tender. Add remaining ingredients. Season to taste and cook until vegetables are tender and broth thickens.

Serves 6 to 8.

Daum brothers were masters

By James G. McCollam
Member, Antique
Appraisers Association of America

Q. This 8-inch Cameo Glass vase is signed "Daum, Nancy." Can you tell me when and where it was made and its value?

A. This probably was made in the fourth quarter of the 19th century in Nancy, France.

The Daum brothers made some of the finest French Cameo Glass of their time. This probably would sell for at least $1,000.

Q. Since gambling is an ancient pastime, it seems to me that items relating to games of chance might be collectible. Am I correct? If so, what are the most desirable items?

A. You are on the right track; all items from the past relating to gambling are collectible.

The most valuable are cheating devices like "holdouts" (for hiding high cards) at about $1,000 each.

Old dice made of bone or ivory are more attainable at $25 to $50 a pair. Add to these Chuck-A-Luck, Faro and Keno equipment and you'll find that almost anything relating to gambling is fair game.

Q. I have seen a few advertising items for a product called "Moxie" in some antique shops. Just what is Moxie and why are these things collectible?

A. "Moxie" is the oldest soft drink produced in the United States. At one time it was more popular than Coca-Cola; today it is found only in the Northeast.

Moxie posters run as high as $200; trays, up to $100; leaded lamp shades, originals — $2,500, reproductions — $500; thermometers, $30 to $40; bottles, up to $25.

Q. My 13-inch baby doll has the enclosed mark and the number 152.

Can you tell me who made it, where and its value?

A. Your doll was made by J.D. Kestner in Waltershausen, Germany, early in the 1900s.

According to the "20th Century

Antiques Collectibles

Doll Series" it is selling in the $400 to $500 range.

Here's How

By Gene Gary

May be best to pull old roof off

Q. My house has been reroofed twice and now the last roof again is going bad, leaking in several places. The original roof was wood shingles.

Now I am wondering what to do — reroof again or remove the whole thing and start over. The floorboards are spaced. Can you tell me what is the best procedure? — R.M.

A. Judging from your description, the last roof must be in rather bad shape. As a rule, reroofing over an old wood roof is satisfactory, but not if the wood shingles are badly warped or curled at the butts where the first overroof was put on.

Also, in reroofing some of the nails may have missed the roof boards. In this case, the best thing to do is to remove everything. It is going to be quite a chore, but in the long run it may be just as cheap as overroofing again.

Take everything off, pull all nails, then fill spaces between the roof boards with wood strips of the same thickness as the original boards. Then cover the deck with asphalted roofing paper and finish with composition or wood shingles.

Q. We recently moved into a new home that has a wood chopping block island in the kitchen. Is there anything I should treat the wood with prior to using? — G.H.

A. The wood should be treated with boiled linseed oil. This heat-treated oil is available in paint stores.

Apply this liberally and allow it to soak in for 14 minutes. Then wipe the surface completely dry until no glossy areas show. After 24 hours, apply a second coat in the same manner.

Q. I have a great deal of space in my home that has slate floors. The mortar between the pieces of slate is dark with dirt and wear, even though the slate is only about 2 years old.

Is there any way to clean the mortar, or to make it totally white so the slate will be more prominent? I have heard that one could brush a household bleach into the mortar crevices with a toothbrush and whiten the mortar. Is this practical and would it damage the mortar? — Mrs. T.E.

A. Using a small stiff brush (an old toothbrush is good) and a household bleach or full-strength liquid household detergent, scrub the mortar areas and then rinse well with clear water.

This usually is effective. If not, the top layer of the mortar will need to be raked out with a sharply pointed screw driver or beer can opener and all loose powder and particles brushed out. Wet inside surfaces and pack the groove with special cementing preparation, available at hardware dealers.

Or you could use a stain-resistant grouting.

After the slate floor has been thoroughly cleaned and allowed to dry, a coat of sealer will make the floor easier to clean and help protect the grout. Any good floor sealer should do the job. One that is of low viscosity and probably not more than 25 percent solids would be best. Spread thinly and rub out well. An ideal sealer for a slate floor is one of the colorless terrazzo sealers.

Q. My canvas awnings are beginning to show wear. Is there any way to paint them? — P.R.N.

A. Some paint manufacturers make a special type of awning and canvas paint. If not obtainable in your community, the awnings can be painted in the following way: Thin a good-quality house paint with one-fourth as much turpentine. Apply the paint in a thin coat and brush well into the fibers. A thick coat will not dry hard and will remain sticky. Do not fold or roll the awnings until the paint film is thoroughly dry.

travels to my arms and my entire body.

I have to sleep sitting up in bed to avoid chest pains. Can any of your readers or a doctor recommend any medication or advice?

I have been told that I have diabetic neuropathy, and I have seen three neurologists but none could help me. — Ralph

Dear Ralph: If you have chest pains when this occurs see a doctor at once, preferably a cardiologist. I wouldn't attempt to offer any other advice.

Sitting up of course is the safest thing to do if that avoids the chest pains. But learn what the real problem is without delay.

Dear John: In one of your articles someone asked if there was a medically supported reason for using apple cider vinegar instead of white vinegar for medical purposes. I think you will find the history of the use of vinegar in the diet in the book, "Country Doctor," written several years ago by an old doctor who practiced in Maine.

Regarding other purposes for vinegar: It is very good for washing a cutting board. As you probably know bacteria are killed in an acidic medium. A diluted vinegar rinse is good for the hands after a soap washing as it restores the normal acid condition of the skin. — Daniel D.

Dear Daniel: Thanks for the information.

TWEEN 12 & 20

By Robert Wallace, F.D.

Dr. Wallace: I am physically handicapped and I am tired of being treated like a second-class citizen. Why do "normal" people all think they are better than we are? How would they like it if they had to spend the rest of their lives in a wheelchair or on crutches?

I feel that all men and women are created equal, and that includes the physically handicapped. I hope my message is loud and clear! — Lester

Lester: You must be in a bad mood. I'm sure that there are some ignorant human beings who consider the physically handicapped as second-class citizens, but the vast majority do everything within their power to treat the physically handicapped as equals with dignity. Humans are people first, and handicapped, skinny, fat, Catholic, Protestant, black, white, Republican, Democrat, tall, short and smart second.

Is it possible that people are responding to your negative personality, not your handicap? Think about what I've said and in a week or so write to me again.

Dr. Wallace: What exactly is fat and why do humans get it? — Debby

Debby: Simply stated, fat is stored energy to be used when one is fasting. A person needs about 18 calories for every pound of desired weight. Eat more than that and it becomes fat.

Dr. Wallace: I am 16 and going steady with a neat guy who is 18. Well, this guy had to go to Clearwater, Fla., for a year, and he asked me to stay true to him until he returns.

He has been gone for a week and I've been asked out twice but I refused both times because the guys didn't turn me on. If they had, I'd have gone out with them.

Actually, I still like my boyfriend, but I'm not sure I can remain true to him.

If I do cheat, should I tell him when he comes home? My mother said I should keep quiet. Her favorite saying is, "Let sleeping dogs lie." What do you say? — Becky Becky: I say that you should not be going steady. That way you won't have to cheat and lie.

Contact this boy and tell him that you still care for him but you want to date other guys while he is away. Also, encourage him to date.

When he returns, you two can make commitments to each other if you both wish.

Teens: Being a former teacher and school administrator gives me the opportunity to stay close to the school scene. Because of this, I have been introduced to an excellent booklet that can help parents understand teens and teens understand their parents. The National Association of State Boards of Education is trying to open the lines of communication between teens and parents.

Copies of the booklet, Helping Youth Decide, are free of charge. Write to NASBE, P.O. Box 1176, Alexandria, Va. 22311. Order your copy and after you read it, pass it along to Mom and Dad.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a very popular girl in school, so naturally I receive a great number of phone calls from my friends and acquaintances.

Every single time I finish using the telephone, my mother wants to know who I was talking with. To be perfectly honest, I'm really getting tired of all this nosiness and feel that I should have a little privacy at home. — Bernadette

Bernadette: I agree that you need a little privacy at home, but when Mother inquires who you were talking with on the telephone, she is in no way invading that privacy.

Quit complaining and be thankful that you are popular. Have many friends, are allowed to talk to all of them on the phone and have a caring, inquisitive mother.

Dr. Wallace: I am 17 and will graduate from high school this coming spring. Before I settle down to attend college, I would like to live and work in Europe for a year. I think the exposure would be educational and would be of tremendous value to me. I wouldn't want to go alone, but I do have a buddy who also is interested.

Can you please tell me where I can go to get information on working in Europe? My school counselor hasn't a clue on where to start inquiring. — Ralph.

Ralph: I showed your letter to my favorite public librarian and she informed me that Council Travel Service, West 1093 Brixton Ave., Los Angeles, Calif. 90024 has a free catalog available for students who wish to study and/or work abroad in Britain, Ireland, France, Germany and even New Zealand.

Mainly For Seniors

By John T. Watts

Dear John: Our daughter has had her first child and it's caused some trouble.

Not the child directly, of course. But an argument has arisen over what to name it. The baby is a beautiful little girl.

My daughter and her husband said they wanted to name her Brandi. We said, "What a name to pin on a defenseless child." We are not a drinking family, but then we are not narrow-minded either.

What do you think? — Mary L.

Dear Mary: I think you better keep your nose out of it.

Grandparents are important, too, but when it comes to the name of a child, the parents should have the deciding vote. And possibly the mother should have the only vote. She brought the baby into the world.

Dear John: Must thank you for the help I've received with your Certo/grape juice drink.

All the pain in my knees is gone. Still have pains in the joints of my fingers, which I hope will also leave.

I have a problem with gout. Am using sour cherries (10 a day) and 2 teaspoons of cherry juice, which I buy at the health (food) store.

It is helping. Really can't afford medication on S.S.

Want to know why the balls of my feet are in pain. Would you think that's the goat? I did think goat just hit on the toes. I know it's a form of arthritis. But would be happy to find out what it is that makes the balls of the feet hurt so. — Mrs. A.P.

Dear Mrs. A.P.: You really should see a foot doctor. The balls of your feet will hurt if you have a dislocated bone there, but it isn't likely you would have it in both feet at the same time. Most likely this is a skin condition.

Glad you are getting help from the Certo and grape juice. New readers might want to know that I have printed leaflets about Certo and other home remedies for arthritis.

There's no cure yet, but the pain can be taken away. Some readers are still writing and asking for the leaflet without including a self-addressed, stamped envelope. This is most necessary due to the volume of our mail.

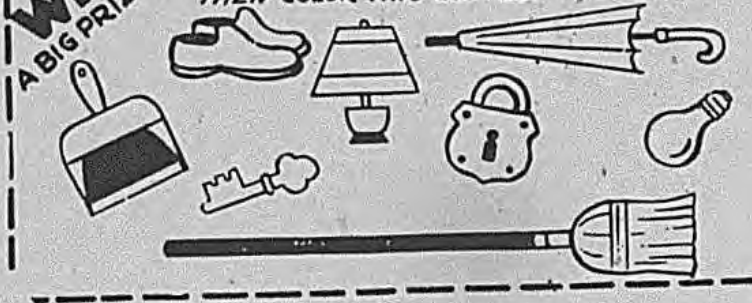

Also we appreciate a donation, as we have to pay for the printing of the leaflets and the handling work involved.

Dear John: I have an unusual type of ailment. After sleeping about three hours, my legs begin to burn and ache and the burning

Aunt Tilly's Corner

This is the last time I'll be writing to you before Christmas, so I want to wish you and your family a very happy holiday!

My own plan is to stay home with my family. Our Christmas dinner will be a re-run of Thanksgiving, with turkey and all the trimmings. However, we'll probably have cheesecake or some other dessert instead of pumpkin pie. Otherwise there won't be much difference.

The best part of Christmas is getting together with the family and that's the part I'm most looking forward to!

Your friend,
Aunt Tilly

Points on Pets Dog dies of diaphragmatic hernia

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q Our very playful 3-year-old male weimaraner recently was hit by a large delivery truck. The driver took the dog to the neighborhood veterinarian. Our dog died after being there only a few hours.

The veterinarian stated that the dog probably had a diaphragmatic hernia. Could the veterinarian have done anything to save our dog? We are not questioning this veterinarian's judgment or knowledge, but just wonder if everything possible was done.

A A diaphragmatic hernia is a very serious injury. A diaphragmatic hernia is simply a tear or rupture in the muscle that separates the thoracic cavity from the abdominal cavity.

The chief cause of this problem is trauma such as being hit by a car. The liver, intestines and spleen commonly spill into the thoracic cavity following diaphragmatic herniation. A very large volume of abdominal contents may gradually pass through a relatively small tear in the thoracic cavity.

Difficult breathing is the main clinical sign of diaphragmatic hernia.

If the stomach or intestines fall through the hole in the diaphragm, there is a real danger that they will get twisted and obstructed. This can lead to rupture of these organs and a severe infection of the thoracic and abdominal cavities. The diagnosis of diaphragmatic hernia usually is based on the history of trauma, the clinical signs, and radiographs (X-rays) of the thorax and abdomen. Abdominal contents usually can be seen in the thorax in severe cases of diaphragmatic hernia.

Diaphragmatic hernias usually are treated by surgical repair of the tear. Except in emergencies, animals with diaphragmatic hernias are allowed to rest and recuperate for 24 hours prior to surgery. During this waiting period the animal is given antibiotics and supportive therapy to allow it to stabilize.

It would be very difficult to know whether your veterinarian did everything possible for your dog. It is very possible that your dog had multiple injuries. The delivery truck man should be commended for taking your dog to a veterinarian.

Q. Our dog recently had puppies. The puppies look like they might have different fathers. Two of the puppies are quite different from the other four puppies.

Is it possible for a bitch to conceive to two different stud dogs during the same heat?

A. It is possible for a female dog to conceive to more than one male dog during the same heat period. This is called superfecundation.

The female dog regularly produces and releases many eggs. If she is bred by more than one dog each dog's sperm may impregnate some of the eggs.

It is erroneous to believe that just because a female dog has bred with one male that she also will not breed with another male.
