A special guest of the Hicksville Rotary Club last week was visiting Rotarian Samuel Sherman of the Baldwin club who is employed by the Milton Abeles Corp., Mineola. Mr. Sherman was previously a member of the Plainview Rotary Club and he reminisced about earlier days and visits to the Hicksville Club. He is shown above, left, being welcomed by the Hicksville Club President Harry Felts.

On Sunday, April 28 these students, joined by nearly 10,000 other Long Islanders, will "strut their stuff" in the 25 kilometer walk at Eisenhower Memorial Park in East Meadow beginning at 8 p.m. Backed by sponsors, these enthusiastic walkers will be helping to raise the funds needed to fight birth defects—America's #1 child health problem.

So, take the first step today! Call 496-2106 to get your official WalkAmerica sponsor sheet.

Hearing Set On Four One-Story Buildings

The Town Board has scheduled an April 16 public hearing on a request for a change of zone in Hicksville.

The applicants, Saverio P. Potente and Ralph J. Potente, are requesting a change of zone from "G" business district (general business) to "H" industrial district (light industry) to construct four one-story attached buildings to be used for a combination warehouse, assembly and light manufacturing business, with a small office space.

The property is located on the west side of Max Avenue, north of the intersection formed by the north side of Woodbury Avenue, in Hicksville.

The hearing has been scheduled for Tuesday, April 16, beginning at 10 a.m. in the Town Hall hearing room, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay.

Vets Benefits Not Taxable

The New York State Division of Veterans' Affairs advises veterans that they need not report monetary benefits they receive from the government when filing their tax returns, according to Oyster Bay Town Councilman John Venditto.

Venditto noted, "Veterans' benefits not considered taxable income include monthly educational assistance checks, federal grants for 'wheelchair homes,' or specially equipped motor vehicles, death payments, burial allowances and proceeds from GI insurance. In addition, "Venditto continued, "disability compensation or pension need not be included in a veteran's income tax return, and the proceeds and dividends on GI insurance are not taxable. However, the interest earned by dividends left on deposit with the Veterans Administration is not a benefit and, therefore, is taxable income."

Venditto added that "veterans and/or families with questions on veterans' tax free benefits may obtain factual information and professional guidance by calling 798-5626 or visiting the New York State Division of Veterans' Affairs Office located at Town Hall South, 977 Hicksville Road, Massapequa, N.Y. 11758. The office is open Monday through Thursday, from 9 a.m. to 4:45 p.m.

Residents Continue To Fight White Castle

By Gertrude Paul

Residents residing within 300 feet of the proposed White Castle fast food emporium at Willet Avenue and Bethpage Road received registered letters Wednesday informing them of the hearing to be held at Town Hall, Audrey Avenue in Oyster Bay on March 26. The hearing will be at 10 a.m. and will be continued at a night hearing at 8 p.m. when the major presentation for Ricmac Corp. and White Castle Systems, Inc. will be given by Marino, Bernstein and LaMarca, Esq., attorneys for that corporation.

The newly reactivated Midland Civic Association and numerous ad hoc committees are working feverishly and with great enthusiasm to oppose the issuance of the requested variance. Over 300 voters have joined the Midland Civic Association and the membership grows daily. Over 1300 signatures opposing this venture have been collected so far.

For the convenience of people who cannot or do not choose to drive in the evenings, two buses will transport citizens, free of charge, on a first come, first served basis. The buses will arrive at the Willet Avenue School about 7 p.m. and leave about 12-15 minutes thereafter. For reservations call Gloria Maren at 822-6594, Gert Paul at 931-1740 or Ellie Draycott at 935-5793. Zero hour is approaching. We need everyone of you at Town Hall on March 26. Voice your objection to a fast food establishment abutting people's homes where bedrooms are only 40 feet away and dumpsters will be backed up to residents' fences.

We are not obstructionists! We welcome orderly development of property that would serve the needs of this community. A White Castle fast food chain, or any other fast food operation is simply the wrong business for this particular site.

Residents Protest Plans For New Restaurant

The proposal of Bennigans to build a restaurant at the Mid Island Shopping Plaza in Hicksville was met with protests from homeowners and a representative from the Midland Civic Assn. on Tuesday.

The restaurant, as planned would be a 7,000 square foot facility with room for seating 208 in the dining room and 49 at the bar. It would be on Broadway, Hicksville at the Plaza. The restaurant is estimated to cost $2.5 million and employ 85 to 100 workers. Ninety eight parking spaces would be provided according to architect Marvin Santini who addressed the board. The presentation lasted one hour and a half.

Homeowners and a representative of the Midland Civic Assn., Ellie Draycott, told the board that they feared the new restaurant would increase the traffic problem which now exists on Broadway at that location. Other residents said that the restaurant would be too close to existing residential homes in the area.

The Board reserved decision on the request.

Hicksville Board of Education President William P. Bennett (left) and Hicksville Congress of Teachers President Robert Zaleski shake hands after the acceptance of the agreement on the teachers' contract for the period covering July 1, 1984, through June 30, 1986. The contract was formally signed this week on Wednesday, March 13. Joining Mr. Bennett and Mr. Zaleski are HCT Vice President Elayne Kabakoff and Superintendent of Schools Dr. Catherine J. Fenton.

More than fifty toddlers recently participated in New Liquid Tide Laundry Detergent's "Tide-y Toddler" chocolate ice cream cone eating contest at Roosevelt Field Mall, Garden City. Emily Steinberg, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Steinberg, Plainview, was chosen as one of the messiest toddlers.

Citizens Group Seek Lower Rates

A Hicksville resident served as a citizen panelist at a recent utility ratepayer meeting with New York State Consumer Protection Board Executive Director Richard M. Kessel.

New York Community Action Network (New York CAN) representative Ernest Buckner of Hunter Street joined with panelists from four other Long Island ratepayer organizations to press the state consumer chief for action on fair telephone rates and for the exploration of public power alternatives to Lilco on Long Island.

Mr. Buckner gained an affirmative response from Mr. Kessel when he asked the state official to lobby for telephone legislation which would establish discounted rates, called "lifeline" rates, for senior citizen and low-income telephone customers. In response to Mr. Buckner's query, Mr. Kessel expressed support for lifeline telephone legislation which would provide low-cost, minimum basic service to all telephone customers.

Mr. Kessel also agreed to Mr. Buckner's request that the Consumer Protection Board lobby for the undertaking of a "true cost" study to help ascertain whether any residential consumer rate dollars are going to subsidize the high-technology services used solely by business customers, such as high-speed data transmission.

In addition to telephone issues, the main topic of discussion was Lilco's recently proposed $ 68.7 million rate increase request, the Shoreham nuclear power plant, and the question of public power alternatives to Lilco.

The Consumer Protection Board director agreed to conduct an analysis of the economic and bonding issues surrounding both local and statewide efforts to establish a municipally owned utility on Long Island as a substitute for Lilco.

Public power proponents were represented at the February 27 event at the New York CAN Long Island headquarters in Amityville by Eileen Magel of the Long Island Power Project, and by Long Beach resident Mark Phillips of New York CAN, who asked Mr. Kessel to endorse the bipartisan Harenberg bill for the divestiture of Lilco's non-nuclear assets. Local bill co-sponsors include Assemblymen Fred Parola (R) and Lewis Yevoli (D).

Mr. Phillips told the consumer chief and the 60 people in attendance that public power systems operate successfully in 2200 communities across the United States, including 47 localities in New York State. He also cited a recent study by the bipartisan State Legislative Commission on Science and Technology which concluded that a Harenberg-style divestiture could reduce Long Island electric rates by as much as 43%.

Mr. Kessel told the audience that stronger legislation is required to clarify the "used and useful" provision of the state Public Service law to guarantee that ratepayers would not pay for Shoreham-related costs in the event that the nuclear plant does not open.

The event was also co-sponsored by the Coalition for Safe Living, the Shoreham Opponents Coalition, and the Long Island Ratepayers Association. Mr. Kessel also agreed to press for a greater share of less expensive hydropower for Long Island and to work with the Governor's office to put "economic pressure" on Lilco to prevent the opening of the Shoreham plant.

Persons wishing to obtain information about utility ratepayer issues may contact the New York Community Action Network at 691-5565. The non-profit, non-partisan organization also has a speakers' bureau for interested groups.

Postal Service Helps The Hearing Impaired

"Hearing impaired people, who are more than ordinarily dependent upon their mail, are getting new help from the Postal Service," says Hicksville Manager/Postmaster Roger Nienaber.

"A telecommunications device to help deaf customers who want to call in with inquiries or complaints about their mail service has been installed at Postal Service Headquarters Consumer Advocate's Office in Washington D.C.," said Nienaber.

The Postmaster said that any deaf person who has access to a "TDD", a telecommunications device for the deaf, may call 202-245-3858 to communicate by means of a TDD in Postal Service Headquarters. The Postal Service device was put in as the result of a request made last year by a deaf postal employee.

Garden City, N.Y. Letter Carrier John Passarella wrote to the Postmaster General asking that the TDD be installed. Passarella, who uses a TDD himself, has had a hearing impairment all his life.

The National Association of the Deaf estimates that about eight million Americans have difficulty using a telephone. More than 75,000 of them have TDDs.

A TDD enables its operator to type out messages on a keyboard and transmit them by electronic signals over telephone lines to a receiver, which prints out the original message. The receiving TDD can then be used to transmit a response.

"I'm pleased that we are able to provide this service to hearing impaired citizens," Postmaster Nienaber said. It's good that we have this way to reach out to people who have difficulty using the telephone."

Gary Olsen, Executive Director of the National Association of the Deaf said, "I assure you that there will be a high demand for using the Postal Service TDD. I thank them for their fine effort to become more accessible. The NAD is grateful."

The property is located at the northeast corner of Old Country Road and Newbridge Road, in Hicksville.

Getting Jump On Heart Disease

By K. Blicker

Fork Lane School recently was the scene of a "Jump-A-Thon", a fun endeavor designed to raise much-needed dollars for the American Heart Association. Students in grades four through six jumped for a total of 180 minutes as donors pledged 2 cents or more in this voluntary effort. This year's "Jump" featured an added attraction!

Since Fork Lane is a school where teamwork is so important, no less than nine teachers also decided to join in and jump during their lunch hour. Representing the school faculty were: Mrs. Gribb, Mrs. Schreck, Mrs. Planz, Miss Guadagni, Miss Knopf, Mr. Ferrin, Mr. DiStefano as well as dedicated office personnel Betty Zagajski and Gerry Valle.

Thanks to kids and faculty alike for your marvelous support but special congratulations to gym instructors Carol Weber and Maureen Kuperberg for another great team effort benefiting a most worthy cause.

Students begin the first round of 180 minute event.

The thirty-sixth annual American High School Mathematics Examination was given February 26 at Bethpage High School. A total of 148 students participated.

The high scorers in the school were Michael Cooper and Michael Pasyanis, both tenth graders, who tied with a score of 80. This is a new tenth grade record, the old record of 73 was set in 1979. Perry Fihkld was the top senior scorer with a 73 and Evan Dunne and Michael Tretola tied for high score in grade eleven with 65. Joseph Cole and Steven Krokoff tied for first in ninth grade with the score of 58.

Shamrocks Continue Winning Streak

The Hicksville Shamrocks 1974 traveling soccer team overwhelmed the Cow Harbor Falcons 12-4 last Sunday to bring their Shep Messing Indoor League record to five wins, no losses.

Eric Bliker scored three goals from right wing, had two assists and also had a strong game at fullback. Chris Doyle contributed three goals from striker and took some aggressive turns at fullback. Joe Flanagan scored one goal while playing wing and full. He then had a beautiful second half in goal, shutting out the opposition. Gregg Grouso had his usual gutsy game while splitting time at wing and full, contributing two big assists: Brian Harkins played a steady game at full, constantly cutting off Cow Harbor's charges. Jared Jacobs played a consistent wing and striker, scoring one goal and sharing a second with teammate Brian Pine.

Eddie Jacobsen played goal in the first half and a hustling fullback in the second. Ted Knoop was aggressive at wing and fullback. David Lovato scored one goal from the striker position and played a steady game at wing and full. Brian Pine scored one goal plus the aforementioned shared goal with Jacobs, while displaying exceptional ball control from full and wing. Matt Pordum scored one goal and played a strong wing throughout the game.

Keep up the good work Shamrocks! Thanks to assistant coach Peter Knoop for another great game.

Hicksville Resident Plays For Lehigh

Bill Cheslock

Lehigh University freshman Bill Cheslock of Hicksville, a graduate of Hicksville High School, is a member of Lehigh's 1985 East Coast Conference champion basketball team which is participating in the 1985 NCAA tournament beginning March 14 and 15.

Cheslock, a 6-7 forward, has seen action in nine varsity games. Bill is enrolled in the College of Engineering and Physical Sciences. He played against national-powerhouse Marquette in the Milwaukee Classic tournament, December 28.

Lehigh attained its first NCAA berth in the school's 84th season of basketball by defeating top-seeded Bucknell, 76-74 in overtime, Monday, March 4, in the East Coast Conference tournament championship game at Towson State University.

On the way to the title, Lehigh defeated Drexel, 58-56, in the quarter-final round, and Hofstra, 72-68, in the semi-final.

Lehigh's record is 12-18, the most wins for a Lehigh team since 1980-81. The East Coast Conference title is Lehigh's first in the 11 years of conference play. In fact, Lehigh had never previously reached the conference semifinals.

Under second-year head coach Tom Schneider the Engineers torped a dramatic turnaround from a 4-23 record and last-place league finish a year ago to the championship of the conference.

News From Road Runners

The Plainview-Old Bethpage Road Runners took home three of the four first place trophies awarded in the March 9 Sunken Meadow State Park Relay Races sponsored by the Northport Running Club. The 12 mile relays consisted of teams of six runners each running two miles.

POBRRC's Mixed (4 men, 2 women) "Gold Team" took first place in the Mixed Competition with a total elapsed time of 1:12:40 for the 12 mile event. The Gold Team members were Ed Gonsalves (10:13), Howie Greenberg (10:54), Geza Feld (11:44), Debi Daugherty (12:35), Jean Ofenloch (14:17) and Gerry Kaufman (12:57). It was more of the same in the Women's Competition. PROBABLY the most significant news item of the week is that chlordane will be banned from use to fight termites in N.Y. state. The banning will mean that many homeowners on L.I. will be hit with very high termite control bills if the less effective chlorpyrifos is substituted. ## A History Of Mardi Gras

By Donna Petrall

Not many Americans know about and celebrate French Independence Day, Bastille Day, but there are many who know about Mardi Gras, a day for feasting and celebrating before the solemn season of Lent. Mardi Gras is celebrated largely in New Orleans, Rio, and Nice (pronounced Necc). It is celebrated by festivities such as parades where people dress up in unique and colorful costumes. And of course, there is also lively music, confetti, and delicious French food.

Miss Lowe's French classes decided to have a Mardi Gras Fete of their own. So, with some decorations for the room, Miss Lowe's traditional "face painting", and a little home-French cooking, everyone felt in the spirit of the celebration. Some of the foods and desserts that were sampled were French cakes, quiche, pot au creme, lemon meringue pie, French truffles, and French cookies. Too bad the festivities had to end!

Editor's Note: Miss Petrall is a student at Bethpage High School.

Parents are models for young

By Willard Abraham Ph.D.

Q. My mother used to say that if she wished to yell and scream at the top of her voice, it was her right. She yelled daily, many times for five or six hours straight.

What effect can this have on small children? (She still insists "No effect.")

A lot of people act like their children are the root of their problems when actually they had problems well before having children.

A. As parents we are models for our children. We are their first teachers and the people who dominate totally the important first months and years of their lives.

They have no reason to doubt that what they see and hear is the way the world is, for, after all, that usually is the only environment most of them know during their earliest years.

If they are unfortunate enough to be exposed to some kind of abusive behavior they tend to assume that such abuse is the "real world," the only one that exists.

So parents who are not in control of their own lives may develop for their children a similar pattern of lack of control. Whether it involves drinking, smoking, lies or yelling, a model has been provided for their children.

However, there is hope — and it may come through later experiences and influences their youngsters encounter. The sad part is that habits get ingrained early in our children, and they often are difficult to break.

Q. A new family moved next to us a few months ago and apparently they never have been around animals.

We have an 18-month-old female Irish setter and part Brittany spaniel dog. Silky is very energetic and playful. When I take her out in the yard for a run or chain her up, their boys (4½ and 8) shudder and yell that my dog is out.

How can I keep peace with the neighbors, and educate them about dogs at the same time? I will not give my dog away, and I do not want any hard feelings between us as we all may live here a long time.

A. A few possibilities you might try include these:

1. Ask the boys to leave whenever your dogs is in the yard. I assume your yard is fenced, and as time goes on they may begin to understand how friendly and harmless your pet is.

2. You don't mention whether you have any children, but if you do, the neighbor boys also can see (from across the fence) how much enjoyment your children get from your dog.

3. You may want to tell your neighbors the "facts" about Silky — harmless, energetic, friendly. Such comments may be part of another conversation rather than a serious issue by itself.

Perhaps the boys or their parents have had an unpleasant experience with animals. If so, you might listen to them, and try to emphasize the fact that it really is not related to the present situation.

It may not be appropriate to carry on a campaign to "educate them," as you mentioned, but a little information might be of some value.

Q. My wife and I disagree about the weight of our son, and we need your help as an impartial observer.

He is 10 years old, 5 feet tall and weighs nearly 150 pounds. I think that's too much, but she thinks it's about right. She would! She's way overweight herself. (I won't give you her height or weight figures, but take my word for it — she's a blimp!)

Help me out. I don't want my kid to take after her, into the refrigerator and desserts around the clock.

A. The "impartial observer" probably should be your family physician who can personalize an approach to bodily structure, diet and exercise appropriate for your son.

If his weight is a problem it's good that you are not delaying attention to it. If it isn't, perhaps the doctor can put your mind at ease.

Your Social Security

Q. I was 62 in November 1984 and received only one check in 1984. Will I get a Statement of Benefits? — K.P.

A. If you received any Social Security checks in 1984 you will receive a Statement of Benefits, Form 1099, in January 1985 showing the amount you were paid. You may need this information if you file a federal income tax return. An Internal Revenue Service notice comes with the statement to help you figure whether part of your benefits may be taxable.

Q. What is the amount that you can earn and still receive your Social Security checks in 1985? — T.D.

A. For the taxable year ending after Dec. 31, 1984, the exempt amount of earnings for beneficiaries age 65 and over is $7,320 per year. For beneficiaries under age 65, the 1985 exempt amount is $5,400.

Q. I understand that the maximum amount of earnings on which Social Security taxes are paid goes up to $39,600 in 1985. How is this determined? — I.N.

A. The 1985 wage base was determined under automatic adjustment provisions of the law and is tied to the increase in average wages as determined on the basis of data provided by the Internal Revenue Service.

Q. I have Medicare hospital insurance. I have just been advised that I need surgery. I do not expect to be hospitalized for more than two weeks. How much must I pay? — S.C.S.

A. During 1985, from the first day through the 60th day in each benefit period, your Medicare hospital insurance pays for all covered services except the first $400. You will have to pay the $400 deductible.

Q. Over the years I've lost touch with an old friend. I would love to contact her. Can Social Security help me? — S.A.

A. If all requests to forward letters were honored, the volume significantly would interfere with normal operations. In addition, the addressee may consider receipt of the letter as an unwarranted invasion of his privacy.

Our extremely restricted policy limits forwarding to cases in which the letter contains information of extreme importance about which the recipient would want to be notified.

Q. I am not married and I am pregnant. The father of my expected child gets Social Security retirement checks and has agreed to support the child.

Could I get a separate Social Security check for the child even though we are not married? — C.B.

A. A child born out of wedlock possibly can qualify as a dependent of a Social Security beneficiary if certain requirements are met, such as court action or written acknowledgement.

Contact your local Social Security office for particulars.

GENTLE BEGINNINGS
had its first gathering on Feb. 14 and while we were expecting 35 people, 100 attended. We are a new social club for unmarried people with a growing membership of decent, intelligent adults who wish to find new friends and form new relationships gently. It's not a dating service because we always meet in large or small groups. No one in the group is a date and each person pays their own way. This way gentlemen can go out with 3 or more ladies and the financial burden is not on him--and women like it because they have no feeling of obligation. This leaves everyone free to get to know one another and each has a free choice as to which people they choose to cultivate as close friends. We have socials, sports, classes, workshops, and travel. Write for our literature to Gentle Beginnings, 821 Franklin Avenue Garden City, NY 11530 or call 516 746-2724. Never any obligation or pressure. We are truly gentle. You'll see. Shonsaya Owen, Director. gcm4

AHRC Plans Book Fair

A book fair to memorialize a long time volunteer who served the Nassau Association For the Help of Retarded Children is scheduled for May 8 through 15. One of the metropolitan area's largest book offerings will be held at the West Mall of the Mid-Island Shopping Center in Hicksville. The sale honors Ethel Glass, formerly of Farmingdale, who organized AHRC's book fair many years ago and served as its chairman until the time of her death.

No admission is charged except for the first day of the sale which begins at 10 a.m. each day and lasts through 8 p.m. On Sunday the hours are 12 noon to 5 p.m.

On May 8 there is a preview sale with an admission charge of $3. Altogether about 100,000 books will be displayed including a wide range of fiction, nonfiction as well as periodicals and some first editions along with autographed books.

All of the book fair's proceeds go to help the Nassau AHRC which daily provides programs for 1200 mentally retarded children and adults.

A Westbury Federal IRA Actually Reduces Your Taxes Today. And Tomorrow.

It's true. Each year, your IRA contribution will cut your taxable income by the amount of your IRA deposit. By as much as $4,000 if you're a working couple filing jointly; up to $2,000 if you file individually. This can mean a bigger federal and state tax refund right away.

In addition, each year, the total interest that your Westbury Federal IRA account earns is tax deferred until it is withdrawn. We compound your interest daily, and because it is not taxed, it grows bigger faster.

As your neighborhood bank, we try harder to make it easier for you. We have CD's for your IRA from 6 months to 5 years at high rates that will match or beat the so-called big banks. There are no fees and you get $100,000 FSIC insured protection.

Your IRA funds are always available to you. Even if you're not retired, you can start to draw on your account once you reach 59½. But, funds need not be withdrawn until you're 70½. You can withdraw before 59½ if permanently disabled, or with a 10% IRS penalty on withdrawn funds if not disabled.

Don't just work hard. Work smart. Let the government help put up the money for your retirement nest egg... by actually reducing your taxable income by the amount you put into your IRA... and by the deferral of interest that your IRA earns until you start to withdraw it.

To open your IRA account, stop by your nearest neighborhood Westbury Federal office.

Most Input Callers Against Police Road Blocks

Most callers to Input do not favor road blocks to check on drivers in answer to this question: "Do you favor random police road blocks to check for drunken drivers?" Here are some of the answers:

WRONG IDEA

No. I do not think that police should stop and pick up cars on a parkway or state road to search for drunken drivers. They could be more vigilant and see who is driving poorly for whatever reason and stop them. The idea of making everyone late for an appointment so that the police can find someone is wrong. J.E.

PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION

The idea of road blocks started with the state police who have at times set up road blocks for no other reason than to check on license renewal and other infractions. It smacks of police state tactics. It is interesting to note that these tactics only started when the Parkway Police were changed to state police. The fact is that our state government and the Governor is behind a move to harass people into taking public transportation even when they do not wish to use it. J.R.

SHOULD WATCH

With all of the crime that goes on the politicians want to use police to check on seat belts, and then under the guise of checking for drunken drivers to set up road blocks. If the police watched the road and could not spot wreckless drivers, then they do not need a road block. Presently our state mentality is moving toward "big brother" control and the politicians are right there urging it on. Road blocks without some indication that a crime has been committed are unconstitutional but the Civil Liberties Union is more interested in protecting the rights of known criminals who are caught with contraband on them but were searched without a statement of their rights. K.E.

UNCONSTITUTIONAL

I was in a road block several months ago. I wasted nearly an hour going through a check point and missed my appointment. There was no excuse for this in a free society, yet the people who are supposed to be protecting our society are undermining it. I believe that the police brass who order such things should have to face dismissal and should not be allowed to work for the government. The same should be true for politicians who swear to uphold the Constitution and then willfully back acts that violate the constitutional rights of the people. F.R.

ONLY WAY

While I do not believe in interfering with people's rights I do think that we must get drunken drivers off the road and if the only way it can be done is to have road blocks then I am willing to put up with it. E.W.

POSSIBILITY

I have heard of road blocks but do not think that there have been many of them. I would not like to have to stop for one but it may deter people from drinking too much if they know that the possibility does exist and that the police can use these blocks. G.W.

WHY IN CARS?

No way on road blocks. The police cannot just presume people are guilty and stop them on the street. Then why in cars?

OTHER VIOLATIONS

I do not approve of DWI police road blocks. As far as I know, it is the custom in the case of the seat belt law not to make individual searches for violations but rather to include this possible infraction if the car is stopped for any other violation. I see no reason why the DWI law can't be handled in the same way. Generally, an intoxicated driver makes himself evident by the manner in which he handles his car - swerving from side to side, going through red lights or speeding and unless he or she is stopped in the process by a patrol officer, the chances of that vehicle being caught in a police road block must be mighty slim. I suppose that the threat of a road block could be a deterrent of sorts but once again a deliberate examination at a check point strikes me as still another violation of our constitutional rights. To me, the constant erosion of these rights is really what matters and worth taking a calculated risk in order to preserve them. P.G.S.

What Happens When Spring Finally Comes?

By Jerard T. Mulvihill

One spring day does not a winter slay. Not to be attributed to Robert Frost.

Recently we were treated to some unseasonably fine weather that sent the thermometer soaring. A drive through several local communities uncovered the following:

A Williston Park man in shorts and T shirt washing his car.

Several New Hyde Park citizens, on summer lawn chairs, in their driveways, donning sun glasses.

A Garden Cityite raking debris where a few days before he was clearing away snow.

In Bethpage hordes of bicycles came out with not a few needing air in the tires.

It got so warm and compelling that skis on ski racks for the first time in months began to look a little silly.

In most family households the perennial conflict of what to wear broke out. Mothers and fathers cautioned children not to go out without at least a sweater. And the response all over Nassau County was: "Aww Ma!"

What to do? Should we follow our instincts? Throw caution to a non-existent wind and bask in the sun's rays? Should we be more conservative and remove perhaps one layer of outer clothing - do without gloves for instance?

I recall smiling when I saw a careful citizen wearing total winter gear but compromising by enjoying a treat from Baskin-Robbins. This person, I remember thinking at the time, was perhaps in the diplomatic service. Someone with such an equivocal nature might be a force at some grave international showdown.

"He's dressed for winter, as we propose," says Nation #1.

"But he's eating ice cream, which is our posture," says Nation #2.

Those who were unfortunate enough to have been in the throes of a pesky winter cold, with all the sniffles, chills, and coughs one sees on television commercials this time of year, went unconvinced and to their doctor for possible relief. The doctor generally prescribed rest, liquids, and aspirin for aches before he stalled to blow his own nose and clear his own throat. The common cold bug - if it be a bug - is no respecter of persons.

Once I asked a man of the soil, a Long Island farmer, about the weather, and how since he is so intimately involved with nature he got to know its vagaries. He told me that winter is subject to three thaws before the arrival of spring. Usually there is a January thaw and subsequently one or two more in February or perhaps March. I remember being impressed so I asked further. "But how do you tell the immediate upcoming weather?" He looked at me sagely and answered: "I sniff the air precisely at sunset and study the hardness of the ground. Then like everybody I listen to the weather man on the eleven o'clock news."

Around these parts theoretically and historically winter weather is known to last from frost on the pumpkin to the wearing' of the green. Other indicators are the annual birds' migration south, the first robin red-breast and/or the emergence of the crocuses.

Similarities exist between the contrary seasons and their effect on people which generally go unrecognized. One has a hot lemonade for a chill in winter and iced lemonade for a near heat stroke in summer. You rub in something for the chest cold and continue rubbing at the beach, though in this case it's probably suntan lotion. Those who can afford the luxury take a vacation in the winter and a vacation in the summer. Outdoors people wear ski goggles on the slopes and sun glasses at the water's edge in the summer sun. Lovers in the summer go hand-in-hand; lovers in winter go glove in glove. Hey look, we have ice skating then flip the coin and we have roller skating. Did I mention winter skiing and you know what? There are inequities in many of the things man has to deal with, but there are no inequities relative to recognition of the four seasons. Four out of four are regaled in song. Let me submit: "Summertime", "Winter Wonderland", "Spring is Bustin' Out All Over", and "Autumn Leaves". Great songs indeed, every one.

Whether it's cold or whether it's hot we're going to have weather whether or not. Also not to be attributed to Robert Frost, though with a name like that you'd think he would have written along those lines. We could then refer to them as frostwork! Oh forget it!

Rather amazing what highs and lows, coming from Canada or the south, and tempered by winds pushing or pulling weather along can do. One day can be at the freezing mark and a day later the temperature might be double to 64 degrees. Thank God there are controls which keep things relatively in order. Imagine another doubling of degrees! Personally I couldn't stand 128 degrees. I'm not a hot weather buff. Yet there are those who are, or are cold weather devotees. Probably something in the genes separates the two and allows for a large segment of people who are generally unhappy with extremes in either direction. That's where I fall in line. You'll see my face in that crowd. To make it easier to detect me, I'm the one with earmuffs on top of my head and a popsicle at the ready. Have a nice day!

Charming Restaurant
A charming reminder of the arched restaurants of Europe is embodied in the entrance to Arlindo's on Mineola Blvd., Mineola. This restaurant is Portuguese, run and managed in the heart of the Portuguese area of Mineola.

Its decor is that of Portugal and its food takes on a continental appeal. Wonderful fish dishes abound on the menu cooked with original Portuguese sauces.

We enjoyed a visit to this restaurant last week and believe it is one of the best newer restaurants in this part of Long Island. The prices are moderate which adds to the enjoyment. J.R.

FINE MEAL

Last week we went to the LaCisterna restaurant in Mineola and were delighted with the meal. The LaCisterna is a beautifully decorated restaurant with a fine large dining room set in a restful and inviting style. The service is good and the food is well worth a return visit.

We had veal marsala for one dinner and bass for the other. The veal was fresh and tender and the marsala sauce was exceptionally well done. The bass was fresh and flavorful. Starting off the meal we had salad and soup which also rated high. We were very satisfied with the visit and want to recommend it to your readers.

TOP RESTAURANT

There are many Italian restaurants around here and I must say that many of them are tops. But last week we went to the Pompei in West Hempstead and were very pleased with this good restaurant.

The decor is soothing and delightful. The service is good and the veal entrees we had were prepared in a delicious and tender manner.

This restaurant deserves to be rated with the highest. I enjoyed it greatly and want to recommend it to all of the readers of your newspaper.

Original Menus

A fine new restaurant to add to the many fine restaurants in Williston Park is called 'Your Place or Mine'. This small restaurant is tremendously big on doing things better than elsewhere. It features original arrangements of vegetables and salads.

Its entrees have special extras which make them seem so much nicer than at other places. My husband, who loves beef, found that a steak at 'Your Place or Mine' was different and better than at other restaurants, even the very good places. The desserts are great too. I recommend this to all of your readers. Even though, I am not a famous restaurant critic I know good food when I eat it. F.K.

When you're at someone's house for dinner and you're standing around the table, who sits down first?

Wait until the hostess sits. If she's busy bringing in things from the kitchen, she'll motion the guests to sit down without her, or else the host will tell everyone to be seated.

If you're at a large buffet party and people are taking a long time to be served and seated, you don't have to remain standing at your little table. Sit down - and you may also begin eating, while the food is hot. If your hostess should suddenly arrive to sit at your particular table, the men should either rise or make a motion of rising out of courtesy. Usually the hostess will take her seat so quickly the men won't have the time to get up to help.

When do you begin eating at a large seated dinner?

Usually, when you are served. At a large dinner party, the hosts want their food enjoyed at its best moment - when it is piping hot. Usually the hostess will urge the people on her right, who have already been served, to start eating at once.

A young person should not begin eating until the adults around him do. In many families, there's often a rule that no one begins to eat until the parents are served and begin to eat themselves. This is good training.

Should a clergyman who's a guest in one's home, be asked to bless the food before anyone eats, or does that embarrass him?

Invite the clergyman to bless the food as you approach the table. Everyone should remain standing until the blessing is finished.

READER RATINGS

Q. Tipping has always bothered me. I know there are many facets to it but why do I have to tip at all?

J.C.

A. The answer to this is obvious if you think about it. If you want any control at all over what type of service you are going to get you should be able to give more or less according to how you have been treated.

Many people may not know it but waiters generally get a very low wage scale, some below minimum wage because tips can be expected to balance the scale and they do depend on between a 15 percent and 20 percent tip to make the job worthwhile.

Q. I feel a little awkward in reading a menu to ask the waiter what the entree includes. Is it correct to ask?

A. By all means ask. Generally if the menu does not state that the potato and vegetable are included the price is a la carte. But not always. So ask. The waiter will tell you and that is his job.

TRUE CLASS
A restaurant that is in the true class is Devins. It is one of the newer ones in the area but it is a welcome newcomer.

The classic design and decor of Devins is a delight to visit. And, as is needed in all restaurants that are truly good, the food is excellent. The menu includes a full listing of the best in Northern Italian and classically fine foods including fresh fish entrees.

Our party of four went there last week. I was the hostess and I enjoyed hearing the great compliments of our guests. The compliments included the excellent attentive service. I shall always go to Devins when I have guests who I want to enjoy a good meal.

By Antonia Allegra

If newspaper headlines are any indication, the typical American housewife has moved out of the kitchen and into the work force, and she's not coming back.

But while the experts are pondering the impact this trend is having on the economy, society and the family, no one is studying the impact on that old American staple, the home-cooked meal.

The prospects don't look good.

When Mom flies across the threshold at 5:35 p.m., with hunger pangs gnawing at her own stomach and the kids clamoring for dinner, it's all too easy to fall back on Hamburger Helper for a fast meal.

Food manufacturers, quick to see a new market, are responding with new lines of colorfully packaged, boxed, bagged and canned convenience foods, and consumers are snapping them up in droves.

The sad thing is that they're paying more (money) for less (nutrition and fiber), and it's all unnecessary.

Mother Nature provided the first "fast foods" millions of years ago, and no one's ever improved on her product line.

Fresh fruits and vegetables, eggs, seafood and lean meats can be combined with cheese and whole-grain breads, rolls and pasta for meals that taste good, look good and — best of all — are on the table in under 30 minutes.

Tossed green salads are quick, and so are sliced cantaloupe, honeydew, casaba and tomatoes. Cottage cheese served with any one of a number of fresh fruits is another possibility.

Lamb chops, pork chops and steaks all grill in minutes, and most fish fillets can be broiled or baked just as quickly. Breaded turkey breast slices can be pan-fried almost as fast as you can turn them.

Whole-grain breads, muffins and rolls are an easy addition that requires no extra time. Alternate them with rice, pasta or one of the many forms of frozen potatoes that take just minutes to prepare.

One-dish meals can be lifesavers, as well. Here's an easy one that consists of sauteing sliced zucchini, summer and yellow squash along with paper-thin carrots and chopped onion in a large frying pan. Season with dill weed, salt and pepper and add a diced ham steak. Smother the whole thing with grated cheese and run it under the broiler. Serve it with a tossed green salad and whole-grain muffins.

Beating the clock and eating well at the same time can be a real challenge. Here are some recipes to start you on the right track.

COUNTRY TURKEY BREAST PARMIGIANA

1 egg, slightly beaten
3 tbsps. milk

1 lb. turkey breast slices
½ cup seasoned bread crumbs
½ cup Parmesan cheese
1 tomato, sliced
1 tsp. whole oregano
¼ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
1 cup (4 oz.) grated mozzarella or Jack cheese
Parsley

Mix together egg and milk. Dip turkey slices into egg mixture and then coat both sides with combined bread crumbs and Parmesan cheese. Place slices in single layer on greased baking sheet.

Bake 8 to 10 minutes at 450 F until golden. Arrange turkey and tomato slices on ovenproof platter. Sprinkle with seasonings and top with cheese. Place under broiler until cheese bubbles. Garnish with parsley.

Makes 4 servings.

STEAK SMOTHERED WITH VEGETABLES

2 beef club steaks (about 12 oz. each)
1 green pepper, chopped
1 onion, chopped
½ lb. mushrooms, sliced
2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
2 tomatoes, chopped
1 tsp. dried basil leaves
½ tsp. ground oregano
¼ tsp. salt
1½ tssps. cornstarch
¼ cup beef broth

Trim outside layer of fat from steaks. Brush large non-stick surface skillet with vegetable oil. Pan broil steaks over moderate heat, turning occasionally to brown beef evenly. Cook about 10 minutes or until desired doneness. Remove steaks to warm platter; keep warm.

Stir in green pepper, onion, mushrooms and garlic. Cook and stir over moderate heat 5 minutes, until onion is softened. Stir in tomatoes, basil, oregano and salt; cover. Simmer 3 to 5 minutes until tomatoes are hot.

Mix cornstarch and beef broth; stir into vegetable mixture. Cook and stir about 2 minutes until mixture thickens. Remove bones from steaks. Cut each steak in half. Arrange on platter; pour vegetable mixture on top.

Makes 4 servings.

JARLSBERG PASTA PRIMAVERA

1 medium zucchini, sliced
½ cup carrots, cut in julienne strips
½ cup green onions, cut in 1-inch pieces
½ cup mushrooms, quartered
1 small clove garlic, minced
2 tbsps. butter or margarine
1 tsp. flour
1 cup half-and-half
¼ tsp. crushed basil
¼ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
1 cup shredded Jarlsberg cheese

1 cup cooked broccoli florets
1 (8 oz.) package thin spaghetti, cooked and drained

In large saucepan, cook vegetables in butter until just tender. Stir occasionally. Add flour. Blend well. Gradually blend in half-and-half. Cook, stirring, until thickened. Season with basil, salt and pepper. Add cheese. Cook, stirring, until melted. Add broccoli. Toss in pasta. Serve immediately.

Makes 4 servings.

Veal

Veal is expensive. At $7 or sometimes $8 a pound, it may seem like an extravagance to all but the wealthy.

When you consider the price per serving, though (not to mention the wonderful taste of good veal), it almost is a bargain. The average serving for most veal recipes is 4 ounces, or about $1.75 per serving. This is comparable to the price per serving for good ground chuck for hamburgers, for which we usually allow 8 ounces per person, uncooked weight. At the same cost per serving, wouldn't you rather serve veal than hamburgers?

Veal is very low in fat content, which means that it shrinks very little during cooking, and has less cholesterol than most meats. For today's recipes, either cutlets or scallopini will be fine.

When you shop for veal, look for light-pink color and very little fat. If you are unable to find veal with these qualities, you may blanch veal briefly, starting in cold water, or you may soak it (refrigerated) in milk overnight before using.

It is important to watch veal carefully while you are cooking it, since its lack of fat allows it to overcook quickly. For most dishes, veal should reach an internal temperature of 175 degrees F. Exceptions are dishes like Veal a la Creme (today's second recipe) and Veal a la Meuniere, which traditionally are served juicy and pink.

As a rule of thumb, any recipe for roast veal should allow 25 to 30 minutes per pound. Most often, roast veal should be pot-roasted. Scallops of veal are the long, round muscle of the leg, cut across the grain, and figure in many of the Italian and French veal recipes.

We generally serve today's first recipe, Paprika-Schnitzel, with thin homemade pasta and a green salad. The recipe given for the sauce is enough for the pasta, as well, so you may wish to halve it if you decide to serve your schnitzel without pasta. If you use veal cutlets, cut them into pieces about 1 inch by 3 inches before cooking.

For the second recipe, Escalopes de Veau a la Creme, vegetables and/or salads make excellent accompaniments. You may wish to experiment with various combinations to accent this recipe.

Both can be prepared in less than an hour.

PAPRIKA-SCHNITZEL

1 lb. veal scallopini or cutlets, pounded to ¼-inch thickness
6 tbsps. butter
2 shallots, finely chopped
1 tsp. flour
1 tsp. Hungarian paprika
1 cup chicken broth (or canned chicken broth)
½ cup dry white wine
¼ cup sour cream
Juice of ¼ lemon
Parsley for garnish (optional)

Saute veal in batches in butter, and transfer meat to heated, ovenproof serving platter. Keep heated in 175 F oven. To butter in pan, add shallots, and saute until shallots are golden brown. Stir in flour, mixed with paprika, and gradually add chicken stock and wine, stirring constantly until sauce thickens. Lower heat and simmer sauce for approximately 10 minutes. Stir in sour cream and heat sauce again, but do not let boil. Stir in lemon juice immediately before serving, and pour sauce over veal. Garnish with parsley if desired.

Serves 4.

ESCALOPES DE VEAU A LA CREME

2 lbs. veal scallopini, pounded to ¼-inch thickness
4 tbsps. butter
1 cup heavy cream
Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
¼ cup warmed Cognac
Fresh parsley for garnish

In heavy skillet, briefly saute veal in batches in butter, until lightly browned on outside, but still slightly pink inside. Arrange meat on warmed, flameproof platter. Add cream to skillet and simmer for 2 to 3 minutes, scraping pan to mix in crusty residue. Add salt and pepper to taste. Pour warmed Cognac over veal and ignite. When flames have subsided, pour cream sauce over veal, garnish with parsley sprigs and serve.

Serves 6 to 8.

Microwave Magic

By Desiree Vives

Ham is favorite for Easter

While turkey is the traditional main course at Thanksgiving, ham has taken over as the star attraction on the Easter table.

Why ham? Because in the bad old days before refrigeration (and long before microwave ovens), hog-butchered was a chore usually done in the fall. This way, the meat could be left to cure during the long, cold winter months.

It took until springtime for the hams to be fully cured and ready to eat. And after a winter of culinary monotony, this succulent meat was a welcome sight. No wonder the household cook often chose ham to grace the springtime Easter table.

Ham should be refrigerated as soon as you get it home. It will stay fresh in its original wrapper for about one week. Cover and refrigerate leftover ham within one to two hours after cooking. Refrigerated, it will keep for four to five days.

Casseroles that contain ham should be frozen for only short periods of time. Ham and other cured pork products do not keep well for more than one to two months, because the salt used in the curing process speeds the development of rancid flavors.

The majority of commercially sold hams are fully precooked, and can be microwaved easily and quickly. To heat a fully cooked 2- to 4-pound ham, microwave at MEDIUM (50 percent power) 12 to 15 minutes per pound. A 5- to 8-pound ham should be microwaved 10 to 12 minutes per pound. If using your microwave's meat thermometer, the ham's internal temperature should reach 120 F.

Happy Easter!

Q. Enclosed is a picture of a beautiful piece of furniture. It is all mahogany with glass knobs. The silver drawers are felt lined. We would like to know more about it and its value.

A. This is an Empire sideboard made in the second quarter of the 19th century. It would sell for at least $800 or $900.

Empire furniture was the prevailing style from 1820 to 1849. Compared to other antique furniture it is underpriced.

Q. I have a pair of milk glass scent bottles as shown in this picture. Please tell me when they were made and their value.

A. These were made in the fourth quarter of the 19th century and probably would sell in the $75 to $95 range for the pair.

I should point out that there are many reproductions on the market, so beware.

It includes a list of national and regional bottle clubs, publications and a long list of other books on bottles.

Send your questions about antiques with picture(s), a detailed description, stamped, self-addressed envelope, and $1 per item to James G. McCollam.

Q. In a recent column you said that china marked "Theodore Haviland, Limoges, France" was made from 1925 to 1938.

I have a set with the same marking that local dealers have confirmed as dating back to the late 19th century. Apparently you made a mistake.

A. There were three Haviland marks with the same wording that were used at different times. Figure "A" first was used in 1893; Figure "B" with the letters in Theodore Haviland slanted first was used in 1903; Figure "C" with the letters in Theodora Haviland vertical first was used in 1925. No, I didn't make a mistake.

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Q. Several years ago we installed teak paneling and a wall system of shelves in our living room. My problem is that now I want to rearrange the shelves and some pictures that are mounted on the paneling.

I find that when I move the shelves and pictures, the paneling behind them, which has been covered up over the years, is much darker than the rest of the paneling.

What can I do to remove this dark stain and restore the finish behind the shelves and pictures so that it will match the rest of the wood finish? — Mrs. T.J.R.

A. Your problem is caused by the exposure of the wood paneling to ultraviolet rays of the sun. The wood surrounding your pictures, which has been exposed to light, has become lighter over a period of time. This is a natural process.

If you change the location of the shelves and pictures you have had in the past, the newly exposed wood will change gradually over a period of time as it, too, is exposed to ultraviolet rays.

Teak oil can help blend the two shades and preserve the natural wood finish. It is available at a number of furniture stores that handle teak furniture and wall systems. It is a simple mixture of linseed oil and turpentine.

Do not use lemon oil products or furniture wax as they will change the wood hue to an undesirable color.

If you have actual stains, other than the wood discoloration caused from non-exposure to light, you can use a fine steel wool (No. 000) with teak oil. A light rubbing action will help remove stains and light scratches.

Once you have removed the pictures and relocated the shelves it may take several months for the darker spots to lighten, but they eventually will catch up and achieve the same hue as the rest of the paneling.

Q. Our mobile home sprung a leak during the last heavy rain. We have fixed the roof to prevent future leaking, but we have big dark stains on the fiberboard ceiling, which is white.

How can we remove or lighten these stains before we repaint the ceiling, so they won't show through? — L.M.

A. It is impossible to remove a water stain from fiberboard, but you should be able to paint the ceiling and cover the stains effectively.

Prepare the surface by first covering the stains with a shellac to seal. This will prevent the stains from showing through the newly applied paint. Paint with a water-base paint applied with a roller. Two coats may be required.

Q. We have a fireplace with a damper, and our friends have given us conflicting advice on closing the damper. Some say to close the damper, even if hot embers are left in the fireplace. They say if not, the chimney will draw the heat out of the room.

Others say not, leave the damper open all night, and they also say that fumes would be locked in the house when the damper is closed, which is not good for our health. What is your opinion? — Mr. C.J.

A. Here is professional advice on the operation of fireplace dampers, taken from a technical publication. Make sure the damper is wide open before lighting the fire. Although many fireplaces are operated with the damper fully open, it is not always necessary in order to maintain a smooth discharge of smoke and arresting the down draft.

You can experiment to see how much the damper opening can be cut down to save heat while still discharging all of the smoke.

When only a bed of glowing coals remain, the damper can be brought to nearly a fully closed position. When the fireplace is not in use it is best to keep the damper closed, so the heat provided by your gas furnace does not escape and cause you higher utility bills. However, be sure to open it before refueling with a smoke-producing fuel.

They've put lotions on me, given me shots, put me under a lamp, but I still itched. I have concluded that nerves have a lot to do with it.

Dear John: I greatly enjoy reading your column. I especially enjoyed the one about Certo for arthritis. I gave my aged dog pectin in his food and I am sure it helped him. He lived to be 15 1/2 years old. — Evelyn M.

Dear John: I am neither a senior nor a reader of your column.

I recently typed a column that included a letter from a woman who signed herself "A.Z." In the letter she spoke of her son who was suffering from depression, fear of leaving the house and a reading learning disability.

I would like to suggest to her that there is an organization called Literary Volunteers that helps functionally illiterate adults who supposedly have normal intelligence, but somehow have not been able to learn to read through the conventional school system.

I don't know if this is part of her son's fears regarding leaving the house, but I imagine that it can be a frightening world.

She may also call some counseling agencies that help handicapped people find employment. — J.E.

TWEEN 12 & 20

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

Dr. Wallace: I am 15 and an only child but that won't be for long. My mother is pregnant and I will have a brother or sister in about six months.

I'm really thrilled by this turn of events but I'm also worried. Mom is a heavy smoker (Dad is, also) and I know she should quit. I asked her to but she says it's impossible.

I'm one of your biggest fans and I would appreciate it if you would print my letter and tell Mom the dangers of smoking while carrying a baby. — Lu Ann.

Lu Ann: Mothers-to-be who smoke during pregnancy, according to the American Lung Association, cut down the supply of oxygen to the fetus and can retard its growth. These women are more likely to deliver an undersize baby, which has a harder time surviving than a normal-size baby.

By flexing certain muscles, the fetus prepares for the instant it will have to breathe on its own. A dramatic reduction in these vital breathing movements can be measured in the unborn child after the mother smokes just a few cigarettes.

Studies have shown that children of mothers who smoked during pregnancy lag in physical growth. There also may be a negative effect on verbal and math scores. The more the mother smoked, the worse these deficiencies were.

Studies also show that mothers and fathers who smoke have more respiratory infections which they pass on to their children. One major study found that babies of parents who smoke have more bronchitis and pneumonia in the first year of life than other babies. Another study found that respiratory problems were twice as common in young children if their parents smoked.

One of the suspected causes of these higher rates of infection among children is the effect of breathing secondhand smoke — the smoke that comes from the parents' cigarettes, cigars and pipes. In one study, children exposed to secondhand smoke in a small room for 30 minutes experienced an increase in heart rate and blood pressure, as well as a rise in the carbon-monoxide level in their blood.

After you make sure Mother has read this column, make sure that Dad does the same. Wouldn't it be wonderful if both of your parents stopped smoking? And they would owe it all to you — a loving, caring 15-year-old daughter.

Dr. Wallace: I am 14 and have an 18-year-old sister who has terrible driving habits. In the past year she has been involved in two accidents that were her fault.

Her latest traffic ticket (reckless driving) resulted in her insurance being canceled. Her driver's license has been lifted by the police for three months because she was drinking as well as driving recklessly.

My dad had a long talk with her and she promised to shape up. She also promised not to drive until her driver's license was restored.

Yesterday she came by school to pick up her best friend and she was driving her best friend's car. I couldn't help but notice her because she "burned rubber" taking off. All the kids at school saw her.

Do you think I should tell my dad about this? I really don't want to be a tattletale. We were taught never to tattle. — Glen Glen: Yes, inform your father immediately. I hope his next try at grounding your sister will be more successful.

She is a prime candidate to be a traffic statistic. Unfortunately, so are all the drivers in Marysville as long as your sister continues her immature and unsafe driving habits.

Dr. Wallace: I am 19 and the man I love is 28. We plan to get married in two months. We love each other very much. I also happen to be pregnant (five months along) and both of us want our baby to have a "legal" mother and father.

Dr. Wallace, my fiancé is a wonderful man and I know that he will be a trusting and loving husband and a marvelous father. He has a good job and is straight as an arrow.

My problem is that my mother doesn't like this fellow and she will not come to the wedding. She also says that she will disown me and will never claim my child as her grandchild.

Lori: Proceed with the marriage. After the wedding make sure Mom knows that you do love her and she is welcome anytime in your home.

But, do not lose any sleep over her childish behavior. Chances are good, in time, she will change her ways and become a good grandmother and mother-in-law. In the meantime, your most important function will be as mother and wife. Above all, these must be primary.

Mainly For Seniors

By John T. Watts

Dear John: I scanned your column this past week mainly because my husband's arthritis has gotten so much worse since his surgery for a gangrenous gall bladder, and I had noticed that you seem to print a preponderance of information on arthritis.

I had assumed you were a doctor. However, after reading your reply to Fred T., I think that you are sorely in need of an update.

The letter that I am referring to is the one in which the patient complained about "itching" and the one in which your answer included this gem: "My experience is that the dermatologists don't know any more about this condition than you or me."

I am a dermatologist with a large and ever-growing practice — large enough to employ six assistants. Itching is generally not a problem with my patients once they have followed all of my advice.

I would like to pass on to you some of the thoughts that I pass on to each and every one of my patients.

Use no stimulants such as coffee, tea, alcohol or chocolate by mouth. Wear 100 percent cotton or silk directly next to the skin. Vitamin E ointment is of no more value than any of the innumerable moisturizing creams on the market.

Two oil baths or showers a week are comforting, especially when no soap is used except for on the axilla, around the groin and on soles of the feet and the body is allowed to air dry except the areas of the groin, buttocks and between the toes.

The greatest cause of itching skin is dryness, which is caused by the lack of moisture in the air.

A simple home remedy taught to me by my dermatologist father and grandfather is to leave the water in the tub from one bath to another. This adds a great deal of moisture to the air.

If you have any further dermatological problems that you need help with, do not hesitate to call upon me. — Janith K., M.D.

Dear Janith: Thanks a million. Sorry about giving you the impression I was a doctor. I try to spell it out once in awhile that I am a communicator, not a doctor. I see my job as one of distributing helpful ideas of my readers to each other.

Frankly, I've been to a doctor several times for itching but got none of the hints you gave.

Aunt Tilly's Corner

Last week I spent several days in North Carolina. It is only a little more than an hour away by jet plane, but what a difference in climate! Spring had already arrived there. The forsythia and daffodils were in bloom, the grass was much greener than here and even the robins had found their way back from warmer climates.

In the Village of Pinehurst where I stayed, golf was everything. People were out on the fairway early in the morning and many conversations heard on the street were about this sport.

Religion was also a topic of great interest. On the radio I heard Bible readings and on TV I watched a program on Armageddon. This is the final battle which some religious people predict will take place between the forces of good and evil just before the end of the world!

Yes, North Carolina is just a short distance away by air, but it is truly another world!

Your friend,
Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are Karen Smith and Robert Brennan. Congratulations!

Points on Pets

Many reasons to attract wildlife

By R.C. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q. My husband and I are elderly and feel like we cannot properly care for a pet within our home. However, we really enjoy watching our neighbor's animals. We also enjoy watching the birds that fly through our yard.

Do you have any suggestions on how we can attract more birds and wildlife to our yard?

A. There are many reasons why people wish to attract wild birds and animals to their yards. Many people enjoy the visual pleasure and variety of the many different wild creatures. Others gain great personal satisfaction from feeding, watering and providing habitats for wildlife throughout the times of the year when inclement weather is the rule.

Most wildlife must overcome many hardships daily. Many birds must spend a number of their waking hours searching for food.

Most wildlife, especially birds, is very beneficial to us. Each songbird eats a tremendous number of harmful insects that can destroy plants and annoy us. It has been stated that each songbird eats insects equivalent to 20 percent of body weight daily. A single warbler can eat as many as 3,500 aphids in one hour. Swallows can catch over 2,000 flying insects in a day.

Birds in agricultural areas eat more than 300 weed seeds for each square foot of soil surface yearly. A single bobwhite quail can eat 5,000 to 15,000 weed seeds in one day.

Owls prey on wild mice and rats. Woodpeckers eat grubs and insects that damage trees. Hawks feed on grasshoppers. Toads eat slugs, flies, mosquitoes, and other flying insects. Many snakes destroy mice, rats and other harmful rodents. Skunks, opossums and raccoons feed on grubs and other insects.

You can attract beneficial wildlife to your yard by providing appropriate food, water and proper habitats.

The largest group of bird you can attract to your yard is the seed-eating bird. Examples are blue jays, cardinals, red-winged blackbirds, some woodpeckers and sparrows. Properly constructed bird feeders will attract these birds.

Some seed-eating birds prefer eating off the ground. Morning
