Transportation Available For TOB Meeting Tues.

By Gertrude Paul

Free buses have been made available by the Midland Civic Association for residents interested in attending the March 26 Town of Oyster Bay meeting scheduled at 8 p.m. regarding the proposed construction of a White Castle on Willet Avenue and Bethpage Road. Buses will depart from Willet Avenue School at 7 p.m. Reservations are required and will be on a first-come, first-served basis. Call Gloria Mann at 822-6594; Gert Paul 931-1740 or Ellie Draycott 935-5793 to make the necessary arrangements.

The culmination of many months of hard work will arrive Tuesday when the Town Board meets at Audrey Avenue to consider the request for a variance to operate a fast food drive-in establishment proposed by Riemac Corp. and White Castle Systems, Inc.

So many friends and neighbors have spent countless hours in disseminating information and organizing for this meeting. We are approaching that very important evening. We cannot count on the "other guy" to speak for us or be present for us. We need everyone - husbands, wives, adult children or live-in grandparents. We want you all there. You must be there if we are to preserve our suburban way of life. The time has come for we, the taxpayers, to decide what we need and what best serves our interests. We stand ready to work with the Town Board, business people, and community leaders to develop a Master Plan for a Hicksville we can truly be proud of. Let us link arms, and speak as one, for the development of Hicksville with establishments that meet our needs.

Call today if you need transportation.

Shamrocks Mark St. Pat's Day With 11-6 Victory

By A. Blicher

The Hicksville Shamrocks 1974 traveling soccer team celebrated St. Patrick's Day with an 11-6 greening of the Huntington Boys Club Cosmos to run their Shep Messing Indoor Soccer League record to six wins-and no losses.

Chris Doyle, the Shamrocks outstanding striker, led the scoring with four goals. Todd Meringoff, playing wing, had a three-goal hat trick, including one assist. Jared Jacobs, playing wing, had two goals and two assists. Brian Pine, playing wing, striker and full-back in the first half, scored one goal and had a beautiful second half in goal. David Lovato was an aggressive force throughout the game from fullback and put in one goal unassisted. Matthew Pordum showed tremendous ball control skills at wing with many on-target passes.

Jason Kingsley was a dynamo from fullback, with aggressive tackling, heads up passing and strong body use. Gregg Grosso played striker with flair and picked up one assist, while alertly falling back on defense whenever necessary. Brian Harkins was his usual aggressive self at fullback, using his savvy to cut off many of HBC's charged. Eddie Jacobsen had a strong first half in goal and then played an alert wing and fullback in the second half. Ted Knoop was a constant thorn in the opposition's side from wing and picked up two big assists. Eric Blicher was a force at fullback and aided the offensive cause with three big assists.

Congrats to the Shamrocks and assistant coach Peter Knoop for the impressive St. Patrick's Day win! Speedy recovery to Joe Flanagan!

Knudsen's Visit Former Residents Living In Fla.

Sev and Grace Knudsen of Kuhl Avenue, Hicksville have just returned from a months vacation in Florida. They stayed with their son Bill and his wife Sue in Valarco. Bill is a 1963 graduate of Hicksville High School and is a Lt. Col. in the Air Force stationed at Mac Dill Air Force Base in Tampa.

Grace and Sev visited many friends from Long Island and had an especially good time with Rose and Guy, formerly of Nevada Street Hicksville, and Sonny and Santa Goodernogh formerly of Kuhl Avenue. They visited and loved Epcot and Busch Gardens.

They felt a month isn't time enough to do everything they would like to have done and even though they topped their trip off with two days at Ocean City Maryland right on the ocean it was good to be home again.

Library Presents Gospel Film

The Hicksville Public Library will show the film, "The Gospel According to St. Matthew" on Friday, March 22 at 8 p.m. in the Community Room of the library.

This film is a powerful recreation of the best known Gospel. The Director, Pier Paolo Pasolini, presents the life of Christ as a realistic human drama. At first it may startle some in its unorthodox approach, with non-professional actors, rugged landscapes and bold use of music. But the film achieves an unusual dignity with its natural simplicity, resulting in a deeply moving experience.

There is no charge for admission and everyone is invited.

Vienna Choir To Perform Here

Vienna Choir Boys

For nearly five centuries the Vienna Choir Boys have enchanted millions with the charm and excellence of their music-making and Hicksville residents will have a golden opportunity to share the enchantment at a special performance on Monday evening, April 1. The Hicksville Public Schools and the Hicksville Council of PTAs will present the Vienna Choir Boys in their last U.S. concert this season in the Mabel R. Farley Auditorium at Hicksville High School at 7:30 p.m. at a cost of $3 per person. The program will include hymns, a one-act comic opera, folk songs and other light musical works.

The Vienna Choir Boys were founded by Imperial decree on July 7, 1498 by the humanist Emperor Maximilian I to fulfill his wish to have choristers in the Imperial Chapel. From its inception, this organization has attracted the finest musicians in the West: Christoph Willibald Gluck, the founder of the modern operatic form, spent his most creative years as Composer to the Court in 1787. Although Josef Haydn was not a member of the Imperial Chapel, he experienced the life of a choirboy to the full and many of his works are to be found in their repertoire. The greatest prodigy, and without a doubt the most famous choirboy, was Franz Schubert, who sang as a choirboy from 1808 to 1813. Anton Bruckner became organist of the Imperial Chapel in 1867 and added his influence to those of his equally illustrious precursors.

In 1918, however, it seemed that the collapse of the Hapsburg dynasty and the dissolution of the Austro-Hungarian Empire would mean the end of the world-famous institution. Fortunately, Joseph Schnitt retained the chaplaincy of the Imperial Chapel and in 1924, encouraged by his many friends, he decided to re-found the boys choir.

It was felt that the boarding school method was the only practicable one of insuring the musical training necessary for the choristers and, despite enormous economic difficulties, the attempt was made. Schnitt spared no personal expense and he alone is responsible for the salvation of this aspect of Austrian musical tradition. What he began as an experiment has grown to be an enormous success and the Vienna Choir Boys, as they were now called, began to embark on concert tours around the world.

Anyone who has seen the boys, either in rehearsal or in performance, soon realize the secret of their fascination: they have managed to combine the naivete of childhood with artistic maturity something that can only be achieved through serious work. Those who wish to be considered for entry attend a special preparatory school where they receive a thorough education with special attention paid to the theory and practice of singing as well as instruction on one musical instrument. At the examination, which the candidates take at the age of nine, musical ability is the decisive factor, irrespective of creed or social standing.

More often than not two choirs are away on tour at the same time, with each tour lasting an average of three months. On such a tour, the 24 choristers are accompanied by a choirmaster, a tutor and a nurse who are entrusted with their care and welfare. Since their first United States tour in 1932, the Vienna Choir Boys have visited America no fewer than 39 times, have completed nine Asian tours—traveling as far as Japan—and have performed an equal number of times in Australia. They also have appeared numerous times in both South America and South Africa. They have been received by innumerable heads of state, including audiences with Popes Pius XI, Pius XII and Paul VI. The time lost on concert tours is more than compensated for by an intensive program of teaching and study in classes that seldom exceed more than 10 students. In the private school, which conforms to the standards set by the Austrian Ministry of Education, there is a staff of 30 fully qualified secondary school teachers.

Through their films, recording, television appearances and tours, the Vienna Choir Boys have delighted millions in every corner of the world with their programs of costumed sacred songs, secular and folk music, amply justifying their reckoning as the world's most beloved choir.

Ticket sales for this performance will be handled through the individual PTA units, and tickets will be available in the Main offices of all the schools. Contact Mona Liguori at 938-1158 or Alayne Shoenfeld at 933-6589 for more information.

Don't miss this exciting opportunity. Get tickets today and bring your family to this very special event.

Fork Lane Students Meet Indians

Photos and Story By Kay Blieker

A trek to Roosevelt Field generally harbors thoughts of a wild shopping spree! Students in both Mrs. Mitchell's and Mrs. Irwin's fourth grade classes at Fork Lane School discovered other-wise. As part of an interdisciplinary unit, the classes are studying the Indians of Long Island and how the topic pertains to science, reading, social studies, etc. Recently, the youngsters attended a Roosevelt Field exhibit sponsored by the Encyclopedia Britannica. One million Native Americans reside in every state in the union, with California, Oklahoma and New Mexico having the largest groups. Here is a bit of what Fork Lancers saw and heard at the exhibit.

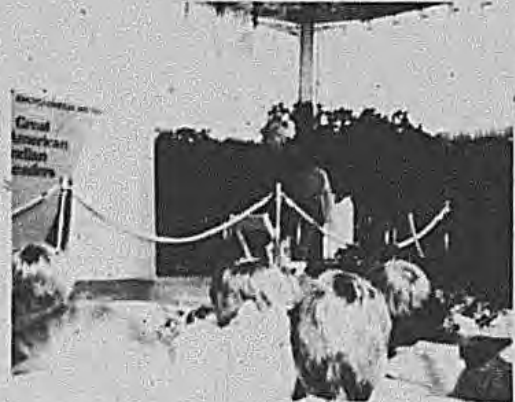

First, the boys and girls viewed life-sized mannequins of 12 Indian leaders which represented vast diversities of cultures and geographical regions...spanning four centuries of American history. The costumes were authentic reproductions with special touches such as: porcupine quill headdresses, deerskin clothing, beaded moccasins, wampum belts, etc. One leader's outfit had more than 100,000 hand strung beads, so the children were able to imagine the painstaking work involved here. The Indians on exhibit were: Black Hawk, Cochise, Complanter, Joseph, Massasai, Pontiac, Powhatan, Red Cloud, Sacagawea, Sequoyah, Tecumseh and Wovoka.

The youngsters were then treated to a folk-telling session with author Rosebud Yellow robe, a descendent of a South Dakota tribe. She told tales of the turtle carrying the weight of the world on his back, how the rabbit lost his tail and many more charming anecdotes. The students then saw a lovely pottery exhibit and learned sand painting techniques, as well.

At this point, time had elapsed so it was back to Fork Lane...but students, teachers and attending class mothers all left Roosevelt Field with lofty respect for these "first Americans".

Mrs. Mitchell and several Fork Lane students pause at Sacagawea display, left to right: Noelle King, Anthony Moreno, Christina Hoffman and John Brower.

Hicksville Fire Dept. Report

Sunday March 10

A fire at the General Instrument Co. plant 600 West John St. Hicksville caused an estimated $10,500 damage. The fire originated in a plating machine, used in the manufacture of printed circuit boards.

A security guard making rounds discovered the fire in the P.C. Laboratory and notified the Fire Department. The fire, believed to be electrical in origin enveloped the machine containing several 7 1/2 gallon containers of acids and plating materials. An automatic fire sprinkler activated, but did not send out an automatic fire signal to the fire department as designed.

Hicksville Vamps responded under Chief Owen Magee. Twenty-five workers were evacuated as a precaution. The fire was extinguished in 15 minutes. The Fire Departments Hazardous Materials Response Team made the area safe and the State Environmental Department and Health Dept. were asked to respond as toxic smoke and water runoff were involved. The Nassau County Fire Marshal's Haz-Mat Division was on the scene also. Two employees and two Nassau County Police Officers underwent blood tests as a precaution due to being exposed to the smoke. No harmful effects were found. The alarm was reported at 10:40 a.m. Chief Magee added that in this case the faulty alarm did not affect the outcome of the incident, as the Security Guard found the fire in its early stages. Fire Units were on the scene until 3:30 p.m. There was no damage to the environment. All runoff water was contained in tanks.

Sunday, March 10

Hicksville Fire Department Haz Mat Unit and personnel responded Sunday, March 10 to assist Westbury Vamps at the site of a pesticide spill at the Avis Co.

headquarters on Old Country Road. Members helped at the scene and at the Nassau County Medical Center with decontamination procedures. Several members of the Westbury Department came in contact with the substance identified by markings on the drum as Paraquat, a toxic substance. State Environmental Officials and Nassau County Health Department officials were on the scene. Several days later the substance leaking from the barrel was analyzed as paint thinner, water and paint, a relief to all that were exposed. An investigation is underway to determine why the barrel was marked wrong. The request for assistance was received at 8:10 p.m. Team members, Chief Owen Magee and Asst. Chief O'Brien responded. All units were back at 9:09 p.m.

House Fire

A fire at 26 Plover Lane, Hicksville on February 19 caused considerable damage. The fire originated in a clothes dryer and extended up through pipe openings to the first and second floors. During the fire operation owners pleaded for Vamps to find their pet dog trapped in the dwelling. Firefighters under Capt. Jack Huttle of Vol. Hose Co. 4 extinguished the fire in the basement and after a brief search found the dog and removed it outside.

Once outside Capt. Huttle, who used his air mask on the dog inside continued to work with others to revive the beloved pet. After a period of time the animal was revived and was taken to a local Vet for followup treatment. Chief Owen Magee reported he has recommended Capt. Jack Huttle to the A.S.P.C.A. for an award.

Museum Teaches Students About Hicksville

Standing outside the beautiful Renaissance "golden doors", the near-unique Hicksville replica of Ghiberti's Florentine masterpiece, at the Trinity Lutheran Church, West Nicholas Street are some Fork Lane School youngsters. They were on a guided tour of their village's points of interest, provided by the Hicksville Gregory Museum.

Seeing where "it all began", are Fork Lane second graders on a recent sight-seeing tour at the historic Cantigue Rock, Hicksville. The children were visiting the site where Robert Williams bought the Hicksville-Jericho areas from the Matinecock Indians in May, 1648.

"Mom, I went to jail today!" Children from the second grade classes of Mesdames Rita Schmidt and Sue Zalon-Green of Hicksville's Fork Lane School visited the old jail at the Gregory Museum recently.

The engines were warm inside their Fire House when a few youngsters, sight-seeing Hicksville on a Fork Lane bus tour, braved cold weather to have their pictures taken by the impressive Hicksville Fire Department Building which was erected in 1932.

Helping Hicksville children learn about their community and its places of interest and culture is an important annual program and service the Gregory Museum provides to the Hicksville schools. This year's bus tour of the community for two second grade classes at Fork Lane School was as full of new experiences as ever. The sightseeing and visits to historic places, governmental buildings and cultural sites by the classes of Mrs. Rita Schmidt and Mrs. Sue Zalon-Green were conducted as usual by Gregory Museum Historian Richard Evers.

Nazi Hunter To Speak Here

Rabbi Gary G. Perras, Spiritual Leader of the Manetto Hills Jewish Center has announced that the congregation will host the famed Nazi hunter Tuvia Friedman on Wednesday, April 17 at 8:15 p.m. at the synagogue. Mr. Friedman will discuss "Jewish responsibility after the Holocaust". Following his presentation, the floor will be thrown open for questions from the audience.

Mr. Friedman is the director of the Institute of Documentation for the Investigation of Nazi War Crimes in Haifa and Jerusalem, Israel. He played a key role in tracking down and bringing to justice the notorious war criminals Adolf Eichmann who was in charge of the extermination of the Jews.

For the last 40 years, 1945 to the present, Tuvia Friedman has been hunting Nazi criminals. He has been instrumental in the arrest and imprisonment of about 2000 Nazis responsible for the murder of European Jewry. He has prepared 200 major trials in Germany dealing with the extermination camps.

Mr. Friedman himself suffered at the hands of the Nazis from 1939 to 1945 in the ghetto and in concentration camps until he escaped to join the partisans. Later, he served in the Polish Army as an officer and investigator of Nazi war crimes in the Danzig prison.

In 1946 he joined the Haganah in Vienna and headed the documentation work which he began there. He is a graduate of the Hebrew University with a masters degree.

He is the author of "The Nazi Hunter" published by the Doubleday Co., New York, and 15 documentary books as well as an album "We Shall Never Forget" about the Eichmann trial in Jerusalem with pictures and documents.

In 1978-79 Mr. Friedman fought against the Statute of Limitations in Germany. In July 1979, it was abolished.

As an officer in the Israeli Army, he was decorated with six medals: the Haganah, the War of Independence, the Sinai War, fight against Nazism, the Six Day War and the Yom Kippur War.

Mr. Friedman is currently engaged in the search for the Nazi SS Doctor Josef Mengele who was known as the "Angel of Death". Mengele was given this nickname for the way he sent people to the gas chambers with a flick of his wrist and a smile on his face.

This program is open to the entire community. There is no admission charge.

For further information call The Manetto Hill Jewish Center at 935-5454 or 935-5474.

This program has been arranged through the J.W.B. Lecture Bureau.

Gentle Beginnings

The gentle way for decent, intelligent, unattached adults to find and form new relationships.

Inquire about literature Never any pressure

Two reasons it's easier to do business in Nassau County.

They're Francis Purcell and Joseph Colby—two reasons the Town of Oyster Bay is good for business.

Francis Purcell, County Executive, and Joseph Colby, Supervisor, working with the Nassau County Industrial Development Agency, have scored some impressive gains for Oyster Bay in the past 5 years, gains that have come about for one simple reason: they make it easy to do business in Nassau County.

By any yardstick, it's a terrific story. In commercial, industrial and retail space, IDA added 1,273,945 sq. ft. in Oyster Bay in 5 years. In dollar value, IDA projects topped $73 million. We also retained a total of 24,530 jobs, and added 1,363 new ones—jobs that would never have come to Oyster Bay without a lot of hard work from IDA. These jobs translate into $219.9 million in retained payroll dollars, $34.8 million in new payroll. It also means $1,910,917 less in property taxes paid by the citizens of Oyster Bay.

It's a good story, and IDA is going to make it an even better one in the coming years. After all, when it comes to business for Oyster Bay, there's no business like good business. And what's good for business is good for you, for us and everyone in Oyster Bay.

Input Callers Divided In Using Court Cameras

Callers to Input were divided in their response to last week's question: "Should N.Y. State permit the use of cameras in courtrooms? Here are some of the answers:

NO HELP

No. I see no way that cameras would be a help in courtrooms either from the point of view of conducting the case or seeing that the public is correctly informed of what is going on. The use of cameras would make it possible for the press to selectively report on the basis of a good mug shot. True it would not influence the jury if they were not allowed to read papers or see TV but it would not mean that the public was more informed either. J.E.

NO INTERRUPTION

Yes. I can see no reason to ban cameras from the courtroom. Presently press people go there and sketch witnesses and what they come up with is generally the artists opinion of what the witness looks like. It is less accurate to ban cameras and allow sketches. Originally the courts said that cameras would interrupt the proceedings but that was before cameras had been perfected as they are today. There would not be an interruption from most types of cameras. G.R.

NO TV

I am against all cameras including TV cameras in courtrooms and public meetings. TV cameras create a circus atmosphere in which all of the people in the trial are trying to mug it up for the TV audience. This certainly does not help the administration of justice. If some cameras are allowed it would be difficult to draw the line at TV cameras and that is the reason I feel no cameras should be allowed. K.F.

OLD FASHIONED

The courts are old-fashioned and make rules simply to make themselves important. Cameras of any kind could not influence the jury because the jury is not supposed to read newspapers or watch TV news coverage. If we believe that this ban is authentic then there could be no reason to ban the use of cameras in courtrooms. Some of the performances of judges, district attorneys and lawyers would be put to the scrutiny of the public if cameras were allowed and it is perhaps this fact that continues the ban by most judges. L.E.

ODDITIES

The trial in Massachusetts of men accused in a bar room rape was a case where cable TV was allowed to film the entire proceeding and what came out of it was that the public, columnists and others all read what they wanted to into the case which was bizarre. But it is my opinion that the only type of cases that would get photo and TV coverage would be the ones with an odd theme. The public probably would not be interested in seeing anything that was "run of the mill".

NO REASON TO CHANGE

There is no compelling reason to change the old rule against cameras in courtrooms. We are really getting enough coverage of trials. It should be up to the judge to decide whether he thinks the press and camera coverage could hurt a trial and should make the decision. The principals in each case are different so a blanket lifting of a rule is really not how it should be. J.R.

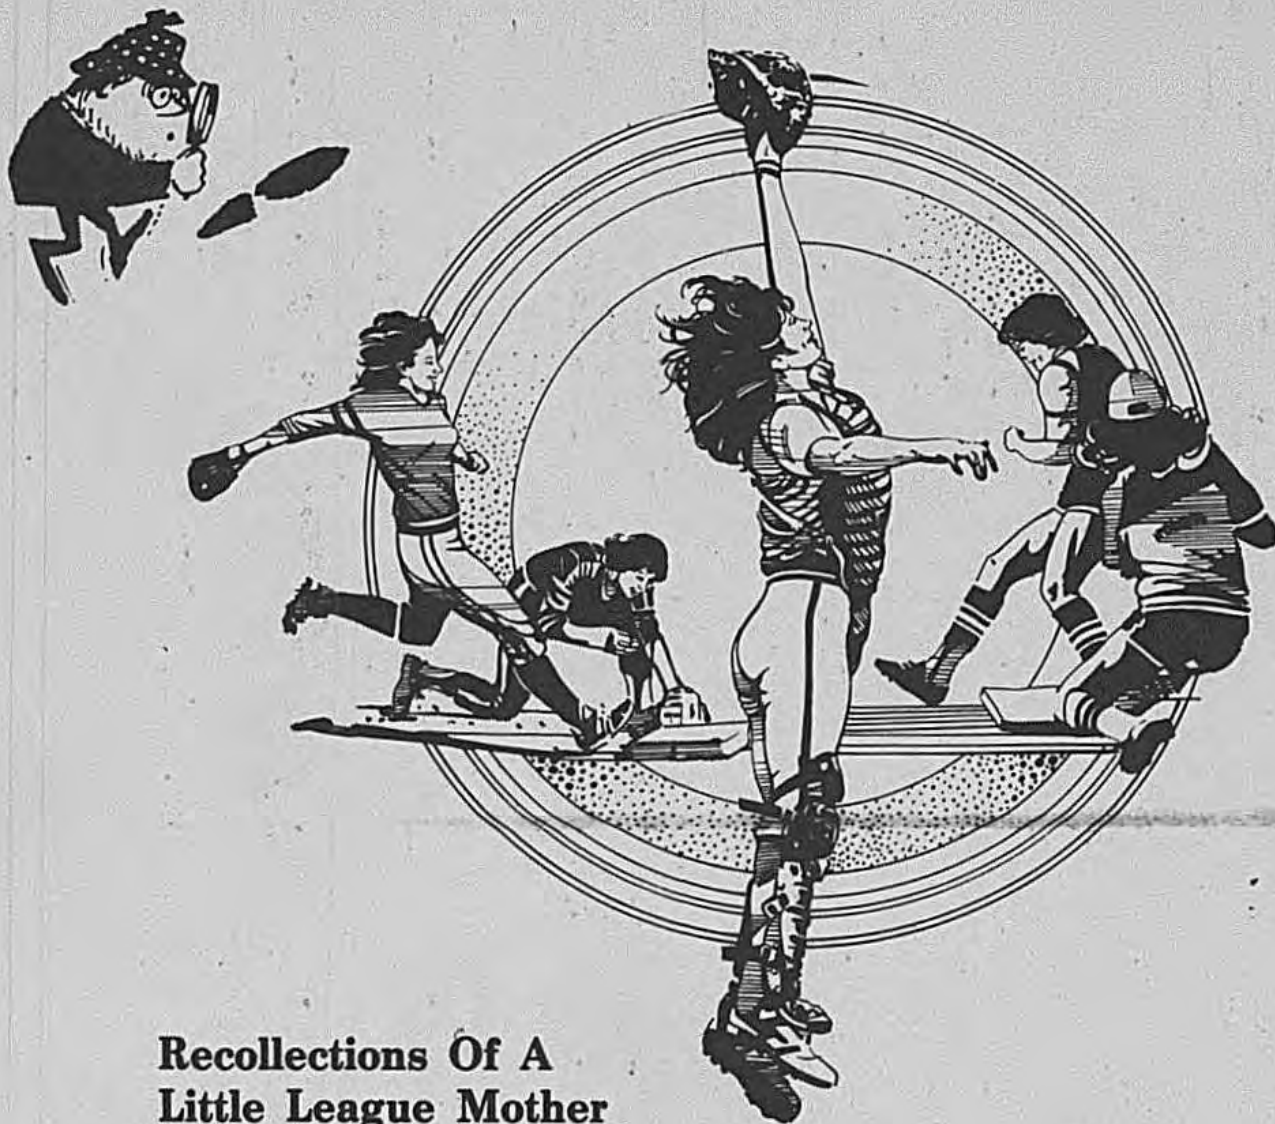

NO INTERFERENCE

My limited belief is that it would do no harm to allow cameras in courtrooms. But they should be the type that do not have a disturbing flash for each picture because that would bother the witnesses in a case. But cameras could be used without causing an interruption. R.W.

NO PURPOSE

What really useful purpose would be served if cameras were to be permitted in courtrooms? The only real winner in such event would be the media. The loser would be the public as once again, the story behind the picture would be the key and the questionable benefits would derive from the printed or oral interpretation by the media of the photo content. In my opinion, the courtroom should be the one place where strict objectivity should be sought at all costs in the interest of justice. The mere presence of or the knowledge that cameras were in the room would be a distraction and tend to turn all the key participants in a case into would-be Thespians playing a part for an unseen audience for a variety of reasons. None of these would enhance the court proceedings toward the attainment of a fair and just verdict. As far as I know, weapons are forbidden in the courtroom and a camera, depending upon the immediate or ultimate use of its product, could certainly be considered a potential weapon of sorts. P.G.S.

Recollections Of A Little League Mother

By Mindy Rosen

He bit off every one of his fingernails on the ride over, and when the coach said, "Okay, let's try some catches," he burst into tears and ran off the field, attaching himself firmly to my lower leg.

"The kid next to me is 7!" wailed my just-6-year old son, Jeremy. I'd been right. I thought. The pressure of Little League was just too much for so delicate a child. It would damage his psyche, not to mention his skinny little body! But we stood on the sidelines and watched as the Coach, an off-duty policeman with three Little Leaguers of his own, showed the "team" how to put their gloves down low to catch a ground ball. They lined up single file as he rolled the ball to each kid. They put their gloves down low. No one caught a thing.

"Why don't you give it a try," I suggested to Jeremy. "You can miss that ball as well as they can!"

It was irrefutable logic. Jeremy joined the team.

Looking back on last year's season, I can honestly say that we got a lot out of being in Little League - much more, in fact, than we had bargained for. I figured that Jeremy would learn to catch a few balls, or make a friend or two. After all, he was only six years old! As the spring wore on, though, the whole family got involved and came to actually look forward to the pilgrimage to the ball field. The parents took to bringing down lawn chairs and iced tea, chatting about school and local events in the warm spring air. Babies dug up the sidelines and cooed to each other; older sisters and brothers played tag and introduced their Cabbage Patch dolls to the neighbors.

And the boys - and girls - became a real team. Nobody did catch a ball for the first half of the season, and none of them really cared. They liked hitting better anyway - there was more action in it! Every hit became cause for joyous celebration and general back-slapping. They cheered each other generously, and anybody's hit became the whole team's success. They got to know the kids on the opposing teams as well, and suddenly there were 100 kids more that Jeremy recognized at school, and that said "Hi" to him in the halls.

For the fathers, Little League provided a real opportunity to see their child around other children, something mothers do often but fathers do rarely. For many, it was a revelation. The first time that someone burst into tears when he struck out, his father was mortified. "What are you crying for", he yelled. "Baseball players don't cry!"

It soon became obvious that 6-year-old baseball players do cry, and often. They cry when they strike out and they cry when they miss a catch and they get positively hysterical when they're tagged out at third. But they learned to stop, quicker and quicker each week, until by the end of the season, they'd play in the pouring rain and slide home and rip their pants and have to go to the bathroom and hear the ice cream truck go by and not even care. They'd put on that batting helmet and pick up that little bat and march proudly up to the tee. The crowd would go wild, chanting their name. Mothers would scramble around to get a picture for Grandma. Fathers would yell advice from the sidelines. Someone would yank the two-year-olds off the outfield. A cool breeze blew. They'd take a deep breath, swing away, and, more often than not, whack that ball farther than they ever had before. And in some little chamber of their souls they'd tuck away the memory of a moment when they were important, when they tried something hard and succeeded.

Watch the local newspapers for Little League registration notices. If you have a child eligible to play, go for it. I guarantee your whole family will be enriched by the experience.

GROWN BETTER

Wiegel's Place at 100 Herricks Road in Mineola is a restaurant tavern that has grown better with time. This restaurant is one that we visited back when it first opened. It was nice then featuring its wood paneled interior and good service.

As time has gone by it has become a favorite of ours for lunch. It is a place you can always count on for good service and either a full meal or a lugh. It is a tavern like setting, but the bar does not intrude on the rest of the restaurant. It is a place many of your readers would enjoy and we want to pass on the endorsement.

This newspaper, and the seven other weekly newspapers associated with it, publishes the last word in restaurant guides - a paid listing of many prominent selected restaurants in this area. While many of them have been rated by the great and near great food connoisseurs, our readers will have the last word through "Reader Ratings."

Through a special 24 hour phone system, readers will be asked to call in their assessment of each restaurant they visit. Consensus ratings (good or bad) will be published as a continuing part of the guide.

In addition they can make suggestions, compliments or criticisms through the open phone line and messages will be sent through to the restaurant management.

UNANIMOUS
Being Italian myself, I am sometimes hard to please at the many Italian Restaurants that have sprung up all over.

Last week we went to the LaCisterna Restaurant in Mineola. Our party tried out many things and I can truthfully say everyone was complimentary about the food, which included tender veal, fettucine matricana and excellent pasta. The salads were also fine with very fresh ingredients. There were six of us for dinner last week and it was unanimous that they told me to call and recommend LaCisterna. A.DIP

BETTER AND BETTER

The Davenport Press is an old landmark in Mineola having been, according to the menu, a bank and a printing establishment. The food at this restaurant continues to improve. Although it was good when it opened, they seem to be hitting their stride now with good service and everything else.

We had fine sirloin steaks at that restaurant last week and the potato (baked) and salad were very good. The price is moderate and all in all we felt it was a good experience. H.R.

READER RATINGS

Q. What do you do with the wrapper on a lump of sugar when you are dining out in a restaurant? Do you put it on the tablecloth, in the saucer of your cup, or in the ash tray? A.M.

A. This is one of those things for which there is no real rule. You just use common sense. I would say put it on the tablecloth, for if you put it in the ash tray it may start a fire, and if you put it in your saucer it may cause the cup to tip over when you put it back in the saucer.

Q. Recently I called one of the larger catering places to arrange to hold a small luncheon six months from now. I was told that they would never consider anything that near at hand unless there was a cancellation and that I ought to give at least a year's notice. Is this true all over?

A. Probably a year's reservation at the large catering places is about right but that might not be your only option. You mentioned that it was a luncheon and it may not have needed a great deal of space. For something like that you ought to contact a restaurant that you like and see if they have an off day and whether they could accommodate you with a room. Many restaurants do this and you are better off then having gone to a large caterer. They don't need a year's notice either.

Q. Restaurants nowadays do not know a thing about etiquette. Last night at a dinner they served salad. Isn't there still a special salad fork that is supposed to be used in restaurants? M.H.

A. Yes. The salad fork has a special cutting edge on one side of it and is usually shorter than a regular fork. Most restaurants are so busy getting cutlery together if they have a big crowd at dinner that they do not set out forks on knives right.

Q. Recently I was a guest at a club luncheon in a restaurant. Accidentally, I overturned my tomato juice. What was the right thing to do? The waiter didn't see the accident immediately. T.L. A.

A. A waiter seeing such an accident would immediately change the cloth, or if that was impossible at a long table, would spread a clean napkin over the spilled food. As the waiter did not do this because he was busy elsewhere, at a large luncheon you could have spread a napkin over the spot yourself, without undue discussion of the incident. Everyone occasionally has things like this happen.

Is it ever correct to have one's elbows on the table when one is eating? I was brought up to think it is not. J.P.

It is not correct to put one's elbows on the table when one is eating but it is permissible to rest them on the table between courses.

The Last Word In Restaurant Guides

Where Our Readers

Have The Last Word

This newspaper, and the seven other weekly newspapers associated with it, publishes the last word in restaurant guides - a paid listing of many prominent selected restaurants in this area. While many of them have been rated by the great and near great food connoisseurs, our readers will have the last word through "Reader Ratings".

Through a special 24 hour phone system, readers will be asked to call in their assessment of each restaurant they visit. Consensus ratings (good or bad) will be published as a continuing part of the guide.

In addition they can make suggestions, compliments or criticisms through the open phone line and messages will be sent through to the restaurant management.

FIRST CLASS
Pappas Restaurant in Williston Park is a first class restaurant. It has the freshest seafood you can find. We went there last Thursday night and found that they had wonderful broiled shrimp and the best bluefish that can be found.

The way the restaurant has been furnished with its beautiful wooden floors and nautical decor make it a credit to the area.

The restaurant is large, light and a delight. The food is great and to top everything off it is moderately priced. We recommend that you tell your readers not to miss this great place.

LIMOUSINE
I had dinner one evening at Villa Portofino. I was picked up free of charge by limousine and they will pick up anyone living in Garden City or Mineola. I had broiled Red Snapper, a potato croquette, fresh vegetable-also they have a new chef now which is fantastic. He made the best cheese cake. C.D. P.S. They're located at 39 Mineola Boulevard in Mineola.

GOOD PORTUGUESE

The newly decorated bright Estoril Granada Restaurant in Mineola is a delight. This restaurant, which features Spanish and Portuguese food, has the best of authentic Portuguese food. We had been recommended the carne porco Alentejana in one of the ads and found it to be truly a unique and different dish. It consists of pork and clams in brown sauce. Other members of our party had fine fish dishes and found that the fish was very fresh and the special sauces were unique and delicious. We recommend Estoril Granada as a great place to go. The decor is pleasing and the service is good. J.E.

Spices flavor food, history

Spices have been a central part of life past and present throughout history. In early Roman times, spices were so costly that only the wealthy could afford them. In spite of this, spices were used in every conceivable way. Countless dishes were seasoned and served at banquets. Spices were employed in quantities as medicines. After-bath balms were scented with various spicy aromatics and spices added pungency to temple incense.

Later, during the Middle Ages, a pound of ginger became worth the price of a sheep. Pepper, prized as a seasoning, meat preservative and digestive, was also used as currency. Payment for rent and taxes was often counted out peppercorn by peppercorn.

Once cloves were among the most costly of spices. Wars were fought within Europe as well as between Europeans and natives of islands where the cloves grew, over exclusive rights to the clove trade.

Many of the uses of spices have changed over the years, but the popularity of spices continues. In today's trend toward less salt, less sugar and less fat in our diets, spices often fill the void, offering delicious ways of enjoying natural foods.

Here are a few facts to remember about spices:

— Spices are grown in tropical climates; leafy herbs are from the temperate zones.

— Spices are a calorie-free way of flavoring foods while limiting the use of salt.

— Store spices in airtight jars away from heat and sunlight.

— Replace dried spices when color or aroma has faded or changed.

— Freshly ground spices, particularly peppercorns, are superior to already-ground ones. The flavor and aroma of the spices are much more alive.

— To release the flavor of dried spices, crush them with a mortar and pestle. Another way to crush them is to place them in the palm of one hand and crush them with the thumb of the other hand. Some cooks keep a small grinding machine in their kitchens just for grinding dried spices. Use a clean artist's brush to clean the receptacle after each use.

— Processors of spices have made things easy for hesitant cooks by combining a number of spices into mixtures just right for certain common flavoring purposes, such as apple pie spice, poultry seasoning, curries, etc.

Try spicing up your life with some of the following recipes.

PORK SATE

- 1 cup water
- 1 tsp. fennel or caraway seed
- 1 tbsp. light brown sugar
- 1 tsp. ground coriander
- 1 tsp. garlic powder
- 1 tsp. ground ginger
- ¼ tsp. ground black pepper
- 2 tbsps. soy sauce
- 1 tbsp. lemon juice
- ¼ lb. pork shoulder, cut in ¼-inch cubes (36 pieces)

In small saucepan, combine water with fennel seed. Bring to boil. Reduce heat and simmer slowly, until liquid is reduced to 2 tablespoons (about 15 minutes). Strain liquid into small bowl. To liquid add brown sugar, coriander, garlic, ginger, black pepper, soy sauce and lemon juice. Add pork and mix well; cover and refrigerate for 1 hour. Thread six pieces of meat onto each of six bamboo skewers. Place on foil-lined broiler pan. Broil 3 inches from heat source 5 minutes. Turn and broil until browned, about 5 minutes.

Makes 6 portions.

SPICED

Add rice; cook and stir until lightly brown, about 2 minutes. Blend in 1¼ cups water, ginger, garlic, pepper and turmeric. Bring to boil. Reduce heat and simmer, covered, until all liquid is absorbed and rice is tender, about 20 minutes. Sprinkle with paprika.

Makes 2¼ cups.

From Our Kitchen

Olivia and Paul Bensen

By Olivia and Paul Bensen

Homemade breads and soups have a special place among foods, in our culture and in many others. Both speak of caring, sharing and love.

In Arabic, the words for life and bread share a common origin. The word companion means, literally, "He who shares my bread." Jewish matzoh, Russian kulich and Mexican fiesta bread have been central to religious celebration for centuries.

Soups, with good reason, long have been associated with warmth, healing and comfort.

In societies where meat is an occasional luxury rather than a part of nearly every dinner, soups and breads are invaluable sources of protein and vitamins. Combinations of grains and legumes, when served with other vegetables and milk products such as cheese, can provide nearly all of the basic requirements for human health and fitness.

Recently, on an especially cold evening, we decided to prepare a dinner of homemade bread and hearty soup. All-Grain Bread combines whole wheat flour, wheat germ, millet, rolled oats, cracked wheat and white flour, but still is light, with a delightful texture and rich flavor.

Southern Lentil Soup, so named because of its cayenne, banana pepper and pork, combines perfectly with the bread to make a warming satisfying meal. The first time we made Southern Lentil Soup we used hog jowls as the meat. For those who never have cooked with this versatile, inexpensive cut, the meat is very much like bacon, with a smoky, slightly salty taste. Ham hocks or a ham bone may be substituted.

ALL-GRAIN BREAD

- ¼ cup honey
- 3 packages yeast
- 3 cups lukewarm water
- 5 tps. salt
- 2 cups whole wheat flour
- ½ cup wheat germ
- ½ cup millet
- ½ cup rolled oats
- ½ cup cracked wheat
- 4½ cups white flour
- ¼ cup oil

Dissolve honey and yeast in warm water. Add salt, whole wheat flour, wheat germ, millet, oats, cracked wheat and half the white flour. Beat hard with spoon.

Gradually add as much of remaining white flour as dough will take and still remain elastic. Work in flour with your hands until dough is smooth.

Place dough in large mixing bowl, pour oil over it, knead for 2 minutes and cover with towel. Allow to rise in warm, draft-free place for 30 to 45 minutes, until dough has doubled in size.

Punch dough down and turn it out onto floured board or counter. Knead 100 times, adding more white flour as necessary if dough becomes too sticky to handle. Shape dough into two oblongs and place in oiled loaf pans.

Bake for 30 minutes at 400 F until golden brown. Place on cooling rack and rub a little butter of tops of loaves.

Makes 2 loaves.

SOUTHERN LENTIL SOUP

- ¼ cup olive oil
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 1 large clove garlic, chopped
- 7 quarts water
- 24 oz. dried lentils, rinsed
- 1 bay leaf
- 3 stalks celery, sliced
- 2 carrots, sliced
- 6-8 thin slices hot banana pepper (optional)
- 1 pinch cayenne
- 1 large tomato, chopped
- 1 lb. (approx.) ham hocks, hog jowls or a ham bone
- Salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste

In large soup pot or stock pot, heat olive oil and in it saute onion and garlic until just soft. Add water, lentils, bay leaf, celery, carrots, hot banana pepper, cayenne, tomato and ham.

Bring to a boil, reduce heat to simmer and cook slowly 3 to 4 hours until soup is thickened and rich in flavor. Add salt and pepper to taste. Remove bay leaf and ham bone, hog jowl or ham hocks before serving.

Microwave Magic

By Desiree Vivea

Many people wonder whether microwave ovens really are safe. If you are one of those worried about microwave radiation leaking from your oven and causing possible harm to your family, read on.

Safety standards for microwave ovens were set by the Food and Drug Administration back in 1971. According to a pamphlet published by the FDA, no oven made since that date may exceed "5 milliwatts of microwave radiation per square centimeter at approximately 2 inches from the oven surface."

This, states the FDA, is far below the amount of radiation known to harm humans. (And how many of us stand 2 inches away while we're microwaving, anyway?)

But the U.S. Air Force did a study that showed that rats are four times more likely to get cancer when chronically exposed to low-intensity microwaves for up to 25 months. What the long-term effects of low-level microwave radiation upon humans might be, we still do not know.

Because of this, the FDA continues to enforce strict controls in an effort to promote microwave safety. The pamphlet states that the FDA requires "all ovens to have two independent interlock systems which will halt the production of microwaves the moment the latch is released or the door opened."

Unless your oven was made before 1971, or the microwave door, latch or seal is damaged in some way, there is little reason to fear excess microwave leakage. (If there is damage, do not operate the oven. Have it repaired by a qualified professional.)

There currently are several inexpensive leakage detectors on the market. The FDA does not recommend these devices, however, since tests have shown them to be generally inaccurate. If you suspect leakage, contact your oven manufacturer or a professional repair service for a reliable check. According to the FDA, most ovens it has tested have shown "little or no microwave leakage."

For a free copy of the FDA pamphlet Microwave Oven Radiation, send your name and address to the Consumer Information Center, Department 594 L, Pueblo, CO 81009.

Next week: Microwave Safety Tips.

- 1 lb. ground beef
- ½ cup brown sugar
- ½ cup ketchup
- 2 tps. dry mustard

Soak bread crumbs in milk for 5 minutes. Stir in eggs, onion, salt,

- ¼ tsp. pepper
- ¼ tsp. paprika
- 1 cup milk
- 1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
- 2 (10 oz.) pkg. frozen broccoli
- ½ cup herb-seasoned croutons

Combine melted butter, flour, salt, pepper, paprika and milk in 2-cup glass measure. Microwave 3 to 4 minutes, stirring after 2 minutes, until mixture thickens. Add cheese, stirring until melted. Set aside.

Place broccoli in 2-quart glass casserole. Microwave, covered, for 6 minutes. Stir, then microwave 6 minutes longer; drain well in colander.

Place broccoli on glass serving platter; sprinkle with croutons and top with cheese sauce. Microwave 2 to 3 minutes, until hot.

Add pears and microwave 10 minutes, turning pears over every 3 minutes, until pears are tender.

Serve warm, or refrigerate overnight in wine mixture to blend flavors.

Prewar figurine of good value

Q. Enclosed is a picture of my Hummel figurine and the mark from the bottom. Can you tell me when it was made and how much it is worth?

A. This is called "The Photographer" No. 178, the mark is Trade Mark No. 1 and it was made before World War II. The value would be at least $300.

Q. I have a cut glass ginger jar with the enclosed mark on the bottom. I would appreciate knowing who made it, when, where and its value.

A. This was made by H.P. Sinclair and Co. of Corning, N.Y., in the first quarter of the 20th century. It would sell in the $125 to $175 range.

Q. "RS Prussia," "RS Germany," "RS Suhl," etc., etc.; I find it very confusing. Are they the same or different? And the prices are even more confusing. Please explain.

A. These marks are found on some of the finest German porcelain made in the late 1800s and early 1900s.

Erdmann Schlegelmilch operated a factory in Suhl, Germany, from 1861 to 1925. His brother, Rheinhold, operated in Tillowitz, Germany, from 1869 to 1917. Both brothers, at times, used the "RS Prussia" mark depending on the political climate of the time.

Their nephew, Oscar, made porcelain in Langewiesen, Germany, from 1892 to 1950. Pieces marked "RS Suhl" were made by Erdmann; those marked "RS Tillowitz" were made by Rheingold. Those made by Oscar were marked with his name or initials.

Incidentally, "RS" does not stand for Rheinhold Schlegelmilch; it was used in memory of their father, Rudolph.

Another mark you will encounter is "RS Poland," which was used by Erdmann from 1918 to 1925. At the end of World War I, Tillowitz became part of Poland and Suhl now is part of East Germany.

In general, "RS Prussia" pieces bring the highest prices, but quality should be of primary consideration. Also, watch out for "fake" RS Prussia marks.

Send your questions about antiques with picture(s), a detailed description, stamped, self-addressed envelope, and $1 per item to James G. McCollam.

The Gingham Goose

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Q. We built our home about 33 years ago. It is redwood on the outside, stained with redwood stain and one coat of log oil, which has been reapplied over the years.

About seven years ago we were unable to get log oil so we changed to an oil-base redwood paint. In a few years large and small bubbles began to appear and they are increasing. The shady side of the house has very few bubbles, while the sunny side has the most. We did not use a primer before applying the oil-base paint.

What should we do before reapplying a new paint? Also, what type of paint should we use, the oil-base paint or one of the newer water-base paints? Is there a best time of the year to do the painting? — J.J.S.

A. If the finish has deteriorated to the point of cracking and peeling, or in your case bubbling up, the old finish should be removed before repainting to achieve the best results. This is a difficult do-it-yourself project.

Sanding or wire brushing is effective in removing pigmented stain finishes, or deteriorated film finish. However, a paint finish is best removed by use of a paint and varnish remover. Several kinds are available.

Before using, test the preparation on a piece of new, clean redwood to make sure it will not discolor the wood — particularly if a natural finish is to be used. Do not use steel wool on exterior redwood. Steel particles, which become embedded in the wood, will cause dark stains on contact with moisture.

You might consider a professional for removing the old coating by either burning (with a blowtorch) or sand blasting.

After the finish is removed you can repaint. Exterior wood paints include both oil-base and water-base emulsion types. Whichever kind is used, make certain it is intended specifically for use on wood out-of-doors.

One prime coat and two finish coats are advisable when painting over wood that has been stripped of a previous finish, or on new wood.

Be sure to use an oil-base prime coat, even if the finishing coats are water base. Warm dryer weather is a must for good painting conditions.

Q. My son just bought a bilevel home. The family room is on ground level. Mold is forming on his baseboard and now is traveling upward from the baseboard. At one place he has it starting at the ceiling. Also, just to the left of his living room entrance door, mold starts at the floor and goes to the ceiling.

The upstairs part of the house does not have this problem. His windows get very wet when the humidifier runs a lot. However, I believe we need the humidity. Any help will be appreciated. — T.G.F.

A. First, turn off your humidifier. With all the moisture you have in the house you don't need it. The basic remedy for keeping a house free of mold and musty mildew odors is to keep the house well-ventilated and dry. For example, a house that has been closed up for awhile may take on a musty odor. Usually, all that is required to eliminate the smell is to air the house thoroughly.

In your case, to eliminate the excess moisture heat the house with the furnace for several hours, then open the windows and doors to let out the warm air that has taken up the excess moisture in the house. Use an electric fan to promote air circulation.

Check your drainage around the house to be sure that all of the rainwater runs away from the foundation. Trees and shrubbery planted too close to the house also can cause a problem, as they cut off air circulation and promote dampness.

To remove the existing mold use a stiff brush and scrub the affected area with a solution of two-thirds cup trisodium phosphate (available at any drugstore), one-third cup detergent, 1 quart household bleach and 3 quarts warm water. Rinse with plenty of clear water.

TWEEN 12 & 20

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

Dr. Wallace: Last year my best friend and I (both 14) got into a lot of petty trouble, like sneaking out of the house at night and skipping school. But we never got into trouble with the police and we never took drugs or drank alcohol.

Because of our "troubles," my mother will not allow me to be around my friend. We cannot even see each other after school.

Our problems happened over seven months ago and both my friend and I have changed our ways. Both of us have been perfect, 100 percent angels and are doing great in school.

Still, my mom won't allow us to see each other. I'm sure you will agree that we no longer are "problem" children. What can I do to make Mom realize things are different now? I do love her dearly. — Tammie.

Tammie: Clip out your question and put it inside a card that tells Mom you love her dearly. Present the card to her as you prepare her favorite Saturday breakfast. It's not 100 percent guaranteed to work but the results just might surprise you.

Dr. Wallace: I went steady with Karen but she dropped me for another guy. Now I'm going steady with Beth, but Karen dropped her new boyfriend and wants to come back to me. — Lola B.

Dear Lola: Some of the old folk knew more than we do.

Dear John: Enclosed find stamped, self-addressed envelope. Please send a copy of the Certo and vinegar formulas.

Also, I thought I would mention that my doctor gave me vitamin E for leg cramps and they stopped almost immediately. I take 400 milligrams a day. Buy any good brand over the counter. — Grace L.

Dear Grace: I understand a number of things can help leg cramps, which is a good thing. They certainly are painful.

Dear John: My brother is bothered with excess of saliva in his mouth. He has tried many things. Nothing seems to help.

Could you recommend something that would alleviate this problem? — Mrs. E.E.

Dear Mrs. E.E.: He had better see a doctor. I am not a physician and this problem hasn't come up among our readers. If it does I'll sure report.

Mainly For Seniors

By John T. Watts

I thought you might be interested in knowing that while reading Dr. Kurt W. Donsbach's booklet Arthritis I came across this subject. This is what he says:

"One of the most difficult 'folk remedies' for me to determine the mechanism by which it was effective was the use of Certo, a product used by homemakers in the preparation of jams and jellies. It is composed primarily of fruit pectin, and until I learned that many arthritises have an extraordinary amount of lead in the bloodstream, the answer evaded me. Lead replaces calcium in the bone structure that leads to all kinds of calcium related disorders — pectin renders it insoluble in the body — and so I had my answer. The reason these remedies are sometimes ineffective is the mechanism by which they work for some may not be the cause of the problem with others."

The booklet is published by the International Institute of Natural Health Sciences Inc., 7422 Mountjoy Drive, Huntington Beach, CA 92648. It is available in most health food stores. — La Juanita W.

Dear La Juanita: Here we go again. Theories come up nearly every day about Certo and even the manufacturer doesn't know. It recently was announced that the manufacturer is conducting a joint study with the Arthritis Foundation on Certo.

Personally I don't like to overload myself with remedies. I have taken two or three doses just to knock out a pain in the neck — which it did.

Also, if I had any question about Certo I would go to the vinegar and honey route, instead. We have had plenty of testimonials as to its effectiveness. Nobody has said anything about vinegar being detrimental. In fact, it is known to be helpful for many purposes.

Details may be found in our arthritis leaflet, together with an arthritis diet a woman reader developed that has ended her excruciating pain. (Leaflet may be obtained by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to this column. We are printing the leaflet purely as a public service and donations also help.)

Dear John: In response to your letter regarding arthritis, I had taken many things for my arthritis but didn't get any relief. My arthritis was so bad I had trouble walking. I took honey and vinegar.

Now I hardly feel it at all. — Mrs. Paul B.

Dear Mrs. Paul B.: Someday I will take the time to do an entire leaflet on vinegar and the many things it is helpful for.

expected to hear from him again. I was surprised when I received an "I love you; I miss you" letter two weeks after he arrived in boot camp.

He begged me to write to him.

This was a bit odd because a week before he called he and another girl exchanged "friendship" rings.

I wrote to him every day and he wrote to me three times a week. After three months of correspondence, I was thrilled to know he was ending boot camp and coming home on leave. He told me he would see me every night. I was so excited that I couldn't even concentrate on my schoolwork.

Well, the day he was to arrive home, I had a big cake with a "Welcome Home" topping waiting for him. Three days later I threw it into the trash can. He never came by.

The next day I called my girlfriend and we drove to the other girl's house, and whose car was parked out front? You guessed — my Marine's.

How stupid can a girl get? To think that I believed his lies. I'm writing because last night he called and wanted to see me. I told him to get lost and that I never wanted to hear from him again. Did I do the right thing? — Beverly.

Beverly: Indeed you did. All he wanted was to hear his name called when the daily mail was delivered. Boot camp is a very lonely and trying time and mail from home is extremely welcome.

From now on let his new girlfriend provide him with news.

Dr. Wallace: I am a 16-year-old girl and I'm 100 pounds overweight and I'm tired of having people laugh and make fun of me. Don't get me wrong. I wish I was skinny and I've joined a weight-loss program in which I've lost 6 pounds in four weeks.

Thi: may not seem like a lot of weight loss but to me it's a great accomplishment. I stick with the program until I lose my extra weight.

People who make fun of overweight people should realize that we have feelings and that names make us feel bad. — Peggy.

Peggy: I'm thrilled that you are on a weight-loss program. Keep in touch with me. When you reach your desired weight, drop me a note. I'll send you a TWEEN 12 and 20 T-shirt.

Peggy those who call people names are cowards and suffer a good dose of insecurity. Keep your chin up and ignore their stupidity.

Dr. Wallace: I met a guy at a skating rink and went out with him about a dozen times. I liked him but he really didn't treat me nice, and we had several terrible arguments. Last October he joined the Marines and I never

Aunt Tilly's Corner

The other evening at about dusk I saw something unpleasant. A youngster about ten years old took a serious spill on his bike. I rushed to help him and luckily he was not hurt. However, I noticed that he was breaking all the rules of bicycling.

He had no light even though it was growing dark. He was wearing dark clothing. He was riding against the traffic. Lucky for him he had only cuts and bruises.

I spoke to my young friend and gave him a friendly "lecture". I hope he will be more careful in the future.

Heart defects common in dogs

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q. We recently purchased a female miniature poodle from a local kennel. During a routine physical examination, our veterinarian diagnosed a heart defect.

Our veterinarian said that a connection between the aorta and pulmonary artery had failed to close and that our dog had a heart murmur. We were quite surprised because the puppy has appeared to be healthy — we had just taken her in for routine shots.

Can you give us some information about this problem?

A. The occurrence of heart abnormalities at birth in dogs is quite common. The incidence of congenital heart anomalies in dogs has been reported to be approximately 1 percent. Because many puppies that are dead at birth or that die soon after birth never are examined by a veterinarian, the true incidence is unknown.

From your description it is likely that your puppy has a patent or persistent ductus arteriosus.

While the offspring still is in the uterus, there is a connecting artery between the pulmonary artery and the aorta. In effect this allows most of the blood to bypass the lungs.

Prior to birth the fetus gets its oxygen from the placenta. Therefore, it is unnecessary for all of the blood to circulate through the lungs to become oxygenated prior to being sent to the rest of the body. Of course, after birth it is necessary for the blood to be sent to the lungs so that it can be oxygenated.

Normally the very short ductus arteriosus closes shortly following birth and becomes a ligament called the "ligamentum arteriosus."

The patent ductus arteriosus abnormality is inherited as a polygenic defect in miniature and toy poodles. Other breeds that are most often affected include collies and Pomeranians. It is interesting to note that patent ductus arteriosus also occurs in humans.

The diagnosis of patent ductus arteriosus is suggested by hearing a very characteristic heart murmur with a stethoscope. This murmur often is called a "machinery" murmur. Additional tests such as X-rays, electrocardiograms and ultrasound techniques often are used to confirm the diagnosis.

Most veterinarians recommend surgery to correct the defect as soon after the diagnosis is made as possible. A few affected dogs have exhibited heart failure while waiting to grow.

Surgery to correct a patent ductus arteriosus involves placing a suture around the offending artery and tying it off. The surgery is not complicated and there usually is very little risk involved. Aftercare usually includes limiting strenuous exercise for a few days and giving the dog antibiotics.
