Mr. Richard V. Fitzmaurice became the newest member of the Hicksville Rotary Club in a special induction ceremony held at the Milleridge Inn last week. Mr. Fitzmaurice, Assistant Vice President at the Jericho branch of Chemical Bank, is in charge of the new business development office. The new Hicksville Rotarian, left, was inducted as to membership practices and procedures by Past President Arthur Pettorino and was inducted by Rotary District Governor nominee Charles "Chis" Bell, right.

The Children's Room of the Hicksville Public Library again held a very special storytime for their youngest library patron. "April Tiny Tot Storytime" featured simple stories, finger plays, and children's songs. Both parents and children who attended thoroughly enjoyed the program which will again be held in the fall.

School Coalition Discusses Plans

At a meeting of the Hicksville Coalition to Re-Elect Bennett and Nagle, on Wednesday, April 10, the committee finalized plans for a Candidates Cocktail Party and discussed strategies for the upcoming School Board Campaign.

The Coalition Campaign Committee confirmed Monday, May 13 with the VFW and decided that the donation would remain $5, as it was last year. Light refreshments will be served from 8 to 10 p.m. and the bar will be open for additional purchases. A 50-50 raffle will be the riskiest event of the evening, and Bill Bennett and Tom Nagle will be available to discuss current school events on a one to one basis.

The strength of the Coalition lies in its plans for the future. A round table discussion ensued on Wednesday evening, revolving around past and present issues. A timetable was established and strategies were developed for the school campaign.

For Candidates Cocktail Party tickets, for raffles, or for information concerning the next Coalition meeting which will be held on Monday, May 6, call 931-3847.

Consumer Fair At Post Office

Hicksville Post Office will be conducting a Consumer Fair during Postal Consumer Protection Week, April 22-28, in the lobby of the main post office on West John Street.

"We want to provide our customers with as much help in the areas of mail fraud, false representation, mail-order problems, mail protection and consumer service problems. Everyone uses the mail and we are committed to protecting your rights," said Roger Nienaber, Hicksville Manager/Postmaster.

A representative from the Postal Inspection Service will be in the lobby on April 22, from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. to answer any questions about postal consumer protection. To encourage postal customers to tell us their problems, there will be a drawing from the Consumer Service Cards. The name picked will receive a McGruff Crime Dog Doll.

A postal customer may take action to have their name removed from lists for sexually oriented material by securing a USPS Form 2201. Application for Listing Pursuant to 39 USC 3010 at any post office.

Mail-order purchasers may also contact the Direct Marketing Association, 6 East 43rd Street, New York, N.Y. 10017-4610 for a "Name Removal" form requesting removal from as many direct mail advertising lists as possible.

"Shopping by Mail" and "Make Knowledge Your Partner In Mail Order Shopping" are available free by writing the Federal Trade Commission, Public Reference, Pennsylvania Avenue at 6th Street, NW Washington, D.C. 20580-0001.

Mr. Nienaber offers some additional rules:

- Beware of exaggerated claims or unusually low prices.
- Don't be rushed. Avoid offers that claim to be your "last chance" to get a bargain.
- Never send cash.
- If you are suspicious about a company, check with the Postal Inspection Service, the Better Business Bureau or local or state consumer protection agencies before you order, to see if there are any complaints on record against the company.

Town Adopts Law To Post Tax Exempt Items In Stores

The Oyster Bay Town Board adopted an ordinance April 16 which will require retail establishments within the Town which sell food and drugs, to conspicuously post a listing of items that are taxable or tax exempt for us by consumers, according to Town Supervisor Joseph Colby.

Colby said that, "the ordinance will assist consumers and retailers alike, by requiring that the New York State Department of Taxation and Finance partial listings of items which are taxable or tax exempt be displayed at or nearby cash registers. In addition," Colby continued, "the taxpayers Assistance Bureau toll-free number (1-800-342-3536) will also be posted for consumer use, so that immediate clarification on any item's taxability can be obtained."

Colby noted that the ordinance had been adopted, after a public hearing held on April 16, in an effort to provide more accurate information for consumers, store owners and cashiers regarding the taxable status of food items, drugs and medicines.

"Very often," Colby said, "a store owner or cashier is not sure whether an item is taxable or not, and this confusion had led to consumers being charged tax on an item one day and not being charged tax on the very same item the next day."

County Executive Francis T. Purcell announced the appointment of Kevin E. Galloway of Bethpage as a member of the Nassau County Traffic Safety Board.

A graduate of the State University, Oneonta, New York, Galloway has served as a Research Assistant to the Oyster Bay Town Board since 1981 and has assisted the Town Director of Safety in developing and completing traffic surveys, recommending safety improvements on town roadways, and maintaining records on employee injuries and town-owned vehicle accidents. He has served as the town's liaison to the Governor's Traffic Safety Committee, the New York State Association of Traffic Safety Boards, the Joint Council of Long Island Traffic Safety Boards, the Nassau County Traffic Safety Board, and the New York State Public Employee Safety and Health Bureau. Active in community and civic affairs, Galloway has served as an officer and member of the Civic Association of Bethpage. He was Recording Secretary from 1976 to 1977, and was Chairman of the Association's Civic Improvement and Zoning Committees. Created in 1967, the Nassau County Traffic Safety Board is responsible for developing new concepts and programs, including the STOP-DWI program, to reduce deaths and injuries from traffic accidents.

East Street Students Entertain

The children of Miss Collins' fourth grade class entertained the children of the first, second and third grade at East St. School with three one act plays which the children had written themselves.

The children not only wrote the plays, they also wrote new casts and commercials which were used in between the plays to allow for scenery changes. "The Dream", written by Donald Endonino, "The Kidnapping", written by Jonathan Blaser and "The Day the Cabbage Patch Kids Were Eaten By the Blob", written by Stephen Mott were all well written and well acted. One commercial in particular entitled "The Dancing Pills" was very effective since it dealt with the danger of mistaking medicine for candy.

All the children took part in the plays and commercials. They made their own costumes and constructed their own scenery. The children of Miss Collins' class have studied many plays during the year and this performance was the culmination of all the things they learned about drama.

Future Goals Set By Civics

By Gert Paul

The Midland Civic Association held its second monthly meeting at the Willet Avenue School on Tuesday, April 16 at 8 p.m. Continued interest in Civic affairs and the welfare of the community was evident as a sizable group gathered to hear progress reports and participate in a question and answer program on what are the goals for the Civic Association? Ellie Draycott presented the problems we face. Foremost of the new issues was the discussion concerning Nevada Street. Petitions have been distributed, signed and collected asking that both streets on Nevada near Mid Island Plaza should be ingress only. Hopefully that would eliminate a lot of the congestion and thus negate the need to widen Nevada Street with the consequences of severely damaging the livability of the homes on that street! A resolution was made and unanimously passed that we support the people of Nevada Street in their efforts to save their property. It is hoped that Bennigan's, a restaurant proposed for construction on Broadway, and Mid-Island Plaza, will work out traffic problems to the satisfaction of the Nevada Street community. The problem of the Remington trucks which are still parked on Andrews Road will also receive support and action by the Midland Civic Association.

Jean Flood, President of the West Green Civic Association, presented a fascinating "wish" list of what we need to make Hicksville a charming place to live in. It was pointed out that money for beautification is being spent from a grant in other parts of the county but that Hicksville did not get a penny. With 404 members, still growing, and with people outside our area trying to join our group, we intend to remain a "force" in Hicksville for its improvement. We cannot accept members outside our boundaries despite many requests but we'll help them to start their own groups.

Gertrude Paul pointed out that each area can overcome apathy if only a few people work diligently to inspire and motivate their community. We proved it can be done and they can too.

Local area problems were discussed and Gert Paul suggested that we start a "neighborhood watch" and invite a police officer to instruct us. She also suggested that we work diligently towards seeing that trash cans be constructed so that the litter problem is alleviated.

A slate of officers for the 1985-86 year was presented by the Nominating Committee and will be voted on at the May meeting. Acting President Lee Margaris and all the interim officers and board members were congratulated for their valiant efforts to fight White Castle. Everyone is eagerly awaiting the verdict in our cause.

Sixth Graders Learn About Greece

The focus of the sixth grade unit on Greece was democracy and culture. Mrs. Starne's class at Woodland Avenue dramatized the birth of democracy in Greece by performing a trial by jury, the trial of Socrates. Brian Whitman played the part of Socrates.

To emphasize the beauty of the treasures that ancient Greece has left us, the students painted vases depicting scenes from "The Iliad and Odyssey". Models of Greek temples and coins were also made.

Mrs. Schneider's collection of Grecian artifacts and sculpture was enjoyed by the class.

Monthly Workshops At Gregory Museum

New! Monthly Children's Workshops at Gregory Museum

Have you visited the Hicksville Gregory Museum lately? New and exciting children's programs have been taking place, and more are planned for spring and summer, for children ages 9-12.

One recent Saturday afternoon, twenty youngsters learned the ancient art of Japanese paper folding. Origami, making butterflies and other creatures of nature. The latest workshop was "Insect Survival", which gave the children the opportunity to meet "eye to eye" with live pond insects. They studied the details of insect anatomy under microscopes, and learned that insects have relatives too.

The next workshop, this Saturday, April 20 from 2:30 to 4:30, is called "Fossils of the Past and Present". Students will go on a "Fossil Hunt", will make cast molds of authentic fossils from the Museum collection, and will meet some "Living Fossils".

In May students will be introduced to "The Ways of Water", and learn what Bubbleology is.

During July and August the Hicksville Gregory Museum will offer a four day summer workshop each month: "From Jaws to Straws", in July, and "Reptiles of the Past" in August.

Registration forms are available at the Museum. Students may sign for one workshop or all. There is a small fee to cover costs. Class size is limited, so early registration is suggested.

The Children's Workshops are planned and conducted by the Museum's Program Coordinator, Joan Scancarelli.

Susan Flippinger and Kerri Reinhardt consider themselves fortunate to live very near the Gregory Museum. This picture was taken at the Origami Workshop.

Under the supervision of entomologist Joan Scancarelli, students Edward Komperda, Kyle Northom and Stephen Maasa are investigating insect development.

Becky Geannikis, Maddy Fields, and Susan Rendline are absorbed in studying live specimens of pond life.

Unemployment Rate Below 4%

Oyster Bay Town Supervisor Joseph Colby announced that recent figures released by the Nassau County Department of Labor show that unemployment in the Town of Oyster Bay for the month of February dropped to 3.8%.

"An unemployment rate of 4% is considered 'full employment plus,'" said Colby. "It is particularly noteworthy that the Town, and all of Nassau County, are well below the overall rate of 7.1% for the State of New York. In fact, the County of Nassau, with an unemployment rate of 3.9% has the lowest rate for all areas in the state with a work force exceeding 200,000."

The low unemployment rate in Oyster Bay, coupled with an increase in the number of building permits requested, are strong indicators that existing industries and businesses in the Town are not only remaining but expanding their facilities. New businesses are continually moving into the Town because they find a readily available work force.

"The measures taken by the Town Board to encourage business and economic growth by making this a desirable place to work and to live are evident since this latest unemployment figure shows a decrease from last summer's figure of 3.9%," Colby concluded.

Low-protein diet

By Shirley Bright Boody
Registered Dietitian

Dear Shirley: My father is 78 and has severe kidney disease. He was in the hospital for a while, but is now home with us and I am taking care of him.

He is on a very low-protein diet, and I wonder if you can tell me where I can get some low-protein foods? It is a real problem for me to get things he will eat. Do regular supermarkets have any products that I could buy for him? — Mrs. H.S.

Dear Mrs. H.S.: Yes, many supermarkets have low-protein food products such as non-protein milk substitutes and low-protein cooking ingredients including rice flour. Mocha Mix frozen desserts and Danish Dessert are two products that are widely available.

Ask the manager of your local market if he could order some low-protein product for you. Here is a partial list of some companies that specialize in them: Dietary Specialties, P.O. Box 227, Rochester, NY 14601; Henkel Corp., 4620 W. 77th St., Minneapolis, MN 55435; Angelo-Dietetics Ltd., P.O. Box 333, Wilton, CT 06897; Ener-G Foods Inc., P.O. Box 24723, Seattle, WA 98124.

Call the dietary department of your local hospital and ask the dietitian what is available in your area.

Dear Shirley: Do you know of any surefire way I can tell if I start to regain the weight I have lost? I have gained and lost so many times, I have probably lost the weight of a whole person, and I don't want to go through it again.

I am now down to my normal weight of 130 pounds from a high of 185 pounds last winter. I am 5 feet 7 inches tall, and at this moment I feel wonderful, but I am so afraid that all that horrible fat will come back.

I weigh myself every day, but I don't know if that's enough to keep me in line. I have nightmares about getting fat again. What can I do? — Ellie

Dear Ellie: Your problem is shared by millions of others, if that is any consolation to you. There are many reasons why people regain weight. One of the most common is that they return to the same old eating habits that made them fat. Another is that people need less food after weight loss to maintain the weight loss, so you must still keep the calories down, even if you are at a normal weight, to stay there.

One British doctor helps his patients maintain their weight loss by having them wear a snug nylon cord permanently around their waist. It becomes uncomfortable only when the patient begins to regain the weight. You might try it and see if it will help you stay more aware of any sudden gain.

If you do start to go up again, get rid of the weight immediately before it gets out of hand.

Dear Shirley: Do you have any trick trade-offs that I can use in preparing our meals so they will be lower in calories, but will still be tasty and appealing? My husband is quite overweight, but he refuses to give up a lot of his favorite foods, and he gets mad if I try to put him on a diet.

Is there any way that I can cut down on calories without him knowing it? I sure would appreci-

Seldin, Diamond Visit Beth. GOP

Club President Kevin Galloway welcomed Town of Oyster Bay Councilman Kenneth S. Diamond and the Honorable Abe Seldin, Chairman of the Nassau County Board of Assessors, as honored guests, at the most recent meeting of the Theodore Roosevelt Republican Club of Bethpage, on April 8.

Mr. Seldin exhorted his audience to be vigilant in regards to the assessment of their property, and welcomed everyone to visit the Assessment Office at 240 Old Country Road, Mineola, so that they could check to see that they have been assessed properly. He went on to say that all such records are open to the public, and that he took great pride in his staff, which is always eager to serve the residents of Nassu County.

Councilman Diamond also addressed the membership, telling them that he is always available to assist residents of the Town. He continued that the hard work of governing a Town of more than 360,000 residents is a challenge being met under the leadership of Supervisor Joseph Colby, whereby he and his colleagues on the Town Board are working together to maintain the high quality of life in the Town of Oyster Bay.

George F. Youhmann, Executive Leader of the Bethpage GOP Organization, concluded that "Anytime that Abe Seldin and Ken Diamond are here makes for a good meeting. The more than 23 years of governmental experience between them speaks well for itself."

The Club's next meeting will take place on May 13, with Town of Oyster Bay Councilman Howard T. Hogan, Jr., and Town Clerk Ann R. Ocker tentatively scheduled as the guest speakers.

Settee less than 100

By James G. McCollam
Member, Antique Appraisers Association of America

Q. According to my family, this settee is very old and quite valuable. Can you supply the information we need as to origin, age and value?

A. This settee was factory-made in America around the turn of the century. Since it is less than 100 years old, it would be considered a collectible, not an antique. The value would be in the $275 to $325 range.

Q. The enclosed mark is on the bottom of a ceramic figurine of an Arab leading a camel. It is 18 inches tall and 18 inches long. What can you tell me about its maker, vintage and value?

A. The generic name for this type of ceramics is "Amphora." It was made around the turn of the century by Reissner, Stellmacher and Kessel in Teplitz, Austria. A figurine such as yours probably would sell for at least $1,000.

Q. You recently commented in your column about Elvis Presley collectibles. You suggested that the interest in these items would survive for a long time. Could you list some of the things that are considered collectible and their current prices?

A. The only reservation on Elvis Presley collectibles is that those made while he still was alive are and will be more valuable than more recent souvenirs like those sold at Graceland.

Antiques Collectibles

- Belt (1956) — $60
- Buttons (pin back) 1950s-1960s — $10 to $20
- Calendar (1963) — $20
- Bolo tie clip (1956) — $110
- Charm bracelet (1956) — $60
- Lobby cards (1950s-1960s) 11 inches by 14 inches — $15 to $25
- Record: "A Date with Elvis" 1959 — $40
- Record: "Any Way You Want Me" (1956) — $10
- Record: "Blue Suede Shoes" (1956) — $25
- Perfume (unopened in original box) 1957 — $90

Send your questions about antiques with picture(s), a detailed description, stamped, self-addressed envelope, and $1 per item to James G. McCollam

Q. I have been told that the Avon Co. originally did business under another name. Is that true and are the pre-Avon bottles also collectible?

A. The California Perfume Co. was founded in 1886 and the products were sold door-to-door. In 1929 the name became the Avon Co., bottles bearing the California Perfume labels are not only collectible, they are quite valuable. Here are some examples:

- American Ideal Toilet Soap (1911) — $85
  - Arlie Bath Salts (1903) — $60
  - Daphne Powder (1922) — $115
  - Extract Rose Geranium Perfume (1890) — $200
  - Natoma Rose Talcum (1914-1921) — $75
  - Trailing Arbutus Toilet Water (1933) — $60
  - Vernafleur Toilet Water — $100
  - Violet Almond Meal (1893) — $130
  - Violet Perfume (1915) — $175
- Above data from "Warman's Americana & Collectibles": Warman's Publishing Co., P.O. Box 26742, Elkins Park, PA 19117; $12.95, plus $1.50 postage.

LIONS JOURNEY FOR SIGHT HICKSVILLE 5 K RUN

The Hicksville Lions Club would like to welcome you back to the 1985 Running season with the Grand-daddy of Long Island prize races - The Third Annual Hicksville Lions Club Journey for Sight-5K Run! Never before has a race been able to offer prizes of such high quality, thanks to our sponsor Goldman Brothers of Hicksville, one of Mid-Islands leading specialists in Athletic Foot-wear.

Like most races, we offer quality merchandise prizes to the top three winners in 8 age-groups, both male and female. But unlike any other Long Island race, we can reward all first place finishers in these categories brand new, top quality running shoes from companies such as Etonic, New Balance, Puma, Converse, Saucony, Brooks and many more.

We are also able to provide the wealthiest raffle around! Hats, shirts, socks, bags and 20 more pairs of running shoes were raffled off to anyone with an entry blank!!!

The only reason we can achieve this feat is that our sponsors have generously been sympathetic to our cause: raising the sorely needed funds through Lions Clubs International to help alleviate the problems of the Blind and Sight-impaired. Last April, along with 33,000 other clubs in over 150 countries directed their Journeys to raise over $1.5 million. So come on out, have some fun and win some incredible prizes while you do your part in a truly international fundraising event!

Your entry fee (if it is received by the deadline) will guarantee you a beautiful T-shirt, a hot cup of soup from Iannone's restaurant and entrance in our after-the-race raffle! Most importantly, your participation in this event welcomes you to the world of Lionism, caring for the less fortunate members of our community.

News From Road Runners

Margaret Bertram

The year 1985 has been very successful so far in the running career of Margaret Bertram.

She started off the year as the second female finisher overall in the January 19 Snowflake 4 Mile Run on the Long Beach Boardwalk, and followed with another second place overall in the March 2 Oldfields to Little Cow Harbor 4 Miler, and third place overall in the St. Patrick's Day 5 Mile Run in Huntington.

Margaret continued her strong and steadily improving season by achieving a very important personal goal in the March 30 Plainview PBC 10 Kilometer Run. She broke the 10K/40 minute barrier for the first time, crossing the finish line in an excellent 39:55, good for 4th place overall against a very tough women's field, and 1st in the 20-24 age group.

An active member of the Plainview-Old Bethpage Road Runners Club and its "Fast Feet" Women's Racing Team, Margaret helped power her Fast Feet teammates to the first place trophy in the March 9 Long Island Interclub Relay competition in Sunken Meadow State Park. Margaret ran the next to last of the six legs for Fast Feet, covering her two mile stint in an impressive 12:22.

Margaret is a graduate of Syosset High School and is presently employed by the Long Island Savings Bank in its Syosset Branch. A July 1984 bride, she lives with her husband Lee on Weeks Avenue in Oyster Bay.

The owner of a cheerful disposition, modest about her considerable accomplishments, a valuable team member and a good friend--Margaret Bertram is a credit to her family, her community and to her sport.

Your Social Security

The lowdown on benefits

Q. When my youngest child turned 16 in August 1984, my benefits stopped but she still is receiving benefits. Can you explain why? — A.A.

A. Children's benefits are allowed to continue until the children reach age 18 or, if they are attending an accredited high school, benefits can be received up to age 19.

Benefits for a mother or father cease when the youngest child reaches age 16, since at that age children generally are becoming more independent and the mother or father is more able to seek work rather than stay home to care for the children.

Q. I receive Social Security retirement benefits. Last year I worked for a short while and earned just under $1,300. Is $1,300 enough to make a difference in my payments? If so, when do you review the accounts and make the adjustments? — M.B.

A. If you return to work after you start getting retirement checks, your added earnings may result in higher benefits. Social Security automatically will refigure your benefits after the additional earnings are credited to your record.

Q. I will be age 62 in March

1986. I would like to know how much my retirement benefits will be reduced if taken at 62 and how much I will receive. — J.S.

A. Benefits are reduced a full 20 percent if taken at age 62. The reduction actually is five-ninths of 1 percent for each month benefits are taken prior to age 65. If you are age 60 or above you can call your Social Security or Teleservice office and receive an estimate of what your benefits will be.

Q. My son, age 30, has muscular dystrophy, and receives Social Security benefits on my retired husband's account. I understand that my son's benefits will continue for as long as he's disabled, but how long will my benefits continue? — D.C.

A. Your benefits will continue as long as you have a "child in your care," which means you perform personal services for your child that he is unable to do for himself such as feeding or dressing. Because this is a very complex area of the Social Security Act, you should discuss your situation with your local Social Security office.

Cause of Crohn's disease a mystery

Q. I am a 26-year-old woman who has had Crohn's disease for the past three years. I currently take six azulfidine a day and avoid raw vegetables and some fruits.

Could you tell me what causes this disease and is there hope for a cure? — M.N., San Diego, Calif.

A. Crohn's disease, or regional enteritis, may cause a variety of symptoms, including diarrhea, abdominal pain, bloody stools, joint pains, liver disease, skin lesions and eye inflammation. The most prominent symptoms tend to be the diarrhea and abdominal pain.

The disease was initially described by Crohn, Ginzberg and Oppenheimer in 1932.

Despite intensive efforts to clarify the cause of this illness, it still remains unclear. Most efforts to establish the cause have centered on the concept of a bacterial or viral agent or foreign substance penetrating the lining of the intestine and causing an immune response that damages the intestine in susceptible individuals.

Early studies have attempted to isolate a bacteria similar to that causing tuberculosis since tissue sections sometimes demonstrate pathological change like those seen in tuberculosis. Such attempts, on the whole, have been unsuccessful. Further studies to identify other bacterial agents have met with controversial results. Recent studies that initially appeared to find a virus associated with this disease have not been substantiated on further examination.

Other investigators have attempted to demonstrate an impaired or altered immune response to an infectious agent. Studies have shown an impairment of various aspects of the immune response in some patients with Crohn's disease. However, examination of specific functions of various cells involved in the immune system has offered no strong evidence for a consistent defect in the immune function of these patients.

Further studies have looked for possible injury caused by immune mechanisms. Recent investigations have been concerned with the possibility that particular cells of the immune system called lymphocytes may bring about the damage inflicted on the intestine. The theory would be that a substance would permeate the intestinal wall from the lumen (space within the bowel cavity) of the other bowel and program these lymphocytes to attack the surrounding tissue. There is some data to support this theory, yet there are still major questions to answer before accepting this concept.

Some physicians and patients have questioned the role of psychological factors in causing this disease. There is some anecdotal and retrospective data to suggest that psychological factors may play a role in aggravating this disease. Careful controlled studies have failed to document a real association between psychological factors, emotions or physical stress and Crohn's disease.

The role of diet in Crohn's disease has been questioned. Most physicians suggest avoidance of raw vegetables because of residual undigested fibers that could contribute to blocking the intestine. There is no strong epidemiological or experimental data that directly links dietary or environmental factors to intestinal damage.

As you can see, an understanding of the fundamental nature of Crohn's disease remains elusive. Most of the observations described to this point seem to be results of the disease process. Research into the cause of this disease continues, yet we are just beginning to understand this disease process.

Treatment of patients with Crohn's disease is centered around several different approaches: general supportive therapy; treatment with drugs designed to have anti-inflammatory or immunosuppressive action; maintenance of patient's nutritional status; and as a last resort, surgical intervention.

Research continues into ways for improvement of this disease. Continued research should provide advances in the understanding of this disease in patients. — Dr. Vance Rodgers, post doctoral fellow in gastroenterology, University of California, San Diego School of Medicine.

Most Input Callers Doubt Benefit Of Summit Talks

Most callers to Input are skeptical that anything important will be accomplished by the Gorbachev-Reagan meeting if it occurs in answer to this question: "Do you think the Gorbachev-Reagan meeting will accomplish anything worthwhile?"

MORE PUBLICITY

No. It will just be one more publicity packed meeting that will end up in no real results. The fact is that neither power immediately wants to end the power struggle because there have been too much money and time already put into it and to just drop it at this time would result in many questions which neither one of them wants to answer. J.R. NO END

The fact that a meeting takes place at all is an accomplishment. But if anyone thinks that this will end the world power struggle then they will be very badly disappointed. The Russians probably want to end the arms race more than we do because they are taking money away from vital necessities to continue but they still believe they will go backward if they do not show up as a power in the world and their hope has always been to convert enough people of their method of government so that they will be able to have a strong defense system without it taking so much of the everyday necessities. F.W. TOO NEW

No. Gorbachev is too new in the job to do or say anything without consulting the rest of the Kremlin leaders so he will not really be able to make any changes or concessions. Reagan is not that free either to make any big treaty that Congress would approve of, so the two will be in a symbolic meeting even though they are the heads of state. D.R. LONG RANGE

I don't think that a great deal will come of the meeting but I think it should go on and it could over a long time pave the way for better understanding between the Russians and the Americans. Anyone who thinks that the two will decide on a disarmament or a long nuclear freeze is not going to see it from this meeting. J.W. NEW LEADER

Although everyone seems pessimistic about the Reagan-Gorbachev meeting, it is possible that the new leader may bring in some big changes in the Kremlin. Perhaps the new people have seen that the old system is not working as well as they thought it would and might consider some changes. Surely anyone can see that continuing to build nuclear weapons that will only wipe out both worlds is not a great way to go on. W.E. BIG SURPRISE

I view it as a big surprise that Reagan is able to meet at all with the Russians. After all they were at odds before the election. Now Gorbachev coming into power may be the lever needed to sit down and have both sides talk some sense. I'm optimistic. D.A. NO EASY SOLUTION

Let's use some reverse English on this one. Would the world be better off if they didn't meet? The answer has got to be "No!" But, getting back to the original question, we would have to look into the inner recesses of the minds of Gorbachev and Reagan to determine if either one planned to "lay it on the table" or just play it by ear. I'm inclined to go along with the latter. I think it is clear that the nuclear imbalance will be a prime topic on the agenda but I see no solution to that problem at this meeting. With his newly acquired power, Gorbachev has no alternative but to feel his way and I think that President Reagan will be content to follow that script with both of them in tacit agreement to use this meeting to establish the framework for a later and more definite agenda. There is no reason at this time for either to trust the other but with two such extroverts I believe that the mere opportunity of sizing up each other without capitulation on any key issue will be a big plus. With the whole world a stage, I would be greatly surprised if the two leaders would lay down inflexible demands - there would just be no percentage in that. The word "accomplishment" has to be looked at from two points of view and under the circumstances, I would consider it an accomplishment for both sides if Gorbachev and Reagan simply took the measurement of each other, agreed on a few non-controversial matters, made a definite date for the next meeting, shook hands and went home. Who knows, they might even get to like each other! P.G.S.

PAST ISSUES

DEATH PENALTY

I wonder if so many of the people who favor the death penalty have read anything about it. It seems everywhere there is a death penalty whether it be Florida or Illinois the murder rate has dropped. But so has it dropped in other states. Percentage wise it has dropped everywhere even without the death penalty. The death penalty we know is kind of a revenge to the person who commits a serious crime. But the person who commits these offenses is usually not concerned with the penalty. As to the reference to Genesis 12 in the Bible, that has to do with the birth of Isiah. If we're talking about death penalties, what about doctors who perform abortions that kill human beings. F.D.

SHOREHAM OPENING

Recently there is an added move to open the Shoreham facility, even after news of the serious bungling which allegedly goes on there. We the people must concern ourselves with its safety. There is no guarantee a tragedy may not be installed if we foolishly allow this dangerous monster to threaten our lives and property. Ask anyone who has been unfortunate enough to live in the vicinity of 3-Mile Island. Think about it. Don't be stampeded by LILCO fans! T.B.B.

Paul Revere's Ride

By Leslie Barnum Dimmling

"Listen, my children, and you shall hear
Of the midnight ride of Paul Revere,
On the Eighteenth of April, in seventy-five;
Hardly a man is now alive
Who remembers that famous day and year."

Rare is the American who cannot quote by heart this famous stanza of Longfellow's poem "Paul Revere's Ride". For generations this dramatic interpretation of one of the pivotal events in our nation's history has captured the imagination. In a few short lines it embodies the struggle of a people to achieve freedom and liberty against the odds.

But Henry Wadsworth Longfellow was a poet, not an historian. And this most famous of American poems has contributed mightily to a general public perception of the event which is less than historically accurate. While Paul Revere's role is without question, the poem completely ignores the vital contribution of several other Americans to the success of that night. Without their efforts, often undertaken at great personal risk, history might well have taken a very different turn. These people are the unsung heroes of Paul Revere's midnight ride.

How or why Paul Revere developed his Revolutionary sentiments is not known. Yet, more than a decade before the war he was making his political feelings known in no uncertain terms.

The Stamp Act of 1765 was, Revere wrote, "odious". Intended to raise funds for a financially pressed England, it mandated that every legal document and newspaper would need a stamp costing a half-penny to 20 shillings. Rioting ensued. When the Stamp Act was repealed in 1766, Revere fashioned a commemorative cooper-plate engraving. Part of the verse reads: "Be slaves? We dare to scorn it - dare to die."

When in 1767 Parliament passed the Townshend Acts, taxing articles imported into the colonies (including tea), Colonial resentment rose to fever pitch. "Taxation without representation" was the cry.

On March 5, 1770, an angry mob in Boston baited British Troops, who fired their muskets into the crowd, killing several Americans. It was Revere who produced a pen and ink drawing and then an engraving of the infamous Boston Massacre, as the incident came to be known.

It is not surprising then that we find that Revere is a member of the secret society "Sons of Liberty", whose members include Samuel Adams and John Hancock. Revere's hometown of Boston is a hotbed of colonial agitation.

By 1773, Revere began acting as a trusted courier, carrying messages between provincial and continental congresses, and from one state to another. His famous midnight ride would not be the first time he would carry information vital to the colonies.

The year 1773 also saw the passage of the British Tea Act, requiring colonists to buy through British agents. Americans were incensed. Though the taxed tea would be cheaper than that from the local smugglers, it was the principle that mattered. Action was not long in coming. On December 16, 1773, Revere and the other Sons of Liberty were among the estimated 100 to 150 colonists who dressed as Indians and dumped the tea into Boston Harbor.

Britain's answer to the Boston Tea Party was passage of the punitive "Intolerable Acts" in 1774. They included closing Boston Harbor, transporting trial cases to England, and the quartering act permitting British soldiers to take over inns and homes.

The die was cast, and both sides began to prepare for war. An appeal for arms began in New England.

As April of 1775 arrived, the British, alarmed by the continued unrest of the people, anticipated an attack from the colonists and braced for action. General Thomas Gage, the British Military Governor of Massachusetts, decided it was time to act. He issued orders to arrest the rebel ringleaders John Hancock and Sam Adams in Lexington and to confiscate rebel military stores in Concord. Picked officers were sent out to block the roads and waylay any rider heading to Concord and attempting to warn the rebels there.

The General's plans were secret, and yet somehow the information was leaked to the Americans. It was later said that Gage suspected it was his American wife who betrayed him.

On April 16, days before the anticipated British move on Concord, Revere rode to Lexington to warn Adams and Hancock. At this meeting plans were made to signal the patriots about the British Troop movements by showing one or two lanterns in the steeple of the North Church.

At 3 o'clock on April 18, patriotic members of the North Church met as a body and discharged the Loyalist Director. Reportedly he agreed to "give up the keys and quit the church", obviously judging discretion the better part of valor.

Twenty-three year old Robert Newman was the sexton at North Church, having taken a job he didn't especially like because "times are so hard." It was he who would climb the tower with the lanterns. British soldiers had been forcefully quartered in his home, and Newman needed to appear cool to avoid attracting their suspicion.

"If Robert Newman's courage or patience, firmness or self-control had failed him for an instant," said the Reverend Henry Burroughs 100 years later, "Paul Revere would have looked in vain across the dark waters at the tall steeple... When his task was done, Mr. Newman came down, passed through the church, jumped out of the back window and went round through Unity and Bennett Streets to his home, and succeeded in entering it without being observed. The British found him in bed. They arrested him, and threw him into jail. But he had taken such wise precautions that nothing could be proved, and he was set at liberty."

But in fact, it was not Revere who saw the signal given by Newman that April 18th night. A Son of Liberty, Colonel Conant watched for the

PAGE 2A Friday, April 19, 1968

Two men, Joshua Bently and Thomas Richardson, were to row Revere across the Charles River where he would begin the ride. Suddenly it was realized that all three had forgotten the cloth needed to muffle the oars, important if they were to avoid detection by the British frigate Somerset, moored menacingly near. Fortunately one of the men had a girlfriend who lived close by. He whistled a signal outside her window, and a flannel petticoat was tossed down. Revere later remarked that the cloth was still warm from its owner. The trio rowed safely past the frigate to Charlestown.

Paul Revere would not ride out alone that moonlit April 18th night. William Dawes, a young cordwainer, would try to ride by way of Boston Neck while Revere rode by way of Charlestown. Hopefully at least one of them would be able to break through British lines and succeed in warning the Americans.

Now came the signal - two lanterns. The British would move by sea. It was time. Deacon John Larkin, a wealthy citizen, turned his best horse over to Revere. At 11 p.m., forty year old Paul Revere swung into the saddle for a hard 12 mile ride into Lexington and History.

It was close to midnight when he arrived at Lexington. Dawes followed a half hour later. Despite the risk of capture they decided to continue on to Concord, sounding the alarm to the minutemen as they went. As they rode out of Lexington they were joined by Samuel Prescott, also a Son of Liberty. He was a young doctor from Concord who had been to Lexington to court a young lady. Prescott offered to ride with them, pointing out that local people would believe him more readily than strangers.

About six miles outside of Concord, the three were stopped by a British patrol. "We tried to get past them, but they being armed with pistols and swords, they forced us into the pasture", Revere later wrote. Dr. Prescott, who knew the countryside well even in the pitch dark, jumped his horse over a low stone wall and rode on. Dawes made his escape as well, but fell off his horse and was forced to flee on foot. With Revere in custody, the British headed back to Lexington.

Presently, the sound of church bells and gun shots began to pierce the air, signals that the countryside had been successfully alarmed. The colonists were arming. There was no point in holding Revere prisoner now. The British Patrol, anxious to rejoin their unit for the impending military confrontation, relieved Revere of his horse and released him about a mile from Lexington. Wary of recapture, Revere abandoned the road, walking cross country in his heavy leather riding boots, passing over rocky fields and scaling stone walls.

In Lexington, he located John Hancock, cleaning his gun, intending to make a stand with the farmers who were going to challenge the British. Long argument was needed to convince him that his value as a leader outweighed his value as a soldier. Hancock then asked Revere's help to carry away a trunk of valuable personal papers he did not wish to fall into British hands. Revere agreed to help.

Meanwhile, Lexington militiamen assembled on the green, prepared to meet a numerically superior force of British regulars. Trunk in arms, Revere hurried past Captain Parker, the rebel leader. A moment later, a shot was fired - by whom, it has never been made clear. When the smoke cleared, eight colonists lay dead and ten were wounded. The shot heard round the world had been fired.

The British now marched on Concord, but Dr. Prescott's warning had been heeded. Most of the rebel arsenal had been hidden and the minutemen from Concord and the neighboring area had gathered. A detachment of British soldiers sent to destroy the Concord Bridge engaged the colonists - a skirmish the colonists won. The British beat a hasty retreat, so hasty that they abandoned the bodies of several fallen comrades who to this day lie buried at the foot of the bridge.

The forced retreat was 16 miles long. As they fled, the minutemen picked them off using unfamiliar guerrilla tactics, firing from behind trees, rocks and stone walls. The battles at Lexington and Concord sealed the rebel resolve to fight.

The rest is history. Who can say what might have happened if these brave individuals had chosen personal safety instead of risking their lives for freedom?

Paul Revere continued to serve the colonial cause as both a soldier and a tradesman, even casting cannon for the army. Already the father of eight children when he made his famous ride, he lived a long life and fathered eight more.

Samuel Prescott, twenty-three years old when he made the ride with Revere, was captured by the British two years later and died in a British prison in Nova Scotia in 1777.

A biographer of Paul Revere has written, "most American heroes of the Revolutionary period are by now two men: the actual man, and the romantic image." Yet however we view them, these patriots have for generations provided Americans with an inspiring example to emulate.

"For, borne on the night-wind of the Past,
Through all our history, to the last,
In the hour of darkness and peril and need,
The people will waken and listen to hear
The hurrying hoof-beats of that steed,
And the midnight message of Paul Revere."
(Henry Wadsworth Longfellow)

Let us hope that the ride for freedom and liberty will never end.

FIRST CLASS
 The San Remo is a first class restaurant. We went there last Friday and found that it was a delight. They cater to your every need from valet parking that picks up your car out front to the selection of wines.
 San Remo has great Italian cuisine. Its pasta is freshly made and its veal is of the tenderest quality. These are taken from the comments of our guests who were with us for dinner. It is some place special to go to entertain because you know the food will be good. It is a small intimate restaurant that helps in making a dining event a cozy success. J.E.

TRIP INTO PAST

We always feel that we have a fine time and wonderful food when we visit George Washington Manor in Roslyn. It is like a trip into the past with modern food and service to visit the Manor.

They have a good menu of American food that is cooked just right. Last week we had a party of four people who visited the G.W. Manor and had entrees which included fish, beef, and veal. Every person in our group said that they thought this restaurant is one of the finest they had ever been to. We decided then that we should spread the word around and decided to make this call. J.H.

MEXICAN FOOD
We have not had much Mexican food since coming back after a vacation in California. For that reason we were attracted to the ad for the LaCorrida restaurant in Great Neck. We tried beef ranchero and found it to be a really great dish and shrimp a la corrida was the other selection. It was made from the tastiest full flavored shrimp we have ever eaten. A trip to the LaCorrida was like a quick trip South of the Border to Mexico or Southern California. The decor and the general feeling of the restaurant completes the trip. We recommend it to all of your readers. G.E.

WONDERFUL PLACE
Easter Sunday we had dinner at the George Washington Manor. It was absolutely terrific. They were so very professional. They honored our reservations promptly on an extremely busy day and the waitress was delightful. The food was delicious and I highly recommend it. Congratulations on a job well done. It was wonderful.
V.E.P.

GOOD RESTAURANT
A surprisingly good local restaurant is the Surfside on Hillside Ave. in New Hyde Park. This good sea food restaurant has been discovered by many other people who assemble there on almost any night of the week.

We were there on Thursday and found that their shrimp scampi and red snapper were wonderful. The preparation of the food and the entire look of the restaurant is appetizing. It is of new construction and everything looks spic and span. The food was deliciously cooked and the fish was as fresh as if it were caught a few hours before. This is a very good restaurant.

If you have questions about etiquette or dining out you may call them into WE 1-0027 and we will find the answer.
Fine Italian Cooking

Q. Why in some restaurants do I have to sit there so long before the waitress gives me the check?
A. Well the answer to your question is hard to define. It might be simply because the restaurant is so busy that the waitress hasn't time to add up the check. But at some of the better restaurants you will never get a check unless you ask for it. In these establishments they feel that the guests should decide how long they wish to talk or occupy the space after eating and only on rare occasions will they bring a check that has not been solicited and then with apologies.

Q. Some restaurants make a big thing over a lobster tank, but I think it is disgusting to have to kill these animals in order to get a meal. Why do they have these tanks?

A. The reason is simply that lobster has to be freshly killed to be eaten. The lobster tank lets the diner see that what he is getting is really fresh lobster. Possibly some squeamish people believe that the lobster tank should be somewhere else but most diners want to see the live ones and if you do not, you should be suspicious. They are killed instantly in boiling water.

THE BEST
 La Coquille Restaurant in Manhasset is a place that is unequalled by any other restaurant. It is a small restaurant that is run in a very efficient way so far as service goes. It is in a well appointed setting for dining.
 But the most important part about any restaurant is the food. We have been there three times and have had such varied dishes as beef, veal, scallops and lobster and each a treat in itself. The food is also attractively served with vegetables cooked to a crisp tenderness.
 For such great cooking and service in a French restaurant it is well to note that the prices are within an average range for a fine evening out. We recommend it.

POTATOES GRATIN

6 large baking potatoes
3 small onions, chopped
8 tbsps. (one stick) butter
2 tbsps. flour
1 cup milk

½ cup white wine
About 1 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 cup whipping cream
Peel potatoes, cut in thin slices.

Saute onion in 4 tablespoons butter for about 10 minutes, then sprinkle with flour. Mix well and cook for several minutes more. Add milk and white wine. Cook until liquid is reduced to creamy, semi-thick sauce.

Butter heavy gratin dish. Layer sauce and potatoes in it. Sprinkle with half of grated Parmesan cheese. (Fried bacon bits may also be added at this point.) Pour whipping cream on top of potatoes and sprinkle again with Parmesan cheese. Dot with remaining butter.

Bake in 450 F oven for about 45 minutes, or until brown and bubbly.

Serves 4

MARINATED LAMB HUNAN STYLE

3 cups chicken broth or stock
3 cups water
¼ cup light soy sauce
¼ cup dry or medium-dry sherry
2 cloves star anise
1 cinnamon stick
1 piece dried orange peel,
2½ by ¼ inches
1-inch piece fresh ginger
2 large cloves garlic, halved
2 tbsps. vegetable oil
6 lbs. boned leg of lamb, rolled and tied
1 medium turnip, quartered
2 tbsps. sugar
Fresh parsley for garnish

In large pot combine broth, water, soy sauce, sherry, star anise, cinnamon stick, orange peel, ginger and garlic and bring to boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer for 15 minutes.

In large skillet heat oil. Brown lamb on all sides. Return sauce to boil and add meat. If necessary add boiling water so that sauce comes almost three-fourths of way up sides of meat. Return to boil, reduce heat to medium, cover pot and simmer for about 1 hour. From time to time, skim off froth and fat. Add turnip and sugar and simmer until lamb is tender, about another 1½ hours or until meat is easily pierced with fork.

Allow meat to cool in sauce. Refrigerate or freeze. To serve, defrost if frozen and remove layer of fat from top. If refrigerated, remove layer of fat from top. Slice meat thinly and reheat in sauce. Garnish with parsley.

RICE WITH DRIED FRUITS AND NUTS

9 cups chicken or beef broth of stock
4½ cups long-grain rice
9 tbsps. unsalted butter (1 stick plus 1 tbsp.)
1½ cups whole blanched almonds
2¼ cups dried apricots
2¼ cups pitted dried prunes
2¼ cups raisins or currants
¼ tsp. cinnamon

In large pot, combine broth and rice and bring to boil over high heat. Stir, reduce heat to simmer and cover pot. Cook about 20 minutes, until rice is tender and liquid has been absorbed.

Melt 1½ tablespoons butter in large skillet over low heat. Add almonds and saute until golden, remove.

Add remaining butter and melt over medium heat. Stir in fruits and coat and cook until heated through. Mix in almonds and cinnamon and stir in rice.

Refrigerate or freeze, if desired. To reheat, bring to room temperature.

Microwave Magic

By Desiree Vivea

There are so many great things you can do with a microwave oven to make your life in the kitchen easier. But there are certain things you shouldn't do.

If you're new to microwave cooking, the following list of "Thou Shalt Not's" may save you from a minor culinary disaster. Here, then, are a few of the microwave's no-no's:

- Don't overseason foods. Microwave cooking intensifies the flavors of most foods, so less seasoning and salt are required when cooking.

- Don't microwave with dishes or containers that have any metallic parts - trims, handles, bands or screws.

- When using foil in your microwave, never let it touch the sides or top of the oven interior.

- Don't microwave in cups or mugs whose handles have been repaired with glue.

- Don't ever try to hard-cook eggs in the shell. Steam will build up inside, and the egg may explode - a real mess. Other foods that have membranes, such as liver, potatoes, acorn squash, hot dogs and egg yolks, should be pierced before microwaving to avoid minor explosions - and messy cleanup.

- Don't try to microwave frozen hashed-brown or french-fried potatoes. They'll stay pale, soggy and utterly unattractive, even when cooked in a browning skillet.

- Don't try to can fruits or vegetables in your microwave. Canning requires prolonged high temperatures.

- Don't try to deep-fry in your microwave, either. There's no way to control the temperature of the oil, and it could overheat, or even cause a fire.

- Try to avoid square or rectangular pans when microwaving. Round pans cook more evenly.

APPLE BROWN BETTY

- 4 large cooking apples
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/4 tsp. ground cinnamon
- 1/4 tsp. cloves
- Dash nutmeg
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 3 cups soft white or whole wheat bread crumbs
- 4 tbsps. butter or margarine, melted
- 2 tbsps. wheat germ (optional)

Wash and pare apples and slice thin.

In small bowl, combine sugar, cinnamon, cloves, nutmeg and salt; set aside.

In 2-quart glass baking dish spread layer of bread crumbs, then layer of apple slices, and sprinkling of sugar. Repeat until all ingredients are used.

Drizzle melted butter over top and sprinkle with wheat germ, if desired. Microwave, covered, 8 to 10 minutes. Let stand 5 to 10 minutes before serving. Serve with hard sauce, cream or ice cream, if desired.

Serves 4.

SUNSHINE FISH FILLETS

- 1 1/2 cups quick-cooking rice
- 1/4 cup minced onion
- 3 tbsps. fresh lemon juice
- 1 tsp. dried parsley flakes
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. ground thyme
- 1/4 tsp. garlic salt
- 1 1/4 cups water
- 1 lb. fish fillets
- 3 tbsps. butter or margarine
- Dash paprika

In 2-quart glass casserole stir together rice, onion, lemon juice, parsley flakes, salt, thyme, garlic salt and water.

Arrange fish fillets over top of rice mixture, with thicker parts of fish toward outside of dish. Dot with butter, and sprinkle lightly with paprika.

Cover dish with plastic wrap or glass lid, and microwave 10 to 12 minutes, or until fish flakes easily with fork. Let stand, covered, 5 minutes before serving.

Serves 4.

ORIENTAL BEEF AND NOODLES

- 1/2 lb. lean beef top round
- 2 tbsps. soy sauce
- 1 1/2 tps. cornstarch
- 2 tbsps. vegetable oil
- 1/2 tsp. sugar
- 2 tps. grated ginger root
- 2 cups hot water
- 1 (3 oz.) pkg. instant Oriental-style noodles, original flavor
- 1 cup shredded Chinese cabbage or chard
- 1/4 (10 oz.) pkg. frozen French-cut green beans, broken up
- 1/2 cup bean sprouts
- 2 tbsps. dry sherry

Slice beef in half lengthwise. Cut each piece crosswise to grain into 1/4-inch slices.

Combine beef, soy sauce, cornstarch, oil, sugar and ginger root in 11x7-inch ovenproof glass baking dish. Set aside.

Place water in 1-quart glass measuring cup. Microwave at full power until it comes to boil, about 5 minutes. Break up noodles and add along with seasoning packet, cabbage, green beans and bean sprouts. Mix to moisten, and cook 3 minutes.

Divide into two soup bowls. Place dish with beef mixture in oven. Cook, uncovered, 4 minutes, stirring once after 2 minutes.

Stir in sherry and spoon mixture over soup. Serve immediately.

Serves 2.

Recipes in this column are tested in 625- to 700-watt microwave ovens. Foods are cooked on HIGH (100 percent power) and uncovered unless otherwise specified.

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Sandblast those cedar shakes

Q. Is it possible to have 16-inch cedar shakes sandblasted? They have been on the house for 40 years and the paint is checking badly.

A. If we can't sandblast them, is it possible to recover with 8-inch aluminum siding? — V.R.S.

A. Cedar shakes can be sandblasted. Check the Yellow Pages for firms that do this type of work. After sandblasting, the shakes should be treated the same as new wood. First use a primer and then a good quality exterior paint.

You could cover the shakes with aluminum siding. This probably would be more expensive and certainly would change the appearance of your house.

Q. The furnace in our house is located in the attic, and works all right except that the air comes out lukewarm. I have noticed that the outlet ducts have fiberglass insulation around them, but the intake ducts have none. These ducts are right below the cold roof. Would we get better heat if those intake ducts were insulated? — E.V.

A. I doubt that insulating the cold ducts would improve the heat capacity of your furnace. The air coming in will be the temperature of the air outside.

I would advise that you consult the manufacturer of your furnace regarding its lack of performance.

Q. Do you know of any tips on getting Magic Marker out of clothing? I have tried hair spray, Spray & Wash and strong detergent. My son drew with a black Magic Marker on his beige corduroy pants. — D.G.

A. In some cases of staining, a cleaner such as 409 will do the job. Rub it into the stained area and let set awhile prior to washing.

If this doesn't work, try writing the manufacturers of Magic Marker for their recommendation on removal of the product from clothing.

Q. Have you ever come across an effective way to clean a badly oil-stained garage? We have tried detergents, a product made by Trojan Manufacturing Co. called Degreaseall, and others.

We rolled strips of tar paper down because the floor was so unsightly and now we can't get the tar paper up.

A. First you will need to remove the tar paper. Try renting a sander and sanding with a coarse sandpaper.

To remove the grease and oil stains on the concrete, first scrub stains with benzine or grease solvent. Then mix one part sodium citrate to six parts of water and six parts of commercial glycerine. Add sufficient whiting powder to form a thick paste. A coat of this paste should be kept on the stain for one week and new paste added when it dries out. Then flush dried-out second layer away with water. The stains should be gone.

For rust stains, use the same mixture as above, but if stain still remains make another paste of one part sodium citrate crystals to six parts of water and add sufficient powdered whiting. Heavy layers of this mixture spread on and allowed to dry should remove rust stains.

After cleaning, the area where stains have been removed may look lighter than the surrounding concrete.

To help prevent further staining, apply a concrete sealer after you have removed the stains and thoroughly cleaned the entire area. The garage floor also can be painted with a good masonry paint to further enhance its attractiveness.

with Weight Watchers.

Exercise every day — not too strenuous, blood pressure 140/70 — the best in 15 years. Only thing I can't do is take walks, but believe me as time goes on I intend to. — Anne T.

Dear Anne: Burning feet could be a sign of something more serious. It could be wiser and more economical to see a podiatrist as soon as possible.

We have had quite a few complaints about burning feet lately. Your ailment could be an indication of too much acid in your system or even of sugar diabetes.

WHY WE SAY UP TO THE MINUTE

TO RADIO: This expression goes back to radio when sponsors paid for news broadcasts and all programs were paid for in minutes. It now means up to date.

TWEEN 12 & 20

PAGE 13A Friday, April 19, 1985

By Robert Wallace, E.D.

Dr. Wallace: I am 14 and have two sisters. One is 17 and the other is 9.

My older sister can do anything she wants and my parents never say a word to her that is negative. My younger sister can get away with "murder" because she is the baby.

Guess who can't do anything fun and has the most chores? Me! It just isn't fair. — Becky

Becky: I'm sure most "middle kids" feel exactly like you do. But you will have the last laugh. The middle child is usually the best adjusted, while the older child is more aggressive and the youngest the most spoiled.

Dr. Wallace: I am 13 and I'm a rather big girl. I'm 5 feet 8 and I weigh 145 pounds. I'm not really fat but I just feel like I am.

A few days ago my best friend got me some diet pills. In the past two days I have taken five of them and they work because I haven't eaten very much. The only problem is that I now feel sort of weak.

I haven't told my mom about the pills and I'm a bit confused. Should I continue taking the pills or should I go back to feeling fat? — Barbara

Barbara: Stop taking the diet pills immediately. Most of them are habit-forming and should never be taken unless prescribed by a medical doctor.

To lose weight properly, if indeed you should, first have a physical examination by your family doctor. Then have a nutritionist tailor a diet specifically for you.

Naturally, a reasonable exercise program also should be a part of your daily program.

Dr. Wallace: I am 16 and recently started dating. My parents set the rule that I could have one date per month and I kind of agreed. Well, my first date was fun and I went out with Allen but since then I have met a super-guy named Ted and he asked me out. My parents won't let me go out because of the one date per month rule.

Now that I think about it, one date per month isn't very much. Please tell me how I can convince my parents of this. If I don't go out with Ted, he might never ask me out again. Help! — Tammy

Tammy: Ask Mom if you can have Ted visit you at your home. It's possible to see a guy and not date him. Be satisfied for the time being with the one date per month rule. It's 100 percent better than no dates per month.

After you have been dating for six months, ask your parents if your dating limit might be raised to two per month. At this time, Mom and Dad will have time to evaluate your maturity and trust. And since they will be of the highest standards possible (they will, won't they?), Mom and Dad will gladly raise the limit.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 16-year-old girl and my parents say they trust me and I'm sure they do.

For the past six months I have been seeing a really nice 17-year-old guy. My parents think that he is mature and they enjoy his company.

My problem is that my father will not allow me to go on a date with him. He says that dating is not a necessary part of a teen's life and I am not permitted to date until I'm in college.

I would like to go to a movie or out to dinner with Scott. What makes it worse is that Scott is true to me so he doesn't date at all. Actually, my dad is also punishing him. He understands my dad's rule but he keeps hinting that he would like to take me out.

Please let me know what you think about my situation — Allie.

Allie: I'm not trying to undermine your dad's dating rules because he knows you and I do not, but dating is an important social event in every teenager's life, what age to start is a parental decision.

The wise parent permits dating when the teen has gained that certain trust, maturity and honesty which are necessary ingredients for successful dating. Usually, this level is reached when the teen is 15 or 16.

Dr. Wallace: In one of your earlier columns you stated that red eyes, general apathy and lower school performances were some signs of marijuana use.

I think that you are confused. These signs are for illegal drug abuse not marijuana use. — Butch

Butch: Marijuana is an illegal drug.

Mainly For Seniors

By John T. Watts

Golf helps him keep active

Dear John: I enjoyed the letter on toxic wastes being suspect in disease.

I am a senior approaching 70 years. I have had emphysema for the past 16 years and the use of only one lung — the other was paralyzed from pneumonia 12 years ago.

I keep myself as active as possible by playing a lot of golf, using a rowing machine, lifting weights, etc. I have extensive arthritis throughout my body and I am always looking for more help to keep myself healthy.

Best regards and keep up your great letters in Mainly for Seniors — Harry R.

Dear Harry: Thanks a million for your more than generous donation.

You seem to have the secret: keep active. I have noticed that when I'm busy I don't have time to think about my aches and pains.

I feel sorry for the seniors who do nothing but sit around and complain about their health.

Dear John: I had been having burning feet now over a year. I love shopping and could only go to two stores when my feet acted up and it was sheer agony. I had to sit down and then could barely make it to my car.

My R.N. niece recommended zinc 20 milligrams to 25 milligrams, which I've only taken five days. What relief!

I thought I'd write. It may help others with burning feet. If five days can make you feel so good I know I will feel better.

I take Duriel 3,500 mg Inderal 6 10 potassium 20 percent.

I wash my feet every night and put on Noxema and white cotton stockings. Nylon stockings bother me, so I cut off cotton socks to use as pads and put nylons on afterward.

I expect to take zinc (25 mg) every other day as I get better. It is put out by Nutra Plus. I also take Nutra Plus oyster shell calcium — one a day and can't be without them.

I am 69 years old, lost 40 pounds

Children

By Willard Abraham Ph.D

The kids ask about romance

Romance seems to be in the air, and it is hitting some of "our children." Let's listen to them.

Q. I am 17 years old and my problem is that I like this guy down the street. But he is shy around me.

A. How can I get him to like me and not to be shy? I like him so much, and don't want to scare him off. I would just like him to know how I feel about him.

Q. He is a senior this year and I'm a junior. We go to the same high school, talk often, but sometimes I am afraid that he might think I am only after one thing. I am not after one thing.

A. So can you please tell me how to get the point across to him? I've known him for 2 1/2 years and I've always liked him.

A. You might consider becoming involved in a school activity in which he is interested or try through other friends to find out if you have similar interests. In this way you will be able to spend time with him in a group, have the opportunity to talk, and share common interests. This might develop into a friendship.

You also might try to find out if you have friends in common who can arrange an outing or an activity that you both could attend. Another idea may be to invite him to a special activity, such as a school dance, football game or skating party. This way he will know you're interested. Remember, it's just as hard for boys to ask girls out the first time as it is for girls to do this.

If he is unable to go with you try not to take this as a personal rejection. He might have another commitment, like work or an out-of-town guest. If he seems pleasant and responsive, wait a few weeks and ask him again. By this time perhaps he will indicate to you whether or not he's interested in developing the friendship.

If he does not respond to your invitations, you might consider developing a friendship with one who has the same interests and friends you currently have.

There are no easy answers to developing a new relationship. Even as adults we continue to have concerns similar to yours. With your personal qualities of honesty, sincerity and sensitivity you no doubt will have many people wanting to spend time with you.

Q. I'm 7 years old and in the second grade. There is that girl in my class. Her name is Alexis and I like her a lot. But she doesn't pay any attention to me. That makes me sad. What should I do?

(P.S.: My mother told me to write to you, and she corrected my spelling.)

A. You were so nice to write to me. Why not look around your classroom and see if there are other girls who act as though they like you. If you give them a chance, you might like them, too. It even could happen that if you pay less attention to the girl you like now and more to others, that girl may start to notice you more.

Good luck to you.

(P.S.: Your writing is very good, and tell your mother her spelling

Aunt Tilly's Corner

I have a cute little neighbor I'll call Billy. He is four years old and recently had to go to the hospital for a minor operation on his foot. Poor Mom was disturbed - but not young Billy. He looked upon his hospital trip as an adventure!

Your friend,

Points on Pets

Chocolate can be a killer

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q. My husband frequently shares chocolate with our 6-year-old mixed-breed dog.

Our neighbor says that she read somewhere that dogs can be poisoned by eating excessive amounts of chocolate. Is this true? If so, how much chocolate would it take to poison a 20-pound dog?

A Excessive amounts of chocolate can be lethal for dogs. The toxic component is a stimulant named "theobromine," a natural ingredient of the cacao beans from which chocolate is manufactured.

Theobromine stimulates the heart and apparently decreases blood flow to the brain. Therefore, dogs dying from eating excessive amounts of chocolate usually die of a heart attack or from oxygen deprivation of the brain.

While a small amount of chocolate is harmless for most pets, it has been estimated that a 4-ounce chocolate bar contains enough theobromine to kill a 5-pound dog; 16 ounces of chocolate could be lethal to a 20-pound dog.

Usually dogs that have devoured an excess of chocolate become hyperactive and if left untreated eventually start to convulse and die.

Any dog thought to have ingested an excessive amount of chocolate should be taken to a veterinarian. Treatment usually includes drugs to induce vomiting.

In addition to chocolate, there are many other common items within most households that are potentially poisonous to pets. Common cleaning products such as soaps, detergents, bleaches, waxes, polish, ammonia, disinfectants, gasoline and drain cleaners should be kept out of the reach of children and pets.

Many of the insect sprays and poisons used within homes are potentially dangerous for animals. Products found in the garage such as antifreeze and window washer fluids also are dangers.

Cosmetics, including hair sprays, and medications should be stored out of the reach of household pets.

Many plants are potentially lethal for animals, such as Christmas cherry, ivies, mistletoe, azaleas, amaryllis, mums, poinsettias, philodendrons, coladiums, cactuses, daffodils, iris and rhubarb. Many other examples could be listed. Dogs and cats should not be allowed to chew on any household plants.

Ingesting an ash tray full of cigarette butts may precipitate fatal nicotine poisoning. Food poisoning and garbage poisoning are fairly common in dogs that are allowed to run free.

Signs of poisoning in animals include vomiting, diarrhea, hyperactivity, lethargy, difficult breathing, convulsions and eventually death. Any pet thought to be poisoned should be taken to the nearest veterinarian as soon as possible.

Information regarding treatment of animal poisoning can be obtained from the University of Illinois Animal Poison Control Hotline, 1-217-333-3611. The best treatment for pet poisoning is prevention. All potential poisons should be safely stored in cabinets, out of reach of children and pets.
