Residents of the Hicksville School District will vote on their school budget and two members of the Board of Education on Wednesday, May 22. The polls will be open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. at seven local school buildings: Burns Avenue, East Street, Woodland Avenue, Lee Avenue, Fork Lane, Dutch Lane and Old Country Road.

The proposed 1985-86 school budget amounts to $39,748,830. This is an increase of $2,956,540 over the 1984-85 budget of $36,792,290.

The budget, if approved by the voters, will mean an estimated tax rate of $24.00 per $100 assessed valuation. This is a $1.68 increase over the current $22.32.

Seeking three year seats on the Board of Education are William P. Bennett and Thomas F. Nagle. Both candidates are incumbents and are running unopposed.

Student Wins $18,000 Scholarship

Karen Minasian, a senior at John F. Kennedy High School in Plainview, has won a Grumman Science and Engineering Scholarship. It is worth $18,000-$4,500 a year for four years toward tuition at any accredited engineering college she chooses to attend.

Grumman has awarded 12 such scholarships this year to outstanding Long Island high school seniors and seniors who are dependents of Grumman employees, regardless of where they live.

"We're flying high right now. It's almost like winning the lottery," says Irene Minasian, mother of Karen and a programmer/analyst in Grumman's Data Systems Division.

Adds Karen's father, Edward, a senior engineer in Grumman Aircraft System's Integrated Logistics Support Department: "We knew there was a lot of competition and were surprised. It's a great honor for Karen, one she has worked long and hard to get."

Karen will graduate as salutatorian of her class. She is a director of the school's Model UN Program and president of the Foreign Language Club. Karen is also a member of the Medical Explorer's Club and was named a Newsday Leading Scholastic Achiever. A member of the school orchestra, she plays the piano and violin.

Karen also finds time to tutor students in math, science, French and English--and is employed part-time as a food taster.

She hopes to study computer science at either Brown, Yale or Princeton.

Since Grumman began the scholarship program in 1944, over three million dollars has been awarded to 450-plus high school seniors.

Letters

To the Editor:

I wish to correct a misinterpretation contained in a letter from Mrs. Angelina Sinicropi that appeared in your April 26th Edition.

I personally read and answer each of the thousands of questionnaires to which my constituents and neighbors respond. Mrs. Sinicropi, who does not live in my Assembly District, shares my support for garbage separation to which 84% of my constituents responded affirmatively to the following questions:

To reduce the volume of solid waste (garbage) and to promote environmental conservation would you accept the inconvenience of separating certain refuse such as newspapers, metals or non-deposit containers?

Mrs. Sinicropi felt that this response would bring virtually automatic implementation of a mandatory source separation program in Oyster Bay Town. I indicated to her that this is not necessarily the case since responding to a poll is a different matter from actually complying with a program. Unfortunately, in areas where such source separations have been implemented, compliance falls below the levels we would wish to see.

To correct Mrs. Sinicropi, this reality in no way reduces my efforts to enact separation of garbage for conservation and for our environment.

More importantly, the input that I receive from my constituents is crucial in helping me to effectively reflect my neighbors' views and to vote to protect our area's interests to the best of my ability. There is no "wasted time" in such participation by caring and concerned constituents as she indicated in her letter.

In fact, non-participation would be a pitiful waste.

I applaud all of my neighbors for their input and concern and for continually keeping me informed of their feelings and views. It is you who make the system work.

Sincerely,
Frederick E. Parola
Member of Assembly

Dear Supervisor Colby,

This morning, again, our children were barely missed being hit by a car. The reason? The stop sign at the corner of Park Avenue and Heitz Place, Hicksville, was not lowered into the Stop position.

The officer responsible for this was called to an accident. Where was the back-up officer? Was there, in fact, another officer called at all? Numerous phone calls to the Second Precinct have failed to remedy this situation. Do we have to have another "Old Country Road Tragedy" before something is done?

This is a busy intersection. Railroad commuters and Lilco employees use this route on their way to and from their jobs. This should give an idea of how many cars pass here each morning.

When the stop sign is not in position, our children have to dodge the traffic. And what makes the situation worse, is that many drivers regard pedestrians as second class citizens, even when they are already in the boundaries of the cross walk.

Our children have been taught how to safely cross a street. But this gives me little comfort when a Dashing Dan is late and has to catch a train.

I propose that a permanent stop sign be installed at this intersection or a blinking red light, or a crossing guard, or all three.

Thank you for your time. Perhaps you can direct this letter to the proper department so that immediate action can be taken.

Sincerely,
Barbara Linnehan

To the Editor:

All you sports-minded people who park on Kuhl Avenue early Sunday morning and many other days or evenings for your children to play soccer or other games at Cantiague Park - why don't you become more health-minded and park in the parking lot off John Street and walk over to the different fields instead of parking all over Kuhl Avenue. You yell from one car to another stand in groups and talk loud, dropping candy and cigarette papers all over. Children yell and bounce their balls, in general a real pain for the people who live on Kuhl Avenue who try to have a little peace and quiet, especially on Sunday mornings after working hard all week.

And forget trying to park even near our own houses. If we have company they have to park way down on side streets.

Have a little consideration for other people.

Thanks,
A Kuhl Avenue

In the United States since 1980, Mr. Feldman is already fluent in English. He travels throughout the U.S. presenting lectures on the need for Jewish commitment to American Jews and to Soviet Jews who have emigrated here.

Wagners Host Open Hse. Sunday

The Vernon C. Wagner Funeral Home, Inc. on the corner of Old Country Road and Jerusalem Avenue in Hicksville, has just recently completed a large extension and complete remodeling. On this coming weekend the Wagner Funeral Home will be having an open house to allow the community to see the new facility and to get better acquainted with what is available to families in the Hicksville area. There will be tours of the building as well as audio-visual presentations going on continuously. There will be informational handouts, refreshments and favors for those whom attend. The entire staff of the funeral home will be there to greet everyone, show them around and answer any questions that might be brought up.

The uniqueness of the design of the extension as well as many features not found in other funeral homes will help to demonstrate to the visitors the efforts put forth by the Wagner Funeral Home, to stay in a position of being able to provide the best service and facilities to the families that have the need of a funeral home. Special purpose rooms, flexibility in chapel size, modernization through computerization, are just a few of the many things to observe at the open house. The hours of the open house Sunday, May 19, will be from one o'clock to four o'clock. There is ample parking and there will be directions given as to where to go when entering the building.

Although it might seem not the best place to be on a Sunday afternoon, a visit to the open house will give the opportunity to see and learn about an aspect of living all people would prefer not to think about. Well-informed people make wise decisions based on good sense and receive what they expect. The Vernon C. Wagner Funeral Home, Inc. cordially invites the community to share in that learning process on Sunday, May 19.

Shamrocks Beat Raiders 5-2

By A. Blicker

The Hicksville Shamrocks 1974 travelling soccer team won a brilliant, hard fought game over the South Huntington Raiders 3-2 this past Saturday.

The Raiders jumped off to a 1-0 lead though the Shamrocks were controlling the play. The game was tied by Hicksville's Brian Pine on a goal off a Todd Meringoff feed. The Raiders then came back to grab a 2-1 halftime lead, but Hicksville was not to be denied, tying the game on spectacular teamwork by Jared Jacobs' cross to Gregg Grusso. Ted Knoop scored the winning goal on a perfect Matt Pordum assist. Joe Flanagan had a strong first half as goalie and Brian Pine was fantastic at that position during the second half. Eric Blicker had a good first half at striker while playing with determination in the second half at full. Joe Flanagan had some key minutes at stopper in the second half. Gregg Furst was dominant at fullback while moving up for some very effective play at half and wing as well. Gregg Grusso played a solid full in the first half and was outstanding at striker in the second, before moving to fullback in the game's waning moments. Brian Harkins was at his best at halfback with crisp passing and gritty hustle. Jared Jacobs was constantly in the thick of the play at half, while switching with his wing on many effective goal charges.

Eddie Jacobsen led many offensive forays from left wing and bounced back stronger than ever from a twisted ankle in the second half. Jason Kingsley made his presence felt from striker, wing and stopper, all with success. Ted Knoop controlled play from stopper prior to moving to wing for the game winning goal. David Lovato made many big contributions from striker, half and full. Todd Meringoff was at his centerfielding best, covering offense and defense most effectively.

Brian Pine played a strong wing as well as goalie. Matt Pordum contributed greatly from half, wing and striker, including the assist on the winning goal.

Congrats to the boys for a well-deserved victory. Thank you to coach John Flanagan and assistant Peter Knoop for their efforts and support!

7&8th Jr. HS Baseball News

The bang-bang boys have done it again! In bringing the league record to 5-0 overall 9-0 they have scored 45 runs in the last 3 games. Mike Rose had knocked in 14 runs with a grand slam and a two-run homer. Brian Roby's all around skills, great leadership and will to win has put this team on the road to a great year. But this has been a total team effort with excellent hitting by Tom Cassatta, Ralph Scott, Joe Passo, Tim Cleary, Scott D'Amico and Roger Chin. Defensively Bill Sullivan, Joe Luperello, Nemish Udesshi, Paul Portesky, Scott Frain, Paul Manellino, Seah Tower, Neil Esposito and Pat Greco have done their jobs when called upon.

Tom Gray and Mike Rose both have been superb in their last two outings both going the distance.

Would you move into a school district:

- Where your child had his/her 40 minute Health Class cut to 20 minutes?
- Where your child is not able to take elective classes in grades 7 and 8?
- Where your child is not permitted to take repeat classes during the school year, but is forced to go to summer school?
- Where your child would be automatically passed on to the next grade even if he/she failed classes all year long?

Of course you wouldn't!

Then why would you tolerate these changes being discussed for the Hicksville Junior High School for next year?

Citizens Lobby For Cleanup

Community residents involved in local environmental quality campaigns went to Washington, D.C. on May 8 as part of a national citizens' lobbying day for passage of strong Superfund toxic cleanup legislation.

New York Community Action Network (New York CAN) members Allan Lerner of Old Bethpage and Joan Vecchione of North Massapequa met with key staff members of Congress and with the Assistant Administrator of the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to press for toxic cleanup legislative goals and to win prompt and comprehensive remediation of local hazardous sites.

Working in cooperation with the National Campaign Against Toxic Hazards, New York CAN members in the area have been pressing for passage of the HR-2022 Superfund reauthorization bill, which would create a $11.7 billion fund, would include a mandatory cleanup timetable for the nation's worst sites, and would establish strict cleanup standards to ensure proper remediation of sites.

The New York CAN visit to Washington was a follow-up to the group's participation in a three hour meeting in New York City with EPA Regional Administrator Christopher J. Daggett on March 22. New York CAN members report that Mr. Daggett's office has informed them that cleanup activities at one local priority site, Claremont Polychemicals at Old Bethpage, would not commence at least until 1989.

The Washington lobby day included visits with the EPA and with staff from the offices of Senators Robert Packwood of Oregon and Robert Dole of Kansas. Mr. Lerner and Mrs. Vecchione also met with Dr. Charles Richman, the environmental specialist for Senator Daniel P. Moynihan, and Jan Edelstein, minority staff counsel for Rep. Norman F. Lent's subcommittee handling the Superfund issue.

Dr. Richman and Ms. Edelstein were urged to take steps to help bring about passage of strong Superfund legislation which would be at least as strong as the $10.1 billion bill sponsored by Rep. Lent which passed the House of Representatives last August.

New York CAN members are planning an Island-wide "Superfund Forum" in cooperation with the League of Women Voters and the Sierra Club on Tuesday, May 28 at 8 p.m. at Trinity Lutheran Church in Hicksville. State and federal officials have been invited to attend.

For further information about the Superfund Forum and the community campaign to win passage of strong Superfund legislation, New York CAN's Long Island office may be reached at 691-5565.

Hicksville Fire Report

Since the last Fire Report, Hicksville firefighters responded to a large natural gas leak on Charlotte Avenue. On March 3, firefighters shut down the gas valve averting an explosion. On March 31, two occupants of a house located at 42 Michigan Drive barely escaped injury after fire destroyed the first floor. The fire gained considerable headway before it was discovered by neighbors at 4:36 a.m. The lack of early warning smoke detectors contributed to the large loss and forced a 2nd floor tenant to jump to safety. Careless smoking was the cause.

On March 18 fire caused light damage to the Protog Co. on 55 Ludy Street. Careless smoking is believed to have caused the fire. An automatic sprinkler system kept the fire confined to one area. On April 27 a leaking 20 lb. propane BBO tank transported here from Bayside, Queens, was brought right to the front door of Hicksville Fire Station #2. Vamps and Haz-Mat team members, using a special burn off kit safely burnt off the leaking gas in the street. Finally, on May 4, a fire in a vacant house at 99 Woodbury Road caused medium damage. The fire was reported at 4:22 a.m.

$500,000 Blaze Injures 12 Firemen May 11

Agway Garden Supply Center at 411 West John Street, Hicksville was hit by fire on Saturday, May 11. An employee sharpening a lawn mower blade on a grinder generated sparks which ignited nearby gasoline. Employees attempted to extinguish the fire but it spread rapidly. The Hicksville Fire Department was notified at 4:16 p.m. Upon arrival, firefighters encountered a large volume of fire and heavy smoke.

A second alarm was transmitted in minutes followed by a third alarm 15 minutes later. Mutual aid assistance was requested from the Jericho Fire Department for an additional ladder truck. Firefighters fearing pesticides and fertilizers, took precautions to avoid the toxic smoke. Rescue units from Jericho, Bethpage, Levittown, and East Meadow responded. An additional Engine Co. from Plainview was called to provide additional water at the scene. The Bethpage Fire Department provided a standby engine at Hicksville headquarters. The Plainview, Levittown and Westbury Departments provided additional units with manpower, and air tanks. The East Meadow Haz-Mat team assisted Hicksville's team in identifying possible hazardous materials (pesticides). Cantiague Park ball fields and golf course were closed due to smoke.

Twenty-four pieces of apparatus, and 125 firefighters responded under Hicksville Fire Chief Owen Magee, The County Fire Marshal's Haz-Mat Unit, County Health Dept., New York State Dept. of Environmental Conservation, Agway Pesticide Team, Federal E.P.A., U.S. Coast Guard Strike Team and the Chemtec Response/Information Network worked to insure that the runoff from firefighting operations did not contaminate the local water supply.

After the fire was under control at 5:45 P.M. investigation revealed very little hazardous materials were involved. Damage was estimated at between one quarter to one half a million dollars to contents (new equipment) and structure. County police, first on the scene, cleared the parking lot within minutes to enable vamps' equipment easy access.

Treated and released at local hospitals were the following firefighters: Carl Shieverstein, William Sheaffer, Keith Kopinski, Richard Schmidt, all from Hicksville, Robert Hally, Chris Chazotte, M. Myer, R. Biancanello, Ted Miller, L. Bachteller, Jr., E. Vallar, J. Mlynarczyk, all from Jericho.

Hicksville Vet Wins P.O. Honor

Robert Ordon, 35 years old, who works as a clerk at the Hicksville Post Office has been selected as the Northeast Region Outstanding Handicapped Employee. Bob now lives in Medford with his wife Lynda and nine year old daughter Rebecca. Both Bob and Lynda are former residents of Hicksville.

Bob has multiple sclerosis, a demyelinating disease of the spinal cord in which the myelin sheathing is damaged throughout the brain and spinal cord or both. As the Northeast Region's nominee, Mr. Ordon will attend a luncheon later this month in Washington, D.C. The National Award will be presented by Postmaster General Paul N. Carlin to one of the six candidates representing the other postal regions and headquarters.

Mr. Ordon was nominated by his supervisor Jerry Hillsberg and approved by Manager/Postmaster Roger Nienaber because of his outstanding job performance, for which he has earned a Special Achievement Award.

Awards are nothing new for Bob. While serving in the Army in Vietnam he received the Bronze Star with "V" for Valor for saving two fellow crew members from a burning helicopter. He was also awarded three Purple Hearts, an Air Medal, the Army Commendation Medal and the Vietnam Campaign Medal with seven battle stars.

After returning from Vietnam he began to experience symptoms of multiple sclerosis. He cannot stand for long periods at a time. "I never know when my legs will give out on me," Ordon said.

He is a member of the Paralyzed Veterans Association, Disabled American Veterans, the Military Order of the Purple Heart, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion and Vietnam Veterans of America.

Mr. Ordon has been nominated by Congressman William Carney to President Reagan for a position on the Architectural Transportation Barriers and Compliance Board, which is responsible for eliminating physical barriers for the handicapped.

News From Hicksville Library

Mr. Dave Alubowicz, a Field Representative of the Department of Health and Human Services Office, will speak at the Hicksville Public Library on Tuesday, May 21 at 8 p.m. in the Community Room of the Library. He will discuss the latest developments in Social Security and answer any questions on this subject. There is no charge for this program and everyone is invited.

The award winning art works and all the entries for the Young People's Juried Art Show will be on exhibit from May 18 to May 23 in the Hicksville Public Library Community Room. They may be seen from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Everyone is invited to see the great talents of the young people.

Meissen plates a find

By James G. McCollam
Member, Antique
Appraisers Association of America

Q. These 12 Meissen (with crossed swords mark) plates are in perfect condition. I have been told that this is the "Blue Onion" pattern. What can you tell me about their vintage and value?

A. Assuming that these are authentic, they are the Meissen "Onion" pattern as it was made in the late 19th century. A set of 12 is hard to find and should be worth about $500. Individually, they would bring about $30 or $40.

Q. I have a beautiful chocolate pot with the enclosed mark on the bottom. It has ball feet and is decorated with pink flowers. Can you tell me who made it, where and its value?

A. This was made by Rheinhold Schlegelmilch in Tillowitz, Germany, during the late 19th century. It probably would sell for about $175 to $225.

Q. I have started to collect old toothpick holders and find that some of them are very high priced. Could you provide some realistic prices?

A. If you happen to run across a Burmese Glass toothpick holder and the price is over $300, don't be surprised. Otherwise, there are many to choose from in the $10 to $25 range:

- Bisque - $20.
- Brass - $25.
- Slag Glass - $10.
- Carnival Glass - $12.
- Nippon china - $20.
- Silverplate - $25.

Grandparents Day At Fork Lane

Photo/Story
By K. Blleker

Spring began with a Bang at Fork Lane School recently. First, all teachers and staff were given a corsage and served a delicious luncheon by PTA moms for Teacher Recognition Day.

Next on the agenda was Grandparents Day and our Spring Concert...quite a doubleheader! Grandparents had the opportunity to visit their grandchild's classroom and get a first-hand look at a day in the life of a Fork Lane student. Then on to the auditorium for the concert. The chorus, directed by Mrs. Mary Milidantri and accompanied by Mrs. Marilyn Abt, sang a medley of favorites, among them "That's Entertainment", "No Man Is An Island" and "Be A Clown." Mr. Dan DiStefano then directed our band in a variety of numbers with an international flair, including "Polka", "Maracas From Caracas", and a Scottish tune, "Land of the Brave." All in attendance were most impressed by the band and chorus. Dr. Anne Martin awarded certificates from the Nassau Reading Council and Math specialist John Maiorino presented awards in his field of endeavor. Our emcee was Principal Richard Jennett.

The guests then proceeded to the All-Purpose Room for refreshments and a welcome by PTA Vice-President Lisa Amoscatto. Senior citizens had an opportunity to win prizes in many categories such as: oldest or youngest grandparent, tallest or shortest, most grandchildren, etc.

Thanks to all involved for making this week at school a huge success!

Second grade teacher Mrs. Rita Schmitt (standing rear) observes as grandparents and grandchildren participate in welcoming questionnaire.

Fork Lane PTA President Ginny Romano, left, welcomes arriving grandparents with a commemorative ribbon...and a smile!

News From Plainview Library

Jane Exhibits

In the Mini Gallery: Photography Exhibit by Nancy Lovrelich.

All Showcases: Fiber Weaving Exhibit by Barbara Ringwald.

On Thursday, June 6 at 8 p.m. the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library will present the film "Alice's Restaurant."

Taking its comic tone and basic storyline from the Arlo Guthrie song Alice's Restaurant, is an exploration of the communal spirit and life-style of the mid-sixties "hippie generation." Director Arthur Penn uses a gently wry touch to illustrate the contradictions and ironies of the counterculture.

The film is 111 minutes.

It is very easy to get confused with today's events. The newspapers and news shows just throw the information at you without giving you the chance to digest it. Now you have that chance.

On Friday, June 7, 1:30 p.m., the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library will sponsor a current events discussion, led by Barbara Krupit. You'll be able to hear and understand not only what is happening, but why it's happening.

Don't pass up this valuable discussion, it is free and could help you be more informed.

On Monday, June 10, at 1 p.m., Barbara Krupit will conduct a Book Discussion Review on "Blue Highways" by William L. Heat Moon at the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library.

On Tuesday, June 11, at 8 p.m., Barbara Krupit will conduct a Book Discussion Review on "Megatrends" by John Naisbitt at the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library.

On Thursday, June 13, at 8 p.m., the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library will present a program entitled, "Cosmetic Facial Surgery and Skin Care for the Younger Look."

Dr. Roger B. Katz, cosmetic facial surgeon will discuss collagen treatments and new advances in cosmetic facial surgery. An informal question and answer period will follow.

On Friday, June 14 at 8 p.m. the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library will present the film "Splash."

"Splash" is about a successful businessman, who feels that life and love have passed him by. Suddenly, he falls into the ocean and in love with a beautiful woman who happens to be a mermaid. A little bizarre, but very funny.

The film stars Tom Hanks, Daryl Hannah, Eugene Levy and John Candy and runs 111 minutes.

Learn to drive safely and save money. What could be a better combination?

On Saturday, June 15 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library is offering a Defensive Driving Course.

This course is sponsored by the National Safety Council. It is approved by most insurance companies and will save you 10% on the liability portion of your automobile policy. If you have violation points on your license, you are entitled to deduct three points if you take this course. The 10% reduction is good for three years.

A $30 fee is required and early registration is suggested.

The Board of Trustees of the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library will hold a regular business meeting on Wednesday, June 26, 7:30 p.m. in the Staff Room of the Library.

On Saturday, June 29 at 8:30 p.m., the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library will present the OtherVic Theatre's presentation of Neil Simon's "Barefoot in the Park".

After a torrid six day honeymoon, a brand new lawyer and his young bride move into the new, high-rent apartment that she has chosen for them. The difficulty is, in order to enjoy the charming character of this apartment one has to climb six wheezing flights to get to it. Problems are immediately evident: the furniture has not yet arrived, the paint job came out all wrong, snow wafts into the room on a high breeze, there's no bedroom, an outlandish neighbor uses their window as the only access to his rooftop apartment and her mother is a frequent visitor. Are these factors enough to cause our somewhat shaky lawyer to take his wife's dare to walk barefoot in the park?

The Other Vic Theatre Company is the largest professional touring troupe on Long Island, which performs successfully for dinner theatres, libraries civic municipalities and private clubs and resorts.

The Library is located at 999 Old Country Road in Plainview opposite the Morton Village Shopping Center. (938-0077).

Oyster Bay Town Councilman Thomas L. Clark, right, presents a citation to Clifford Weldon of Glen Cove, a 38 year veteran of the Nassau County Police Department, at a retirement dinner in his honor. Weldon's wife, Rose, was on hand to share the happy occasion. Before rising to his top post as Commander of the 2nd Squad of the 2nd Precinct, which serves Bayville, East Norwich, Hicksville, Jericho, Lattingtown, Locust Grove, Locust Valley, Oyster Bay, Plainview, Syosset and Woodbury, Detective Lieutenant Weldon served in various capacities in the 2nd, 5th, 6th and 7th Precincts as well as at Headquarters, and earned two citations for Excellent Police Work.

Two reasons it's easier to do business in Nassau County.

They're Francis Purcell and Joseph Colby—two reasons the Town of Oyster Bay is good for business.

Francis Purcell, County Executive, and Joseph Colby, Supervisor, working with the Nassau County Industrial Development Agency, have scored some impressive gains for Oyster Bay in the past 5 years, gains that have come about for one simple reason: they make it easy to do business in Nassau County.

By any yardstick, it's a terrific story. In commercial, industrial and retail space, IDA added 1,273,945 sq. ft. in Oyster Bay in 5 years. In dollar value, IDA projects topped $73 million. We also retained a total of 24,530 jobs, and added 1,363 new ones—jobs that would never have come to Oyster Bay without a lot of hard work from IDA. These jobs translate into $219.9 million in retained payroll dollars, $34.8 million in new payroll. It also means $1,910,917 less in property taxes paid by the citizens of Oyster Bay.

It's a good story, and IDA is going to make it an even better one in the coming years. After all, when it comes to business for Oyster Bay, there's no business like good business. And what's good for business is good for you, for us and everyone in Oyster Bay.

Most Input Callers Think We Treated Vietnam Vets Badly

Most callers to Input do not think that the Vietnam Veterans have been treated right in answer to this question: "Do you think the Vietnam Veterans have been treated fairly by the nation?"

POOR TREATMENT

No. I think it was a very wrong idea to draft men into the army and then not have the country give wholehearted support. The government at the time should have been more resolute and given wholehearted support. When the veterans came home they should have been treated as heroes immediately.

J.E.

POLITICAL MISTAKES

It is apparent that a divided nation shorchanged the Vietnam veterans. Some thought that they had been responsible for not winning the war and others blamed them for going at all to the conflict. The truth is that the men who went had little time to react to whether it was a just war or not and responded to the call of the country just as men have done in every other conflict. The nation waited too long to declare these veterans as heroes. They were made to pay for political mistakes and division. This was not right.

K.E.

BAD MORALE

From beginning to end the G.I.s who responded to the call did not get a good break. Their morale was constantly being crushed by news from the U.S. Some groups, including people who probably evaded the draft, were protesting in the streets and these men were expected to fight in a war and risk their lives. Many did and many lost their lives. Others came home to a dead reception. The treatment of the Vietnam veteran was a disgrace.

G.E.

FAIR TREATMENT

As a Vietnam veteran I do not feel that I was treated so badly but I did think as days went by that the country was trying to forget about our service and there were some people who tried to make us look like we were not good citizens for having done our jobs. I learned to cope with that because the majority of people did welcome us and helped us get our lives back together.

G.E.

NOW TIME

I did not go into the Vietnam war but I certainly believe that the veterans of that conflict should have been treated more like heroes than they were. Some people seemed to take it out on the veteran for having done his duty. Political implications should have not been allowed to interfere with the great sacrifices made by these men. Instead they were treated badly. I think it is now time that we made amends for this poor treatment.

F.D.

TERRIBLE TREATMENT

I don't believe that the Vietnam veterans were treated fairly by our nation. When they came home they were called baby killers and whatnot. In fact in our prisons here in New York and around the country there are tens of thousands of Vietnam veterans. One out of every 5 prisoners is a Vietnam vet. Our government sent them out to kill and then they were given medals for bravery and then when they came home they were told they were dangerous killers by their own government. The suicide rate is 23% higher than among the general population. The ones who were married before they went to Vietnam - 38% were divorced within 6 months after returning home. This is the big part 40 to 60% of these veterans have persistent emotional problems and the death rate is now higher than any period during the Vietnam war. Yes, they were treated poorly and there are a lot of scars hanging on there and we should do even more than memorials for them. These men and women should be given jobs and given help whether it be physical or mental health help. Yes, we did it. We treated them unfairly when they came home from that war.

F.B.

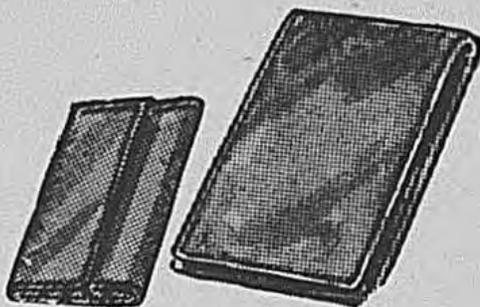

COMPLICATED ANSWER

On balance I believe that the Vietnam veterans have been treated fairly but it is a complicated situation which has attracted so much emotionalism that the question is better directed to a psychologist rather than to an ordinary citizen. And of course, there is the fact that the fighting arenas were completely dissimilar - in Europe and even in Japan, the enemy was fundamentally a society whose entire structure bore a relationship to ours and our allies in so many ways so that the language was really the only major difference between the combatants. In addition, those of us who did not engage in combat in World War II and who remained back here were fully aware of the reasons we were fighting and were able to recognize the root of the enemy. Furthermore, we had officially declared war on a definable antagonist and every civilian and military effort was targeted in clearly stated terms of the enemy and the cause including blackouts at home. In the Vietnam conflict, not many of us really knew basically what it was all about and this included the military people as well as the civilians. So, when it was all over, I think everybody was caught off base and really didn't know how to handle the termination of the "war". As a result, the disengagement was not a logical follow-through on the initial phases - the entry and the duration. The phases of a technically real "war" are in effect, choreographed for all the participants while in the Vietnam case there was little of such planning and this included an organized effort to keep our military personnel alive to our interest in them and their problems and, of course, an official reidentification with their country - friends, relatives, neighbors and the nation as a whole when they returned. I guess that the basic point at issue is the general feeling on the part of the veterans that no one really "cared" about them and that they were in effect, a forgotten part of 20th century America. The recent public display of sincere affection and remembrance although sadly belated did much to heal that breach and I think that it will go far to minimize the residual psychological feeling of unfairness on the part of our Vietnam veterans.

DISCOVERY

Lost Wallet, Found Faith

By Denise Stamp Yannone

My husband "temporarily misplaces" things. He has misplaced gloves, scarves, cigarette lighters, pens and other small, but necessary items of daily living. He has also lost glasses, car keys and a watch. A few weeks ago, Larry lost his wallet—for the second time. The wallet, a gift from me, contained most of his credit cards, his driver's license and car registration and fifty dollars in cash, which had been folded into a hidden compartment. The wallet also contained our wedding picture.

The first misplaced wallet (also a gift from me) was lost during our engagement. It has yet to be found. I didn't hold out much hope for its successor.

To be fair, says Larry, I'm supposed to tell you that he was in Manhattan the night of the misplaced wallet. It could have been lifted from his pocket, but with Larry's track record, I'll let you decide.

He hadn't informed me of the wallet's disappearance until several days after the fact. I suppose he hoped to recover it—Larry is an optimist.

"Where did you buy my wallet?" he asked one evening.

I stared at him for three seconds and then replied, "You've lost your wallet, again, haven't you?"

"It's not lost," he said in an injured tone. "The wallet is temporarily misplaced."

"What was in it?" I asked.

"Just about everything I carry with me plus fifty dollars," he said ruefully. "I cancelled the credit cards, but getting another driver's license is a hassle."

"Our wedding picture was in the wallet," I said with dismay.

"I'm afraid so," answered Larry as he patted my hand.

He had carried that picture through good times and bad every day for seven and a half years. He carried that picture when he had no cash and before he owned credit cards. Whoever had his wallet wouldn't care about our picture.

Two weeks later the phone rang at 4:30 in the afternoon. A man's voice announced that he worked for the Long Island Lighting Company. Catching my breath, I frantically tried to recall if I had paid the last bill.

"Does Lawrence Stamp live at this address?" he asked.

"May I ask who is calling, please?" I warily replied.

"I work for the Lighting Company. Did Mr. Stamp lose his wallet?"

"Yes, as a matter of fact, he did. Have you found it?" I asked excitedly.

The man related how he had found Larry's wallet alongside the Meadowbrook Parkway near the Hempstead Turnpike exit. He had spotted it at the edge of the roadside and had stopped to investigate. The man had retrieved the wallet and had located our phone number, which is unlisted, through the Lighting Company.

"His license and registration are here, Mrs. Stamp, along with fifty dollars in cash."

I couldn't bring myself to ask about the picture so I inquired about the credit cards.

"No credit cards, but your wedding picture is safe and sound. It's a real nice picture."

"Oh, thank you so much," I cried joyfully.

We made arrangements for him to mail the items back to us, but no matter how I tried, I couldn't get him to tell me his name or address. He would not accept all or part of the fifty dollars for a reward. He wished us good luck and a Happy Holiday. Then he hung up.

Two days later a manilla envelope postmarked "December 12th, Brentwood, New York", arrived. Everything was returned. This marked the first time that the Long Island Lighting Company sent me any money! I've saved the envelope for sentimental reasons.

And so, Mr. Lighting Company Hero, though your story won't be reported on the evening news, I hope you read this. It was written to say thank you for your honesty and your decency. Most of all it was written to say thank you for restoring some of my faith in my fellow man. May God bless you and yours throughout the New Year. And if you ever, "temporarily misplace" your wallet, I hope to find it, so I can learn your identity and have the opportunity to repay your kindness.

EPILOGUE

Two days after the writing of this story, I found a car registration on the sidewalk near my home. I mailed it back to the woman who had lost it. Kindnesses can be repaid in many ways.

TOP RESTAURANT

Manero's in Syosset is a top restaurant, we went there for Mother's Day and found that it was a friendly and fine place to take a full table. Most had prime ribs and found that Manero's in Syosset certainly lives up to its reputation for fine beef. The price is well within range for quality beef. The vegetables and salad were just very delicious and well prepared. Manero's has been on Jericho Turnpike, Syosset for quite a long time. If any of your readers have missed it they should try it now and they will like it.

THE BEST
 When it comes to good Italian food, the four of us who attended Iannone's last Thursday believe it is the best.
 Here is a restaurant that you could say is unpretentious by extravagant standards although it is well decorated and cheerful.
 But the thing you go to Iannone's for is good food. They have wonderful pasta. It is made to just the right consistency with fresh tomato sauce. Their veal is about the tenderest veal the four of us had ever eaten and we have been to many places. A restaurant like Iannone's is a great place to spend an evening having dinner. If your readers do not know about it they are missing something so please print this.

Q. Recently in a restaurant there was a booth for four in which a lone man was already seated. I asked my date to ask this man to share the booth with us. My date said that was not correct and refused to do so. Was he right?
G.R.

A. It depends on the policy of the restaurant. In a self-service restaurant you take any available seat. In a restaurant with service, especially in one with a head waiter or hostess, you wait to be assigned to seats. Most restaurants try to seat lone diners at tables for two or one, but where it is impossible they usually do not ask that such accommodations be shared with strangers. Under crowded conditions, restaurants sometimes ask a man to share a table with another man but not with a woman and vice versa. I feel that your date was right and that essentially his objections was to having your privacy disturbed by a stranger. How could conversation be possible under such circumstances? You might have had an embarrassing situation had the stranger decided to join your conversation. This is the sort of thing that good restaurants try to avoid.

Q. When a man is ordering for the lady he is escorting, what should he say to the waiter?
S.C.
A. He says, "The lady will have...". In a place where their names are known to the employees, for example in a hotel where they are staying, or in a club he could say, "My wife will have..." or "Mrs. Smith will have...". The thing you should avoid is saying "She will have..."

FIRST CLASS
We hadn't been in the Garden City Hotel Polo Lounge for over a year but were very pleased with it last Thursday. The food has improved greatly and the service is still impeccable. Although this is a first class restaurant the price is within reason. For about $25 per person you can have two fine complete meals. I had sirloin steak, salad and dessert and one drink. My wife had a wonderful scrod casserole, salad and wine. The food was prepared in an imaginative and delicious manner. The hotel certainly is being appreciated by many people and you can view the strolling crowd in the lobby from the Polo Lounge. We recommend G.F.

GOOD PERFORMANCE

What a posh restaurant this Benihana is in Manhasset. It is designed with a beautiful bar and cocktail lounge where you can gather before and after a special meal. We did that last Saturday.

Probably most of your readers have been to Benihana, but if there are still some who have not we want to say that we were pleasantly surprised with its new form of entertainment in eating. You see it is not only the food at Benihana but the performance of the chef who is an expert in the use of a knife. You can watch him prepare the shrimp with a few swats of the blade and a steak and all of the other items the people around you get. This is the performance. Then you are surprised that food prepared so quickly and with such acrobatics is so good to eat. We recommend this restaurant. S.C. and M.T.

GREAT PLACE
 The Chateau Briand in Westbury is a great place to go for a good complete meal. The salad bar at this restaurant is something to behold. It contains all types of salad greens, shrimp, great soup and bread and it alone is enough to be considered a meal.
 Then the entrees at this restaurant are fine food. The excellent Italian cooking has everything on the menu from scalloped veal to filet mignon pizzaiola. We went there last week and found that it was one of the best restaurants we have ever been to. And the price for all that food was moderate. This restaurant is great. J.E.

Cooking Corner

New, light cuisine evolves

It is a pretty safe bet that Auguste Escoffier didn't give a fig about the calories in his Peach Melba and Cumberland sauce.

Nor did Antonin Carême, founder of the grand cuisine of France, worry much about the cholesterol content of his creamy sauces and voluptuous Charlotte Russe.

Times have changed.

Today, gourmet is synonymous with goodness, nouvelle with nutrition. Cooks and big eaters alike are looking for food that is delicious and attractive without contributing to the problems of high blood pressure and excessive cholesterol.

America's simultaneous preoccupation with fine food and personal fitness has translated into an imaginative, delicious cuisine that is called everything from California Cuisine to nouvelle American.

The main qualities of the new lighter cuisine are diminished fat content, fresh ingredients (lightly cooked to preserve natural flavors and textures), and delicate sauces that are primarily condensations of natural cooking liquids combined with wine, stock or even water.

At a Conference on Gastronomy, staged by the American Institute of Wine and Food, nutritional anthropologist Norge Jerome reported that more and more people throughout the United States are linking nutrition with fine and attractive food.

In studies done at the University of Kansas, Jerome found that consumers generally hold negative opinions of caffeine, calories, fats, additives, salt and preservatives. On the other hand, positive opinions were ascribed to chicken, fiber, fish, fruit, pasta, skinless poultry, vegetables, low-salt foods and yogurt.

Jane Brody, the no-nonsense health and science columnist for The New York Times, was far more concerned about the health aspects of today's "light" cuisine than with its trendiness.

Brody neatly summed up the healthy diet, which she says is:

— Low in saturated fats and cholesterol, which contribute to obesity, high blood pressure and heart disease.

— Low in salt and other sources of sodium, which contribute to high blood pressure in one of every two people over 65.

— Low in sugar, which has lots of calories but few essential nutrients.

— High in fiber, "the Rotorooter of the digestive tract," which also prevents overeating.

— Rich in complex carbohydrates like pasta, beans, rice and bread.

— Rich in fruits and vegetables.

Food-lovers don't have to look far today to find glamorous meals that won't make them feel gluttonous and guilty afterward. The following recipes, compiled from our favorite cookbooks, provide food that is as good for you as it is grand.

CHICKEN SAUTE AU VINAIGRE

2 tbsps. butter
1 sprig fresh thyme
1 bay leaf
1 (3 lb.) chicken, cut into 10 serving pieces
1 tsp. salt
Freshly ground black pepper

(8 turns of pepper mill)
4 whole garlic cloves, peeled
½ cup red wine vinegar
½ cup chicken stock
2 tbsps. tomato paste
¼ cup chopped fresh parsley leaves

Melt 1 tablespoon of butter in heavy-bottomed skillet. Add thyme, bay leaf and then chicken, skin side down. Add salt, pepper and garlic. Saute chicken, turning pieces often, for about 10 minutes.

Pour off fat. Add vinegar, stirring to dissolve brown particles adhering to bottom of skillet. Add stock and tomato paste. Bring to boil, reduce heat, cover, and cook for 10 minutes. Add remaining butter and parsley. Stir to make sure pieces are well coated.

Serves 4.

SNOW PEAS WITH SWEET PEPPER AND POPPY SEEDS

2 cups water
¼ lb. snow peas, trimmed and washed
½ sweet pepper, cut into small squares (about ½ cup)
1 tbsps. butter

1 tsp. poppy seeds
Juice of ¼ lemon
¼ tsp. salt
Freshly ground black pepper (4 turns of the pepper mill)

Bring water to boil in saucepan. Add snow peas and sweet pepper and cook for 2 minutes. Drain vegetables.

Melt butter in non-stick frying pan. Add poppy seeds, then peas and sweet pepper. Add lemon juice, salt and pepper. Saute for 1 minute, stirring. Serve immediately.

Serves 4.

SUMMER SALAD WITH FRESH TUNA

Marinade:
Juice of 2 limes
6 anchovy fillets, chopped
1 tbsps. chopped fresh tarragon
3 shallots, chopped
3 tbsps. olive oil
Salt and freshly ground pepper

1 lb. fresh tuna
3 heads butter lettuce
1 cucumber, peeled, seeded and chopped
1 avocado, peeled and sliced
2 hard-boiled eggs, chopped
1 celery heart, chopped
6 tomatoes, peeled, seeded and sliced
½ cup vinaigrette with mustard

To make marinade: In salad bowl, combine lime juice, anchovies, tarragon, shallots, olive oil, salt and pepper. Mix well.

Cut tuna into ¼-inch-thick strips. Marinate for 1 hour.

Break up two heads of lettuce, and combine with cucumber, avocado, eggs, celery heart and tomatoes. Mix well with vinaigrette.

Arrange leaves from third head of lettuce on plates. Put servings of salad on each, and place strips of marinated tuna over salad.

Serves 6.

Rock Cornish game hens, also known as Cornish game hens and Rock Cornish hens, are the main ingredient in several of our favorite recipes. Averaging about 1 pound apiece, they are a perfect size for one serving, and have much less fat than chicken.

Game hens also lend themselves to beautiful presentation and easy serving — each person carves his own. The meat has a rich distinctive taste, and absorbs the flavor of sauces wonderfully well.

A cross between Cornish and White Plymouth Rock chickens, game hens were bred for small size and a high proportion of meat to body size. They are available in almost all large supermarkets. Usually less than $2 apiece, they make an inexpensive and dramatic entree.

Unlike chickens, which generally are raised in close confinement, kept on a diet that includes many chemicals (often including amphetamines to keep them awake around-the-clock to increase egg production), game hens usually are fed much more naturally and allowed to move about, which accounts in part for their lower fat level and the richness of their meat.

Both of our recipes for today are for charcoal-broiled, halved game hens. As noted in the recipe directions, you will need to control the fire during cooking by spraying a bit of water on the coals with a baster, to prevent the game hens from blackening on the outside. As a rule of thumb, cook the halves for 20 minutes or so, turning and basting them frequently.

Tandoori-Style Barbecued Game Hens are marinated in a mixture similar to the classic Indian Tandoori sauce. We have adapted the Indian recipe, generally used with chicken.

Island Barbecued Game Hens, with a marinade that includes pineapple and honey, have a light, sweet-and-sour flavor.

Both recipes can be marinated overnight, so you can prepare them one evening and serve them quickly and easily the next.

TANDOORI-STYLE BARBECUED GAME HENS

4 game hens
Marinade:
1 heaping cup plain yogurt
2 tbsps. vegetable oil
¼ cup fresh lemon juice
1 tsp. turmeric
1 tsp. cumin
½ tsp. paprika
1½ tbsps. salt
1 tsp. freshly ground black pepper
4 cloves garlic, finely chopped
1 tbsps. hot chili powder
1 tsp. ground red pepper
¼ tsp. cinnamon

Combine all marinade ingredients and mix well.

Clean and halve game hens. Marinate halves for several hours, or overnight, in large bowl or plastic bag.

Cook over large charcoal fire, using baster and water to control heat occasionally, so that game hen halves cook through thoroughly without blackening on outside. Turn halves frequently, using pastry brush to apply marinade liberally each time halves are turned.

Serves 4.

ISLAND BARBECUED GAME HENS

4 game hens
Marinade:
2 tbsps. minced fresh ginger root
¼ tsp. freshly ground black pepper
½ tsp. salt
1 cup crushed pineapple (see note)
¼ cup cider vinegar
¼ cup tomato paste
3 tbsps. honey
½ cup soy sauce
2 cloves garlic, minced

Combine all marinade ingredients and mix well.

Clean and halve game hens. Marinate halves for several hours, or overnight, in large bowl or plastic bag.

Cook over large charcoal fire, using baster and water to control heat occasionally, so that game hen halves cook through thoroughly without blackening on outside. Turn halves frequently, using pastry brush to apply marinade liberally each time halves are turned.

Note: Use fresh pineapple, if available. Mash it with a potato masher, or process it briefly in a food processor or blender.

Microwave Magic

By Desiree Vivea

Clam-digger's delight

Did you know that the age of a clam may be calculated by counting the number of rings on its shell? Fascinating stuff, huh? I haven't the foggiest notion where the term "happy as a clam" came from. But I do know that if you "dig" the flavor of clams, you'll be more than happy with today's recipes.

Clam-diggers' favorites include chowder (New England or Manhattan style), clam dip, clams in marinara sauce over pasta, fried clams — even clam juice.

The traditional clambake, an East Coast custom for generations, calls for bushels of seaweed (to line the sand pit), a roaring fire and lots of beer.

While you wouldn't want to try a clambake in your microwave (the seaweed might be a bit messy), there are plenty of ways you can microwave these tasty little bivalves.

For a quick lunch, try Clam Melt Sandwiches: Combine one-half cup each of mayonnaise and shredded cheddar cheese. Add a dash each of dry mustard and ground pepper, and chopped onion to taste. Stir in 1 (10 oz.) can baby clams, drained. Divide mixture evenly over four conventionally toasted English muffins, and microwave 10 minutes, or until hot and bubbly.

Fresh clams will steam in their shells in the microwave. Cook in a shallow dish with a small amount of water, and cover tightly with plastic wrap. Microwave a dozen clams (well scrubbed) at HIGH setting for 3 to 5 minutes, until shells pop open. Don't overcook, or clams will be tough.

HERBED BAKED CLAMS

3 tbsps. vegetable oil
 1/4 cup minced onion
 3 slices bacon, chopped
 2/3 cup fine dry bread crumbs
 cloves garlic, minced
 3 tbsps. minced parsley
 1/4 tsp. ground thyme
 1/4 tsp. paprika
 1/4 tsp. salt
 1/4 tsp. pepper
 Pinch cayenne pepper
 Pinch basil
 18 small, fresh clams, in shell

In 1-quart glass casserole combine vegetable oil and onion and bacon. Microwave, uncovered, 4 to 6 minutes, stirring every 2 minutes, until bacon is crisp.

Stir in all remaining ingredients except clams. Set aside.

Scrub clams well, rinse and open. Prick each clam several times with sharp fork or toothpick to prevent exploding while cooking.

Arrange clams, on the half-shell, around edge of a 12-inch glass plate. Cover each with herbed crumb mixture and microwave, uncovered, 5 to 7 minutes, or until clams are cooked.

Serves 3 to 4.

CLAM-STUFFED MUSHROOM CAPS

12 large mushrooms, with stems
 1/4 cup minced onion
 2 tbsps. butter or margarine
 1 (7 oz.) can minced clams, drained
 1 (3 oz.) pkg. cream cheese, at room temperature
 1 tsp. fresh chopped parsley
 1/2 tsp. garlic powder
 1/2 tsp. lemon juice
 Parmesan cheese

Wash mushrooms, wipe with damp cloth and remove stems. Set mushroom caps aside.

Chop stems fine and combine with onion and butter in 1-quart glass casserole.

Microwave, uncovered, 1 minute. Stir, then microwave 1 minute longer. Stir in remaining ingredients except Parmesan cheese.

Mound clam mixture into mushroom caps, dividing evenly. Arrange in circle on round glass serving plate and sprinkle lightly with Parmesan cheese.

Microwave 3 to 4 minutes, rotating dish one-half turn after 2 minutes.

Makes 12 appetizers.

HEARTY MANHATTAN CHOWDER

4 slices bacon, chopped
 Three (6 1/2 oz.) cans minced clams, drained (reserve liquid)
 1 (28 oz.) can tomatoes, with liquid
 1 cup tomato juice
 1 (8 oz.) bottle clam juice
 3 cups peeled, diced potatoes
 1 cup diced celery
 1 cup diced carrot
 1 cup sliced onion
 2 tbsps. fresh chopped parsley
 1 tsp. thyme
 1 tsp. salt
 1/2 tsp. crumbled leaf oregano
 1/2 tsp. freshly ground black pepper

Place bacon in 3-quart glass casserole and microwave, uncovered, 2 minutes. Stir reserved clam liquid into bacon and drippings. Set clams aside.

Add tomatoes, tomato juice, clam juice, potatoes, celery, carrot, onion, parsley, thyme, salt, oregano and pepper. Stir to blend.

Cover and microwave 12 to 14 minutes, or until vegetables are tender. Add clams, stirring gently, and microwave 2 to 3 minutes longer. Let stand, covered, several minutes before serving.

Serves 8.

Here's How

Wax buildup mars tile floor

Q. We have recently purchased a town house, and the lower floor has white quarry tiles. The former owners put something on it that gave it a blotchy appearance. What can I use to remove this and clean it thoroughly? What is the best way to care for this floor after it has been cleaned? — Mrs. A.T.

A. If it is wax on your floors that is causing the problem, it should be removed with a good wax stripper. When using a stripper, spread it liberally over the surface and allow it to set for several minutes. Then the surface should be scoured with a synthetic scouring pad attached to a floor cleaning machine. If this fails, rub the floor with soap-saturated steel wool pads dipped in water.

If the floor has an acid removal-type wax, you will need a special acid stripper. Some of the new waxes must be removed with ammonia. Test these methods on a small area to determine the best results before cleaning the entire floor area. After a thorough cleaning, rinsing and drying, apply a terrazzo sealer — one of the solvent types is preferred, although an emulsion type can be used.

After applying the sealer, the floor may be waxed. To ensure good results, all cleaning materials must be removed completely and the floor must be thoroughly dry, as sealing or waxing over a floor with a cleaner residue will result in further blotching.

Q. Can copper piping be connected to galvanized piping without causing a chemical reaction of some sort in the drinking water? The house now has galvanized piping, but we intend to add some new fixtures and connect with copper plumbing. — B.E.

A. The use of two metals will have no effect on the drinking water but the electrolytic action between the two metals will cause the galvanized piping to disintegrate. Plumbing supply houses can furnish you with insulating pipe unions or couplings that are designed to eliminate this deterioration problem when connecting two different types of metal.

Q. We have a natural used-brick fireplace and hearth. I want to restore the original beauty of the bricks. We have tried using vinegar and water, which seemed to fade them more. We do not want to paint the bricks. However, they now don't seem to have any life. Do you have any suggestions? — P.R.

A. The rustic look of used bricks is considered desirable, and they now are more expensive than new bricks. You could use a water seal for concrete and masonry. The clear finish would make the bricks appear the same as if they were wet, so you might try moistening the bricks first to see if you care for that appearance. This finish also comes in colors. Try it first on an inconspicuous area before covering the whole surface.

Another idea: Clean the bricks with a solution of muriatic acid, using one part acid to nine parts water. This is a corrosive solution, so apply with care. You'll need goggles and rubber gloves. Also, cover all surrounding areas so you will not spot your floors. Three to five minutes after applying the solution be sure to rinse thoroughly with clear water.

This matter. Also, a donation is helpful as I pay for the printing personally.

Dear John: Please send the vinegar and honey and Certo formulas. Also, please tell me where I may find the item circled on the enclosed article. I have the same problem with clogged arteries. Nitro patches help, but they don't eliminate the cause. — E.M.

Dear E.M.: Some of you readers lose sight of the fact that I am not a doctor. I can't answer every question under the sun. I act as a go-between for the readers and the sufferers. If you have had an actual experience with some of the complaints others report, write and tell us.

I know nothing about clogged arteries. Sounds serious — maybe you'd better see a doctor.

Dear John: I am 46 and was diagnosed as having palendromic rheumatoid arthritis in my mid-30s. The standard medical remedies have not been helpful or have caused negative side-effects.

The medical community seems to have few answers. More seriously, they don't seem too concerned. I would love to have any and all information you have concerning control of arthritis and possible causes. — Bev C.

Dear Bev: Afraid I can't offer much help, either. You might try the diet on our arthritis leaflet. It is rigorous, but the woman who developed it said the pain of her arthritis was worse.

Dear John: I must have missed your column in which you discussed the honey and vinegar routine. Does it frequently result in indigestion? I am a borderline diabetic. Would the amount of honey involved be too much for me? — Joseph S.

Dear Joseph: Sorry, Joe, but I cannot discuss such individual cases in the column, due to my heavy mail load.

TWEEN 12 & 20

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

Dr. Wallace: Last night the telephone rang at 10 p.m. and I answered it. It was some pervert and he said some very vulgar things. I hung up and, thank goodness, he didn't call again.

I told my mother and she thought it would be a good idea for me to write to you and ask how a girl should handle obscene calls. I'm sure a lot of teenage girls would be interested in your response. — Sophia

Sophia: Contacting our local telephone company, I was given this information:

— Don't let the caller know that you are shocked and never talk back to him. Talking back is exactly the reaction the caller is hoping for.

— Hang up quickly and gently. If the telephone should ring soon after, don't answer it.

— Don't be afraid. Normally, these calls are made at random and the caller does not know who you are.

Dr. Wallace: I am 14 and my parents insist that I attend a Catholic high school this coming September. I don't want to attend the Catholic school; I want to attend the public high school, which is a lot closer to my house and where all my friends will be going.

I am now in eighth grade and I've attended a Catholic school since I was in third grade. I think the time has come for me to make my own decision regarding my education. Do you agree? — Milly Milly: I can understand your feelings about attending school with your friends but your parents should be the ones to decide which school you will attend.

Come September, you will meet many new friends, and by the first of the year you will love your new school. That's a prediction that will come true if you get involved and participate in as many school functions as possible.

Dr. Wallace: I have an English class but never learn much English because the instructor doesn't teach. All he does the entire period every day is tell stories, jokes and make "cutey" remarks to the good-looking girls.

He is a very popular teacher and all the teens like him because he rarely gives homework and the lowest grade he ever gives is a C — and there are very few of them.

I had hopes of going to college but I know that English is my weak area. You wouldn't know it because this teacher has given me straight A's. You see, I'm one of the so-called good-looking girls.

I've talked to my counselor about this situation and she got kind of upset. She said that this teacher is one of the best instructors at our school. Please tell me what to do. I do want to graduate from college. — Nameless

Nameless: Early in the school year, I would have told you to have a conference with the teacher and your mother. Since the school year is almost finished there is not much you can do to improve your English skills this semester, but do your best to protect future "English" students who will follow. Make an appointment with your principal and ask that the teacher be in attendance. Tell the principal exactly what you told me.

Most teachers are sincere, dedicated, professional instructors. But, as in every profession, you occasionally will find a misfit performing as the real thing.

Dr. Wallace: I'm almost 16 but my mother treats me as though I were an infant.

Here are the things I can't do: talk to boys on the telephone, wear makeup, attend after-school functions, go out with my girlfriends and baby-sit.

The reason? My mom says this is the only way she can be sure that I won't get into trouble. Mom wants to know what I'm doing and where I am at all times.

Do you agree with her? I happen to be an honors student. — Helen

Helen: I agree that Mom should know what you are doing and where you are at all times but there are better ways of finding out than holding you as a pris-

New dentures reduced saliva

By John T. Watts

Dear John: Thank you for sending the Certo leaflet so promptly. It helped my nighttime cramps.

About the person who has too much saliva in his mouth, my cousin had that problem. Someone told her to see her dentist. She had new dentures made. No more drooling or excess saliva.

Also, if a baby or young child runs a temperature and no doctor is available, fill a pan with very cold water. Soak two hand towels in water and wring out. Wrap one towel around one leg, and secure with safety pins. Do the same to the other leg. Repeat when towels get dry. If this does not bring the fever down, bundle the child in blankets and rush him to the nearest hospital. — S.K.M.

Dear S.K.M.: It certainly doesn't pay to take chances when there is fever about, particularly when children are involved.

Dear John: I've read your column on vinegar and honey, and also vinegar and Certo. This is somewhat confusing to me. Which of these two are you really referring to for arthritis? I truly would like to try one as I am allergic to aspirin and haven't found anything to help, except pain pills like Tylenol No. 2. — Marie M.

Dear Marie: Both of them. Do you have our leaflet? It would make things easier to understand. Some sufferers like one, some the other. Certo and fruit juice may help one person quickly, but not another. Also, some fear longtime use of Certo to be harmful. Vinegar and honey may take longer, and it may not. Just be sure it is apple cider vinegar.

If you've had no experience getting leaflets from us, I'd better explain that a stamped, self-addressed envelope is necessary. Some readers are becoming lax in

Children

Eating habit problems

By Willard Abraham Ph.D.

Eating habits of children are a problem in many families. Here are a few examples.

Q. Our 5-year-old son is a finicky eater, and I'm sure it's because my wife is so eager to fill him up. It all began a long time ago when she would stuff him with spoonful after spoonful in rapid order, often while his mouth was full. (I have some home movies that show this procedure almost as if the film is speeded up.)

He pushes the food around on his plate, seeming to hope it will disappear, and once in a while he'll nibble at something. There's no enjoyment in his eating though. Even coming to the table is done in slow motion.

Any suggestions? A. Small pieces and portions of nourishing food he likes may be a good starting point. If the menu for him seems unbalanced but wholesome that may be no problem because in time you might be able to lead him gradually to the balance that's necessary.

A slow, patient, matter-of-fact approach probably is the way to go.

By the way, how about showing that old movie to her? Can you do it with humor, in fun, so that she gets the idea that a new approach is needed now?

Q. Isn't it kind of silly to expect a 2-year-old to eat neatly, not spill food and get it into his mouth without a mess? I think it is, but my husband has the crazy idea that a young child should do better.

I'd like our little boy to eat his meals before we have ours so that we don't have this constant hassle over this issue. My husband feels that he should have breakfast and our evening meal with us. That wouldn't be so bad if he also didn't insist on a clean place mat, table and floor when we're all finished.

I obviously need some help. How about yours?

A. For a lot of reasons the family time together at meals is a good idea - parents as models, socializing with our children, the habit of conversation including them, for example.

However, it isn't realistic to expect a 2-year-old to use the eating utensils competently and to keep hands, face, table and floor in perfect shape.

Your husband sounds like a good example of the need for parent education that includes realistic expectations of children at various stages in their development. To generalize that every child of 2 should be capable of specific small and large muscular patterns, speech abilities and skills related to getting along with others is dangerous because children's developmental patterns vary so much.

But certain larger expectations reasonably can fall into place, like walking within a few months before or after the first birthday and toilet control before and after the second birthday. Exception to such walking and toileting expectations are extremely numerous, as I'm sure some readers will be only too happy to share with me.

Q. Our baby takes his milk very well, but at the end he cries and seems to be uncomfortable. I try to comfort him but I'm not very successful. Suggestions please.

A. The first obvious one is a telephone call to your pediatrician or family physician. He or she knows your baby and no doubt can give the most appropriate advice.

It may relate but not be limited to this traditional "bubbling" relief approach: Sit the baby on your lap and gently rub his or her stomach, or hold him or her against your shoulder and softly pat on the back.

If you follow the second suggestion, don't make the same mistake I did with our firstborn many years ago, put a diaper over your shoulder under him or her for protection against some of the spitting up. We had turned over the one bedroom in our apartment to him and sometimes fed and "bubbled" him there. No problem except that he faced an open bookcase that was in back of me. A lot of anointed books resulted.

Q. Can a child's reading be improved by practice on a "balance beam," one of those wooden contraptions that children can walk on, balancing themselves as they go?

It sounds like a strange solution to me, but somewhere I heard about it and wonder whether it would work with my son. He's 8 years old, and reading isn't easy for him.

A. The reading expert in your son's school or at a nearby college or university might be worth contacting for the results of recent research in this field.

Dr. Bruce Balow of the University of Minnesota published an article on this subject some years ago, and concluded that improving a child's balance on the "balance beam" had no relationship with improving reading skills. But it's a controversial subject.

Aunt Tilly's Corner

I hope all of you enjoyed Mother's Day with your families. The weather was nice and I'm sure all the Moms and their children had a great time.

One mother I know received many presents, but her favorite was a certificate signed by all her children and their spouses assuring her that she's the Greatest Mom in the World! Wasn't that a great idea? Love to all of you.

'Collie eye' a common malady

Q. Recently we purchased a female collie from a local pet store and we are considering showing and breeding her.

A. One of the local shows it was announced that a veterinarian would be available to check collies for "collie eye." What is collie eye and why is it important to have young dogs checked for it?

A. Collie eye is a fairly common abnormality of the optic nerve in collies' eyes. Affected dogs are born with the disease and authorities have reported in scientific literature that the anomaly occurs in from 75 percent to 90 percent of all purebred collies.

The collie eye anomaly is important because of its hereditary aspect - it is a recessively inherited ocular disease - and because of the seriousness of the disease.

This condition predisposes dogs to detachment of the retina, hemorrhage within the eye and glaucoma, any of which can lead to total blindness. Affected dogs may have vision ranging from normal to total blindness and may exhibit noticeable vision loss or abnormalities of the eyes as early as a few months of age, or not until they are 5 or 6 years old.

Retinal detachment, intraocular hemorrhage or glaucoma often do not occur until the dog is several years old. The signs of collie eye vary with the degree of abnormality of the structures in the rear portion of the eye.

Most diagnoses of collie eye are made at screening clinics or by veterinarians examining litters of puppies. Most reputable collie breeders routinely present their litters to a veterinary ophthalmologist for examination and evaluation because of their awareness of the problem within the breed.

The optimal program for collie breeders who wish to eliminate collie eye defects from their breeding stock involves breeding only those dogs diagnosed by a veterinary ophthalmologist as having normal eyes. Breeding dogs with even only slightly affected eyes still would contribute to the problem.

There is no treatment for collie eye. However, the secondary conditions resulting from collie eye often can be treated or controlled. Your veterinarian can examine your dog's eyes or refer you to a veterinary ophthalmologist.

Our 3-year-old poodle recently had puppies by cesarean section. Will it be necessary for our dog to have a cesarean every time she whelps? We hope that she will not have to go through this again.
 A. Many dogs do not require cesarean sections on subsequent births. In fact, one authority has stated that three-fourths of all dogs that have undergone cesarean sections have had subsequent litters by normal vaginal deliveries.

However, without knowing why your dog had the first cesarean section, it is impossible to predict whether she can have a normal vaginal birth. The same factors that dictated cesarean section at the first birth may be present at subsequent births. Your veterinarian can evaluate whether your particular dog will require cesarean sections at each whelping.
